Good Progress Made On New Hospital

The new hospital has made wonderful progress. It will be a most beautiful building when completed and an asset to the town, which cannot be evaluated in dollars and cents. The entire appearance of that part of town where the building is located seems to be improved. The workmen and the contractors have really done a marvelous job.

PERFECTS SIMPLE CANCER DETECTOR

NEW YORK—A simplified and painless new method for detecting cancer has been perfected by Dr. S. A. Gladstone, Department of Pathology, Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital here, which may be performed in the physician's office without surgical biopsy. The cancer test consists of rubbing a section of Gelfoam, a protein sponge, over the suspected area. Where cancer is present, the protein material picks up cancer cells. Classically tested for more than a year, the new method did not fail once in more than 700 cases, and actually proved the presence of cancer in some cases where standard surgical biopsy procedure had failed to reveal it. Dr. Gladstone has just been awarded a New York Medical Society "scientific award" for his contribution to medical science.

Star-Lites

MOVIES, MIKES and MISCELLANEOUS

A DETERMINATION TO WIN has put comedian Dink Trout on almost every major show on the air. While trying to sell a radio script in Chicago, Dink took an audition and won the part by masterfully holding a mouth organ in just 34 hours. His first public appearance, at the age of 4, terminated abruptly when he started a wrestling match on the stage. Today, Dink's favorite organ is his role of "Poopsie" on NBC's "A Day in the Life of Danny Day" and "Waldo" on "The Life of Riley." He is an ardent student of Abe Lincoln's having been born in Beardstown, Ill., the site of the Springfield trial, the most famous of Lincoln's career and ... as the teacher once said ... "a man should be tall enough for his feet to reach the feet when he stands up" ... Dink just makes it with his 5 feet 1/2 inches.

EVERY LIFE has a turning point, but few are as strange as that which turned Ruth Warrick to an acting career. Ruth was sent to New York from Kansas City to deliver a 30 lb. turkey to Mayor La Guardia. The hotel assignment was due to the "Phibster", a street in New York known for its impertinence as a commercial center. She stayed in the "big town" and Ruth Warrick reached fame on "Rede Row" and film fame followed when Orson Welles gave her the part of the first wife in "Citizen Kane" in her latest "The Great Dan Patch" a United Artist release. Ruth plays the role of Dennis O'Keefe's ambitious, calculating wife. Like most people, Miss Warrick wound up in a professional job from the one she planned — she wanted to be a writer.

MANY OF HOLLYWOOD'S top-talent are now top-fycoons of their own film companies and ... charming Joan Bennett followed suit in 1945 when she, Walter Wanger and Frita Lang founded Diana Productions. The 3 Bennett sisters came naturally by their film careers by way of a long line of acting careers. Their grandparent's had a home, all of whom were on the stage. Joan Bennett has been in some of Joan Bennett films—her latest is "Mellow Triumph". Today, as Mrs. Walter Wanger, she is one of Alameda's best-known hostesses and best-dressed gals. Although her favorite color is green, she's wearing a Sally Victor blue bonnet this spring. In addition to being treasurer of her film company, Joan makes a serious career of raising her three children in a "happy Hollywood home."

JOHN CAMERON SWAYZE is the man on NBC's Saturday night "Who Said That?" television quiz who knows all the answers. Congressman, cartoonist, movie star, news correspondent, comedians, and every type of big timer in a big time match with John. As a small boy, John could recite whole passages from well-known authors and seems to have never forgotten anything. Brain Trust he has heard or read ... It's all stored away in his mind in its proper place. In television particularly, this trait is invaluable for reading script just doesn't fit in. Novel note on the program is that the contestant must drop $5 into a gold fish bowl if he misses ... then John, a regular member of the panel, is asked the same question and 1 time out of 10 squares up with the right answer.

Lesson from Britain

Hard times and doing without—that's still the order of life in Britain. "Austerity" is the official name for it. True, a little curbing is not harmful to anyone. But as a political system or way of life, British "austerity" is going to continue looking a bit drab (as a cloak for socialism) when you compare it with the private management and freedom of enterprise we know in America. Britain, in effect, is telling America what not to do.

Fact of Life

But at the moment, the British experience is helping underscore an economic fact that needs more underscoring here in America. That fact is this: Increases in wages mean higher prices. Economists in our country have known for a long time that this is true, yet the popular view of it insists that the boom can go on indefinitely granting increases, year after year, without ever raising prices at all. The British know better.

It seems that Sir Stafford Cripps, who is in charge of money matters in England, is right now urging British workers (even they who own industry and run the government) to work harder without higher wages. If the British do this, the reorganizing goes, there will be more to export to America. Then, Britain will have more dollars with which to buy the things her people need. Shrewd, enough!

Another Round?

You see, the British are driving to get into as much of the American market as possible. Sir Stafford recognized that if British workers should demand increases in wages, prices of British goods would make it impossible to compete successfully on the American market. In other words, the British (even the labor government) know that increases in wages do mean higher prices.

Is Sir Stafford counting on prices going up in America? Well, at least he is laying plans to compete with American manufacturers—and another round of wage increases over here would do much to help him, according to his own formula. Yes, indeed. Another round of wage boosts would send up prices so high that Sir Stafford would have little trouble in getting rid of everything Britain sells, from pottery to Austin motor cars.

Forced Prices

Foreign trade is good for our nation, just like it is good for the British. It's a two way street. If we fail to get into the competition ourselves, then our goods will stop moving as fast as we know our production lines can move them.

This lesson Britain is teaching us works at home, too. The one thing we want to do is to keep production going, for we know that our people want jobs and have the capacity to compete. But if we are going to keep forcing prices upward, we may one day realize that depression is here just because we have done that very thing. We can have nothing but false prosperity that foretells depression, if we force prices too high.

"Why didn't you?" glowered his wife.

Mixed Personality

An American woman visiting in Paris before the war went to a bureau which provided men as escorts. When informed that she could engage either a northerner or southerner, she asked the difference, and was told that the southerners were gallant and debonaire, while the northerners were smooth talkers and romantic.
"Well, then," she said "I'll take a southerner from as far north as possible."

New He's "In"

There was a very, very kind judge who would always let everybody off with a reprimand or suspended sentence. But one day he was terribly upset and when a prisoner was brought before him he unleashed his fury.
"You've got a nerve," said the once kindly judge. "At a time like this when the whole world is in chaos and every citizen is suffering you had to commit such a crime. I sentence you to five years in prison. Take him out."
With that, the judge immediately grabbed his hat and coat and started to run.
"Where are you going?" asked a clerk.
"I want to get there first. I want to rent his apartment."

"Doctor, I've got trouble with my throat—my throat here."
"Go in the other room and disrobe," said the doctor. "I'll be there in a minute."
"But Doctor, my throat."
"Get in the other room and disrobe and I'll examine you."
So the man went in and disrobed. As he was sitting there in his shorts, he looked around. Next to him was another guy sitting there, disrobed, in his shorts and with a big package in his hands.
"Can you imagine that doctor! I've got trouble with my throat and he tells me to disrobe."
"What are you complaining about? I only came here to deliver a package!"

"If it doesn't you'll see the dearest crack you ever saw!"

