SCHOOL LESSON

Plain Facts About Honesty

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 24—
Proverbs 3:3; 11:3; 12:17-22; 14:5; 23:10, 11.

MEMORY SELECTION—Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil.—1 Thessalonians 5:21, 22.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D.,
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

THE Bible's presentation of the subject of uprightness of living, or plain, downright honesty in everyday contacts, is recognized by all who have given any attention to what it has to say.

The high ethical standard demanded by the Word of God is another evidence of its divine origin. Were men to evolve a moral standard of their own, it is quite evident that that standard would not be very much higher than their own attainments; in fact, the probability is that the standard would be lower than the attainment of some. However, the Bible allows for no deviation from the standard.

We who by nature are the children of wrath have undoubtedly failed when we measure our lives against God's pattern. How useful is God's work of providing and effecting salvation! Those who have been born of God are then confronted with living a life that meets the divine standard.

I. A Plea for Honesty (Prov. 3:3).

HOW good it is when the Christian has a reputation for integrity in all his dealings. However, that outward manifestation is possible only if there is inward reality. Therefore, we move in order of emphasis to the greater truth at the conclusion of the verse. Truth is to be written upon the tablet of the heart.

Here is the plea for heart honesty. It is not enough by plausible argument or by feigned conduct to appear honest before men. It is necessary rather to have motives so sincere, to have a heart so honest, that all we do and say will reflect a character that is honorable.

It is out of the fullness of the heart that man speaketh. As the heart is, so is the man. Let us give attention therefore to this word from God.

II. A Factual Presentation of Honesty (Prov. 11:1, 3; 12:17-22; 14:5).

THESE passages of Scripture bring to our attention the consequences of dishonesty as well as the rewards of honesty.

For example, we know that dishonesty is an abomination to God (Prov. 11:1; 12:22); that perversity of heart has its own reward, in that the perpetrator of evil is sooner or later ensnared in his own sin (Prov. 11:3); that a lying tongue may be victorious, but that victory is short lived (Prov. 12:18).

On the other hand, the rewards of honesty are also made apparent, for we are told that probity of character is God's delight (Prov. 11:1; 12:22); that the very integrity of the upright shall be a guide to them (Prov. 11:3); that blessings to others flow from the tongue of the wise (Prov. 12:18); and that the lip of truth shall be established forever (Prov. 12:19).

III. God and the Life of Honesty (Prov. 23:10, 11).

THE reference here to the ancient landmark has to do with the removal of such evidences as would prove the claim of individuals to certain property.

We are to respect the rights of others. Honesty involves more than correctness of speech; it implies righteousness of life. No subtlety of reasoning can lead us to the conclusion that we may have God's approval if by unfair means we take that which belongs to another.

Particular attention is given to the fact that we are to have regard for the fatherless. The Word of God constantly gives special attention to the fatherless and the widows. It would seem that God will particularly mark as amiss any unfair advantage taken over these individuals. In fact, this text stresses that God as their Redeemer will plead their cause against anyone taking advantage of them. Of course, there can be only one result when God opposes, and that is disaster to the individual who occasions his wrath.

Perhaps it is that very sense of helplessness that makes the fatherless depend upon him. It is certain that until we feel our need of God, we shall go on in our self-sufficiency without him. When our own lack of strength becomes apparent, then it is we turn to him, and then it is that he is willing to be our Redeemer.

Let us dare to face the implications of these texts. Unless we commend our God to man by our upright lives, we shall have to suffer the consequences of our dishonesty in divine displeasure.

For Real Vitality, Try a Good Breakfast

Morning Meals

Don't try to argue your family into eating a whopper of a breakfast! Make it so good and interesting that they just can't refuse it! You may have found that coaxing helps your family to eat luncheon and dinner, but as you may know, it just won't work for breakfast.

The things that do work are variety, downright good food, gay, cheerful dishes and pleasant attitudes. Of course the time element is important, and this may need a bit of working on if your folks are in the habit of sleeping until the last minute and then trying to dash off some fruit juice and coffee.

When you sit down to think about it, those five minutes extra sleep really don't make you any more rested, so get the family up early enough to eat breakfast properly. Mother can help this along by getting up and starting breakfast. The smell of pancakes or bacon plus the aroma of coffee really does help in getting the family started on their way out of bed.

Breakfast should start off with fruit or fruit juice. This not only is refreshing, but also is a good way to get started off on those vitamins and minerals for the day. Follow the fruit with cereal, prepared or cooked, and vary this from day to day. If the cereal looks a bit uninteresting, plan to serve fruit with it to add a touch of color and flavor.

