Prospects that the Army may reduce its demands for additional land for the Alamogordo Bombing Range were seen here today.

State Land Commissioner John E. Miles was informed of this possibility by Secretary of the Interior James A. Krug. In his letter, Krug said the Army also may "offer to the ranchers better terms with respect to co-use" of whatever land may be taken.

In addition, the Secretary said his Department was ready to cooperate fully in "arranging suitable exchanges" of Federal acreage with this state for privately owned land taken by the Army.

Krug was assigned to act on a letter written to President Truman by Miles, requesting a top-echelon review of the Army's enlargement plan for the bombing range. This proposal would involve expansion of the military holdings in New Mexico by more than a million acres.

Miles specifically asked a review of the hearing recently held at Las Cruces, where he strongly urged more equitable compensation to the private owners for any land taken for this purpose.

"The transcript of the Las Cruces hearing has been received here, and both the Army and this Department now have it under review," Krug wrote.

The Interior Department is "with holding action on the (land) withdrawn until we get further word from the Army in this connection," the Secretary said.

"I appreciate that this withdrawal involves a very large area of New Mexico and the possible resultant impact upon the State's land economy," Krug told Miles.

This Department will cooperate fully in arranging suitable exchanges—I shall be pleased to hear further from you on this matter and to expedite action on any exchanges your State may propose."

For a Better City

Lesson for September 13, 1948

Dr. Freeman

"FOR A BETTER CITY" is a good slogan. No one would think of objecting to it. If the great city of Ephesus, capital and metropolis of the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of the Roman Empire, had had a chamber of commerce, no doubt they would all have been in favor of a Better City. There would be no argument about that. The question is: What makes a city better? Four different ideas on that line--two very bad ones, and two good ones--can be seen in the story of Acts 19.

You should read the story itself before looking over these comments. Because we are beginning toward the end of the story, with the very lowest and silliest of the four ideas how to make a city better. It is a very simple idea: Just "holler," yell, make a demonstration. Make it long, make it loud, and the city will be the better for it. For two mortal hours that absurd mass-meeting kept the uproar going: "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

A curious thing, the mob-mind. If something is true, how can noise make it truer? If a thing is a lie, how can all the shouting in the world make it respectable? But the mob-mind thinks that if a thing is said loudly enough and by enough people, it is bound to be true. So that theater-full of fools wanted a good afternoon shouting-a lie into the deaf blue heavens: It did Diana no good. She was as dead as Marley's ghost, she had never lived, in fact. It was no use drumming up the decibels. Do you know people who think they can make your town better by shouting about it? It won't work. You can make a town or county famous if you shout long enough; but you won't make it better.

Making Money

THE SILVERSMITHS there in Ephesus had another theory. The way they looked at it, the big thing is money. They used to make money selling their little silver shrines. Now this fellow Paul had come along, persuading people that hand-made gods are no gods at all, and the trade in "sacred" trinkets had fallen off. It looked like a bad year for the silversmiths. To make things better, they decided, they needed more money. More business! More production! The fact that what they produced was not only worthless but actually harmful, did not seem to bother them. Do you know people like that today?

Abiding By the Law

THE TOWN CLERK of Ephesus had a simple idea, vastly better than these other two. He saw no sense in the mass meeting, he seems not to have been taken in by the silversmiths' crocodile tears. If anything was wrong in Ephesus, he said, the courts were open, and trials were open, and trials could be held. We have laws--let us live by them; that was the gist of his idea. That is not bad advice.

All honor to the honest servants of the public who now as then give their best efforts to seeing that good laws are made and well enforced.

Changing Lives

SPEAKING OF LAWS, there are three kinds of people in the world. One kind will not obey the laws whatever they are. These are the criminal classes. A second kind stay "inside the law" but they never advance a step beyond them. A third kind, too rare, will go far beyond the law's requirements in personal living and in social helpfulness.

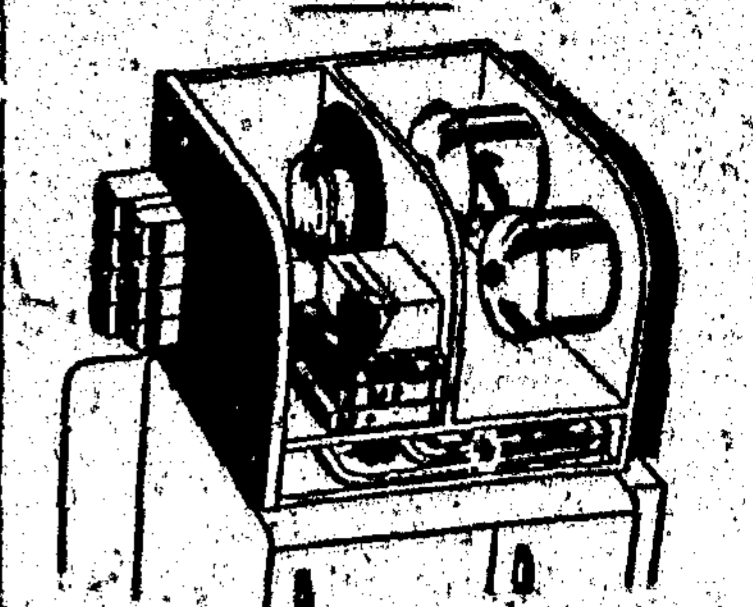

Now Paul had been in the city of Ephesus for some months, and he had nothing to do with the laws of that city. Yet what he was doing was more effective in making that city better than anything the courts could have done.

For what he was doing was nothing less than changing lives. "The trouble with people is that they're people," and the business of Christianity first of all is changing people. It is no use hanging out the slogan "For a Better City" unless you are working for better people.

A tree is no healthier than its roots, and a community's roots are the characters of her people. And from St. Paul's day to this, the one and only organization which sets out to change people from the inside, is the Christian church.

Varying Basic Recipes Assures Interesting Meals
(See recipes below)

Basic Recipes

"IS THERE any simple way to learn how to be a good cook?" asks a young woman now starting out to keep house. Older homemakers have asked me the same question just as often, so the problem seems to be a common one.

The answer is simply yes. The method is to learn certain basic food preparations, then to vary these, and you certainly will have a good storehouse from which to select for meals of all kinds—for family and for guests.

The idea is to learn the basic recipe so well that it becomes as much a part of you as any simple habit. You'll memorize the ingredients if you repeat the recipe often enough, and the method is even easier to learn. Then it's no trick at all to make an infinite variety of variations of the basic recipe.