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

Making Curved Rafter
Question: Where can I obtain information on how to make curved rafters? How is this work done?

Answer: The National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D.C., has several publications on the subject; some are free and others are available at a price.

Protecting Silver from Tarnish
Question: Is there any way to prevent silverware from tarnishing? Isn't there a preparation to apply on the silverware as a thin coating to prevent tarnish?

Answer: Dealers in jewelers' supplies usually sell a lacquer for this purpose, but firms of this kind are only found in large cities. If you cannot get it, a clear lacquer, sold at a well-stocked paint store, can be used instead. After polishing the silver, wipe it with benzine and then apply the lacquer.

Why Jesus Died

Lesson for June 12, 1949

THE FACTS of Jesus' death were simple. They are told in the four Gospels without dramatics and without tears. Yet the drama is there, stark and terrible; and only the hard of heart can read it without tears.

No Other End

WHERE WAS, of course, "historical seasons" why Jesus was killed. If we used the words "murdered" or "lynched" it would be nearer the truth. Jesus' death, from one point of view, was both a tragedy and a crime, and the Gospel stories show this. Jesus died because Pilate was a spineless man.

Jesus died because the priests of Jerusalem saw that if this man was, they would lose, and they would commit murder rather than be defeated. Jesus died because the Pharisees had closed minds and would not listen to truth if they did not think of it first.

The Plan of God

WHEN WAS Jesus simply a victim of circumstances? Was he no better than a fly caught in fate's dark web? Far from it. The Christian church has always believed, even before these stories of the crucifixion were ever written, that the death of Christ was in the plan of God. In fact, it is at the heart of God's plan for mankind.

It is by the death of Christ that God reconciles man and brings men back to himself. The Christian church believes and teaches that Christ died for us, that is, for you and for me. We believe that this was not simply Jesus' own idea, something God had not thought of till Jesus suggested it.

We believe that this was the intention of God "from before the foundation of the world." The God who is over all, works through all things, even very evil things, to make his love known.

"That The World... Might Be Saved"

MEN had long thought of God as living in far-off heaven, seated on a throne, high and lifted up. A just and mighty God, one who cannot be touched with any human weakness, a holy and infinite Lord of the universe,—such a God men knew. But on earth there walks and suffers a face of men who are slaves of sin, slaves to evil. How can such a God help such men? Not by staying on his throne and hunting down more curses. Only by doing what men would never have guessed God would dare to do—come into this world, himself as a man, translating himself into the life of man; putting his shoulder under the human load, even bearing "our sins in his own body on the tree" (1 Peter 2:24).

World Has Never Forgotten Magic Of Will Rogers

HOLLYWOOD.—The world has never forgotten Will Rogers. Nearly 14 years after his death, his magic name still pulls in the crowds—both at the box office and to his own living room.

Gave Land as Park

When Mrs. Rogers died in 1944, her will gave 180 of the 345 ranch acres, including the home, to the state as a park. Last year 121,159 fans paid 25 cents apiece to troop through the big house (11 bedrooms, 11 bathrooms, and seven fireplaces).

Every inch of the ivy-covered place is just the way it was when Will's plane dived to the ice at Point Barrow, Alaska, August 15, 1933. His comfortable Monterey-style chairs are still grouped around Navaho Indian rugs in front of the big stone fireplace in the living room.

Above the fireplace is a pair of 7-foot, 4-inch steer horns sent Rogers by a Fort Worth, Tex., publisher. In a corner is a hurdy-gurdy Will bought from an old street musician in New York for his kids. An elephant sole and toenails Harry Carey brought back from the filming of "Trader Horn" in Africa are on a table.

Needed Roping Space

The chief ranger at the ranch, Harold Pench, says Will had the ceiling of his room raised so he'd have more space to rope in.

"His family was abroad at the time, and he wrote them he was raising the roof," the ranger chuckles.

One of Will's saddles, his spurs, and harness are enclosed in glass. So are his last newspaper columns and his final words, penned in a telegram to his daughter, Mary: "Great trip, wish you all were along... Going to Point Barrow today... Lots of love, don't worry, Dad." A trophy room holds nine of 11 scrapbooks filled with clippings about Rogers' death. The other two are at the Rogers Memorial at Claremore, Okla.

Hollywood hasn't forgotten Rogers, either. Producer Jerry Wald this year will film Will's life at Warners' studio, with Will, Jr., possibly in the title role.

Salaries of Radio Stars Much Less Than Publicized

WASHINGTON.—The highly publicized salaries of radio stars contrast sharply with statistics showing that one-fourth of the freelance actors and singers in that business made under $1,000 in 1947, the Department of Labor reports. Its studies covered the earnings of announcers, actors, singers, and sound-effects artists.

The people at the top of these professions made $29,000 or more a year each in 1947, the report stated, but these were highly exceptional.

Actors giving their full time to radio earned an average of $3,100. One-fourth of the actors made more than $9,100, but another fourth— "not counting the large group of whom radio work was only a minor source of pay"—earned less than $800 each.

Singers enjoyed a better average, at $3,900; with less extremes: The top fourth of these earned more than $6,900 each, while the bottom fourth got up to $1,900.

Army Stops Hiring Civilians For U. S. Jobs in Germany

BERLIN.—The army has stopped hiring American civilians for military government jobs in Germany. Col. James T. Duke, personnel officer, said that recruitment had been frozen because considerable change in organization is expected when the army turns the occupation job over to a civilian high commissioner.

Military government now has about 2,500 American employees in the American zone and in the United States sector of Berlin. The staff once was three times its present size but now, after a year and a half of steady paring, the Americans have the smallest pay roll of all the occupying powers. Latest figures showed the British with 2,600 and the French with 9,000.

Start Making Your Stocks Of Jams, Jelly Goodies Early as Supply Fades

MOST JAM and jelly cupboards are a sad sight to behold about this time of year because long months of use have depleted them pretty thoroughly. Most homemakers will find it a joy to start stocking them now with bright, jewel-like glasses of delectable jellies.

Even for those of us who like a good store of jam and jelly, the job need not seem an unsurmountable task. Make small batches and you'll have better results in both flavor and color retention. Neither will you get tired that you never want to see another jelly glass again.

Organize your work properly by getting out jars or replacing them. Wash them in sudsy water; rinse carefully and they will be all ready to place in cold water and started sterilizing before you get ready for the fruit and berries. Many women like to get the glass washing chore out of the way the day before, and this is an excellent idea.

Utensils for working as well as the paraffin and sugar may also be laid out the evening before jelly making day. Plan to make your batch first thing in the morning before the sun warms things up too much and makes you weary.

HERE'S AN EASY guide for a favorite rhubarb and strawberry jam:

Rhubarb-Strawberry Jam (Makes 18 6-ounce glasses) 4 cups prepared fruit 7 cups sugar 3/4 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit: slice thin or chop, but do not peel, about one pound of rhubarb. Crush thoroughly about one quart fully ripe strawberries. Combine fruits and measure four cups into a large saucepan.

