E.N.M. State Fair

Roswell, N. M., Sept. 22. Old Timers in New Mexico will be special guests of honor Friday, October 7, at the Eastern New Mexico State Fair which starts October 5. And this year—say the old timers—you must beyond question have lived in New Mexico 30 years or longer to be among the elite. "The young upstarts who have been in the state only 25, 28 or even 29 years cannot travel in our company on that day," says former governor James F. Hinkle, honorary president of the association. "Some of us think even 30 years minimum is little enough when we look back on what we were doing in New Mexico 50 years ago."

Rainbows Silver Tea Sept. 25

There will be a Silver Tea at the home of Mrs. Shultz, Sunday, September 25 between the hours of 2 and 6. This tea is sponsored by the Rainbow Girls and the public is invited to attend.

Uncle Sam Says

City dwellers may complain of the hot days but farmers realize how necessary sunshine is to their growing crops. They know full well that without sunshine there will be no feed—just as they know that without financial security they have no protection for retirement or for the hazards of farming. This fall, when the crops are all in, they will welcome the opportunity to invest a lot of their profit in additional Savings Bonds. With these Bonds they are confident about the future—far security in old age or for any emergency. 7½% in Savings Bonds grows into $100 in ten years time.

American banking in action Reward for Effort

In some countries, people are forced to produce under the threat of punishment, imprisonment or death. How different it is in America! Here workers receive extra rewards for greater efforts. Extra rewards which they can spend or save, as they choose. And those who save are free to choose where they will put their money—in a bank, in government bonds or in new enterprises. Let's keep the American way.

Proper Insulation Helps Poultrymen Benefits From Practice Extend to All Animals

Farmers pay for 900,000 tons of chicken feed annually that they could save by properly insulating poultry houses.

That figure is reached by projecting results of tests conducted at Iowa state college, in which flocks living in insulated dwellings required 15 per cent less feed. The protected flocks laid more eggs, and fatalities were fewer.

Benefits from insulation extend to all farm animals. Hog house insulation, for example, makes possible earlier litters, increases hog production, and lower feed costs.

Only through proper insulation can such results be accomplished. In recent years an insulating material, capable of such results has gained wide acceptance among farmers. Known as Zonolite vermiculite, it is completely inorganic, unburnable, and easily used as a lightweight plaster or concrete aggregate, or as insulating fill. Zonolite, a mineral of the mica family, weighs only about one-sixteenth as much as sand.

Zonolite vermiculite insulation being installed over ceiling of dairy barn at Smississippi Farms, Oregon, Ill.

Perhaps its most important benefit is that it keeps the farm building warm and dry, and enables the ventilating equipment to work more efficiently. Here's how it functions in a hen house:

When outside temperature drops to zero, the heat given off by the birds might keep the interior at about 25 degrees. Unfortunately, the chickens also contribute moisture to the air. At low temperatures, air cannot hold a great deal of moisture.

If the insulation is used to keep the inside temperature at 50 degrees, considerably more water will be removed. It is a fact that air at 50 degrees will hold six times as much moisture as air at 25 degrees and will take that amount with it when removed from the building by the ventilation system.

Speeds Harvest

With another multi-million bushel corn harvest expected this fall, America's farmers are turning more and more to machinery to prepare the crop for use.

One improved machine (shown above) made by the New Holland machine company shells up to three and one-third bushels of corn each minute. This machine takes in ears of corn and seconds later ejects cobs in one direction and cleaned shelled corn in another. The shelled corn is either bagged or elevated into a wagon automatically.

Leaving Straw to Rot Costly to Dairy Men

Leaving straw to rot in the fields will get a farmer as much for his money as lighting a pipe with a 10-dollar bill.

Ivan H. Loughary, dairy specialist of the Wyoming agricultural extension service, says: "Use that straw for bedding down your dairy cows, and especially since the bedding problem always becomes acute during the winter months." He adds that straw is costly.

The Psalms We Sing

Lesson for September 23, 1949

IT WOULD be a most unusual person who on his dying bed would turn to the 23rd chapter of I Chronicles and not to the 23rd Psalm. If the reader will think of his own favorite passage of Scripture, and then look them up in some edition which prints the Bible in a modern format, he will discover that his favorite passages are probably all poetry.

