VETERAN NEWS

A new plastic artificial eye and restoration clinic has been established at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Fort Logan, Colo., to meet the needs of veterans in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Utah.

The clinic will fabricate plastic eyes, fashion plastic ears, noses and hands for veterans who lost them in action. This service formerly was performed at the Army Fitzsimons Hospital and by commercial firms. The Fort Logan clinic is one of eight plastic eye centers set up by the VA.

Dr. Everett C. Claus, chief of the hospital's dental section, is in charge of the program. Dr. Fabian Bofenkamp heads the clinic and the laboratory technician is Glenn Van Dyne.

Plastic eyes are far superior to glass eyes, in the opinion of Dr. Bofenkamp. A plastic eye will not discolor or etch as rapidly, he explained, is less fragile and eliminates the danger of bursting because of excess heat or cold. A plastic eye also permits a better and more comfortable fitting and appears more natural.

The finished product almost defies detection, being complete even to veins, which are nothing more than nylon threads imbedded in the plastic.

Veterans are not required to pay attorneys or agents for representing them in monetary claims against the Veterans Administration, VA has announced in answer to numerous inquiries. Fees for such services, VA said, are payable only by the agency itself and are deducted from the monetary benefit due the veteran at the time the claim is allowed. Fees are fixed by statute at $10 for an original claim and $2 for a claim to obtain increased benefits. Any agent or attorney who charges or attempts to charge any veteran for such services is subject to penal provisions of the law in addition to loss of his accreditation, VA said.

Record totals in education assistance payments, loan guarantees, disability compensations, death awards, automobiles for amputees, insurance reimbursements and veterans' hospitalizations were reported by VA in a summary of activities for 1947.

The number of veterans awaiting hospitalization, veterans in on-the-job training and applications for loan guarantees decreased during the period.

Of the 14,745,000 World War II veterans in the nation, 261,000 live in the Denver branch area composed of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah, VA said. Nearly one veteran in every four, or 23.7 per cent of estimated War II veteran population in the four states, was receiving educational or job training benefits administered by the VA.

Approximately 45,722 veterans received monthly compensation for war wounds and service-connected disabilities. The seven VA hospitals in this area were caring for 3,100 patients at the end of 1947.

Business Week now comes out a bell-ringing oil rod for autos which sounds off when the rod is pushed all the way down, assuring motorists that oil check is correct.

W. J. Langston

Mr. Wm. J. Langston, age, 76, passed away at his home in Carrizozo Thursday morning, February 12th. His death was not a surprise to his friends as he had been in ill health for the past four years, and for the past six months complications of heart and liver troubles had made his recovery hopeless.

Mr. Langston was born and reared near Springfield, Missouri. He came to New Mexico in the nineties but in a few months became dissatisfied and returned to Missouri. In 1910 he moved to New Mexico to make his home. He and his wife lived near Oscura for sometime. Later they moved to Carrizozo.

Mr. Langston was a carpenter and helped in the building and finishing of most of the homes erected in Carrizozo during the years until in the early '40s when his health began to fail.

His wife was an invalid and prior to her death in 1944 he spent most of his time at home with her. After her death he became unable to do much work.

He was an Oddfellow and was active as long as he could possibly attend. He was secretary for 18 years and performed his duties with loyalty and devotion.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:00 p. m. from the Kelley Funeral Home. Members of the local Oddfellow Lodge will serve as pall bearers.

He is survived by a sister, and other relatives in Springfield, Mo. Also by his wife's nephews in Albuquerque and his brother Oddfellow, who will be in charge of graveside services.

Harlem Globe Trotters To Play at Capitan

The stage is set for the biggest night of basketball that Lincoln County fans have had the opportunity of witnessing in several years when the Carlsbad Cavemen and the Capitan Tigers tangle for the top spot in district five.

The district five contest will start at 8:00 p. m. sharp and at 9:15 those basketball playing, laugh provoking Harlem Globe Trotters professional Negro Champions, take on the unbeaten Capitan independents to complete the night's program.

Local basketball "bugs" have made an unprecedented rush on the ticket office and the gym will be sold out it was predicted.

In the first tussle of the night Carlsbad will rule a top-heavy favorite over the smaller Tigers as the Cavemen will have six lettermen left from their 1947 state championship team.

Coach Jack Mayfield's Tigers have come from nowhere at the start of the season to run up an imposing 11-game victory string. On the club there is only two lettermen reserves from last year's state consolation winners.

Since taking up play after the holidays the Tigers have rolled over Roswell, 32-30; Alamogordo 35-30; 11-10 and 35-18; Eunice 23-21; Hondo twice by top heavy scores; Hobbs 35-34; Lovington 20-27; Corona twice, and Artesia, 24-10. The Tigers have dropped only two out of their 16 games played. One to Roswell, 28-20 in the seasons opener, and the other to Dexter, 40-35, in the Capitan Invitational tourney.

Coach Ralph Bowyer's Cavemen have been bowling over opponents regularly since losing to Dexter in the finals of the local tourney. Among the Cavemen wins are a repeat 59-27 win over Dexter on the Demons' home court.

The Cavemen have been coming along rapidly and their scoring power is evenly divided among the 10-man squad, according to reports received here.

The bright spot in the Tiger showing has been the limiting of the opposition to less than 25 points per game while clipping along for 32 points plus themselves.

Richard Phillips, center, and Alfred Sanchez, forward, are the only returning lettermen on the Tiger squad but able replacements have been developed to fill the shoes of Hollis Cummins, all state last season; Don Perry, lost to Ruidoso high school, and six other members of last year's squad.

Billy Brown, brother of Eargal now with the University Lobos, and Billy Howard, B squadder of last season, have taken over the guard positions in a creditable manner. The other starting forward slot is filled by Lucie Zamora who came up through the intramural program in his senior year.