Eggs are recommended for breakfast whether you have to watch your calories or boost them. But, do serve them in different ways so they always remain interesting. Then, too, you can use eggs in waffles and pancakes when real variety is desired.

Interesting breakfast breads do a lot toward making the meal one to anticipate with delight. Try a brand-new coffee cake or toast some of the home-made breads for real deliciousness.

*Health Bread.
1 cup sifted white flour
2 cups graham flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups soured milk
½ cup molasses

Mix together the dry ingredients. Dissolve soda in soured milk and add the molasses. Add liquids to dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into two greased pans and bake slowly in a slow (325-degree) oven for 1½ hours. If desired, raisins and/or dates also may be added to the dry ingredients when a fruit bread is desired. This is delicious as toast or sandwiches.

Orange Coffee Cake.
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup corn syrup
½ cup orange juice

¼ cup water
½ cup milk

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder and salt. Add oats. Combine egg, shortening, molasses, water and milk. Add to dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Have griddle very hot for first baking, then reduce heat. Cook on one side until puffed and full of bubbles. Turn and cook on other side. Serve with butter and syrup.

Baked Eggs in Toast Cups.
6 slices bread
6 eggs
Salt and pepper
Butter

Cut crusts from bread and gently press the slices into greased custard cups. The four corners will extend to the tops of the custard cups. Break an egg into each cup. Season and dot with butter. Bake for 15 minutes in a 400-degree oven. Serve at once.

Two hearty dishes which are nice to serve for breakfast are scrapple and frizzled eggs. In the case of the scrapple, make it the night before and allow to chill before frying.

Scrapple.
(Serves 6)
1 pound lean pork
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered sage

Slimmer pork in water until meat falls from bones. Remove meat and bones. Chill broth and remove fat. Measure 1 quart of broth, adding water, if necessary. Add cornmeal and cook, stirring frequently until thick. Grind or chop meat fine and add to cereal with salt and sage. Pack in a loaf bread pan and chill. Slice and fry.

Frizzled Eggs.
(Serves 6)
½ pound chipped beef
2 tablespoons butter
6 eggs, beaten
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup milk

Cook dried beef in butter until slightly crisp. Combine eggs, pepper and milk and mix well. Pour over beef and cook as for scrambled eggs. Serve garnished with toast points and parsley.

Mix your favorite jelly with honey and spread over toast. This is especially good on nut bread.

For a tasty, quick dessert, use a prepared butterscotch pudding and make it with half milk and half leftover coffee. This is really something in the way of a taste teaser.

If you tend to have leftover stuffing with your fowl, after the fowl is gone, why don't you try baking the extra stuffing in a casserole and serving it topped with eggs, baked and seasoned?

Information on How To Raise Your Dog

A LITTLE knowledge is a dangerous thing when it comes to treating illness. If in doubt about what ails your pet, better call the veterinarian. Many diseases, however, are simple to recognize and treat by yourself.

Steps in treatment of many dogs' diseases is given in our Weekly Newspaper Service booklet No. 78. $60,000 Paid to Owners of Winning Horses at State Fair Race Track in 1946

A Survey of the 1946 race meeting at the New Mexico State Fair reveals that a total of $60,000 was paid to owners of winning horses as their percentage of the pari-mutuel "handle", an average of $838 per race on the 72 run during the eight days of that meeting; in addition to purses given by the State Fair Commission. State Racing Commission officials, in charge of the 1947 meeting opening September 28, say that this substantial addition to purses from the winners' pari-mutuel percentage makes the New Mexico Fair meeting one of the most attractive of all smaller western tracks to horse owners and accounts for the record breaking demand for stable space for the coming fair meeting. Every available stall and room had been reserved on August 1st officials said.

Mr. Bivins of Lordsburg is visiting his daughter Mrs. Jerry Graves and family here this week.

Mr. Benton McGinnis of Ruidoso was a business visitor here the first of the week. While here he attended the regular meeting of the Oddfellow Lodge.

BACKWARD GLANCES

40 YEARS AGO
1927 Capitan News

The Lincoln County Normal adjourned last Saturday after a two week session. The attendance was not as large as expected. Thirteen certificates were presented which represents all the teachers in attendance. This means that the services of teachers from outside of the county will have to be procured if all the schools in the county are to be filled the coming term.

