should be plotted on a map to the scale 1"-200' and a contour interval of 2'. Upon receipt of this map this office will prepare a master layout which will determine whether or not it is financially feasible to construct an airport on this site.

From our observation in the field it appears to me that this site is definitely a favorable one both in its location and its possibility for development.

From my conversation with you, I believe that it is the city's desire to establish a better public landing area than you now have and this as soon as it can be accomplished. I, therefore, recommend that you engage an Engineer to make the suggested survey as soon as possible so that we may initiate an airport development at Carrizozo this fiscal year. If you have any questions concerning such a project in this preliminary stage please do not hesitate to call upon us. With a little notice an airport engineer can be sent to Carrizozo to lend assistance. However the actual preparation of maps must be done by an outside engineering organization since this office does not have the personnel to do such work.

You will remember that during our site inspection we drove across the site in the prevailing wind direction. The south end of a strip in this direction intersected U. S. Highway 54 just north of a few farm structures on the west side of the highway and headed north through the water tank adjacent to the abandoned house. We were able to travel 4200 feet along the proposed center line of this strip before the north end dropped off into a shallow draw. This length is sufficient for Carrizozo's present needs and can be extended some time in the future if necessary with a fill of approximately four feet. The other possible site is a ENE/WSW which heads into your strong winds blowing through the gap in the mountains. The grade on this strip is in this case is satisfactory. A contour map is the evidence which this office needs to substantiate observations made during the site inspection and to permit this office to have something on record which would justify final approval.

With perhaps $10,000 of the $18,000 which the City of Carrizozo could raise, based on its present appraised valuation, there can be constructed in my opinion a completely satisfactory Class I airport which can be extended to a Class 3.

Yours very sincerely

E. C. Metz District Airport Engineer

PAMPHLET ON SMALL BUSINESS AND LICENSES RELEASED BY COMMERCE DEPARTMENT

Government licenses and where and how to obtain them present a problem to any person just starting a new business, according to T. U. Purcell, District Manager for the U. S. Department of Commerce in El Paso.

"Most business enterprises require a license of some sort," Mr. Purcell said, "and just which—federal, state, or local—apply to a particular business is not generally known—if the type of inquiries received daily in my offices can be taken as an indication.

Recognizing the need for a handy reference to this type of information, the department of Commerce has just released a pamphlet entitled "Small Business and Government Licenses", which outlines and reviews license requirements of federal, state, and local governments.

The book sets forth the more common Federal licenses required for small businesses, the agencies from which they are obtained, and directions for obtaining them. It includes licenses required from various manufacturers, processors, wholesalers, retailers, importers, carriers, utilities, and service establishments. It also discusses various permits which the small businessman may obtain for the use of Government property and special postal services.

A chapter on state licenses covers both license taxes and regulatory licenses, and gives state requirements for a number of small establishments such as beauty shop, drug stores, contractors and embalmers.

Other chapters deal with local licenses and describe the purpose type and effect of licenses generally.

"Pointing out that licensing controls are subject to frequent revision, the pamphlet emphasizes the importance of checking with the appropriate licensing agency for the latest information", Mr. Purcell said.

It is located upon the highest portion of Medicine mountain. From its elevation of over 12,000 feet, it may be seen for nearly 60 miles. It was mentioned by the first westward Mormon caravan, and the Lewis and Clark expedition reported it as an oddity of nature. It is a giant stone wheel with 28 distinct spokes, evenly spaced, and measures 75 feet in diameter. Its origin is unknown, but it is thought to have been laid down by the aborigines and used in some form of worship.

Approximately two-thirds of all cases of diphtheria occur among school children, according to the Illinois department of public health. For this reason parents are urged to have their school-age children immunized against this disease. For best protection the immunization should be given when the child is six or eight months old, with an added "booster shot" when he enters school. Confining a child to the school room where he comes into close contact with other children increases the hazard of contagious diseases, especially those like diphtheria that affect the lungs. Unless school children are protected against diphtheria, they also may carry it home to their younger brothers and sisters.

SLOW AND CAREFUL
By JOHN SCOTT DOUGLAS

YOU can't make fast moves when handling bees, so a beekeeper learns to be slow and careful. No matter what happens, I remembered that the day I stopped at Oakknoll ranch and found a stranger sitting in the farmhouse kitchen and watching Emmy prepare a fat fryer.

Now I've been in love with Emmy since she was 16. The 10 years that have passed since then have changed her so little that if I were buzzing around looking for something sweet, I'd still pick Emmy. The western sun slanting through the window made a halo of her fair hair and her face was flushed from the hot stove. She waved a floury hand as she popped a drumstick into the sputtering grease.

"Hello, Bill," she said. "I want you to meet Fuller Launson. He's bought the Hall place and is raising horses. Where'd you come from?"

"Sierra foothills," I answered. "I'm taking my bees down to Redlands to pollinate the Farland orchard."

"Bill has a pollinating service," Emmy explained. "Arsenic sprays kill so many bees that orchardists pay him to bring his hives, so the trees will bear fruit."

"I see," Launson said, the wisp of a black mustache over his thin lips barely moving. "I couldn't make up my mind whether he was one of those robber-bees that steal honey from another hive or whether he was a drone that lets the workers support him. He had black eyes and a waspish face. And there was contempt in the way he looked at my swollen hands that might as well have been a stinging need. I can't bother with gloves when I'm handling beehives all the time."

I asked about his horses while Emmy cooked supper, but he seemed to resent my dropping in and wouldn't say much. However he admitted that his old man had plenty of money and thought that since Fuller Launson wasn't much good in his business, he might as well try to raise horses.

Now Emmy has a heart as big as a six-super hive and she's always feeling sorry for queer characters. She never talks much about herself, but she's a good listener. Still, I couldn't figure what she saw in Launson, except that he had a college degree and she thought Launson other things about her. She's been lonely since her folks died, however, so if she found him good company, that was all right with me. A beekeeper learns not to disturb the queen unless he has to.

