DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 82

Baruch, The Scribe
Lesson for August 1, 1948

BARUCH, whose name means "blessed," was the grandson of Maaseiah, "governor of the city" under Josiah (II Chronicles 34:8), and his father, Neriah, appears to have been an official during the reign of Jehoiakim. He was a trusted friend of Jeremiah (Jeremiah 32:6-15 and 43:5-6). Tradition holds that Baruch was carried to Babylon, where he wrote the apocryphal "Book of Baruch," and died in 574, B. C., twelve years after the fall of Jerusalem.

Our golden text for this lesson is found in Psalm 119:105, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and light unto my path."

OUR BIBLE
THEN Jeremiah called Baruch, the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the Lord, which he had spoken unto him, upon a roll of a book. And Jeremiah commanded Baruch, saying, I am shut up; I cannot go into the house of the Lord. Therefore go thou, and read in the roll, which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of the Lord in the ears of the people in the Lord's house upon the fasting day; and also thou shalt read them in the ears of all Judah that come out of the cities." Jeremiah 36:4-8.

How did we get our Bible? Through this simple process of God speaking through his appointed prophet, and by the faithful work of men like Baruch who served as scribes.

THIS SCRIBE OF LONG AGO
IN THE introductory paragraph I sketched briefly the story of Baruch. He was a trained man, trusted and beloved. This he had to be, else God would not have approved Jeremiah's selection of Baruch to copy what he was saying for God. And not only was he selected to write down what God was saying, through his prophet, but he was used to proclaim the words of God to the people in the Lord's house. Baruch was amanuensis, reader and distributor of the Bible—a distinguished role, indeed. Let us today be gladly ready to read the Bible to others, and to distribute and circulate the Scriptures wherever we may. Here I pause to pay tribute to the American Bible Society and all others, including the Gleasons, who help to make the Bible known to all men everywhere.

A MAN ON WHOM GOD COUNTED
THUS we see that Baruch was a man on whom God counted. His work was done well, and we read that, "When they heard all the words, they were afraid both one and other, and said unto Baruch, We will surely tell the king all of these words."

Young people will do well to ponder this incident. In the varied contacts of young Christians in this modern day, we may be used of the Holy Spirit in making known the words of God in countless ways. Thus, like Baruch, you may be used of God to make known his will unto all mankind.

BARUCH, A COURAGEOUS SCRIBE
THE full context reveals the fact that Baruch exhibited courage as well as faithfulness in his service as scribe to Jeremiah. It was not an easy task. Nor will it be easy to fill our posts as couriers of the Good News. But it was a rewarding experience for Baruch. He served his day and generation according to the will of God.

Mr. Henry Ford, Sr., believed in having a copy of the Bible near at hand wherever he might sit down in his home. I heard him say once that he had a Bible on every table in his home. "I do this in order that I may reach over and spend a few minutes with the Lord wherever I may sit down. And I always cherish the hope that others will find it a lamp unto their feet and a light along their daily pathway."

Let us give thanks for Baruch—the trusted friend who served Jeremiah, and thus served God.

Conduct
Fundamentally, the force that rules the world is conduct, whether it be moral or immoral. If it is moral, at least there may be hope for the world. If immoral, there is not only no hope, but no prospect of anything but destruction of all that has been accomplished during the last 5,000 years.

THE QUESTIONS

1. How many matches can be made from a pine tree?
2. How many doughnuts are eaten in this country every year?
3. What is the largest printing plant in the world?
4. What color will keep flies away?
5. What is the only insect capable of fertilizing clover?
6. What states does now allow divorce?

THE ANSWERS

1. Not all the tree is made into matches. Average pine yields over 300 board feet of lumber plus enough plank to make a million matches.
2. Over seven billion.
3. The U. S. Government Printing office, Washington D. C.
4. Blue, according to some experts.
5. The bumble-bee.
6. South Carolina.

