HOSPITAL FUND RAISING CAMPAIGN GETS UNDERWAY

County Democrats To Open Fall Campaign With Gov. Mabry Party

Mr. Carl Ness, Fort Stanton, Chairman of the County Democratic Central Committee has announced the opening of the Campaign for the 1948 general Election in Lincoln County is to be on October 1st with the addresses in Carrizozo of the Governor Mabry party.

The next rally of National and State candidates will be that of Clinton P. Anderson party to be held in Capitan, on October 22.

There is to be a meeting of all the County Candidates at the local Court house on Saturday evening, September 25th at 7:30. The purpose of this meeting is to bring all the candidates up to date on the party rallies to be held throughout the County.

LOCAL FIRE CHIEF ON THE JOB TEN YEARS

In an interview this week with Fire Chief Fay Harkley, he informs us he has been a member of the Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department for the past 20 years the last ten of which he has served as Chief of the Department. During that time several pieces of new equipment has been added and the force has answered many calls and saved many untold dollars in property damage.

One piece of equipment purchased about five years ago and kept at the local hospital is a Resuscitator which has saved several lives. The most recent, being an infant last Saturday night.

A new fire truck has been on order for the past two months and delivery is expected before the first of next month.

The new rig is the latest in fire fighting equipment and sends the water out in a "fog" under high pressure, reducing water damage at the same time not drying up the main, as is the case with pump system used on the present equipment.

There is to be a demonstration with the new equipment in the near future, probably during national Fire prevention week, watch for time and date.

COUNTY RESIDENTS INVEST $2,256.25 IN U. S. BONDS

Residents of Lincoln County invested $2,256.25 in U. S. Savings Bonds during August, said S. E. Greisen, Chairman of the County Savings Bond Committee, here today. This total is $362.50 more than the amount so invested during July which included the last seventeen days of the Security Loan Drive.

"Series E Bonds continue as a favorite investment for people who save small amounts regularly," said Mr. Greisen. "In this county, $1,256.25 went into Series E's last month. With school opening for another year, many parents are starting a fund for their children's further education by buying Series E Bonds regularly," concluded Mr. Greisen.

Lincoln County Motors and El Cibola hotel both loom large from any vantage point with their new white outside paint jobs. The newly decorated and renovated interiors are almost complete.

At a meeting of the Community Council last Friday evening, at which two Hospital Board members Dr. J. P. Turner and Mayor Vernon Petty, were present to lead the discussion, it was unanimously decided that the quickest and best way of raising the necessary funds would be by public subscription.

Every citizen in the village of Carrizozo and every citizen in this end of the county who will use the facilities of the County-Municipal hospital, realizes the need of such a hospital and knows also, that the $15,000.00 we must raise right now is a small sum indeed to contribute to the building of a magnificent twenty-five bed, well staffed, well equipped $220,000.00 institution to be built here in the County seat of Lincoln County.

Organized workers are seeking donations in and around Carrizozo. Early in the week an appointed committee contacted all the employees in town and met with enthusiastic response from these citizens, who were wondering how best to contribute their share. Since it will be impossible to contact every one who will want to give to this fund, Mr. R. E. Lemon of the local bank has kindly consented to receive donations turning banking hours or mail your contribution to the bank. Make your check or money-order payable to the "Carrizozo Municipal Hospital Fund". An account in that name has been set up at the bank and miscellaneous donations amounting to $320.50 have been turned in even before the drive got underway.

Local workers are striving to have the entire amount raised by October 15th. The very latest we have to present our "Cash on the Barrel Head" is November 15th. The $15,000.00 must be raised before the contract for the hospital can be let.

Realizing that local organizations will be giving benefits to help augment the hospital fund, and that so many benefits given in so short a time could easily fall in their purpose due to conflicting dates; tentative plans are now under way for the sponsoring of a street carnival in downtown Carrizozo with each organization urged to have a booth or concession of their choice. The carnival would feature notable speakers, a good western band, a bang-up street dance, Bingo stand.

The committee headed by Mr. Fred Nepp is open for suggestions and indications of acceptance of the idea.

The drive is on! It is up to each and everyone of us to raise the largest possible sum of money in the shortest possible time.

Mrs. Henry Hoffman was confined to the Turner hospital from Monday until Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shafer spent last week end with the C. E. May family in Magdalena.

The first Football game of the season is to be played here this afternoon between the Grizzlies and Captain's Season as well as game tickets went on sale this week.

Mrs. Fred Savreda and Mrs. Charles Allen were visitors here Saturday from Tinnie.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Rear and children of Deming spent the week end at the James Duncan home.

QUESTION: Several of our chairs have loose legs and rungs. Please advise how to repair.

ANSWER: Take the chairs apart and scrape off all the dried glue from the ends of the rungs and other parts, as well as from the holes into which the rungs fit. For each end of a rung or other loose part, cut a piece of an old "silk" stocking that will go over it and that can be forced into the hole. Use plenty of glue on the ends and drive the parts together tightly. The glue will soak through the "silk," which will form a tight packing. After drying, trim off the edges of the "silk" with a razor blade. In place of the "silk" you may be able to buy thin steel strips intended for tightening a chair.

QUESTION: We have single flooring, of four-inch, soft-wood planks, very badly worn in spots. We intend only to paint the floor. Later, would it be practical to lay plywood and cover that with linoleum blocks or carpeting? We do not wish a hardwood floor, for the children are so hard on them.