To make the jam: add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat; bring to a full-rolling-boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, and to prevent foaming fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Cherries in Currant Jelly 2 quarts currant jelly 8 pounds sugar 2 quarts pitted cherries

Wash, mash and cook slowly enough currants, with stems, to make two quarts of strained juice. Let currant juice come to a boil, then add sugar. Skim. Add cherries

Strawberries and early rhubarb make one of the most delightful and colorful jam combinations known in modern cookery. Young fry who like to work in the kitchen can be a great help to mother in preparing ingredients fruit is to be prepared.

and cook slowly add steadily for 10 to 15 minutes. Pour into jelly glasses, paraffin at once and set in a cool, dry place.

LYNN SAYS: Jelly-Making Tips Will Help You

Assemble your equipment for jelly and jam-making ahead of time. You will need a large mixing bowl, colander, a 6-quart saucepan, a small saucepot for paraffin, standard measuring cups, jelly glasses with covers and a utility tray.

When melting paraffin for sealing jellies and jams, use a low flame or the wax will start to smoke.

To make jams and jellies, you'll

Raspberries, either by themselves or in combination with other fruits make delightful jams or jellies. Prepare the jelly glasses by sterilization before starting the jam or jelly so they will be ready when the juice or fruit is to be prepared.

Potato Salad Fried Onions Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers Biscuits Red Raspberry Jam Sliced Cantaloupe Beverage

Black Raspberry-Currant Jelly 2 quarts black raspberries 2 cups water 1 quart currants Sugar

Cook raspberries, currants and water for 20 minutes. Strain the juice and measure. Add an equal amount of sugar. Cook until a small amount of the juice dropped on a saucer jells. Ladle into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin at once.

Raspberries do not have much pectin and for this reason they need pectin added to make them into acceptable jam. Use them alone or combined with strawberries.

Raspberry Jam (Makes 8 6-ounce glasses) 4 1/2 cups prepared fruit 4 cups sugar 1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit: crush thoroughly about two quarts fully ripe, red raspberries. If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds. Measure 4 1/2 cups into a large saucepan.

To make jam: measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding the fruit over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture reaches a hard boil. Bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim, ladle quick into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Wash, pick and stone cherries. Place in a preserving kettle, alternating layers of fruit and sugar. Let stand overnight. Bring slowly to a boil and then boil rapidly until thick and clear. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal at once with paraffin.

Gooseberry Conserve 3 pounds gooseberries 3 pounds sugar 1 pound seeded raisins 3 large oranges

Grate the rind of the oranges and extract the juice. Mix together the orange rind and juice, gooseberries, raisins and sugar. Cook slowly until thick. Pour into sterile jars and seal at once.

Pineapple-Pear Preserves 1 pound pears 1 No. 2 can sliced pineapple 1 1/2 cups sugar 3/4 cup boiling water

Dissolve sugar in water and let come to a boil. Cut pears in halves lengthwise, removing skin and cores. Cut pineapple into pieces and add both fruits to hot syrup. Cook until tender and clear. Seal in sterilized jars.

To prevent excessive "weeping" on jellies and jams, leave a half inch of space at the top when filling the glass. Paraffin, cover tightly and store in a cool, dry place.

Fruits and berries used for jams, jellies, preserves and conserves should not be allowed to stand in water as they become water-logged and will have to be cooked longer to get rid of water. This results in flavor and color loss.

Use a lipped saucepan for pouring paraffin to make this job easier.

LINCOLN COUNTY 4-H CAMP FUND DRIVE UNDER-WAY

Committees and 4-H Club members in the various communities have consented to assist in their respective communities to raise the $1,000 fund for the construction of the 4-H Camp that will be built near Cloudercroft.

The camp will accommodate the 14 counties in the southern part of New Mexico. It will not only be used by 4-H Clubs, but will be available to organizations such as FFA chapters, Farm Bureau, Women's Extension Clubs, Livestock Growers' Associations, civic, and other youth religious organizations.

The first contribution for the worthy project was made by the Corona Women's Extension Club, who gave $50 to the cause. School Superintendents and Principals are cooperating by permitting the collection of a small fee for movie films shown to pupils of the schools. Twenty-five dollars and ninety cents were raised by showing films at the Carrizozo school and $25 was raised through movie films shown at the Capitán Highschool. The county agent has made arrangements to show films at the Hondo Highschool, Hondo Gradedschool, San Patricio Gradedschool, Lincoln Gradedschool, and the Corona Highschool this coming week.

All donations will be handled under a special fund known as "Lincoln County 4-H Club Fund." Checks should be made out in this manner and the money will be deposited in the Lincoln County Agency Bank at Carrizozo until the amount is raised, and then a check will be sent to the Southern New Mexico 4-H Club Foundation.

Lincoln County has been asked to raise $1,000 as their contribution for the construction of the $30,000 camp. All business firms, professional people, ranchers, and farmers are asked to assist in raising the fund.

Donations may be given to 4-H Club members or committeemen who identify themselves with proper credentials, or checks made to the "Lincoln County 4-H Club Fund" and mailed to Carl P. Radcliff, County Extension Agent, Box 217, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

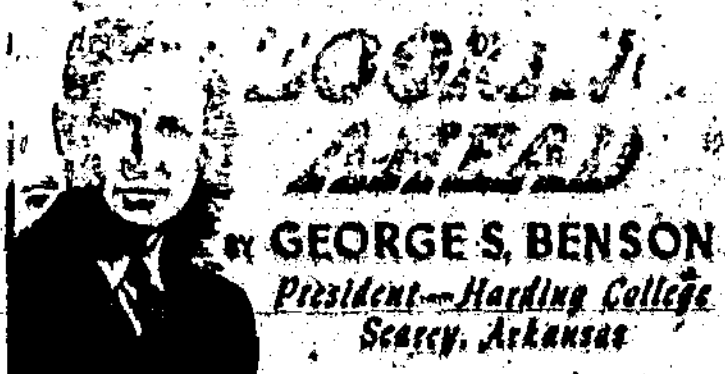

If you are interested in reading the details of the 4-H Club camp plans, each postmaster in the county has been asked to post one of the 4-H Camp leaflets for your reference.

You may be interested to know that there are more than 10,000,000 boys and girls in 4-H work in the United States; 8,600 members in New Mexico; 3,600 boys and girls are enrolled in club work in the 14 southern counties. More than 100,000 New Mexico boys and girls have benefited from 4-H Club work since the program originated.

The 4-H insignia is a symbol of education and leadership training which is helping to improve farm incomes, living standards, satisfaction from community life, and which is preparing young people for the responsibilities of tomorrow the country over.

All counties have been asked to raise their quota by May 10, 1940, so if you wish to assist with this worthy cause, please act promptly.

Your contribution and support will be greatly appreciated.

Help for the Boss

Once in awhile, a new chapter is written in the history of labor union activities. Most labor-management difficulties are very old problems that have existed ever since man first hired-out to another; however, a lot of them belong to new situations, and sometimes we have thought they were new because we had not solved them before. But we have paid increasing attention to hours, wages, and working conditions. A new science of industrial relations has grown up, with nearly every company giving time and effort to improve things for the worker.

One-sided Progress?
In this the unions have helped, for unions in fact exist for the main purpose of looking out for their own. Now, if we have reached the place where union members can see things they can do in turn for their employers, have we not reached an important milestone in industrial relations?

