Mother's in Nation Urged To Back 1948 March of Dimes

The women of America were urged in a special appeal by Cornelia Otis Skinner, national March of Dimes chairman of woman's activities to support wholeheartedly the 1948 March of Dimes, annual fund-raising drive of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which takes place January 15-30.

Her appeal was made public by Mrs. J. P. Turner chairman of women's activities for the 1948 March of Dimes here, following receipt of a message from Miss Skinner star of stage and screen.

In her message Miss Skinner pointed to the growing incidence of polio in recent years as another vital reason for increased support of the March of Dimes, which provides for medical care and treatment of polio patients and underwrites the National Foundation's program of research, education and epidemic aid.

Miss Skinner's message read: "Crippled children, victims of infantile paralysis, are counting upon us to assure the success of the 1948 March of Dimes. More than ever, it is important that success crown the annual fund-raising campaign of the National Foundation.

"The increased number of polio cases in recent years makes it more necessary than ever that Americans rally to this battle.

"As American mothers, we women are well aware of the sufferings of children, and thus have a special stake in the war on infantile paralysis. From our ranks come most of the nurses and physical therapists who care for the stricken and train them to be active again. We are in a strategic position to mobilize American families for this war of dimes and dollars.

Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner

a heavy toll. And the last five years have seen a record total of polio cases for any previous similar period.

"As each year passes, the burden of caring for residual patients of previous years continues to grow.

"On other fronts, too, the National Foundation and its chapters need the support of every wife, mother and sister. The fight is being waged through research and education, as well as through providing for medical care and helping foot the bills for this costly disease.

"Let us rally, women of America, to make this tenth anniversary of the National Foundation the greatest March of Dimes ever. Remember your stake in fighting infantile paralysis, and your part to make the battle end in victory."

SCRIPTURE: John 4:1-26; Romans 8:12-17
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 143

Our Relationship to God

Lesson for January 18, 1945

THE Scripture lesson for Sunday is John 4:1-26 and Romans 8:12-17 and 31-39, with the 103rd Psalm as the devotional reading.

The passage in John presents the dramatic story of Jesus meeting with the woman from Sychar at Jacob's well, and of her discovery of the Water of Life.

There is no more convincing evidence anywhere in the Bible of Jesus as the one and only approach to God. He is the Door through which one must pass into the Kingdom, whether bond or free, rich or poor, ignorant or learned, high or low.

"I am the truth and the life and the way."

Jesus Teaches About God

IN THIS great story we see Jesus, wearied from the day's arduous tasks, sitting on the curb of Jacob's well, resting. The disciples had gone across the valley to the village to buy food. The woman comes to draw water from the historic well. She did not notice Jesus until he spoke to her. He is never too busy, never too weary, to seek to bring all men to a knowledge of God's love.

He asked for a drink of water. That was his way of making contact with her. She drew back, wondering why a Jew would speak to a woman in public. But Jesus got past the immediate wall which she threw up between herself and him, and soon was talking her the way of everlasting life, to which she responded with gratitude.

How We Worship God

READ John 4:23-26 and see how Jesus led the woman of Sychar to understand true worship. Strangely enough, she knew a good deal about Jewish rites and ceremonies, but she had never known the basic truth that "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth."

Included in the record of how Jesus taught the woman to worship was the necessity of confessing her sin, having five husbands, and living at the moment with still another man. We cannot worship God if there is unconfessed sin in our hearts.

We often miss the joy of true worship because we fail to confess our sins. God looketh upon the heart. If there is sin in our hearts, it must be forgiven.

Our Need of God

IF YE live after the flesh, ye shall die," Romans 8:13. Here is a solemn truth that many seem to forget — apart from God we are dead. The young person who undertakes to live with eating food will soon discover that his body is wasting away and his mind is broken and dissipated. Just so with the spirit of man. We are spiritual creatures, made in the image of God. If we live by the flesh, we die spiritually.

In the preceding chapters in Romans, Paul has shown how sin worketh death. He sets forth the penalties that result from carnal thinking and behavior. But in the 18th verse he comes on to say:

"It is the Spirit himself bearing witness with our spirit that we are the sons of God, or children of God," Romans 8:16.

Strong in the Lord

OUR age has made much of might — might that expresses itself in speed. We think in terms of atomic power. This lesson would help us to understand that we may be strong in the Lord. All power is with him. "All power hath been given me in heaven and on earth," said Jesus.

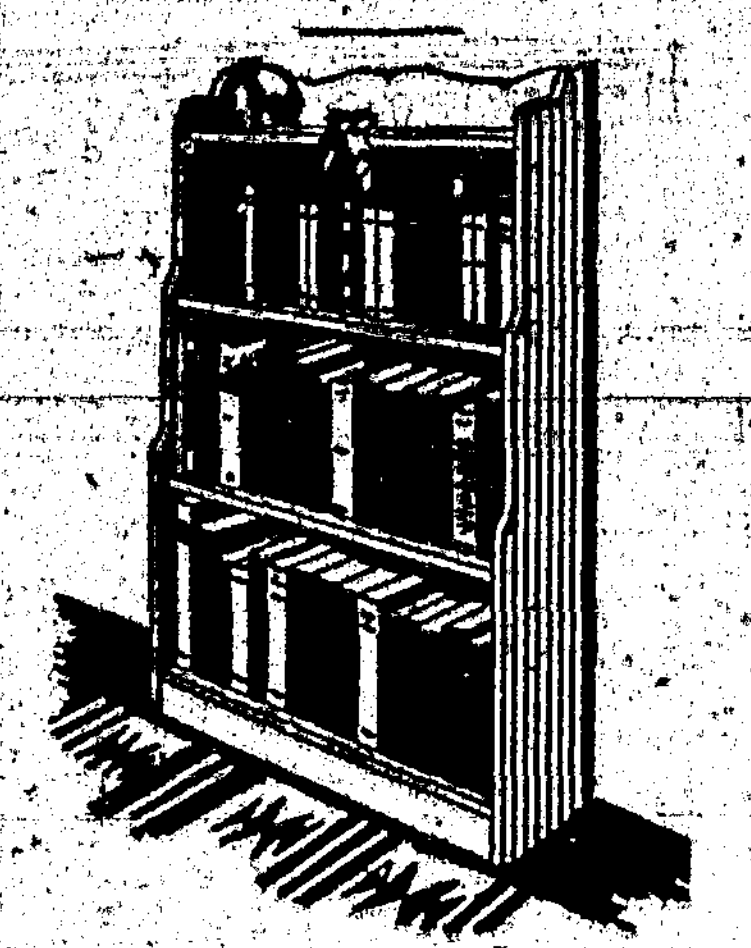

And this leads us to the climax of Sunday's lesson, when Paul declares:

"For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord," Romans 8:38, 39.

Jesus had the woman of Sychar completely in his power with the grace of God lifted her feet upon the Rock of Ages. She could stand in the midst of the people of Sychar and declare that she had met One who had released her from the bondage of sin. That is what will happen in every heart that comes to God through Jesus Christ.