WORKER SHARES RESPON-SIBILITY OF SOCIAL SECURITY

Announcing the opening of a campaign against incorrect employer social security records, J. Hasler Strickland, manager of the social security office in Roswell, said that the worker shares this responsibility with his employer.

Benefits are figured on the basis of reported wages. Wages are credited to the individual worker's account on the basis of his employer's report. Therefore, an incorrect name or account number in the employer's record could result in a substantial money loss to the worker.

"No worker or employer would think of paying his insurance premiums or grocery bill without properly identifying the payment and seeing that he was given credit," Mr. Strickland said, "and the same principal holds in this case."

Employers and workers should make certain that proper credit is given for the social security tax paid. This can be done by assuring themselves that the tax remittance is accompanied by a complete and accurate report of the name and account number of each worker.

TAVERN POSTERS WARN MINORS OF POSSIBLE FINE

Tavern and package store operators in Carrizozo have received posters notifying minors of a possible $300 fine of, they purchase alcoholic beverages when not accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

The poster, prepared by the New Mexico Division, U. S. Brewers Foundation, stresses that part of the New Mexico Liquor Control Act, which provides:

"It shall be a violation of this act for any minor to buy, receive or permit himself to be served with any alcoholic beverage, except when accompanied by his parent or legal guardian."

The poster also states that any adult who "by misrepresenting facts" secures service for a minor, is subject to a similar fine.

Penalties for such violations, according to Chas. J. Huff, director of the Foundation division office, is included under that section relating to misdemeanors involving other than license-holders.

"We have received reports of minors making fraudulent age claims or producing fictitious "evidence of eligible age," Huff said.

Statement of age blanks to be signed by persons whose age is in doubt, are being supplied licenses to discourage this attempted violation, Huff said.

One letter out of ten received by the Veterans Administration is "mystery mail." Some detective work must be done to identify the writer and associate him with his records.

Fighting Truman Gets Democratic Nomination, Calls Special Session; Barkley Selected as Running Mate

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

Truman 'WE ACCEPT!' - Barkley Born in Log Cabin In Fighting Mood

THE PHILADELPHIA STORY

Truman-Barkley

If the Democrats hadn't known before their convention that President Harry Truman was their man they found out on the steaming Wednesday when their political show slammed through to a smashing, triumphant finish.

Harry Truman told them so, after the enterprising liberal forces of the party had spent all that Wednesday in the 105 degree heat of convention hall proving it beyond all doubt.

It looked like the Democratic party might have been completely revitalized in 12 tense hours on that last day of the convention, ending a period during which the Democrats' morale and will to win slowly had been ossifying.

The revitalization came as a result of two potent factors which actually could be reduced to one—President Truman's influence.

In the first place, in adopting the strong, positive civil rights plank in the platform the party not only repudiated the idea and spirit of reaction but also dealt an extremely sharp and real slap to the hands of the southern wing which had tried, at times almost savagely, to produce a cleavage within the party.

That action, closely followed by the nomination of President Truman to run for re-election and the nomination of Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky by acclamation for the vice-presidential spot on the ticket added another solid timber to the structure that the liberal elements of the party were fighting so hard to build.

Those developments were, in themselves, a complete and victorious proof that the Democrats this year intended to bring themselves before the American public as a responsible, cohesive party that would be striving for nothing less than total victory in the November election.

But it remained for President Truman to give the whole affair a significance that could not be ignored.

Fighting Finish

It was a far cry from a love fest as the Democratic clans, feuding for many months, met in the City of Brotherly Love for their 33rd national convention.

After three days of strife and bickering, the conclave came to a close as a fighting President Truman triumphantly accepted his party's nomination for the presidency and then rocked Democrats and Republicans alike with an instant summons to the 80th congress to return for a special session July 26.

The convention, perhaps the most bitterly divided since 1860 and 1874, ended with a political explosion detonated by the quiet man from Independence, Mo. The explosion started even the regular members of his own party who had engineered the nomination of Mr. Truman to the presidency.

