Judge Andrew H. Hudspeth

Succumbs Tuesday In California

Judge Andrew H. Hudspeth, 73 passed away in the Huntington Memorial hospital at Pasadena, California at 9:45 Tuesday evening March 9, 1948. His death came as a great shock to his friends, although it had been known he could not recover, and his death had been expected for several weeks. Judge Hudspeth practiced his profession until the very day before he left for California to enter the hospital. He had led a very busy life and had held many important offices in the State.

He was born October 23, 1874 in Fannin county, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hudspeth. He attended the Greenville, Texas high school; also was a graduate of the Greenville business college in 1890. He studied law at the Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tennessee. He was admitted to the practice of law at Greenville in 1894. He came to New Mexico in 1895 locating in Lincoln County, and was employed as secretary of the Angus V V ranch Company from 1897 until 1902. In 1902 he moved to White Oaks and formed a law partnership with Judge John Y. Hewitt, which continued until Judge Hewitt's death in 1933. He represented his district in the Territorial legislature in 1907. He was delegate to the Democratic National convention once and was a delegate to the constitutional convention in 1910. At one time he was chairman of the Democratic state committee.

He was appointed United States Marshal with headquarters in Santa Fe. He was appointed to the State Supreme Court bench in 1930 and served for nine years, the last two years as chief justice. He was again appointed to serve the unexpired term of Judge Thomas J. Mabry who resigned in 1946 to run for governor.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and served the order as Grand Tribune.

Long a prominent lawyer in the state he was interested in civic and business affairs and any thing for the public good.

Stricken about ten years ago he had undergone treatment and operations at Mayo Brothers, at a hospital in Virginia and at several other well known hospitals, all of which seemed to help his state of health for short periods of time.

He achieved success in his chosen profession and was a valued citizen. Judge Hudspeth will be missed, not only in his home county but all over the state. He gave active and devoted service to the improvement of his home county as long as his health would permit. The general regrets expressed reflect the usefulness of his life, achieved by outstanding leadership and executive ability.

Judge Hudspeth was never married. His survivors are a sister, Mrs. J. O. Simpson of Greenville, Texas; two brothers, Oscar of Dallas, Texas and George of Los Angeles; also several nieces and nephews and some devoted friends.

He had wanted to come back to Carrizozo before death claimed him. When it became known he would not be able to return, Miss Grace Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Ray Sale left at once for California.

Remains were cremated at Los Angeles and ashes are to be interred in his beloved Lincoln County.

FORD NEWS

(By Cliff Zumwalt, Vice-President Lincoln County Motors, Inc.)

Last week we received the first definite word in five years or the quota of cars and trucks that Mr. Ford will send into Carrizozo during future months. We're really pleased at this kind of consideration. Our quota is increased more than 100%.

So, we're sending letters this week to all of the Lincoln County people who had placed orders with the old Carrizozo Auto Co., suggesting that they re-register, if they still want Fords, so that we may arrange a definite delivery schedule.

Some of these prospective buyers may have moved away, changed their minds, or even paid a $500 premium to get delivery of some other make of new car. We want our list culled down to folks who really want Fords, now. Full details are in our letters.

Needless to say, they will get their new Fords at naked list price, paying not one red cent for immediate delivery.

The first piece of our new shop equipment arrived last week. It is a stroboscopic instrument for testing distributors, speedometers, and other parts. This gadget will enable us to save much time in analyzing trouble, and of course, in that way will save money for our customers. That's our objective you know - to provide Carrizozo Ford owners with the most modern time saving, money-saving shop equipment for swift low cost service.

It will take time, and some heavy coin, to get this set-up complete but we're going as fast as possible.

C. E. ("Skip") May, who was associated with Roy Shafer in the former Carrizozo Ford dealership, is going to embark upon some other business career. His interest has been acquired by the stockholders of our present company. "Skip" leaves with the best wishes and full respect of his associates here and it is our hope that he will remain a resident of the community where he has won so many friends.

Chet Foust, our president who is furnishing some fresh money to improve the Ford set-up here, has been with us the past 10 days in connection with plans for our new plant. Up to press time, all bids obtained had been regarded as excessive by the directors of our company. Chet is going back to Chicago to have the architects make certain revisions and is expected back next month with his household goods to stay as a permanent resident.

We have a new regional manager for this Ford area. He is Mr. Van Horn of the Denver Ford office who succeeds Mr. Thompson. Mr. Thompson has been re-assigned to a northern area. Mr. Van Horn has promised us a visit in the near future at which time we hope for the privilege of introducing him to local business leaders.

The Personal Witness
Lesson for March 7, 1948

DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER, described by Hermann Hagedorn as "Prophet in the Wilderness," is a living example of what Sunday's lesson is undertaking to portray, namely, living for Jesus where you are. Schweitzer, at 72, is described by Hagedorn as one who "burns like Francis of Assisi, and looks like Josef Stalin."