During a recent campaign to kill by ridicule the flagrant misuse of the word "engineer" in this country, lists compiled showed that it was being employed as a title by persons engaged in nearly 2,000 kinds of work, most of which had little or nothing to do with engineering, says Collier's. Among the many absurd titles were Pajama Engineer (manufacturer), Exterminating Engineer (rat catcher) and Appearance Engineer (beauty parlor operator).

THE FICTION CORNER

THE LEOPARD'S SPOTS

By WILLIAM C. FORD

THE bank examiners were coming Monday. And Blake needed five thousand dollars.

He checked over some of his personal papers again as he sat in the President's office of his bank. No use. Nothing he could realize on right now. Good enough later, but so good to him before Monday.

His buzzer rang, and he put the papers away hastily. It was Carter, his cashier.

"Mr. Steinberg is here, Mr. Blake," said Carter on the extension phone. "He wants to renew his note again. He says it would break him to pay it now but he'll be on his feet in two months. I told him I'd have to speak with you."

Carter had been with him long, but he didn't take much responsibility.

"Let him renew it," said Blake. And he hung up.

He ran the pencil down his private papers again. No use. "Got to do something," he told himself.

He picked up his hat and hurried out.

On the street in front of the Lawyers' building he met Carter's daughter. A slender girl, she was, with fine hair, and skin, and a flush on each cheek that heightened as she came toward him.

"You're looking fine, Doris," he greeted her.

"Good morning, Mr. Blake. Oh, I'm feeling first rate, thank you," she said.

He looked at her. "Not overdoing, are you? What'd that doctor tell you this time?"

The girl set her mouth into a smile. "Oh, he was all right," she said. "Always has that silly notion about my going away for a while. But I told him I couldn't leave father. He says I'm doing fine."

Blake tapped her shoulder. "Cheer up, Doris. We'll fix it," he said. "Take it easy, as he told you."

Blake waved goodbye and swung into the doorway of the Lawyers' Building where his foster son Ernest practiced law.

Blake had brought up Ernest and educated him and started him out. Now Ernest was building a reputation as a two-fisted, hard-fighting jury lawyer.

"Hello, Governor," said Ernest. "What can I do for you?"

"Plenty," said Blake. "Plenty today. You know that five thousand dollar fund I set up for you when you were 21? Well, I want it for a little while—need some money in a hurry."

Ernest stopped on his way to the swivel chair behind his desk.

"That five thousand?" he exclaimed. "Why governor—you gave me that outright! I've made my plans on that—I—What do you want it for?"

"Does that make any difference?"

"Well—it might—the way I'm fixed."

"All right then, if I must say it. It isn't everywhere I could go, I happen to need it in a hurry—the bank examiners are coming Monday."

"The bank examiners," said Ernest softly, and Blake saw the lines harden round his mouth.

"What I mean, Ernest—I'm not in a position to tell you the details. I tell you I need it—that ought to be enough."

Ernest straightened. "Of course. But right is right. I've got my principles, Governor, and I've got a right to know if you've done something illegal."

Blake's eyes narrowed as he watched him.

"O. K. Ernie," said he. He rose. "Wait a minute, Governor."

"I'm trying to do what's right. I can't go against my principles. You wouldn't want me to do that. I've noticed things lately, Governor—and I've felt for a long time I ought to talk to you about them."

Blake sat down. "Go ahead!" said he.

Ernest put the tips of his fingers together.

"Well, first, you're too easy going, Governor. You're not hard-boiled enough for a banker. This being in a hole now proves it. Your borrowers know you'll always help them. You've got to get hard-boiled."

Blake took a deep breath, and got up.

"All right, Ernest," said he. "Be hard-boiled! That's that. The leopard ought to change his spots. Much obliged."

He started for the door.

"Hold on! There are a couple more things, while we're on it."

Ernest held up a hand.

"All right, Ernest," Blake told him. "Let's have them."

"First, you're too easy going, Governor. You're not hard-boiled enough for a banker. This being in a hole now proves it. Your borrowers know you'll always help them. You've got to get hard-boiled."

Blake took a deep breath, and got up.

"All right, Ernest," said he. "Be hard-boiled! That's that. The leopard ought to change his spots. Much obliged."

He started for the door.

"Hold on! There are a couple more things, while we're on it."

Ernest held up a hand.

"All right, Ernest," Blake told him. "Let's have them."

"That daughter of Carter's—I saw you from the window when you met her just now. And you're old enough to be her father. She's crazy about you. Everybody knows it."

Blake smiled.

"Well, Ernie," he said. "I feel a bit flattered. Of course it's only a passing notion, if it's there at all; she'll get over it mighty quick. But she's a fine young woman, Ernest. Keeps house for her father now and has taken great care of him since her mother died."

"She's too good to him," Ernest snapped. "Better if she tried to get him to work out of his rut and make something of himself."

Blake got up.

"Don't be so righteous, Ernest," he said from the doorway.

He walked back to the bank.

Blake tapped her shoulder. "Cheer up, Doris. We'll fix it," he said. "Take it easy, as he told you."

was after hours. Carter was gone. No one was there.

Blake went over to the drawer by the cashier's cage, where the revolver was kept. He took it out and fumbled with it for a minute. Then he put it back.

He went to his private box and took out a life insurance policy. He studied it a while and slipped it into his pocket. He started for the street door.

Blake found Tom Martin, the insurance man, in his office. He tossed the insurance policy to him.

"I want to surrender that," he said. "Just what is the surrender value?"

Martin looked at it. "Five thousand dollars," said he. "A little over. But, Mr. Blake, you've been paying for this for Ernest for years and years. I couldn't advise you to surrender it now—why look—let me explain." He reached for pamphlets and tables.

Blake stopped him. "Where do I sign?" he asked.

"Here, Mr. Blake," said Martin. "If you really insist."

"I really do," said Blake. "Ernest can take care of himself first rate now."

On Friday Martin brought the insurance check and Blake cashed it at Carter's cage. After that he went into the vault. He came out in a minute and went to his office. Then he rang for Carter.

Carter came in, bent, lined with worry, pale.

"John," said Blake. "The bank examiners will be here on Monday. Carter's hands closed. His forehead was wet.

"Yes, Mr. Blake," he said. Blake stood up.

"It's all right, John," he said. "Don't worry any more. I've just put that five thousand in the vault. Your cash will balance when they come."

Carter staggered and his face whitened.

"You knew, Mr. Blake?" he faltered.

"Yes," said Blake. "I knew. Of course I knew. It's my business to know. And I saw how hard you tried to put it back, too."

Carter held one hand in the other to stop their trembling.

"Oh, I've tried," he said. "I've prayed. It wasn't for myself, Mr. Blake. It was for Doris. She's been so brave—the doctor said there's a spot on her lung—and she must go to a high dry place—and I—thought—"

"All right, John," said Blake. "All right. I've known all about that, too. Of course you can't stay here—you can't work in a bank any more—but you'll resign after the examiners O. K. everything. And I've got you another kind of a job—in Arizona—I'll tell you about it later. You can pay me back when you get on your feet. And Doris will be all right now. The air's clear and dry in Arizona. In no time at all we'll be hearing she's married some fine young Westerner."

Carter's lips were moving.

