Morris Edmiston Succumbs In Denver Tuesday.

When he was quite small his parents moved to Carrizozo, where he attended the local schools, later taking a business course. After he had finished school he became call boy for the Railroad company then later was fireman.

Mr. Edmiston was twice married. His first wife was Miss Nell Duke of Battle Creek, Michigan. No children were born to this union.

In 1928 Mr. Edmiston married his second wife, Miss Mary Heath of Battle Creek, Michigan. No children were born to this union.

In 1921 Mr. Edmiston was employed by the Sinclair Oil company as chief Division Engineer in the railroad section, a position which he held until he volunteered for Army duty in the recent war. He was called to active duty in 1943, with the rank of Captain in chemical warfare service.

He was pronounced sufficiently improved to be released, but later was hospitalized at Fitzsimmons General hospital in Denver, where he spent much of his time due to his falling health.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Russ Reject U. N. Berlin Proposal; Stalin Hits Three Western Powers As Attempting to Start a New War

By Bill Schoengen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

DIFFERENT COAL STRIKE . . . French troops in battle array march into the Villiers mine in the St. Etienne area of France as the government seized strike-bound coal mines throughout northern France. Violent rioting and assorted civil battles preceded the government's action in taking over the mines.

REJECTION: U. N. Proposal

Russia wouldn't play ball with the United Nations on the settlement of the Berlin dispute.

A six-power "face-saving" resolution for solving the crisis was presented to the U. N. security council and promptly batted down by the Soviets—to the surprise of no one concerned.

THE RESOLUTION proposed that Russia lift the Berlin blockade immediately; that the four military governors of Germany begin immediate negotiations to implement the Moscow agreement of August 30 for a Soviet-backed, four-power controlled mark in Berlin by November 20, and that a foreign ministers' council be convened within 10 days thereafter to take up other serious differences over Germany.

Russia's stated objection to the resolution was that it provided for the lifting of the blockade before the currency control went into effect.

Previously, the western powers had turned down Andrei Vishinsky's counter proposal for simultaneous lifting of the blockade and putting into effect the currency agreement.

IN REALITY, this point of difference upon which the latest deadlock centered was a minor one, but it served to illustrate the vast gap that must be closed before a meeting of minds between the East and West can be achieved. MOREOVER, it has become increasingly clear that Moscow does not even have any desire to lift the blockade. It is, for them, too good a weapon with which to attempt to bludgeon the U. S. and the West into granting them further concessions in Germany, including a voice in the operation of the all-valuable Ruhr industrial area.

STALIN TALKS: 'Horrors'

In what is probably the most amazing outburst he has made since the war, Soviet Premier Josef Stalin told the world that the U. S., Great Britain and France are seeking a new war through a "policy of aggression."

The accusation, despite the high level of its source, amounted to nothing more than a repetition of the already stereotyped Russian practice of attempting to turn an opponent's reasoning back on him.

HOWEVER, he added, the "public forces favoring peace" are too strong to permit "the instigators of a new war" to plunge the world again into the "horrors" of conflict.

Stalin named Winston Churchill as "the main instigator of a new war" and predicted that Churchill's "pupils of aggression" would be rejected by the people just as Churchill has been.

Although he did not label President Truman or any other leader as a "pupil in aggression," the implication was too clear to be mistaken, particularly since the Moscow radio had broadcast a prediction that Mr. Truman would be defeated on November 2.

STALIN accused the U. S. and Britain of twice rejecting settlements of the Berlin crisis with Russia and said that debate on the Berlin question in the U. N. security council "was a display of aggression on the part of Anglo-American and French ruling circles."

The British and Americans, the Soviet premier said, declared "null and void" an agreement reached in the Kremlin conferences August 30 that would have lifted the Soviet blockade and ended the crisis.

HE CHARGED that the western powers fear "most of all" to reach any agreement with the Soviet Union.

"What they want is not agreement and cooperation, but talk about agreement and cooperation, so as to put the blame on the U. S. S. R. by preventing agreement, and to 'prove' that cooperation is impossible." Stalin's statement obviously was issued as a high-powered propaganda stroke—a move the Russians undoubtedly hoped would tip the Berlin scales in their favor.

Headliners

IN YORK, Pa. . . Mrs. Walter Sechrist made a wide-eyed announcement that her gas range picks up short wave transmissions made by her next-door neighbor, an amateur radio operator, vowed it had broadcast a conversation between the neighbor and another operator in South America.

IN SALEM, Mass. . . Robert C. Carter claimed in a divorce suit that his wife had deserted him a block from the church just two minutes after they were married in 1944.

IN HAGERSTOWN, Mo. . . Thieves broke into the Potomac Edison building, got away with a specially equipped camera set up to take pictures of thieves breaking into the Potomac Edison building.

IN LITTLE BRICKHILL, Eng. . . Postmaster N. C. Parrott locked down his nose at the man with the gun trying to rob him of his postal receipts, sneered, "The revolver is not loaded, you know. 'Sorry' said the crushed desperado, slinking away."

IN DURAND, Wis. . . Frank Weimraski was forced to reassure his customers as to the fact that he still was in the popcorn and soft drink business after he began making deliveries with an old hearse.

BLUFFING: In Berlin

Gen. H. H. Arnold, wartime commander-in-chief of the U. S. air forces, turned up in the news with a military man's hearty opinion about what to do with the Russians in Berlin.

"WHY NOT take a motor convoy and push it through the corridor to Berlin?" he suggested. "Perhaps we might have learned something from Gen. George Patton's technique. If Patton were running the show he would take it through."

Russia, he claimed, is attempting a tremendous bluff against the U. S. and the western allies, but is "not ready to fight, doesn't want to fight and won't fight" if someone should call her bluff.

WHAT would the Russians do if an armed convoy did plow through the blockade? "Not much, if anything," was Arnold's laconic estimate.

"It would be a grave and basic error to let the Communists bluff us out in the present deadlock in Germany."

"They are not ready to fight and they do not want to fight. We should curb the national tendency to be in awe of the Russians, an awe amounting almost to fear."

"TIME plays with the Russians. We have the superior power now. They may have it later. Meantime, it would be folly to let them bridge the gap by bluff alone."

Whether he was right or wrong, Hap Arnold at least had done the worrying U. S. public one favor: By reducing the problem to hard, simple terms of pure action and divorcing it from the intricate realm of diplomacy he made it appear more understandable, less overwhelming and less frightening. General Arnold, at least isn't expecting a war tomorrow.