Poetry's Power
Why the appeal of poetry? For one thing, it is vivid. It is in colors, not severe black and white. It lives and breathes, at times it shouts, and it always sings.

It is true to say "The providential oversight of the Creator is continuous and unremitting," but it is more effective to say, "The Lord is my shepherd." It would be true to say, "The evidences of creative and beneficent purpose can be seen throughout all the orders of nature," but how much more vivid is the 118th Psalm, calling on hail and fire, sun and moon and stars of light, to praise the Lord!

Another secret of poetry's power is that it is the language of emotion. Professors and theologians may be saying the same things as the poet, and maybe even saying them more completely and accurately; but what they say is less easy to remember. So these emotional Psalms will always appeal, even to the professor when off duty, because they make us feel religion and not merely think it.

Pictures of God
SO IT IS no wonder the Psalms have been loved and sung all over the world; we are perhaps the only religion that has made so much use of another religion's hymn book. Different though our faiths may be, Jews and Christians can sing from the Psalter with one voice and heart.

For centuries it was the hymnal of the Christian church. Indeed, up to recent years some large denominations would allow in public worship the singing of no other songs than the Psalms.

Many of our best hymns and popular gospel songs, as we have already seen, are based on Psalms. "Rock of Ages, cleft for me," "A Shelter in the Time of Storm," "Hiding in Thee," — they all go back to the Psalmist's picture of God as a Rock (Ps. 42:1). The Psalmist was not thinking of a little rock in a cornfield. He was thinking of some tall crag in the fierce hot landscape of his country.

A rock there is a landmark, it is a shelter against the blazing sun, people could live under its overhanging height.

So God is the landmark of life, he gives direction to our ways; he is the shelter on life's weary journey, he is our safe dwelling.

So with the many other pictures of God in the Psalms—he is light, he is shade, he is the guard on duty at night watching over the sleeping city (Ps. 121); he is a shepherd, he is water for the thirsting soul (Ps. 42.)

A Model Hymnal
IT IS true that few Christians today can use in worship all of the Psalms, without omission or changes. It is also true that practically all Christian churches find that the Psalms, by themselves, are inadequate to express all there is in Christian experience, faith and ideals.

The Christian hymn, entirely independent of the Psalms, has long since come into its own. And yet the Psalms remain the model hymnal. For in them beauty and truth are blended.

This should be the ideal of all Christian hymns and song books. Some of our modern "hymns" as well as some older ones, are bad because they are no better than jingles, — jiggered, not poetry, and often sung to tunes better suited to a joke box; and some are bad because they convey either nonsense or downright falsehood.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Provide Healthy Snack For School Youngster After Busy Study Time

HOW'S your cookie jar standing up these days? Do the youngsters make a short and snappy line to your back door because they know you always have a nice hand-out for them? Or, is yours the home deserted by your own youngsters, as well as their friends in favor of a more friendly kitchen?

Cookies are so simple to make, it's a wonder any home is without an ample supply at all times. Most recipes make several dozen cookies and they're both easy to mix and quick to bake.

The recipes chosen for today will make a hit with youngsters because they're flavorful but not too fancy.

Chewy Raisin Waters
(Makes about 4 dozen)

- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 1/2 cups rolled oats
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Rinse and drain raisins. Heat together raisins, shortening and water to melt shortening. Cool. Blend in flavoring, sugar, oats and nuts. Sift together flour, salt, soda and spices to blend into raisin mixture. Chill dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven 8 to 10 minutes.

Applesauce Cookies
(Makes 8 1/2 dozen)

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup light brown corn syrup
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup canned applesauce (sweetened)
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves. Cream shortening until smooth, then gradually blend in corn syrup and sugar. Beat until light and add egg. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with applesauce; add raisins and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on oiled sheet and bake in a moderately hot (400°) oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Honey Crisp Cookies
(Makes 2 dozen 4-inch cookies)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup honey
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup soured cream
- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/2 cup chopped dates

A few cookies and a glass of milk makes a healthful snack for youngsters after school. It gives them that necessary boost in energy that's needed in play before the evening meal.