"Thank you—thank you—" he was saying. "It's the—Mercy of God, I can't tell you, Mr. Blake. I can't—"

"Sure," said Blake. He put his hand in his pocket and dropped six cartridges on the desk.

"Load that revolver again now, John," he said. "I saw you looking at it the other day, and I thought I'd better—"

Carter picked up the cartridges and turned to the door. He stopped again with his hand on the knob.

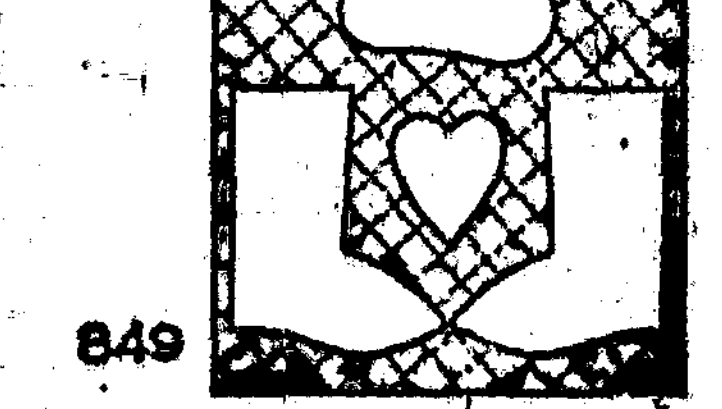

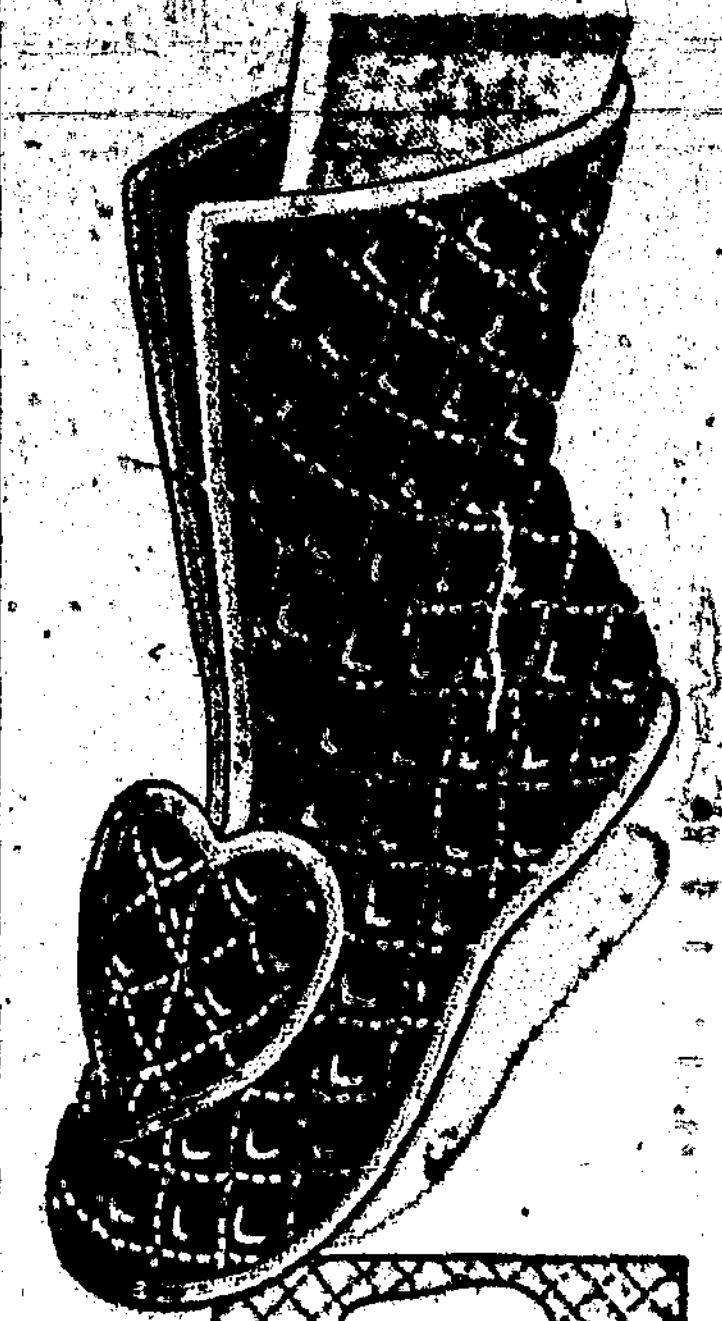

"You're a good man, Mr. Blake," he said humbly.

He went out.

Blake looked at the grease that had been left on his hand by the cartridges.

"I wonder," said he.

Painting Icons

Several centuries ago in Russia, many artists, when painting icons of sacred personages, employed a strange method in order to give complete individuality to each figure. They would first paint the skeleton, then add the body organs, then the skin and, lastly the cloths.

