CARD OF THANKS AND NOTICE TO PLEDGES

To Mr. John W. Harkey, who spent considerable time getting pledges and collecting donations for the new hospital, and the numbers of others who gave and assisted in various ways, helping to raise the amount and everybody connected in any way, thanks are extended. Almost the entire amount of $15,000 has been pledged, but some has not been paid in. Actual cash in the bank is over $12,000. This is so near realization of the entire amount that it is hoped all other pledges will be paid at once and then we can get down to business. NOTICE

The following letter is published in its entirety, hoping some one may have the young lady's address. To Lincoln County News Carrizozo

We are trying to locate Margaret Todd, the daughter of the late Frank Elton Todd, who we believe resides in New Mexico and is between the ages of 16 and 28 years, in order that her late father's succession may be settled.

It is our understanding that her father was a resident of your city for some time.

Will you please publish this letter in your paper? Perhaps some of your readers will be able to give some information that may help in locating her.

I thank you for any help you can give.

Very truly yours

Truth Set to Music

THE opposite of poetry is not prose; it is science. There were poets in the world long before there were scientists, but that does not prove that poets are out of date.

Dr. Foreman

Not All Poets Have Long Hair SOME "practical" people sniff at poets for being peculiar.

These Bible poems are of various kinds. Some are war-songs (Judges 5), some are proverbs (the book of Proverbs), drama (Job), love-songs (the Song of Songs), odes (Isaiah 40), prayers (Psalm 10), hymns for public worship (the Psalms).

The writers were never professional poets, so far as we know. Of the poems which are this week's lesson Scripture, two were written by housewives, one by a sheep-herder, one or more by a soldier-king, one by a preacher (Habakkuk), and only one (Lamentations) possibly by a professional poet.

World's Greatest Hymn Book "LET me write a nation's songs, and I care not who writes their laws," said a famous man.

Poetry Was in Jesus Blood OF OUR Lord Jesus himself, it truly can be said, poetry was in his veins.

When Jesus died on the cross, two of the last seven sentences that came from his lips were quotations from the Psalms.

So it is always. "Truth in song will tarry long." Today and always, the parts of the Bible which are most cherished, the parts most often learned by heart, the parts which we carry with us to the valley of the shadow of death, are the truths set to music, long centuries ago, by inspired men who knew how to clothe truth with garments of striking and immortal loveliness.

Thanksgiving Topics

THANKSGIVING IS ONE of the important feast days of the year, and in a sense, it's the beginning of the holiday season. Let's make it hearty, gay, full of thanks and cheer. Since everyone expects a big feast on the table for the special occasion, plan it carefully and start working on it in advance so everything can be picture perfect. Plan an all white or ivory cloth and napkins as a simple background for the table. Have your glasses sparkling, silver shining, and the china washed to spic and span neatness.

IF YOU WANT to have a first course, plan an easy soup like cream of mushroom or asparagus or celery, a clear soup made beforehand. Here's a baked oyster dish that makes a nice appetizer:

Baked Oysters
Use four to six oysters for each serving. Open the shells, cover oyster with Thousand Island dressing and sprinkle with a sharp grated American cheese. Bake until heated through and the cheese is melted and browned. Serve in the shells with crisp crackers.

For the turkey, allow from three-quarters to one cup of bread crumbs for each pound of bird. Here's an interesting stuffing which you'll like for variety:

Apple Sausage Stuffing
(For 12 pound turkey)
1 pound pork sausage links
2 cups bread cubes
2 tablespoons minced onion
Salt to taste
1 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons minced parsley
6 tart apples, sliced
2 tablespoons sugar
Cut sausage in thin slices. Sauté and add other ingredients. Toss lightly and stuff bird.

Roast Turkey
Allow 30 minutes to each pound for roasting time, using a moderate (350-degree) oven. Baste frequently. If turkey becomes too dark, cover with water-soaked cheesecloth.