LYNN SAYS:
These Cookie Making Tips Help You

Ingredients for cookies will blend together more readily if they have been allowed to reach room temperature. If the dough is too soft for drop cookies, let it chill until proper texture is reached.

Fragile cookies keep best in tins, with waxed paper in between the layers.

Do not store crisp cookies with moist ones in the same container, as the crisp ones will become soggy.

The look of approval on Junior's face is only an indication of how good these "chewy raisin waters" actually are. Whether they're eaten hot off the cookie rack or are several days old, they're going to taste like more.

Orange Drop Cookies
(Makes 4 dozen 2 1/2-inch cookies)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 orange rind, grated
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup hickory nuts or black walnuts, chopped

Blend together shortening, sugar, salt and egg yolks until light. Add grated orange rind and juice. Sift together flour and baking powder. Stir into creamed mixture, then add nuts and stir until smooth. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate (375°) oven, about 15 minutes, or until delicately brown. Remove cookies from pan to a cake cooler, and ice each cookie separately, holding the cookie in hand while doing it. These cookies are iced while still warm so they will have a nice glaze when cooled. Ice with:

Orange Frosting

- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1 1/2 orange rind, grated
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 cups confectioners' sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Add orange juice, grated rind and salt to egg yolk. Stir in sugar and work until smooth.

Gum Drop Bars
(Makes 3 dozen)

- 4 eggs, beaten thoroughly
- 2 cups light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cold water
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 cup pecans, chopped
- 1/2 cup shredded gum drops

Add sugar and water to eggs which have been beaten thoroughly. Sift together dry ingredients and sprinkle a portion over the gum drops and pecans. Add remaining dry ingredients to sugar and egg mixture; fold in nuts and gum drops. Spread thinly on an oiled and floured shallow pan, 10 1/2" x 15", and bake slowly in a moderate (325°) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, cut into bars.

Drop cookie doughs may be chilled if you do not wish to bake them all at once. Simply wrap in waxed paper or store in a well-covered bowl and refrigerate. Let soften before using by allowing to stand at room temperature.

Cookies will bake to a more even brown if the pans or sheets on which they are baked are not shiny surfaced.

When the recipe for cookies calls for a generous amount of fat, it is not necessary to grease the cookie sheet.

Malaria Still Regarded Greatest 'Mass' Killer

Although malaria, mankind's greatest killer, no longer claims its toll among the world's great as it did before discovery of quinine, the disease still remains the "most important in the world from the standpoint of prevalence."

The yearly number of cases throughout the world is estimated at 600 million with 2 million deaths.

Even in the United States, between one and five million cases occur annually with an estimated 1200 deaths.

By claiming such figures as Alexander the Great, Lord Byron, Oliver Cromwell, King James I of England, and a dozen or more popes among its victims, malaria through the ages has enormously influenced world history.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: We have just moved into our new home. We were told to stain our kitchen cabinets and then wax them. After living in the house a month we found that the cabinets were becoming stained and marred by the water splashing on the wood. We would like to remove the wax and restain and then varnish them. Is there anything we can use to remove the wax from the cabinets without harming the wood?

ANSWER: Turpentine is a solvent for wax; use it liberally to remove all traces of wax. The liquid is inflammable, so ventilate the room while working and shut off all pilot lights and refrigerator. If you wish to apply another stain of the same color, this can get right on over the old one, although the second staining will make the color still darker. If you wish to lighten the color, you can apply a wood bleach, on sale at large paint stores.

Through the years, in good times and bad, few things have given so much for so little as your telephone.

Its value in some instances cannot even be estimated.

A single call may save a life... make a friend... save hours of time... close an important business deal.

Yet a telephone call continues to be one of the biggest bargains money can buy. The cost of telephone service has gone up far less than most other things in recent years. Day and night your telephone stands ready to make calls — and to receive them.