ANSWER: The linoleum laid over plywood should be very satisfactory. If the children are very young, I suggest that you lay a warm rug or carpeting on the floor, which would be warmer for the children to sit on. My own preference would be for a hardwood floor, however, as it will take a great deal of punishment if properly finished.

Wheat Yield Boosted Through Fertilization

Gains in Indiana Tests Exceed Seven Bushels

Fertilizing wheat paid dividends in crop increases averaging seven to nine and one-half bushels per acre. Purdue university research men revealed in announcing results of 1947 studies conducted in 15 Indiana counties.

Wheat yields increased seven bushels per acre when fertilizer applications averaged from 150 to 200 pounds per acre. When the plant food treatment was boosted to 300 to 400 pounds per acre, average production gains of nine and one-half bushels were obtained.

Demonstrations with wheat started on various soil types last fall showed somewhat similar results, according to the Purdue research men. When 125 pounds of 0-12-12 was applied on six southern Indiana upland soils, increases of five bushels per acre resulted. When the application was doubled, yield increases averaged seven bushels per acre.

"Applications of 300 to 350 pounds of 3-12-12 are being recommended for wheat on practically all upland silt or clay loam soils and for sandy loams," says a statement by the Purdue agronomy department. "If the 3-12-12 cannot be obtained, then 2-12-6 is a good substitute for the wheat crop itself. The additional potash in the 3-12-12, however, is especially important for the clover and corn crops following the small grain."

Machinery Is Revamping Farming in Cotton Belt

Nearly a million tractors today are in action on farms in the 18 cotton-producing states, saving time and labor in nearly every phase of cotton production. The invasion of machinery into the South's white cotton fields is eliminating the back-breaking task of producing the cotton crop.

Man's mechanical helpers achieve in a few hours what formerly took days of costly human labor. For example, the flame cultivator, attached to a tractor, removes grass and weeds from the field at one-tenth the former cost.

An experiment in the coastal plains area of North Carolina showed that while 118 man hours are required to produce an acre of cotton by the old man-mule methods, use of two-row tractor equipment, mechanical choppers, flame cultivators and machine pickers cuts the man-hour requirements to 10.7 per acre.

Machines capable of harvesting a bale of cotton in slightly more than an hour are now a reality instead of a remote possibility. While the average hand-picker gathers about 15 pounds of seed cotton an hour, a single mechanical picker in the same field harvests about 1,500 pounds in 2 hours, 30 minutes. Thus, the mechanical harvester accomplishes the work of 40 to 50 human pickers.

Internal Parasites Loot Farmers of Huge Toll

Few criminals ever dream of committing a 126 million dollar robbery. But that's the amount in internal parasites steal from the U. S. livestock industry every year. Because the parasites are hidden, the farmer never will see the thieves at work. However, they keep right on causing losses day and night.

Parasites cause diseased animals and poultry to eat more grain and other feeds than healthy stock eat. They stunt the growth of young animals and sometimes kill them. Affected animals generally bring lower prices when shipped to market.

Internal parasites can be controlled. Phenothiazine, carbon tetrachloride, hexachlorethane, sodium fluoride and carbon disulfide are used to fight certain types of parasites. The advice of a local veterinarian should be secured to determine the proper method of treatment.

Spoilage of Stored Grain Hinges on Bin's Condition

Grain can be stored almost indefinitely with little deterioration in farm-type bins — those that hold 1,000 to 2,000 bushels — if the bins are kept dry, cool, clean and free of insects, according to the USDA. For control of insect infestation, chief reliance must be placed on fumigation. Shelled corn has been stored for several years with a loss of less than 1 per cent, according to official reports.

Cowboy Travels The Globe With Wheelbarrow

NEW YORK—A very pushy fellow arrived in town and immediately pushed his way into the limelight without any trouble. He was Larry Hightower, who had behind him 7,428 miles of travel and in front of him a 103-pound wheelbarrow which he says he is pushing around the world.

Why? Well, as one of the spectators remarked, among the hundreds who gathered quickly every time Larry stopped to light a cigarette, "This is a free country, isn't it? If he wants to do it, who can stop him?"

Thus far nothing has stopped Larry, a World War I veteran and a former cowpuncher. He left Ellensburg, Wash., two years ago, and expects to finish his wheeling in 10 more years.

He has pushed the wheelbarrow through 19 states, Mexico and Canada, through rain, hail, sleet, dog days, two cyclones, ambushes by a lobo wolf and a cougar, 16,000 questions and six traffic tickets for speeding and going the wrong way on a one way street.

He answers questions. Larry took on all comers, answered questions with aplomb, delivered a brief health talk, and another on Americanism. He said he's given Americanism talks at 212 high schools and at Drake university and the University of Notre Dame.

"You sure look healthy," said one Arthur Brown, 60. "How do you do it?"

"Walking is what does it," Larry replied—a little unnecessarily it seemed.

Larry has a pair of earphones, likes to listen to his crystal radio as he covers his average of 18 miles a day. His favorite programs are of symphonic music. He's not interested in marches, and his most liked western song is not "Wagon Wheels" but "Home on the Range," where he hopes to be 19 years hence.

Outside Tucson, Ariz., a lobo wolf serenaded Larry for three miles. These wolves are "nasty fellows," he said, and he was glad when this one decided not to follow him around the world. Coming over the Sierras in California, a cougar nearly canceled all Larry's plans, and Larry himself, by jumping from a high rocky ledge and missing him by a mere 10 feet.

