Carls Honored Tuesday By Lodge Members

Last Tuesday evening following the regular meeting of IOOF the Rebekahs joined their brothers in a party honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. Carl on their 49th Wedding anniversary. It was a felicitous occasion. Every one was glad to do honor to so loyal and faithful a pair.

Just before refreshments were served Mr. Herman Kelt escorted Mrs. Carl forward and Mr. Jim Tom escorted Mr. Carl forward. Mr. Kelt made the presentation speech, Mrs. Carl to receive a 35 year jewel and Mr. Carl a 40 year jewel from members of both lodges. In addition to the pins they were presented another gift—a very useful one—a steam pressure cooker.

Following presentation of gifts and thanks by the two honor guests, sandwiches, salad, pumpkin pie with whipped cream and coffee were served buffet style.

About fifty lodge members were present.

Music, games and chatter lasted until a late hour when all departed congratulating them upon their 49th anniversary and hoping for many happy 30th of Novembers yet to come.

The only one of their children who had the pleasure of enjoying the party was their youngest son Charles, who was here on a visit and who left the next morning.

God's Story-Teller

Lesson for November 28, 1948

"TRUTH in a tale," it is said, "will enter in at lowly doors." The greatest truth of the entire Bible does not come to us in the shape of an essay but of a story—the story of Jesus.

Dr. Foreman

"The gospel did not appear on the editorial page but on the news pages." Many people can understand essays; millions more can understand a story. Jesus himself, when he gave the world his message, used stories to do it. We are told that he never made a talk to the people without using a parable. The parables of the Bible are simple stories, often no more than a sentence long.

They are all alike in this: Whatever the story may be, there is more in it than meets the eye. Parables were not a form of entertainment; they were a way of teaching.

No Cause Is Lost

SOMETIMES the teller of a parable would explain what he meant, as Isaiah does with his little song of the vineyard. Sometimes, and most often in Jesus' case, the meaning is so plain that only a very stupid person could miss it.

Matthew arranges several of Jesus' parables in pairs; one of these is the twin story of the mustard seed and the yeast in the meal (Matt. 13:31-33). Both mean the same thing, and both are so obvious that Jesus did not think it necessary to explain them.

The Kingdom of Heaven—the ideal world, the world as God intends it to be—is a living thing, a growing thing, something at first small, almost invisible. But it will grow; you cannot stop it.

So the ideal world, the Kingdom of Heaven, (Jesus hints) is not an artificial thing, it cannot be constructed by blueprints. It has to follow the course of living things. It does not come all of a sudden, it grows very quietly. You might not see the seed in the ground, but the farmer knows it is there.

Pearl of Great Price

SOMETIMES two or three of Jesus' parables are like a musical theme with variations. The twin stories of the pearl worth more than the jeweler's whole collection, and of the treasure hidden in the field, are very much alike, yet just a little different in meaning.

Both tell us that the Kingdom of God is more valuable than anything else on earth; indeed, it includes everything else of value. But the stories are different. One tells of a man who was looking for something, the other tells of a man who was surprised by finding something.

Once a Chinese gentleman became dissatisfied with his inherited Confucianism, and set out to find a better religion. For years he shopped around, never finding what he needed. He left Christianity to the last, for in his section of China only coolies and peasants were Christians. But when he began to make friends with some real Christians, he was overjoyed. This was what he had been looking for. This was the pearl of great price.

On the other hand, a drunken sailor, certainly not looking for religion, wandered one night into a Salvation Army meeting. They could do nothing with him, but before they dragged him off to the lodging-house one of them slipped a bit of paper into his pocket. The next morning, cold sober, wondering where he was, he put his hand into that pocket and pulled the paper out. On it were penciled three words: God loves you. It hit him right between the eyes; and he became a Christian. That was the "treasure hid in the field."

How Far Will Love Go?

JESUS' contemporaries told parables too, but they have all been forgotten. Jesus' parables are incomparable, unforgettable, immortal. If Jesus had been known for nothing else, he would have been remembered for the four stories of the Good Samaritan, the Lost Sheep, the Lost Coin, the Lost Son.

These all have much the same point. "Lost" does not mean hopelessly doomed. How many persons we give up as hopeless! But God never gives up any one. A "lost" person is one whom God is seeking.

Pay Heed To Highway Signs And 'Stick Around' Awhile.

Signs and signals are among the biggest helps to safe driving, the National Safety Council says. "They give drivers warning of the dangers that lie ahead. But they are worthless unless seen and obeyed. The safe driver will follow these signposts:

1. Give signs, signals and markings the same respect you would a traffic officer. Here's one place you may lose if you cheat.
2. Reduce speed and be on guard when you see a diamond-shaped sign (this shape carries a warning) or a round sign (this signifies a railroad crossing is ahead).
3. Come to a complete stop at an eight-sided or octagonal sign. This shape means only one thing—stop!
4. Know what an oblong sign says. This shape carries regulatory messages such as speed limit.
5. Heed the cross-buck sign at railroad crossings. If there is a flasher or wig-wag, wait until it stops operating before crossing. There may be another train you can't see.
6. Watch for the signs of life even on familiar roads. Three-fourths of the drivers in fatal accidents lived within 25 miles of where the accident took place.