NO

Harsh Laxatives are NOT necessary for most people

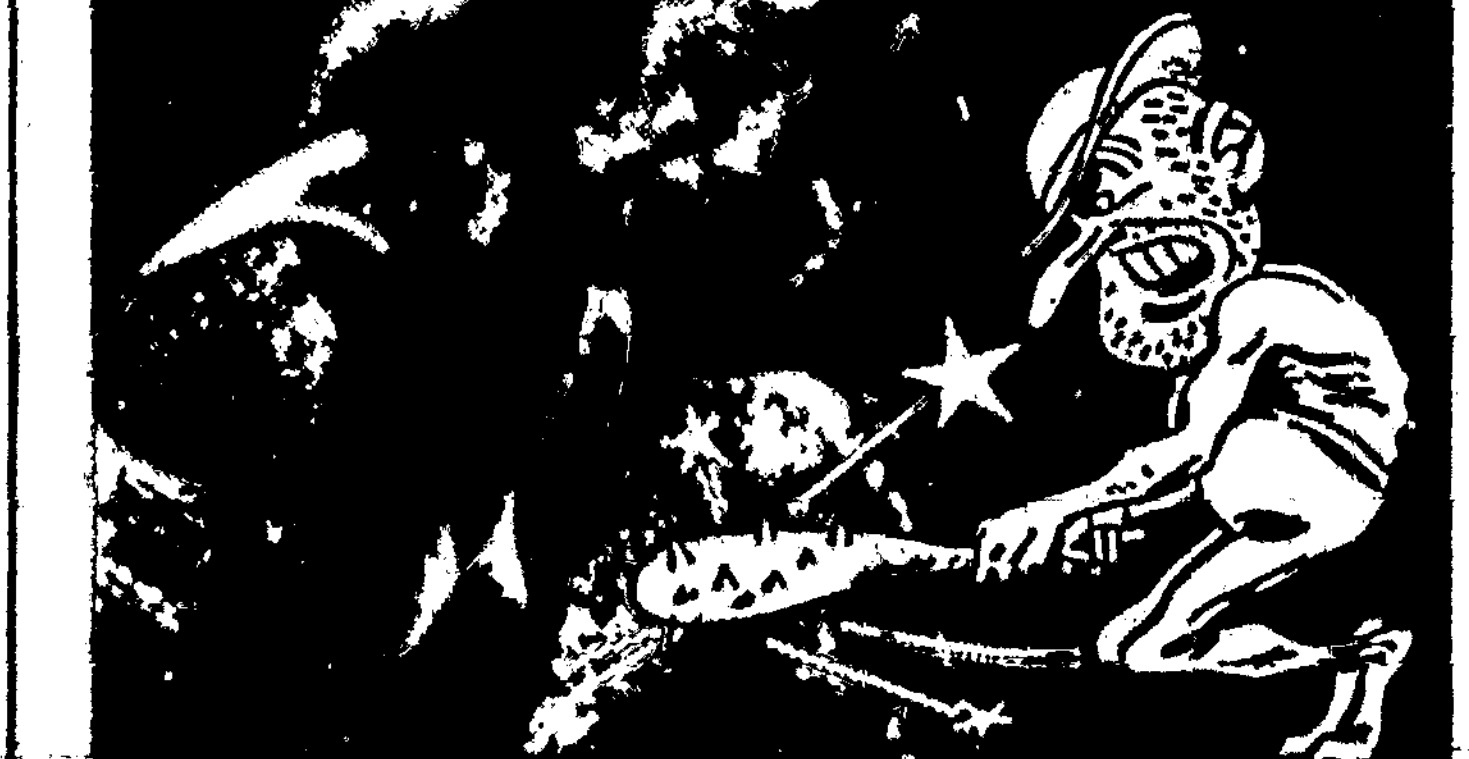

The juice of a lemon in a glass of water, when taken first thing on arising, is all that most people need to insure prompt, normal elimination.

No more harsh laxatives that irritate the digestive tract and impair nutritional! Lemon in water is good for you!

Generations of Americans have taken lemon for health—and generations of doctors have recommended them. They are rich in vitamin C, supply valuable amounts of B and P. They alkalize; aid digestion.

Not too sharp or sour, lemon in water has a refreshing tang—clears the mouth, wakes you up. It's not a purgative—simply helps your system regulate itself. Try it 10 days. USE CALIFORNIA SUNKIST LEMONS

IF PETER PAIN CLUBS YOU WITH RHEUMATIC PAIN

Hurry—rub in Ben-Gay for fast, soothing, gently warming relief! Insist on genuine Ben-Gay, the original Baume Analgésique. Ben-Gay contains up to 2 1/2 times more methyl salicylate and menthol—two pain-relieving agents known to every doctor—than any other widely offered rub-in. Ben-Gay acts fast where you hurt!

Use for Pain due to COLDS, MUSCLE ACHE, and STRAINS. Ask for BEN-GAY for CHILDREN.

It's Smart to Save Money Has Your Tractor Lost Its Pulling Power Because of Worn Tires?

IF YOUR TRACTOR TIRES LOOK LIKE THIS . . . . . A NEW Firestone GROUND GRIP TREAD will make them look like THIS

GET NEW TIRE PERFORMANCE SAVE NEARLY HALF NEW TIRE COST

You can have the drawbar pull of new tractor tires at just a little more than half the cost of new tires by having new Firestone Ground Grip treads applied to your present tires. The famous Firestone Ground Grip tread can be applied to any make of tire in the size that is on your tractor now. These new treads will be exactly the same quality as treads on brand new tires.

You don't have to lay up your tractor while waiting for new Firestone Ground Grip treads. Your nearest Firestone Dealer or Firestone Store will loan you a set of tires while yours are in the shop. If your tire bodies are in good condition, you can exchange them for a set of tires with brand new Firestone Ground Grip treads ready for work.

EDITORIAL

All this information about the plight of the Navajos came as a revelation to us. We had supposed that as wards of the United States government they were well cared for, and were being paid vast sums of money; living on the "fat of the land." Now comes information of poverty, misery, starvation, tuberculosis and terrors of all description. We are for helping the Navajos! We are for more, more and still more help for them; they are our own and much more to be preferred than those communistic people in Europe.

The Navajos helped to win our war... but those people in Europe didn't. We can pour vast sums of money into the coffers of those people, we can send them food and clothes but they will still be Communists. There is an old saying and it is true: "Convince a man against his will, and he will be of the same opinion still."

Of all things!! How can anyone begrudge the work the State Highway Department is having done on 54? We'd say it wasn't for political expediency, nor yet to please Mr. Prestridge (if that is the reason we pay more power to Mr. Prestridge).

It is our opinion that members of the Department must have passed over Highway 54 at some recent date and after a deadly shake-up over several miles of blood curdling lounces and terrific highway they decided the people deserved a little recognition for the efforts they have been making to have 54 improved. The road has been a disgrace to the state. The $1,000,000 to be spent on 54 is the fulfillment of an obligation of the most progressive and enterprising officials of the highway department of recent years. Appreciation will be duly shown by the additional traffic over 54, easier communication between cities and by advancement in general when it shall have become known that we have an honest-to-godness passable highway. Besides it is better to spend a million dollars plus in 1947 than to have to spend two million dollars plus at some future date.

General Hurley will be in Lincoln County the 20, 29, and 30th. He will speak at the Court house in Carrizozo, on the evening of January 20th.

Listening to those Louisiana Democrats over the Shreveport radio station reminds us that the time is drawing near for our own politicians to start "pointing with pride" and "viewing with alarm". But of course we don't take our politics so seriously as they do in Louisiana.

1948 Chevrolet is Massive

The over-all simplicity and massiveness of the new, 1948 Chevrolet is well shown in this three-quarter view of the Fleetmaster Sport Sedan. Fenders, hood, body and door panels all blend; and the crease moulding, below the windows, is wider than that used in previous models. Note the new T-shaped chrome center bar on the radiator grille.

BACKWARD GLANCES

FORTY YEARS AGO FROM 1908 CAPITAN NEWS

The task of getting water into Carrizozo from the South Fork of Bonito was completed this week, the water being turned into Carrizozo pipe Tuesday, and two days later, the pipe being laid, it was on tap at Coyote, a station twelve miles north of there, and in a reasonably short time all along the line as far as Santa Rosa will be supplied with the best quality of aquapura to be found in New Mexico—viz, water from the Rio Bonito. This luxury will be appreciated by the people along the eastern division of the E. P. & S. W. system, who heretofore have been compelled to quench their thirsts with alkali and gypsum compound, most of whom had to pay 75 cents a barrel for that doubtful luxury. Bryan is looked upon as the man most likely to secure the democratic nomination for president; although the eastern wing of the party does not look upon his candidacy with favor.

tion Saturday evening. Snow fell from 5 inches in depth, on the flat to 3 feet in depth in the mountains. A blizzard raged throughout Saturday night and Sunday and the thermometer steadily dropped, the minimum temperature having been reached in the early hours of Monday morning. The station here reports a temperature of 10 below zero and at Capitán 22 below. This was the coldest, to our knowledge, ever recorded in Lincoln county.

The Carrizozo schools now have twelve teachers employed. Miss Blanche Brownlee is the latest addition to the faculty.

Roe Coe has returned from Camp Kearney, California. He has been medically discharged from the army.

Miss Grace Jones is in receipt of a letter from her brother Ralph stating that he was headed for France on the transport Henderson.