NANCY

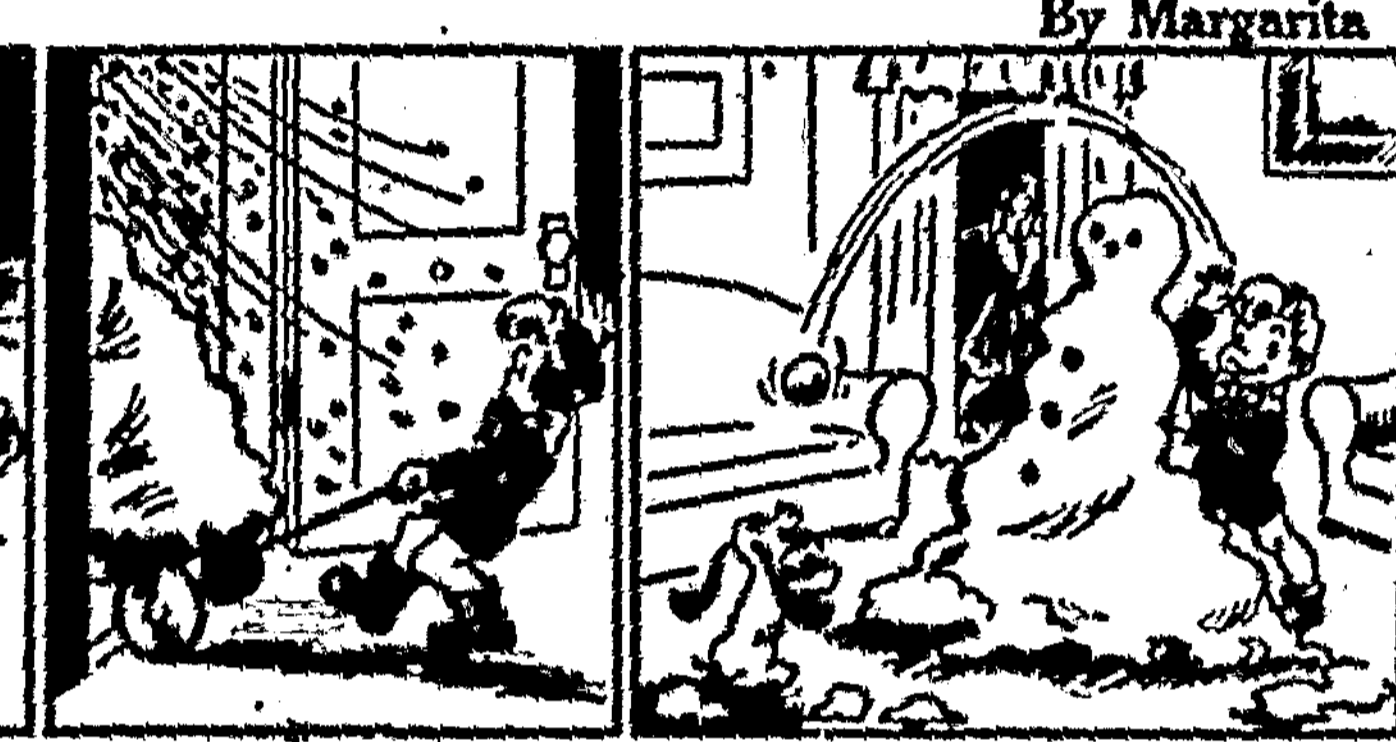

BOBBY SOX

like our Saviour Jesus did. The lesson passage is found in Acts 8:26-39, and is the story of Philip, leaving his very successful evangelistic campaign in Samaria to follow the lead of the Holy Spirit into the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert. There he found a man in search of God, and through his witness the man was saved.

LITTLE REGGIE

BOBBY SOX

THE STORY OF JESUS
THIS man was not of Philip's race. He was an Ethiopian. But he was a man. And God loves every man of every race and of every condition of life. Jesus never did meet an unimportant person, nor will any true follower of his. Jesus said, "As the Father has sent Me, even so send I you," John 20:21.

MUTT AND JEFF

BOBBY SOX

AND THE MAN LISTENED
WHEN we faithfully obey the Holy Spirit, he enables us to effectively witness for Jesus. We cannot be effective witnesses if we rely upon our own wisdom and our own judgment. The boy in your street who does not know Jesus will listen to your story if you go in the same glad obedience to the command of the Spirit of God as did Philip.

JITTER

TO WHOM SHALL WE WITNESS?
THE question now emerges, To whom shall we bear this witness? We cannot all go as missionaries, as did Dr. Schweitzer. Most of us must remain at home and carry on the work of our everyday pursuits of life.

REG'LAR FELLERS

BOBBY SOX

But every Christian can witness. First, to those immediately about us, in every community in our beloved country are people who do not know Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord. We can witness to them, not to all of them, but to some of them, perhaps to one of them. And I would remind you that if you miss that particular person to whom you may be directed by the Holy Spirit, he or she may never know about the Saviour's love.