If you—like millions of others—are pondering the Christmas present problem, a local dealer has a handy answer. He will have Christmas gift cartons of cool, mild Camel cigarettes and pound tins of flavorful Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco. Both these items come festively dressed for the holiday season and make ideal gifts for your smoking friends. The Camel carton contains 200 mild, flavorful Camels, while the Prince Albert container is chock-full of mellow smoking joy that has made Prince Albert the country's largest-selling tobacco. Both gifts require a minimum of fuss, due to the unique space provided for your personal Christmas greetings. (Adv.)

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Soup Makes an Easy Supper!
(See Recipes Below.)

Menu Short-Cuts

HERE'S shopping, cleaning, baking, decorating, wrapping Christmas presents and a hundred other things to do these days before Christmas. Where does one find time to plan and make meals?

Now is an excellent time to put menu short-cuts into operation. Plan to serve soups often, not as a first course, but as a main dish. Serve those casseroles, too, that whip together in no time and bake in half an hour or so without any watching or further attention. Have foods that are hearty, and make certain there's enough for seconds or thirds because the family will be hungry now that appetites have been sharpened by cold weather.

HERE ARE some excellent soups which can easily take the place of a main dish at dinner.

Navy Bean Soup (Serves 6)

- 1 1/4 cups dried pea beans
- 2 quarts cold water
- Lamb bones
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 1 clove of garlic, peeled
- 5 to 10 peppercorns
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 sprigs parsley
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon marjoram
- 2 cups canned tomatoes

Pick over beans, then wash and drain in cold water overnight. Drain; measure liquid from beans and add enough to make two quarts. Add to beans with lamb bones and salt. Tie next six ingredients in a cloth bag and add to water and beans. Cover, bring to a boil, then simmer for four hours until beans are tender. Remove bones and spice bag, then strain soup. Mash beans. Add any pieces of meat which cling to bones and the tomatoes. Reheat and serve hot.

SOUPS take long to cook, but, of course, need little watching, and thus they are such time-savers to have for meals. Here's another delicious, hearty soup:

Oxtail Soup (Serves 12)

- 1 1/2 pounds lean beef
- 2 oxtails, split
- 5 quarts cold water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 cup celery root, sliced
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 tablespoons beer
- 2 carrots, sliced

Cut oxtail into small pieces and fry lightly in fat. Cube the beef and add with oxtail to water and salt. Place in large kettle, cover and let cook slowly for about four hours. Add vegetables and cook for one hour longer, or until stock is reduced by half. Strain. Heat fat in skillet, add flour and brown slowly. Add one cup of the soup and then stir into remaining stock.

LYNN SAYS: New's the Time to Get Ready for the Holidays

If you're buying fresh flowers, lengthen their life by spraying liquid wax on them. Be sure the leaves and petals are free from water before waxing. Broken bits of cookies, rolled fine, should be kept in jars so they will be ready at a moment's notice to be rolled into a crust for pie. Use one of the ready-mix puddings for the filling and top with whipped cream or meringue.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU

- *Corn Chowder
- Toasted Muffins
- Jelly
- Grapefruit-Pineapple Salad
- Beverage
- *Fig Pudding
- Cream

*Recipe given

*Corn Chowder (Serves 6)

- 4 cups diced potatoes
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 2" square fat salt pork
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 No. 2 can kernel corn
- 1 quart milk
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cut salt pork into cubes and brown in a large saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender. Add diced potatoes and water; cover and cook until potatoes are tender. Add corn, milk and seasonings. Heat and serve garnished with a sprinkling of paprika.

Leftover meats are put to good use in these casseroles which will make easy work for you on these busy days before the holidays.

Noodles Neapolitan (Serves 6)

- 1/2 pound noodles, cooked
- 2 1/2 cups sliced chicken or ham
- 1 cup milk or cream
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs

After noodles are cooked in boiling, salted water, rinse and drain them. Into a well-greased dish, place layers of noodles, then meat and repeat until all are used. Beat eggs, add milk, and pour over noodles and meat. Top with crumbs. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 25-30 minutes or until browned on top.

THE FRUIT puddings mentioned earlier need take no longer to make than the main dishes for the meal. Both of these recipes for desserts are nourishing and will be well received.

- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 cup walnuts, chopped
- 1 cup figs, chopped

Beat eggs until light, then add sugar, sifted flour and remaining ingredients. Stir well and bake in a buttered casserole dish in a slow (325-degree) oven for 20 minutes.

Apricot Whip (Serves 6)

- 1/2 cup dried apricots
- 1/2 cup sugar
- Whites of 5 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice

Pick over and wash fruit. Cook in water, just enough to cover, until soft. Remove stones and put through strainer. Add sugar and cook five minutes. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in fruit. Heap lightly in a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 minutes. Serve with custard sauce or cream. Released by WNU Features.