Rev. F. J. Johnston, Pastor

I heartily endorse the unity of all Christian churches. I not only believe that such unity is desirable but in the words of G. Bromley Oxnam I believe that it must be done. It can be done and may be accomplished in this generation. Jesus has been praying for it, for over nineteen hundred years. John 17:20-23.

The question may arise, 'how can you go ahead as a Methodist minister?' The answer is just this: In order that we may have all-the-more to turn-in to the great worldwide Church of Christ when the time comes. Or, for the same fundamental reason that a young lady may be preparing a hope chest against the day of her happy marriage or young man may be building up a bank account or other resources against the time of a cherished union with the one he loves. The morning light will be breaking when we begin to practice what we preach. Let us all be readying for

With this thought in view the building of a new church edifice in Capitán may have been a bit previous(?) but we are glad to live and work in the expectation that we will have some thing worthwhile and adequate to serve some good end, to contribute, when the churches of this community agree to come together. In the meantime let us pray and boost for unity.

WE, YOUR LOCAL CHEVROLET DEALER—and every other Chevrolet Dealer in America—are both proud and happy to make the following report to buyers and prospective buyers of Chevrolet products.

Again in 1947, Chevrolet built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker in the industry. Just as Chevrolet has built and sold more cars and more trucks than any other maker for the last seven-year period, being from January, 1931 to January, 1948—the modern period of motor car history.

Naturally, we as well as the Chevrolet Motor Division of General Motors are deeply grateful for America's consistent preference for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks; and we are determined to do everything in our power to continue to deserve this preference in the future as in the past.

We want to thank each and every person in this community for his friendship and goodwill for this organization. We solicit and appreciate your patronage. We are doing our level best to prove that, by placing orders for new Chevrolets just as promptly as we can—even under today's trying conditions—and we are deeply and doubly appreciative of the patience and understanding of all our customers who are awaiting deliveries of new Chevrolets.

Needless to say, you buy wisely when you buy the product of the world's largest producers of cars and trucks, for that is the way to maximum dollar value! Rest assured that we'll try our best for a new Chevrolet just as soon as it is humanly possible to do so. Meanwhile, please let us help to keep your present car or truck in good running condition by bringing it in for skilled service, now and at regular intervals.

"Time and Chance," Tale of a Credo

Artist-Writer Builds Self Philosophy 'for to Admire'

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—Every once in a while, I devote this column to a book. Not a review, but just my feelings about the book and its author.

I couldn't help writing about "Time and Chance" by artist Cyrus LeRoy Baldridge. Not merely because the book interested me, or because it is a most attractive piece of autobiography, or because the drawings are a book in themselves, or because other reviewers liked it—but because I happened to share some of the experiences it describes and because Baldridge interprets in terms of his own.

Also I want to write a review because of what these experiences, the fruits of the varied environments which the artist-author describes, did to form a career, a character, a philosophy, which is "for to see and to admire."

In Roy's own words, it is the story, partly done in pictures, of "how a well-meaning, but provincial farm boy got an international point of view."

Baukhage

through Arkansas, selling cooking pots.

"Worked way through college with Baukhage."

(Roy did the working, I, subsidized, loafed considerably.)

"Peace conference (Paris, 1919) with Baukhage, and sold on Wilson's idealism. Still sold on idealism, the term now altered with the times."

"Worked enough to save money enough to see Far East, Near East, Africa, Indian." (And how he worked!)

Then he concludes:

"All men the same, discounting the apparent differences caused by varying backgrounds."

To reach that conclusion, Roy made an Odyssey beginning with the "cooking pots" into domains of which Homer never dreamed. He had an artist's eye trained from the age of 12 when he was tolerated in a Chicago art school with young artists who were later to achieve national reputations. Such men as John T. McCutcheon, cartoonist; Webster, creator of the "Timid Soul"; and many others. Goudy, the great type designer, who died last year, was Roy's teacher, along with the school's director, Frank Holmes, who became a second father to the wide-eyed child. At that school, Roy learned his most important lesson—self criticism.

His mother re-married, and Roy became bellhop and baggage-smasher in his stepfather's small-town commercial hotel; finally he went to college on a scholarship which, when he arrived, he found wasn't there. Utterly alone, without the social prestige of a college fraternity, he achieved campus success; became what was considered a "prominent student."

He grew to realize the emptiness of "college honors" but, unlike Vincent Sheena who was to follow him, Roy learned to admire the university which he had "voluntarily" expelled. At our 10th reunion, he interpreted the word "university" in its absolute but new meaning: "the whole . . . all things . . . the universe . . . a body of persons . . . the body of the people."

I shared those campus years with Roy, but I missed most of their significance and experience, for I was carefully sheltered (after a few freshman heartbreaks) behind the protective coloring of Greek letters. But I managed to know Roy and learn a little from his experiences. He is a man who inspires high loyalties.

There was a post-college period when we lost each other. He was commercial-artist and living in the University of Chicago settlement, where he taught art to little toughs from the stockyard district, developed a social conscience, became a national guard cavalryman (because he dreamed of "going west" and being another Frederick Remington), got his first peep into the world of outlaws and fell in love with a charming and "modern" member out of a world until then strange to him.

One day shortly after World War I broke out, I received a long distance telephone call. It was Roy, he was going overseas. Wouldn't I join him? I had just completed a tour of European wandering much more conventional than Roy's was to be. I also had a job. He, the congenial bourgeois, rejected the idea.

Later I learned that he then had two incomes I lacked: A broken heart and a sketchbook, as spurs. Unbelievably, without credentials, he wormed his way through beleaguered Belgium to the German front, where he learned to hate war. He came back to fight out a career in New York.

I'm not going to write any more of Roy's story for it is his story told far better than I could hope to recount it. I can only say that when World War I came to America he had his part in it, a fraction of which I again was lucky enough to share with him. He was a cartoonist on the Stars and Stripes, after experiences on every front with the French. I joined him in Paris after the armistice. Walking down Rue de la Paix one day with Roy I was mulling reminiscences of riding beside my battery of 155s. Suddenly he grabbed me by the arm. "Buck," he said, "that's poetry. Let's write a book. I'll illustrate it."

Of course, it wasn't poetry but it was verse the G.I.s of our day understood and the illustrations were art, if art is life — and death — as Roy had seen it.

We came back and went our separate ways. He now had a partner, Caroline Singer, a perfect complement. She was a California newspaper woman. They built a home, leaving it periodically to travel the Seven Seas — China, Japan; Europe again, India, Africa, criss-crossing out their books in perfect collaboration.

But Roy's book is his own story, a perfect American saga. As American as the wind that blows the Midwest corn fields; as foreign as the sounds and smells of Peking, Yokohama, the click of a tiny French village, varied as its ribbon-breasted diplomats, kings, Senegambian belles and Teheran beauties. But it's more than that. It's the story of the making of a human philosophy old as the Mongolian mountains which are a part of its background, new as today.

"Left and right," writes Baldridge, "are not two evils, they are the same evil; and safety without the solidarity of slave-conscious groups, screaming slogans, or party orders to lean upon, liberals must be staunch enough to walk a lonely road."