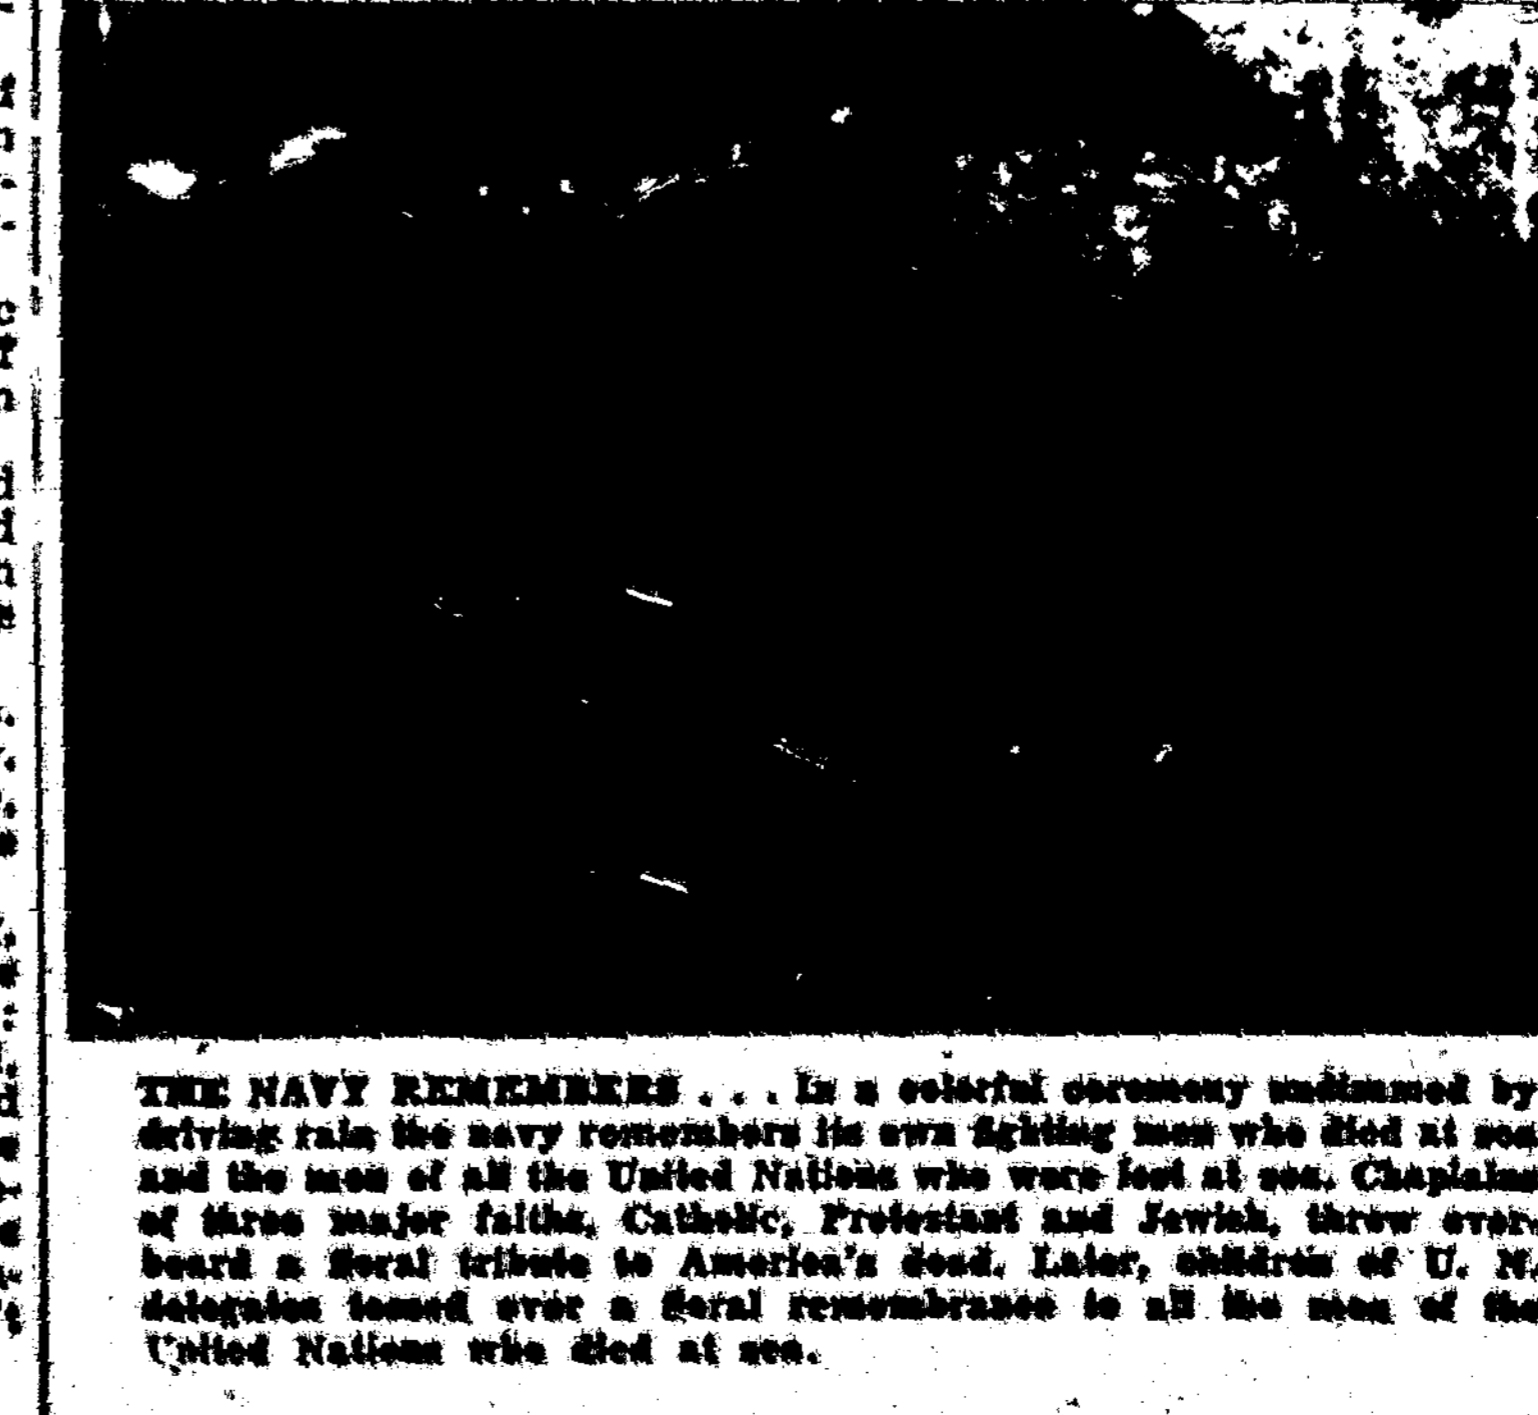

LIE DETECTOR IN ACTION . . . Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop, 77, did not murder her daughter-in-law according to the results of the psycho-detective-meter test conducted by Dr. Orlando F. Scott. The aged woman physician who was convicted of slaying pretty Rheta Gardner Wynkoop was recently freed from prison after serving 12 years and also months for the sensational murder.