The second five finds three freshmen, Frank Chavez, Floyd Sandoval, and Johnny Francis filling in capably. Teddy Cummins, Sophomore, Joe Gomez, Junior, and Ken Poindexter, senior, have made good showings in their first seasons of play.

The Nature of Jesus
Lesson for February 9, 1948

ONE of the most discerning comments on the nature of Jesus I have ever heard came from an aged Indian in one of the western states a few years ago when I chanced to be waiting for a friend at the entrance of the old reservation. This old gentleman was sitting on a large rock. I tried to speak with him, but he did not seem to understand what I said. Then my friend drove up, and introduced me to the Indian. "This man knows our Jesus," my friend said to the Indian. His face brightened, and he held out his hand to me. "Jesus help Indian love white man," he said. Just so, Jesus helps white man love white man, too.

Dr. Newton
The lesson for Sunday is found in John 8:28-49; 13:1-17; and Colossians 1:9-20; with Philippians 2:5-11 as the devotional reading.

TEACHER AND LORD
TAKE the opening passage, John 13:1-17, where Jesus is pictured as taking a basin of water and towel, kneeling at the disciples' feet, washing their feet, and drying them. Do you not feel the blessed Saviour's very nature flooding the scene?
It requires true love, true hospitality, to serve in that role. Suppose someone came to render this service to you? And suppose that One was the Son of God?
Why did Jesus wash the disciples' feet? Because he loved them, and he wanted them to love other people enough to do for them anything that would convince them of the love which they had in their hearts for them. Here we see him as the great teacher.

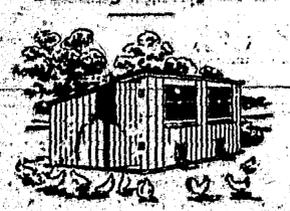

AS I HAVE LOVED YOU
BUT Peter draws back. He cannot conceive of Jesus washing his feet. Why? Because Peter did not yet understand the nature of Jesus. The memory verse for Sunday is helpful just here. "Love one another; even as I have loved you," John 13:34.
Peter acted very naturally, even if we may be tempted to say that he acted foolishly. In fact, he acted just about like any of us would have acted under similar circumstances.
But when Jesus explained to Peter what he was about, Peter then asked that Jesus wash not only his feet, but also his hands and head.

THIS IS JESUS INTERMEDIATES, young people and adults, having carefully read the passage in the 13th chapter of John, where Jesus washes the disciples' feet, will now turn to John 8:28-30, and Colossians 1:9-20, and see the expansion of this great truth over into the expressed will of God for his followers.
A true understanding of this section will lead us to tender prayerfully the nature of Jesus in the various titles accorded him in the Scriptures - Son of Man, Son of God, Master, Rabbi, Teacher, Physician, Vine, Light, Good Shepherd, Bread of Life, Comforter, Friend and Saviour.
All of these titles are borne, and yet we see him kneeling to wash the feet of everyday people. "Thy gentleness hath made me great." Intermediates and young people will wisely set themselves to the task of identifying the nature of Jesus in the people of their community. Such study will lead you to earnestly seek to walk in his blessed example, loving as he loved.

WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?
AND now we are ready for the climax of the lesson, when Peter declared, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," Matthew 16:16.
We cannot long stand in the presence of the story of this lesson and fail to conclude with Peter that none save the Son of God can do such wondrous things - even love as he loved.
Beginning with the Incarnation, we follow through the sweeping claims of Jesus, and we know of a truth that he was very God. Convinced, then, that we are in the presence of God when we contemplate the nature of Jesus, what are we to say? Does not Isaac Watts suggest the answer?

When I survey the wondrous cross,
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And poor contempt on all my pride.
See, from his head, his hands, his feet,
Sorrow and love flow mingled down,
Didst thou look down and sorrow meet,
Or turn to compass so rich a crown?
Were the whole team of nature mine,
That were a present for too small;
Love to attempt, so thine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all!

FOUR FLIGHTS UP TO HEAVEN

By FREDERICK LAING

THE landlady was smiling at them like the wolf in Red Ridinghood. "You look kinda young to be a married couple."

"Oh we aren't married yet," Peggy blurted out. She felt Bill's fingers tighten on her arm.

"So you better show us that apartment before she changes her mind," he added.

She glanced up at him with a nervous little smile, feeling ashamed, wishing she hadn't let him read her thoughts.

The landlady laughed and Peggy laughed louder than she'd wanted to.

"We want two rooms," Bill said, "two rooms and a decent kitchen. And not facing on the street, please. Too many trucks in Greenwich Village to suit me."

"I adore the Village," Peggy said quickly. The trouble was, the words seemed to jump out before she knew what she was going to say.

Bill stared up at a long crack in the ceiling. "Sure, we adore the Village."

She pinched him when the landlady wasn't looking and he gave her hair a tug, and everything was all right again. They followed the landlady up the stairs. She had just the thing for them, she said. "A couple of kids like you won't mind walking up four flights."

"Oh, no," Peggy answered. Then she glanced at Bill. "Well, would we?"

Bill looked up at the ceiling again. "Oh, no."

She knew what he was thinking. And it was true. She didn't want to live in a place that had elevators. Bad enough to have him come home talking about them every night. Bad enough to have to answer the neighbors' questions with, "My husband? Oh he . . . er, sells elevators." She could see them lifting their eyebrows. "Elevators? Fardon me for smiling, Mrs. Bill, but I never knew any one had to sell elevators. I always thought they . . . just happened."

No, definitely not a place with elevators. She didn't want to be reminded of her husband's business every time she went in and out of the house.

The landlady's short, bowed legs were leading them up the stairs briskly, showing them how easy it was to climb four flights. "You'll find it nice and quiet here, I'm sure. The gentleman who has it now has been there three years. And he's a writer."