The Democrats pinned their November election hopes on a ticket of Harry S. Truman and Alben W. Barkley. It was the 64-year-old nearest, low-voiced former senator from Missouri who had succeeded to the office upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1945, for the presidency. And it was the 74-year-old, soft-speaking, compromiing senator from Paducah, Ky., for the vice presidency. The President's call for a special session provided a dramatic and startling climax to the 30th convention, which had been marked by bitter debate over ferocious family differences.

The party had been ripped by infighting between northern progressives and southern conservatives over the issue of equal civil rights for Negroes. One-half of the Alabama delegation—13 of the 26 votes—and the entire Mississippi delegation of 22 had stormed out of the convention amid boos, cheers and a great pushing and shoving. This was the high point of the widely-heralded southern revolt, although a rump convention was called to meet in Birmingham, Ala.

Discord Flares

Discord prevailed long before the 1,596 delegates from the 48 states and territories gathered in stifling, steaming Philadelphia for the quadrennial convention.

Dissident factions of the party rallied behind a concerted drive to draft Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the party's standard bearer. "Ike," however, removed himself from the race with his third and final insistence that he "would not accept the nomination."

The day after the Eisenhower boom collapsed, the New Deal efforts to oppose Mr. Truman with Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas also blew up. Douglas, whom the President had wanted for his running mate, flatly refused to be considered and also knocked himself out of the vice presidential running.

After Douglas declined to enter the presidential race, Senator Pepper of Florida announced his candidacy with the backing of the New Deal wing, but his bid was not considered very seriously.

Civil Rights

After seven days of wrangling, a platform pledging the Democratic party more specifically than ever before to work for basic constitutional civil rights was adopted after a floor fight which proved rather tame in view of the anticipated knock-down, drag-out battle.

The platform calls on congress to support guarantees of: "The right of full and equal political participation"—meaning anti-poll tax legislation.

"The right to equal opportunity of employment"—another way of promising a fair employment practices act.

"The right of security of person"—meaning a federal anti-lynch law.

"The right of equal treatment in the service and defense of our nation"—meaning the end of segregation in the armed forces.

The long-heralded southern revolt, however, failed to develop into the Dixie-wide proportions predicted. Only Mississippi's 22 delegates and 13 of Alabama's 24 stalked out of the convention in protest against President Truman's nomination and adoption of the strong civil rights plank.

However, 363 remaining southern delegates registered that area's protest by voting for the presidential nomination of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia. Size of the protest vote indicated the Democratic party still has a problem on its hands in the South.

NO LIMITS

American Cities Are Increasing in Size

Los Angeles, boast of many jokes for its ever-expanding city limits, is not the only American city which is increasing in size.

In fact, American cities are getting bigger all the time, with 200 communities extending their boundaries in 1947 for a new all-time record, according to the International City Managers' association.

The rush to keep up with urban expansion marked a 18 per cent increase over 1946, when 208 cities annexed new territory. Most cities seek to annex suburban land to solve their population problems.

"Cities want outlying territory to equalize local tax rates and to provide uniform public services," according to the association.

PERSHING:

Taps Sounds

Gen. John J. (Blackjack) Pershing, who led American troops to victory in World War I, is dead at the age of 87.

The aged former chief of staff had been ill since February, 1933, when he was stricken at Tucson, Ariz., by a form of rheumatism which affected his heart muscles. He came close to dying at that time, but rallied with a display of fighting spirit which amazed his physicians. Since then he had lived at Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C.

Death was caused by a blood clot which reached his lung. At Pershing's bedside when death came were his son, Warren; his sister, Miss May Pershing, and his long-time physician, Maj. Gen. Shelley Marietta.

Long the idol of a grateful nation, Pershing held the rank of general of the armies, a title conferred on only four other American soldiers, Washington, Grant, Sherman, and Sheridan. He outranked such contemporary five-star generals as George C. Marshall, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Douglas MacArthur. Their title is general of the army.