Just recently Mr. Walter Cenerazzo, president of the American Watch Workers Union, led members of his union in a project designed to help the Waltham Watch Company. This company, one of three major American watchmakers, had closed its Waltham, Mass., plant December 31 because it could no longer meet interest payments on a debt of some 5 million dollars. In closing, the 86-year-old company had to discharge 2,300 workers.

What Workers Did
Mr. Cenerazzo, having an unusual grasp of the many problems that labor has to face these days, determined to do something. "If a company is worth working for and drawing a livelihood from, it's worth putting your money into to furnish the working capital to make it a success," he told union members in a mass meeting. Then Mr. Cenerazzo and Waltham employees undertook to see what they could do about it.

Right away, 820 union members pledged themselves to subscribe $310,000 in equity financing. More than $40,000 was put up in cash. One employee with 45 years service pledged $5,000. A stock-buying plan for employees was set up, permitting purchases of stock on a time-payment basis. "We expect to raise more than $1,250,000 by this method, or about $500 for each employee," said Mr. Cenerazzo.

Common Problems
This is the story of a company up against trouble. It is also a story of employee integrity, courage, and determination. I hope these workers succeed in saving their company. In this story, the theme of labor-management relations has indeed taken a new twist. The workers of Waltham have understood the desperate need of industry for capital. "Twice the working capital is needed now as in 1940, because of increased costs," Mr. Cenerazzo told workers.

This milestone in industrial relations proves that labor unions can see that industry's problems are their problems also. You may call it just good sense—seeing the other fellow's difficulty and helping him out of it. Another name for it is the Golden Rule.

AFTER SITTING THRU two movie contracts and watching chances for stardom fizzle—the third was the charm—when Ruth Roman was given a seven year contract and a choice role in Ring Lardner's "Champion" to be released by United Artists. In 1945 Ruth hit Hollywood. Solnick signed her and nothing happened. A Paramount contract followed with no result other than a small part in "Night Has A Thousand Eyes"—so she bagged out of that contract too. Then after several pictures along came Screen Plays' "Champion" and a long-time contract. Ruth is a luscious eyedful with dark brown hair. Besides a movie career ambition, she hopes to someday marry, have children and live in a small home on the ocean.

"CAN'T ACT" can dance a little" were the words written across the face of Fred Astaire's first film test and, to date, he has debunked that with some 9 successful stage plays and 23 movies. Recently Astaire broke a 2 year "retirement" to play in MGM's "Easter Parade" followed by "The Barkleys of Broadway." Fred was born in Omaha and he and twin sister Adele, formed their dance act when Adele was just seven. Since Adele married, many of Astaire's top ladies have been his partners. In addition to making dance history by way of movies he owns and operates a chain of dance schools which is moving across the country as rapidly as Fred moves across the dance floor.

A Good Pilot "Keeps His Feet on the Ground"

Buck Childs flew for the Navy, and after the war bought a light plane for crop-dusting. Now he's got another one—for passengers and heavy-up freight.

Saw him at the Post Office and remarked on his fine record. Said he must be a crack pilot to fly nearly all the time—in good weather or in some not-so-good—without ever an accident.

Buck grinned. "Plenty of fellows around are as experienced as I am at flying. But I don't have accidents because I don't take chances. I spend more time checking engines and equipment than I do in the air. It's one business where you just can't let things slide."

From where I sit, there's no business where you can let things slide and still stay right up there. That's why the tavern owners, like Buck, spend a lot of time checking up—seeing to it that beer is sold in the right surroundings. They know when you "let things slide" you're due for an "unhappy landing."

STOCKMAN WARNS NEW MEXICO TO GUARD WATER RIGHTS

Albuquerque—Warning that New Mexico must be on guard to protect its interests in water rights of the Colorado River is contained in an article published this week in the May issue of the NEW MEXICO STOCKMAN.

The article reports on a recent hearing in Washington before the Senate Committee on Interior Affairs dealing with the disposal of Colorado River water. Testimony at the hearing put New Mexico and Utah in the category of having "small but undetermined interests" in the Colorado River water.

CHICAGO RAILROAD FAIR

Amarillo, April 20—Preparations for the Chicago Railroad Fair on June 25 are well under way.

The Santa Fe Railroad has announced many improvements in its replica of a southwestern Indian Village which last year featured its exhibit.

Again native Indians from the Santa Fe Southwest will live on the fair grounds in the pueblos, hogans and wickiups which the railroad has constructed.

Authentic Indian sandpainting will be made easily in a glass enclosure permitting them to be viewed by fair visitors without interruption of the medicine men who make the paintings.

Indian arts and crafts workers, trying the trades of silversmithing, weaving and basketry will be housed in an open shelter permitting Indian Village visitors to watch their handiwork. Also in the shelter will be wo looms on which Spanish-American weavers will make the famous Jilmayo blankets.

The Indian Trading Post which last year attracted many visitors will be enlarged for the 1949 Fair. Added to the Santa Fe exhibit will be an arcade located near the north entrance of the Village showing a section of all the states through which the railroad passes in large photographic murals.

A large quonset hut seating about 250 people will also be added to the Village and continuous motion pictures from 2 PM to 10 PM typical of the scenic southwest will be exhibited free.

Rights of the several states to water from the Colorado watershed were supposed to have been determined by the Colorado compact of 1922, signed at Santa Fe after years of bickering between the states, the New Mexico Stockman's staff writer points out. Only recently, he adds, Colorado, Utah and New Mexico reached agreement as to their respective percentages of stream flow and signed an agreement which has since been ratified by the respective legislatures and governors of the three upper basin states.

The Washington hearing was prompted by the recent action of California, seeking a determination of her rights to the water through the courts. Arizona, meanwhile claims that California's rights were determined in the original compact and opposes taking the matter to the courts.

In the recently completed three-state compact, New Mexico's share of the water was set at 13.7 per cent of the stream flow. The Stockman's article points out that while this is comparatively small percentage, it is sufficient water to provide for an important irrigation project within the Navajo reservation, to increase five-fold the irrigated area of San Juan county, and make possible the Multi-million dollar proposed trans-mountain diversion of Colorado river water into New Mexico's Chama river and thence into the Rio Grande.

If New Mexico's interest is undetermined, as claimed at the hearing, the article states, "Then these projects are in jeopardy and so is the future economy of the state. It is time for New Mexico to be on guard."

In the same issue of the New MEXICO STOCKMAN, now highlights on the life of famous John Simpson Chisum, trail driver and legendary Pecos Valley cattle baron, are recorded in an article by Will Robinson, retired editor of the Roswell Dispatch.

Federal Travel Tax Meets Distavor

With a heavy summer travel season only a few weeks away, the vacation-minded public is voicing increasing objections to the 15 per cent federal tax on rail, bus and airline tickets. Claude E. Peterson, vice president in charge of passenger traffic for Southern Pacific system, said today. The burden is especially heavy in the West and Southwest, owing to the above-average length of vacation in these areas, Peterson pointed out.

"Outlook for travel by rail during the approaching summer vacation season is encouraging", Peterson said, "but the volume of travel will not crowd our trains as it did in war time when the tax was imposed to discourage civilian travel to make room for members of the armed services and other essential travelers. There will be ample space for vacationists on our trains 1949, and the wartime tax, which adds $15 to every $100 spent for travel, therefore no longer serves any purpose. It is hoped that the present Congress will repeal the tax and thereby relieve American travelers of this unnecessary burden."