The rains have been bountiful in this section the past two weeks; in fact, so much so that nearly everyone has begun to grumble about the impossibility of the roads and an inability to accomplish any outdoor work. The only happy voices we have heard during the "wet spell" have been Mrs. Rely's geese — they have no trouble whatever in crossing our streets in their own peculiar manner, which God gave them as their safest and most rapid means of locomotion.

The public schools of this district will open Monday, Prof. H. C. Harper will conduct the schools in town while his wife will perform the same for the Tison mountain locality.

The dull season has struck the local line and the S. P. boys—many of them—are taking an enforced vacation.

Mrs. Louise H. Cope who has spent the summer in New York, is expected home soon.

The Public Schools will open September 5th.

Lee Stimmel from Los Angeles is here on a vacation.

Col. Charles Lindberg will be in El Paso September 24th, several local people are planning to go see him.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Carl and son Alvin left Saturday morning for Sterling Colorado to visit Mr. Carl's brother there and to bring Charles back in time for school.

Mr. M. C. St. John purchased a new Ford V-8 from Carrizozo Auto Co. this week.

Murel Burnett has returned from a trip to Dallas, Texas.

Carrizozo have written into the department headquarters of the D. A. V. asking that a chapter be established in the county seat. At the August 7th meeting held in Ruidoso, Field Robinson, Immediate Junior Vice-Commander, Department of New Mexico, Disabled American Veterans, made it clear that if twenty-five eligible veterans in or around Carrizozo can be found, a chapter will be set up to comply with this demand.

"We wish to set up chapters wherever there is a demand," said Robinson, "provided there is a fair chance of the chapter receiving the continued support of enough members to assure its longevity. D. A. V. Chapters are never large in numbers, so the help of our brother veterans, organizations is most essential if we are to do the job for which the D. A. EASTERN STARS PICNIC

All Masons and families and Eastern Stars and families are invited to attend the picnic to be given by the Eastern Stars Sunday August 31st at the Campmeeting

Grounds, at Nogal.

Each one bring their lunch and drinking water and spend a cool enjoyable afternoon.

Mrs. Cora Crews of Ocuero was a business visitor in town on Tuesday of this week.

You're Welcome

A veteran dropped in at our bank the other day and said "I need advice I'd like to talk with you about a problem that's been on my mind".

We told him he had come to the right place. He talked about half a dozen things. We listened. And because banking is our business, we could answer his questions that had a financial side; his rights under the G. I. bill; the value of a piece of ground he wanted to buy; and the local opportunities for a business he was thinking of starting.

When he left, he smiled and thanked us. "Don't thank us," we told him. "We're here not only to lend money, but also to help in every way we can."

He and his fellow veterans are always welcome here. If we can do something for you, come on in.

Telephone Traces White House History

President Hayes Had First Phone in Executive Mansion

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Recently the President turned down a very fussy television set because he already had one. It was installed in the White House last January in time for Mr. Truman to "see" the installation of the new Republican congress.

However, I imagine this innovation caused nowhere near the flurry among the White House staff that ensued on that day in 1878 when the first telephone instrument was put in. That was in the administration of Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio, the 19th president—and that was the year in which the Democrats, who already had control of the house, acquired control in the senate as well.

However, the opposition, when it became the majority, made blunder after blunder. Mr. Hayes continued his administration with a quiet if perhaps somewhat monotonous dignity, until he was succeeded by another Republican, President Garfield.

I doubt if the even tenor of Mr. Hayes' existence was frequently disturbed by the ringing of the telephone bell—or much of anything else for that matter. Very few residences or places of business possessed phones then. Furthermore, the telephone was by no means accepted as a means of communication for presidents or their entourages in those days. In any case, the White House managed to limp along on one phone until the end of President Cleveland's administration.

By the time President McKinley entered the White House, all government offices had phones and they were accepted as every-day necessities, but they were not an important element in the handling of White House business.

When Teddy Roosevelt came in, despite his strenuous activities and what was considered then a somewhat revolutionary outlook, he made very little use of the telephone himself.

Then along came Franklin Roosevelt and the New Deal, a part of which was a five-position branch exchange with more than 200 official extensions and 20 outside trunk connections to handle the calls. "White House calling" became a by-word.

Then also came the first woman telephone operator and probably the most efficient of either sex that the White House ever had or will have in many a day. Louise Hachmeister—"Hackle"—is probably favorably known to more famous users of the telephone than any other operator in history. Her genius in being able to locate people anywhere in the world has been the subject of many a story. Louis Howe, who introduced her to the President while she was working at Friends of Roosevelt headquarters, called her "the world's greatest telephone detective" because, he said, "she doesn't need a number to get her man."