And, while providing a service of great value, your Telephone Company is also one of the largest employers, taxpayers and purchasers in the state — a good citizen of the communities it serves.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Plumps for Brannan Plan; Union of European Nations Urged; Publicity Asked in Dollar Parley

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of the newspaper.)

FARM AID:
No "Setups"

Whatever else his critics might say of President Truman, they couldn't charge him with picking any "setups" when he sets out to do battle. The President has a faculty, it seems, for jumping quickest to the defense of measures and proposals that have the least public support.

THIS was the case in the President's latest taking-up-of-arms for controversial causes. He espoused the Brannan plan of farm price supports in a speech at Des Moines. He warned that the nation faces unmanageable and costly crop surpluses, and urged a "modernization" of the farm price support system on the basis of the Brannan production-subsidy program.

This is an issue which promises to be one of the liveliest in the 1950 congressional elections, and if the President was aiming to beat his opponents to the punch on the issue, he had succeeded.

The President's recommendation was made in the face of disagreement among his own congressional leaders as to the best farm price subsidy program to adopt and organized opposition by many farmer groups against the Brannan plan.

MR. TRUMAN called the Brannan plan the most "promising method yet suggested," but left open the possibility that some other system could be substituted.

The Brannan plan is one, briefly, wherein prices on practically every farm commodity would be left to find their own level on the market with the government paying a subsidy to farmers in the form of the difference in price between what farm products brought on the open market and the established parity price.

Opponents of the plan point out that while the consumer might appear to be saving money on cheaper market prices for farm products, he would, in reality, be saving nothing, inasmuch as it would be his money that would be paying for the subsidy to the farmer.

COMMANDER:
Some Dispute

Amid charges that he was the candidate of the "kingmakers," and was under the domination of the old line leadership, George N. Craig, 49-year old Indiana attorney was elected commander of the American Legion. He was the first World War II veteran to be chosen for the post.

THE 3,344 delegates to the Legion's Philadelphia national convention gave Craig an overwhelming majority on the first vote. Craig's opponents took the rostrum at nominating time to label him the choice of those they claim always select the organization's national commander.

ELECTION of officers climaxed convention sessions in which the Legion urged continuation of aid to China, adopted a resolution asking the U.S. to curtail "as far as possible" any further immigration at the present time.

HIGHWAYS:
Rough Going

Thirty-four of these United States need $3 billion dollars worth of work done on their roads.

This huge highway repair bill, forecast by Senator O'Mahoney (D. Wyo.) was disclosed after a nationwide survey of road needs. THE PICTURE was not as dark as it seemed. O'Mahoney pointed out the condition will serve as a backlog which "will afford an unmeasured market for business and industry."

He declared that everyone is aware of the depreciation of the American road system during and following the war, but added that "few, I am sure, appreciate the tremendous backlog of essential work which has piled up."

As chairman of the congressional joint economic committee, the senator recently sent inquiries to governors and highway authorities in every state to determine their highway construction and repair needs.

HE REPORTED 40 states had responded and that of those, 34 indicate an accumulation of highway deficiencies which would require the expenditure of 20 billion dollars or more.

The information obtained has been turned over to the U.S. bureau of public roads.

'DIVORCEES ANONYMOUS'

Women Organize to Slow U.S. Divorce Rate

Unhappy because they felt that in too many cases they rushed to the divorce courts too soon, a group of Chicago women have formed a group which they hope will have some effect in slowing down the accelerating U.S. divorce rate.

They call their group "Divorcees Anonymous" and their major aim is to salvage other marriages which are headed for divorce.

Tito's Envoy

With Russians reported to be massing troops at his borders, Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito sent Dr. Josa Vilfan (above) as his envoy to lay the Yugoslav-Moscow dispute before the United Nations.

EUROPE:
Stronger Ties

At Strasbourg, France, the council of Europe's consultative assembly called for creation of a union of European countries with real power in a limited range over the governments of member nations.

There are many students of world problems who are convinced this procedure is the only one which may eventually do away with war; but being realists, they concede that man has not progressed in selfless thinking to a degree where governments will agree to overall control of any kind or degree.

THUS it appeared the idea broached at Strasbourg was doomed at its inception, but men of goodwill must keep trying, no matter how difficult the task, if world peace is ever to become more than an illusory goal.

