Fewer Pedestrians Figure In 1948 Traffic Deaths

CHICAGO.—Fewer pedestrians walked themselves to death during 1948 than the year before.

There were 9,850 pedestrian traffic deaths last year, according to the 1949 edition of "Accident Facts," statistical yearbook of the National Safety Council. This was 3 per cent below the 1947 total of 10,450.

The yearbook points out that last year was the first since motor vehicle deaths have been tabulated by type of accident that pedestrian deaths were fewer than deaths from two-vehicle collisions.

A TRUE EXPERIENCE OF JAMES F. BRADSHAW IN AN ARKANSAS TORNADO

1 "Near midnight, we heard it! A sighing whisper... a fall... a whining gust of wind... a deathly silence... a shrieking blast! And the full fury of the tornado struck! My wife screamed! My child whimpered! I grabbed my flashlight. Suddenly... the whole house churned... lifted... spun in air. Everything crashed into blackness.

2 "I came in. I had been home from the home for a girl. My flashlight still burned. Frantically, I followed its steady beam along the ditch until I saw the white faces of my injured wife and child!

Sgt. Ollin A. Roper

Born Nov. 3, 1914 at Nocona, Texas. Moved with his family to Corona, N. Mex. Feb. 2, 1932 and made that his home until entering the Armed Forces in March 1941. He was sent to Ft. Bliss for training, then in August 1941 was sent to the Philippines and was one of the boys that went through the death march and still survived. He was a member of the 200 Coast Artillery.

He passed away July 14, 1942 at the age of 27 years, 8 months, and 11 days. He was married to Miss Dorothy Porter before entering the Armed services. Married Dec. 10, 1940.

He is survived by his wife, his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roper of Ft. Sumner, on brother, Sam Roper Jr. of Ft. Sumner and four sisters, Mrs. Willa Lois Cones of Ft. Sumner.

Mrs. Irene Stoneman of Clovis, Mrs. Gladys Cline of Clovis, and Mrs. Thelma Stoneman of Captain A so other relatives and friends.

IN MEMORY OF SGT. OLLIN A. ROPER

In memory of Ollin we have this to say: As we think and pray on this memorial day, in memory of him who gave his life so dear for the things we treasure and hold very near.

Ollin loved his country and heeded her call, and for our beloved America, he gave his all. Ollin to the very last was faithful and true to the colors he loved, the red, white and blue.

He is safe in Heaven's barracks, there. Yes safe from every pain and care. He is happy with his Captain dear, safe from every toil and care.

Though our loss is his great gain, yet the parting gives us inward pain. As he went to the services of our country dear, we bade farewell with trembling and much to fear.

But we know while weeping and thinking about it all, we have consolation he was ready for the call. Jesus is his Lord and Captain there, where no sin or woe can reach or tear.

Yes, he now has gone to his home above, to be where all is peace and joy, but we can meet on that shore and dwell together forever more.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Control Atom, Keep Alert: Baruch; Senate Clashes on Price Supports; U. S. Seeks Method to End Strikes

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

A-CONTROL: 'Truly Effective'

After President Truman's announcement on September 23 of an atomic explosion in Russia, U.S. citizens worked up a kind of peculiar, detached tension that seemed to have been born out of the expectation that somebody—maybe Bernard Baruch—ought to say something significant pretty soon about the world and the atom bomb.

And Mr. Baruch, who is the author of the plan for international atomic control that was rejected by the Soviets in 1946, measured up to the demand for an opinion by coming out with what looked to be some practical suggestions.

PRIMARILY, he urged that "nothing less than a truly effective" system of international control be put into effect.

He supplemented this major point with three other recommendations as to how to face up to the Russian atom:

1. Pending such "safe and sure" control, make every effort "to maintain our overwhelming advantage" in the development of atomic weapons.

2. Re-examine our strategy for peacemaking.

3. Enact a standby mobilization plan, including civilian, defense, immediately.

BASIC IDEA, of course, is for the U.S. to do its moral best with the olive branch, but in the meantime keeping a gun handy, just in case.

Baruch's conception of a mobilization plan would include price, wage and rent controls, rationing priorities and anti-profiteering measures.