VIRGIL

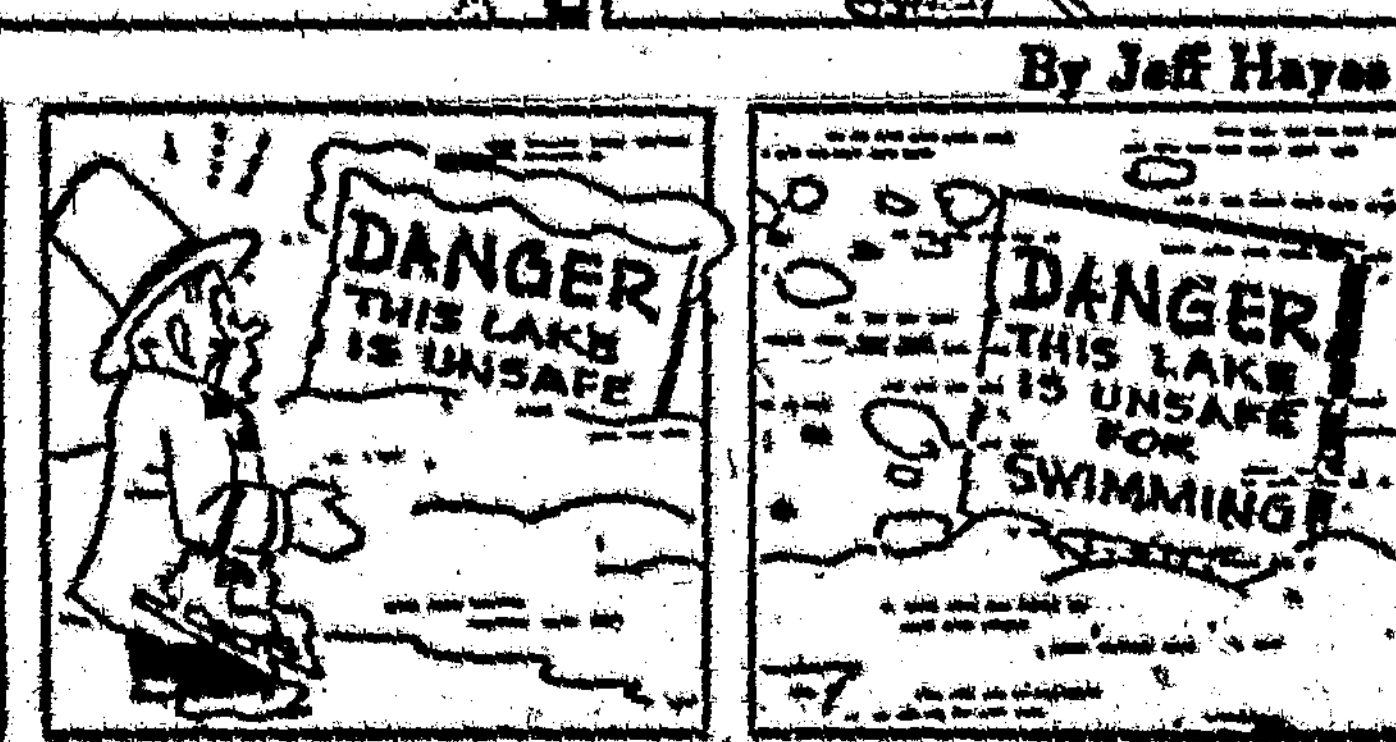

BOBBY SOX

Second, we can share in the sending of the missionaries to earth's remotest bounds, through our gifts. I delight to think that I am in partnership with many great men and women on foreign fields, through my gifts and through my prayers.

SILENT SAM

BOBBY SOX

Third, we can witness through personal correspondence with people in other lands. The present far-reaching media of relief for stricken peoples of the world affords a wonderful opportunity for this very witness. Ask your pastor for the names of some person your age in one of the lands to which your church is sending relief, and write that person a letter, telling of your joy in serving God.

That Nagging Backache May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action Modern life with its hurry and worry, frequent bathing, increased eating and drinking—its lack of exposure and infection—brings heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become overworked and to filter toxins and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

BACKWARD GLANCES

FORTY YEARS AGO FROM 1908 CAPITAN NEWS

One night recently, Mr. Walton, foreman at the Wallis camp, at Watson's lake near Nogal, was awakened from his slumbers by a report, thought, at the time to be that of a pistol. He arose, looked around and seeing no one, went back to bed. In a day or two he discovered that a number of sticks of dynamite had been buried beneath his cot, with fuse attached properly capped. Upon a closer examination it was discovered that the fuse was burnt out and the cap exploded; but as the dynamite was frozen it failed to explode. The supposition is that some one who holds a grudge against the foreman resorted to this plan "to get even," as it is sometimes termed. As yet there is no clue to the perpetrator.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"That's Why It's Gone!"

Pete Swanson was bewailing the 'good old days' in Sam Hackney's general store the other day.

"I even miss the old spittoon, now that it's gone," says Pete; and Sam replied: "You always missed it, that's why it's gone!"

Which, in a sense, is how Sam runs his store. He keeps it homey and comfortable, but he has his standards! And a privilege abused is a privilege removed.

That's how it is with all well-operated businesses... like taverns selling beer, for instance. If any of them abuse the privilege—by failing to maintain clean, orderly surroundings—the brewers take action to correct the fault or report it to the authorities.

It's what the brewers call their "Self Regulation" program—and from where I sit, it's the reason that taverns selling beer today are clean, and orderly, and home-like—proud of their privilege, and meaning to be worthy of it!

"Good" Grass Isn't Good Enough!

The output of our grasslands can be doubled!"