Cranberry Salad
(Serves 3)
1 pound cranberries
3 navel oranges
2 cups sugar
1 package lime-flavored gelatin
1/2 cup boiling water
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup chopped nuts
Put cranberries and oranges through food chopper. Add sugar and let stand for two hours, stirring frequently. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. When cool, add the fruit mixture, celery and nuts. Pour into a mold and chill until firm.

Baked Stuffed Sweet Potatoes
(Serves 6)
6 medium-sized sweet potatoes
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 dozen marshmallows
1 cup shredded pineapple
Juice of 1 orange
Bake the potatoes until tender, then scoop them out of the shells. Mash the pulp well, adding the butter, salt and orange juice. Stir

LYNN SAYS:
Give Contrast to Menu With Careful Planning
Certain food combinations are so good together because of contrast in flavor, texture and color that the meal seems more satisfying. Here are some foods you'll like for family or entertaining:
A sweet potato casserole with hard loaf makes a delicious main course. Creamed cabbage adds further contrast, and an apple dessert adds just the right finish.

With the blandness of veal as a main dish, you can properly add contrast with an onion soup as first course, and a cottage pudding with chocolate sauce as dessert.
Whitefish is so mild that it can easily be served with a piquant shrimp sauce, spinach or beets as a vegetable, and a tart lemon dessert.
With a simple baked ham dinner, serve oven browned potatoes and green peas with butter sauce. Lemon or pineapple ice or sherbet completes the menu.

Hobo King Cautions Youths That Freights Are Too Tough Today

CHICAGO.—Jeff Davis, 66-year-old international king of the hobbs, advised youngsters to "stay tied to your mother's apron strings."
"It don't do any good to try and flip a freight today, anyway," he said. "They've made these new trains doggone near impossible to ride."

Davis said his organization, the International Knights of the Road, has spent most of its efforts lately in trying to keep youngsters off the road.

"Whenever I talk to a bunch of kids, I tell them to stay at home," he said. "I tell them to stay tied to their mother's apron strings. You know, once those strings get broke, all the thread in the world ain't going to sew them together again."

"On my last trip I hit clean out to the coast and then hit back to Washington where we got a lobby. I asked the big guys at Washington which they thought was cheaper—to spend a little money to show kids this country or to have them hit the road on their own and maybe end up in jail."

He said he thought the kids ought to be sent as guests of the nation to see the sights of the nation, then they would be more likely to stay at home afterward.

"It's not encouraging to hit the road today," he sighed. "You can't ride the trains like you used to. I've traveled around the world six times and gone more than three million miles. Of all that traveling I only paid for about 100,000 miles."

"I've flipped a lot of trains in my day," he said, "but you can't do it on these modern trains."

Tells the World "No More Laxatives!"

"I was so constipated I had to take laxatives all the time. That's over now—I'll tell the world Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day really keeps me straight."—Mrs. Laura H. McNow, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

THAT 30-DAY TEST I MADE WON ME OVER TO CAMELS FOR KEEPS...THEY'RE WONDERFULLY MILD!

I'VE SMOKED CAMELS FOR YEARS...I KNOW THEY'RE MILD...AND THEY TASTE GREAT!

PROVE CAMEL MILDNESS FOR YOURSELF!

In a recent test, hundreds of men and women all across the country smoked Camels—and only Camels—an average of one to two packages a day—for 30 consecutive days. Each week their throats were examined by noted throat specialists—a total of 2470 examinations—and these doctors found not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels.

Frankster's 'For Sale' Sign Gets Good Results

VALPARAISO, IND.—Somebody played a joke on Wilbur White while he was out of town. It started the telephone at the Valparaiso First National bank ringing about every five minutes.

The bank president, Paul Nuppenau, said come one posted a "for sale" sign on the White home. The sign placed the sale price at the rather low figure of $8,500 and said details could be obtained by dialing a certain number.

The number was that of the bank. The telephone rang every five minutes for several days, Nuppenau said.

Finally, he said he went out to the house to erase the telephone number and then sat back patiently for White's return. The sign went down when the home owner saw it.