It has not been too difficult to get the best minds committed to a problem to see the way to its solution; the obstacle always has been that the individuals to whom the procedure must be entrusted fall in the scope and breadth of the wisdom necessary for solution.

So, when the 12-nation assembly meeting in France voted by an overwhelming show of hands for federal authority for the council of Europe, it was a manifestation of hope and desire, rather than any real accomplishment.

THAT the delegates were on good, solid ground is indicated by this portion of the resolution for federal authority:

"The government should undertake systematic instruction of the great mass of the people, pointing out to them the undeniable advantages of union for Europe and at the same time the dangers inherent in national isolationism."

DOLLAR PARLEY:

Information, Please

Great Britain took the lead in stripping any secrecy from the progress of the critical conference on England's dollar crisis.

OFFICIAL SOURCES credited Sir Oliver Franks, the British ambassador, with a proposal that detailed daily reports be made in order to keep the American, British and Canadian people advised of developments.

This system of daily briefings has been followed at meeting of the Big Four council of foreign ministers in the past, although top-level international postwar financial conferences have been a bit more secretive.

The publicity problem was among the first which had to be ironed out by the principals in the monetary discussions, as decisions will have a vital bearing on reducing British dollar drain and bolstering her position.

THE PROPOSAL for daily briefings was said to have support from Dean Acheson, U.S. secretary of state, but the attitude of John Snyder, treasury boss, was unknown when the proposal was first broached.

The federal administration already had indicated congressional leaders would be kept informed on the progress of the conference.

The British proposed that officials of the three powers take turns about in giving the briefings to the press.

CLOAK & DAGGER:

Russian Wise Guy

It was beginning to appear—as pieces of the picture fell together—that Uncle Sam had been played more or less for a sucker by a Russian wise guy who pretended to be won over to the American ideology by the Voice of America broadcasts, and who wanted to come to America and be a United States citizen.

LAST October 9, two Russian air force lieutenants, Anatol Borzov and Peter Pirigov, landed in the U. S. zone of Austria in a stolen Russian bomber. They had had enough of Russia, they said, in effect, and would like to become U.S. citizens.

According to the Soviet Embassy, Borzov suffered a change of heart late in July and begged for "prodigal son" treatment. Meanwhile, U.S. agents had discovered the "change" and Borzov was arrested by U.S. agents and held secretly at Ellis Island. Then he was flown to the U.S. zone of Austria and returned to Russian jurisdiction.

DURING the interim, Pirigov, who says he wants to stay in America, told newsmen that Borzov tried to bribe him with Soviet embassy funds to return to Russia. It was reported that Pirigov had been beaten by Soviet agents.

The one essential element in the chain of events as to whether it proved Borzov a spy was missing. That was confirmation. The U. S. state department would neither confirm nor deny any of the stories being circulated.

IT merely revealed that a U. S. note on the Borzov affair had been delivered to the Soviet Embassy.

There is an old, old adage that it is "very easy to believe what one wants to believe." It may have been that sort of wishful thinking that led state department officials to smile benignly on Comrade Borzov's desire to "change" allegiance and become as one with Americans.

'FAIR DEAL':

Author Liked

President Truman continued in a fighting mood. He told newsmen he was going to keep Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan as his military aide—apparently despite anything the current "5 per center" probe might develop.

Then, setting the theme of the 1950 congressional campaign, he lashed out with a slashing attack at his recent pet aversion—"organized selfish interests" which, he asserts, are trying to block his fair deal program with a "scare-word campaign."

HE DECLINED to name the "selfish interests," still campaigning against the 80th ("do nothing" he called it) congress. Evidently, Mr. Truman felt he knew a good thing when he saw it. If he could be elected to the presidency—when few felt he had a chance—by campaigning against the 80th congress, campaigning against it again ought to do good for his side in 1950 ballot tests.

Getting away from the 80th for the moment, he talked about the first congress, declaring that the Democrat-controlled legislators had made progress with his Fair Deal program in the teeth of "trumped-up slogans" like "statism," "welfare state," "collectivism," and "socialism."