If you're making several different kinds of cookies, label their tins and jars so you can find each kind when you want them. Crisp cookies should not be stored with soft ones or they will become soggy. Jars of cheese kept on hand will be put to work easily, satisfying a host of hungry guests who just drop in for a visit. One fruit gelatin salad and one molded vegetable salad are good to have on hand for holiday week ends for unexpected guests.

U. S. Survey Reveals Continued Prosperity For Farm Families

WASHINGTON.—The department of agriculture predicted continuing improvements for rural family living due to increased incomes of recent years.

Reporting for the first time on the outlook in different parts of the country, the department noted among farm families:

In the Midwest—Savings high; bonds not cashed generally; new auto purchases slow, enough liquid assets for home improvements.

In the South—A far greater variety of foods being consumed at the farm table than 12 years ago; also more prepared foods used.

In the West—Except for fruit raisers, incomes high, prospects for continuing high incomes good because of increasing population, home improvements widespread.

Ruth C. Freeman, University of Illinois specialist in home accounts, who made the Midwest study, said that rural family living has been "greatly enhanced" in recent years.

"The opportunity for choice in connection with family living purchases has given the homemaker a different outlook on life," she said.

"A feeling of security has been developed through the family's accumulated savings, payment of debts, and prospect of some stability of income through farm price supports."

In 1947 a typical farm family spent two and a half times as much as they did the year before on household, purchased the most commonly purchased items being vacuum cleaners, washing machines, stoves, refrigerators, and home freezer lockers.

Crippled Fisherman Uses Cane to Land Big Catfish

NEBURG, IND.—John Stacer, Neburg justice of the peace, has a fish story with a new twist.

Stacer, who is crippled, and walks with a cane, claims that he landed a 70-pound catfish in the Ohio river with the aid of his walking stick. He said he hooked the fish on a trolling but the hook snapped when he tried to land the fish with a gaff.

So Stacer grabbed his cane, put the hook in the fish's gills and jerked the big fish into his boat.

Bullets Fall to Irk Farmer Who Waits for News of Baby

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—Randall Hitchcock of nearby Chenango Bridge was sitting in a hotel in Bogota, Columbia, as snipers' bullets whizzed around during the rioting there.

That was bad enough, but Hitchcock was even more worried about his wife back home. She was expecting a baby.

As the dismal hours passed, he heard spluttering from the small short-wave radio set he'd carried with him.

"Randall Hitchcock, Randall Hitchcock," called a voice. "If you're listening, your wife has had a fine baby boy and your're proud father. Mother and baby doing nicely."

The voice was that of Wolfe Wolfinger, an amateur radio operator at Hillcrest, near Hitchcock's home.

"It was the biggest moment of my life," said Hitchcock, despite the danger from the bullets and mobs of the revolution.

'Worst' Reckless Driver Ends Wild Spree in Jail Cell

WICHITA, KANS.—Fining the motorist $600 and sentencing him to five months in jail, Judge Roy Rogers said the case was the "worst instance of reckless driving" ever brought to his attention.

Joseph D. Rosario Jr., 30, drew the penalties for: Speeding 30 miles an hour at night through heavy downtown traffic in a 20-mile zone; running 12 traffic lights; driving without a license; reckless driving; driving without lights; driving on the wrong side of the street; possessing liquor in violation of Kansas dry laws and resisting arrest.

The wild chase, with two motorcycle officers in pursuit, ended with Rosario's car smashing to a stop in a clump of shrubbery. He wasn't hurt.

Boy Has 17 Years to Pay Fine for Smashing Window

BURY, ENGLAND.—Four-year-old Stephen Jones has 17 years to save up three dollars to pay a judgment.

The obligation grew out of an incident involving a stone about the size of a peach and the glass frame of a greenhouse. The county court held Stephen and the stone were responsible for a smashed pane of glass.

Then the law took a curious twist. The action, it was held, was against Stephen, not his father. And the judgment cannot be collected from a legal infant, so the greenhouse man has to wait until the boy is 21 before he can collect.

Development of Bicycles Traced to 1816 'Velocipede'

Joseph-B. Mjeppe, French physicist best known as one of the inventors of photography, was active in other fields as well. In 1816 he invented the "velocipede," or "hobby-horse"—two wheels and a crossbar upon which the rider sat while he propelled himself with his feet against the ground. It was the forerunner of the modern bicycle.

There were a few minor improvements during the next two or three years. But the price was high and the machine was not within the reach of ordinary folk; thus it became known as the "dandy horse." It even reached America, but the natural crudities of the device finally ended the craze.

The idea of propelling oneself on wheels, however, had taken root. The velocipede, or "boneshaker," was the first crank-driven bicycle, developed in 1868. It was well named. With heavy wooden wheels, thick iron tires and a massive iron backbone, these machines were extremely heavy and they vibrated in a terrifying manner over the rough roads.