Once you have learned a recipe in this way, you'll always remember it, no matter how rushed you are or in whose kitchen you are making it. You will have arrived at perfection once you polish the technique of making it, and that is true satisfaction.

Perhaps you've heard that Mrs. Jones is the muffin maker of the community, especially because of her orange muffins. You can become famous for any one of several of your recipes just by learning to follow basic recipes, and trying out their variations.

HERE ARE SEVERAL good basic recipes with their appropriate variations which can form a good backbone to your collection:

Plain Muffins
(Makes about 14)

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 4 tablespoons melted shortening or salad oil

Mix together dry ingredients. Combine all remaining ingredients. Add all at once to flour mixture, stirring, not beating, quickly and vigorously until just mixed but still lumpy in appearance so that muffins will have good texture. Fill greased or oiled muffin pans, one-half full, and bake in a hot (425-degree) oven about 25 minutes.

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS: Use above recipe, reducing flour to one-quarter cup, adding one cup unsifted whole wheat flour. Increase sugar to four tablespoons and use four teaspoons baking powder. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 35 minutes.

NUT MUFFINS: Use plain muffin recipe, adding one cup finely chopped nuts to other ingredients.

ORANGE MUFFINS: Use plain muffins, increasing sugar to four tablespoons, reducing milk to three-quarter cup, and adding one-quarter cup orange juice and one-quarter cup grated orange rind.

CHEESE MUFFINS: Add one cup grated American cheese, lightly packed, to dry ingredients.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS: Mix three-quarter cup of fresh blueberries or thawed, frozen blueberries in plain muffin batter.

A SIMPLE DISH like macaroni and cheese has several good variations that you can use frequently. Here, again, when you learn how to make the dish to perfection, you can be certain to enjoy the food no matter what variation you use.

Macaroni and Cheese
(Serves 6)

- 1 3/2-pound package macaroni
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 1/2 cups grated American cheese

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Melt butter in top of double boiler, blend in flour and seasonings, then add milk and cook until thick. Add grated cheese and stir until melted. Combine sauce and macaroni and turn into a greased casserole. Bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven until golden brown, about 20 minutes.

Bake popovers while you heat some creamed chipped beef on top of the stove. Split the popovers and serve with the creamed beef.

Sliced leftover roast heated in gravy extended with tomato sauce is excellent when placed over piping hot noodles.

Lamb stew takes on a different character when you add two cups of canned tomatoes in place of the water. A clove of garlic, placed on a toothpick so that it's easy to remove when cooking is finished, adds a touch of delicious flavor.

Fearless Dog Saves Couple From Two Bears

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA.—A small dog, unawed by a pair of brown bears, went to the defense of its master and his wife, possibly saving their lives.

D. C. Walker, 55, of Kenai had his scalp torn off, his left elbow crushed, an eye injured and fang marks over his body. His scalp was sewed back in place and he is expected to recover.

Walker, his wife and dog, Boots, were returning home from Whitney cannery to dairy farms at the mouth of the Kenai river, where they are caretakers.

Two brown bears broke suddenly from the brush and charged. When 15 feet away one of the bears lunged for the couple. Walker pushed his wife clear, kicked the bear and then fell to the ground to play "dead."

The second bear then charged after Mrs. Walker, who ran back toward the cannery. Boots jumped into the attack and diverted the bear's attention so that it never reached her.

"I tried to play dead and keep under the bear's stomach," Walker said. "But the bear grabbed my head in its mouth. I could feel its tongue working over my head. Then he bit me. I reached up with my left arm to push him away. He crushed my elbow."

By the time Mrs. Walker reached the cannery and help, the dog's barking drew the bear's attention from Walker. The latter started walking toward the cannery.

Mrs. Walker collapsed when she saw her husband still alive.

Badly mangled, Walker was rushed here by plane.

It was the first report of brown bears in the area.

'Valueless' Oil Property Vindicates Convicted Owner

LOS ANGELES.—"Worthless, eh?" said George Leingang in effect as he had his name cleared of a grand theft conviction.

Leingang, 53, of Bakersfield, Calif., was convicted in 1944 of grand theft after two men charged he had sold them valueless oil property in Cuyama valley.

Recently a rich strike was made there. Leingang said that he was now worth nearly a million dollars.

Furthermore, he said, he had paid the two men $5,500 in restitution. The court ordered the conviction wiped off the books.

Allen Cook Learns Quickly About U. S. Wage Minimum

SAN FRANCISCO.—Elsie Scheidegger, 28, has learned enough since coming to the United States to know she wants more money and shorter hours in her job as cook to the Berkeley household of Dr. Hans M. Huerzeler, Swiss consul here.

Miss Scheidegger is on strike. While she and the consul general and the immigration service figure out her status, Mrs. Huerzeler and her daughter and even the consul general are doing their best to cook their own meals.

Mrs. Richard G. James told Elsie's story to Berkeley police. The officers had been called when Huerzeler found his cook had moved to Mrs. James' home.

Said Mrs. James: Elsie was brought here by the consul general for domestic purposes. Elsie said she was paid $25 monthly on a 24-hour day, seven-day week basis, with free room and board and time off to go to church.

But she made some friends who told her all about wages and hours, particularly about a scale calling for $130 a month plus room and meals.

The immigration service, reminded by the cookless consul general that Elsie is an alien, ordered an investigation.

Woman Charges Dentist Pulled Teeth Without Her Permission

MICHIGAN CITY, IND.—A 59-year-old dentist was held on charges of forcing a woman to permit him to yank out 12 of her teeth.

Dr. Jesse R. Bennett said from his jail cell that it was "all a mistake" and then lapsed into silence. Police said he was unable to post $100 bond on a specific charge of assault and battery.

His alleged victim, Mrs. Margaret Agnew, 33, told authorities that her husband, Morris, 35, invited Bennett to their home to work on her teeth. She said the dentist arrived with a satchel of tools and her husband went out to buy liquor.

She said both of them drank and the dentist forced her to sit in a kitchen chair while he pulled teeth with reckless abandon.

"Every time he'd pull a tooth, he'd take a drink of whiskey," she charged.

Four hours and 12 teeth later, the dentist still had not given her an anesthetic, Mrs. Agnew declared. She said her husband was present throughout the ordeal.

Finally, Mrs. Agnew said, Bennett drank so much that he could pull no more teeth and her husband put him to bed.