Top experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will tell you that. So will many a far-sighted rancher and farmer out of his actual experience. So will students and teachers of land management everywhere... In that bright possibility of range and pasture improvement lies one principal hope for more food for a hungry world. Not only more food, but better food. For proper grassland management will improve the fertility of the land, and the nutritive value of the foods coming off it. It will save the land, too, protecting the precious layer of topsoil from blowing away or washing off to sea. And it will increase the amount and value of hay for cash-crop or winter feeding.

The way is wide open for you to improve your grass. Strong and willing allies stand ready to help you. For advice and active help in planning your own grass-management program, there's your County Agent... For technical, practical help in putting your program into operation, call on the Soil Conservation Service technician who lives in your district... And for information on newest experimental developments, call on your State Agricultural College or experiment station.

The program of good management for your grassland which you work out together will probably consist of some—or perhaps all—of the following practices. If you're in the range country: (1) Livestock numbers balanced to the amount of grass you can produce. (2) A rotation schedule of seasonal grazing. (3) Water located conveniently. (4) Elimination of excessive brush. (5) Wider distribution of salt to prevent overgrazing near salt sources. (6) Re-seeding of over-used or abandoned range. (7) Introduction of improved native grasses and adapted new grasses. (8) Irrigation. (9) Protection against wind and water erosion. If yours is farm pasture land: (1) Liming. (2) Fertilization. (3) Seeding with pasture mixtures which stretch the grazing season at both ends. (4) Weed control by mowing or chemicals. (5) Rotation grazing. (6) Avoidance of overgrazing. (7) Irrigation.

We of Swift & Company have the same deep, basic interest that you have in range and pasture improvement. More and better grass is to our interest as it is to yours—and to the nation's. That's why we urge you to act, if you have not already done so, to increase the productiveness of our grasslands.

"Pitted" Pastures Produce More Grass

As reported by A. L. Nelson, Robert Lang and Oscar Barnes of Wyoming Archer Field Experiment Station

"Pitting" pastures has stepped up grazing capacity of range land by as much as one-third, according to the Archer Field Station in southwestern Wyoming. "Pitting" is a simple mechanical treatment. It can be done with a one-way Wheatland plow with alternate eccentric disks. These eccentric disks leave a waffle-like surface with pits about 16 inches apart. The pits trap water, help produce more grass.

The eccentric disks are 2 inches larger than the others, with the gang bolt hole 2 inches off center. In mounting the eccentrics, you start from the rear and replace every other disk with an eccentric. Mount the first eccentric with the long side up, the second with the long side to the rear, the third with the long side down, and the fourth with the long side to the front. Continue in the same rotation until all disks are mounted.

Best time to pit is early spring, before much plant growth has started. The cost runs from 50 cents to a dollar an acre.

"Weigh 'em to Swift!"

The pen gate opens and cattle crowd into the alley, headed for the scales. A cry rings out: "Weigh 'em to Swift!"

Another lot of livestock has been sold to Swift & Company. That deal is a miniature of the business relationship between livestock producers and meat packers. When this lot of steers was "finished," the producer sent them to the stockyards, consigned to a commission firm. In the "yards" livestock buyers came to look and make their competitive bids. Competition is always keen because 25,000 meat packers and other commercial slaughterers in the United States are active in livestock buying. Each buyer knows that unless he bids "the going price" for the animals he wants, some competitor will get them. Also, he knows that if he bids too high his company will take a loss.

That competition and the law of supply and demand set the prices all along the line. This load of steers went to Swift & Company because the Swift buyer offered more than other buyers. And the price he paid was based on his estimate of what the meat, hides, glands and other by-products would be worth to Swift & Company.

Profit Comes from SAVING!

The story at the head of this page is about farmers and ranchers making the most of their grasslands. By good planning, managing well, and operating efficiently, they can grow more grass, produce more food for the world, and make more money. While writing that story, I was struck by a similarity in the Swift business. For it is careful planning and efficient operation that keep us in business, too. Like you with your grassland, we've got to make the most of what we have. We've got to practice efficiency. We, also, must cut costs, operate with economy. Not only the important economy of finding uses and markets for every possible by-product, but economy and efficiency all along the line.

Maybe you saw Swift's recent financial report for 1947. It showed that we earned $22,334,977 after provision of $12,000,000 for high cost additions to fixed assets. This earning represented one cent out of our average dollar of sales. That one cent was earned in large part by the savings we made. The operating figures of our business prove that statement. They show where the savings came from. New methods of doing things which save time and cost. Modern equipment replacing old, worn equipment. Better ways discovered by Swift research to produce, use and handle Swift products. A small saving here... another there... little economies pyramiding into big economies. Until, added together, the savings which we made last year in the actual day-by-day operation of the Swift business amounted to a considerable part of our earnings.

Careful planning, good management and efficient operation are "musts" in our business as in yours. "Little things" can often add up to the difference between a profit and a loss.

VETERAN NEWS

The living veteran population increased from 17,889,000 to 18,624,000 during 1947, according to an analysis of the Veterans Administration. The number of living World War II veterans rose from 13,928,000 to 14,745,000, while the number of living veterans of prior wars was reduced by about 62,000 deaths to 3,879,000. VA expects the total veteran population will continue to increase in the next few years with the number of discharges of World War II participants from the armed forces exceeding out-of-service deaths and reenlistments from civil life.