Russia's counter-proposal to international control—the outlawing of the bomb and international agreements to destroy all existing stocks of the atom bomb—oversimplifies the problem, Baruch said.

HE WARNED that a would-be aggressor could divert "peaceful" atomic material to "international blackmail and destruction."

STRIKES: Economy Throttled

The history making double basic-industry strikes—coal and steel—were rapidly throttling the nation's economy as the first week of the twin work stoppage drew to a close, causing:

- 1. The layoff of about 100,000 white collar workers whose clerical services no longer were needed.
2. Furlough of 49,029 railroad men.
3. Curtailment of Packard motor company operations.
4. Reduction of steel output to an anemic 0.2 per cent of capacity.
5. Daily loss of 30 million dollars worth of business in the steel and coal industries alone.
6. Daily loss of 11 million dollars in wages to nearly 900,000 striking steel and coal workers.

President Truman had indicated that he planned no direct government intervention in the strikes, but Federal Mediator Cyrus Ching was trying to figure out a new attempt to settle the disputes.

With the steel mills and coal mines idle, Ching's massive problem was to find a workable solution first of all to the pension demands of Murray's United Steelworkers and Lewis' United Mine Workers. Making it more difficult was the fact that neither the industry leaders nor the unions were in mood to make any concessions.

An added grim note was sounded by Phillip Murray, CIO leader, when he warned that still another 500,000 of his steelworkers would be going on strike by the end of October unless the company-financed six-cent pension and four-cent insurance program was accepted by the steel industry.

What happened to the 3 per cent inquiry that was hotter than a two-dollar deep freeze box a month or two ago?

According to Senator Hoey (D., N.C.), who heads the special senate subcommittee which studied whether federal buying was improperly influenced, the probe probably won't be resumed this year; although the senator indicated that he might release a report on it soon.

"FOR ALL practical purposes the investigations already is completed," said Hoey.

However, the subcommittee was still waiting to get the testimony of James V. Hunt and David Bennett, both of whom were described as being too ill to take the stand.

Hunt is the Washington management counselor who allegedly collected fat fees for his help in seeking government contracts for others. He was the one who said, "All I have to sell is influence." Bennett is head of the Chicago perfume house which footed the bill for several home freezers presented in 1946 to Maj. Gen. Harry

Confidences

Trygve Lie (left), secretary general of the United Nations, chats with Bernard Baruch at dinner during which Lie received the third annual award of the American Association for the United Nations for distinguished service to the U.N.

HIGH SUPPORTS: Good or Bad?

Despite worried administration warnings against setting farm price supports so high as to "price the farmer out of the market," the senate went ahead to hit a new parity ceiling for six basic groups.

Senators Young (R., N.D.) and Russell (D., Ga.) spearheaded the successful drive for an amendment to peg support prices on wheat, cotton, rice, corn, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity. Previous support prices on those crops had been 75 per cent of parity.

SEN. SCOTT LUCAS of Illinois, senate Democratic leader and voice of the administration in this case, had opposed the Young-Russell amendment to Sen. Clinton Anderson's bill and had fully expected that it would be defeated in the senate.

But after a lusty battle, the measure was sent back to the agriculture committee where attempts were made to work out a compromise.

Senators Anderson, Aiken and Lucas had argued that a high-support measure, keeping food prices high, might one day cause consumers to rebel and possibly throw out the entire price support program. Backers of the 90 per cent parity legislation contended that any serious lag in farm prices could set off a depression affecting the whole national economy.

THERE MATTERS stood for the time being. Prior to the senate fight on the support bill, however, Sen. Scott Lucas had delivered himself of an opinion that could, under the right circumstances, turn out to be prophetic:

"When the government continues to subsidize a little more and a little more all the time—without sticking to a farm program dealing with the basic commodities that can be controlled—you are taking a chance that the whole thing may be struck down."

BIRTHDAY: U. N.'s Fourth

October 24 is United Nations Day. The organization, wherein repose the hopes for peace of all free and thinking men, is just four years old—four years old as the passage of time goes, but already ageless in its experience and the good it has accomplished.

WHAT HAS THE United Nations done since it first convened during the immediate aftermath of World War II in 1945?