New Yorkers See as Hitler's Car Is Unloaded at Pier

NEW YORK.—A chorus of hisses and boos greeted a special automobile, built on specifications ordered by Adolph Hitler, as it was swung to the pier from the hold of the liner Stockholm.

The black, 9,500-pound touring car, capable of speeds up to 135 miles an hour, is owned by Christopher G. Janus of Chicago, managing director of Eximport Associates, incorporated. He says it "looks as big as a house."

Designed by Hitler and manufactured by Mercedes-Benz, the car was given by Hitler to Field Marshal Mannerheim of Finland. Shortly after the Russians entered Finland it was sent to Stockholm. There Janus bought it in a barter deal. The machine has adjustable armor-plate and bullet-proof glass.

Janus, at the pier to receive the car, said he would drive it to Chicago.

"I don't know what I am going to do with it," he said.

"I have been trying for 18 months to get a car in the United States; it took just 30 days to buy Hitler's." Janus declined to name the dollar value of the ball bearings for which the car was exchanged.

Railroaders' English Stamps Professors but Not Brakemen

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—The car load told the head shack and the bog head that something was wrong on the crummy so that Annie was delayed a few hours.

Confused? You well might be—unless you're a railroader.

These are just a few of the slang phrases used by railroad men. The sentence means: The car inspector told the brakeman and the engineer that something was wrong on the caboose so the Ann Rutledge train was delayed a few hours.

Although most of the train nicknames have been replaced by numbers, railroaders still refer to the "Annie" and the "Abe" instead of the Ann Rutledge and Abraham Lincoln trains running between Springfield and St. Louis and the "Doodlebug" traveling between Springfield and Beardstown.

Other railroad lingo terms are: the yardmaster, a "dinger," the switchmen, "snake" or "slingers," depending on their union affiliate; an engine not equipped with an automatic stoker, "armstrong"; an engine and caboose only, "caboose bounce," and an attentive telegraph operator, "dispatcher's delight."

Although none were in use in 1941, by 1947 there were 10,000 self propelled combines in operation on American farms. These combines were one of the many innovations during the war years that have made the farm a major factor in today's ever growing use of oil.

Cracking a Tough Nut

Filling orders for rural telephones is one of our toughest jobs because very often the addition of just one rural telephone involves setting a number of new poles and stringing considerable wire.
Yet in spite of high cost and other problems, progress on our 1948 rural expansion program is even better than our estimates... At the end of nine months this year we had already installed more rural telephones than in all of 1947. Poles and miles of wire added during that time exceeded by 50% the amount added in the same period last year.
We're using every means we can to bring telephone service to rural homes in this area, and we'll keep cracking away at the job until we've caught up.

BACKWARD GLANCES

49 YEARS AGO FROM 1945 CARRIZOZO NEWS

The new school building narrowly missed burning Tuesday of this week. At noon hour a stove full of coals, in one of the upper rooms, was overturned, and the floor caught fire. One of the pupils ran down stairs to give the alarm, and W. L. Gumm happened to be present eating lunch with Mrs. Gumm, one of the teachers. Mr. Gumm, with what assistance he could get soon extinguished the fire, which was beginning to eat its way into the floor. Mr. Gumm's presence and prompt action was all that saved the building. The directors immediately had the building insured.

NEW MEXICO COUPLE RECEIVE NATIONAL AWARD

A New Mexico couple, Mr. and Mrs. P. F. McCannless of Albuquerque, were awarded national recognition when in a ceremony at the State Capitol, Governor Thomas J. Mabry presented them with a bronze plaque, symbolic of the Tom Breneman Good Neighbor Memorial Award.

At almost the same moment of the presentation, people all over the nation were learning of "The Mack's" and hearing of their good deeds over ABC Breakfast in Hollywood show, and reading about them in the popular national monthly Best Years Magazine.

The presentation marks the first time that the Tom Breneman Good Neighbor Memorial Award, created to perpetuate the memory of the late Tom Breneman has gone to an individual. Heretofore, it has always been awarded to communities, groups, or organizations.