"Putting On The Ritz" With Ice Cream

Melt butter and chocolate in saucepan. Add sugar and mix well. Add milk gradually, beating until smooth. Bring to a boil over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes, or until thick. Serve hot on Coconut Snowballs. Or store in refrigerator and heat over hot water before serving. Makes 1 cup sauce.

June is National Dairy Month. And what a wonderful time it is for all of us to honor the dairy farmer and his milk products, which are increasing in popularity every year! Milk is acknowledged to be the most nutritious American drink. And ice cream still tops the list of our favorite desserts. It is interesting to learn that this is also true at the famous Ritz-Carlton hotel in New York City, where sophisticates gather. Here Monsieur Louis Diaz, Chef de Cuisine of the Ritz and author of "Cooking a la Ritz" and "French Cooking for Americans," says Coconut Snowball Sundaes is one of the Ritz's most glamorous desserts. Snowball Sundaes are simply ice cream balls rolled in shredded coconut and served with a luscious chocolate sauce. Easy to make in a hotel kitchen or in any home kitchenette! Here's how you do it, and be sure to try the Ritz chocolate sauce recipe that goes with it.

Coconut Snowball Sundae

He will be accompanied by Tranquillino Silva, ranchman of Capitan who is also appointed to this committee. They will be stationed near Mexico City for about 12 months perhaps longer. Mr. Herrera was a member of the Capitan City Council, but resigned to go to Mexico. He, together with Godfrey Herrera and Tranquillino Silva also were leaseholders and operators of the White Cat Bar at San Patricio for the past two years.

American Banking In Action

The more we produce the more we can share

Everybody benefits under our American way of life. We produce twice as much today as we did in 1910. And income per household has jumped from under $2400 to about $4000 [in dollars of similar purchasing power]. But it takes labor, plus management, plus bank credit, to get these results. By pulling together under our free enterprise system—workers, businessmen and bankers can make production hit a new peak.

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

They say that into every bride's life at least one difficult relative must fall and from the day I took the name of Stuart I heard I'd be no exception. Glibly my favorite husband told me about Uncle Bill, a bachelor architect who breathed fire and roared that all women were dumb. Secretly I prepared for Uncle Bill with a book on architecture borrowed from the library when he descended one night for dinner I was all set.

Soon after we finished the pie I had slaved over, Uncle Bill's eyes fell on some blue prints I had planted where he couldn't miss them.

"Not a bad looking little house," he said. That's all I needed.

"I'm surprised you think so," I jumped in. "Look at the specifications for the flashings, valleys, gutters and downspouts—they don't call for copper."

"What," asked my amazed non-technical husband, "are you talking about?"

As nonchalantly as possible I pointed out that valleys, gutters and downspouts were the so-called highways of a roof—conducting rain, snow and sleet to the ground while flashings prevent leakage at joints such as where the roof meets the chimney.

"Correct," put in Uncle Bill. "But what do you know about copper at those spots?"

"Stands to reason that you'd safeguard a house with copper," said I. "You have to figure that some 12,000 gallons or about 50 tons of water fall on an average house roof in a year and copper is the material for withstanding rust and corrosion. If you don't want costly repair bills you need copper roofing accessories that can take year-in, year-out abuse."

"Well, I'll be," chuckled Uncle Bill. "Take it from an architect, you're absolutely right; you can't go wrong with copper. And for a bride, you're not so dumb!"

Now with Uncle Bill safely in the fold I'll have to sneak back my library book. It wouldn't hurt to have the Man of the House think I was an expert even if I did only get as far as Chapter One, "Essentials of Good Building!"