Pershing won his greatest fame as commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary force in World War I. Appointed to that post in 1917, he took personal command of the American troops sent to France. He almost immediately became involved in a dispute with other Allied commanders who wanted to break up the American army and use it to reinforce the French and British armies wherever necessary. Pershing flatly refused to let his troops lose their identity.

Born Sept. 13, 1860, in the frontier town of LaCade, Mo., Pershing was graduated from West Point when he was 26. He became a second lieutenant in the sixth U. S. cavalry and launched a career in soldiering to which he devoted his entire life. He fought Indians in the American west, Spaniards in Cuba, Moro tribesmen in the Philippines, Mexican bandits under Pancho Villa on the U. S. Mexican border and Germans in France.

Throughout World War II, Pershing received a full report twice a month from General Marshall, his aide of 1917. Although old and feeble, the general followed daily developments closely from his hospital room, paying particular attention to "my boys," who included Generals Marshall, Eisenhower, and George S. Patton Jr.

CROPS:

Record Output

Barring a major crop disaster, the nation will harvest another bumper crop this year, with indications pointing to a general crop production which may surpass that of the outstanding year of 1942 and the record set in 1948.

Increases in crops is among the largest in recent years and yield prospects are good for most crops, agriculture department spokesmen said, on the basis of July 1 conditions.

An all-time record corn crop of 3,328,062,000 bushels was forecast although corn, the largest feed crop, still faces such hazards as a dry, hot August or an early frost. Previous record was 3,287,927,000 bushels in 1948.

The wheat crop prospect of 1,241,751,000 bushels represents a gain of 4 per cent from earlier forecasts. If that amount is harvested, it will rank as the second largest crop in history.

Rice will set a new acreage record and nearly equal last year's record output. Oats and barley will be well above average crops.

Bumper crop prospects are not expected to mean any immediate increase in meat supplies or any noticeable decrease in meat prices but the record harvest should mean larger meat supplies in the future.

Employment Gains

Continuing the postwar upward trend in civilian employment, 1.8 million more persons were employed in civilian occupations last April than in April, 1947. It is revealed in figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference board.

Accompanying this increased employment was a decline of more than 200,000 in unemployment over the year's period.

KEYNOTE GETS A (ROOSEVELT) HAND... Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky gets an enthusiastic handshake from James Roosevelt, son of the late president, after completing his keynote speech to the Democratic convention. The fighting speech sparked the drive to name the veteran senator as vice-presidential candidate. In his talk he blasted the Republican party and the GOP-controlled 80th congress.

COAL THROUGH THE CLOUDS... U.S. army trucks and planes line up on the Khash-Mais air base waiting to load up with coal to be flown over the Soviet "starvation blockade" to beleaguered Berlin. DOWN ON THE FARM... Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York relaxes at his Pawling, N.Y., farm before opening his campaign for the presidency. The GOP aspirant is seen looking over one of his grade hounds with his partner and farm manager. Not all his attention is centered on the farm, however, as Pawling has become the mecca for GOP politicians intent on mapping a winning campaign strategy.

THE PAY OFF... All was calm between the United States and Great Britain when Secretary of State George C. Marshall in London signed an agreement with Mr. Oliver Franks, British ambassador to the U.S., signatory for his country, to join an

Lawn Furniture Can Be Made at Very Low Cost

MAKE your porch, terrace or lawn an outdoor living room—turn your backyard into a picnic ground. You'll be agreeably surprised to see what fun dining out can be. Food takes on an added zest when flavored with the thrill of a picnic.

You can build wonderful pieces of lawn furniture at very low cost. The set illustrated above was built from patterns. These patterns take all the mystery out of woodworking. Each shows the full size, shape and length for cutting each part. Wherever two parts are fastened together, the exact location is indicated on the pattern. Step by step directions explain every part of construction in easy to understand language.

Making a home is traditionally American. The strength of the country rests on the people who have built a home for themselves and their families. Building lawn furniture or any other home equipment is not difficult. You can do it if you try. Each pattern is designed so that no special tools or skill are required. Build this lawn set for immediate use. You'll save money and have fun building it. Each pattern contains a complete purchase list of materials. All materials which the pattern specifies are stock size and readily obtainable at lumber yards everywhere.