Korea's Isle of Amarens Lives on Ocean Harvest

As shallow-sea divers for pearls, shellfish, edible seaweed, and various items of commerce, women of Oriental coasts for centuries have outdone the men.

Those of Cheju, 50 miles off Korea's southern tip, have been notably adept. An estimated 10,000 today live by harvesting ocean wares, while their men in some cases tend the children and prepare the meals, notes the National Geographic society.

From this feminine monopoly has grown the tradition of Cheju as an Amazon Isle. It took positive form in the West about 1900 when a traveler brought back the tale that the island until 1850 had been populated solely by women and young children in storied Amazon style.

In the 1946 census, Cheju counted 276,148 inhabitants, virtually all on the coasts of the 45-by-20-mile oval of land. There were 113 women to each 100 men on Cheju in 1946, whereas on the Korean mainland men outnumbered women.

Cheju port on the north coast is the island's capital and chief center, counting 30,000 inhabitants. They live largely in crude, thatched-roof huts of mud and stone. Ancient walls to defend against pirate attack still stand along the shore.

Life of Samuel Colt

After being expelled from Amherst, Samuel Colt was sent to sea. The ship's paddle wheel gave him an idea for the revolving pistol cylinder. At the age of 14 he whittled out a model and it worked. Later, he quit his father's dye plant to seek his fortune as "Dr. Colt". In 1832 he sent his plan of a gun to the U. S. patent office, and was awarded a patent in 1836. After the original company failed, Colt invented the submarine "mine", while still in his twenties. He died wealthy at the age of 48.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The week beginning October 3 has been designated by President Truman as Fire Prevention Week. He has pointed out that fire not only claims thousands of lives every year, but that fire-caused destruction has mounted in recent years to the point where it threatens a total loss of three-quarters of a billion dollars in 1948 alone.

Charles F. Brannon, secretary of agriculture, in commenting on National Fire Prevention Week, says: "Of all the catastrophes which afflict mankind, fire is perhaps least deserving of the term 'accident.' We cannot prevent earthquakes, torrential rains, or hurricanes. But most fires are preventable. Man, not Nature, thoughtlessly piles up inflammable materials in basement or attic and permits the development of other fire hazards."

Since the best defense against fire is alertness, the President sets aside a Fire Prevention Week in which he urges everyone to make a special effort to remove fire hazards and to build up habits of fire prevention.

Secretary Brannon calls on all farm people to assume the responsibility of fire prevention by eliminating fire hazards from farm buildings and from communities. He says "Most fires are man-made. Therefore, most fires are preventable. Let us prevent them—by being alert, active, cooperative. Let us all, as good citizens, find and eliminate such fire hazards as may exist in and about our own homes."

President Truman has asked state and local governments, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the National Fire Waste Council, the American National Red Cross, business and labor organizations, churches, schools, civic groups, and others to cooperate fully in bringing into sharp focus the attitude of alertness which should carry over throughout the other 51 weeks of the year.

Chief sponsors of the week are the National Fire Protection Association and the USDA Safety Council of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIP ANNOUNCED

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 28—A new University of New Mexico scholarship was announced today by Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson, Chairman of the Awards Committee. The Louis E. Ruffin $800 Scholarship will be awarded to a deserving New Mexico high school graduate in financial need.

The Louis E. Ruffin grant is a four year scholarship which will give $100 per semester to the winning student who must be a graduate of a New Mexico high school and unable to afford a college education. The applicant need only be an average student, but he must show courage and hard work in the studies of his choice, according to Mr. Ruffin.

"There are many people who need and deserve an education but who can neither qualify as 'A' students or finance their own educations," said Mr. Ruffin in explaining his award. "I had little or no opportunity to study before I went to work and it is my sincerest desire to help some deserving New Mexico boy," he went on.

Mr. Ruffin stated that he would like the scholarship to begin next September if there are enough applicants by then. He has requested that the Committee of Awards at the University be the sole judges of the applicants. Interested high school graduates should make application to the Personnel Office, University of New Mexico.

Mr. Ruffin has resided in the state for 32 years and has been associated with the Texas Co. for 30 years. He is Chairman of the State Highway Commission and President of the Albuquerque Federal Savings and Loan. His son Louis E. Jr. has been attending the University in the general college.

RELEASED BY N. M. PRESS

"Mean as Hell," that first-hand account of an unending variety of trigger incidents in Texas and New Mexico in the late 1800's, written by Carlsbad's Dee Harkey and being released October 1 by the University of New Mexico Press, is causing a state and nation-wide stir.

The New Mexico Bookstore of Albuquerque will entertain at an autographing party honoring the author on Friday afternoon, October 1st. Mr. James P. Threlkeld, owner, extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend and meet the colorful, old-time sheriff.

The Old Lincoln County Museum at Lincoln, New Mexico will have him as guest of honor at a special program and autographing party.

OUR PUBLIC BUSINESS

Social Security Payments

According to the Social Security Bulletin issued by the Social Security Administration, Washington, D. C., old age assistance was given to 6696 recipients in New Mexico in the month of March 1946, the total being $311,700, or an average of $35.84. Aid to the blind was given to 410 persons, the total amount being $16,172, or an average of $55.19 per family. General assistance was given to 1936 cases, the total amount being $41,379 or an average of $21.37 per case.

Living Costs

According to newspaper reports, the United States Labor Department announced that on May 13, retail prices were 72.9 percent higher than the 1939 average, and nearly 30 percent above June 1946, when most price controls were abandoned.

School Enrollment Increases

Reports from counties and municipalities in the State indicate substantial increase in enrollments since prewar years. In the City of Las Vegas, the increase in enrollment is reported as 400 pupils since 1941 for the 12 grades, requiring at least 12 more classrooms. Although enrollments averaged an increase for the two year period, 1946 to 1946, of three percent, the attendance record showed a ten percent increase.

County Line Change

The residents of the southern section of Socorro County have petitioned to be admitted into Sierra County, the area to be annexed covers 691,200 acres, situated East of Hot Springs and Elephant Butte Lake. There are approximately 30 ranches in this area and nearly all signed a petition for annexation to Sierra County, acting under Chapter 103 of the Laws of New Mexico, 1947. Just how this is reconciled with the constitutional provision as to the change in the county lines is not apparent.

Municipal Revenue

In the Town of Silver City new revenue is provided for by the enactment of a one-cent gasoline tax, which would yield the City ten thousand dollars a year. Other municipalities are contemplating garbage collection charges and the possibility of securing more revenue from liquor licenses.