In making the presentation, Governor Mabry praised Mr. and Mrs. McCannless for "a heartwarming demonstration of good neighborliness which could serve well as an example for people everywhere."

The Governor continued, "The McCannless' have been good neighbors to thousands of New Mexico's Indian citizens. Mrs. McCannless has taught many older Indians to read and write. She instructs them in Bible studies and teaches them the real meaning of "The Good Book". She instructs the women in cooking, in sewing; she furnishes the materials when these are lacking. During the war "The Mack's" home served as a private post office, for they were in hundreds of cases, the sole link between the older parents who could neither read nor write, and their warrior sons who had gone to battle. Mack McCannless finds time to serve as scoutmaster to three separate troops he has organized, and is training these youths to become fine, upright, useful, American citizens."

The Governor commented that these were deeds that come from the heart, and that if their example were to be followed elsewhere, this world would indeed be a far better place in which to live.

One Great American Trait

I always think it does a newspaper editor good to get out from behind his desk and see how folks in other parts of America look, and think, and act.

And that's what I've been doing these past weeks, touring the country from Michigan to Texas, California to Maine. It's a mighty interesting experience. Not only because of the different points of view you run into—but because of the tolerance which recognizes these different points of view.

Arizona farmer for the habits of his city cousin; the tolerance of folks who vote one way towards those who vote another; the tolerance of those who prefer spring water towards those who enjoy a moderate beverage like beer.

From where I sit, it's that great American trait of tolerance—respect for individual tastes and theories—that makes this country strong. Let's never lose it!

THE FICTION CORNER

SQUALLS

By MAUD McCURDY WELCH

Gramma's experience in squalls with her seafaring husband prepared her admirably for the role she was called upon to play when Nedra and John called off their marriage.

NEDRA had been crying. Sitting in her chair by the big window in the living room, Gramma went on knitting. In one quick glance she'd seen that the girl had tried to hide the tear-stains by an inept dabbing of powder around her pretty blue eyes.

"And not a minute too soon," Nedra returned quickly, sinking deeper into the fireside chair and turning her face away.

"Ho, so you two had a quarrel." Gramma knitted a little faster than before.

"No, a conflagration, an explosion, a dissolution, a parting of the ways." Nedra's voice was both angry and vehement, and a little tearful too.

"As bad as that?" Gramma inquired mildly.

"I gave him his ring. It's all over," Nedra swallowed a sob quickly.

Gramma made a little clucking sound but she went on plying her needles industriously.

At last Nedra burst out unhappily. "Well, aren't you going to console me, or congratulate me, whichever the case may be?"

Gramma stopped knitting for a moment, looked up. "You and John have quarreled before. They are something like the squalls we'd sometime meet up with on the Saint Lawrence when I'd made a trip with your grandfather on his steamer. He was a sea-captain, you know. Well, there'd be a terrible lot of noise and wind, and then the most beautiful calm you ever saw. It's natural for people in love like you and John to quarrel once in a while."

Nedra sat up. "Darling, you're an incurable sentimentalist. John and I are sensible and modern and analytical about love, as all young people are nowadays. We've had several bitter quarrels since we became engaged, so we've simply had to face the fact that we're not compatible and that marriage would be a mistake."

"It was sensible of course to face this before it was too late," Nedra said in a small, desolate voice.

"But love is not modern," Gramma observed quietly. Then she added, "but of course someday you'll meet the right man."

The sudden white horror of Nedra's sweet face was like a shock. "There'll never be another man, never!" she exclaimed passionately, as she rose and left the room.

Two or three days passed. One day at noon Nedra was lying on a chaise longue in her room, listlessly turning the pages of a magazine when Gramma burst in, excitedly waving two important looking tickets.

"Listen, darling, we're going places. We're shipping on a fruit-boat for . . . for . . ." she studded the tickets for a moment, "for Trinidad."

"Where on earth is that?" Nedra asked indifferently, still pretending to be interested in her magazine.

Gramma lifted her shrewd dark brows. "My dear, I don't seem to have the slightest idea, but if we stay on the boat long enough, I imagine we'll find out."