Gardenias From Mrs. Garrity

By FRANK BROOKHOUSER

DARRELL MILLER, the big-powered scribbler and his first, the lovely Marianne Lane, of the Hickory, are reading a separate marital bill...

with a dazed feeling, unable to disguise her surprise at seeing the lovely lady in his room. And then he had said: 'Morn'...

"I want seven dollars' worth of gardenias," Mrs. Garrity told the florist. He stared at her bewildered. "Yes, seven..." she repeated.

which she always contemplated cleaning their rooms. Such nice young people they were and, after all, she had known them since that first morning...

course not, morn. If you need extra time, you take it and we'll be happy to pay you for the extra work.

Everything in the bedroom was the same and the picture mingled with the implications of the item brought a sharp tug to her heart...

"They have a special significance," he had said. "It seems that I was going into a flower shop and she was coming out and I was going to buy gardenias...

ways said. Scrubbing the bathroom floor. Mrs. Garrity remembered all the dresses she had given her, the rich perfumes, books for the children, and never forgetting to ask about Mr. Garrity's health.

Of course, they couldn't have a house, not with her in Hollywood so much. But they had made the hotel rooms cozy and home-like.

It had never occurred to Mrs. Garrity to doubt the item in the column and she was not unduly surprised when she saw the suitcases in the bedroom. That was why Mrs. Miller had come back this time, then, to take the things of hers that were in the room.

There was a short note on the dresser. "Please take the black dresses in the closet, Mrs. Garrity," it said.

Now wasn't that just like her, Mrs. Garrity thought, remembering me, even with all her sadness. And her heart must be so heavy today. No, it wasn't right. Even if they were apart a lot...

The idea of gardenias came suddenly to Mrs. Garrity in the maze of memories that were flashing through her mind. There wasn't much time. Mrs. Miller was probably only out for lunch and would be back any minute.

Mrs. Garrity reached into her pocket, pulled out a small wad of bills. She counted them carefully. There were seven. Well, the grocer would just have to wait.

"I want seven dollars' worth of gardenias," she told the florist. He stared at her, bewildered. "Seven dollars worth," she repeated, looking at him sternly.

He shrugged his shoulders and started to work. She walked rapidly back to the hotel with the large box. In the rooms again, she hurried to the typewriter and fingered the keys idly, her rough, gnarled hands looking strange in this position.

"AND TO WISH YOU HAPPINESS WHEREVER YOU GO" Yes, that was all right. She felt almost romantic, reading it to herself again.

Hurriedly, she filled two vases with water, put the gardenias in them, placing the note conspicuously beside one, and then she began to clean the rooms, working splendidly, feeling much better now.

Reading Hat-Boy's column on the subway the next morning, she felt her heart quivering with intense happiness, felt a little there that she could hardly believe was possible for a woman of her age.

"Darrell Miller and his mistis, Marianne Lane, say it best to that they are through and they have a message for Mrs. Garrity... THE MESSAGE: IF YOU THINK IT'S THAT IMPORTANT, SO DO WE."

Mrs. Garrity got off the subway, her eyes dreamy, walked proudly into the basement of the hotel.

DEMOCRATIC CHALLENGE

Truman, Barkley Head Ticket

By WALTER A. SHEAD

WNU Washington Correspondent PHILADELPHIA, PA.—In a thrill-packed convention, probably the most dramatic in modern political history, President Harry S. Truman was nominated for a full term for the presidency and the veteran Senator, Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, was named his running mate to head the Democratic ticket for the 1948 campaign.

And to feed the flames of a bedlam-rocked convention hall, the President broke all precedents and threw down the gauntlet to the Republicans by literally daring them to carry out their platform pledges at a special session of the Congress which he said he would call July 26.

While sweltering delegates who had battled each other throughout a day in which irate southerners had staged an open revolt against the civil rights plank of the platform, cheered themselves hoarse, the President openly challenged his Republican opponents in a ringing declaration of war.