"A writer?" Peggy had kind of a funny feeling all of a sudden. Like she'd gone up in an elevator too fast. A writer. That was what she'd always thought she'd marry some day. Or maybe an artist. Somebody like that.

Peggy is Intrigued They were walking up the last flight now and some one upstairs opened a door. Don't let him be any better looking than Bill, she begged.

As it happened, he wasn't. He was just a pale young man with glasses. He stood there in his slacks and blue shirt and he looked . . . well, on second glance he looked . . . different. Nobody would ever take him for a life guard. That's what she'd thought Bill was that first time, when they'd met on the beach.

"Come right in." The young man waved something at them. It turned out to be a monkey wrench, of all things. "Don't mind me, I'm just the plumber."

Peggy laughed. It was so unexpected, it made her feel good. "The plumber," she said, as their eyes met. "Imagine."

"Some plumber," the landlady said. "That's gratitude," he said, looking at Peggy.

ing at Peggy. "I do her a favor and she makes fun of my plumbing."

"I think it's nice if a man knows how to fix the plumbing," Peggy said. She glanced from the thin hands to the thin, pale face. "I really do."

He looked pleased. "I'm a painter, too," he told her. "Look, I painted this china closet. What do you think of the shade?"

It made her feel so flattered to have a writer showing off for her benefit. "It's a lovely color," she told him. And then she could feel Bill's eyes on her. "Isn't it, Bill?"

"Yeah," Bill said dryly, "blue." Peggy winced. Well, that proved he wasn't color blind.

"It's the same shade as your hat," this writer was saying. She blushed. "Think of a man's noticing that."

"Yeah," Bill said. The way he said it, it wasn't exactly a compliment.

"I think it's nice if a man knows how to fix the plumbing," Peggy said. She glanced from the thin hands to the thin, pale face. "I really do."

"If you want to see the apartment," the landlady began sharply. Then she pulled a smile over her false teeth. "This here's the kitchen."

Bill said, "You mean the apartment opens into the kitchen?" Behind his glasses, the young man's light blue eyes were looking amused. "Oh you'll get used to it. And it'll give your friends something to talk about."

"He's some little talker himself, isn't he?" the landlady said. "I think he's wonderful," Peggy said, laughing. He certainly knew how to make a person feel perfectly at ease.

Then she got a look at Bill's face. She began to feel miserable. If only he wouldn't look like that. Like a . . . She tried to push the thought out of her mind—but it came right back again. . . . Like a disappointed salesman. I'm sure you'll make a mistake if you don't buy our elevators, Mr. Kotch.

The landlady led them into the living room, and when Peggy saw it, her heart sat up and begged. Her eyes drank in the bookcase that covered a whole wall, the original paintings on unframed canvas, the overcast fireplace with three painted masks above it. And there was a table with a typewriter and a lot of papers piled-up in careless stacks.

What darling taste you have. She almost said it, but she thought about Bill just in the nick of time. "The bedroom's in there," the landlady said. She let Peggy and Bill go into the bedroom by themselves. Bill's head almost bumped the top of the doorway as they went in together.

"This is a dog house," he said. Peggy was in such a daze she thought he said, "Doll's house," at first.

"Isn't it," she said excitedly. And then, seeing his expression, "What?"

"A dog house," he said. "Look, I can almost touch the ceiling. Listen, Peggy, I've learned something about buildings in the elevator business. Do you know how old this house is? Why, it was a dump when they built the Brooklyn bridge."

Peggy gasped. "He heard you!" Suddenly all the thrill was gone and her heart felt like lead. Her eyes were blinking as she turned and went back into the living room. Bill followed behind her, stooping with an exaggerated wariness as he went through the doorway.

Her fingers were twisting the engagement ring nervously around

PEARL: COME HOME

It was all my fault, Pearl. I admit I was surly and grumpy. No wonder that even the kids were scared of me. But everything's better now. I've found out that constipation caused by lack of bulk in my diet can be kicked! Believe me, I advise others who suffer the same way to do what I did: just eat a bowlful of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. They say it's America's most famous laxative cereal—believe me, it sure gets my vote. Or make it up into muffins—they taste grand too. . . . Come home, dear, and find a brow new man waiting for you. That's me—your ever-lovin' husband, JOE.

KILL WEEDS in growing crops with

The new miracle chemical 2,4-D in Agricultural Weed-No-More, brings you the practical, low-cost way to kill weeds in growing small grains.

Spraying Agricultural Weed-No-More on young corn is faster than cultivating, kills weeds right up to the corn plants, makes row-planting practical.

On pastures, fence rows, ditch banks, and grassed waterways, Agricultural Weed-No-More kills many weeds, roots and all.

Agricultural Weed-No-More goes on fast—covers 7 to 15 acres per hour. It goes far, too—4 pint to 2 plants in only 5 gallons of water treats 1 acre! Apply by the new low-galloonage method developed and proved by Sherwin-Williams Research. Use a simple, low-cost rig that you or any local shop can quickly assemble.

Costs less per acre because it controls weeds more effectively!

Agricultural authorities have found that the ester form of 2,4-D used in Agricultural Weed-No-More penetrates weed leaves within 5 minutes, does not wash off, mix easily with water, won't clog or corrode spray equipment, and is harmless to stock. Agricultural Weed-No-More has been proved on more than 600,000 acres.

SEE WEED-NO-MORE AT WORK IN NEW SOUND MOVIE Ask your county agent, or nearest farm supply dealer for arrangements for you and your neighbors to see "Agriculture's New Cleanest." It will show you how you can boost yields and profits with 2,4-D.