First of all, it has constantly kept the hope and prospect of peace alive in the minds of the world's people. It has come to mean, to the common man, a functioning object lesson that "working it out is better than shooting it out."

The U.N. already has definitely stopped three wars—in India, in Palestine and Indonesia.

IT IS LEADING millions of non-self-governing territories toward the realization of self-government.

On the basis of the best evidence, the U.N. has contributed enormously toward the job of keeping the peace won through the bloodshed of World War II.

The birthday of the United Nations—October 24—is a day to fix in memory: Odds are that in terms of human achievement and benefit and the dignity of man, history will write that date as being one of unparalleled significance and importance.

Border Backfire

When the Russians eased their border travel restrictions at Frankfurt, Germany, to draw west Germans into the Soviet zone for Communist "Peace Day" demonstrations, the results were reminiscent of the fabled halibut with the pointed head who ran 90 yards for a touchdown—the wrong way.

Thousands of eastern Germans poured into the western zone, while

Current Events

Here are five questions, based on recent happenings in the news, which are practically impossible to answer—unless your children give you enough time to read your newspaper before they start playing tag with you. Anyway, try them on your I. Q. for size.

1. Yugoslavia, aided by the U.S., recently bid for election to a seat on the U.N. security council. How many elective members are there on the security council?

2. News from London following the devaluation of the pound made frequent mention of the "shadow cabinet." What is it?

3. U.S. aid to foreign countries in fiscal 1949 totaled 5 billion dollars. Would you say Britain, Germany or France received the most?

4. Oklahoma voted recently to keep its 42-year-old statewide prohibition law. How many other all-dry states are there?

5. Guam, a U.S. possession formerly run by the navy, recently inaugurated its first civilian governor. When did the U.S. get Guam?

ANSWERS

- 1. Of the 11 seats, five are held permanently, six are elective. Elective members now are Argentina, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Norway and the Ukraine.
2. The phrase describes a group of leaders of the Conservative opposition, headed by Churchill.
3. Germany, 983 million dollars; Britain, 578 million; France, 259 million.
4. Mississippi is the only other state with a statewide prohibition law.
5. In 1898, by the Treaty of Paris, after the Spanish-American war.

SECURITY: On the Way

Judging from all the activity that has been generated around the idea recently, apparently the thing Americans are most concerned about is how they can keep a few dollars rolling into the family till each month after father reaches the ripe old age of 65.

Pension plans have been an issue in major strikes confronting the nation, and congress was coming up fast on the outside of a greatly expanded social security measure.

Even as the administration-sponsored bill was reported out onto the floor by the house rules committee, it had been fairly obvious that the house would approve this portion of President Truman's program.

Briefly, the current measure provides for:

- 1. An increase of 11 million in the number of workers covered by old-age and survivors insurance for a new total of 46 million.
2. An average 70 to 80 per cent increase in old-age benefits.
3. Creation of a new insurance system for persons who became totally and permanently disabled.
4. An increase in the payroll taxes by more than 200 per cent during the next 20 years.

At any rate, the prospects were bright for those legislators who were plumping for passage of the expanded social security law. Senator George (D., Ga.) chairman of the finance committee, freely predicted that the senate would pass the hopped-up social security program in 1950.

REVOLUTION: With Trailers

Tomorrow's butcher, baker and candlestick maker may desert main street to come rolling right up to Mrs. America's doorstep to sell their wares.

This minor revolution in retail salesmanship was forecast this week by America's trailer coach manufacturers as they prepared to display commercial and industrial trailer models at their first national exhibit in Washington, D.C. November 18-20.

In addition to a complete line of house trailers, the show will feature, among other specially-designed coaches, a well-stocked traveling grocery store, mobile beauty parlor, library, dental unit, field office and medical unit.

Hailed as a progressive step in relieving congested shopping centers and simplifying the housewife's marketing problems, the new trailer stores already are winning favor in both metropolitan and rural areas, say sponsors of the idea.

Tell that grocery store to wait, Mother—I'll be right out!

DEFENSE: Bacteriological

The city of Chicago, aware of the high attack priority it would have in the event of war, is becoming more defense conscious. About two weeks ago, Dr. Herman Bundesen, Chicago board of health president, convened the first conference ever called by any city in the world to protect its citizens from the threat of biological warfare. Said Bundesen: "There is vital need for planning..."