After supper I had to leave to get hives set up in the fields of the Redlands orchard before sun-up. Launson showed no signs of yawning, so I guessed he planned to visit a while longer with Emmy. But a beekeeper doesn't jump to conclusions. As I say, he learns to be slow and careful.

It was two weeks before I got back to Oakknoll again. Launson sat in the same chair, as if he hadn't moved in all that time. He didn't seem real friendly, and acted bored when I asked about his horses.

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

After supper, Launson said, "there's a good movie in town. Like to go, Emmy?"

She started shaking her head, but I spoke up.

"You go right along. I've been driving nights and working days until I'm too wore out to be fit company for anyone. I'll just catch a few winks on the sofa and push along about 11."

"Oh, Bill," Emmy said anxiously, "do you have to work so hard? You haven't an ounce of flesh!"

"No money'd keep me driving this way," I admitted. "Now that the war's over and we got to help feed the world, we need bigger fruit crops."

weak chin would hurt my swollen hands much. I decided not to try it. "Launson," I said, "I'm putting some hives out under the trees here. If you ain't afraid of bees, I want you to give me a hand."

When I came inside, later to wash up, Emmy was just putting the last steaming dishes on the table.

Well, supper didn't go so well that night. Emmy treated me as she always does, but Launson sulked as bees do on a rainy day when they can't gather pollen.

But the spring pollinating is almost over and soon I can take it easier. "Not here, I hope," Launson said unpleasantly, when Emmy went into the bedroom to get her hat.

I knew then how bees feel when you shake their hive on a cold day, but I was too tired to argue. I was asleep before they drove away and the alarm-clock awakened me before they returned.

It was nearly a month before I could get back. When I drove past the old Hall place, it looked like Launson hadn't given his horses much care. He stepped out of the house after I'd stopped the truck, and spoke as if he owned Oakknoll.

"You back?" "Yep," I said. "Just in time for supper."

"I didn't know Emmy was expecting you," he snapped. I wondered whether Launson's

"Where's Mr. Launson?" she asked.

"Last I saw of him," I said, tucking in my napkin, "he was running toward his house with a veil of bees trailing behind him. He dropped a hive he was carrying and instead of backing away slow and careful like, he began swatting bees. They kind of resented it."

Emmy didn't say anything for a minute. "I'm glad he's gone," she said, and smiled. "I'd have told him things you're away, Bill. What made him drop the hive?"

"I guess something," I said startled. You see, he'd just advised me to move on, saying I'd never get anywhere with you, Emmy."

"The ideal what'd you say to that, Bill?"

"Why, I told him he was crazy—that we'd been married 10 years."

YOU CAN'T RUN AWAY

One of my younger friends, a man in whom I always have had considerable confidence, did something last week that caused my confidence to be shaken. I'll tell you about it.

When the pressure in a job he has held for two or three years became too great, he quit. "I am going to pull stakes and go to another town," he told me. "I just couldn't take it any more."

I say that my confidence was shaken. What I mean is this, that whenever anyone tries to run away from a crisis, a situation, a condition or himself, he's doomed to fail.

Yet every day you see someone who is trying to run away from himself. Psychologists are very much interested in the roads which these runaways take, and one of their first considerations in evaluating a personality which is broken or unhappy is escape.

You probably know that you live every day with a conflict raging inside yourself. Sometimes the conflict is subtler, a quiet sort of guerrilla warfare of the mind. At other times it reaches the battle point. Only rarely is there total peace.

When this conflict becomes too formidable, too threatening, you do the obvious thing—you try to run. That seems to be the thing to do, but often the escape is worse than the conflict—and more lives are damaged by these escape or fight mechanisms than by any one thing.

Maybe you'd like to have me tell you very briefly about the various escape routes that the mind follows when things get too hot.

They are 13. First comes regression, which means to go backward, do childish things. Then comes extroversion—that means to turn to excessive activity to cover up the conflict. The opposite of that is introversion—to think excessively, to dodge real issues.

Rationalization is to indulge in false thinking, while segregation is not to let your right hand know what your left hand is doing.

When you practice repression, you forget unpleasant things; and when you disassociate, you pass the buck. Sometimes you resort to conversion—that means to have a breakdown or illness in place of a conflict. Displacement is to worry over one thing when another is to blame, and projection is to attribute your own faults to others.

Another escape is called identification; that means to form phantasies. When you follow compensation, you verify some particular thing in order to overcome your inadequacies.

The final escape route is the only one which is wholeheartedly recommended. It is called sublimation; that means to turn the effect of the conflict into some useful channel.

Soybeans Provide Protein To Offset High Food Cost

High food costs make it difficult for the homemaker to know how she can get the most for her food dollar. Protein is one of the most essential protective elements in the human diet, say extension service nutritionists.

Foods which contain protein—meats, eggs, milk, cheese—are high in cost, but they must not be left out of the diet. "Cheaper cuts of meat, meat stretchers, egg dishes and cheese dishes will help supply the body's need for protein. Other sources of protein are soybeans, dried beans and peas. These vegetables come nearest to meat, eggs, milk and cheese as body builders. They also contain Vitamin B1 and iron.

For homemakers not familiar with the soybean, this information is offered: "Soybeans contain protein of high quality, similar to animal protein. They can be used in place of meat in the diet. Soybeans are good sources of usable iron and other mineral, such as calcium, phosphorus, as well as an excellent source of vitamins of the B-complex. Fresh, green soybeans are rich in vitamin A. They are high in fat, and sprouted soybeans are a useful source of Vitamin C."

SCRIPTURE: Ezekiel 1-4; 33:1-9. DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalms 137: 1-4.