More than 120 of the nation's top ranking musicians have signified their desire to appear at VA hospitals during their cross-country tours. To date, approximately 60 artists have appeared in 40 concerts at different VA hospitals.

Over 2,500,000 veterans were taking GI Bill training in schools, colleges, universities and in on-the-job training establishments by the end of 1947. Of the total, a record number of 2,014,821 were enrolled in educational institutions. Nearly 256,000 disabled veterans were enrolled in all types of training—institutional and on-the-job—under Public Law 16. About 147,000 of these were in schools, colleges and universities, and the remaining 108,700 were training on-the-job.

Nearly 6,000 veterans were enrolled in foreign schools, colleges and universities under the GI Bill by the end of 1947, VA reports. They were studying in 44 foreign countries in all parts of the world. Nearly 900 were in Canadian educational institutions; 635 in France; 356 in Great Britain; 116 in Italy; 461 in Mexico; and 427 in Switzerland.

Veterans Administration predicts that in the year 2000, more than 3,400,000 World War II veterans will be alive. Their average age will be nearly 70 years.

Seers Silent on Commodity Trend

Myth of Current Price Dip: 'Truman Planned It That Way'

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WASHINGTON.—It is still open season for economists, financial experts and market wizards. It took about a week after the first drop on the commodity market to send them into their holes. Up to that time, you could get a prognostication anywhere from the Chicago stockyards to Broad and Wall streets or Pennsylvania avenue and 15th street.

But along about the sixth day of the dip, anybody who would tell you whether we were facing a permanent nose-dive or just weathering the flutter of a few yards of ticker tape was as rare as a vote against tax-reduction (that issue, itself, had changed after the sixth dip).

The reason no expert would talk was that all of them had been making wrong predictions ever since Coolidge's permanent plateau of prosperity of pre-depression days or Hoover's corner around which prosperity was always ducking.

The most silent man in Washington was Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. He knew that too many people remembered what he and others had said two years ago last fall. Snyder, at that time reconversion director, had predicted that by the spring of the next year (1946) eight million people would be unemployed. In fact, so many others believed that that Henry Wallace, already dreaming of a home with white pillars on Pennsylvania avenue, decided to make "Sixty Million Jobs" a comethither plank in his platform. He wrote a book with that title and it became a best seller. His book cost a total of $5,500,000 to 67,500,000 civilians employed by 1950.

But somebody must have stolen the idea or else they wanted to play a mean trick on Wallace—and on Snyder—anyhow these were 57,149,000 persons employed in this country as of January, 1948 — two years early, and 10 months before presidential campaign time.

Likewise, in October of 1946, several astute Washington inside-stuff letter writers were saying privately to their thousands of clients, and the AFL monthly survey was saying in public print, that by early 1947 prices would come down. One could say on January of 1947, with considerable accuracy, that there was a general agreement on recession beginning soon and followed by more a little later.

Other writers predicted it a little later, and come, by summer, were insisting that deflation already was here.

But what happened? In the very year of that doleful prophecy, prices started on the upshoot that took them into their all-time high.

Many other similar bad guesses might be mentioned, all of which contributed toward making the prophets reticent, and so when the slide came in February of this year, nobody would even whisper "fox" for fear that not even a kit would appear. They knew that nobody would believe them after all the without-the-work-woulding that had been going on.

In any case, this dip, drop, depression or delusion, whichever it turns out to be by the time these lines reach print, or later, will have its garland of myths and legends entwined about it.

The best myth, of course, is that Mr. Truman "planned it that way."

The blueprint is simple enough if you are good at reading a blueprint between the lines. Prices were getting too high. At worst, they might bring on a real depression before election; at best, they would bring a series of strikes and work stoppages which might seriously hamper the Marshall plan on the one hand, and add to the discontent of the voters on the other. It would be like any operation, not dangerous from the surgeon's point of view. Just a little amputation of credit, at least so said doctors who work on the body economic, which would let enough blood out of some businesses to cause a little unemployment. Enough to scare off strikes and make businessmen a little more cautious about expansion.

There was some evidence that this may really have been intended because the President did ask in his November 17 message to congress for credit controls and increased bank reserves. However, when congress said "humph" to that along with the President's other recommendations, he turned around and demoted the man who is said to have written the deflation prescription from the chairmanship of the Federal reserve board (Marriner Eccles), and put in a man supposed to have more sympathy with an opposite course.

However we mustn't spell a good story by facts. There are other points which can be introduced to give a touch of verisimilitude to an otherwise not-too-convincing narrative. The soothsayers say that several methods were pursued, some of them successfully. For example, the President slam-banged at what he called the "gamblers" in commodities who were driving up food prices by speculating in grain and other futures.

That did open a Pandora's box, and some of the plagues released alighted on the very rootless of the White House. But it also threw a scare into the marketeers and the markets.

Then came the day of a White House press and radio conference when the President made a remark—credited at the time by some of his friends as an unhappy slip—when he said that if the cost of living was not controlled, there would be a crash. That got headlines, frightened a lot of little fellows who pulled out their chips and, combining with other evil Jinns released from the economists' Jinn bottles, did the trick.