THE GOLDEN HILLS Since 1888

ONCE in a dark and troubled time When I saw no road ahead, A wise and kindly counselor Set by my side and said: "Each morning I drive down a valley road To get to my work, and I Can often see nothing of all for the fog That blinds out the earth and sky; But I say to myself, 'I shall drive ahead, Carefully, without sight. For I know I shall come onto higher ground Where the hills are gold with light! And I'll keep on . . . Oh, wise kind words: That fall on my heart, that day, Nothing can blot them from my mind, Nothing can take them away, And now when a thick fog shuts me in To choke me and blind my eyes, I am so glad for the hills ahead, For the friend who was kind and wise!

PONTIAC

A FINE CAR MADE EVEN FINER!

A Product of General Motors

GM Hydra-Matic Drive optional on all models!

Today, Pontiac announces a series of notable advancements in the car that has already won the wholehearted endorsement of more than a million owners and friends.

Foremost among these advancements is the great General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive—now offered as optional equipment on all Pontiac cars. Pontiac is the lowest-priced car in the world to provide this great mechanical masterpiece—which shifts gears automatically, and completely eliminates the clutch pedal.

Coupled with this great engineering triumph is a striking improvement in beauty and luxury. New exterior smartness extends from the new radiator grille to the streamlined rear bumper.

Interiors, too, are remarkably improved. Upholsteries are more beautiful and are expertly blended to achieve new attractiveness and charm. Instrument panels are finished in a smart design adapted from quarter-sawn mahogany—and an adroit use of chrome moulding adds a dash of modernity.

Engines and chassis have been refined wherever possible—but they remain, basically, the same engineering masterpieces which have become synonymous in the automotive industry with goodness and dependability.

There are many more things we could tell you about the new Pontiac; for there are countless improvements which add to its traditional quality and value. But we feel that, for those who know Pontiac, we need only say—

—here is, by far, the most beautiful Pontiac ever built

—here is the most luxurious Pontiac ever built —and it is now available with GM Hydra-Matic Drive—optional at additional cost.

We wish only to add that it is here—on display in our showroom—and that you are most cordially invited to see and inspect it.

New Mexico Tax Bulletin
Property Tax Return

Tax Assessors all over the State are calling attention to the necessity for property owners to make returns of property for purposes of taxation for the year 1948. This should be done before March first next, that is, during the month of February. If property is not returned it is subject to a penalty of 21 per cent of the value fixed by the Assessor for evasion or refusal to declare the return. For failure to make return as required, a penalty of 5 per cent increase in the taxes shall be added.

Municipal Elections
The biennial elections for cities, towns and villages will take place on Tuesday, April 6. At these elections mayors and members of city councils and members of boards of trustees will be elected and in some cases treasurers and police judges will be elected. The new administration will begin its term of office on May 1 following. During the campaign preceding the municipal elections reports concerning municipal management would be in order.

Taxable Values
A trend is noted in the reduction of taxable values throughout the State by reason of purchases of land and improvements made by agencies exempt from taxation. Such purchases are being made or planned by religious organizations and by State agencies, and include not only properties in the municipalities but large ranch holdings. The State Game Commission is one of State agencies which contemplates purchasing ranch lands. The values at which these properties are purchased are such as to indicate a considerable reduction in property values subject to taxation. A question may arise whether there should not be payments in lieu of taxes made by government agencies. The people ratified a constitutional amendment at the last general election providing that property subject to taxation for interest on and retirement of bonded indebtedness at the time of purchase should continue to be subject to taxes, even when purchased by agencies otherwise exempt from property taxes, until such indebtedness is liquidated.

Tourist Business
It is believed by Mr. Joseph A. Bursey, Tourist Bureau Director, that 7 million visitors will enter New Mexico in 1948. During 1947 the number entering the State is estimated at 6,853,000, as compared with 5,383,000 in 1946. These figures are reached by a 24 hour check made once a month at 20 registration stations located throughout the State.

How to Make Advertising Pay

Naturally, as editor of the Clarion, I believe in advertising. But I like to feel that the folks who advertise in my paper are strictly aboveboard and truthful.

When Sam Hackney listed peaches "big as indoor baseballs," I went to investigate. But Sam was right—they were! I find most merchants are willing to lay their "ad" claims open to inspection.

It's just good sound business... as the brewers found when they started their "Self Regulation" program. Places selling beer are open to inspection night and day, by you or me or a law officer. And if any one finds anything to criticize, they can report it to the brewers—who take steps to have the fault corrected.

From where I sit, if you've got a good, popular product—like good peaches or good beer—make all the fine claims that you want—but just be sure they're "open to inspection."

Your share, $1,782,472,718

For your livestock and your dairy and poultry products, soybeans, cottonseed, etc. . . you ranchers and farmers of America received in 1947 almost thirty billion dollars, a new high.

Out of that amount, $1,782,472,718 came to you from Swift & Company in payment for the products you sold to us. Of every dollar that we took in from the sale of our products, we paid to you an average of 79.3¢ for your products.

Together we are doing a big, vital job of helping feed millions of families in America and in many foreign lands. Neither of us can do that job without the other. Since we are in this together and dependent upon each other, we feel that you have an interest in knowing how we have handled our end of this "joint operation." This page is our way of telling you. It shows you how we handled, in 1947, our business of processing and marketing.

 It shows how much money we took in, where it went to, and what services we performed to earn our 1¢ profit per dollar of sales.

How We EARN Our Profit

In addition to providing a market for livestock and many other agricultural products, Swift performs many essential services for producers and consumers.
 Most people can't go to farms to buy their meat—neither can retail dealers. Swift brings the meat to them. We have been doing this big, necessary job for 62 years, efficiently and economically.