FAVORS PRIVATELY-OWNED PUBLIC UTILITIES

From the standpoint of the public, what is the difference between a privately-owned utility and one which is owned by the state? A good answer to that is provided in an editorial in the Record, of Columbia, South Carolina.

"Privately-owned public utilities," it says, "are vested with such a direct public interest that the state does not allow the profit motive to operate freely in this field. Rates are regulated by the state and may be raised or lowered only as the state allows. And the valuation of the company's holdings for the purpose of rate fixing is determined also by the state, not by the corporation."

"The state-owned utility, however, is horse of a different color. The taxpayers—do the buying, but they have no stockholder's certificates to certify their ownership and they get no dividends from it. And because state-owned corporations and authorities are divorced from direct contact with the taxpayers, who foot the bill, it isn't required that the state-owned utilities be efficiently operated. It is only necessary that they be operated in conformity to the rules of politics."

"The Record could have gone on to point out that the socialized utility is an insatiable eater of tax funds, and that it pays little or nothing on taxes, while the privately owned utility must pay its own way, and is taxed to the hilt in addition. If a private company loses money, no one subsidizes it, the stockholders go without dividends. The socialized business can be wasteful and everyone will be taxed to pay its losses."

CAPITAN METHODIST CHURCH
F. J. Johnson, Pastor

Surely this one is important! Because next Sunday is World Wide Communion Sunday. In co-operation with the World Council of Churches (152 denominations in 44 countries) the Methodist church is calling upon all our members to the last man or woman and many, many other believers with them, to turn out for church next Sunday to give proof to the world that there is a unity and fellowship around the world in Jesus Christ. Hour 11:00 A. M. Therefore quash that excuse and attend the church of your choice or that church most convenient where you can give testimony to our universal faith and fellowship. Think of Jesus' prayer; "That they may be one, even as we are one." John 17:22.

Please, dear reader, do not fall yourself, your neighbor, your church your world and your Saviour in this invitation. "All things are now ready. Come." We will be glad to welcome you to partake with us. Thank you!

With the exception of diseases of the heart and circulatory system, cancer kills more people than any other disease.

40 YEARS AGO FROM 1908 CARRIZOZO NEWS

It is less than 5 weeks to election day. Bryan is gaining all along the line. Taft is falling behind, and the republican party is becoming more demoralized as the great day approaches. The jig is about up. The latest bulletins concede New York to the democrats. Foraker, in Ohio, is attacking Roosevelt and Taft, and stampeding the republicans, and it is now probable that Taft will lose the electoral vote in that state.

MORE HELP NEEDED TO FIGHT FOOT-MOUTH DISEASE IN OLD MEXICO

The swift moving program to eradicate Foot and Mouth Disease in the Republic of Mexico has made it essential that an additional one-hundred and twenty-five men be added to the field staff in Mexico, according to Harry H. Johnson, Co-director of the Eradication program.

"We are hopeful that we can recruit these men from the border states of New Mexico, Arizona and Texas because they are more familiar with conditions, customs and languages of the two countries," Johnson said.

The New Mexico Cattle Growers Association's Albuquerque office will be used as a clearing house in seeking these men, and the prospective livestock inspectors are urged to contact Horace H. Hen-ing in that office sometime before October 6.

"The success or failure of the program to eradicate Foot and Mouth Disease in Mexico depends greatly upon an accelerated program, and this can be done only through the employment of additional personnel in the immediate future. The men we are seeking must know the cattle business, speak and write English and Spanish and be in physical condition which will permit rough living. Salaries offered for the work start at $3,727 annually, plus approximately $1,400 living and quarters allowance and six dollars per day when away from Mexico City," Johnson said.

Arrangements are being made to conduct interviews with prospective workers in Albuquerque on October 7 and 8; in Tucson, Arizona on September 30 through October 6 and in El Paso, Texas from October 9 through 12.

"The new program which is rapidly taking shape is being worked along entirely new lines with an ultimate goal of eradicating the disease within two and one-half years or less. The program calls for the vaccination of 7,500,000 animals twice at six months intervals," Johnson continued. "The production of vaccine in Mexico is now being carried out on a scale hitherto unapproached in any other country in the world."

"The 125 men we are seeking to assist in the program in the program will carry out the eradication program is so dependent upon the employment of properly qualified men, we are appealing to the livestock industry of New Mexico for assistance," Johnson said.

Much of a bank's work must be done before the doors are opened each day and after they have been shut. For instance, here are some of the jobs done: opening the vault, supplying tellers with cash, distributing mail, proving cash, making up the balance sheet, sending out-of-town checks for collection, to mention a few. In short, public banking hours are as long as may be necessary to serve the community efficiently.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

South Receives Wallace With Fury; CIO Pledges to Support President; Berlin Meetings May End Stalemate

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

WALLACE: Pure Hate

Henry Wallace claimed that his expansive love for his fellow men had not been diminished by his experiences in the South, but it stood as a fact that the ramparts of that abiding affection must have undergone a severe test.

As the Progressive party's presidential candidate Wallace had gallantly penetrated into the southern states to bring them his brand of enlightenment.

But the crusader was not appreciated. He was received in North Carolina by hostile audiences who showered him with invective, vilification, eggs and tomatoes.

His speeches were blinked out by boos and catcalls in Winston-Salem, Durham, Burlington, Greensboro and Charlotte, N.C. Wallace was stunned with unbelief at what was happening to him.

In Burlington, where the full force of North Carolina's vituperative mood was unleashed, the former vice president was not even given a chance to talk. He was unable to do anything except dodge missiles and plead with the furious citizens closest to him that things like this were not supposed to happen in the United States.

It was an ugly display of bad taste that spread hysterically from town to town as Wallace's tour progressed. The egg and tomato tossing was severely criticized by top U. S. officials, including President Truman who called it "highly un-American business," and said: "Mr. Wallace is entitled to say his piece the same as any other American."

Nevertheless, in North Carolina Wallace's say was confined for the most part to protestations against the treatment he was receiving. At Greensboro, with egg shell clinging to his head, he shouted:

"I don't mind being hit by eggs and tomatoes; but they would be more useful being fed to children. The faces I have seen distorted by hatred are of people for whom I have in my heart profound compassion, because most of them have not enough to eat."

The crowd laughed at him. And as Wallace left North Carolina to head into Alabama and Mississippi it looked as though he might be able to use some "profound compassion" for himself, for his racial views are opposed even more violently in those states.