There are many others of these tales which will grow, such as the creating of sun-spots by the administration's atomic-energy experts. But one is enough for the moment.

Anyhow "it was planned that way!"

Taft-Hartley Issue

Loosing Its Potency
There has been a lot of noise over the Taft-Hartley act lately, and on the surface it looks as if the law might become an issue in the presidential campaign. If that should happen, it certainly would help the prestige of Senator Taft. But the old-timers say it can't happen.

As you know, last autumn, right after the act went into effect, a lot of people felt its provisions would decide the votes in the by-elections. But those elections came and went, and it was hard to adduce any statistics to prove that T-H had figured very much, if at all.

Later on, animosity against the law died down. But now both the CIO and AFL have announced their preliminary plans for campaigning against the men who voted for it; Taft has used it in his campaign speeches in Midwest centers where labor is strong; Philip Murray was indicted under its provisions, and both Murray, representing the CIO, and the International Typographers' union have charged it is unconstitutional. But the issue still fails to command any real dramatic interest.

This is another proof of how a controversial issue that calls forth bitter debate and stirs up nationwide interest at the moment, can fade into the background as time passes, and by election day have little or no effect on votes.

It is much like a fire that makes Page 1 because it breaks out just as an edition of an afternoon paper is going to press. It may get a banner on Page 1 if the news is light, but by the next edition, it may have shrunk to a single head on an inside page. Recency expands the importance of all events. You may recollect excitedly at dinner how you almost got hit by a truck on the way to work. But by tomorrow night, you'll be telling with much more gusto about a fish you caught last summer.

The City of Washington always quails before a real snowstorm like a pup with the hose turned on it.

Aid for China Asked; Senate OKs Budget Cut

Although it was obvious that his heart wasn't in it, President Truman presented congress with a request for 570 million dollars to be sent to China as a prop for the founding economy of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government.

White House and state department sources admitted that the request was something less than a half-measure and claimed that the President had acted under pressure from the Republican congress which has insisted that the U. S. must support Chiang against the Communist revolution in connection with the European recovery plan.

At best the 570 million dollars is a token gesture—just a chip in relation to the vast amount of timber that would be needed to restore the rotting derelict of Chiang's government.

Theory behind this latest extension of aid, which will be used to finance Chinese imports of cereals, petroleum, coal, fertilizer and so forth, is that the money will enable Chiang's government to free other resources for purchase of arms and ammunition to continue the fight against the Communist guerrillas.

But that is more of an idle hope than a valid theory, because the government forces, despite their American arms and equipment, are being beaten consistently by the Communists.

BUDGET CUT: Indifferent

With little discussion and a good deal of outright indifference, the senate adopted a resolution to cut President Truman's fiscal 1949 budget by 2.5 billion dollars.

How much significance the senate resolution would have in the final analysis was questionable, in view of prevailing uncertainties which might affect both sides of the ledger.

The 2.5-billion-dollar reduction would leave an estimated 10 billion dollars for tax cuts and debt reduction. Republicans, therefore, were feeling increasingly confident that an income tax slash of up to 5 billion dollars could be enacted.

Brevity of the senate discussion and its lack of apologetic oratory was in direct contrast to last year's strident contest over the budget committee's recommendation of a 6-billion-dollar cut in the 1948 budget.

Democrats made no effort to block the proposed spending slash which had been recommended by the house-senate budget committee. It still requires house adoption.

Biggest bug in the senate's budget recommendation was the fact that it probably embodied a number of inaccurate estimates. Republican sponsors of the measure admitted that accurate estimates of budget needs were impossible at the time.

Sen. Styles Bridges (Rep., N. H.), chairman of the budget committee, compared the estimates with "a pre-game guess at the final score." But Sen. Alben Barkley (Dem., Ky.) called the procedure "a step in the dark."

IRELAND: New Premier

Even to members of the Eire assembly who had helped defeat him it was strange to see Eamon De Valera, premier of Ireland for 16 years, sitting quietly on the opposite side of the house as leader of the opposition.

In his place as premier was John A. Costello, former attorney general, whom the assembly had voted into office after a new six-party coalition had taken control of the legislative group as a result of the previous elections.

Costello, in a dignified speech to the assembly, explained his sudden emergence as premier of Ireland: "I consented to this nomination at the request of a number of parties who felt that the interest of the country required that there should be an inter-party government and that the premier of that government should occupy a position in political life detached from the controversial bitterness of the past."

The "inter-party government" whose choice Costello was is compounded of six political parties of apparently divergent ideals: Republican, United Ireland, Labor, National Labor, Independent and Farmers.

Just how long a government made up of so many diverse components would last was the subject of much speculation in Ireland. In their present cooperative mood the parties of the coalition may carry on for a year or two, but few were prepared to give the government a much longer span of life.

CAT FEET: First a Dream

Like the dog that "comes on little cat feet," Carl Sandburg, honored and honorable free-verse poet and voluminous biographer of Lincoln, was in Illinois.

A hitherto almost imperceptible drive supporting Sandburg as a possible candidate for senator picked up considerable impetus with the release of a public opinion poll indicating that he might become a popular choice over the Democratic candidate, Paul H. Douglas, and the Republican candidate, Sen. C. Wayland Brooks.