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: I have a dining room set with a lacquer finish. The top of the table is scratched. Could I just finish the top, or do I have to do the whole thing over?

ANSWER: If the finish is scratched all over, I believe you would get more satisfaction by doing a good job of refinishing the top in the right way, rather than varnishing over the scratches. You can take off the scratched lacquer with a small, portable electric sander, which can be either bought or rented in the larger cities.

QUESTION: I get the hot afternoon sun in my living-room and dinette. Is the old saying true—namely, that the sun will fade and ruin your furniture? I like the sunlight in the rooms and don't like to pull the shades down. Have you any suggestions on this problem?

ANSWER: If the fabrics are not sun-fast, they probably will fade to some extent. Slip covers would help to protect the furniture in the summertime. Some varnishes become checked if left exposed to direct sunlight. A hot sun also may cause a delicate or very old fabric to disintegrate.

The Fiction Corner THE CAPTURE

SHERIFF Sol Reck cautiously approached the cabin and knocked three times.

"That you, Sol?" Sol sighed in relief. "Hello, Baldy," he said, stepping inside.

"None," Sol heard Baldy fishing for a match, and he said. "Wait a minute, Baldy I got a scheme I want to work out."

"They've seen me," Sol went on. "Joe and Slim. They've been trailing me all day. I just kept far enough to avoid trouble."

"Avoid trouble? You?" Baldy's voice sounded incredulous. And Sol chuckled.

"Unless I stop 'em," said Baldy. "Right. Now get this; I'm leaving you here alone, see? Cover the windows and then light up. They'll think it's me inside here, all unsuspecting."

"Fine," said Baldy. "But what's wrong with me being on the outside and you on the inside?"

Sol laughed shortly. "A lot, you little squirt. Now pipe down and obey orders. I'm going."

Instantly he grew tense. Every muscle and nerve and fibre became alert. He half crouched, half stood in his hiding place.

"Reach toward the sky, boy! Drop those guns, and turn around. The jig's up. We got the drop on you!"

blackness near the cabin. It was followed by another. But before the two bandits could shoot again, the two six-guns in Sol's hands thundered.

Answering shots came from the cabin. Sol felt a searing pain in his left shoulder. His senses began to reel.

When Sol returned to consciousness he found himself lying on a bunk in the cabin. Baldy, grinning broadly, was standing over him.

"What the hell did you blow out that light for?" Sol wanted to know. "It spoiled my aim, made me stumble and nearly go me killed."

"Thought it would," Baldy grinned. "Wanted it to. You didn't think I was going to be fool enough to open the door and stand in the light so these birds could take pot shots at me?"

"Well what happened, anyway?" For answer Baldy pointed across the room. Sol looked and saw two men lying there, both bound accurately.