Crowd Fury

Henry Wallace, Progressive party candidate for President, has discovered that the penalty for espousing political ideas that differ sharply from the majority opinion is hatred. Speaking at Greensboro, N. C., he was pelted with eggs and vegetables—which probably is just another form of freedom of expression.

BERLIN: Some Talk

That sound of sabers rattling in Berlin meant this time that the disputants in the fight over control of the German capital were merely laying down their swords to get together and talk about it once more.

Tension lifted almost visibly when the Big Four military governors of Germany met for the first time in more than five months to discuss a single currency for Berlin and the lifting of the Soviet blockade of the city.

The meeting was called in the first place to implement decisions reached by the American, British and French ambassadors with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow. At least the Moscow talks had accomplished that much.

Topping the list of items for discussion was the problem of what to do about the rival currencies in Berlin. At present both eastern and western zone marks are circulating in the city.

It was understood that the conferees in Moscow previously had agreed in principle that only the Soviet zone mark should circulate in Berlin, but that it should be under four-power control.

There were still conflicting attitudes as to what course the Berlin parley should take, however.

The Russians believed that an agreement on getting a single currency must be worked out before any final East-West agreement on Berlin can be possible.

In Washington the U. S. state department, backed by Great Britain and France, was insisting that the Soviets must lift the Berlin blockade before any discussion of the currency problem is held.

The whole situation was extremely complex and, actually, few persons outside of high official circles made any pretense of being able to understand it fully.

About as far as general understanding of the subject went, it was limited to the realization that unless an agreement were reached soon the tortured peace would become more dangerously strained.

Headliners

IN GARLAND, TEX. . . . A campaign-minded hatmaker was offering edible candy headgear (above) for reckless election bettors who vow to eat their hats if their candidate loses.

IN ROCHESTER, N. H. . . . Raymond Beaulieu, fined $75 in municipal court for operating an unregistered automobile, sold his car to raise money to pay the fine.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS. . . . Robert H. Smith was granted a divorce when he testified that his wife, enraged because he didn't know how to dance the polka, slapped and kicked him until his weight dropped from 166 pounds to 140.

GREEK CRISIS: Relieved

Few U. S. forays into the field of international aid have been so widely condemned and excoriated as the so-called "Truman doctrine" for economic help to Greece and Turkey.

Almost since its inception the "Truman doctrine" has been denounced as a fraud, a farce and a flop. Much of the denunciation, however, seemed to be based on opinion rather than fact. Actually, for a long time it was almost impossible to assess the condition of the Greek aid program.

Now the government has come out with a report to congress that states bluntly that American military and economic aid has removed the danger of Greece falling to Communism.

"While not all the problems in Greece are solved, the crisis of 18 months ago has been averted," one official said. "The aid program in Greece is over the hump."

The report, submitted by President Truman and covering the first year of American efforts to keep Greece free, embodied virtually the first optimism anyone has expressed regarding the picture in Greece.

So far does this optimism extend that Greece now is accepted officially as the "bright spot" in American attempts to help other nations resist the onslaughts of Communism. In Asia and other European countries the anti-Communist battle is not considered won.

Government emphasis, of course, is on the fact that the task in Greece still is not done. Between 15,000 and 17,000 Greek guerrillas remain at large despite recent successes by government forces. And guerrilla action may continue for several years, depending on the amount of aid received by the rebels from Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Briefly, the official success story of the Greek effort claims that the nation's wild inflation has been reined, the cost of living is dropping, about 1,000 miles of key roads have been reconstructed and the vital Corinth canal is open to traffic.

Love in Bloom?

British tongues and heartstrings are vibrating with rumors of a romantic association (that's what it is when royalty is involved) between Princess Margaret Rose, youngest daughter of the king and queen, and the marquis of Blandford, a fair-haired young nobleman. Her parents have yet to pass judgment on Mrs. however.

DEATH GAME:

Charles E. Hughes Regally bearded Charles Evans Hughes came within a whisker of being elected the 27th President of the United States in 1916.

At that time he was a crusty, unbending, academic man, and it was probably because of that temperament that he lost the presidential race to Woodrow Wilson in one of the closest elections in history—277 electoral votes to 254.

California's vote was the deciding factor in the final result and Hughes lost that when he incensed the California governor by failing to visit him while on a tour of the state.

But Charles E. Hughes was, nevertheless, as near to being a great man as most people ever get. And he mellowed with time.

He was the only American ever to be appointed twice to the U. S. supreme court—once in 1910 and again in 1930 when he returned to preside as chief justice.

He was twice governor of New York, his native state, resigning the position during his second term to become a supreme court associate justice.