Then came the tall "ordinary," with front wheels sometimes over five feet in height. But it was not until 1876—a little over 70 years ago—when H. J. Lawson invented the first rear-driven bicycle. Then followed many patented improvements and in 1877 Col. Albert A. Pope of Boston organized the Pope Manufacturing company, launching the bicycle-making industry in the United States.

Pneumatic rubber tires enabled in 1888. From wheels, which enabled the bicycle to coast, were introduced in 1894. By the turn of the century the tandem, or "bicycle built for two," had become exceedingly popular. The bicycle industry, spurred by invention, seemed to new heights.

Today it is estimated that more than 60,000,000 bicycles are in use throughout the world, 12,000,000 of them in the United States.

Italian Riviera Is Cheaper Than French

If you are confused on the "Riviera" shores of the Mediterranean, as between Italian and French, this may help: The French Riviera begins at Marseilles and runs past the resort cities and towns of Cannes, Nice, Cap d'Antibe and Juan-les Pins to Monte Carlo. There begins the Italian Riviera, much less expensive than the French neighbor.

RECEIVES VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

State College, N. M.—New Mexico A & M College was given a strong vote of confidence recently when the New Mexico Grain and Feed Dealers Association approved resolutions endorsing the now-passed state institutional bond issue and urging generous support of the New Mexico A & M agricultural research and extension activities.

The account of the association's convention and of the resolution appears in the November edition of the New Mexico Stockman.

The resolution was passed at the November convention of the association. In effect, it urged more funds for A & M College work, and stated the importance of the college in the maintenance of sound agricultural progress in the state.

Particular points cited in the resolution were that the school is the topmost agricultural institution in the state; that the feed and grain industry must look to the college for education and research for future development; and that agricultural research and extension activities at A & M be generously supported. "In order that our state may progress on an equal basis with other states in establishing a sound agricultural future for New Mexico.

The resolution passed by the association also recommended an increase in salaries at A & M for all personnel. "Whereas, the resolution read, "it is becoming increasingly evident that it will be impossible to secure and maintain highly qualified personnel in the educational staff at the college unless salaries at this institution are increased to a basis equal with other state institutions, now heretofore be it resolved, that we recommend an increase in salaries at the New Mexico A & M College for all personnel to a level equal with other educational institutions of higher education in New Mexico.

The bond issue, endorsed by this resolution, was passed Nov. 2 in the general election.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

New Crisis Appears in Germany As Russ Threaten Berlin Airlift; Rent Control Extension Proposed

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

ARLIFT: New Crisis

Morally defeated in their efforts to make good the blockade of Berlin, the Soviets were 'brewing up a new batch of trouble to keep American planes out of the skies over the German capital.

The Russian military administration in Berlin charged that foreign planes had flown illegally over the Soviet zone of Germany and threatened to force such planes down if it ever happened again.

IT HAD all the earmarks of a desperate, last-ditch attempt to keep the U. S. airlift from succeeding in its mission of supplying food and fuel to Germans inside the blockaded zones.

But American officials weren't having any of it. In a brittle reply to the Soviet letter, Brig. Gen. C. K. Galley stated that if any Americans were injured as a result of a plane's being forced down the full responsibility would rest on Soviet shoulders.

THE RUSSIAN letter, received from Lt. Gen. G. S. Lukyanenko, chief of staff of the Soviet military administration, asserted that "foreign aircraft not bearing identification marks of nationality" had flown over Soviet territory both within and without the international air corridors.

His missive concluded with a flat, two-point threat of Red intentions in the future:

1. SOVIET air patrols would force down all unidentified aircraft over the Soviet zone.

2. SOVIET air patrols would force down all foreign aircraft appearing over the Soviet zone outside the limits of the air corridors and greater Berlin.

The incident was tabbed as "the latest crisis in the Berlin situation, but in comparison to the other crises that have come and gone this one appeared to be little more than a tempest in a teapot. It seemed to convey the impression that the Russians were losing their grip—that they couldn't even foment a real, hot crisis any more.

Not that the affair was to be taken lightly. In an atmosphere charged with hostility it wouldn't take much more than the intentional destruction of one American plane to touch off a serious conflict.

CONTROL: On Rents

One of the promises that President Truman made to the people during his campaign tour was that he would secure an extension of rent controls.

And scarcely had the startling election day passed before a concerted rent control effort was being brought under way by the Democrats. Rent Director Tigue E. Woods announced that he would ask the new congress not only to extend but to strengthen the present rent control law.

HE SAID he would ask congress to extend the rent law for 12 months past its present expiration date, March 31, and to close what he considers three big loopholes in the present act.

"The shortage of rental housing is more serious today, especially in the smaller communities, than it was a year ago," he declared. In addition to extending and buttressing the present law, Woods indicated that he probably would propose that congress give him new authority to restore controls, or impose them for the first time, in areas that may be boomed by new defense activity.

These are the changes he will ask:

1. EVICTION CONTROLS—Restore federal control over evictions. Now evictions are left to local courts. The result, Woods said, is a serious black market in rents.