Prophet Among Exiles

Lesson for April 4, 1948

THIS quarter we study the Captivity and Return of the Jews, using the Books of Ezekiel, Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi. Sunday's lesson is found in Ezekiel 1-4 and 33:1-9.

It would be well for us to read again the history of this most interesting man, Ezekiel—how he came to be among the captives by the river Chebar. He is one of the most attractive personalities in the Old Testament—a man of surpassing culture and charm—and yet enabled to "sit where they sat."

A MESSENGER OF GOD
EZEKIEL could never have adapted himself to the life of ministering to the captive slaves apart from the knowledge that he was the messenger of God—the messenger of God's hope to broken, beaten souls.

God spoke to his people through Ezekiel. He speaks to his people today through chosen messengers—parents, teachers, the Bible, the Holy Spirit. God may be speaking to you today.

HEAR YE THE WORD

EZEKIEL'S approach to the Jews in captivity was by the authority of God's direct message to them through him. Ezekiel was faithful to God's appointment and mission. He knew that what he had to say to the Jews meant their hope of release and return.

He studied their plight. He studied their mood. And then he spoke to them. But not only did he speak to them, telling them what God wanted them to know, but he moved among them. He loved them.

He had God's message, and he went in God's mood of compassion. We cannot help people until we understand them and love them.

GOD'S WATCHMAN

EZEKIEL reminded the people that he had been sent from God as a watchman, and he told them what terrible responsibility was upon him in warning them to repent and return unto God. Read Ezekiel 33:1-9.

If the watchman faithfully warns the people, and they refuse to heed the warning, their blood will be on his hands; but if he fail to warn the people, their blood will be on his hands. Here is a lesson for every teacher and preacher and parent today.

And in this same 33rd chapter, Ezekiel goes on to declare God's attitude toward all sinners. "Say unto them, As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live—turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die?"

A WATCHMAN UNTO EXILES

"SON of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel," Ezekiel 3:17.

This was the explicit commission of God to Ezekiel. And grandly did Ezekiel accept and execute to the limit of his ability that commission. The Jews were far from their beloved home. They were driven by hard masters. They could not sing the song of the Lord in a strange land. They had hanged their harps on the willow trees.

With a sensitive soul, Ezekiel comes to them with the word of hope. He reminds them of the goodness and mercy of Jehovah to their fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He lifts their drooping spirits with clear and ringing words of promise. He pleads with them to confess their sins and claim the pardoning mercy of a loving God.

He used numerous means of gaining their attention—symbols of their former communion with God. Patiently he traced the dealings of God with them and their fathers before them.

They listened, and all who heeded the pleas of the faithful watchman were saved and restored to faith in the goodness and mercy of God.

We, too, are watchmen among exiles. Let us learn the high art of Ezekiel in our ministry as watchmen.

The churches will fail if the lessons of Sunday are forgotten on Monday and are laid aside for special observance on only one day of the week. —Wayne Morse, U. S. senator from Oregon.

Putting a "Funch" in Lunch. Packing a lunch and avoiding that day-to-day sameness is a problem of many homemakers. Aim always to include something crisp, something juicy, and one hot, one sweet, one tart or salty, and one colorful food, advise nutrition specialists. Each lunch box should contain one third of the food supply for the day for the person who eats it. Lettuce put in sandwiches is likely to wilt and is better when wrapped separately.

The Silver Fire

Grace Hall Crowell

BY FAITH I drink the water in my cup; I breathe the air and trust that it is pure; The bread I break at evening as I pray I take believing that the loaf is sure To be quite done. At night I go to sleep And journey through a strange and darkened land.

With confidence that God has power to keep His never-failing hold upon my head.

By faith I rise to meet my body day, Sure of the sun, I plead and see my need, Knowing that rain and light will take their way

Across the earth, that my immediate need For food will be supplied. By faith I go Trusting in God and in my fellow-men, And if at times that silver fire burns low, It never fails to lit and burn again.

EDITORIAL

We wish to say a few words of commendation for Governor Mabry, who has been our very good state executive for the past two years. He has only served one term, and deserves another. He has been a fine governor for Lincoln and for all the counties bordering on 54. It was during the two years of his incumbency that so many of these almost impassable gaps have been paved on Hiway 54. It is easy to criticize but it is not so easy to do a better job. Mr. Mabry will be able to roll up a vast majority on next June 8th, because he has been sincere with the people. He has done a great many things, and in another two years may accomplish still more. He needs the second term to finish all the things he has tried to accomplish for New Mexico.

Rev. Howard S. Pitts, Pastor

To the outgoing town officials, thanks for honest labors. To the new mayor and council, congratulations. May you dare to look to the rest of us for a helping hand, and to God for guidance and power.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" This question begs to be answered tomorrow by all who can vote. Ruidoso's need for a hospital is about as great as ours. When you go to the polls, take along the Golden Rule. Lives may depend on your vote.

Have you stopped beating your wife? Then, bring her along tonight to the 20-40 fellowship. This informal, young adult gathering will meet for the first time at 7:30 tonight (Friday) at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Turner. The most serious part of the program will be a discussion, led by the pastor on "marriage".

Earlier today, a group of parents and church school teachers are going to Ruidoso to get instruction on how to conduct a Vacation Church School. It's another good break for Carrizozo's children.

Sunday's sermon is entitled, "What Seek Ye?" The choir will sing "Was It For Me?" The clarinet quartette, Hope Snow, Ann Baker, Joy Dawn Reil, and Janet Mae Shafer, will play two numbers. They are directed by Mr. Leslie Snyder.

Now, a closing thought: "There is nothing that makes us love a man so much as praying for him."