Here are the services Swift & Company performs to earn its small profit:

- 1) We buy livestock and many other products that farmers and ranchers raise; then process and distribute them.
 - 2) We process, brand, and perform all the many necessary operations to prepare our products for market and consumption.
 - 3) We utilize all by-products. Every part that can be used is processed and sold in various forms. The income from this source increases the price of meat to producers, decreases the cost of meat to consumers.
 - 4) Our research finds new uses and new markets for farmers' and ranchers' products.
 - 5) Our Martha Logan experimental kitchens test foods under home conditions, so that Swift products may give consumers the greatest possible satisfaction and value per dollar.
 - 6) We pay transportation charges on our finished products, delivering them to dealers in all parts of the United States. This makes a broad, nationwide market instead of a limited local market for the products of livestock producers.
 - 7) We provide employment and a livelihood—good wages, good working conditions and security—for 73,000 people who work for Swift & Company.
- Our earnings for all this were one cent on each dollar of sales.

HOW SWIFT'S DOLLAR WAS DIVIDED

1 Cent as Earnings—The Company's 1947 net earnings were $23,254,977, after provision of $13,000,000 for high cost additions to fixed assets. This represents an average of only 1 cent of each sales dollar. Swift & Company is owned by 84,000 stockholders, whose savings provide the money for capital, plants, equipment, tools and raw materials. Of the net earnings, the stockholders received $12,496,612 in dividends. The balance has been kept in the company as a reserve for future needs of the business.

Here is a quick "picture" of how Swift's average sales dollar was divided in 1947. Smallest slice is Swift & Company's net earnings for many essential services in the processing and marketing of the agricultural products you produce. It averaged a fraction of a cent a pound on the millions of pounds handled.

Conservation of Our Land Resources

by H. H. Kildes, Dean of Agriculture
 Iowa State College

During recent years we have become increasingly conscious of the importance of conserving our land resources. Accordingly, we have initiated conservation programs and practices which are sound and logical. Such action was and is urgently needed, not alone for the current generation, but as an obligation to generations yet unborn. As one result of the programs adopted, much land (which because of its character and slope was being destroyed by erosion) has been turned back to grass. Thus, expanding livestock production has become an increasingly important part of the program of conserving our natural resources.

Continual sale of crops off a farm or ranch results in serious loss of plant food. But the maintenance of plant food elements in the soil is urgently needed if our crop land is to continue to provide adequate quantities of human food. Livestock farming is helping accomplish this. For when land is used for grazing, rather than for crops, soil erosion ceases and the unnecessary loss of plant foods is checked.

Duran which is now a full fledged railroad division point is a pretty busy place. The railroad Company has about 150 men at work there permanently, and considerable activity is noticeable in the town district.

According to Territorial Traveling Auditor, who has just returned from a trip to the southern part of the territory, 15,000 additional assessment returns have been made in New Mexico during the past year. These figures speak almost as much for the growth in population of New Mexico during the past twelve months as the 23,000 land entries in seventeen months recently announced and gives additional ammunition to the boosters for statehood. They mean not only 15,000 additional citizens but that they are owners of property.

Lincoln—His Spirit Is with the Ages

Martyr, Emancipator, Myth, Abe Is 'Builed Forever'

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

Like everything else in this political year, preparations for Lincoln's birthday in 1948 are chiefly a matter of scrambling through the Great Emancipator's writings to find a text for a highly-partisan outburst. But February 12 is the occasion for more than a barrage of political speeches.

To me Lincoln is real because he and my childhood conception of my grandfather are strangely blended. Both, like Merlin's Camelot, are builed forever because, to me, they never were builed at all—they were myth rather than fact—a myth not of my own making, but handed down through two generations.

My mother, as a little child, "saw Lincoln" (like a man "sleeping," she thought) as he lay in state in Chicago. My grandmother stood beside her swathed in the heavy mourning veil of the day which she felt perhaps was as much for Lincoln then as it was for her soldier-husband who had given his life in the same cause. To my mother, starting at that coffin in Chicago, those always remained a confused impression of mourning for the man she thought was not dead, but sleeping, and the father she never had seen. Perhaps that feeling was imparted to me.

My mother described the scene to me. It was clearly etched in her memory like the rest of the strange hegra which she took westward with her widowed mother from a little town in New York state (as a bride, my grandmother had pioneered the West with her young New York state farm-born husband).

Of course, the memories were blurred and blended, undoubtedly, with later repetition of the event, but the picture was clear, and I only wish I could repeat it in my mother's own words. The train trip west, the arrival in the great city, the crowd about her as she advanced slowly with her mother into the great hall. Then the coffin which she did not know was a coffin for there was no such word in her tiny vocabulary.

Her mother let go the little girl's hand to move back her own heavy veil. Then the little girl remembered being lifted in the strong hands of the guard. About him she could recall only a blue tunic, shiny brass buttons and the smell of tobacco. Then the face of the "sleeping" man, and her mother's quiet tears.

(The body of the martyred President, as you know, was taken from the East Room of the White House to the capitol where it lay in state. Then it was carried across the country, pausing for homage in several cities until it reached Springfield, Lincoln's home.)

I repeated my mother's story after her death, as best I could on the air—and there were sequels. Letters—one from a lady in New England for whom the broadcast had awakened memories . . . her father had been one of the Union soldiers chosen to stand guard at the catafalque in Chicago. It might well have been he who lifted my mother.

The soldiers who had been chosen for that honored duty were permitted to divide the gold-fringed draps that covered the coffin, she wrote me, and she consigned to me a fragment which I cherish.

There were many other letters. One from the niece of one of Lincoln's cabinet members, William Felt Fessenden; another enclosing the announcement shown in the cut.

These were two sequels to the story of the little girl and her weeping mother. I think the everlasting sequel can be read again and again in the story of America, as the story of Lincoln is projected far on into history. I think I have seen it projected in the crowds who come to Washington, avid with guidebook and camera to collect "souvenirs."