2. TREBLE DAMAGES—Give the rent director power to sue rent violators for three times their overcharge. Now only the tenant can bring such suits. This means that landlords usually get off with simple repayment of the overcharge.

3. CRIMINAL SANCTIONS—Provide jail terms and fines for convicted violators. This would give the rent director a weapon to back up his orders. Woods was confident that the new Democratic congress would receive his proposals cordially, and most sources on Capitol Hill confirmed that belief.

LUCIUS CLOBB On Election Polls

Lucius Clobb, elder statesman and political pollster of Pawnee county, wore a strained expression as he opened the frosted glass and chicken wire door of Mayor Ryerson Busch's office.

"Mornin' and a variety of congratulations, Rye," said he. "Mighty glad to see you overflew the same old hole in that chair seat. That upstart Clem Gropper that the opposition put up as a candidate again you run a poor race, didn't he? 'The upstart that you were running around the county winding your horns would win the election hands down? You and your scientific barometer, ball, Ha!'"

"Now, Rye," said Mister Clobb with some dignity, "you shouldn't talk like that. I voted for you. Or I would've if I hadn't sneezed in the voting booth and blew out the candle so I couldn't see where I was making an X. Turned out that I didn't get an X in any one of those damned circles."

"And what about your (yuk) barber poll?" yanked the mayor.

"Well, now that was what I thought was a genuine scientific poll from which I thought sure I could predict the outcome of the election. I was to blame objective that I didn't ask nobody nothing."

"Then how in the name of Harry could you get any opinions?"

Mister Clobb combed his whiskers reflectively. "That's why I called it a barber poll," he said. "Day after day I set in Ebenzer Snook's barber shop and watched people get haircuts. I figured I had a system."

"When a man come in and said to Eb, 'Clippers all around, Eb, I figured him for a Democrat. And anybody who come in and asked to have the sideburns left on—well, what could he be but a Republican? I thought they'd vote accordin' to their haircut.'"

"Beauty of the system was that it didn't involve no subtle unknown quantities like the quick shifts of a man's opinion or the deep currents that flow beneath a man's conscious thinking."

"Yeah, a beautiful system, Mr. Clobb," sighed the mayor in a more kindly tone. "I'm kinda sorry it didn't work out right."

"Thanks, Rye," murmured the elder statesman, and his whiskers twitched. "It was beautiful. A beautiful system."

INDICTED: Thomas

Red-fighting Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. Y.), chairman of the house un-American activities committee, was in hot water, and it was making his neck as red as the political complexion of any Communist he had ever pointed a finger at.

AFTER two months of ominous rumblings to the effect that something dire was in store for the GOP congressman who had caused the administration so much trouble by shouting that the government was employing Communists, the news broke: Thomas was charged by a federal grand jury of conspiring to pad the payroll of his congressional office.

The indictment accused Thomas and his former secretary, Miss Helen Campbell, of conspiring to maintain fictitious employees in Thomas' office so the salaries paid to these persons could be diverted into Thomas' bank account.

At his Allendale, N. J., home, Thomas growled, "I have nothing to say at this moment." But he would have an opportunity to speak when his trial got under way, probably in January.

Meanwhile, it appeared certain that the spectacular Communist spy investigation which held the national spotlight last summer now was deadlier than a month-old red herring.

Kicked Back

Miss Helen Campbell, ex-secretary to Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), is involved with the congressman in a federal grand jury indictment on charges that he "induced" her and another employee to "kick back" their salaries to him.

While the output of electricity has more than doubled in the past eight years and has been rising to new record heights for such consecutive months, the unit cost to consumers is less than before the war.

POLLING THE VOTES Strides Made in Production of Electricity

While the output of electricity has more than doubled in the past eight years and has been rising to new record heights for such consecutive months, the unit cost to consumers is less than before the war. In a recapitulation of strides made by the industry, an article in the November issue of "Business Comment," bulletin of the Northern Trust company, states that power production during the first nine months of 1945 was about 11 per cent above the corresponding period in 1947. Output in 1947 was 15 per cent above 1946.

The electric power industry now served more than 60 million customers, contrasted with 50.1 million customers as of December 31, 1939, an increase of more than 20 per cent.

Woman of the Year

For "eminent achievement" in the field of commerce and industry, 70-year-old Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth (right) was honored by the American Woman's association as the nation's "Woman of the Year." Mrs. Fanny S. Sweeney presents the award. Dr. Gilbreth is the mother of 12 children and grandmother of 18.

CHINA WAR: Panic

In Nanking, Peiping, Shanghai and other terrorized cities along the China coast the words on the lips of all foreigners was "when will the Communists come?"

And the Chinese themselves, torn with indecision, doubts and mob violence, were wondering the same thing. FOOD RIOTS and strikes flared in Hankow, Shanghai and Nanking. Undisciplined throngs roamed the streets. People were trampled to death or injured. Police fired on the rioters. The evacuation of Americans from China was being carried out hastily but efficiently.