FACTS ABOUT NEW MEXICO

Dexter H. Reynolds

Everybody knows New Mexico produces petroleum and natural gas. Their extraction constitutes one of the State's major industries. During 1947 New Mexico produced 40 million barrels of crude oil and nearly 100 billion cubic feet of natural gas. Altogether, New Mexico has produced 835 million barrels of crude oil. Valued at $733 million. Production of crude oil in New Mexico averaged 125,000 barrels daily in February 1948. New Mexico has huge reserves of both oil and gas. As of January 1947 the State was sixth among the United States, with estimated proved recoverable reserves of 8 trillion cubic feet of gas and over 6000 million barrels of petroleum. At present production rates, these represent a 60 year supply of natural gas and a 15 year supply of crude oil. Because of extensive exploration in all parts of the State during the past year, the known reserves of both items are much greater than indicated above. It is possible that the world's greatest natural gas reservoir is in the San Juan basin of New Mexico.

It's NO. 1 on the "It" Parade

It's much the same way with cars as with people.

Some "have it" — some don't.

Some you go for, all out — without quite being able to lay a finger on why. And those — well, they usually become your firmest friends.

What is it that makes so many good folks say this trim honey's "got it"? Good looks? One has to admit it's nice to ride in a car that is unmistakably itself and not just a slightly modified version of something else.

Size, weight? Well, the polls tell us it's a pretty important factor since, if you like an automobile that does things, there just is no substitute for brawn and solid substance.

Power? Naturally. You can't sit long behind this big Fireball straight-eight without falling for it plenty hard.

Handling? Ride? Room? They all have their avid fans among Buick owners. Especially now with a completely new kind of engine mounting ironing out vibration build-up as never before, and in this Convertible model, with automatic top, door-window and front-seat adjustment.

Is it the wonderful new Dynaflow Drive* that's causing so much talk?

In ROADMASTER models that is certainly a big factor. You'll never know how silky smooth a drive can be — what fluent new ease there is to all your going — till you drive the car where liquid replaces both the clutch and first, second and high gears.

But as nearly as we can find out — and we talk to a lot of people — it isn't any one thing that puts Buick at the top of the "it" parade. It's the over-all richness of this honey in all the things you've dreamed of finding wrapped in an automobile.

Ask any friend who drives a Buick — then see your dealer and get a firm order in, with or without a car to trade.

WHAT'S DIFFERENT ABOUT DYNAFLOW DRIVE?

To an efficient new pump (left above), Buick engineers have added a free turbine (right) and an ingenious new supercharging assembly (in hand) which produces a torque-boosting action in shifting and accelerating. The result is the first device on any American passenger car which employs liquid to do the function of both the clutch and the usual low, second and high gears. The clutch pedal is eliminated and a single control gives you manual selection of power ranges and direction.

BUICK also has all these features

- * DYNAFLOW DRIVE (Optional, Roadmaster Series)
- * TAPER-TURN STYLING * FLEX-FIT OR RINGS
- * VIBRA-SHIELD INGE * SAFETY-ROCK RIMS
- * 11-POWERS FIREBALL POWER

- * QUADRUPEX COX SPARKING

NEW BOOKS FROM UNIVERSITY PRESS

Three studies soon to come from the University of New Mexico Press by the Division of Government are due to create wide interest for readers in this region, according to word from acting director, Professor Jack Holmes.

In Professor Florence Hawley's "Public Indian Policy", the age-old question of treatment of the American Indian receives the deft study of a trained anthropologist. Likewise, Dr. Charles B. Judah's "Administration of Governor Dillon" will be of interest to students and historians of this area.

Probably the most controversial study to come from the Division of Government is the "New Mexico Recreational Needs and Resources" by Professor Dorothy I. Cline and Mrs. Kay Peterson Rose. This study will break new ground because no other state has attempted to evaluate its recreational resources and present conclusions as to what steps should be taken next.

Of note also in this study is the valuable assistance offered, and interest evinced, by New Mexico state officials. Governor Thomas J. Mabry encouraged all departments of the state government to lend the authors unlimited aid in a survey of recreational resources.

Due special mention for their cooperation are Mr. Joe Bursey of the State Tourist Bureau, Mr. Elliott Barker, State Game Warden, Mr. Charles Rael, head of Park Commission, and Mr. Charles Rose, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Others who have shown vital interest in the possibilities of such a study are Burton Dwyre of the Highway Commission, Dr. Charles Scott, State Health Department, Mr. Murray Hintz and Hazel Young of the Welfare Department, and Mr. John Miles, Land Commissioner.

Thus, with the wide experience of the two authors, who have worked extensively in other states on government recreational problems and with the suggestions and information offered by the various state officials named above, this study is awaited by all who are interested in better recreational facilities in New Mexico.

VETERANS' NEWS

All members of the Veterans Administration national advisory group on medical problems have accepted re-appointment by Carl R. Gray, Jr., administrator of veterans affairs, the VA has announced.

The group acts in an advisory capacity to the administrator and to Dr. Paul B. Magnuson, chief of VA's department of medicine and surgery. Dr. Charles Mayo, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. is chairman.

Members of the group were appointed originally by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, former VA administrator. Their agreement to continue to serve under Administrator Gray helps to assure continuation of top-grade medical service for veterans, VA said.

A total of 122,038 veterans in Utah, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico had entered institutional, on the job or farm training from the start of the program until February 1. Of this number, 84,078 had enrolled for studies in schools, colleges and universities. Another 33,434 had entered on-the-job training in business and industrial establishments and 4,526 had been accepted for farm training. Included in the 122,038 total were 9,761 disabled veterans receiving education or instruction under public law 16.

Veterans who file claims with Veterans Administration for disability compensation or pension can help speed up service by observing seven simple rules, VA said.

They are (1) Remember to submit complete evidence concerning your physical condition, and the cause of such condition; (2) spell your name clearly— the same way it appears on your service record; (3) when you are informed of your "C" number, use it in all correspondence with VA; (4) include your correct address in all correspondence.