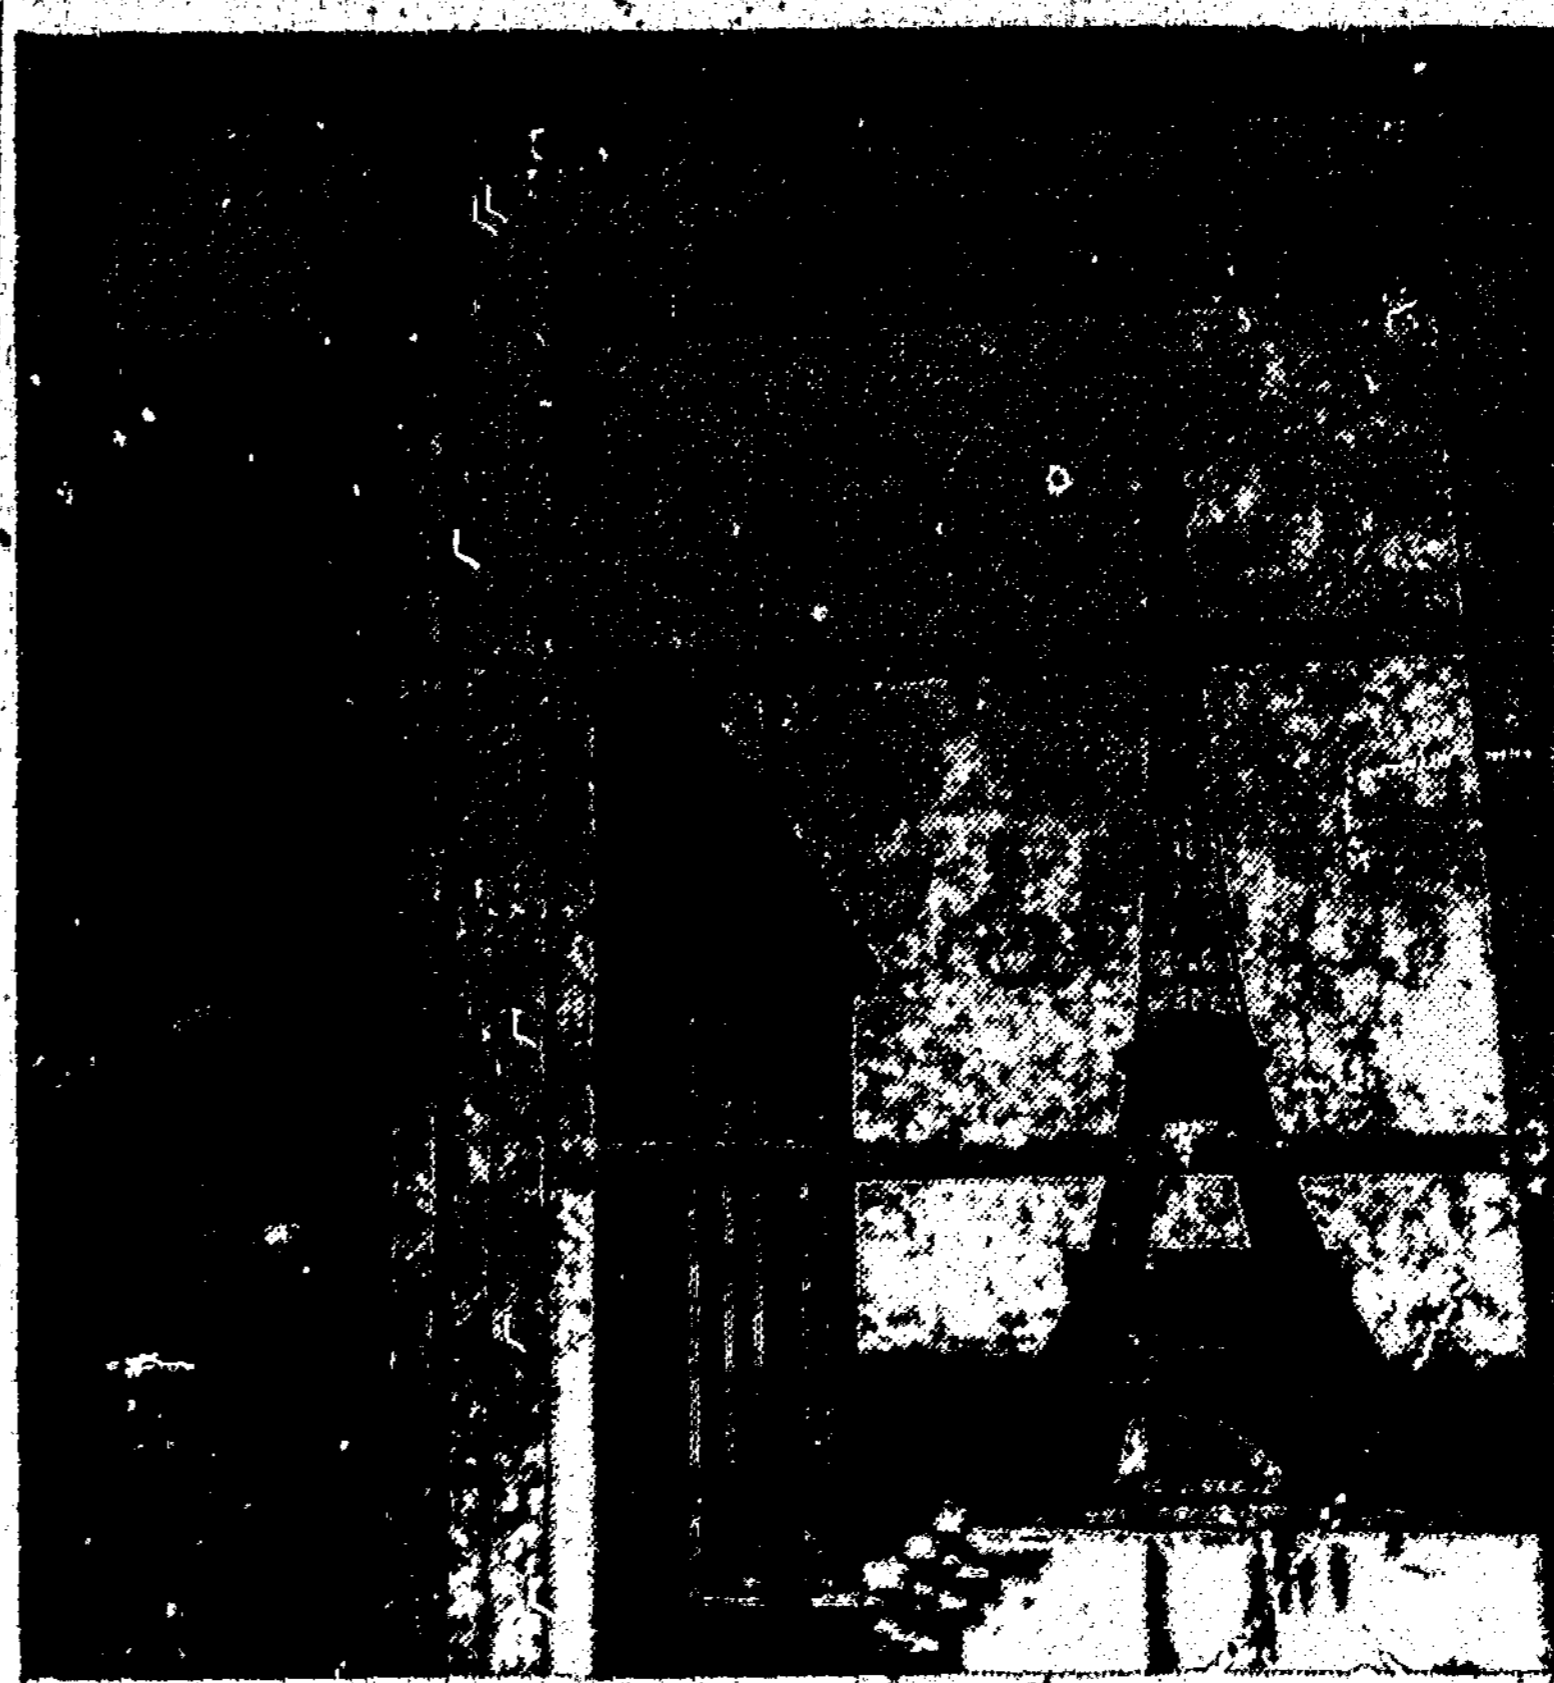

In July, 1941, he retired from the supreme bench to withdraw into private life. Between that time and August of this year he made only one public appearance—to attend the funeral services of Harlan Fiske Stone, another chief justice, in April, 1946.