WOMAN MAYOR . . . Mrs. Dorothy McCullough Lee, who soon will become the first woman mayor of the city of Portland, Ore., finds much interest in studying the intricate workings of New York City. Here Chief Inspector Martin Brews, with the aid of a policeman, shows her on a sidewalk street model the route taken by presidential, kings and heroes when they visit the biggest city on the continent.

THRESHOLD OF A NEW LIFE . . . This photograph was taken at Bremerhaven, Germany, as the first of 200,000 displaced persons boarded ship for the United States and a new way of life, Janina Cernatella, a 12-year-old parentless Lithuanian girl, is understandably bewildered by the commotion which attended her boarding of the U. S. army transport General Black on her way to the promised land.

THE NAVY REMEMBERS . . . In a colorful ceremony unhampered by driving rain the navy remembers its own fighting men who died at sea and the men of all the United Nations who were lost at sea. Chaplains of three major faiths, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish, threw overboard a floral tribute to America's dead. Later, children of U. N. delegates tossed over a floral remembrance to all the men of the United Nations who died at sea.

THE FICTION CORNER
SEAL OF APPROVAL
 By JOHN H. ROSE

He had been away a long time but Armand's appeared much the same to him—even to the apartment across the street which he nearly by-passed in his bitterness.

ARMAND'S looked much the same, even after seven years. The long lunch counter on the right extended the full length of the room, the polished fittings of the soda fountain gleaming in dual rows as they reflected themselves in the mirror behind the counter. To the left were the red leather booths. Half way back was a wide doorway leading to the dining room and dance floor beyond. I looked for old Peter, the clean-up man who was the favorite of the high school kids who frequented the place. But he was not in sight. A new soda jerk polished the spotless surface before me, and the girl who took my order was also a newcomer.

"A chocolate malted," I said, and strolled to the jukebox in the far corner while the little mixer hummed. I punched the numbers at random and fed the music box a couple of coins.

Back on my stool I saw that Armand was sitting at the little alcove table overlooking the entire room.

The scent of her had been everywhere, her soft hair cascading gently to her shoulders, the big brown eyes, long lashes, her soft white skin, and her pointed lips, vividly but carefully painted to entice the likes of me.

He always sat in this spot, or perched on a stool in the cashier's cage. He glanced up and smiled like a fat little Buddha come to life. He didn't speak. I thought:

"He doesn't remember me. But then I am the only customer in the place, he must have smiled at me. . . . He remembers me all right," I thought, "but doubtless doesn't relish the memory."

I turned away. I couldn't help but stare out the window. Her apartment was just across the street, third floor front. The windows overlooking the street were dark. Being so near her set the butterflies hopping in the pit of my stomach. I returned to the fountain and sipped at the malted.

Seven years. How do people mark the passage of seven years? To some it's the span of a witch's curse on a broken mirror. The return of the locust. The end of the fitch. Pilgrimages to Mecca. Sabbatical leaves for teachers. Each has his own way of reckoning. Seven years . . . or a century.

I glanced at Armand. To him it probably meant another chin . . . more money. To her . . . I had no idea.

It started to rain. Belting down hard, little torrential streams poured from the awnings, just as they had the first night we came to Armand's. Her guardian angel, she'd called him. He had to meet and approve all her new friends. For years they had been neighbors, and Armand was a kind of paternal friend since her own father had died.

As the old boy gave me the once over that night, she had laughed gaily. And silly or not, I felt pretty swell when he came over and treated us. She told me he gave his seal of approval by treating if he liked you. I was in.

I ordered another malted for the sake of the memory, and looked up toward the little alcove. Armand had detached himself from his chair, and with no small amount of effort, was waddling along behind the counter. I waited, thinking of that other night when she had been at my side. The scent of her had been everywhere, her soft hair cascading gently to her shoulders, the big brown eyes, long lashes, her soft white skin, and her pointed lips, vividly but carefully painted to entice the likes of me.

"Not bad, not bad," he shrugged. "A bit older, a trifle wiser. I can't complain." His eyes wandered across the street as he left unsaid the answer to my unasked question.

"Are you back in town to stay?" he added, as a kind of afterthought. "That all depends," I said, and wondered about that "wiser" business. She certainly must have told him all about me. But he sounded friendly enough. I watched as he glanced again toward the front. I knew he was looking up at her apartment windows.

I tried to sound casual as I asked, "Anita been in lately?" He stroked his handful of chin, and seemed to be making a decision before he answered. I fidgeted and sipped again at the malted. He stood watching me for a long minute, then he said: "She was in last night," he said. "As a matter of fact, we were talking about you, Mr. Anderson." He picked up my empty glass, and forced it down over the automatic washer.

I nodded, too busy thinking about what he said to even reply properly. So they had been talking about me? What did that mean? I was certain neither of them knew the real story behind my sudden departure. I'd had to go in a hurry. No one knew except John and Peggy. As far as the others were concerned, I was just a guy who had taken his firm for a few hundred dollars. They probably figured I'd been lucky to escape prison.

That I had been covering for John was nobody's business. I didn't approve what Johnny had done, but Peggy was my sister. With three kids and another on the way, Johnny knew his salary wouldn't be able to stand the stretch. Instead of laying his problems before his boss and asking for a raise, he lost his head. He did the foolish thing. Others had done it before. I got him out of the mess, but no one knew this but the three of us.

So I figured any conversation about me wouldn't be complimentary . . . unless they'd discovered that I wasn't just a cheap thief. I wondered. She lived at the same place. Armand was friendly toward me. What did it all add up to?

But did they know these things about Peggy and John? Did they know that the money had been repaid? Or were they like the others—did they suspect that I was just a bum? I guess I might just as well forget about the whole thing and go some place to start all over again. I took one last look toward her apartment, picked up my coat, and asked the girl for my check. Armand had stepped to one of the booths to greet some folks who had come in just as the rain started. I waited for him at the cashier's booth at the end of the counter.

I was disgusted and showed it, I guess. Finally Armand shuffled over to the cash register and took the check the girl had given me.

"That's all right, Mr. Anderson," he said, "This is my treat. Good luck."

I muttered my thanks and went outside to stand under the awning, wondering where to go in the gloomy downpour. Then it suddenly dawned on me . . . Armand had treated! His seal of approval! I was still Mr. Big across the street—that's what he was trying to tell me!

Armand had let me know that in his quaint, unobtrusive way. I looked again at the apartment windows. There was a light there now. She was home!

I didn't even look up and down the street, but dashed out into the rain. This was it! The thing I'd waited a million minutes for. This made up for every lonely night, every remark handed out by those who didn't know. I was going home. I could say all the things that had been bottled up inside me for so long. I could tell her now how much I loved her, how I had longed for her. I glanced back as I entered the building. Armand was peering out the door, his round face pressed against the glass, a wide smile spread across his countenance as I waved merrily before climbing the stairs to the third floor front.