Carries Supplies. The wheelbarrow contains a kit of utility supplies with all of wintergreen for rubdowns, a bottle of methalate for insect bites, soap, a foot antiseptic, shaving soap, shaving brush, lotion and razor. Also, a navy battle flag which saw Pacific action in World War II, the flag of the city of Cleveland, a flag of the state of Washington, with autographs by governors of nine other states, a letterbox for correspondence, a Bible, a jacket, a slicker, dungarees, maps, a tool kit and eight log books.

Larry wears a jacket with translucent red cuffs and collar and a red bicycle taillight on the back, for night pushing. The wheelbarrow has a headlight and a speedometer. From New York he expects to go to London, then to Burma, Iran, Greece, North Africa, Germany, France, Spain, Portugal, California and cross-country again to Washington, D. C. "That'll total 28,500 land miles and the next fellow will think twice before he starts," Larry said.

Idaho Police Chase Weaving Tracks Find Gulls at Wheel

IDAHO FALLS, IDA.—Two officers, William Naef and Ray Jones, pursued a truck they saw weaving down the highway. It was quite a job to get the driver to stop. Ready for a drunk driver, an argumentative driver, a sleeping driver, an inexperienced driver, or almost any other kind, they still weren't ready for what they found when they pulled the truck door open—a collie dog on the driver's seat, his paws on the wheel. The vehicle had no other occupants.

Some time later, after a search of the neighborhood, the officers solved the mystery. Two youngsters admitted they had taken the truck for a spin, saw the officers coming and jumped out, leaving their dog to do the driving.

County Supervisors 'Pass the Buck' to Solve Legal Tangle

SUPERIOR, WIS.—It was a cool, sunny day and Douglas county supervisors had no stomach for any kind of red tape. But there was that annoying little detail of an $8 coal bill that had to be taken care of. The goal was delivered last winter to a relief client who since had died. Now the county had the bill.

It was a legal puzzle over what funds should be used to take care of it. One look out of the window at the clear blue sky settled the matter for the eight supervisors. Each pulled out a dollar bill and clipped it to the relief voucher.

Careful Planning Urged To Make Light Meals Nutritious and Balanced

ARE THE LIGHT MEALS you serve always nutritious? Or are they just something you throw together for the sake of giving calories to your family, even though the foods are not particularly abundant in health-giving elements such as protein, vitamins and minerals? You're guaranteed to feel better, work better and, yes, even play better if you're getting the right kind of food. Nutritious meals, no matter whether they are small or large, are bound to pay off big dividends. Just how, you ask? Well, for one thing, you won't get tired so quickly, and there will be sparkle in your eyes and smiles and a general glow of health about you. Your scratches and cuts, for example, will heal more readily if you're getting vitamin C in ample quantities.

That dragged out feeling may come from lack of the B complex vitamins which guard general well being, or it may come from lack of iron in the blood which helps carry oxygen we breathe to all parts of the body.

If you're troubled with night blindness, poor appetite, and get colds and infections readily, you're apt to be getting less than your share of vitamin A.

When teeth are in poor condition it would be wise to check on your calcium, phosphorus and vitamins C and D. Any one or all of these may be responsible.

Dinners are apt to be rather well balanced to give the essential food elements, but frequently the cause of many ills is the lack of good lighter meals such as lunches or suppers. Some people skip lunch, others nibble at little or nothing, while some eat something that satisfies hunger without regard to satisfying bodily needs.

Keep your refrigerator well stocked with fruits and vegetables, so that you always can toss a salad together. Serve this with sandwiches if you're hungry or gingerbread if you want a kind of bread and dessert together. Add to this a nourishing beverage and you'll have a lunch that satisfies hunger as well as dietary needs. Doesn't take much longer to fix than a snack!

Soups and juices are good to have on hand because they satisfy vitamin and mineral requirements. Plan, however, to serve a salad with them or a nourishing milk drink or dessert.

CHOOSE FROM AMONG these recipes for those light lunches or suppers. Foods contained in them are vitamin and mineral conscious, but still will be found to be very appetizing and refreshing.

Bake in a paper-lined pan (9 x 9 x 2 inches) in a moderate (350 degree) oven for 50 minutes.

When bringing pickles in a crock, the skum should be removed as it gathers. Scum causes spoilage.

Corned beef patties are delicious when made with chopped green pepper, served with a tomato sauce when they are browned golden and crisp.

Try this new trick the next time you serve the old favorite, spareribs with sauerkraut: Place the sauerkraut on one rack of ribs, sprinkle with caraway seed and top with another rack of ribs. Braise with care.

MTN. STATES TEL. CO. SERVES ITS MILLIONTH TELEPHONE

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll A. Riggs, near Riverton, Wyoming, was the scene of a notable event in telephone history September 15th when the one millionth telephone served by The Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company was installed there.

Riggs, a World War II veteran, owns a 100-acre farm in the newly reclaimed North Riverton Irrigation Project. Official from the Company headquarters in Cheyenne witnessed the event as did several Denver officials.

After being discharged from the Army in 1944, Riggs returned to his farm in Oklahoma and in 1947 he applied for participation in the government reclamation drawing for acreage in the Wind River project near Riverton. His name was drawn as a qualifying applicant and he moved to a tract of land 14 miles north of Riverton in February 1948. His application for telephone service was made shortly thereafter.