Once she located Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. with no other clue than that he was motoring east from California.

I don't know how many long-distance calls a day she put in at the peak of the war but I do know that the number of long-distance calls out of Washington jumped from approximately 11,000 a day in 1930 to well over 48,000 in 1945. Today they have dropped back to a little over 44,000. It is fair to assume that the White House calls have followed the same curve under the nimble-fingered direction of "Hackle."

Even by 1935 it took five operators in shifts to handle the White House calls. At that time Miss Hachmeister was the first and only woman to operate a White House switchboard.

President Truman uses the telephone a good deal—he has so many friends on Capitol Hill that his voice is almost as familiar over those branch lines as it was when he was a senator himself.

I don't know how much fun he gets out of the television set. His howling alley is pretty dusty and the dirt doesn't often fly on his horseshoe pitching court—or whatever the technical name of that arena is. As to the "video," it can't be half the novelty to him that the old-fashioned telephone instrument was to President Hayes.

IT PAYS TO BE EDUCATED . . . Some kind of high-water mark for radio quiz show prizes must have been reached when $7,440—largest amount of money ever offered on a radio show—went to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fowler of Glen Rock, N. J., whom M. C. Bert Parks is congratulating here. Both in their seventies, they are teachers in Paterson, N. J.

NEWS REVIEW

Mark Birthday of Atom; Hungarian Attitude Hit

ANNIVERSARY:

Bells Told

In Hiroshima, Japan, the bells tolled. People of the city stood silently in prayer for a moment, then went on about the business of living.

It was the second anniversary of the radiant, consuming flash of the world's first atomic bomb.

Hiroshima, which saw 92,000 of its citizens immolated in that uncontrollable outburst of energy in 1945, was perhaps the one place on earth where the bomb could be thought of as a reality. Everywhere else it was a nightmarish, Damoclean sword; but in Hiroshima the people were paying it a sort of fantastic and bewildered adulation.

They tolled bells, and they planned the building of a modern city with a peace memorial at the spot over which the bomb had been dropped.

At other points across the globe, the atomic age was living up to its awful reputation by wringing fearsome comments and predictions from men who are supposed to know about it.

Robert M. Hutchins, chancellor of University of Chicago, said that two atom bombs which now could be manufactured would make the United States uninhabitable if exploded simultaneously. He made it a complete Jeremiad by adding, "We know that some other country will have the atomic bomb within five years. We know that when that happens we are all set for the final catastrophe."

In a constructive moment, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, atom pioneer, said that usable electrical power derived from atomic energy may be available by 1952.

But everybody knew that the United States was stressing development and production of the atomic bomb to build a stockpile for utter destruction. And everybody knew that Russia was laboring furiously toward the same ends.

The people of Hiroshima did well to toll bells two years after they felt the bomb. It brought to mind an old, poetic question:

Did the bells herald a wedding or a funeral?

INSOLENCE:

Slap Hands

The United States, visibly irked by recent actions of the new Communist Hungarian government, vented its diplomatic rage in a stinging note which accused Hungary of "inadmissibly insolent" conduct toward American diplomats in that country.

Second cause for U. S. anger was the arrest and beating in Budapest of an American citizen and the subsequent unsatisfactory explanation of the incident offered by Hungarian officials.

One of the most harshly worded protests to come from the state department since American planes were shot down over Yugoslavia a year ago, the note marked the first official unpleasantly to be delivered by the United States to the puppet Hungarian regime.

The incident grew out of the arrest of Stephen T. Thuransky, an American citizen, for his alleged "revolving and scandalizing vilifications in public" of Hungary's president and other government members. Thuransky, his wife and two daughters later were taken into custody by U. S. legation officials and removed to Vienna.

In the protest note, the state department pointed out that the arrest of an American citizen on purely political charges is "absolutely inadmissible" under the armistice agreement which prevails in Hungary. Also, officials of the Hungarian ministry of the interior were accused of being "uncooperative in the extreme and in some cases inadmissibly insolent."

VIVA:

Toreador

Orson Welles, the man who didn't come from Mars, has found himself, to put it politely, on the horns of a dilemma.

The self-designated genius was quoted recently as saying he had killed 20 bulls, and immediately he was challenged by another actor, Fortunio Bonanova, to enter the bull-fighting ring at Tijuana, Mexico, and perform for the benefit of charity.

Said the Spanish-born Bonanova in an open letter to Welles, "Killing 20 bulls is a lot of killing," neglecting to add that it is also a lot of bulls.