Business Principles Required on Farms

Operation by Guess or "By Neighbor" Deplored

Cash, credit, equipment, soil fertility and human strength are involved on the ledger of assets controlled by the farmer and rancher—assets that become liabilities when management is lacking.

Probably 90 per cent of the difference between a poor farm or ranch and a profitable one is in the management. Good business principles lead a farmer ahead, whereas one who operates by intuition, by guess or "by neighbor" never gets ahead.

Here are a few points necessary to good farm or ranch management:

1. KEEP RECORDS. This assures factual data to use in determining production possibilities of the farm or ranch. See that yields of crops, production of livestock, cash expenses and receipts are recorded properly.

2. WATCH MARKET TRENDS. By consistently reading market outlooks or discussions on prices, which reflect the most probable future situations, farmers and ranchers will have a guide to use in planning production. Thus they will be able to have produce ready to sell at the right time to realize the highest price and still have livestock and land more fertile for the following year.

3. PLAN LABOR. Make it tie in with seasons for care of machinery and equipment, time for planting, care of crops, harvesting and marketing.

4. PLAN THE FARMSTEAD AND FIELDS. Make rotations easy; save labor and increase yields by adapting crops to land.

Study in Contrasts

Petticoat Influence. Say, who's that walking down the street in front of us? We mean that burrified dresden doll who pauses to swish up her skirts as she steps daintily up and down the curb? Could it be the same teen-ager we used to deplore in jeans and shirts? It could—and it is! It's YOU in the petticoats that have changed your whole manner and personality, along with your appearance.

Conceal or Reveal?—A survey indicates that most of you approve of the petticoat that hangs a bit beneath your skirt. And just to make sure that it doesn't blush unseen, you're catching up one side of your skirt with a bow or clip. All this despite protests from the same Joes who so vigorously and futilely opposed your New Look. Will they be sewing ruffles on their trousers in protest, now that you've all subscribed to the P. H. D. society (Petticoat Hanging Down, that is)?

ATOM BOMB BLAST 50 MILES AWAY MAKES CATTLE TURN WHITE

An atomic bombing on test grounds in New Mexico caused the hair of cattle 50 miles away to turn white, Army veterinarians have just disclosed.

The cloud created by the bomb burst drifted more than 50 miles from the point of explosion, and deadly radioactive particles settled out of the moving cloud onto a pasturing herd of Hereford cattle.

Such radioactive material is capable of producing many strange, if not crippling or fatal changes in the body. In this case, the effect was to turn the hair white. Exposure of the cattle was not anticipated in planning the bomb test.

Colonel W. O. Kester and Major E. B. Miller of the Army Veterinary Corps, writing in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association, said that the atom bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki during the war did not, as far as anyone knows, play any such long range pranks, because the bombs exploded high above the ground and the lethal radioactive rays were dispersed before they had a chance to travel a great distance. In New Mexico, however, the test bomb was detonated close to the ground, with the result that it kicked up a lot of desert dust and made the dust radioactive. Then, the dust containing bomb cloud moved over a wide area and spread contamination.

The "cattle in white" incident was pointed up by the writers to impress the need for close supervision of animals and foods in the event of an atomic attack. The veterinary profession already has assembled considerable information about atomic effects on livestock and pets, and about the treatment of atom bomb produced illnesses, but much still must be learned along this line, the Army spokesmen declared. — from American Veterinary Medical Assoc. Service.

The big advantage of the train is ROOM

ROOM to stretch your legs

You don't have to fold up in a cramped, uncomfortable seat when you travel by train. You can stretch your legs, relax and watch the scenery in comfort. Steel rails are so smooth you can read without straining your eyes. Or catch up on your work.

ROOM to walk around

You're not confined to your seat on the train. You can get up and walk around whenever you wish. Comfortable rest rooms for men and women in every car.

ROOM to eat

On the train you eat in style at a table, with clean linen, good food and service. You pay no more than you would in any good hotel. In coffee shop cars even less.

ROOM for luggage

You can take a normal amount of luggage into your railroad car with you. In addition, on most tickets, you can check 150 pounds in the baggage car, without charge.

ROOM to sleep

Pullmans have big, comfortable beds—each more than six feet long and three feet wide. Soft mattresses, clean sheets, plenty of blankets. A courteous porter is always on duty to serve you. And when it's windy, stormy and wet, you'll be snug and warm on the train.

Next time, try the train

Wanted: Men and Money!

There are two chief ingredients in the American recipe for prosperity and economic well-being. The first is men, honest-to-goodness men. These must be men who are not afraid of work, who will not be stopped from getting a job done. They are men who believe in honest work, who give value for value received. They have pride and satisfaction in doing a good job well. Indeed, our American workmen (there are today few Americans who do not work) have no equal anywhere.

Then there is money. Money is the most popular exchange for work. We "make" money. Therefore, we can say that money is stored-up work. Another name for this stored-up work is capital. We Americans have found that if we take money and men, then let them both work together for full production, the result is a prosperous and progressive community. In the main, the recipe needs good workmen and plenty of capital.

Use the Recipe

The formula has worked wonders for us. Our nation has benefited by having so many good and honest people. By using the tools that capital has bought, we produce the things that all of us need. Will this formula continue to work us wonders and bring us the kind of prosperity that is the envy of the world? Can we keep these good living standards that seem so commonplace to us? Yes, if we can depend on the ingredients of our recipe: men and money! In a nation of free people, men and money can continue to do the job.

We have the men. Employment is good. Yet, there is danger that we may lose the other half of the team that has made America great. Money (capital) to buy the tools of production, is getting hard to find. Since 1930, America's stock of tools has gradually slipped back to where it was in 1920. This is the first period in our history that we didn't gain in the tools of production. Our tools are of less total value, and they also provide fewer horses (horsepower) to workmen.

A Nation's Builders

Now, if we had no men of vision and promise, we certainly could not expect the money to do its part. But we do have men. America has intelligent young men, willing to build their dreams into realities.

What need have they with money? You see, "harcabrated" ideas, like Alexander Graham Bell's telephone, require money for development. New products, new manufacturing processes, new inventions, new businesses—all must have capital. In a free economy that permits competition, capital works hand in hand with men to give the nation the jobs and the goods that it needs and wants. Men and money!

Expect the Team!

In losing the money, there is also danger of losing the men. Invention and ambition may be killed, when rewards are not available. If we do not have capital to invest, to explore new developments and new businesses, with hope of larger profits ahead, then what happens to your men? They don't invent, and they don't develop anything! No new jobs, no new products, no progress. No getting ahead! It's national suicide.

Why is there so little money today for investment and risk? Our tax system puts heavy burdens on incentive. Taxes take away the money. Twenty-five cents out of every national income dollar in America now goes into taxes. Half the total income of Americans making $5,000 or more annually is turned over to tax collectors. With strict economy in government, this would not be necessary. We must give rich men a real chance to team up with God. Only that way may we keep America prosperous and jobs plentiful.