With a silver plaque on its base the telephone was identified as the one millionth to be served by the Mountain States Company.

As soon as it was installed, Mrs. Riggs placed the first call to her invalid mother in Snyder, Okla.

Luncheon following the installation of the telephone was attended by Wyoming's governor, Lester C. Hunt; Riverton city officials; service club presidents; Reclamation Bureau officials from Riverton, Cody and Billings; newspaper and radio officials; and various telephone officials. F. P. Ogden, presented a commemorative certificate to the Telephone Company, made to Mr. Riggs.

The ceremony marked a milestone in economic development and population growth in the entire area served by The Mountain States Company, which includes the states of Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and El Paso, Texas. Company officials stated that although it took approximately 60 years for the Company to reach its first half million telephones, the second half were added in less than 10 years.

A large part of that growth has taken place in New Mexico where, in spite of postwar shortages the

School Notes
The following was received as a theme for English III by Miss Gloria Campbell and was written by George Deam, a Carrizozo High School Junior.

WHAT FOOTBALL IS DOING FOR ME
Football means a lot to me. I just hope it means as much, or even half as much, to the other boys that are trying to make the team. I think more boys would be out for football if their parents could only see where it could help them physically as well as mentally. I would like to tell them, from experience, just what it has done for me in the past two years, and is doing for me my third year out for football.

I came to this school from a much smaller school. The change was hard to get used to. Everything was different and a lot harder. Being so hard and different, I had no interest in school, and naturally my grades were very poor and I spent a lot of time in the office.

I managed to get by for the first semester. I think my highest grade was seventy-one, the rest were between sixty-eight and seventy. Right after the second semester had gotten under way, it was rumored around that the eighth grade boys would get to go out for spring football practice. This happened before the rule that the school could not have spring football practice.

I had always liked football and every time I had a chance, I played, so naturally this looked like a chance to play with the big boys. There was just one drawback, you had to be passing all your subjects and I wasn't, but I still had another six weeks before time for the spring football practice to begin.

I got down to work, real work. I came through with all blue grades. Football was probably the only reason I passed for the year. For the rest of the year my grades were what you could call decent for a change. It was hard work, but it was worth it.

I went out for the spring practice and played quite a bit. It was rough because there were some mighty big boys out there and I was just a little guy, but I stayed it out till school was out.

All that summer I looked forward to school for the first time in my life. I actually wanted to go back to school and study. Even the books looked interesting for a change. For the first time, my grades were something to be proud of. I didn't make the first team my freshman year but I got to play as much, if not more, as the rest of the second string. I started only one game, but hardly a game passed that I didn't play a little. I didn't miss a practice or a game.

The only game I started in was with Tularosa at home. It was the last game of the year and we really wanted to win it. We were all in the dressing room just before the game. Coach was telling us who was going to start the game. When he called my name I almost fell through the floor. I was about the happiest guy in the world. When that game started I was scared to death. I just wanted to run in the opposite direction, but I stayed and played most of the game.

After that I lived for football. All the next summer I looked forward to the day we played our first game.

This brings us up to the present school year and I still feel the same way. I don't mean football has all good points and no bad ones; but I think if parents would encourage boys to play it would help them in school as well as physically.

DOGS, TOO, HAVE CALORY PROBLEMS

Dogs, no less than their owners, have to watch their calories, writes Dr. M. L. Morris in The Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association. To fill their energy requirements, they need an average daily intake of between 30 to 60 calories for each pound of body weight, depending on the composition and quality of the food and the breed. Growing dogs and dogs of active, nervous type require the highest volume of calories. To figure a dog's requirements, it should be borne in mind that the average dry dog food sold contains about 1,100 calories per pound, while one pound of canned dog food usually furnishes slightly less than 500 calories.—Gaines Dog Research Progress.

Unsolved Reaper Mystery

This 74-year-old Triumph reaper was found recently in a New York state town in its original shipping state. It had never been used. Experts to know why it was left unopened for almost three-quarters of a century have so far uncovered no clues. This reaper shown above in connection with a present day article was shown at the Ford Tractor and Reaper Exposition, Michigan, by Lincoln County Motors, Inc., Detroit.

New Mexico Winners

MODEL AUTOMOBILES built by Joseph Kennedy, left, of Roswell, and Paul Bolman, right, Albuquerque, have won first state honors in New Mexico in the senior and junior divisions, respectively, in the 1944 competition of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild. Each of the youths received $100 for designing and building an outstanding model.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL BOARD MEETING

The Boy Scout Council in its meeting in Roswell at the Chamber of Commerce voted to enlarge Camp Wehinhapay, the Council Camp in the Sacramento Mountain by the purchasing of additional property to the west of the present site.

Forty one men, representing all eight districts of the council met in Roswell to make plans for the camp and other activities for the coming year. All districts were well represented in the planning.

Camp Wehinhapay, according to reports at the meeting was presented to the Council by George B. Jewett of Roswell in 1924. The property to be added to the original 40 acre plot, consists of 120 acres directly west of the present camp.

Zane E. Smith, of Carlsbad, Council Chairman of the Camping Committee pointed out that the proposed addition was used as a private boys camp, first by Minor Huffman and later by George Bullock.

The proposed addition, Smith said, would give the council 100 acres in a narrow strip along the valley which would be completely surrounded by U. S. Forest land.