"So let us do a corrida (series of fights) this season in Tijuana for the motion picture relief fund. I am sure the impresario would give us a Sunday afternoon. What do you say to two bulls apiece?"

Admission: Shady side, $2; sunny side, $1.

ALEUTIANS:

Bases Retained

The Aleutian Islands, that long, cold chain of fog-bound rocks which started many an American G.I. talking to himself during the war, is being integrated into the pattern of the North American defense system.

General of the Army Dwight Eisenhower has revealed that the framework of strategic bases in the Aleutians is being kept intact for rapid expansion if necessary.

After having paid a visit to the continent's northernmost line of defense, General Eisenhower said that the islands were not being abandoned, but were undergoing a "contraction and concentration of military potential."

Russian Enigma Illustrated

Boris Krelow has gone home. He was a member of the staff of Tass (official Soviet news agency), stationed for some three years in Washington.

So far as I have been able to learn, his American contacts, which were many, both official and personal, made not a single ideological impact upon him or his way of thinking. He upheld the Russian cause; he talked more freely than most Russians in a semi-official or official capacity do but (also so far as I can learn) he never offered the slightest compromise of viewpoint, never accepted any argument or explanation of democratic (American-style) methods of thought or action.

And yet—and here is the thing that baffled most of us—he was well-liked, he was good company, and if we could have found the tiniest peg on which to hang an idea, he would have inspired us to write about Russia "with a heart," as a Russian woman interpreter is reported to have begged of Sam Welles, Time's correspondent in Moscow.

We wonder about Boris. We would have liked so much to sit down and talk frankly and freely with him about the common problems and the still more common misunderstandings between our countries. Was he able to appear so genial and friendly and charming because he held such high rank at home that he wasn't afraid to convert, as far as personal matters went, as a trusting friend?

Was he so deeply indoctrinated in the ideology of Marxism-Leninism-Stalinism that he was filled with pity rather than the typical suspicion which seems to permeate most Russian-American relations? One slight clue we have, though it may be a false one. Once, at a rather intimate gathering, Krelow's address finally grew a little impatient and said something like this: "Listen here, Boris, we're friends, surely you can be frank with us and explain why your government—"

Before she could finish (he guessed what was coming) he held up his hand.

"Please," he said with a disarming smile that took the sting out of his words. "We are having such a pleasant time, but you force me to say this: I cannot explain what you wish because you people are just too stupid to understand Communism."

If that sentiment is a sincere and typical expression of how the men who run Russia feel, the road ahead is a rocky one. Kipling once put into verse the problem he felt the foreigner faced in trying to understand the American. What he said might be applied to Russia:

"Inopportune, shrill accented, the acid attack which leaves him, correct, and his dead, the scoundrel of the side, how shall he clear himself, how teach your bar or weighed defense profer—a brother hedged with alien speech and lacking all interpreter?"

75 MILLION ACRES

U.S. Boosts 1948 Wheat Goal

WASHINGTON.—Fourth largest wheat acreage the farmers of this nation have ever planted may be realized in 1948 if the department of agriculture's revised goal of 75 million acres is met next year.

That mark is a five million-acre increase from the pattern recommended last year and a seven million-acre boost over the wheat goal set last spring before the crop outlook took on its gloomy cast. Continued and unremitting international demand for food grains influenced the agriculture department into making the upward revision.

While officials admitted that the increased acreage constitutes an invitation to farmers to plant heavily in wheat, they cautioned against plowing up sod-lands not suited for sustained farming in order to take advantage of high wheat prices.

However, an even more important factor in determining the nation's wheat acreage in 1948 will be the lure of the two dollar-a-bushel market price. Department authorities admitted that high market prices will do more to dictate the amount of wheat planted than could any arbitrarily assigned government goal.

The department said the 75 million-acre goal, if achieved, would provide the fourth largest wheat acreage the farmers in the United States have ever planted. Higher plantings occurred in 1919, 1937 and 1940.

Estimating on the basis of a 10-year average yield figure of 14.3 bushels an acre, the crop in 1948 would be 1.07 billion bushels, but if the outturn follows the 1942-48 average of 19.3 bushels an acre, production would reach 1.221 billion bushels.

In the wake of this year's bumper crop, a much smaller 1948 wheat yield normally would be indicated; however, the world food shortage makes it desirable, according to department spokesmen, that the United States continue its high rate of production. The United Nations has warned that the world food situation has not improved in the past year, and predicts shortages will continue another two years.