Anderson Presents Limited Elk Season Books To University

The University of New Mexico library is 1,084 volumes richer through a gift by newly-elected Senator Clinton P. Anderson. President Tom L. Popejoy and Miss Helen Hefling, acting for Librarian Arthur McAnally, accepted the books for the University. Many of the large collection deal with congressional hearings and conduct of the last war; the lend lease bill, hearings on silver petroleum, mineral resources and the public lands question.

On the other hand, since Mr. Anderson bought the Evelyn McLean Walsh library, upon her death, the gift collection contains many valuable complete sets of outstanding literary authors. There is a particularly fine set of Jane Austin's works. It is the William Lyon Phelps edition, illustrated by C. E. and H. M. Brock. The complete works of Benvenuto Cellini in handsome leather binding make a welcome addition to the library as well as several sets of volumes on Theodore Roosevelt, Napoleon, and Abraham Lincoln.

Said Mr. Anderson, in presenting the gift to the University: "I was afraid they would get lost and I know no other place where they would be put to better use than our own State University. When I get all ready to move to Washington there will be more where these came from—particularly some very fine volumes on our late president, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

In commenting on the gift collection, President Popejoy said: "The University is grateful to Senator Anderson for this fine manifestation of his genuine interest. The 1,084 volumes will add a great deal to the educational offerings of the Library."

Limited Elk Season On T. O. Ranch

The State Game Department has announced a very limited elk season on the T. O. Ranch—Johnson Mesa area near Raton. The dates are noon, December 9th to December 13th, inclusive. The final date set for receiving applications is 10 o'clock A. M., November 28th.

Applications for the 60 permits available to the public should be in letter form accompanied by the fee of $15.00. All permits (except the land owners and guest permits) are reserved for residents of New Mexico.

No person who killed an elk in this state last year will be eligible to apply for or receive a permit. This provision does not apply to land owners and their guest permits.

Hunters will be required to check in and out with the Game Department at Raton and hunters will be required to hunt a reasonable time in areas where there is pressure for removal of elk on account of damage regardless of possible plentiful supplies elsewhere.

Only about 60 permits will be available for the public after taking care of the equitable needs of the land owners. (All this is private land and elk were stocked by the T. O. Ranch).

Once the permit is issued it can't very well be transferred so please do not apply unless you fully expect to use the permit personally.

Bear in mind that there probably will be 600 applications and hence only one out of ten will get a permit. The drawing will be absolutely fair and held in public and some applicants will be present.

Please don't apply unless you are willing to take a chance on that basis; that is, to take a one-in-ten chance of getting a permit and using it personally if you do get it, and hunting in the area assigned.

BACKWARD GLANCES

40 YEARS AGO FROM 1898 CARRIZOZO NEWS

A fire occurred in Carrizozo Friday night, consuming two buildings on El Paso Avenue. One of the buildings was owned by George Roslington and had only a short time before been vacated by R. H. Rhea, the tailor. The other building was one of the oldest buildings in the town, and was badly out of repair. It was untenanted, except by hoboes, and attempts had been made to exclude them; but somehow they effected an entrance, and the fire is supposed to have started from their occupancy—stray match or a carelessly dropped cigarette. Neither building was insured.

The grand old American feast of Thanksgiving, to which rich and poor alike look forward with feelings of happiness, will have come and gone before another issue of the NEWS reaches its readers. Here in New Mexico we have cause to be thankful for many things, among which was our safe transit through the financial and business depression of the past year, and the bountiful crops which the earth has yielded. Capital and immigration is headed this way; new railroads and irrigation schemes are being promulgated; business is improving, and statehood seems to be almost within grasping distance. Some of us, of course, have prospered more than others; and those of us who have, should not forget the less fortunate and needy, but loosen our purse strings and give to the poor to that all may have something to be thankful for at this season.

Frank Gray spent several days last week on a hunting trip near Gran Quiviera. The trip resulted in bringing down a fine stag which weighed 250 pounds. The head of which was adorned with exceptionally fine antlers, standing 20 inches high. It was brought down at long range by Frank, and it is his intention to have it mounted.

J. S. Rozz, L. T. Bacot, Sr. and two Harkoy boys went to the White Mountains the first of the week for deer.

Mrs. Robert T. Lucas left Saturday for Camp Pike, Arkansas, to join Capt. Lucas. Her stay may extend throughout the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cribb returned last night from Water Canyon. Mrs. Cribb stopped at the Brazel home while Mr. Cribb roamed the mountains in search for game. Mr. Cribb reports the killing of deer.

At the second annual meeting of the Lincoln County Chapter A. R. C. an executive committee was chosen as follows: Mrs. John Bell, Mrs. D. S. Elliot, H. S. Fairbanks, Brent Padon, A. J. Rolland, and Mrs. H. S. Fairbanks.

Last Sunday was a red-letter day in the history of Ancho, from a religious point of view. Brother John Skinner of this place went up there and preached the first sermon in that town. The meeting was fully attended, people traveling many miles to be present. A union Sunday School was organized in the afternoon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO FROM 1928 LINCOLN COUNTY NEWS

T. E. Kelley, who keeps in touch with the game situation, has furnished us a list, which was increased from other sources, of thirty deer killed by hunters in this vicinity.

The Mogollon hunting party returned this week, with their quota of deer. The weather was unpleasant some of the time, but on the whole was fair, and the hunt was successful both from a material and recreational standpoint. In the party were: Mrs. Nellie Branum, Mrs. Clouse, Mrs. Jane Gallacher, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gallacher and little Janie.

T. A. Spencer made a business trip to Santa Fe Monday.

Miss Lorene Stimmel was with home folks for the week. Miss Lorene is teaching at Bogie.

Money for Adventure

We Americans are accustomed to growth and change. We have seen our nation go forward. We moved ahead not because we conquered other lands or won territory. That kind of progress has not interested us. Our fathers did find a new and raw continent here. But even while it was being explored and peopled, the inventive minds and venturesome spirits of Americans were laying the foundations for living standards and for peaceful industry that never before existed.

Our progress may be measured in greater standards of living and in greater production for the people. Hard work has produced growth. Now, there is no earthly reason why we cannot continue to grow and grow—except one. We cannot have progress if we are willing to quit growing. Like so many great civilizations of the past, it is possible for us to hit the skids. We can do just that if we become un-concerned and stop wanting to grow.

Savings That Work

Certain seeds of decay are now planted in our economy. You see, industrial growth does not come by itself. Expansion of our great industries has depended upon venture capital. Yet, venture money is scarce today. But what is venture capital? Venture capital is the money that has built these great factories. It is the savings that are risked to help people like Henry Ford and Alexander Graham Bell get started—and keep on going.