The council also laid plans for continued membership expansion and voted to participate in the National Fall Round-up of the Boy Scouts of America. They also voted to adopt a budget of $44,397.50 for 1948-49, the money to be raised through the joint efforts of all the communities of the nine counties in the council.

The White Mountain Scouts have been camping at Wehinhapay for many years and have a fond sentiment for the camp and will be pleased to learn of the plans for its expansion.

The Scout officials representing the White Mountain District was Mr. Wilbur Coe of Glencoe.

Veteran News

Veterans Administration advises World War II veterans who took out G-I insurance between October 1st, 1940 and the beginning of the war to examine their insurance certificates to avoid loss of protection by expiration of the policy.

Insurance issued prior to January 1, 1940, expires eight years after the date of issuance. Policies issued after that date will expire at the end of five years from date of issuance. This means that all policies issued in 1940 will expire this year.

A recent law allows veterans, upon application, to renew their term insurance for an additional five-year period. If the original term insurance is not renewed, or converted into a permanent type of insurance, it expires. Application for renewal must be made before the present term policy expires. Renewed term policies are issued for a five-year term and require slightly higher premium rates according to the age of the veteran at time of renewal.

Dependent survivors of servicemen who died while on active duty between December 31, 1947, may be entitled to Federal income tax refunds.

Subject to refund under a law passed by the 80th Congress are all Federal income taxes paid by or on behalf of such members of the armed forces for the taxable year in which they died, and for prior tax years dating back to December 7, 1941, during any part of which they served. Dependents should first make sure taxes actually were paid before seeking refunds. Application must be made by December 31, 1948.

Most members of the armed forces, particularly enlisted men, were exempt from income tax under special wartime law. Consequently the number entitled to rebates is not expected to be large.

Forms for applying may be obtained from the office of any collector of internal revenue (Form 843). Applications for refunds and any correspondence on the subject should be directed to the Collector of Internal Revenue where the tax was paid, and NOT to VA or the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Washington.

More than 44,700 veterans in New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah reinstated over 277 million dollars of lapsed National Service Life Insurance in the 15-month period before the July 31 dead-line, VA announced. During July, the last month for easy reinstatement, nearly 3,500 veterans reinstated almost 22 million dollars of lapsed insurance. Veterans still are permitted to reinstate on a comparative health basis within three months from date of lapse. After a lapse of three months the insured must pass a physical examination.

Insect Control Keeps Dog Happy in Summer

While human being may refer to hot weather as "the good old summer time" there is nothing good about it from a dog's viewpoint, as it generally means the flea and tick season in full swing, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Flea and ticks not only make a dog miserable but can also endanger the dog's health and perhaps that of his owner. Few people seem to realize that aside from the annoyance they cause the dog, fleas cause many skin irritations and also carry the eggs of the dog tapeworm. If a flea-ridden dog, in biting himself, swallows one of these insects, he then may become infested with tapeworm and suffer the effects caused by these debilitating internal parasites.

Flea control is a simple matter for the dog-owner, now that DDT is available in good supply. A thorough powdering every two or three weeks with flea powder containing five to ten percent DDT will keep a dog free of fleas during the entire season that these pests are active. Beside powdering the dog, the careful owner should see that his bedding is changed at frequent intervals. Use of the DDT powder in the dog's bed or sleeping box is also helpful.

Flea, besides causing irritating skin conditions and a weakened condition in dogs, also presents a source of danger to humans. Dogs in areas where there is a heavy infestation of ticks should be sprayed regularly through the summer with one of the several effective tick remedies now available. Ticks should never be removed by hand, but should be picked off with tweezers and dropped in a can or jar of kerosene.

A Crop to Cultivate

America is famous for good crops. But finest of all is the bumper "crop" of 11,000,000 boys and girls growing up on our farms and ranches.

Trained teachers and leaders are helping cultivate this bumper crop. Vocational agricultural teachers in over 7,000 high schools do their part. Most of these schools have Future Farmers of America chapters. Membership of F. F. A. is 250,000. In their "outside classroom" work they receive additional on-the-job training from their vocational agricultural teachers. They learn to accept leadership responsibility. On graduation, many go directly into farm or ranch management. Others go on to agricultural college.

County agents and over 180,000 unselfish volunteer leaders do another great job through the 4-H Clubs. Through 85,000 local 4-H Clubs, more than 1,700,000 boys and girls get invaluable training. Advice, encouragement, know-how from practical experts. Their projects keep them abreast of what is new in agriculture. They learn through doing. Achievement and leadership become habits.

It is well that American agriculture has these leaders and teachers. By teaching the business and science of farming, they are helping make life on farm and ranch rich and profitable for a new generation of Americans. They are showing them the way to economic security and a good way of life. Better farm planning; power machinery; scientific modern methods; control of weeds and plant and animal pests. . . . All these our farm and ranch youth are learning. In many ways they are qualifying themselves to be better managers of land and better businessmen. They are increasing their knowledge of science and selling—of machinery and markets—of costs and conservation.

Swift & Company has always been proud to encourage farm youth activities. We shall continue to do so. We have no doubt or fear for the future of America. For, properly cultivated, this crop will ripen surely into our nation's richest harvest.

A HUNDRED CENTS MAKE A DOLLAR

Have you sometimes wished to know Where meat dollars really go?

Of each wholesale dollar spent, You get seventy-nine per cent

For your livestock, wool and hides, And all by-products besides.

Wages, operating cost a plenty . . . Take another oven twenty.