THE PRESIDENT said the people will not be disturbed by such "scare words" dreamed up by a "lot of paid agitators, promoters and publicity experts who make a fat living by frightening the people in the high-income groups about forward-looking legislation and by organizing campaigns against it."

Cold-Water Suit

Looking like a swizzle-stick in a giant-size highball, Melvyn M. Maki is shown demonstrating the navy's new submergence suit which will enable his wearer to spend as many as three hours in freezing water.

NEW LOOK:

Next, the Male

The American male would be smart to move cautiously, for fashion designers have launched a movement to give men's clothes a "new look" every five years.

"The men's apparel industry is in bad shape," was the dim view of the situation expressed by Myron Kahn, executive director of national fashion previews of men's apparel, incorporated. He complained of no changes.

PONTIFF AND HIS AMERICAN VISITORS . . . Pope Pius XII rests at his summer residence at Castelgondolfo, Italy, and receives as visitors two Catholic church dignitaries from the United States. They are Edward Cardinal Mooney (left), Detroit, and Samuel Cardinal Stritch (right), Chicago. They visited the pontiff during their "ad limina" visit to the Eternal City.

"SALUTARY" CONFINEMENT . . . "Sneepy," pet cow of little Miss Leah Lampman, 4, of Oscoda, Wis., never "had it so good," although she is a prisoner. Being confined with plenty of nutritious food and enough drinking water should make her a healthy bovine. Her prison is a silo, and she wasn't freed until the silo was filled. "Sneepy" jumped through a 24-inch hole and dropped 14 feet to the bottom of the silo to get herself into her plight.

FIRE RAVAGES FOREST . . . Fire out of control is one of man's worst enemies and it can plunder a large territory much faster than an invading army. A recent forest fire near San Diego, Calif., swept 7,000 acres in three days and raced toward the heavily wooded Cleveland national forest. Here, men of the state forestry service battle racing wall of flame near town of Deluz, Calif.

THESE LITTLE PIGGIES WON 20 . . . They went to market for the Boston Red Sox and brought back 20 victories. That many victories are enough to make any pitcher smile, but being the first to reach that plateau is even more of a thrill. That could be why hurler Mel Farnell (left) got his battery mate, Birkie Tobbits, to add an extra smile and 10 fingers for the accomplishment. The combined efforts of this team allowed Farnell his 20th win.

MADCAP PRINCESS . . . Superstition hath it that females born at Glamis castle, as was England's Princess Margaret Rose, will wed before they are 28. The princess has just turned 19. Here she poses for her portrait.

MASH EASH . . . Nolan Fieldridge, San Francisco, was sued by his wife in Los Angeles for divorce on grounds she is allergic to him. She says she breaks out in rash from head to toe every time she is near her mate.

SPECIAL "INVITE" . . . Richard, radio's talking parrot, signs an invitation to Ryan, a bird living in President Truman's temporary home; Blair House, to break bird seed with him on a radio program.

"BUSTED" . . . Col. William L. Lee, March Field, Calif., had too much "push" and not enough "pull" when he commanded 15th air force in Italy. He pushed influential John Maragou in the face for "sticking his nose into things" and was demoted from general to colonel.

MARAGON IN NUM . . . John Maragou refuses to testify at Washington investigation of business peddling on grounds of self-incrimination. Federal grand jury has indicted Maragou and declared $20,000 for taxation.

... FIGHT TO FINISH IN BIG LEAGUES

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. TWITCHELL ANALYZES

LOOK FOR the most exciting race in years in both baseball leagues," declared Elmer Twitchell, eminent sports fan, pinocle player and antique nutpick collector, today.

Various breakfast foods will fight it out to the finish in both leagues, and any one of them can win.

"It has been a very good race so far, with the American league a little faster with the clear-cut commercials, but with the National league clearly outclassing it with the more informal testimonials to popular products. I don't recall a baseball race when the appeals to radio fans to hurry to the icebox for a cold drink were done with such spirit and form.