It goes into brick and mortar. It is turned into locomotive and drag lines. It pays for the research that discovers new drugs and new plastics. It strings power lines to homes and factories. It buys lathes and dump trucks. It is back of pay checks that men must have, even before sales bring in the expected income. You see, if we want an adventurous industry, we must have venture capital, to do all these things and more.

Business Is Thrifty

Now, the big trouble is this. We have throttled down our supply of venture money. There are some who maintain that this source for new industrial activity has dried up. At least this is true: both young enterprises and established firms are thirsting for the capital which even today's normal growth requires of them. They are also hungry for the go-ahead signal, to build new plants and to improve old ones. This requires much venture capital.

Shortage Hits Us

Shortage of this venture money hits us hard at every point. Without it new products that might go far in enriching mankind are sidetracked in favor of the sure money-makers. New businesses, that must live almost entirely on risk capital, are handicapped. Without sufficient capital, production everywhere is curtailed, and this affects our jobs and our national well-being. No venture means a weak industrial machine that openly invites foreign aggression. Naturally, if no venture money is found for expansion, government always wants to step in and do it for us. We must remember that money for venture will be scarce and fearful until we cut down government expenses and reverse taxes downward. It is your responsibility and mine to help keep our industry strong, adventurous, and free.

Veterans Advised To Keep Policies

Albuquerque life insurance men recently urged veterans to retain their National Service Life Insurance. All of the larger companies with offices in Albuquerque have instructed agents to do everything possible to induce veterans to retain this valuable coverage.

Representatives of several insurance concerns agreed that of the policies available through National Service Life Insurance, no private company could offer more to the veteran.

The general agent of one large life insurance company declared, "We don't want business from veterans that comes as a result of their dropping N. S. L. I. All my associates make every effort to point out to such veterans the many advantages that accrue to them by retention of their N. S. L. I. policies. This is the same point of view held by all members of the Central New Mexico Life Underwriters Assn."

Gene Bivens, President of the Central New Mexico Life Underwriters Assn, said, "Objections by service men to N. S. L. I. have been met by recent amendments to the National Service Life Insurance Act. The amendments enable service men to obtain insurance that is indeed suited to their needs. These changes have overcome any objections veterans may have had in the past to the mode of settlement and types of beneficiaries available."

Bivens is one of a group of Albuquerque insurance men who have taken an active part in urging veterans to retain their N. S. L. I. "because we feel that veterans and their families are entitled to this protection."

NEW MEXICO CATTLE FREE OF "X" DISEASE

"X" disease in cattle has not occurred in herds in New Mexico according to G. W. Evans, Magdalena, President of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association. A recent Chicago report from the American Veterinary Medical Association indicated there may be cases of "X" disease or Hyperkeratosis in New Mexico, but a careful survey by both state and federal livestock sanitary officials shows the disease does not exist in this state, Evans said.

Four possible cases of the malady may have occurred in the state in past five years, Evans continued, but none of these cases resulted in a fatality. According to the Chicago report forty per cent of the infected cattle in other states, particularly calves and yearlings died. The disease was first reported in New York two years ago.

"Although cause of the disease has not definitely been established Evans said, "Indications are that it is a result of adverse feeding conditions. It is definitely a condition reported to the eastern part of the United States."

"New Mexico received another report this week on Bangs Disease (Brucellosis)," Evans continued. "The Bureau of Animal Industry has notified state officials that New Mexico is the only state west of the Mississippi river which has less than two per cent infection of Bangs disease in cattle. This is a remarkable situation, and well for the efficient livestock industry and health regulator in our state," Evans said.

70 N. MEX. STUDENTS AT NORTHWESTERN

Evanston, Ill. Nov. 5, 1948 (Special)—A total of 21 students from NEW MEXICO are among the 10,500 full-time students, approximately the same number as last year, who have enrolled in Northwestern University this fall.

The largest enrollment in the 97-year-old University is that of the College of Liberal Arts, with more than 2,500 students. The School of Commerce is in second place, with an enrollment of more than 2,250. In third place is the Graduate School, with approximately 1,075 in its classes.

A study of declared vocational interests of the 10,500 indicates that the largest number, or 27 per cent of them, have selected careers in science, including medicine, dentistry, engineering and the physical sciences. Another 20 per cent have chosen to enter business with the majority of this number registered in the School of Commerce on the Evanston campus. Third among vocational choices of Northwestern's students is teaching. Students anticipating teaching as a profession are registered, not only in the School of Education, but also, in the Schools of Music and Speech, the Graduate School, and the College of Liberal Arts.

The students from New Mexico are 12 from Albuquerque. One each from Anthony, Clovis, Espanola, Las Vegas, Silver City, Tros, Tucuman and the one from Carrizozo is A. N. Spencer, who is studying medicine.

Our Policy on PONTIAC Deliveries and Prices

Despite the fact that Pontiac has built over a half-million cars since the resumption of production after the war, demand still exceeds supply. In the face of this production record, those who place orders now will still experience some delay in delivery. If you are among the many people who feel that Pontiac represents an outstanding value—and wish to order a Pontiac for future delivery—you will be interested in the following policy on retail distribution which we, as Pontiac dealers, will observe:

WE WANT YOUR ORDER

And the sooner you place it, the sooner you will get delivery. So if you want a Pontiac, order it now.

WE WILL ESTIMATE DELIVERY DATE

Due to conditions beyond our control, we cannot give you an exact date of delivery. But based on anticipated future shipments from the factory, we will, when you place your order, give you an honest estimate of when you may expect your car. Such estimates will be reviewed any time on request.

Since this is our "home town", our business and its future is based on our good relations with the people of this community. We are most happy that so many people here—as all over the country—have made Pontiac their number one choice as a new car.

ORDERS FILLED BY PRIORITY

A definite proportion of the cars we receive from the factory is set aside for preferential delivery to users whose work is in the public welfare and to others with certain occupational requirements. Otherwise, all orders will be filled on the basis of the time when they are received.

YOU PAY FACTORY-SUGGESTED PRICE

Due to changing economic conditions, we cannot, when you place your order, tell you exactly how much the car will cost when delivered in the future. But, at the time of delivery you will be charged only the factory suggested price on your model—which will be shown in a published list of local prices.

YOU SPECIFY ACCESSORIES

While most of our customers order their cars equipped with accessories, we do not force accessories as a condition of sale. You specify what accessories you want when ordering your car, and these are the ones (and the only ones) it will carry when delivered. Some items may be lacking due to current shortages; but none will be added.

REGARDING TRADE-INS

Naturally, if you have a car to trade, we would like to have it in order to take care of our regular used car customers. Our appraisals are fair, based on current conditions. But if you do not have a car to turn in, we still want your order and will accept it for delivery based on the conditions outlined above.

Nothing pleases us more than to turn over the keys of a new Pontiac to one of the many people whose orders we have, because we know they have chosen well—for Pontiac is always a thoroughly good car, and a thoroughly good value, this year, next year, any year.