In north central China the position of the Nationalist forces was growing worse hourly. Suchow and Pengung were reported virtually isolated by Communists. The Yangtze river was feared open to a Red crossing that would expose Nanking.

THE WHOLE economic structure of the Chiang Kai-shek government appeared to be crumbling and sliding into a Red ruin in the wild melee along coastal China. Value of the gold yuan plummeted downward.

The question was not only, "when are the Communists coming?" but "how long will the central Chinese government last?"

This appeared to be the great, all-consuming crisis in Chiang Kai-shek's decade-long struggle to maintain a spark of life in the Chinese republic. But the cold, smothering wind of Communism was blowing strong.

RED TROOPS had taken control of Manchukuo, former National stronghold in the North, and that victory appeared to be the key which the Communists could use to sweep down into the vital areas of China itself.

For Chiang and his woefully weak Nationalist government the past 11 years had been nothing but an agonizing battle against imperialism—from the Japanese Fascist brand beginning in 1937 to the Communist type which presents the current peril.

REBUILT: By Stassen?

In the clear, bitter post-election light the Republican party turned upon itself in a fury of self-examination and didn't like what it saw.

MOST OF the top-level influential party members wanted to see some changes made, and most of them seemed to think that Harold E. Stassen was the man to make them.

As a result, the former governor of Minnesota, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, may be assigned the job of rebuilding the GOP for the 1952 presidential campaign.

STILL licking their wounds, GOP leaders were urging the youthful Stassen to lead a movement to shape the party along more liberal lines. Those party liberals were planning to meet with Stassen for a "brass tacks" discussion of a party reconstruction.

Stassen was refusing to comment on the reports that he might step in as general contractor for the reconstruction job, but it was a known fact that he was being swamped with requests, many of them from Republican bigwigs, to undertake the task.

"I THINK the situation calls for some reflection," was the only comment the man who had been defeated by Governor Dewey for the GOP presidential nomination would make.

One of Stassen's promises when he dropped out of the presidential nomination fight at Philadelphia last June was to work toward strengthening "the liberal viewpoint within the party."

MILLIONS DEAD: Legally Now

The United Nations has made public a projected world convention for declaring dead the millions of refugees, soldiers and other persons who disappeared between 1939 and 1944 under circumstances suggesting "death as a consequence of events of war, of racial, religious, political or national persecution."

It is aimed to solve such problems as inheritance, adoption of children and remarriages.

NEW COMET . . . Here's a photograph of that new comet which appeared a few weeks ago and was described by astronomers as "the most beautiful of this generation." This picture was made at Mt. Palomar, Calif. An exposure time of five minutes was used which accounts for the white marks throughout the picture. They're stars. The comet was visible in most parts of the United States.

CRACK SHOTS . . . G. Wayne Moore (kneching) of Washington, Pa., was the 1944-47 national rifle champion. But this year 16-year-old Arthur Cook (prone) of Washington, D. C., proved too much for him. Moore is shown congratulating his youthful successor at a rifle range near Quantico, Va., where the finals were held. The competition was sponsored by the National Rifle association.

NARROW ESCAPE . . . This has been a bad fall for brush and forest fires. Scout marines ahead of the roaring flames, 2,000 tourists of Silverado Canyon and Medjoka Canyon, Calif., fled to safety as a 50-mile wind whipped the Orange county forest fire into fury as shown here. Three hundred marines from a base at El Toro were called to help fight the fire.

NEW A WRESTLER, TOO . . . Gorgeon George has wrestling fans in an uproar with his unusual publicity stunt. He's shown here with his hair up in curlers following a martial war he received in a New York beauty parlor. Gorgeon, his valet, is spraying perfume in the air. At midday, Gorgeon's hair will be sprayed with Gorgeon's special with perfume before "the match" will occur.

The FICTION Corner

GREAT GRAPE GLUE

By MARY K. CHEATHAM

Agnes was so thrilled over her new home that she didn't realize what a menace the grape arbor would prove to her newly-found happiness, until it challenged her to the supreme test.

WHEN they bought the house, Agnes hadn't thought much about the grape arbor. She knew it was there, of course, but it was spring and the tendrils were just beginning to green out along the back walk. Now, it was summer, and the vines were heavy with purple clusters.

"Boy! Isn't that something?" said Greg, at breakfast. "Our own vineyard, right in our own back yard. And if there's one thing I like to eat, it's fresh, homemade grape jelly."

Agnes felt a twinge of misgivings, but, even then, she failed to recognize the arbor for what it was—a menace to her marriage.

"Guess I'll have to make some," she answered, with just a shade of doubt. "I'll go out and pick the grapes right after I get you off to work."

"Fine," beamed Greg, swallowing the last of his coffee. "Mom always makes it with pure grape juice and sugar. Better call her if you have any trouble."

"Oh, I'll manage," answered Agnes, smiling with a great show of confidence. "After all, I learned to cook, didn't I?"