As far as the question of how a poet can turn into a politician is concerned, those favoring him say he is a "good man," he understands the common people and is educated and well-informed about the country's needs. The opposition claims he is politically inexperienced and, since he is a writer, is an impractical dreamer and an idealist.

But Sandburg, the poet, once wrote: "The republic is a dream. Nothing happens unless first a dream."

SCIENCE IN SURGERY

Complicated Device Photographs Perfect Camera—The Human Eye

Most people understand how the X-ray is used by the medical profession, and many have heard that photography is being used in the medical field. However, it is difficult for the average person to visualize just how photography can be used to advantage in medicine.

A visit to the New York Eye and Ear infirmary, the oldest specialized hospital in the western hemisphere, where people from all walks of life have been treated for more than a century in its numerous eye, ear, nose and throat clinics demonstrates the value of the technique. This hospital is staffed by the great and near-great in the fields of ophthalmology and otolaryngology. Surgeons with Park avenue practices come daily to diagnose and treat the 35,000 people who pass through its clinics each year.

Here medical photography has become a recognized and established service in the treatment of many eye diseases.

Explains Techniques. This department was organized and is run by Mary R. Brown, one of the few women in this country who specialize in the field of ophthalmic photography. She is a pretty, quiet woman whose own eye is just completing his medical education. Mrs. Brown explained some of the scientific techniques she uses daily in her diagnostic research and medical record work for surgeons at the New York Eye and Ear infirmary.

In addition to the small and delicate cameras that photograph the outer sections of the eye, there is the Fundus camera used for photographing the retina of the eye—the area deep within the eye itself. This complicated camera uses the lens of the patient's eye as part of its optical system and the resulting pictures are in color. They have great diagnostic value; the surgeon's decision depends many times on these true-to-life photographs.

Mrs. Brown relates that, "Only recently, a young lad who had his eye hurt playing basketball was brought into the hospital. A growth had formed on the retina and retinal pictures were ordered. These were airmailed to a famous eye specialist in England to corroborate our own surgeon's diagnosis. With nothing but these colored slides, magnified and thrown on a screen, he recommended preserving the eye, as our own men did. In time, the growth went away, just as the specialist said it would, and today this boy has his sight."

Recalls War Case. "Back in November 1945," Mrs. Brown recalls, "a young G.I. bride, HAVEN FOR AFFLICTED . . . The New York Eye and Ear infirmary, where Mrs. Brown helps guide surgeons' hands and scalpel with her photographic technique, is the oldest hospital of its kind in the western hemisphere. Founded in 1829, it ranks as the third oldest hospital in the City of New York.

Oklahoma Boasts Self-Supporting Capitol

OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.—One of Oklahoma's proudest boasts is that it has probably the only self-supporting state capitol in the world, one that even pays a bonus now and then. While other states have to settle for the oratory, Oklahoma finds its coffers enriched by black gold. In the 13 years since the oil wells were drilled on the capitol grounds by order of E. W. Marland, former governor, the state has profited to the extent of $9,619,945. The wells were drilled over bitter protests from residents of the swank Lincoln Terrace neighborhood nearby. Drilling oil wells is about the messiest job ever, they contended, besides representing a fire hazard. They quoted a city zoning ordinance to show Marland couldn't do it. The governor said he'd like to see someone stop him.

No Track or Train—But Railroad Pays Regular Dividends

ADRIAN, MICH. — Although it hasn't operated a train or collected a fare for nearly a century, the Erie and Kalamazoo railroad again is making its semi-annual payment to stockholders.

Now forgotten by all except historians and its fourth and fifth generation stockholders, the Erie and Kalamazoo ranked as the oldest railroad west of Schenectady, N. Y.

Although the railroad has long been unoperative, it derives a regular income from lease of its original right-of-way to the New York Central railroad. The present dividend amounts to $9,000 after deductions for taxes and expenses. Last year the E. and K. paid $19,500 in dividends. Incorporated by the Michigan territorial legislature on April 22, 1833, the E. and K. was capitalized for $1,000,000 but only $300,000 in stock was issued.

It originally was authorized to operate between Lake Erie and "the navigable waters of the Kalamazoo river," but it was destined to run only between Fort Lawrence (now Toledo, Ohio, but then part of Michigan) and Adrian, a distance of 36 miles.

By 1836 track had been laid from Fort Lawrence to Adrian and the first horse-drawn train clattered over the wooden rails in October.

Healthful Breakfast Will Appeal to Family If Menus Are Varied

All those in favor of bacon and eggs have the right idea for there's no denying the importance of a substantial breakfast. In addition to bacon and eggs, the pattern should include fruit or fruit juice, toast, butter and a beverage.

You can't expect a first-class health rating if you skip breakfast frequently. And you can't do your best work, be you business man, farmer, housewife, career girl or school child, if mid-morning hunger pains bother you.

The remedy? A well-rounded breakfast that gives you foods essential for health.

You say you can't eat breakfast? Nonsense. Of course, if you're one of those skip-breakfast people, it may take you a little time to get used to eating it, but little by little you can do it and really like it. It's worth it, if you feel better and can work better, isn't it?

Afraid of gaining weight, you say? No, not if breakfast includes a citrus fruit, soft boiled or poached egg, dry toast and coffee or tea without cream or sugar. You won't have nearly as hard a time resisting the snacks which put on weight if you're fortified with a nicely balanced breakfast.