Voices of God

Lesson for November 14, 1948

"WHAT became of our lost mules?" That is the kind of question which prophets once upon a time were expected to answer (1 Samuel 9:1-10). Some people still have this notion about prophets in the Bible, as if they had been gypsy fortune-tellers, tea-leaf readers or astrologers. They were nothing of the sort. It is not possible to open the Bible to Dr. Foreman the books of the prophets and read history-in-advance, finding out when the next war is coming and when the end of the world is scheduled. If we could really use the prophecies of the Bible in this way, then any reader of these books could write history accurately in advance; but no one has done this yet.

Hired Man and Aristocrat
THE genuine prophets, whose writings make up so much of the Bible, are something far loftier than mere fortune-tellers. They are authentic voices of God. Because of the way they spoke, the timeless truth of what they said, they are God's spokesmen to our own times as well as to their own, and to all times.

The Bible prophets were not "professionals." They had no churches to support them. No regular meetings were arranged for them. You never would have read in the Jerusalem Journal, if there had been such a newspaper, that the Rev. Dr. Isaiah would preach at the temple at 11 a. m. and there would be special music. Few ever knew when or where a prophet might speak.

No one knew beforehand where a prophet might come from. Amos, for example, was a hired man from a sheep-ranch. Micah was a small-town preacher. Isaiah was a highly cultured citizen of the capital, intimate with all the important people. Ezekiel was a trained priest, loving ritual and pageantry. Jeremiah was a lonely, hunted man, living often in jails. Daniel was a member of a king's council, wealthy and famous.

They were all kinds of men, these prophets, but one and all, they were God's voices, pleading, warning, teaching all who would hear.

Their Times and Ours
HUMAN nature is always much the same. One man alone, or one man with another man, or a man with a woman, or a man in a crowd—in the Eighth century before Christ when Amos preached, or now in the 20th century after Christ, the same sort of situation brings out the same temptations, the same sins. The prophets often sound quite modern, but that is only because the human race is so old-fashioned.

The prophets looked about them and saw a world much like our own. They saw people spending more than they could afford; they saw wealthy women dressing in competition with one another while poorer women starved; they saw crowds of business men attending religious services on Sabbath mornings and spending the rest of the Sabbath figuring out how to cheat their customers on Monday.

The prophets lived in evil times and they brought the judgment of God to such times—then, now and always.

Sins of Society
IN AN American town there was a lynching one Saturday night. The next morning there were four sermons in the four little churches of the town; but not one of the preachers had a word to say about that lynching or any lynching or about the causes that produce such crimes.

The prophets never would have missed an opportunity like that. They were not afraid to speak out, even when they had the whole community against them.

What Does God Require?
IT IS easier to say "Don't" than "Do." It is easier to criticize than to construct. But the prophets did not stop with warnings. They have given us a pattern for living, which Micah summed up in those matchless, inspired words: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God!" Everything that is good, in public life or in private, is included in these 12 words.

Growth of Baby Teeth

When a baby is born his first teeth are already formed in the gums, although they usually don't begin to come through until between the sixth and eighth month. The diet of the mother before the baby was born determines the health of the baby's teeth, which begin growing five or six months before birth. The permanent teeth as well as the baby teeth begin to form before birth. The baby's diet affects the condition of these second teeth. Calcium in milk and Vitamin D in fish-liver oil are essential for strong healthy teeth.

Single Dish Suppers Please Family Tastes; Most Prepare Quickly

EVERY HOMEMAKER needs special dishes on which she can draw for Sunday night suppers and other occasions when company appears and needs hot and hearty refreshment. There are covered dish suppers at the church which are so popular, and then, too, the youngsters coming home from school games and events may want something to warm them as well as to satisfy their appetites.

Plan to serve either a salad or dessert or both as one of the main dishes, depending upon the appetites, and, of course on the type of supper you are serving. All of the recipes I'm giving you today are bound to be special favorites.

- Baked Beans
 1 quart dried navy beans
 1 teaspoon soda
 1 medium onion
 1/4 cup molasses
 1/4 cup brown sugar
 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 pound salt pork
 1 1/2 cups tomato juice
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 Soak beans in cold water (to cover) overnight. Drain, cover with cold water and add baking soda. Bring to a boil and boil 15 minutes. Drain, cover with fresh water and bring to a boil again. Drain.

Baked beans make an outstandingly good supper for Sunday night or for entertaining informally for men folk or youngsters who like their food hearty, but good to eat.

Place the onion at the bottom of the pot and add beans, molasses, brown sugar, seasonings and juice. Cut pork into small pieces and press into the beans. Add enough water to cover the beans. Bake, covered, in a slow (325-degree) oven for five hours, adding more water when necessary to keep the beans from drying. Remove cover, bring pork to the surface and bake for one hour longer.

BAKED BEANS ARE good when served with the following dessert and salad:

- *Cabbage-Fruit Salad (Serves 6)
 3 cups finely shredded cabbage
 1 cup sliced pineapple
 2 red apples, core and sliced
 Mayonnaise
 Toss all ingredients together with enough mayonnaise to make creamy.

- Orange Sponge Pudding (Serves 8)
 2 cups bread crumbs
 1 pint milk
 2 tablespoons butter
 1/2 orange
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup sugar
 2 beaten egg whites

Place bread crumbs in top of double boiler with milk and cook until soft. Then add remaining ingredients. Pour mixture into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow (325-degree) oven until firm. Serve with the following sauce: Beat two egg yolks until thick; add one-fourth cup of powdered sugar and the juice and grated rind of one-half orange. Just before serving, fold in one cup of cream, whipped. The pudding may be baked as the beans finish since the oven temperature is the same.

LYNN SAYS:
 Keep Ingredients Available For Making Hot Snacks

Those baking powder biscuits from Sunday dinner can be turned into delicious snacks on Sunday evening. Split the biscuits, butter them and top with a slice of tomato, a slice of cheese and sprinkle with chopped cooked bacon. Broil until cheese melts. Creamed, well seasoned crabmeat may be broiled after being spread on buttered toast rounds.

After a heavy dinner on Sunday, the family will enjoy the light savoriness of Shrimp Wiggle for the evening supper. Serve with a salad or just a dessert depending upon how sharp the appetites are.

ONE OF THE following fish dishes makes a delicious supper when the gang gathers at your home or for Sunday night supper as a delightful change from regular dinner:

- Shrimp Wiggle (Serves 4)
 2 onions, sliced
 2 tablespoons butter
 2 cups stewed tomatoes
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/2 cup water
 2 cups cleaned shrimp, cooked or canned.
 Salt, pepper
 Twist rounds

Sauté onions in butter until golden brown. Add tomatoes.

Simmer for a few minutes. Stir water into flour to make a smooth paste and add tomato mixture. Cook, stirring as mixture thickens. Add whole shrimp. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Serve with toast rounds and garnish with stuffed olives.