"Sure did, Hon," agreed Greg, reaching for his hat. "Got to run along, now. Good luck with the jelly."

They exchanged their usual after-breakfast bride-and-groom kisses, and Greg hurried out the front door. When the breakfast dishes were carefully cleared up, Agnes took a dishpan and approached the arbor. It was pleasant there. Working in the sunshine, to the busy humming of bees, she felt the lightness come back into her heart. After all, anybody could learn to make jelly. Dew lay heavily upon the purple globules, as she placed them, bunch by bunch, in the dishpan. She breathed deep of their winy fragrance, and smiled in her new sense of ownership.

"Making jelly!" called her neighbor, across the back fence. "Those grapes always did make the best jelly!"

"Going to try it," Agnes called back. "I've never made any before, but I have a good cookbook, and I think I can do it all right."

"It's easy," said the neighbor. "I never bother with a cookbook, myself."

Agnes took her grapes into the kitchen and began washing and sorting them at the sink. When they were ready, she put them into a saucepan and crushed them slightly, as it said in the cookbook. She added a small amount of water and brought them to a slow boil, letting them cook gently until the juice had run out. Straining the juice through a cloth was a messy business, but easy enough, as she remembered having seen her mother do it at home.

"Wonder," she thought, "why I didn't pay more attention to jelly-making?"

She brought out the little glasses and sterilized them until they were crystal bright. In the grip of a quivering excitement, she measured the juice and sugar. Now came the frightening part. Tensely, she propped the cookbook within view, while bringing the juice to a vigorous boil. She added the sugar and stirred carefully until it had dissolved. She studied the jelly test pictures until her eyes ached. One picture showed the jelly dripping from the spoon in two drops, the other, two drops running together and leaving the spoon in one flake. The important thing was to know just when this took place.

Back and forth, Agnes gazed, from picture to spoon, from spoon to picture, until both seemed to blend into one. At this point, she thought the mixture had neared the jelling stage, but her eyes ached so from their intentness, she was no longer certain whether two drops had really run off the spoon, or she had just imagined it. Better cook it a little longer, she thought, to be sure. Slightly after the time specified, she poured the jelly into the hot glasses. Not until then did she relax. Her nerves, she realized, had been pounding like trip hammers.

As she tidied the kitchen, Agnes gazed with pride at the glasses on the utility cabinet. Her first jelly! It looked a trifle dark, but then grapes were dark, naturally. She had a good dinner waiting for Greg when he came from work.

"Greg!" she cried. "See if your folks would like to come over to dinner. We'll have crispy little biscuits, and—"

"I thought we might try a little for dessert," she suggested, bringing out one of the glasses.

"That's right," Greg recalled happily. "Grape jelly!" He plunged a spoon enthusiastically into the glass. He pulled—hard. "Great grape glue!" he cried, "what have we here?"

Agnes stared, astonished, at the gooey blob on the spoon. Fine, sticky threads trailed behind it from the glass, like fronds of cotton candy. She blinked back the tears, just in time, and changed her exclamation to a laugh. If only she had thought to try it first!

"Perhaps," she suggested, "we could spread it on paper to catch flies."

ONE of the tears spilled over the edge of her laugh, and Greg caught her to him. "Never mind," he soothed. "It tastes good, anyhow." He kissed her, and they both nibbled at the spoon, like two children sharing a lollipop. "When you try it tomorrow," he mistakenly continued, "Mom can tell you what you did wrong."

Agnes pulled stiffly away, and began stacking dishes. She shoved the jelly glasses viciously out of sight, and went around the rest of the evening feeling vaguely irritated at Greg. Ensnared behind the evening paper, he appeared not to notice. He even failed to notice when Lucille called, though he usually liked to twit her about her conversations with the girls.

"Why don't you use commercial pectin?" asked Lucille, when Agnes had confided her failure. "Then you can use the short-boil method, and it's practically fool-proof."

"Because Greg's Mom doesn't," Agnes answered crossly. "It's got to be the long-boil method or nothing."

"Fiddlesticks," concluded Lucille. "Buy the pectin, and come to the card club tomorrow afternoon."

But Agnes shook her head stubbornly. "No old grape jelly," she said, "is going to stand in the way of my wedded bliss."

She went at it again the next morning with great determination. This time, she was careful not to overcook the boiling mass. Jubilantly, she poured it into the glasses.

There, she thought, setting it to cool. "Just let my fine Gregory find fault with that!"

She put on her frillest apron, and smiled at Greg over the dinner table. This time, when he plunged his spoon into the glass, he did not have to pull. The jelly trickled off the spoon in a ruby stream.

Greg grinned, uncertainly. "Wonderful stuff for pancakes," he said. With great restraint, Agnes checked the most amazing desire to throw something. After all, it wasn't Greg's fault he had a stupid wife! She sighed, wearily, but that evening, too, had a defensive overcast. Unmollified, she accepted the unexpected apology in Greg's goodnight kiss. "Honey," he said, "you know I don't care a hoot about those old grapes."