Late last month Charles Evans Hughes, 86 years old, died of congestive heart failure.

Timber Top

Lumber production in the U. S. this year probably will exceed the 1947 output by at least 8 per cent the commerce department has estimated.

The department's lumber survey committee reported that this year would be attained if there is an alleviation of demand. Lumber cut recently is flowing to markets in ample quantity to supply the record-breaking construction activity

WHERE THE U. N. WILL TALK IT OVER . . . This month the United Nations is reassembling in Paris to have another try at persuading the world to settle down. Here, a workman is shown engaged in the decoration of the newly erected secretariat building adjoining the Chateau palace where the U. N. general assembly is convening. Through the window the Eiffel tower looms into the sky.

WALLACE PICNICS AFTER 'EGG SHAMPOO' . . . In this picture Henry Wallace, Progressive party candidate for President, doesn't look like a man who had just been subjected to a shower of eggs and other missiles, as he was when he spoke at Greensboro, N. C. He is chatting calmly with Mary Price, who was among those named by Elizabeth Bentley, confessed spy, at the recent congressional spy investigation in Washington.

ALL HANDS ALOFT TO TRIM SAILS . . . For the men who go down to the sea in ships, sightless life is virtually a thing of the past, along with the cry "Ball ball" and sailing vessels are only used as training ships now. This one is the coast guard training ship Eagle, formerly the German naval training vessel, Horst Wessel, a three-masted bark.

YOUNG MEN GOING WEST . . . From Astoria, Ore., who was in the process of defending himself in a $100,000 damage suit in Los Angeles, had a group of young men come up and see her in the courtroom. It was a pack of Cub scouts, visiting the court to observe American jurisprudence. When the plaintiff explained to them that they were called a "Cub pack," she retorted that they looked more like a wolf pack to her.

THE FICTION CORNER

BACK SEAT SAX

By CATHERINE BARRETT

MY NAME is Joe, but the fellows in the orchestra call me Bunny. They're nice fellows all right and they don't do it to hurt my feelings, but I'm scared of audiences, see, and every time I get up in front of one my nose starts to twitch and it makes my nose wiggle—like a rabbit's. I've seen myself in a mirror and I got to admit if I was one of the fellows I'd be calling me Bunny too. You get what I mean.

Nine years I've been in Jake Little's orchestra playing the sax and the bassoon. First we went all over the country but now we've got a neat little spot in Hollywood. Jake likes me and he thinks I play the sweetest sax he ever heard, but a long time ago he quit passing me solo parts because sure as I ever got up where I faced an audience I'd get nervous and my darned mouth would start twitching and well, there I was.

I've had to sit back and watch plenty of other fellows come and go, getting the solos, getting the hands, getting the raises in pay, and getting now and bigger contracts some place else. Now it's Charley Welch.

I play better'n he does—oh, that ain't bragging—even Charley'll tell you that. Only Charley's got the personality. And he's good looking.

And Marge likes him. That's the rub. Marge is head usher here at the Zenobia. One of those cute little flashy-eyed girls in the satin uniforms. You've seen 'em. Brass buttons down the front and swallow-tails over their tight blue satin pants. You wouldn't think to look at Marge that she's like she is. Practical and hard working.

She's had a tough time, see. She's twenty-two but you'd never guess it. And she's got a kid five years old. The cutest little trick you ever saw. Vingie. Vingie likes me too. "Why do they call you Bunny?" she says to me, and she looks at my ears, like she thinks maybe they'll grow up out of my hair.

"Because I'm a rabbit, see," I tell her. Only I'm looking at her mother.

Marge frowns and then she says, "That's what makes me so mad at you. Why do you let yourself be a rabbit?"

Marge is like that. What she don't want to be, she won't let herself be. Marge got married when she was sixteen to some rich folks' kid. He run out on her before Vingie was born and ever since Marge has taken care of herself. She's got a nice little apartment and she dresses Vingie up clean and cute. Oh I tell you, Marge is smart.

She's too good for me. She ought to have a fellow that could do a lot for her. She says to me, "If you were only the sort who'd ever get ahead." And she looks at me cross. "I like you, Bunny," she'll say, "better than any fellow I ever knew, but I don't want to get married to a backseat sax player who'll never be anything else."

Charley Welch has been making a play for Marge. I like Charley, only he's the darnedest guy about getting to work on time. Always the last one. Skating across the stage and freezing into position the very second the curtain starts up. We've kept telling him some time he'll miss it. He laughs and says he'll commence starting earlier. But he never does.

"Charley's fun," Marge says to me. "And he'll get ahead too."

"Honey," I says to her, "you're not going to marry Charley, are you?"

"Well, I don't know," she says. "I could pain him down a little. And if he had a wife to see that he got started to work on time..."

It gets me worried, see, and I begin to think that I want to get married to Marge so bad that maybe now I could handle a solo spot and not go twitchy and miff it. So I ask Jake Little to give me a try. And he does, on one of the matinees.

Do I go over big? No, I sit back there and I don't look at the audience but I know it's out front. All them eyes. I begin to sweat and my mouth goes to jumping. I signal Jake and he gets Charley to take over.

I don't even ask Marge to let me take her home, I just go on to my own place. And I think about

"Joe," she says, "you were wonderful. I knew you could do it. Vingie was there, too, dancing around and clapping hands."

Charley probably taking her home in his roadster. Charley'll laugh and say "That poor Bunny."

Then comes the matinee when Charley don't show. His seat's empty and Jake is gettin' nervous and the fellows are saying like they always do. "Don't worry, he'll be here." But he don't come, and the buzzer sounds... and Jake makes me come up and take Charley's place. He looks down at me like he's sore and he says, "You'll do the solo. Get it!"

So I'm stuck with it. And I tell myself, all right, you got to. You ain't going to be a rabbit all your life. Think of Vingie. And remember, Marge is out there.

I ain't begun to twitch because I got my lips held so tight they're moving my teeth back into my mouth.

I KNOW the part all right. I always know all the parts. And I can play 'em like a million dollars at home. I can even play 'em for Marge. It's the audience that gets me. All them eyes.

Okay, I tell myself, you do it this time, or you're through. And I mean through.