After all the rest is spent The packer profits just one cent.

It's a Two-Way Road

In my work with farmers and ranchers I have visited just about every part of this country. I can't begin to count the number of times I have traveled out of Chicago and back to the range country of the West . . . through the Corn Belt states . . . the wheatlands . . . the cotton country—Florida, Maine, Washington, California and all the other states in between.

I do not know how anyone who travels much can help being impressed with the need for team play in America. As farmers or ranchers, your prosperity depends to a large degree on the ability of workers in industry to purchase the food and fiber you produce. Likewise, city businessmen know that your power to purchase their products is equally important to them. And all of us depend on the men in the mines, in the forests, in the steel mills, and oil fields.

But what we are apt to overlook is the fact that it is the earning of a reasonable profit which keeps all these businesses going, and all of us at work. Of course, profit rates vary. That depends on many things, including volume of

Livestock and Meat Prices

Livestock is marketed when it is ready. The supply of animals coming to market at any one time is controlled by your decisions as producers. These decisions may have been made months previously, depending on your breeding and feeding program. The weather—blizzards, storms and droughts—also have a bearing on when you market your animals. Meat packers have no control over the supply of livestock.

The meat packer must sell meat and by-products for what they will bring. When people have to economize, they spend less money for meat. Consumers, retailers and meat packers reduce their bids. The prices of both meat and livestock fall accordingly. But when people make more money, they are eager to buy meat. Then buyers all along the line increase their bids. And the prices of both meat and livestock rise accordingly. For each meat packer and each retail meat dealer knows that if he does not pay a little higher for the livestock or meat he wants, somebody else will—and get the business.

Thus the old law of supply and demand—plus competition in buying livestock and selling meat—forces price changes in meat to be reflected quickly all the way back to the livestock on the hoof. At all times the market price is a balance between the supply of livestock and the demand for meat.

New Idea in Junior Feeding Projects

by T. W. Thompson
 State 4-H Club Leader, Montana

Boys and girls are trying out a new kind of livestock feeding project. In several states—including Montana, Nebraska, Colorado and Indiana—people are enthusiastic about it. Here is how it works. The boy or girl buys an average lot of feeder steers or lambs, from a uniform herd or band. The number bought is usually 3 or more steers, 15 or more lambs. That depends on finances, feed supplies and equipment available.

These lots of animals are bought at a central market. They are taken home and fattened. Careful records are kept of feed costs and rates of gain. At the end of the feeding period, they are shipped back to market. They are sold on Junior Marketing Day.

Boys and girls consign their animals to commission firms of their own choice. Upon arrival the animals are penned separately, according to ownership. Each lot is graded and weighed separately. Then all animals are assembled in pens according to grade. They are sold for slaughter in the usual manner used on that market. The boys and girls profit according to the market value of their animals.

Sponsors claim the following benefits: (1) It is practical. (2) It promotes better farm feeding methods. (3) Boys and girls learn about market grades of livestock. (4) They learn about central markets and their operation. This new idea in junior feeding is not intended to take the place of feeding for show. It is a separate project, to give youngsters practical experience in feeding for market.

Why Doesn't The Bank Pay Interest On Checking Accounts?

Payments of interest on checking accounts in any insured bank is prohibited by law or regulation. The reason is that the bank can pay interest on deposits only out of earnings from the investment of those deposits. Inasmuch as checking account funds can be withdrawn on demand, cash reserves must be larger to meet withdrawals, therefore the amount available for investment is smaller and the investment period shorter.

40 YEARS AGO FROM 1908 CARRIZOZO NEWS

Mexicans from our sister republic and descendants of Mexicans celebrated the ninety-eighth anniversary of Mexican Independence in Carrizozo Wednesday. In the early hours of the morning the people of the town were awakened by the discharge of guns, the firing of anvils, the playing of the band. The march to the "rub-a-dub-dub of the drum" and the shouts of the populace. The cause for the commotion was at first an enigma to Americans, but finally Memory got busy and the 16th of September was recalled as the anniversary of Mexican Independence, and then no one wondered at the din and noise; for it reminded Americans of their own natal day, which is celebrated in all climes and under every flag.

The event, just commemorated had its beginning at the little village of Doiores, where, September, 16, 1810, Miguel Hidalgo, a curate proclaimed a revolt, raised an army, marched toward Mexico, and with his raw troops, defeated Truxillo October 30, 1810; was later defeated by the Spaniards under Calleja, fell back to Guadalupe and recruited his army to 100,000. He was routed by Calleja at the bridge of Calderon January 17, 1811. Hidalgo fled toward the United States, but was captured and shot. The seed sown by this obscure curate, however, bore fruit; the war for freedom continued, and the last Spanish viceroy was driven from Mexico in 1821. September 16th is to the Mexicans what the 4th of July is to the Americans; hence the celebration Wednesday.

The Old Maids' Association gave an entertainment at Wetmore hall Wednesday evening, as per announcement. The hall was crowded, the receipts beyond expectation and the appreciation shown pleasing.

By JOHN H. ROSE

THE deafening applause thundered about her, and the cries of "Bravo!" rent the air of the staid old Music hall. Even through the din, Marya could remember the first time she had heard Louis play. It was the day she had left her music on the train—a brief case filled with sheet music. Even then she had known that this day would come—the day for which she had waited. But she would wait no longer. She remembered how she had gone to their house after church. It was the first summer she stayed in the city to work at Hull house.