Only this week, the garrulous cab driver who carried me from Union station was full of a story of "South Americans" who spent endless hours (according to his timing) at the Lincoln Memorial. The memorial remains a shrine for all visitors, native and foreign, a place where sippant chatter is stilled before that almost living replica warmed to life out of cold marble by the inspired hand of Daniel Chester French.

It lives as the spirit of Abraham Lincoln lives.

To the little child beside the catafalque, except for her mother's tears there was no mourning in that moment. Only something solemn, something important, something that touched old and young alike because it had in it the cosmic rhythm of the epic, and, so well, the simple, soul-touching melody of the folk song.

And I wonder if there was not some intangible, some eternal quality of what Lincoln did, or what his character has etched into the his-story of America, that gives Americans the assurance that his spirit, especially in these times when evil gods make their black magic to bewitch the minds of men, is not dead, but sleeps, waiting only the clarion call of the people whom he loved to wake it into action.

Free Speech, Russian Style

The Russians celebrated Christmas with a public criticism of Russian factories by the commercial director of Mostorg, the Soviets' largest department store. The director complained that the factories were producing inferior products. He wanted more and better goods, more washing machines, vacuum cleaners, refrigerators and decent furniture.

Are you surprised that such criticism is permitted? If you are, you don't understand the Soviet system. Criticism is allowed as a sound method of correcting faults — although it doesn't necessarily displace the "cure," which means banishment temporarily or permanently to Siberia, just as in the good old days.

I am reminded of columnist Lowell Mellett's story about the scope of Russian criticism. On his trip to Russia, he was shown around by a very clever female guide. Mellett asked her about freedom of the press, and she said, "Oh, yes, they had a free press, the press continually criticized things, including government enterprises."

Well, would they be allowed to criticize Stalin, Mellett wanted to know.

"Why!" the girl was surprised. "What has that got to do with it? You couldn't criticize him because there is nothing about him to criticize!"

Secretary Marshall wants the European recovery plan to be run by a single administrator, not an eight-man board as has been suggested. If the old saw that the best-working committee is a committee of three with two members out of town is correct, perhaps Marshall is right.

January saw three presidential messages presented to congress. Each document had many a passage born only to waste its fragrance on the desert air of an unsympathetic majority.

Too bad the Republicans don't care for Mr. Truman's budget. The budget message was printed up so nicely, bound so neatly, and it is unique—unique in that it is the biggest peacetime budget ever presented to any congress.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

This Won't Happen Again Until 1976

You like to have holidays fall on weekends? Then 1948 should be a year of great promise.

Most of the major holidays this year will fall on Saturdays and Sundays, which is either good or bad, depending on how you feel about getting time off down at the old mill.

Sundays, when we fall Washington's birthday, Memorial Day and Independence Day, aren't too bad because the government and most other employers observe the Mondays following as legal holidays and so extend holiday benefits to their employees.

But for the washing year it's a rough shake when a holiday falls on a Saturday, for it doesn't bring an alternate day off. And this year

NEWS REVIEW

Nazi-Soviet Pact Told; Too Much Aid: Hoover

The celebrated "cold war" has been enriched by another U. S. propaganda strike, probably the heaviest yet, against Russia.

It took the form of official state department publication of captured German foreign office records revealing the extent and nature of Nazi-Soviet relations from 1939 to 1941, the period covered by the non-aggression pact between the two nations which ended when Hitler attacked Russia on June 22, 1941.

In the light of the U. S.-Russian wartime alliance, the Nazi documents, published in book form, tell a sordid story of secret agreements, global gambling with nations for stakes and the feverish fetish of political expediency which gripped the minds of German and Russian leaders before and during the war.

High point of the hitherto secret dossier was the revelation that in 1940 Adolf Hitler and V. M. Molotov of Russia agreed that Britain and the U. S. must be excluded from Europe, Asia and Africa.

The book told also how, in 1940, Stalin had offered to join the German-Italian-Japanese axis if Hitler would give Russia a free hand in Finland, a military base near the Dardanelles and a dominant voice in the oil-rich Middle East. Then the documents show how Hitler, disdaining even to answer Stalin's proposition, ordered his armies to prepare "to crush Soviet Russia in a quick campaign."

One of the major factors which precipitated the German attack on Russia was the Soviet demand for dominant control of the Balkans. Hitler, who was as aware as any man of the political, economic and strategic value of the pivotal Balkan area, turned thumbs down on that Russian desire also.

Sum and substance of the state department's spectacular publication of the Nazi documents was little more than an emphatic indication of an already well-known fact: That Russia, with aggressive consistency, has been lumbering far years for leadership in the Balkans, for new pre-eminence in the Dardanelles, for expansion in Central Asia and for a free hand in Finland and Poland.

Value of the publication of these documents at this time is questionable, despite the flagrantly apparent anti-Russian propaganda they can and will inspire. State department's action obviously was aimed at rallying public support behind the Marshall plan, soon to come up for congressional action, but it also would serve to aggravate and inflame the already dangerously touchy "cold war."

Rubber Bill

Legislation to establish a permanent, government-regulated American rubber industry with a 678,000-ton annual capacity and a required annual production of at least 226,000 tons a year has been introduced by Rep. Paul Shafer (Rep., Mich.).

The bill refers throughout to the product in question as "American-made rubber." The word "synthetic," as the term for factory made rubber, is not mentioned.

FOREIGN AID: Hoover Plan

Herbert Hoover, former U. S. president, has urged congress not to commit this nation—even "morally"—to a four-year European recovery program, and advised a reduction of the 6.8-billion-dollar outlay proposed to carry the Marshall plan through its first 15 months.

In the 4,000-word statement which he filed with the senate foreign relations committee Hoover expressed his opposition views to the administration's foreign aid plans.