I know that Roy would like to have me conclude this review — if you want to call it that — with the following quotation which gave him his title, the biblical quotation:

"The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favor to men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all."

"I would not dare to doubt the words of the Preacher (Ecclesiastes IX:11) — but I know that here was a man who grasped time by the forelock, was able to beg-leave and saddle it, and one who took his chances if not without fear, at least without faltering."

When Tovarich gets the idea his rubles are going to be worthless, he acts just like a wage-slave in a benighted capitalistic country.

PUSHBUTTON BILL-OF-FARE

Meatball Due To Be Electrified

The pushbutton may never replace the meatball, but with the rapid ascendancy of electric vending machines it is promising to exert a profound influence on the destiny of that spherical aggregation of ground beef, as well as on many another item in the American diet.

Even now plans have been drawn and preparations are being made by C-Right Laboratories in Newark, N. J., to open a retail store in Los Angeles where customers will be able to make a variety of purchases — from food and beverages to dry goods — simply by stepping up to an electrical vending machine, inserting the prescribed amount of money in the slot and pushing a few buttons.

This unique establishment, scheduled to open its doors in April, will

NEWS REVIEW

Wallace Enters Race; Romanian King Leaves

Henry Wallace was deluding no one, not even himself, about his chances of being elected President of the United States in 1948 on a third party ticket when, with zealous idealism, he announced that he would be an independent candidate.

His entry into the contest, as he announced on a nation-wide broadcast from Chicago, was based upon his revision against "the bi-partisan reactionary war policy which is dividing the world into two armed camps."

Both Republicans and Democrats, he indicated, can be filed in the same political pigeon-hole because both stand for the bi-partisan policies which are leading the nation to war and depression.

"That menace can be met and overcome only by a new political alignment in America which requires a new political party," averred the former vice president.

Whether or not it could be met by a third party — a "peace party" — founded on the assumption that the U. S. must adopt a softer, more co-operative attitude toward Russia and at the same time reject universal military training and preparedness in general was a question that probably even Wallace would not answer. Domestic political significance of Wallace's emergence as a third party candidate may be summed up briefly: Republicans like it, Democrats don't.

If Wallace can get on the ballots in one or more of the pivotal states — New York, Ohio, California, Pennsylvania or Illinois — he may be able to split off enough of the Democratic vote to swing the election to the Republican nominee.

Always the eminent liberal, Wallace is angling for all or a portion of the left-wing Democratic vote; and if he makes his inherent devotion to Rooseveltian ideals stick, he may be able to corral a considerable section of those on the left side.

One thing was certain. Wallace would have the hearty, although somewhat onerous, support of the Communists, no matter how much he might avow his own anti-Communist principles. He would have to go through the campaign with the Reds and fellow-travelers hanging to his coat-tails.

REPUBLIC: Michael Quits

Communist-controlled eastern Europe cast off its last tie with a happier past when King Michael I of Romania made public his abdication from the throne.

His announcement had not yet fully registered on Romania's bewildered populace when the Communist government promptly proclaimed the nation a "popular democratic republic."

Thus, with the 24-year-old monarch's abdication, ended a dynasty established in 1904, the last mon-

London Braces

England is full of suspense but it isn't the kind that keeps a man's trousers up.

British braces (suspenders), made under a government order limiting the elastic to three inches at the back, have been the cause of a number of London braces falling down and finally drove Historian Arthur Bryant to reporting his plight in a letter to the London Times.

In the past year, he said, he bought four pairs of braces "after such occasion" lamented Bryant. "The braces have broken irrevocably within three months."

"The Times, in a helpful mood, deplored the situation in an editorial: 'The Four Freedoms are a hollow mockery if our braces are going to be bursting all the time. No nation can be expected to hold up its head if it also is required to hold up its trousers.'" archy in the Soviet sphere of influence in eastern Europe and the last throne held by the House of Hohenzollern.

Michael, as some romanticists would have had it, might have renounced his throne purely for the love of Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma and Denmark, but the Communist establishment of a "republic" and immediate reorganization of the government came too swiftly, too efficiently to lend much credence to that theory.

As the king himself pointed out in his abdication proclamation, he was resigning the throne because a monarchy no longer coincided with the "great political, economic and social changes" in Romania.

Nor was it logical for the Communists, grim advocates of their "international dictatorship of the proletariat," to be countenancing and cooperating with a hereditary monarchy. And Michael had acted as a sort of brake on some Communist actions in Romania.

NEW HIGH: Farm Prices

U. S. farmers continued to set new records in price levels, both for the produce they sell and the goods they in turn buy.

It was reported by the department of agriculture that the general level of farm prices rose 5 per cent between mid-November and mid-December to a record high of 301 per cent of the 1909-14 average.

Previous all-time high was 290 per cent, set last October.

At the same time, prices paid by farmers for items for living and farm production also reached a new record. On December 15 the index of prices paid was 245 per cent above the 1909-14 average.

The farm price level in mid-December, the department said, was 14 per cent higher than January, 1947, and the index of prices paid 16 per cent higher.

Between mid-November and mid-December, average prices for virtually every group of farm commodities except fruit showed measurable increases.

Mostly Vegetables

What's the best way to save on meat? Serve smaller amounts and round the meal out with several vegetables.

When you come to consult figures on meat consumption you will realize that a great many of us actually overdo the eating on meat and take it easy on the vegetables. Now that the former is high in price and will become more scarce, if reports are true, plan to include more vegetables in your meals.

Here are some very satisfying main dishes which you will be wise to use. There's enough meat to satisfy the hungry and those with a taste for it, but there are also dishes which are budget-wise.

- *Vegetable Pie. 3 tablespoons butter, 5 tablespoons flour, 10 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon celery salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 3 cups milk, 16 small white onions, 1 cup cooked peas, 1 cup cooked string beans or lima beans, 3 cups cooked carrots, 2 cups chopped leftover roast or meat loaf.

Melt butter, add flour and stir until well blended. Add seasonings and then milk, stirring constantly until smooth and thick. Bring to a boil and cook for 2 minutes. Add vegetables and meat. Pour into a large baking dish; cover with the following:

- *Peanut Butter Crust. 1 1/2 cups flour, 3/4 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons peanut butter, 1/2 cup milk, 4 strips raw bacon fat.

Sift together dry ingredients; add peanut butter and mix in thoroughly with a fork. Add milk to make soft dough. Turn out on floured board; toss lightly until the outside looks smooth. Roll out to fit baking dish. Cut slits for steam to escape; place on top of baking dish. Cut bacon in very small pieces over top and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) about 20 minutes until bacon is crisp and brown.

Here is an interesting, well-seasoned dish which is both filling and satisfying in addition to being an excellent way in which to stretch a pound of meat:

Tafelort (Serves 6)

- 1 green pepper, 1 pound hamburger, 2 tablespoons oil, 1 small can tomatoes, 1 small onion, 1 clove garlic, 1/4 pound dry noodles, 1 can bean kernels, 1 can ripe olives, 1/2 cup olive liquid, 1/2 cup Longhorn cheese.

Fry cut-up pepper and hamburger in oil. When browned, add tomatoes and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, then turn down heat and cook for 45 to 60 minutes.