At the social center she had met Eleanor, Louis' sister. They were such a charming family, the Alvanos. Mother and father, first generation immigrants from Italy, and the children were American as only the children of immigrants can rejoice in the land of the free.

As she slipped into her coat to leave Carnegie hall, Marya remembered that other day. She had taken the train to Kedzie avenue, and then followed the long streetcar ride to the south side. They had invited her for dinner, but they had asked her to bring her music so that she might sing for them.

When she arrived, dinner was ready. They had been to church early so that they would have all in readiness for her visit. Albert—Mr. Alvanio—was not home. Albert traveled for a drug company, and frequently had to be on the road. In fact, the only time she could remember having seen Albert was at the concert later. But Carmen and Eleanor and Louis were there. And, of course, Mrs. Albert was there. Talking, talking and chattering all the time, and yet accomplishing all the things necessary on the part of a perfect hostess.

What a jolly, wonderful dinner it had been. They ate spaghetti and artichokes. She especially remembered the artichokes, because it was the first time she had eaten them. They had to show her how to pull out the little spines and slide the soft, pulpy, white meat off between your teeth. And they had served chestnuts for dessert.

Then Adele—that was Mrs. Alvanio—was saying, "And now, Miss Ames . . . now, you sing for us!"

Marya had sung for them, huge dinner notwithstanding. She sang the songs she was studying . . . beautiful melodies from the operas of her beloved Italy, songs of religion, love songs . . . all the songs in that brief case. Mrs. Albert had accompanied her and sang with her. They all sang.

Then a group of noisy young people from the settlement house clubs joined them. Carmen played the cello, Eleanor sang, Marya sang again, and they finally coaxed Louis to play the violin. Louis was twenty, just Marya's age, but he was so shy. Louis played for them, resting his round, somewhat boyish face on the chin rest of the instrument. His black, sparkling eyes danced with the music as the inarticulate strings became the medium of magic. His eyes danced like the tarantelle that he played. And all the music of the ages poured from those strings.

Marya sensed that this was the real Louis. Louis with the laughing black eyes and the tight ringlets of raven hair. When Louis stopped playing, the others were noisy again, but Marya sat quietly in the chair, contemplating the magic artistry of Louis. They wanted her to sing some more, but she refused. How could anyone sing when such genius was present. Louis had come over to her, and sat casually on the arm of the chair.

"Did you like my playing, Miss Ames?" he asked politely.

"You have a great talent, Louis," she replied evenly and quietly, but her heart was racing as rapidly as the tempo of the tune he had just played. The group soon surrounded her, and they joined in the folk dances of far-off lands which they performed with such unleashed fury and excitement.

When she left, Louis volunteered to walk with her to the street car. At the door she paused to thank Adele for the lovely day. Smiling wistfully at Louis, she told his mother, "This young man is a great artist; he must be encouraged."

But Mrs. Alvanio only laughed, and made some remark about Eleanor being the one with the talent. As they walked to the car line, they exchanged but a few brief sentences, but a tacit understanding seemed to have grown between them. On the way to the suburb where she lived, Marya thought about her day—and Louis. She became so engrossed in her thoughts that she left the brief case with the music on the train.

Early that spring, there was a concert at the social center with the women's symphony accompanying the young artists. Naturally, Marya attended the concert. All the Alvanios were there—even Albert, who wasn't selling drugs for once. Eleanor was to sing, and Louis was to play. There were three others on the program, too. Eleanor was the second performer, and she sang beautifully, her lyric soprano floating magically above the muted violins of the orchestra.

During the intermission the people talked and buzzed, and the Alvanios looked toward her and smiled, as though to say, "See, we told you. Eleanor's the one!"

The orchestra returned and the program continued. Then Louis played, and the angels listened. Louis, with his soft, round chin resting on the violin. From the bay of Naples, where the feeling for song was born, from the hills of Abruzzi where the shepherds sang, the music swelled up to pour from this handsome youth coaxing the tones from the instrument. Marya lis-

Louis had come over to her, and sat casually on the arm of the chair. "Did you like my playing, Miss Ames?" he asked politely.

She sang quite a bit for the servicemen, and always she was searching—searching for a shock of black, curly hair, and those dancing black eyes. But no word came of him.

Each year at Christmas she got the Alvanios' card, and the sprightly, talking note scrawled across its back in Adele's illegible hand.

"Eleanor was at Curtis Institute," she wrote, "and Carmen was studying with Mastroberti."

But of Louis—nothing! Marya tried to put him from her mind, but she fought a losing battle. She worked furiously, trying to forget. Then the war was over, and the period of readjustment began. She continued to work in New York. One day she returned to her desk to find a letter from Louis. He was to have his debut in Carnegie hall, and had enclosed a ticket for her. Would she be so kind as to come.

WOULD she come. An hour before concert time, she was waiting in her seat. She listened with bowed head while he played the monumental works of the great composers. The audience liked him, and called for an encore. Then Louis played the tarantelle. She looked up as she listened, and he smiled in her direction as the bow raced across the singing strings. Then the dancing, laughing melody ceased. All around her, the people stood, cheering! The cheering and applause echoed through the huge auditorium, but Marya was remembering another Sunday afternoon.

She remembered the artichokes and chestnuts . . . she thought about her music, the music in that brief case. Beautiful songs they were, love songs, tragic songs, songs in praise of God, songs about men's souls, songs of death, and songs of life. Life and songs. That was it! Life and songs. Songs on the strings of a violin.