"In both major leagues the boys who bat out the commercials were in there trying at all times and they rarely failed to come through in the pinches. The game, it seems to me, is much faster than it used to be. When I was a boy, a game would go on all afternoon with no reference to a cigar—a lubricant or a drink. The emphasis seemed to be on garters and cathartics all via the old-fashioned billboards. Advertising as a handmaiden of the national game was minimized. You could take it or leave it.

"Today from the opening cry of 'Play Ball' the contest jingles with sales talks. They are not only using the livelier ball but livelier jingles and selling arguments.

"For years I took my baseball without having my sales resistance knocked over the fence, but today it happens to me in every inning.

"Hitting, pitching and base running have improved tremendously in baseball. So have circulation and merchandising. The twirling is much better. The announcer throws the commercial with terrific speed but also has a change of pace.

"They say that whoever is ahead July 4 will finish as the pennant winners. The Dodgers and a couple of breweries were out front on that date this year in one league and the Yanks and tobacco away out ahead in the American. I look for no great change.

"The final result may be influenced somewhat by mishaps. One of the top announcers in the American league has developed calcification of the vocal delivery and may be out a few weeks. And two announcers in the National are out with lame tonsils."

"What do you think of the Athletics?" we asked. "I would have to know more about the product they sponsor," replied Mr. Twitchell.

FATHER AND SON

Q.—Popper, what is a British dollar crisis?

A.—The British dollar crisis? Ahem. Well, er, it is a crisis over dollars. The British have trouble buying things with the American dollar.

Q.—Like mommer does?

A.—Yes, in a way. Haven't you any home work to do?

Q.—But, popper, isn't a dollar a dollar in England just as much as in this country?

A.—No, my son. I think the Willis boy is outside calling for you.

Q.—Answer my question first popper.

A.—Well, er, the dollar is an American unit. The British use pounds.

Q.—Pounds of what?

A.—A pound is their unit of money. An Englishman never asks "Lend me 10 dollars." He asks "Lend me 10 pounds."

Q.—If we say we haven't any pounds and offer Elm dollars will he refuse to take the money?

A.—Don't be fantastic. Of course he takes the money, but he won't spend it in dollars.

Q.—Then what good are dollars to him?

A.—The kids are playing ball across the street. Don't you need fresh air?

Q.—Popper, what is a sterling area?

A.—It is an area where sterling is the monetary base. Various countries use different kinds of money but it is converted into sterling, and where's your teacher's mitt?

Q.—Is the dollar worth more than the other kinds of money, popper?

A.—It is worth so much more that the British can't afford to use it to buy things until next September. Now beat it.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Turpentine in Cleaning When an article is cleaned with turpentine, the odor often lingers on; but you can hasten its departure by steaming the garment in the bathroom while the hot shower is running and then airing it outdoors for one full day.

Trimming Wicks In trimming the wick of an oil lamp or oil heater, the handiest thing to use is a single-edge razor blade. With oil heater wicks, saw straight across, and use the metal clips in the wick as a guide.

Candles If a candle is a little too small for the holder, you can make it firm by dipping the holder—provided it's metal—into piping hot water for a few minutes to get it hot before inserting the candle.

Preventing Rust To prevent the rust of your washing machine from rusting, pour a cupful of soda chips or soap powder over the bottom of it when the day's washing is done. This helps to discourage rust, but the soap isn't wasted. When the next wash day comes, just pour hot water over the soap for a new batch of suds.

Today in a Troubled Hour TODAY in a troubled hour I doubted God, And then was ashamed, For there came a voice through the darkness, calling to me, That clearly named Those far-off times when I had cried aloud In my pain and grief, Reminding me that unfailingly God's hand Had brought relief; Bidding me wait and hope, bidding me trust Until I could see That he who had never failed, still will not fail... It comforted me As a mother comforts her ailing child, and my faith That had been so small Suddenly grew as the young corn grew in the sun: Straight and tall. GRACE NOLL CROWELL

BROWN-HAIRED, blue-eyed Marta Toren was discovered by a film writer at the Royal Dramatic Academy in Stockholm, where Greta Garbo and Ingrid Bergman also studied. The writer tested her, and as soon as Universal-International executives saw the test they signed her. "Sword in the Desert," her fourth picture, in which she appears with Dana Andrews and Stephen McNally, makes her a full fledged star. She studied ballet till she was 13, wanted to become an actress when she finished high school, but her father persuaded her to become a secretary instead. Three years of that, then she broke away, and dramatic school came next.