(5) Avoid all unnecessary correspondence; (6) if you find it necessary to write, address your letters to the VA regional office; (7) when requested to report for physical examination, or to submit additional evidence, do to promptly. If you

OUR PUBLIC BUSINESS
 "The New Mexico Tax Bulletin"
 Municipal Elections

On Tuesday, April 6, more than 60 cities, towns and villages held their elections for municipal officers and members of governing boards. In these elections the citizens qualified to vote have the opportunity to determine the quality of the administration of their local affairs for the ensuing period. It is a test of the ability of the voters of these municipalities to manage their own affairs within the limits set by their representatives in the State Legislature. Without going into details of the essentials for good municipal government, it may be generally assumed that the best administration is one that gives the most and the best services at a minimum of expense to those who contribute the funds for the administration of municipal affairs.

A Strong Country

In commenting upon the large Federal expenditures, the Daily Current Argus remarks, in an editorial: "We must keep our country strong in the present troubled world, but one way to do this is to get unnecessary employees off the Federal payroll, and on to productive jobs in private industry."

Two Hospitals

On April 10 two proposals will be voted upon in Lincoln County, one providing for a bond issue for Carrizozo for a county-municipal hospital, and another proposal for a county municipal hospital at Ruidoso. Government experts estimate that $220,000 will be required for a 25-bed hospital at Carrizozo, and $123,000 for a 15-bed hospital at Ruidoso. The total cost for both hospitals is estimated at $343,000, of which Ruidoso and Carrizozo will each provide $15,000. The bonds proposed to be voted by the County will be $207,000, and presumably, if the funds are made available by the county and municipalities, the Federal government would provide the remaining funds needed. There will apparently be opposition to the bond issue, as the Glencoe Women's Club believes that Lincoln County cannot support more than one well equipped and well staffed hospital. The Club therefore urges the voters of the County to vote against the bond issue for two county supported hospitals.

At a meeting of the teachers held at the State Teachers' College in Silver City, the sentiment favored a bill to provide Federal aid for public schools. A four point legislative program was also adopted, calling for revision of the pupil teacher ratio, a State Superintendent of Education or Commissioner of Education, a County Board to elect a qualified Superintendent of Schools, and equalized tax assessments and consolidations, when feasible. The meeting also went on record favoring the adoption of the Code of Ethics of the National Education Association for teachers.

FOITY YEARS AGO FROM 1908 CAPITAN NEWS

Never before in the history of this country, or perhaps any other country, have so many men been idle—idle not from choice, but because there is no work to do. This enforced idleness had its beginning in the dark days of last October and at that time we were told that the "flurry" was only a temporary matter, a tempest in the teapot, as it were, and that the business of the country would return to normal condition.

An authorized edition of the life of Pat Garrett has been compiled by John Milton Scanland, who had known Garrett from his boyhood. The story of Garrett's life is told in an attractive manner, and the writer throws many side lights on the great sheriff. The Lincoln county war; how Garrett brought order out of chaos. The story of Billy the Kid is interestingly told. The little book contains several half tone illustrations of scenes in Lincoln county, together with pictures of Garrett and Billy the Kid. The booklet will awaken the memories of many residents in this county who were familiar with the principal actors in the bloody drama of a quarter of a century ago.

Masaryk's Death Crystallizes Red Menace as U.S. Prepares to Act; Spring Rash of Strikes Breaks Out

Released by WNU Features

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MASARYK: Death in Prague

Whether Jan Masaryk, Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, took his own life or was liquidated by the Communists really didn't make any difference. The Communist government had announced that he had leaped to his death from a first, second or third-floor window (U. S. newspapers readers could choose their own version) of the foreign office in Prague.

Later reports by "highly authoritative persons" insisted that Masaryk had been murdered by Communists. An alleged "eyewitness" testified that he had seen Masaryk's body after its reported fall to a concrete pavement and that it bore no evidence that the foreign minister had died in such a manner.

Supporting the murder theory was the fact that Masaryk was reported to have met President Eduard Benes the day before his death, and the two were said to have planned something the Communists wished to prevent.

Unidentified Czech officials who have escaped from Prague reported also that President Benes was a prisoner of the Communist regime.

But whether Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czechoslovakian republic, had been murdered or goaded to suicide by his intolerable position, one thing was certain: Communists had killed him just as surely as if they had put a pistol to his head and pulled the trigger.

If Masaryk took his own life it was not just because he was seeking an escape, but because it was the last service he could do for his country—throwing light, by his own destruction, on the terrible, destructive force that is communism.

The Way Out

Added to the list of the world's numberless martyrs for liberty was the name of Jan Masaryk, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, son of Thomas Masaryk who was the first president and liberator of the country.

STRIKES:

Miners

Widespread strikes in the nation's soft coal fields were touched off by John L. Lewis' latest foray into the national scene, a demand for $100-a-month pensions for his miners.

The United Mine Workers leader had asked rank-and-file "reaction" to his charge that coal operators had "dishonored" the 1947 contract by failing to grant pensions. And his miners produced the exact reaction he wanted as almost 200,000 of them in 11 states quit to support Lewis' stand at the very outset of the difficulties.

It was not a strike in the technical sense of the word. Lewis, in all his power, simply had nodded his shaggy head and his men, quick to catch the signal, walked away from their jobs.

The current mine contract does not expire until June 30, but it provides that the miners need work only as long as they are "willing and able."

Impact of the soft coal walkouts showed first in the nation's steel industry where output is threatened if the shutdowns continue for any length of time. Many of the closed mines are "captive" whose entire output goes to the steel companies.

Packers

Fraught with an even greater immediacy than the mine walkouts, however, was a nationwide strike for more pay by 100,000 members of the CIO packing-house workers.