Of greater significance, however, was the fact that Hoover's own opinions amounted to a documentary of the entire right-wing, conservative element of thinking which rejects an "internationalist" foreign policy on the grounds that U. S. resources should be concentrated at home.

Decrying even a "moral commitment" for the four-year period contemplated in the state department's proposals, he asserted the U. S. should keep itself entirely free "to aid our efforts without recrimination."

He expressed, too, the fear that a lavish outpouring of aid would weaken the American economy to the extent that all world recovery would be defeated.

The volume of exports and funds proposed in the Marshall plan, he opined, might aggravate the already serious inflation, draining our national resources and continuing high tax rates, "all of which might bring depression and thus destroy the strength of the one remaining source of aid to a world of chaos."

Hoover recommended further that the Marshall plan, if it is adopted, be run by a bipartisan commission, and suggested that up to three billion dollars in food, coal, fertilizers and cotton be labeled frankly as "gifts" because unsecured loans "will not and cannot be repaid."

REFUSAL: Prediction

About all the average U. S. citizen knows about Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is that he either will or will not get into the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination this year.

But Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star and leading promoter of pre-Eisenhower sentiment, now says he definitely will not.

Roberts' prediction was that the general soon would remove himself from all consideration along those lines. Said Roberts:

"I'll venture a guess that before June the general may take himself completely out of the political picture. I am sure the message will come when he lays aside his military uniform February 15."

He emphasized, though, that he was not speaking for Eisenhower. With Al Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, Roberts had been doing most of the political drum-beating for Eisenhower.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

It's Easy to Serve Eggs Daily!
(See recipes below.)

Eggs A-Plenty!

"My family simply refuses to eat eggs, and I don't know how to work them into my menus," says many a housewife who is trying desperately to give each member of her family "the egg a day" that nutritionists recommend.

Today, we're devoting the column to recipes which are rich in eggs. For the families who refuse to eat eggs as such, there are many ways of disguising them. Instead of poached eggs for breakfast, serve a Dutch pancake, for example, and see how well received it is; use batter bread for lunch, and serve a vegetable custard for dinner. Isn't it easy?

Dutch Pancake (Serves 4)

- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons soft butter
- Confectioners' sugar
- Jam

Beat the eggs. Sift flour and salt together and add to eggs alternately with milk to make a smooth batter. Spread butter over the bottom and sides of a cold frying pan. Pour in batter and place in a hot (400 degrees) oven. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, reducing heat gradually to moderate (350 degrees) during the baking. Pancake should puff at the sides and be crisp and brown. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar and spread with jam. Roll like an omelet. Serve on hot platter at once.

Bitter Bread

- 3 eggs
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 2 sup sweet milk
- 1/2 cup fine white cornmeal
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or shortening

Set baking pan in oven to heat. Beat eggs, add buttermilk and sweet milk; beat well and add dry ingredients sifted together, then the butter. Grease heated pan, pour in batter and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until set in center, about one hour. Serve at once.

There was a number of vegetables which are enhanced if they are made with an egg mixture and baked. Why not try one of these when adding eggs to the diet as well as your vegetable?

Corn Custard (Serves 6)

- 3 eggs
- 2 cups canned corn, kernel style
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- Cracker crumbs
- Butter

Beat eggs well. Combine with corn, melted butter and milk. Stir well. Add seasoning and sugar.

Pour into a buttered casserole and sprinkle with cracker crumbs. Then dot with butter and bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven for 40 minutes or until the custard is firm.

LYNN SAYS: You Need Time Savers in the Kitchen

Potatoes will bake in half the time if you parboil them first for 15 minutes.

Rhubarb, celery, asparagus and green onions should be cut by the bunch rather than by the stalk. Use a board and a very sharp knife.

Paper towels or napkins kept in the bottom of a hydrator will prevent rust from forming on lettuce and other greens.

*Recipe given.

Ham-Cheese Souffle (Serves 4)

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 4 eggs
- 4 slices ham
- 4 slices tomato

Add milk, seasoning and cheese to slightly beaten eggs. Turn the mixture into a baking dish which has been greased and line with ham and tomato and set into a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes or until the custard is firm. Let stand for three minutes and unmold onto a platter. Serve with tomato sauce, which may be heated canned tomato soup.

The above mixture also may be baked in individual ramekins. Place ham and tomato slices on bottom of each before pouring in the mixture.

There are lots of fine variations for omelet that make it ideal for serving as a main luncheon or supper dish.

*Omelet Supreme (Serves 6)

- 5 eggs, separated
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 cup green pepper or parsley, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons onion, finely chopped
- 2 cups creamed tuna, chicken, lobster or vegetables

Add salt to whites and beat stiff. Beat yolks then add pepper and flour and beat to blend thoroughly. Add green pepper and onion. Fold yolk mixture into beaten whites. Pour mixture into two well greased hot eight-inch layer pans (place pans in oven to heat while mixing omelet). Spread mixture lightly in the pans having mixture higher around the edge. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes or until knife inserted comes out clean. To serve, invert one layer on warm serving platter. Pour about 1/2 cup creamed mixture over layer. Invert second layer atop sauce. To serve, cut in pie-shaped pieces. Pass remaining creamed mixture in a bowl.

Other fillings for omelet: Chopped crisp bacon and fried potatoes; creamed tongue; chopped, cooked chicken livers with sauteed onions; creamed oysters or shrimp; corned beef hash; highly seasoned, stewed kidneys, chopped and spread over top; cooked sausage meat; broiled or creamed sweetbreads; thin slices of tomato sprinkled with soft, grated American cheese - place under broiler until cheese melts, then serve omelet immediately.

FIVE-STAR WINNER . . . SMALL TOWNS, U.S.A.