"Sword in the Desert" is the first Hollywood film to deal with the smuggling of settlers past the British blockade in Palestine. Full of action, it moves rapidly, gives film-goers plenty of excitement for their money.

"Cavalcade of America," back on the air Monday nights on NBC, will once again have top stars in top vehicles. It not only brings the stories of great personages to its milks, but also those of little known people who have contributed significantly to the American way of life. Such stars as Irene Dunne, Raymond Massey, Charles Boyer and Dorothy McGuire appear on it.

Lloyd Bridges says you can't overestimate what luck does for a movie career. "It took me 12 solid years of struggling in Hollywood before I got my first decent break in 'Home of the Brave.' Then Eagle-Lion gave me the lead in 'Trapped.' Since it was finished I've been offered dozens of other breaks." Modest Mr. Bridges says nothing about what his talent has contributed.

The Fiction 'HELPLESS' ANNE Corner By Richard H. Wilkinson

THROUGH the opening in the trees above the woods road Langford could see the dull glow against the sky. It was growing brighter by the minute, and now the smell of smoke was strong. In his ears there was the distant and ominous roar—of crackling flames. He stumbled forward, his breath a sobbing gasp in his throat, his face white and drawn from the strain of running. It seemed that he had run a thousand miles, though he knew it was not more than eight. Eight at the most. That meant there were still three to go before he reached the river. Then he'd have to swim across and make another mile up the slope to his cabin. By then it might be too late. By then the fire might have swept down on the little log structure and destroyed it, and what it contained, Anne and little Bobby. He closed his eyes to shut out the picture. After a while he stood up and went on. The glow against the sky was brighter, bright red and orange and yellow. Against it he could see billowing smoke clouds and occasional showers of sparks. That meant the flames had reached the ridge behind the cabin. In another moment they would be sweeping down the slope toward his clearing. His spirits sank. He choked as the smoke grew thicker and the air suffocating. Above him he heard the wail of a rising wind, and above the wind there was the increasing roar of the fire. Anne wouldn't understand until it was too late. She was helpless about such things. It couldn't be much more than a mile, he told himself. He called on his last ounce of energy and fought ahead. Suddenly a wild hope beat in his heart. He looked up and there at his very feet was water. The river! He had come faster than he thought. But abruptly the hope died. Looking across he stared into a solid sheet of flame and smoke belching sparks. The entire slope of the hill, which was between the river and his cabin, was aflame. Greasing, he sank to his knees. Before him the river hissed and steamed as flying fragments fell into it. Its black depths mirrored the heaving tongues of flame with terrible beauty. Watching with horrible fascination, Langford's heart suddenly gave a bound. He leaped to his feet and plunged into the water, shouting. Fifty feet from shore a dark silhouette had come into the path of orange reflection, wobbling crazily but moving steadily toward the shore. Atop it, was a huddled bundle of something, that moved and propelled the silhouette forward with awkward, clumsy strokes. LANGFORD WADED to his arms—pits—and then started to swim. He called again and a voice answered him, telling him to go back. But he didn't. And presently the silhouette ranged alongside and Anne's frightened eyes were peering into his own. "Bobby?" he gasped. "He's here, under the blankets. And I saved the hens too, and a lot of our personal things." Langford helped push the improvised raft ashore. But it wasn't until Anne had alighted and he had carried Bobby to safety that he discovered the raft was the hen-coop he'd made for Anne's chickens. Four or five boards were laid across its top and lashed together with part of the wire. "It was the only thing I could carry," Anne was saying, "I took the boards from the fence. The chickens are all in the bur-lap bag, and our things are slung in a box on the other side of the river." Langford stared at her and for no accountable reason he began to laugh. It was a curious sound, not wholly rational. But the incongruity of it was justified, for it had occurred to him what a stupid fool he'd been to think Anne helpless.