We have variety in lunches and dinners, why not plan to have it in breakfasts? It will make them ever so much more interesting.

Prepare eggs in several different styles, scrambled, poached, soft boiled, coddled, fried, baked or creamed. Have interesting breads and spreads.

Don't forget that meats add variety, too. Try sliced or frizzled ham as well as bacon, sausage, Canadian bacon or dried beef.

Then, too, you can find interesting variations for pancakes and waffles. Why not this:

Bran Griddle Cakes. (Makes 15 cakes, 3 1/2 inches in diameter)

- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 1/4 cups milk
- 3 cups sifted flour
- 2 tablespoons baking powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup melted shortening
- 1/2 cup bran

Beat eggs and sugar until light and fluffy. Add milk and mix well. Sift flour with baking powder and salt; add to first mixture, stirring until flour disappears. Add shortening. Fold in bran. Bake on a hot griddle, turning only once.

You'll find that Dutch pancakes will do a nice filling job during breakfast, as well as contributing the valuable protein of eggs for this meal.

Dutch Pancakes. (Serves 4):

- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons soft butter
- Confectioners' sugar
- Jam

Beat eggs thoroughly. Sift flour and salt together and add to eggs alternately with milk to make a smooth batter. Spread butter over bottom and sides of cold frying pan. Pour in batter and place in a hot (400 degree) oven. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, reducing heat gradually to moderate (350 degrees) during the baking. Pancakes should puff up at the sides.

Remember These Facts About Yeast Breads

Rising time on bread or rolls usually follows this pattern: Dough made with one cake of yeast and two cups of liquid will take three hours to rise. Each subsequent rising takes less time.

Rising may be hastened by using more yeast. However, not more than two cakes of yeast should be used in the average recipe for fear of giving too much yeast flavor.

and be crisp and brown. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and spread with jam. Roll like an omelet and serve immediately from a hot platter.

Eggs and Pork Sausage. (Serves 6)
1/2 pound bulk pork sausage
3 cups dry cubed bread
6 eggs, beaten
6 tablespoons milk
1/2 cup grated cheese
Saute sausage in skillet until well browned. Pour off most of the fat, then add bread cubes and brown. Combine eggs, milk and cheese and add to sausage mixture. Cook like scrambled eggs. Serve at once.

Shirred Eggs and Sausages. (Serves 6)
6 link sausages
1 cup catsup
6 eggs

Cut sausages into one-inch pieces and brown lightly. Place in a shallow baking dish and cover with catsup. Break eggs over catsup and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Coffee Rolls.
2 cups milk
1 cup sour cream
1/4 cup shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
4 beaten eggs
2 cakes yeast
1/2 cup warm water
1 1/2 cups flour

Scald milk and cream. Add shortening, salt and sugar, then cool. Add the eggs and the yeast which has been softened in lukewarm water. Add the flour to make a stiff dough. Blend well. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down. Cover the bottom of large muffin tins with 1/2-inch thick pieces of dough. Cover with filling and place another piece of dough on top. This may be baked as a coffee loaf in the same manner, covering the bottom of a loaf tin with dough, putting on the filling and covering with another piece of dough. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake rolls in a hot oven 25 minutes. For bread, use a hot oven for 10 minutes, then reduce to moderate for 40 minutes.

Hardly anyone can resist piping hot pancakes with butter and syrup for breakfast. For those with substantial appetites and large calorie needs, serve pancakes often. Or, use them to add variety to the breakfast pattern.

Filling.
1 cup cooked, chopped prunes
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup raisins
Mix together thoroughly. The sour cream coffee dough will make three loaves of bread and several dozen rolls.

Banana Sour Cream Bread. (Makes 1 large loaf)
1/2 cup thick sour cream
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 cups mashed banana
1 cup bran
1 1/2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda

Blend the first four ingredients. Add, sifted together, the dry ingredients. Place in a greased loaf pan and let stand 20 minutes. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven for about one hour. Make this the day before, and toast for breakfast. It's delicious.

Sugar is yeast food and it also gives flavor to bread. Too large amounts retard the yeast growth.

Sour, heavy bread is caused by too high temperature during the rising time.

Crisp crusts on bread are made by brushing the top with slightly beaten egg white 10 minutes before the baking. This also will give a browner crust.

Soft crusts can be achieved by brushing with melted fat just before baking.

HONDO VETERAN ATTENDING SCHOOL FOR FARM TRAINING

Under the direction of Mr. Leo Joiner of Hondo a group of twenty war veterans are attending school in a deserted school building in the Hondo Valley. The Veterans Administration in collaboration with the State Board of Agricultural Education, has instituted a farm training program for the benefit of veterans who are unable to leave home for their training.

According to Mr. Joiner the class is limited to twenty members, for and the trainees receive full benefits of the subsistence paid to veterans by the government but to be eligible the requirements of 200 hours of classroom off-the-farm work and 100 hours of on-the-farm work must be met.

There are moving pictures and other visual aids that keep the interest up. Experiments have been with insecticide to control the European red mite and the codling moth.

There are "social nights" on which wives and families attend.