The President's spirited and brilliant speech of acceptance topped and threw into the background events which at any other convention would have been top news.

Checking off the promises of the GOP platform on domestic issues, the President, in a fighting mood which swept the delegates and galleries in rafter-rocking applause, declared he had time after time asked the Republican-controlled 80th Congress for action on the very pledges made in their platform.

He said that he would demand that the special session of the congress take action to halt high prices, to aid education, a national health law, civil rights, increase in minimum wages, extension of social security...

SEN. ALBEN W. BARKLEY

The dramatic climax of the convention overshadowed the fight for the presidential nomination which became a rout when the southerners switched from Governor Ben Laney, of Arkansas, their announced candidate, to Senator Richard B. Russell, of Georgia. The only ballot vote was 248 for Russell and 447 1/2 for Mr. Truman.

One highlight of the convention was the platform fight on the floor over the civil rights program. Southern delegates led by Gov. Dan Moody, of Texas, offered a minority report to the platform committee report containing a states rights program to supplement the civil rights plank adopted by the committee.

This plank paid high tribute to President Truman for his civil rights stand and called upon the congress to support the President in (1) the fight

Fighting Words Weld Party

PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN

to full and equal political participation; (2) right to equal opportunity of employment; (3) the right of security of person and (4) the right of equal treatment in the service and defense of our nation. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 631 1/2 to 582 1/2.

The platform differs from the Republican platform in some essentials—it demands repeal of the Republican Taft-Hartley labor act and declares it has proven a failure; it demands repeal of the discriminatory taxes on oleomargarine; it pledges to oppose any revision of federal laws "designed to curtail the most effective functioning of farm cooperatives."

The foreign policy plank pledged continued support of the Truman doctrine, the Marshall plan, the United Nations, the Good Neighbor Policy with respect to South America; and, taking a slap at the Republicans, pledged sufficient appropriations to carry out the will of the congress on its foreign commitments.

Truman's Opposition Lacked Leadership In the hectic days prior to the roll call of states, the revolt against the nomination of President Truman, followed much the same pattern that was evident in the Republican convention held in the same hall only a few short weeks before...

While many of the faces of by-gone glory were at Philadelphia and the ghost of Franklin D. Roosevelt still hovered over the consideration of factions which always has made up the Democratic party, there was no single leader able to cement these factions into unity as Roosevelt and his brain-trusters did through four national conventions, one of them here at Philadelphia in 1936.

So it was in the GOP convention opponents of Governor Dewey could settle on no concentrated opposition. So the President ran away with the nomination on the first ballot as Dewey did on the third.

While some sources sought to interpret this factionalism in the convention as a "wake" or a "breaking up" of the party, the political history indicates there has always been such factionalism in Democratic conventions. This factionalism or sectionalism has been brought about geographical and political philosophy factors...

As a matter of fact it is only three conventions since the civil war has this factionalism been brought together with any degree of national unity. The 1894 Chicago convention which first nominated Cleveland land; the 1912 convention at Baltimore which nominated Wilson and the 1932 Chicago convention which first nominated Roosevelt. In all three the cement of unity was a national crisis.

A great many of the delegates believed the nation again faces a major crisis... that any day some incident may touch off World War III. Hence they sought Gen. Eisenhower as a national leader who could weld the party into unity. Eisenhower refused. Then they turned to the liberal and New Dealer Justice William O. Douglas. He refused. Then in attempting to center on someone else revolvers could find no one.

Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, one of the better known liberals, put himself forward. But the big states—California, New York, Illinois refused to take him and swung back into the Truman column after James Roosevelt, son of the late President, had been severely chastised by his own California delegation.

SEN. ALBEN W. BARKLEY

Sparked Enthusiasm The delegates were whipped into something like old-fashioned "democracy" when Barkley delivered his blistering, fighting keynote speech. The veteran Kentuckian was given a 25-minute demonstration. These delegates were just waiting for something to cheer over, to lift the morale from the bitter depths of factionalism and Barkley gave it to them. He speeded up the tempo of the convention so that by the third day there was some evidence of the will to win and to fight for the nominee of the convention.