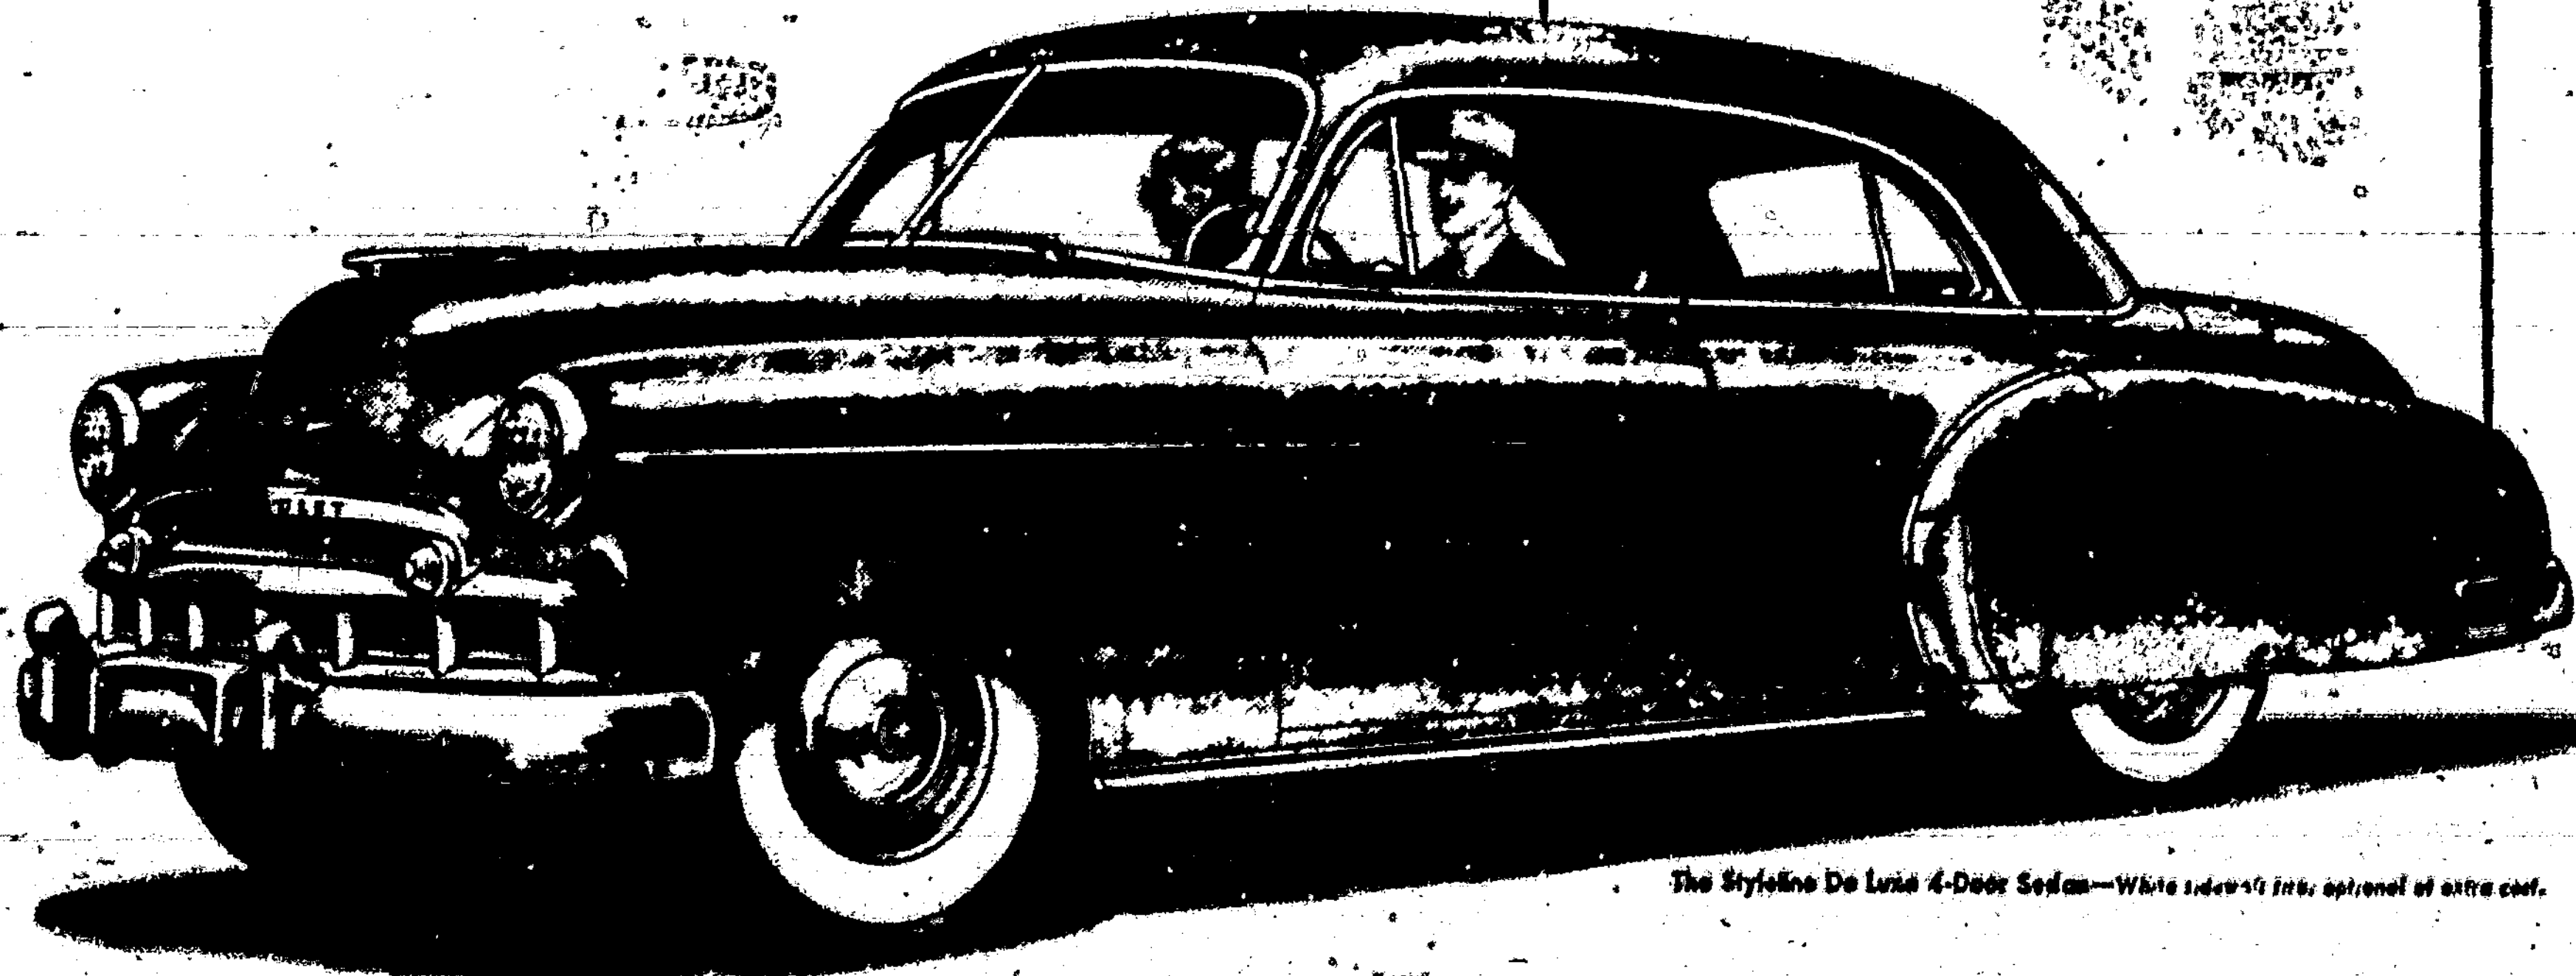

"I'm biding my time until I get a Chevrolet—

I want to be sure I get the most for my money!"

That expresses the sentiments of countless people in all income groups, including many who can afford to buy much higher priced cars. They're surveying the rest but awaiting the best—Chevrolet—the most beautiful buy of all. We believe you, too, will decide that Chevrolet gives more for your money—more fine-car beauty, more fine-car features, more EXTRA VALUES of all kinds—at the lowest prices and with outstanding economy of operation and upkeep. Yes, the new Chevrolet is the most beautiful buy for everything from styling to stamina, and we cordially invite you to confirm this fact and tell your friends—"I'm biding my time until I get a Chevrolet!"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russians Urge West German State Be Wiped Out; Ask 4-Power Rule; Congress Curtails 'Must' Legislation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newswatch unless otherwise noted and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

GERMANY:

A Sour Note

The Big Four conference in Paris was underway. For the first time in the cold war between East and West there was real hope that harmony would be forthcoming.

In fact, Secretary of State Dean Acheson had been warned by Senator Vandenberg, senate foreign affairs committee chairman, not to be too aggressive with the Russians, but rather to keep open, if possible, the door to lasting peace.

WITH the Russian blockade of Berlin lifted and the Soviets apparently ready to sing a new tune in world cooperation, the theme of the conference was to be harmony.

But the delegates hardly had time to warm the seats of their chairs before the Russians were at it again. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky blandly proposed that the council of foreign ministers wipe out the new west German state and return German affairs, including direction of the Ruhr, to four-power control machinery.

MANY had expected this course by the Soviets. They had predicted that lifting of the Berlin blockade was done to soften up the ministers for this very proposal. But it didn't work. All three western powers immediately rejected the proposition.

The Soviet foreign minister showed little tact. He led up to his proposal with a long tirade denouncing the U.S., Britain and France for what he termed "violations" of the Potsdam agreements.

SOVIET ideology could not tolerate a separate German state with autonomous powers and there was little question that the Kremlin would stand firm in this position. On the other hand there was no possibility that the western powers would recede from their intention to return government of Germany to the German people. Thus it would seem the impasse was clearly established.

For the U. S., Dean Acheson delivered himself of what might well be the decade's masterpiece of understatement when he called the Russian suggestions "disappointing."

But then he summed up the world's reaction when he added: "My hopes are distinctly chilled."

CONGRESS:

Let's Wait

A lot of "trouble for nothing" might be an apt phrase to describe all the national agitation against President Truman's health insurance and civil rights proposals—for his own leaders in congress erased the issues by taking both holly-contested items of legislation off the "must" list.

ALSO slated for further delay was the administration's four-billion-dollar tax increase plan, the equally controversial Brannan farm program and the foreign-arms proposal.