The strike went off as scheduled despite an urgent request by President Truman asking the packing companies and workers' representatives to maintain the status quo without interrupting negotiations until April 1, at which time a board of inquiry was slated to report to him on conditions of the strike.

In reply to the President, the union strike board rejected his proposal because, it said, the packing firms would not agree to placing even their wage proposals into effect during the negotiation.

As the strike began, government records indicated that the entire nation would come to feel the curtailed meat supply after the first week, with some areas more severely affected than others.

GOVERNMENT:

Expense

Total per capita cost of running the federal government for one year has zoomed $201 since 1939, according to a report by the Tax Foundation. It now is about $270 a year, compared with $69 in 1939.

War, of course, was mainly responsible for the increase. Total estimated expenditures for the fiscal year 1948 are $7.7 billion dollars. War and its aftermath accounted for almost $3 billion of that.

But the blueprint for 1949, said the foundation, registers an increase. It quoted President Truman:

"In the fiscal year of 1949, 79 per cent of our expenditures reflect the costs of war, the effect of war and our efforts to prevent a future war."

TREATY: 50 Years

Communist expansion was going to meet a roadblock if the nations of western Europe had any voice in the matter.

Britain, France and the Benelux (Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg) nations adopted a 50-year treaty for a political, economic and military union of western Europe in an out and out move to check the communism that threatens their independence.

Delegates from the five countries completed their efforts after more than a week around the conference table. The alliance was a direct outgrowth of the union of western European nations suggested in January by Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary.

The treaty was believed to bind the nations to mutual assistance in the face of aggression; mutual aid in the economic field, co-operation in improving their living standards and a measure of co-ordination of colonial resources.

It was just a beginning, but a good one. In the eyes of U. S. government leaders the alliance was not only a desirable but necessary element if the Marshall plan for recovery is to work at all.

SAY UNCLE:

Palestine

People continue to ask the Arabs and Jews of Palestine to stop their futile wrangling.

France, China and the United States sent an appeal to the Jews and Arabs of Palestine and also to the six Arab state members of the United Nations, asking them to take steps to promote a truce in the Holy Land fighting.

There was no real confidence among delegates of the three nations that their request would be heeded. Russia, the fourth country taking part in the big power talks on Palestine, refrained from joining in the appeal because the Soviets have taken the typical stand that there is no need for the big powers to consult with the Arabs and Jews.

Most observers thought the truce appeal looked like wishful thinking. For one thing, no group among either Arabs or Jews in Palestine is in a position to control its dissident members and thus guarantee a truce.

Moreover, the idea of a military truce does not bear upon the heart of the problem. The United Nations is still committed, on paper, to partition, while the Arabs adamantly continue to reject that proposal and the Jews assert just as strongly that they will accept nothing else.

ACCIDENTS:

Women's

Accident rate among girls and women has been reduced by about one-half in the past 35 years as a result of modernization of the American home, according to statistics compiled by Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

Illustrating the reduction in home hazards, the statisticians said, are the shift from oil lamps and gas for lighting to the electric light bulb, replacing of the traditional coal stove by the modern gas or electric range, and use of central heating instead of stoves and fireplaces.

Mortality from burns fell from 10.2 per 100,000 in 1911 to 1.4 in 1946—a decrease of 86 per cent.

The figure for December was 210.4 billion dollars. The January rate, according to the department, was 7 per cent higher than the 1947 average of 198.3 billion.

January's increase over December came despite a slight downturn in wages and salaries.

Science Talent Quest Shows Aid To Progress

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator

WASHINGTON—I don't often go into such intimate matters as private murders in these columns, but I have been impressed lately to see the results of the untrammelled spirit of modern youth, whose repressions and inhibitions have been removed by thoughtful parents who use reason instead of the cruel discipline such as I have suffered—having to go to bed without supper, for instance, when I was impudent to my elders, or being kept in the house for throwing my arithmetic at the cat instead of doing my homework, or having my mouth washed out with acne soap when I used language unbecoming a future commentator.

Recently a pretty little brunette who was irked by having to leave the city to dwell with her parents in some dull rural area of Missouri rebelled. After shooting Mama and Papa, she stuffed them behind the sofa and tried to dispose of their property. Then there was the poor little seventh-grader who smarted under thoughtless taunting by a farmer who thought the youth displayed poor form in sawing wood. The boy shot the old man and dumped him in a creek.

There was the 18-year-old girl from Portsmouth, Va., who playfully sprayed five G.I.'s with revolver shots in a shooting gallery, and the six girls, aged 14 to 18, who bent up their female gym instructor in a Bronx high school.

Of course I am not old-fashioned enough to encourage corporal punishment, but it does seem that a little less sparing of the rod might have prevented spilling the coffee record of the peaceful communities from which these youngsters came.

Perhaps it wouldn't have helped, though, when the nations of the world set such bad examples.

I couldn't help thinking of a paragraph in the concluding chapter of that highly important and revealing book by former Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Said Hull (and I can see him leaning back as he dictated, looking over the wide sweep of the Maryland landscape, letting his thoughts go back over the rich days of his years): "We have a desperate need for more religion and morality as the background for government. The religious and moral foundations for thought and conduct require strengthening here as well as throughout the world. There is no higher civilizing influence than the religious and moral concepts. Corruption and tyranny can be driven out of government only when these concepts give men the faculty to recognize such evils and the strength to eliminate them."

In these days when we hear so many unpleasant references to the atom bomb, it was a relief to the national capital to get its annual reminder that the people who know most about atomic energy think far more about how it can promote human welfare than about how it can extinguish human life.

Sixteen thousand high-schoolers presented themselves this year as possible winners in the seventh annual Westinghouse science talent search. After rigorous elimination tests, 40 finalists were selected to come to Washington for talks with scientists, visits to Capitol Hill and the White House and conversations with their colleagues.