Nedra sat up. "Now, look, you absurd darling, if you're taking me on a sea-voyage because you think my heart is broken, that's out. Girls these days when disappointed in love, don't waste time languishing. They go in for careers, maybe politics or something."

"It's been the desire of my life to travel on a fruit-boat," Gramma said fervently.

Nedra stared at her for a moment; then yielded. "In that case we'll go."

So it happened that in a very few more days, Gramma and Nedra found themselves on a fruit-boat bound for the intriguing destination of Trinidad. And on their very first morning on deck, they both saw a tall, dark young man standing at the rail, gazing moodily out to sea.

Nedra's heart almost stopped. She clutched Gramma's arm and drew her around to the other side so quickly that she almost lost her breath. "Hey, what goes?" Gramma asked in Nedra's own jargon. "That was John," Nedra exclaimed breathlessly.

"We were silly to think we could," Nedra agreed softly.

Gramma straightened her neat, black toque and got herself better organized. Then Nedra's voice came suddenly accusingly. "And you knew it all the time. You did this on purpose." She whirled around angrily. "I'm going to my cabin and I'm going to stay there."

Nedra kept her word. She stayed in all day, even though after she'd had her dinner, Gramma reminded her that there was nothing on earth more beautiful than a moonlit evening at sea.

"What do I care about a silly old moon?" Nedra retorted in a voice that shook with tears.

IT SEEMED a stalemate, so Gramma went on deck alone and soon found John, his boyish face looking tired and drawn even in the semi-light. Gramma slipped into the chair beside him; and he said unhappily, "Look here, Gramma, a man can't go a thousand miles away, more or less, to forget a girl and stay on the same boat with her all the way."

"Why don't you two youngsters make up?"

"We decided that if we quarreled before marriage, we'd do the same thing afterward. We're trying to be logical and modern but . . ." his voice trailed away sadly.

"Well, someday you'll meet another girl," Gramma said lightly. "That'll never happen . . . never."

Don't even mention a thing like that," John's voice was hoarse with pain.

But just the same, it looked more and more as if Gramma's plotting to bring these two stubborn kids together would come to nothing at all. It looked plain enough that John and Nedra had no intention whatever of making up their quarrel. . . .

Next morning Mother Nature herself decided to take a hand. They awakened to find the ship tossing in a sudden gale, thunder roaring in demonic fury, lightning flashing with every split second, the waves tearing at the ship as if possessed of the fury of a thousand devils.

Nedra dressed hurriedly, went into Gramma's room to find her also dressed, as early as it was. "Is it a hurricane?" Nedra asked shakily.

"I don't know, dear. I think I'll just go and try to find out."

"Don't stay long. I'm beginning to be frightened," Nedra pleaded.

"I'll be back in a jiffy. There's nothing to worry about. At least I think not."

She'd hardly disappeared before there was a loud knock on the door and John came in. "Nedra, Nedra darling, I had to find you, I had to tell you in . . . in case anything happened, that I still love you, and I always will."

Electricity Assures Water for Livestock

Economical Installation For Winter Suggested

Electricity, which has eased the farmer's chores, has come to the aid of farm animals, too.

Through the medium of electricity, Dobbin and Bossy no longer need fear that their drinking water supply will be shut off during the cold winter months.

Tests by agricultural engineers have demonstrated that electricity is economical to provide warm water for livestock during the winter.

Watering devices were operated at a cost as low as 70 kilowatt hours per month, representing an outlay of $1.40 at two cents per kilowatt.

Some farmers are finding that their installations are expensive to operate, principally because of lack of insulation or because too much water is heated.

The following suggestion will help to make an ideal installation:

- 1. Use as small a tank as possible, definitely not more than 150 gallons.
2. Install a float so the size of the tank can be reduced. Commercial units now on the market use only a drinking cup.
3. Use at least three or four inches of commercial insulation and cover all sides, leaving room for only one or two animals to drink.
4. Install a baffle board to prevent air movement over the water under the insulated top.