The following day was hot, but Agnes doubled her hours at the kitchen stove. The warmer she became, the greater grew her resentment. "Why," she asked herself, "did we ever have to buy a house with an old grape arbor!"

Batch after batch she cooked, alternating between syrup and gum. Somehow, she just couldn't get it right. Grimly, she poured the last sticky mess into the glasses. Not waiting to clear the kitchen, she marched upstairs and threw herself across the bed.

"Only a silly bride," she said, "would cry over not being able to make jelly." But the tears soaked into the pillow all the same and, discouraged and exhausted, she fell asleep.

She awoke with a start at Greg's touch on her shoulder. Late afternoon shadows lay across the floor. She jumped up, guiltily, but Greg pushed her gently back against the pillows.

"I'm home early," he said. "Relax, poor kid. You're all tired out."

"I knew you could do it," he added, and Agnes became aware, for the first time, that he had something in his hand. He was taking huge bites from a piece of bread and butter and—yes, something else, gleaming in jeweled beauty upon the yellow surface.

"That last batch," mumbled Greg, with his mouth full, "has jelled."

Agnes leaped out of bed, her face ablaze with excitement.

"Greg!" she cried. "See if your folks would like to come over to dinner. We'll have crispy little biscuits, and—" she reached out and touched the quivering rubies with a reverent finger. "Great Grape Glue!" she breathed, rapturously. "Jelly!"

Clay Poem Translation
A poem inscribed on clay tablets about 1750 B. C., which tells in lofty language of a political "congress" held about 5,000 years ago in Erech, a city in ancient Sumer, has been translated by Dr. Samuel Noah Kramer, Clark research professor of Assyriology and curator of the tablet collection of the University of Pennsylvania museum. The assembly, according to Dr. Kramer's translation of the inscriptions found on six tablets and fragments, convened while the hero Gilgamesh was king of Erech to make a decision on an issue of war or peace. Sumer corresponds roughly to the southern half of modern Iraq.

Bruises on Livestock Reduce Meat Values

High Number of Injuries Result of Carelessness

One of the less spectacular but nevertheless important factors contributing to the reduction of meat and livestock values is the waste of meat and lower grading of pork cuts because of bruising.

In view of this it is important to the welfare of the livestock industry and consumer alike that more care and patience be used in handling hogs.

Bruise tests conducted recently by the Live Stock Sanitary Committee at Sioux City, Iowa, on 5,708 hogs

Tests made on 5,708 hogs indicate that the hams receive more bruises than any other part of the animal.

Indicate that there are more bruises on hams than on all other major parts of market hogs.

When the animals are driven they tend to turn away from the driver, which often results in their getting hit or kicked on the hams.

The bruise tests on the hogs turned up a total of 902 bruised hams, 207 bruised bellies, 146 bruised shoulders and 134 bruised backs.

Hams are much more often bruised on the lower part of the cushion and shank, or collar, according to the tests which showed 511 and 653 bruises respectively. This indicates that hogs probably are bruised when being driven or sorted.

Most of the injuries are surface bruises, and many are caused by the driver kicking the hog or punching the animal with a cane, sorting pole, club, and gate rod or some other handy instrument.

Some of the ham bruises are caused by protruding nails, broken boards, bolt heads or ends of gate hinges in yards, alleys and loading chutes.

Others occur when trucks are not flush with loading or unloading chutes and platforms and the legs of the hogs slip into the space between the truck and the chutes, scraping the sides of the shanks up to the cushion of the ham.

Dollars for Barley

For writing an essay on "How Can We Make the Barley Crop Bring More Dollars Per Acre?" Bobby V. Bruegger, of Plymouth, Wis., has been named winner in a contest conducted among high school students of vocational agriculture by the Midwest Barley Improvement association.

Bobby, who is 15 years old, and in his sophomore year in the Plymouth high school, won the award, which consists of $50 in cash in competition with hundreds of high school students in the five Midwest states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Iowa.

As the winner of the Midwest regional prize, young Bruegger also was a winner of the first Wisconsin state prize of $25 and the Sheboygan county prize of $5 in the contest.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bruegger, Bobby helps with the work of the family's 40-acre farm, where the principal crops are grains and alfalfa. He has been active in 4-H club work for a number of years and is a member of the Future Farmers of America.

Poultry TB Eliminated In One Year With Care

Tuberculosis in chickens can be eradicated in one year, according to Prof. Frank E. Mussahl of the University of Nebraska poultry department.

He advises raising chickens in clean quarters and on clean ground, changing the location of the range every year. Eliminate or sell old hens from the flock by June 1 of each year unless the birds are very high grade breeders.

The horse and mule population on American farms has steadily declined since 1935, while the number of tractors has increased just as steadily during the same period. More than three million tractors are now in use on the nation's farms represent a 188 per cent increase since 1935. This is just another factor in the ever-increasing use of oil products to produce more food.

Kentucky is excelled only by North Carolina in the culture of fine tobacco.