As she hurried from the auditorium and walked up the street, people smiled. People smiled at the young woman who was humming to herself while she walked up the street. They stopped to stare at the girl singing and walking in the snow.

During that applause, she had reached her decision. She thought that Louis, like her songs, had been lost to her; but one never lost songs, and one never lost love. These were things of the heart—they could never be lost.

This time the critics proclaimed Louis the finest young artist to appear in the city in many years. A great discovery, they labeled him. She laughed when she read that they had discovered Louis at the concert. She was still smiling when she called the hotel where he was staying. She informed the clerk, "Will you tell Mr. Louis Alvanio that Marya Ames is calling? . . . Yes, I'll wait."

She had waited so long . . . but now the waiting had come to an end . . . and she smiled as she remembered artichokes and chestnuts, laughing eyes and violins, and music left on a train.

The Man for the Job

Lesson for September 12, 1948

HISTORY KNOWS some men only by their nicknames. Stalin is a nickname, so is Charlemagne. And so is Barnabas, one of the best of the early Christians.

The apostle nicknamed him "Barnabas" and the name stuck, for it means "Son of Encouragement," and Barnabas' specialty was encouraging people who badly needed it.

Barnabas was not a brilliant man, perhaps not even a strong one, though he had an impressive "front." On a journey in the back districts the natives would take him for Zeus, king of all the gods. But it was not his looks that were important, it was his big heart.

When Saul was converted, there was an awkward situation when that young convert went back to Jerusalem. The little society of Christians there knew Saul for a tiger. They had suffered at his hands, they had seen their friends dragged off by his henchmen. So when Saul showed up among the very people he had terrified, when he not only showed up but claimed to be one of them, no wonder they were frightened.

All but Barnabas. Somehow or other shall we say it was God's Spirit in him? Barnabas was not afraid. He took Saul the Terrible by the hand, he introduced him to the church leaders, he told them his story, he sponsored Saul as we would say.

An Eye for God

AFTER THAT EXPERIENCE with Saul, Barnabas' friends came to think of him as a man who could probably see the good in any man or situation if there was any good to be seen. So when the headquarters church in old Jerusalem heard of a novel sort of church down in Antioch, they sent this "Son of Encouragement" down to see what went on. It was certainly no church on the Jerusalem pattern; was it a good one, or even a genuine church at all? Barnabas would know. And so he did.

Other men could see the large number of church members in Antioch; others could give you statistics about its rate of growth; others could tell you it was bi-racial, a daring experiment then as now. Some applauded, some raised their eyebrows.

But we read that Barnabas had eyes in his soul as well as in his head. What he saw, as he looked at that stirring new church with its new ways, was "the grace of God." All of us can see things on the surface, we can count noses, we can make reports for the papers. But seeing underneath, seeing the grace of God (or the need of it)—that is not so easy. Wanted for every church: A Barnabas!

Round Peg—Round Hole

WHEN BARNABAS had taken stock at Antioch he knew the place needed a man; and he knew the man for the place. Off he went across the Taurus mountains to Tarsus, where Saul was doing nothing particular, and he brought Saul to Tarsus and set him to work. Saul turned out to be, as Barnabas expected, the round peg for the round hole.

That team was a "natural"—but only Barnabas would have thought of it. Paul fitted in with the church, too. A tireless worker, he was just the man for that vital growing congregation. Getting the right people for the right jobs is still one of the big problems of the Christian church. Many a Sunday school class, for instance, now is withering on the stalk, only because the Sunday school superintendent has never found the right teacher.

The Hands of the Church

THE TIME came when Barnabas and Saul were sent out by that same Antioch church to be the first foreign missionaries ever deliberately sent out by any Christian church. The hands of the church were laid on them before they left.

To this day, when a man is set apart, by ordination, for a particular work in the Christian church, hands are laid upon his head. This is more than an antique ceremony, there is more than magic in it.

The laying on of hands may mean different things to different churches, but this at least it always means:—The men so ordained are now the hands of the churches they represent.

PEARL: COME HOME

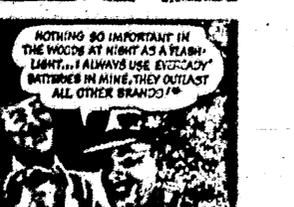

It was all my fault, Pearl, I admit I was surly and grumpy. No wonder that even the kids were scared of me. But everything's better now, I've found out that constipation caused by lack of bulk in my diet can be licked! Believe me, I advise others who suffer the same way to do what I did: just eat a bowlful of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN everyday and drink plenty of water. They say it's America's most famous laxative cereal—believe me, it sure gets my vote. Or make it up into muffins—they taste grand too. . . . Come home, dear, and find a brand new man waiting for you. That's me—your ever-lovin' husband, JOE.

IT TAKES SO LITTLE

It takes so little to put back the heart
In any one a loving word of praise,
Uttered sincerely, oftentimes may start
A light like sunshine running through the days.

It takes so little when the heart is sad,
To lift it up—some bright encouragement
May reach the sorrowing one and make him glad,
Even when seemingly all hope is spent.

It takes so little, why should we withhold
That precious thing within our power to give?
Love, like a warm garment in the cold,
And sympathy for others while we live!

It takes so little, ah, dear God, I pray,
Help us to give it wisely day by day.