My time comes and I stand up. I start lifting my sax. I'm not twitching. . . . But my lips has frozen solid over my teeth. I try, and get out of breath and my chest collapses. But my sax is up. The cue comes.

And the sweetest music I ever heard comes floating in from the wings.

I lock quick sideways. Charley's out there. Charley's playin' his piece.

I stand there and go through the motions.

First thing I know I find myself lookin' down at that audience. You know, it's funny, but that's the first time I ever saw the people in an audience. It ain't an octopus any more. It's fellows and girls and women that look like the woman that runs the restaurant where I eat, or the one who sits across the way on the bus.

And what do you think I see. Why, right there in the front row is Vingie. With a grin all the way across her little pink face. And clear in the back is Marge, and she's watchin' me so hard her eyes are round and shiny.

Well, sir, my chest begins working again and I can breathe. My lips unfreeze. In a minute I'm standing there as easy as can be. Boy, is that a swell feeling!—Like sprouting wings.

I'm still feeling like a bird on the loose when the show's over and Marge comes back. She rushes right over to me, "Joe," she says—first time she's ever called me Joe. "Joe, you were wonderful. I knew you could do it." And she takes my arm and hugs it to her.

"Right behind her is Vingie and she's saying, 'I saw you, I saw you,' and dancing around and clapping her hands."

Well, if I'm still a bird, I'm a dead one. All that swell feeling is gone.

One thing I've never done is lie. I've been told I'm too dumb to lie. Well, maybe. But still I don't lie. Only to help me if I didn't want to then. But I said, "It wasn't me, Honey. Charley was playing from the wings."

So I tell her how it all was. She looks at me and her eyes get shiny, and I've never seen her mouth so soft. "And you carried right on," she said, and her voice sounded like it does when she talks to Vingie just before Vingie goes to sleep. "That was cute of you, Joe," she says.

And she takes hold of my arm again and says, "I promised Vingie you'd take us out for a bite of dinner. Will you?"

Just then Charley goes by. "Hello, Charley," Marge says, and turns her back on him, plain as day.

I'm beginning to see how much I owe the guy and I says, "Thanks, Charley," and he just shakes his hands above his head and grins and keeps going.

And Marge just says, "Come on, Vingie," and holds out her hand.

Vingie frowns a little. "Can't I walk on the other side and hold Joe's hand?"

So she does.

That night Marge put her hands on my shoulders and says, "Joe, I think you're going places." Then she leans against me and puts her face into my coat. "Will you take me with you?" she says.

And there's Vingie dancing around us clapping her hands, and saying, "Me, too, Joey, me, too!"

Spraying in Summer Will Not Halt Grubs

Destroying Eggs Falls To Stop Winter Attack

Spraying cattle in summer with benzene hexachloride, rotenone or other insecticides, new or old, does not prevent grub infestation in winter.

Although there is nothing new in that statement, the need for repeating it is plainly indicated by an account of spraying dairy cattle in one of the corn belt states. The work was given considerable publicity, with erroneous conclusions.

In this case, older animals of the herd were sprayed with DDT. Heifers and calves were not sprayed because they were running in pas-

Dipping method is favored by some cattlemen to control grubs and other infestations.

Spraying them would have required getting them up and handling them.

The following winter, it was noticeable that the cows which had been sprayed were not infested with grubs. The young stuff was peppered with them. The natural conclusion was that a summer-spray of DDT was effective.

That conclusion is unwarranted because, as entomologists know, older cattle seldom if ever have grubs of the heel fly. The young animals are the ones that suffer.

The department of agriculture says: "Many substances have been applied to cattle to keep away heel flies and to kill the eggs deposited on the legs of the animals. All have been found to be either ineffective or impractical. The best time for attacking the pest is when the grubs are in the backs of cattle."

Soil Inventory Tormed Good Management Basis

Keep an inventory of the soil's fertility, the same as of buildings, livestock and equipment, advises Middle West Soil Improvement committee.

Nearly any farmer knows how many dairy cows, beef cattle, hogs and sheep he has. He also keeps a record of his seed, feed, buildings, machinery and fences.

Few farmers, however, have an inventory of their principal asset—the soil. Yet a farmer's earning power depends largely on whether his soil's fertility level is high or low.

On thousands of farms a soil fertility inventory would show serious shortages. Overcropping, has used up nitrogen, phosphate and potash. The organic-matter supply is scraping the bottom of the barrel. Soil structure has been damaged. Drainage is poor and air circulation is shut off. Crop output is low.

Restocking the "shelves" of the soil warehouse involves several essential steps. Plant food is important. But other things also are needed, particularly organic matter and good soil structure.

The soil inventory can be improved faster and at lower cost if "leaks" are halted by conservation measures that will slow down runoff and save topsoil and plant foods. Among such measures are contour cultivation, strip cropping and terracing where needed.

Soil Fumigation Needed In Sugar Beet Culture

Joint tests in Utah by sugar interests and USDA "showed that soil fumigation for beets which follow beets made the difference between big yields and no yield at all." The sugar beet nematode builds up so fast in one growing season where fertile soil has grown a big crop of beets that the field is a death-bed for sugar beets the next year without soil fumigation. It was indicated in the tests.

Sparrows

Grace Noll Crowell

I LOVE the sparrows, bad though they may be, And you would love them, too, if you had kin Long hours with them alone for company. And if their friendliness had eased your pain. Gray days, gray skies, gray sparrows on bare trees, Yet something in their needless song so true, I often think a sparrow's voice must please The Lord as much as lark's and thrasher's do.

Remember this—Are not two sparrows sold For one small farthing, yet not one may fall Without the Father sees it? This I hold More close than any comforting at all. And fear ye not, therefore—O little birds, Your nearness brings the solace of these words.

STATEMENT
Payments of bounties on coyotes by the State Commission for Predator Control has been discontinued for an indefinite period according to an announcement by Manuel B. Otero, Albuquerque, Chairman. "Funds for the payment of bounties on coyotes have been exhausted," Otero said, and "It is doubtful that the bounty program can be continued until the State Legislators takes additional action on the matter."

The State Bounty Law as approved by the last session of the State Legislature provided that funds for the bounty payments would be derived from a four mill levy on assessed tax valuations on sheep and through use of predator animal fund from the Division of Grazing.

Members of the State Commission for Predator Control as established by law include the Chairman of the State Cattle Sanitary Board; Sheep Sanitary Board; State Game Commission and the Director of the State Extension Service.