These 40 students have a reasonable assurance of scholarships of $1,000 each from various sources, aside from the search awards, while the two lucky top winners each are given $2,400 with which to continue their studies.

There was another interesting thing about this year's awards—the revelation that America still is drawing heavily on the Old World for its scientific talent. The boy who won the top prize was born in Budapest.

Andrew Kende displays his experiments with new solvents to reduce explosion hazards.

He is Andrew Kende, a 15-year-old chemist, a handsome youngster, five feet eight inches tall. Of the 40 finalists, five were born in Europe, and 26 parents of the 40 finalists were foreign-born.

The girl winner was 17-year-old Barbara Claire Wolff of Flushing, L. I., (where the United Nations has its headquarters although there is no connection). All the contestants must have worked on a special scientific project, and Miss Wolff devoted her time to production of phenocopies. Now, if you raise fruit, you will be interested in this, although you probably wouldn't recognize a phenocopy if you met it on one of your strolls through your orchard.

A phenocopy is a change—a change in the body-shape of a fruit fly. The fly itself will not be permitted to get at your fruit. Its eggs have been dyed and irradiated, observation of which processes in the long run probably will help the fruit industry. When Miss Wolff isn't dyeing eggs—and irradiating them—she is editing her school paper, playing badminton, studying, and, we suppose, practicing the modern dance and enjoying her clubs, which include math, cancer and microscopy organizations.

Young Kende's project has to do with removing or reducing explosion hazards in the chemical processes by which such modern synthetics as the silicones, sex hormones and some synthetic rubbers are produced commercially. Some day, thanks to him, men and women may be able to face the most aluring hormone or the most explosive overshoe or automobile tire in comparative safety, and may even be able to walk right up to a silicon and slap it on the back.

The 40 finalists were reminded by Watson Davis, Science Service director; Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard college observatory, and W. W. Waymack, atomic energy commissioner, that it is not enough these days, however, for scientists to stick to their scientific last, letting the rest of the world go by.

As Dr. Shapley put it: "Don't be so laborious in your laboratories that you ignore your responsibilities as citizens." And as Waymack warned: "Newsdays the scientists must not only aid in the creation of knowledge, but in the dissemination and use of that knowledge for the general welfare."

Unfortunately, there are all too few trained scientists in this atomic age. As the report of the President's scientific research board pointed out, the technological and scientific progress of this country depends upon one-half of 1 per cent of our population—some 750,000 persons. This small group comprises the trained manpower—the scientists, technicians and engineers upon which the operation and the expansion of our economy depends. And these actually engaged in scientific research, technical development or teaching comprise a much smaller group within this pool—only 137,000 persons.

The science talent search and similar projects undertaken to discover and encourage youthful scientific talents are helping to ensure the future security and prosperity of the United States which depend as never before on the rapid extension of scientific knowledge—not only because the laboratory is the first line of defense in wartime and the scientist is the indispensable warrior, but also because scientific discovery is the basis for our progress against poverty and disease.

Ex-G.I.'s can upset the budget again this year. In its attempt to trim Mr. Truman's spending, congress makes no allowance for nearly 500 million dollars still unclaimed in terminal leave pay due enlisted men. The President's bulging budget set aside only five million dollars for this item, just 1 per cent of the total possible cost.

In contrast to the usual Hollywood practice, the government's film production includes none of the usual "thrillers." Latest 26-minute short subject made by Uncle Sam bears the prosaic title, "Toward a Uniform Plumbing Code." Other recent "soaker" cover movies on blister rust control, Japanese agriculture, foot and mouth disease.

Some of the people who say they would rather be right than president don't get the chance they deserve.

Nobody Worries About 'Tissick' Now

City dwellers of 300 years ago—the inhabitants of London in the year 1648, for instance—were only half as likely to be killed in accidents as are the metropolises of today.

But they were several times as likely to die from tuberculosis or other diseases with such fearful names as spotted fever, purple, rising of the lights, plague in the guts, tussick, imposthume and others, says a study of early and present-day mortality by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The king's horsemen were the fastest traffic to contend with in 1648. The automobile was still 200 years in the future.

Legumes Open Soil To Air and Water

System of Rotation Prevents Compaction

Tight "stuffy" soils are robbing many farmers of high bushel-per-acre yields of corn and small grains each year. Loams, silt loams and clay loams need large amounts of organic matter in the plow layer and deeper to keep them open and loose for high crop production.

Heavy soils that are low in organic matter and worked with heavy tractors and machinery become packed, especially just below the plow sole. These compactions slow down the intake of water. They cut down the amount of water and air the soil will hold for crop use. They keep the fibrous roots of corn and small grain "upstairs" away from water and plant food held deeper in the soil.

Tap roots of alfalfa and sweet clover, as shown in sketch, break through packed soil to assure water and plant food for growing crops.

Temporary relief can be had by using machines that reach below the ordinary plow layer and break up the plow sole compactions. Real relief, however, comes only through regular use of deep-rooted legumes in the rotation.

The driving tap roots of sweet clover and alfalfa force their way through the compactions and reach deep into the soil, thus opening it to air and water. The mineralized organic matter they leave there improves soil tilth and furnishes plant food for other crops.

Channels of the tap roots are routes for water and air and fibrous roots to follow deep into the soil. Compaction-busting alfalfa and sweet clover need phosphate and potash if they are to do a good job.

All records for Ayrshire auction sales in the U. S. were broken when an average of $2,277.33 was paid for 23 Scottish bred Ayrshires imported and sold by Frank V. Lile of Bellefontaine, Ohio. The sale grossed $52,154.

Increased Yields Noted With Use of Fertilizer

Wheat yields can be stepped up 7 to 14 bushels per acre and the hay crop can be increased through use of more fertilizer in hay and pasture crops seeded in small grains, declares Dr. D. R. Dodd of the Ohio experiment station.