- *Recipe given.

Vegetable Loaf (Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup cooked peas, 1/2 cup cooked string beans, 1/2 cup chopped carrots, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 egg, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon paprika.

Press peas through a sieve, cut beans into small pieces, and combine all vegetables. Add milk, slightly beaten egg, crumbs and seasonings. Turn into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven until firm. Serve with 2 1/2 cups medium white sauce to which has been added 4 tablespoons of deviled ham. Blend thoroughly.

There are innumerable ways in which that good protein food, cheese, can stretch vegetables while substituting for meat. Here are several taste-tantalizing ideas.

Macaroni-Stuffed Peppers (Serves 6)

- 6 green peppers, 1-1/2 cups cooked elbow macaroni, 1/2 pound grated American cheese, 1 cup cooked tomatoes, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/4 teaspoon salt, Dash of pepper.

Cut a slice off the top of each pepper and cook in boiling salted water for 5 minutes. Drain and remove seeds. Mix remaining ingredients, saving 1/4 of cheese for top. Fill peppers with mixture, stand upright in pan and sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

Broccoli With Cheese (Serves 6)

- 1 onion, minced, 6 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg yolk, 1 cup grated parmesan cheese, 2 1/2 pounds cooked broccoli, 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs.

Cook onion in 4 tablespoons of butter until tender, stir in flour and add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Add seasoning, egg yolk and cheese. Pour half of sauce into baking dish, arrange broccoli on top of sauce and cover with remaining sauce. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot with remaining butter. Bake in a hot (400 degree) oven about 20 minutes.

AID TO SPREADS

A little citrus juice mixed into many sandwich spreads not only improves the flavor but also thins the mixture for easier spreading. Try a dash of orange juice in cheese spreads, ham or peanut butter.

Any equipment which has an electrical element should never be immersed in water. This includes roasters, coffee pots, mixers, toasters, waffle irons, griddles, etc. The motor may be wiped with a damp cloth, but carefully so as not to get it too wet. Always have the equipment disconnected. Vacuum cleaners should be emptied after every use. Remove threads and lint which have gathered in brush by clipping with shears and pulling them out. Keep the cord from becoming twisted.

SMALL TOWNS, U.S.A.

Rural Life Program Seeks Improved Standards of Living

By EARLE HITCH

Released by WNU Features

Concerted action aimed to develop an improved rural life must be launched on a widespread scale if small town America is to survive. That is the motivating factor behind the rural life movement, an energetic program which now is getting under way throughout America and which eventually will attempt to reach all small towns and rural communities of the nation.

Aim of the program is a better rural life — an attempt to make the country a better place in which to live and work. Rural problems have been discussed for years, and various solutions have been proposed. Experience has shown that the best results come from local action, planned by the people on their home grounds.

Aroused Citizenry Needed.

Before action can be expected, community consciousness has to be aroused. There must be determination to act. Then plans have to be made. The plans that do the most good are made to fit the local situation.

All rural communities do not need the same things, nor can they go about getting what they do need in the same ways.

The rural life program is simply this — a recognition that the nation needs to add new features to its rural economy. This is because the types of rural labor are changing. Machinery has changed farming, and in some areas farm land has worn out. Some men who once worked at farming are having to turn to other occupations.

The present system of farming is far out of balance. Too many farmers are living on slim fare. Of the 8,800,000 farmers in the United States only the top third are enjoying the present high-level incomes for agricultural produce. The lower third, about two million, are averaging no more than $400 a year. This sum does not provide an adequate standard of living for happiness and health.

Cities, too, concerned. From the standpoint of national stability there is urgent need for solutions which will prevent great numbers from being forced off the land. There is need to give those in the lower brackets encouragement and help to make them self-sustaining. Growing numbers moving to cities add to job competition there, and make heavier unemployment risks in times of business slumps. Thus the cities as well as the rural areas have cause to be concerned.

Consequently leaders in public affairs are growing more disturbed as they witness:

1. The continuing shift of population from country to city.
2. The decline of the country church, which always has been a strong moral force in the nation.
3. A declining standard of living in many rural homes, from which comes the bulk of our population growth.

The government, acting through congress and the department of agriculture, has been giving help, and various organizations and agencies are following programs of their own. Among them are the Farm Bureau federations, the co-operatives, the Farmers' Union, the National Grange, and Protestant and Catholic churches acting through the town and country departments of the leading denominations.

Lawrence, Kas. — Because college students will follow the old practice of nibbling late evening snacks while poring over studies, Elmo W. Geppelt, University of Kansas engineering student, is able to help finance his own education. Geppelt, 24-year-old married veteran, decided last September that his fellow students would rather have food delivered than go out after it, so he went into the business of preparing the food and delivering it.

Now five student-owned cars make regular deliveries to 40 student living houses. Two men operate from each car, making trips each evening, Sunday through Thursday.

Geppelt's wife, Betty, a former Kansas university student, and six helpers prepare most of the food in the kitchen of the Geppelt home. Four part-time workers prepare sandwiches in a second kitchen.

Income from farming is unevenly divided. Only the top third of the nation's 8,800,000 farmers are reaping the present high-level incomes for agricultural produce. The middle third are making about $500 a year while the lowest third average no more than $400 a year, according to estimates from census statistics based on 1944 reports.

All these organizations are agreed on general objectives. Briefly these objectives are:

1. To provide more opportunities for earning a good living in the country.
2. To establish better rural health and rural hospital services.
3. To provide more rural recreations and better uses for rural leisure.
4. To discover civic and cultural outlets that will add to a feeling of appreciation of the importance of country life and the country home.

The work to be done in this broad program does not concern farm people alone. Every small town has a stake in it. Whether the towns of the future grow in importance or languish depends on keeping a happy and satisfied population both in the towns themselves and the country roundabout.

Ways to do this are what the leaders of local community enterprise will have to discover. A knowledge of what has been done by communities that have made notable progress will be of interest to small communities everywhere, particularly those in a mood to do likewise.

Future articles in this series will tell about some outstanding small community programs.

Seamstress Cuts Police Uniforms And Tax Outlay

CHARLESTON, W. VA.—With her fast flying sewing machine, Mrs. Adana Summers is saving money for West-Virginia taxpayers. Her job is to alter and make over uniforms worn by state police officers.

Each rookie trooper before going on duty receives $326.05 worth of clothing, including a number of articles discarded by older policemen. Mrs. Summers alters these leftovers to fit their new owners, at the same time checking to see that they are completely equipped with the buttons considered so essential to a smart looking officer.

Mrs. Summers, who worked as a machinist in an industrial plant during the war, admits that her job is sometimes tedious and exacting but insists that she prefers it to that of a secretary, taking shorthand notes or pounding the keys of a typewriter.

How well she is doing her job is shown in Capt. Harry C. Meyers' estimate that during a six-month period alterations and mending of uniforms saved West Virginia taxpayers approximately $2,000.

Doctor Includes Cows In 'Medical' Equipment

EUREKA, N. C.—Dr. Henderson Irwin, who insists he is just an old-fashioned country doctor, includes 34 cows in his "medical" equipment.