This left only three measure bills for top priority action. They were:

- 1. Extension of the reciprocal trade program which has passed the house but is stalled in the senate.
2. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act.
3. Ratification of the North Atlantic security treaty which requires only a two-thirds majority vote in the senate.

SENATE MAJORITY LEADER Scott Lucas indicated action might be sought before adjournment on minimum-wage boosts, the international wheat agreement, and a pay raise for top government executives and military personnel.

Speculation was that decision to abandon for the time the compulsory health insurance program stemmed from mounting congressional clamor for sharp cuts in government spending—with the civil rights legislation delay believed motivated by fear of a southern filibuster. Congress wants to adjourn by August, and consideration of any of the "powder keg" legislation might make that impossible.

LUCAS said he thought President Truman was "definitely satisfied" with the progress being made.

That surprised some legislators, for unless congress repeals the Taft-Hartley law, the President will be unable to point to accomplishment of any of his campaign pledges when congress adjourns.

STAND-IN IN DOGHOUSE

Goose on Loose Perturbs Gold Rush Fete

Genevieve the goose was on the loose and her successor was in the doghouse.

Genevieve the first was a plump young bird bought from a farmer to play the role of the goose that laid the golden egg for the Women's Medical College of Gold Rush fete in Philadelphia. An important role which the ladies were determined to see done right.

Potent Vote

POTENT VOTE . . . This lone woman voter, to whom a pair of shoes would be a Godsend, is shown as she cast her ballot in the elections held in the Russian zone of Germany. The Russians had hoped to make a big propaganda gun of the election—a gun that would be used in the "Big Four" conference beginning May 23. But the Soviets had to admit that one-third of the valid ballots cast voted against the all-Communist slate.

FORRESTAL:

"Better to Die . . ."

"Comfortless, nameless, hopeless, save in the dark prospect of the yawning grave . . . better to die, and sleep the never-waking sleep than linger on . . ."

With the import of these lines from Sophocles' "Chorus from Ajax" so obviously gording his consciousness, James V. Forrestal, former U. S. defense secretary, plunged to his death from the 16th floor of national naval medical center in Washington.

FORRESTAL had been under treatment for "operational fatigue" since April 2. Attendant physicians said he had been considering suicide, that the nature of his malady indicated this mental condition as an inescapable adjunct to it. But they felt he was getting better; in fact they had hoped to release him from the hospital in 30 days.

As secretary of defense, Forrestal labored under a burden such as few national servants have carried. His was the job of directing the gigantic naval program during the war, as well as the almost hopeless task of attempting unification of the armed forces. The strain was great and a sympathetic people could understand why it might have broken a strong man.

President Truman took full cognizance of Forrestal's worth when he declared the former defense secretary was "as much a casualty of war as if he had died on the firing line."

BUT there was an added burden weighing on Forrestal. That was a burden of attack and vilification from two of the nation's top radio newscaster-columnists. After his shocking death, the press of the nation began to reevaluate the impact of its effect and that of the radio. Some nationally-syndicated observers charged that the attacks upon Forrestal via radio and in print had added to his load of desperation. They advanced the premise that unless some check was put upon this type of journalism, it might discourage many able men from entering government service.

There is possibly no agony of mankind comparable to that which must go on in the mind of the man about to take his own life. It is wholly foreign to the concept of the normal, every-day mind. Certainly it flies in the face of the very first natural law—self preservation. Weighing all this, it is difficult to understand how there could be anything but sympathy for Forrestal, and an honest effort to understand something of the torturous mental suffering which drove him to leap to his death.

JOB OUTLOOK:

Better for Grads

With starting salaries holding firm at last year's record high levels, signs of a last-minute pick-up in jobs for the mammoth 1949 class of college graduates were showing up, according to an annual employment survey by the family economics bureau of North-western National Life Insurance Company.

Although two-thirds of the 133 colleges and universities covered to date find their total employment calls all the way from slightly to "disappointingly" below 1948, schools reporting in the final week of the survey have shown a much better ratio, the summary says. Approximately half of the late responses report their record of job offers to date as equal to or slightly above 1948 experience.

DARTMOUTH college's school of business administration observes, for example, "We were disturbed by the February-March slump, but the later pick-up has wiped out our losses." St. Louis university also reports that demand faded in February and March, but "as of the past six weeks it has begun to develop beautifully." University of Nebraska's college of business administration notes a stronger employment demand in the last ten days. But Duquesne university at Pittsburgh reports, "Calls in general are less than in 1940 except those for sales personnel which have increased."

Boston university says job offers are 7 per cent fewer than last year; Ohio State finds about the same number of employers represented on the campus this spring, but each firm taking fewer men. Yale university has recorded more employment calls than as of a year ago.

FIVE out of every six schools listed in the survey report starting salaries to be as high or higher than last year. Prevailing range of offers is from $200 to $275 per month for business administration and liberal arts seniors, and from $225 to $325 for engineering grads, with exceptional men getting still higher offers. Illinois Institute of Technology reports: "The class of 375 engineers graduating January 29, 1949, averaged $280 per month for a basic 40-hour week; this is the highest average salary of any class in our history."

TOURISTS:

More Cultured

The American tourist these days was coming in for a new type of treatment from his overseas hosts. For instance, in Capetown, South Africa, according to merchants, the new tourist is not the "vulgar type which used to invade Europe in hordes, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and loud clothes."

"THIS new American is well bred, quiet, wealthy, but has the familiar-souvenir mania," said one curio dealer. "One bought everything I showed him. Is it genuine Zulu?" he kept asking.

Then, the dealer added, "he took all my shields, assegais and bead-work. I had to call a ricksha to get the stuff down to the ship. And when he saw the ricksha, he wanted to buy that."

AMERICANS no doubt will palpitate with pride at this new evaluation of their cultural level by those abroad who profit most from tourist business—but most will console themselves with the fact that so long as he has any money, the American tourist will manage to get along quite well wherever he may be in Europe or elsewhere.

Victims

CRIME:

Penalty Approp

A Midland, Mich., judge sagely fitted the punishment to the crime in a case in municipal court. Two youths, 21 and 18, were brought in on a charge of crashing a wedding party and running away with the wedding cake. They said they did it on a dare.

After pondering a moment, the judge ordered the culprits to buy a wedding present and give it to the newlyweds.

SCENES LIKE THIS MARKED BERLIN BLOCKADE LIFT . . . With the lifting of the Russian blockade in Berlin, the living standards of the people there have begun to look up with the arrival of many objects and foods which had not been seen in those parts for a long time. The first carload of oranges for the German people was an occasion of festivity as shown here. This was especially true for the kids, many of whom were too small over to have seen an orange before—there had been none since the beginning of the war.

FDR, JR., AND MOTHER SHARE VICTORY JOY . . . First son of his illustrious father to make an elective bow in Washington, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., is shown with his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, after his election to the house of representatives from the 24th New York district. In his first try for public office, young Roosevelt defeated the Democratic candidate backed by Tammany, as well as a Republican opponent. He takes the seat left vacant by the death of Sel Bloom.