Science Finds New Serum for Cholera

American University in Beirut Perfects Inoculant

BEIRUT, LEBANON.—Using 30 strains of virulent cholera, including those of the recent outbreaks in Egypt and Syria, the hospital of the American University in Beirut has produced the most complete and effective cholera serum known in science, Archie S. Crawford, acting president of the university, said.

Large-scale production of the serum began in the hospital's laboratories immediately after the outbreak of cholera in Egypt last October when Syria and Lebanon found themselves almost without supplies. Within two months it was able to supply 750 liters to Syrian and Lebanese health departments for inoculation of all school children and government employees.

When cholera appeared in Syria the university hospital developed a new combination of cholera strains, which it delivered to Syria for making serum. At the same time the hospital stepped up its own manufacture to the maximum to assist in the general inoculation of the Lebanese and Syrian people.

The university arranged for 45 of its medical students to inoculate the public. Three hundred doses of smallpox vaccine, 30 liters of typhoid and 125 liters of typhus serum also were produced in the hospital's laboratories in the past few months.

Despite the anti-American feeling growing out of the United States espousal of the Palestine partition, such public service is helping this American institution to retain the support of the Arab governments, Crawford said.

DETROIT—A thrust of a saber by a landlady ended the life of a disgruntled tenant.

Emmet Davis, 31, went downstairs in a rooming house to protest that his room was cold but was refused admittance by the landlady, Mrs. Mary Epps, 51.

Police said Davis smashed several windows and was stabbed with the saber as he approached the front door of Mrs. Epp's apartment.

Observers Peek Through 200-Inch Telescopic 'Eye'

PASADENA, CALIF.—Astronomers have taken a tentative peek at the firmament through the 200-inch Palomar mountain telescope, destined to open up new vistas of the universe for science, Dr. Max Mason, chairman of the California Institute of Technology observatory council, announced.

The test observations were both visual and photographic and were the first of a long series that will be made as the great telescope nears completion.

First observer was Dr. John A. Anderson of Caltech, who supervised the 11-year grinding and polishing process. The telescope, Dr. Mason said, will be ready for actual research this summer.

Judge Convicted and Fined On Drunken Driving Charge

DETROIT—Circuit Judge George B. Murphy, 60, was convicted by a judge of drunken driving and fined $100.

Circuit Judge Philip Elliott of Flint described the fine as ordinary and told Judge Murphy, "I believe you would prefer that I treated your case like any other."

The maximum sentence under the law is 90 days in jail and a $100 fine. In addition, Judge Murphy faces a mandatory suspension of his driver's license for at least 90 days.

The tall, neatly dressed defendant said nothing as he listened to the verdict and the sentence. Afterward, in his chambers, Judge Elliott told Murphy, "I am sorry." The case was tried without a jury at request of the defendant.

Judge Murphy denied that he was intoxicated when he hit a parked car. He admitted having two highballs made with scotch whisky.

ST. LOUIS—Amid the blaring of whistles from river craft, the steamer Kokoda pushed across the finish line for an easy victory over the Diesel-powered Helena in their race up the Mississippi river from New Orleans.

The contest between the two towboats, reminiscent of the famed contest between the Natchez and the Robert E. Lee, found the ill-fated Helena, which encountered one difficulty after another, far behind in the vicinity of Cairo, Ill.

Pep Up Meals With Delectable Fish (See Recipes Below)

Favorite Seafoods

Have you discovered what pleasant variety fish dinners can give to your meals? If not, you have a real flavor treat coming.

New cooks will like using fish because it is so easily and quickly prepared. There are so many varieties to use, you need run into no rut even though you serve fish often.

You can substitute fish for meat easily because, it, too, is a good source of protein in addition to providing such important minerals as calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper and iodine. Those of you who live inland would do well to fortify your iodine supply by eating fish more often, as it's difficult to get enough in any other way, except medicinally.

Overcooking is one of the faults most frequently found in the preparation of fish, for many people do not realize that fish is really tender. Broiling and pan-frying are good methods to use, as is baking.

You'll find that fish served in a casserole takes little time and can be really delicious. The time required for baking is short as the food really only needs to be heated.

Fresh, canned or frozen fish may be used, whichever is available to you in the recipes I've included today.

City of Contrasts Tripoli is the capital and largest city of Libya, with more than 100,000 inhabitants. Its Moslem mosques and Christian cathedral, its rambling Old Quarter and the substantial European structures of the new hint at the story of the diverse peoples and cultures meeting there. A Tripoli crowd, hailed for a passing automobile, donkey or camel, may, for example, include a British, French or Turkish army officer, an Italian peasant from a nearby farm or a Greek fisherman.

Putting a 'Funch' in Lunch Packing a lunch that 'picks a punch' and avoiding that day-to-day sameness is a problem of many homemakers. Aim always to include something crisp, something juicy, and one hot, one sweet, one tart or salty, and one colorful food, advise nutrition specialists. Each lunch box should contain one third of the food supply for the day for the person who eats it. Lettuce put in sandwiches is likely to wilt and is better when wrapped separately.

Common Sunfish The common sunfish, or pumpkinseed, seldom reaches a size exceeding six to eight inches. However, its general popularity with people of all ages more than makes up for any deficiency in size. It has been termed the "small boy's fish" but is angled for by adults as well. The common sunfish is a compact little fish and beautifully colored. There is perhaps no other species of freshwater fish that presents more variety of colors and markings than do the sunfishes, so much so that a general description is practically impossible.

Where Catfish Feed Since the beginning of pole and line angling, the question as to where catfish feed has perplexed most fishermen. Missouri Conservation Commission found that channel catfish feed largely at night with the heaviest period coming at dusk. For the most part, feeding during the twilight hours will be confined to the channel and deep water. As darkness sets in, the catfish tend to invade shallower water near the stream banks.