Use of electricity makes it safe to install the tank inside the barn or in a shed, which will encourage livestock to drink more water and thus increase milk and meat production.

Farmer Falls Hardest

Life on the farm is far more hazardous for the farmer and his sons than it is for his wife and his daughters.

In fact, a survey covering 18,000 farms the country over, made by the department of agriculture, reveals that about four times as many accidents happened to men and boys between the ages of 14 and 66 as were suffered by farm women and girls. Of the youngsters under 14 injured, nearly 65 per cent were boys.

More farm people were injured by falls than any other type of accident, with the majority of mishaps involving falling on steps and stairs and from vehicles. Men and boys were victims of twice as many injuries from falls as were women and girls.

Of the total number of farm accidents, 58 per cent were connected with farm work and 8 per cent with housework. The age period from 25 to 45 was disclosed as the most dangerous.

Horses Need Attention During Stabled Period

Disease and injury that sometimes prove crippling can be prevented by giving special attention to horses' feet during the stabled period. Brittle hoofs, spongy hoofs, thrush and foot canker are the four diseases commonly caused by bad stable conditions.

Clean, dry floors are recommended as a precaution. The feet of stabled animals also should be trimmed at least once a month.

Fire-Flies Use Light Signals to Find Mates

Man uses light signals in modern warfare, but fire-flies have been using this method of signaling for thousands of years. Fire-flies have their light apparatus on the underside of the abdomen. The intermittent light flashes are signals that enable these beetles to find their mates. This luminous organ is controlled by the nervous system, enabling fire-flies to signal at will to attract a girl friend.

Jewels THROUGH GLASS

Grace Noll Crowell

STAND before a jeweler's plate glass pane: That crystal-clear conductor of the light. I watch the sunshine pierce the gorgeous stain Of rare gems clustered there before my sight: Crimson and purple fires banked in gold, And ice-white diamonds splintering the air, Deep fires of brilliant beauty to behold Displayed for any who may pass them there.

I think of God whose gracious hand prepares His living truths for all mankind to see. They shine as clearly as these jeweled wares, To ever be revealed by you and me. Lord, shine through me as jewels shine through glass, That men may see thy beauty as they pass.

BE-KIND-TO-NYLONS WEEK

Now, that your longer skirts and petticoats have forced you out of socks and saddles and into nylons and heels, we're declaring a "be-kind-to-nylons" week. We appealed to our hi style scouts for ideas on nylon preservation and they've come through as usual with flying colors—also with fewer runs. If nylons are one of your economic problems you might want to try out their ideas.

Preventative Measures—No more snags and runs from rough desk and chair edges in school. If you take a piece of sandpaper along with you and do a competent smoothing down job. Then the only disaster you need fear when you get up to go to the blackboard is not knowing the right answers.

First-Aid Equipment—Carry colorless nail polish with you wherever you go to stop those runs in their tracks. Use bright red nail polish to identify your stockings with your initials at the tops to avoid confusion with other nylons in the family. Nail polish is good for the nails, too—in case you forget.

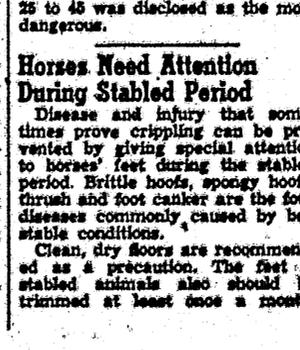

Preventive Precautions—Wash your new nylons before you wear them and wash after each wearing. One teen tells us a pinch of salt in the first rinsing strengthens the fibres. We only have her word for it. Don't hang them over the radiator to dry. If your nails and hands are rough, put on a pair of cotton gloves before handling your nylons.

Neither of them was aware that the wind had ceased its wild roar and the desecrated sea had suddenly become as calm and benign as a summer day.

Still holding each other in a close embrace, they hardly heard Gramma when she came back and saw them together. "Just a squall," she murmured softly as she went into her own stateroom, a happy smile wreathing itself around her lips.