GETTING HIS APPLE SLICED THE HARD WAY . . . Even in Melbourne, Australia, they say an apple a day keeps the doctor away—but will it keep the undertaker away if one makes a habit of having it sliced like that? Pictured here is the assistant of a traveling knife-sharper. One of his chores is to hold the apple on a stick in his mouth while the marksman, Smokey Dawson, heaves the sash and chops the fruit. This photo was made a split second after the apple was split and one half on the way to the floor.

LEAVES HOSPITAL AFTER FOUR YEARS . . . Raymond Edward Alderton, in the arms of his father, Raymond C. Alderton, leaves Kansas City's general hospital where he had been a patient for four years, four months and 15 days of his mother's of five years. The boy was near death from a throat infection when he entered the hospital in January, 1945. He was unable to utter a sound until a few weeks ago when surgery was performed on his windpipe and now is learning to talk.

'THE WHISTLER' . . . Eleven-month-old Jeanette Elaine Arland of Des Moines has been whistling since she was nine months old after her parents took her to a band concert. She now puckers up and whistles when she is hungry, wants to pet the dog or listen to the radio.

$25,000 SMILE . . . Alfred Frisco, Jr., beams with joy at a court decision awarding him $25,000 for injuries suffered when he was struck by a truck four years ago in an accident near his residence in Bedford, Mass. Some of his injuries were permanent.

MUNCHABLE MILLINERY . . . If you wore this hat, you wouldn't be reckless if you promised to eat it as a wager. Recently appearing in Paris, the hat is trimmed with pastry, and there's nothing to stop the wearer from eating that.

SNEEZE CHAMP . . . Michael Hipsley, London, England, had been sneezing more than nine days without a letup when this photo was taken. All attempts to end the sneezing, all efforts by doctors had failed.

PROTESTS . . . Jerry Mitchell, mid., Polish ambassador to Britain, arrives at the foreign office to protest seizure of Gerhard Eisler, half-jumping Communist agent, who is wanted by authorities in the United States.

AS BABY-SITTERS, FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Gridders, Says Lou Little, Make Good Sitters

WOULD MAKE JUNIOR STAY IN LINE

By H. J. PHILLIPS

GRIDDEERS ARE SITTERS

Lou Little, famous Columbia football coach, has appealed for jobs for football players as baby sitters.

So there, Junior! Behave yourself while momsy and popsy are at the theater tonight or else develop some fast off-tackle plays.

Reactions to football players as baby sitters have been varied. At first thought, many parents had difficulty associating "Rock-a-bye Baby" and "Sleep, Pretty One-Sleep" with "Block that Kiki!" and "Hit that line hard!" They found it hard to think of a husky fullback as the best person to handle kids who made up their own rules as the evening went along.

It did not seem to mother that when she asked, "Do you think the baby is all right?" she would find comfort in father's answer, "Yes, my dear. Remember that our baby sitter for tonight booted the longest punt in the 1948 season!"

But on more sober reflection most people decided that, children being the problems they are when mom and pop are out, it might be reassuring to know that they are in the hands of a baby sitter coached in a rugged school and with a good record for victory, on fields wet or dry.

Kids are quick to recognize authority. They know when they are up against heavy odds. In the manner and actions of a university grid star, they sense power, speed, determination and the old "do or die" spirit.

Few children will try to sit up until midnight listening to the radio if the baby sitter is all-American material.

Baby is not going to whip out the airgun around 9:30 and take some pot shots at the old woman across the courtyard, knowing that a great broken field runner is on watch.

No kid is going to howl for a cookie if it can see in the eyes of the baby sitter the never-yield-an-inch spirit of a football man around whose end no opponent made any progress in two seasons.

All in all, parents should feel easy with a football star as a baby sitter. Even in a home where the kiddies are sure to get rambunctious a crack gridiron man can detect the signals, sense the trick plays and stop the formations. Unless, of course, he is in one of those homes where there are so many children they use the double platoon system.

Why Fans Go Mad

These days in the video belts where baseball games and horse races are broadcast the same afternoon are proving pretty hectic to sports fans. Trying to follow both is doing the American nervous system no good.

It is all quite confusing. To see both sports, a video addict has to be pretty fast on the switches. In a stirring ball game it is quite a trick tuning out at the proper moment to catch the horses all set in the starting gate.

He liked a horse on which Arcaro was announced as the jockey. "Arcaro!" he exclaimed. "That's poor judgment. They pitched him yesterday."

Then while the race track announcer was chatting on generalities, Elmer dove back into the baseball channel. The home team had a man on second, one out and a big hitter up. It added to his pulse beat and general confusion.

Back to the ponies he switched, just in time. The horses broke as one. Elmer liked something called Mike's Pride. "Atta baby," he cried, "You got your stuff today!"

Pig Brooders Used To Protect Litter

Are Found Valuable At Farrowing Time

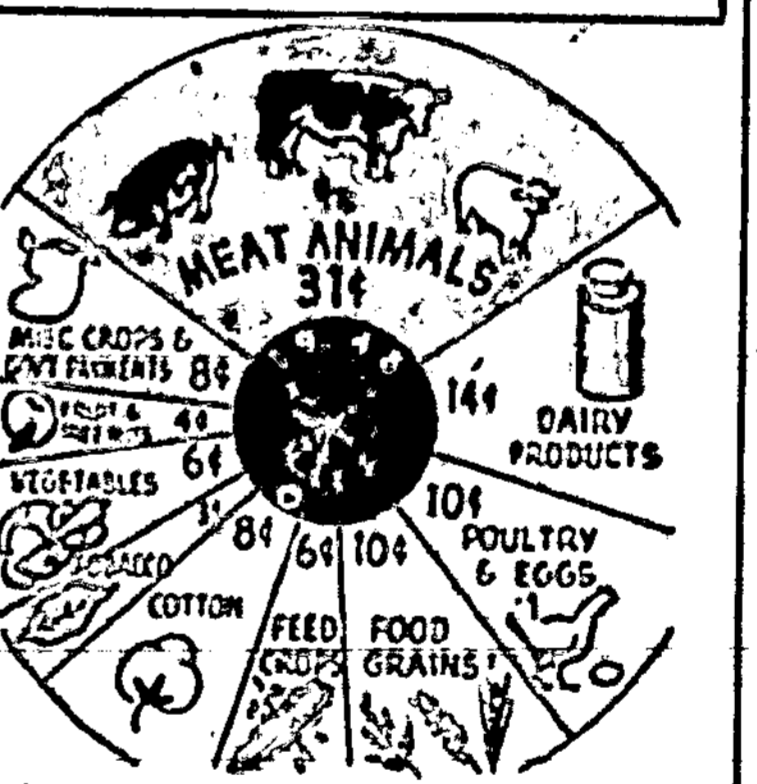

"This little pig went to market" is a great first line for a nursery rhyme. But it doesn't go far enough as far as farmers are concerned. They'd rather wait until the pig grows up before sending it to market.

Here is shown a pig brooder in operation. Ofttimes some form of supplementary heat is necessary to prevent a high mortality rate among pigs. Pig brooders such as this have been developed for this purpose.

Brooders are easy to build and economical to operate. Generally, they are constructed by boarding off a corner of the farrowing pen to a height of about 18 inches. A roof is placed over this rectangular enclosure and a board nailed across the front opening about 8 inches above the floor.