If a patient doesn't have a cow, the doctor lends him one. The patient gets the benefit of plenty of milk. The doctor gets a return on his investment in the form of all the calves.

"From a $150 cow I can sell the calf for $35, a good return," says Dr. Irwin.

Years of family practice have convinced him, the doctor says, that "a couple should be refused a marriage license unless they can say they have a bed, a stove and a cow."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Slip a cotton bag over the broom head and you have a handy tool for sweeping down walls and ceilings. When the bag becomes soiled, simply soak in hot soapy water and wash in the regular way.

A file that is clogged with metal particles should be bumped lightly on a block in order to dislodge the filings that clutter up the teeth.

To avoid shine on woollens, use a dry or steam iron over a pressing cloth and apply a pressing action rather than an ironing motion.

When a baking recipe calls for beaten egg whites, separate the yolks and whites while the eggs are cold. Let the whites reach room temperature before beating. This volume will be greater.

To prevent desk or bureau drawers from sticking rub a little yellow soap or paraffin along the edges.

Larger windows are just as practicable in cold climates as in the South, especially since the invention of the insulating window, which is nothing more than two pieces of plate glass with an air space between them. In tending cold they are nearly as useful as the wall of the house.

When sandpapering surfaces that are to be painted, fold the sandpaper over a small block of wood.

Simple as That

A new switchman was instructed by the yardmaster to go to the back shop and mark all the cars that had been repaired so they could be forwarded East. Cars that had not been repaired were to be switched out and returned to the shop.

About an hour later, when the hump crew prepared to switch out the cars that had been repaired, the yardmaster noticed that all the cars had been freshly chalked "D.G."

"How can I tell the 'okay' cars from the 'bad orders'?" the yardmaster stormed, "and what in blazes does 'D.G.' mean?"

"Why, that's simple," the switchman replied, "it means 'Do Go' and 'Don't Go.'"

U. S. SAVINGS BONDS
POPULAR INVESTMENT IN 1947

New Mexicans invested $13,696,029, at issue price, in U. S. Savings Bonds during the year 1947. The total for 1946 was $14,161,700. Purchases in 1947 were 98.7 per cent of those in 1946.

Evidence that the investor of small amounts in New Mexico is still putting some of his savings into Savings Bonds is offered by the $9,593,787 placed in Series E last year, or 70 per cent of the total. Redemptions dropped 23 per cent in New Mexico last year under 1946, and were less than in 1945. Series F Bonds attracted $568,642 and Series G $3,533,700 in 1947. There was an increase of 5 1/2 per cent in the amount invested in Series G.

January's totals for both years were the highest of all months, accounted for by purchasers who buy their limit of $5,000, maturity value, in Series E, and $100,000 in both F and G combined. September of 1946 and July, 1947 had second highest monthly totals of those years.

"Regular purchasers of E Bonds, through payroll savings and Bond-a-Month plans, promise to increase in 1948, as the cost of living forces salary and wage earners to watch expenditures more closely," said Edwin G. Hobbs, State Director of the Treasury Department's Savings Bond Division. "Investors of large amounts, also, still find that U. S. Savings Bonds pay the highest return of any security with anywhere nearly equal safety," he added. "There is no indication at this time that people in New Mexico will save and invest smaller amounts in U. S. Savings Bonds during 1948 than in the last two years," Hobbs concluded.

IN APPRECIATION

I wish to express my thanks to the many friends and customers who have patronized me in Fred's Tensorial Shop.

I have sold the shop and equipment to Mr. Oscar V. Moore, and hope that you will accord him the same patronage that I enjoyed.

I will assist in the operation of the shop for several weeks.

HENRY WEST

Mr. Henry West, a former resident of Carrizozo died suddenly January 2nd, 1948 at his home in Orting, Oregon.

Mr. West had walked to town and was nearing his home on the return trip when he was seized with a heart attack, expiring a few minutes later. The Wests moved from Carrizozo to Oregon about 25 years ago.

Besides his widow, Mr. West is survived by several children who

Methodist Church

Rev. Howard S. Pitts, Pastor "How to Use the Bible" is the subject of Sunday's sermon. How do you use yours? Come Sunday for a few practical suggestions.

The choir will sing, "Rivers of Living Water." The Children's Sermon: "The Story of Isaac and Jacob." The Youth Council, headed by Joy Reil, President, met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Grace Baker to make plans for the weeks ahead. They decided to have their worship services in the church from 7:30 to 8:00 and their recreation program at the Woman's Club from 8:00 to 9:00 each Sunday. Last Sunday's "March of Dimes" party netted $3.70 for the crippled children.

Teachers in the Sunday School are asked to give names to the pastor of candidates for church membership. Plans are now being made for two, perhaps three, classes in church membership, to begin on Sunday February 15. Adults and probably, young people will meet on Sunday afternoons, while children will meet on a weekday. The classes will continue for six weeks. They will all come into the church on Easter Sunday.

On behalf of the major Protestant churches in the U. S., Church World Service has found homes and work for 1200 displaced persons of Europe whom the Nazis had persecuted. Many church people feel that such Christian service is making a greater contribution to world peace than is the militarization of our national life. Universal Military Training is being opposed by most church groups, both "as a gesture of military power in the midst of tensions in international relations" and for "the government assuming responsibility for indoctrination in the matter of citizenship, since it has been the genius of our democracy to rely upon the home, the church, and the school for such training".

A thought for the day: "If ye, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children; how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him."

live in Oregon; by two sisters, Mrs. Bernice Olden and Mrs. Meda C. Haley, both of Carlsbad; by two brothers, Guy of Alamogordo and Joe of Carrizozo.

Funeral and interment services were in Orting where they had resided so many years.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE
LAUNCHES EXPANDED
FARM LABOR PROGRAM

"On January 1, 1948, the Emergency Farm Labor Supply Program, administered by the United States Department of Agriculture during the war was terminated," according to Benjamin D. Luchini, Chairman-Executive Director of the Employment Security Commission. "Responsibility for recruitment and placement of farm labor in New Mexico was returned to the New Mexico State Employment Service, which has twentyfive local employment offices and covers some fifty-two additional communities on itinerant service. The New Mexico State Employment Service, which is under the jurisdiction of the Employment Security Commission, is headed by Max R. Salazar.

"The return of the Farm Placement Program to State operation will benefit users of both agricultural and non-agricultural labor as the local employment offices are the central point in each community to which applicants for all types of jobs go for employment. "Local Office Managers are now consulting with farmers to determine the amount of farm labor needed to meet next year's production goals. With the assistance of farm organizations, the Employment Service is developing programs for augmenting local labor, where necessary, through recruitment of other types of workers in the immediate area and through facilitating the movement of migratory workers," Mr. Luchini said.

To obtain the collective counsel of farm leaders, Farm Advisory Councils, composed of representatives of farm organizations, processors, and other groups, will be established on a State and Local Office Level. These Councils will assist in attaining maximum recruitment and utilization of our agricultural labor resources.

The Alamogordo Local Office is working in close cooperation with the program as outlined by Mr. Luchini. Any employer in need of agricultural workers and any farm workers in need of a job are urged to contact the Employment Service representative who comes to Carrizozo. This worker is located in the Court house between 10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. on Friday.