- Macaroni-Salmon Scallop (Serves 6)
 1 cup macaroni
 1 1/2-pound can baked salmon
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
 Salt

1 1/2 cups thin white sauce
 Cook macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse.

Alternate layers of macaroni and salmon in a casserole sprinkling each layer with onion, green pepper, and salt. Pour white sauce over all and sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven. This dish may also be made with tuna fish, ham or chicken.

SOMETIMES WE MERELY want hot sandwiches to satisfy our appetites for Sunday night or after a football or basketball game. But make these hot and substantial, and serve with a hot beverage and dessert if you want to make a grand meal of them.

- Open-Faced Cheese Sandwiches (Makes 6 Sandwiches)
 8 slices lean bacon
 1/2 pound American cheese
 2 slices onion
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 6 slices bread

Grind together the cheese, bacon and onion. Add mustard and mix thoroughly. Toast bread on one side and spread a thick layer of cheese on the untoasted side. Brown under broiler or in oven. Serve hot.

- *Hamburger-Cheese Buns (Serves 5)
 1 pound ground beef
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 5 round buns
 6 slices snappy cheese
 India relish or piccalilli

Combine beef with salt and pepper and form five round, flat cakes. Fry on both sides until well browned. Split buns, toast and butter them. Cover the lower half of each bun with cheese, slice and relish under broiler flame. Cover with hot hamburger, spread with relish and serve hot.

Released by WNU Features.

Season mashed sardines with catchup and Worcestershire sauce and stir in grated cheese. Spread the mixture on slices of toast and broil until cheese partially melts. Salami may also be ground and mixed with cream cheese and enough cream of celery soup to moisten. This may be spread on buns or toast for tasty snacks. Tuna fish salad spread in toasted buns makes a delicious hot sandwich if you place over the tuna fish some nippy cheese and broil until the cheese melts.

Plane With Radical Wing Design Makes Successful Flight

HAGERSTOWN, MD. — An aircraft with wings like two halves of a barrel cut lengthwise made its first successful flight; Willard R. Custer, inventor of the strange machine, said.

The craft uses what is known as the "Custer channel wing." Eventually it will have two straight wings along with the semi-circular air-folds but Custer said the device is being flown with only the channel wings to demonstrate that they alone can lift it.

The pilot on several short, straight flights at Municipal airport was Frank D. Kelley, commercial photographer.

The plane has two 75-horsepower engines set on spars across the top of the two semicircles. The propellers are at the trailing edge of the channel; They draw air through the channel, giving the effect of high forward speed even when the machine is standing still.

Because of that, Custer said, the plane is able to rise almost vertically. He said the plane took off at a speed of about 30 miles an hour and rose very sharply. Because of the radical design and necessity of acquainting himself with the strange ship, Kelley went up only 15 feet or so on the first flight, Custer said.

The plane has no brakes. Take-off, flight and landing must be done within the length of a single runway until the machine can be maneuvered for a circuit of the field. This probably will not be done, Custer said, until straight wings are added outboard of the channels.

Custer, a former automobile mechanic, has been working on the invention at his small chicken farm west of here for 10 years. More than $200,000 has been invested.

English Dignitary Defies Tradition, Speaks Frankly

ST. PAUL'S CRAY, ENGLAND.—British dignitaries, when called upon to launch new public building projects, traditionally dig up a few inches of soil and then proclaim:

"I declare this sod well and truly turned."

London Councilman I. J. Howard, launching a 22-million-dollar housing project here, jabbed and twisted futility with a chromium plated spade and finally gave it up with a disgusted:

"I could've done better with a pick."

Loan Shop Owner Discovers Bargain Furs Are Expensive

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. — Max Sacks was sad. Those two $250 fur scarves he bought for $30 each had been such bargains too.

Detective Sgts. George Hubbard and Ernest Hughes said Sacks, proprietor of a loan company, told them a man came in some time ago offering a scarf he said was worth $250 for $30. Sacks bought it. Some time later the same man came back with another—also valued at $250.

The scarf man returned to the loan company a third time. Sacks, suspicious, whispered to the detectives, who were in his office. They arrested the man on a vagrancy charge.

Detectives listened to his story and then arrested his former wife on a vagrancy charge. Sacks was surprised when he learned her identity.

The woman, he told detectives, was his employee and the scarves he had bought were from his own vault.

Nature's Moods Overcome By 'Manufactured' Weather.

TOLEDO, OHIO.—Known in industry as temperature and humidity, weather can affect the quality of dozens of items of every-day use, from candy to coffee and sweaters to shower curtains, but industry has a way to beat Mother Nature's moods.

Production men call it "manufactured" weather.

Without it, the processing of beans in Boston, nylons in New York and gasoline in Galveston can be thrown off balance by such tricks of the weatherman as excessive dampness, a sudden cold snap or even a hot, dry spell. A case in point, the tobacco industry must minutely control the atmosphere in factories and warehouses and many textiles and plastics can be processed only under ideal temperature and moisture conditions.

Woman, 99, Marries Suitor, 37, Before Capacity Crowd

MOIRA, N. Y.—Mrs. Eliza Murray, believed to be over 90, and 37-year-old Clarence McGee were married before a capacity audience in the Methodist church here.

Both are residents of Brushton, a small northern New York village about two miles from here near the Canadian border.

The bride gave her age as 80 for the marriage license, but her son James, who is 66, said she was "over 90."

The bride has three living sons and daughters. Her first husband, Charlie, died at the age of 96.

NOGAL MESA NEWS
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peebles are planning a trip to Southern Missouri over the Thanksgiving vacation to visit their son, Louis Peebles. They will stop enroute at Thomas Oklahoma to see former forest ranger, Mr. Tom Buchanan who is operating wheat farms there.
Mr. and Mrs. Peebles are also planning to visit Mountain Home Arkansas before their return to New Mexico in order to visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Burton. Mrs. Burton was the former Ollie Albro who lived on the Mesa with her mother who passed away, just prior to their moving to Arkansas, in 1944.
Ranger Ed Guck and family are planning to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Guck's brother, Gordon Gray of Albuquerque.
Charlie Peebles of Alto returned from Roswell last week where he had spent four days in the hospital.
Going back to the rattlesnake story of last week; they have killed up to this time forty three rattlesnakes in the den located near the Mesa Ranger station. Another den of rattlers was located by La Moyne Peters and other members of the pipe line crew. To date nineteen have been killed in the latest den discovered one fourth mile east of the ranger station.

Uncle Sam Says

Once again we salute our Newspaper boys, honoring their thrift and enterprise. Nearly 500,000 of these boys are carrying on that sense of duty and responsibility which brings the papers to our door every day in the year. These nephews of mine are training for success, and a part of that training is in thrift. Last year, newspapers enrolled in Newspaper Thrift Clubs invested $2,000,000 in U. S. Savings Bonds. These bonds will pay them $4 for every $3 invested ten years hence. Every bond is guaranteed as the safe investment for everyone.