So the pattern of this 28th quadrennial convention of the Democratic party was set with the goal of whipping into being enough unity to convince the American people the nation faces a new crisis with national security even more important than domestic issues and that a cohesion of the Democrats, the liberals and the independents is again necessary for the common welfare. Democrats have never won an election except on that issue... that and the record of the 80th Congress will be the issue on which they must pin their hopes in 1948.

Due to the absence of competing downtown headquarters at the various hotels, such as was the case in the Republican convention, there was not quite the activity and enthusiasm engendered among delegates at this convention. Aside from this fact however, the convention hall pageantry was just as hectic and inn all probability these Democratic delegates wanted desperately something to cheer about, cheered at the louder for their speakers and the demonstrations were just as vigorous and hoarse as those of the Republican convention held here such a short time previous.

Comparatively, the convention set-up was identical. Some of the state delegations had been charged around to give the more favored Democratic states better positions with regard to the speaker's podium.

THERE WAS DANCING in the streets of Philadelphia during the Democratic convention. But it wasn't Democratic delegates. The traditional Members parade was staged for free for the benefit of the delegates. During the Republican convention three weeks before the Mussumers show was staged in Philadelphia stadium at $2 a head, attracting some 30,000 people. Perhaps the convention committee thought the Democratic visitors less prosperous than their Republican counterparts.

DEMOCRATS SAY REPUBLICANS put 'em up to it. Maybe it was because convention goers will buy almost anything. But vendors were offering wretched reading "draft Fashings."

LESLEY SUFFIN, the sergeant-at-arms, had strict orders to keep folks out who didn't have the proper credentials. But the guards were looked out of their own dressing room at convention hall one session when the lock jammed.

Convention Briefs

PUMPKING HOME HERE charge that Republicans were responsible for high prices. Mrs. India Edwards, director of the Democrats Women's Division, of the National committee, waved a juicy, raw T-bone steak above her head as she addressed the delegates. She said the steak cost her $1.10 a pound at a Philadelphia butcher shop. Other women speakers highlighted the high cost of home-keeping because of inflated prices.

SIGNAL DEVICE NECESSARY FOR RECORDING TELEPHONE CONVERSATION

If at any time after August 2, any telephone user hears a brief high, almost musical note on his telephone line while he is talking - a sort of gentle "beep" repeated every fifteen seconds or so - he will know that the person to whom he is talking has a recording machine making a record of the conversation.

The Public Authorities who regulate the telephone business recently authorized use of recording devices connected to a subscribers telephone provided that a warning signal is used to let the person at the other end of the line know that the conversation is being recorded. After August 2 it will be unlawful for anyone to use a recording machine with the telephone without using the special equipment which sends the warning signal over the line.

The Telephone Company will install and maintain only the equipment for connecting the recorder and the automatic tone warning device to the telephone line. The Company will not manufacture or install recording devices.

If a person using a telephone does not want a recording made of his conversation, he should ask the person with whom he is talking to disconnect the recording machine. When the recorder is disconnected the "beep" signal will no longer be heard.

RAILROADERS OBSERVE SAFETY WEEK

Plans were being completed today for Southern Pacific men and women in Carrizozo to join the railroad's more than 60,000 other employees in six western states in an intensive accident prevention campaign during the week of August 8 - 14.

In making this announcement, P. D. Robinson, superintendent on this division of the railroad, said the special week, to be known as "Life Saver Week", would be devoted to focusing attention of employees on the importance of safe practices and the use of all forms of safety devices in various phases of railroad work.

"A decrease of nearly 50 per cent has been accomplished so far this year in the ratio of casualties among employes throughout the railroad", Robinson said, "but we never relax on a good record."

Southern Pacific's system-wide activities in connection with accident prevention are directed by A. A. Lowe, superintendent of safety.