Mississippi Project Sets Pattern in Rural Planning

By EARLE HITCH
Released by WNU Features.

Country life must be made hopeful, healthy and happy if rural regions are to continue as the main source of our national strength. One of the major phases in the revamping of that rural pattern of living is the expansion of rural occupations. For the first time since the factory system put an end to handicrafts in the home and village shops, economic development is taking a turn favorable to the rural environment.

For more than a century it has been otherwise. Rural enterprise, limited to farming, and a dwindling retail trade, followed the path of non-resistance. Outside of the fertile farm belts and the mill towns of the upper South, country income has been declining as the land wore out and the people left for jobs in the city. Now, there are reasons to believe, that trend can be halted. Invention and discovery offer the earning opportunities for which the country has been waiting.

Rural America

In a Series

Spinning and churning are gone; likewise, old-fashioned tanning and butchering, milling and hoeing. But those lost occupations, sorely missed in the small farm communities, can be replaced. There is new and better work to be done, both on the land and in the local mills and plants. The community which wishes to increase the earning capacities of its population can do so.

New Pattern Evolves.

Wasted land can be restored and used for new kinds of small-farm tillage. New production systems, plus the extension of rural power lines, give country manufacture an edge it never has had before. These things, of course, cannot be brought about on a community-wide scale without careful planning and determined leadership. They are most effective when they are undertaken with a long range program for community development.

Rural economic problems are still too much neglected. Only a few intelligent and patient attempts have been made to find durable solutions. Consequently the plans that are succeeding are important not only as local programs, but also as patterns for other places; for there are vast areas of rural America which need some kind of economic rescue.

The most successful plans have to be adapted to particular conditions. Consumer tastes, market locations and the job of organizing public support have to be taken into consideration along with restoring the land and finding out what can be produced by the farmers and the other labor supply. This will take business backing and business management. It never has been sufficient to make a plan and count on it to work by popular voluntary support.

Ambitious Tupelo Project.

Tupelo, Miss., has one of the most energetic and far-reaching plans in the country. It is a plan not for Tupelo primarily, but for the large rural area of which Tupelo is the center. The project is especially valuable from the fact that it is not limited to dealing with present rural problems, but also is looking ahead to problems that probably must be faced in the future.

The Tupelo program is no sudden outburst of enthusiasm. It has been several years in maturing, and it is the more effective now for having made progress with caution. It has not started to go anywhere until its supporters believe it is in their power to help it get there.

Chief aims are to encourage new types of farming, especially types that will aid in soil enrichment and at the same time yield better income to the small hill farmers. Poultry and fruit growing are being emphasized, and dairying has been backed for a number of years. To aid in getting this work started and to keep it going, several specialists have been hired with funds contributed by the program's backers.

Chief factor in success of the Tupelo plan is the kind of sponsorship it has. The leadership and the full influence of the Tupelo Daily Journal and its publisher, George McLean, are supporting the project. The Daily Journal has guaranteed the funds necessary for the first three years' activities. The Chamber of Commerce, of which McLean now is president, is doing its part by financing a special program in horticulture, which is allied with the plan in general.

Communally Backing.

In previous years banks and business men have helped introduce dairying and better dairy breeds. Tupelo business men realize that business will thrive and their town will grow to the extent that the entire community prospers. They are convinced that there should be more earning opportunities on the farms and in the rural neighborhoods. They are helping not only to build up a better farming industry, but also to promote new town industries that will make assured markets for things produced on the better farms.

The plan that has been developed covers five counties and is the biggest rural community development plan in the United States, in the number of people it affects and the extent of its program. It already is demonstrating how small farming resources can be improved when energy and imagination are applied.

The next article will give details that were followed in establishing the Tupelo plan.

Chapel to Mark Bravery of Chaplains

PHILADELPHIA.—The bravery of four wartime chaplains, two Protestants, a Roman Catholic and a Jew, who gave up their lives in a sinking troopship and were last seen standing together, arm in arm, their heads bowed in prayer, will be commemorated in a chapel being built here under sponsorship of the Philadelphia Interfaith sponsoring committee.

The shrine, which will be known as the "Chapel of the Four Chaplains," will be open 24 hours a day and will provide facilities for the worship of Protestant, Jewish and Roman Catholic faiths. Approximately $150,000 has been raised for the chapel.

The chaplains were among 1,100 troops aboard the Dorchester, a troopship en route to Europe, when it was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic on February 3, 1943.

N. M. A. & M. to Offer
Degree in Agricultural Engineering

Meeting a long-felt need for such a course, New Mexico A&M College will have its new four year curriculum for a degree in agricultural engineering ready for the 1948 fall semester.

The new curriculum will be offered jointly by the schools of agriculture and engineering, and will be administered by the deans of the two schools. Applications for staff members are now being examined. Specialized agricultural engineering courses, along with shop and laboratory facilities will be available by fall, it is now planned.

Students now in school who are interested in this field will be able to transfer to the new curriculum and complete graduation requirements by June, 1949.

Agricultural engineering offers professional opportunities in several different fields—rural electrification, agricultural machines, and power, farm structures and utilities processing of farm products, and soil and water conservation. This training is also expected to be beneficial to those students who plan to teach in high schools, operate farms or ranches or enter the extension service.

Students majoring in agricultural engineering will enroll in the school of engineering for their freshman and sophomore years. For the last two years they will be in the school of agriculture. They will, at graduation, receive the degree bachelor of science in agricultural engineering from the school of agriculture.

The curriculum will follow closely the recommendations of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, and is similar to the requirements of schools which have been accredited in agricultural engineering by the Engineering Council for Professional Development.

Besides specialized professional courses in agricultural engineering, the curriculum will include basic courses in science, mathematics, English, agriculture engineering and social sciences.