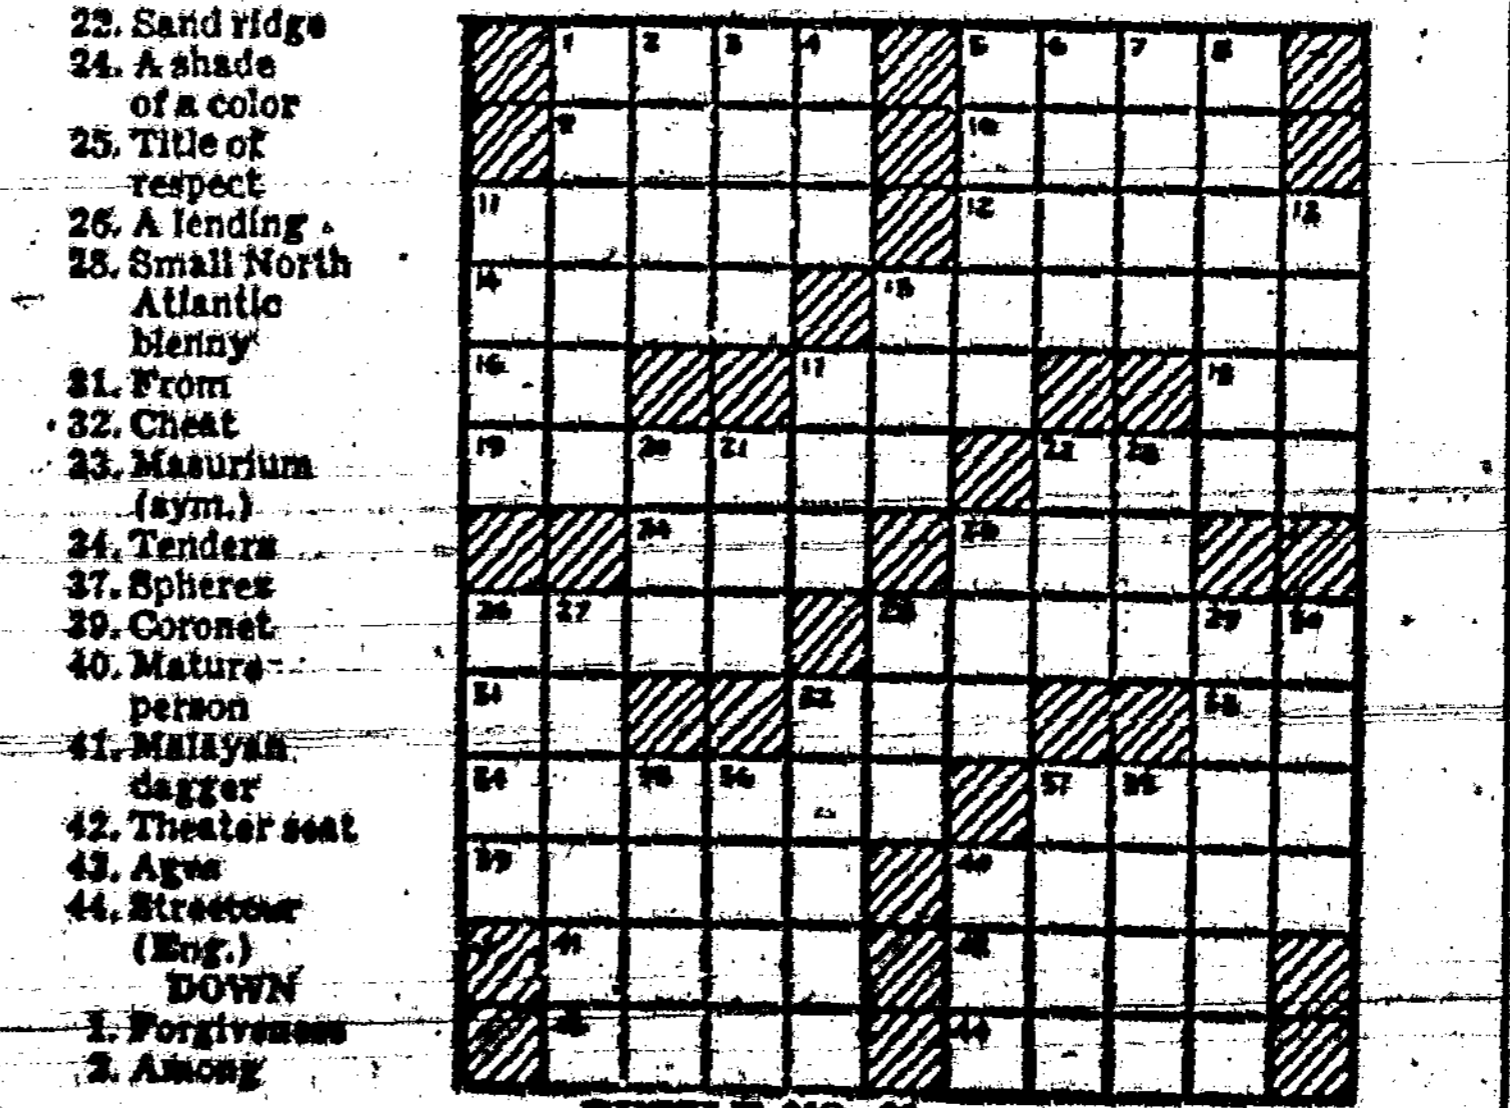

"Winged 'em?" Sol asked. "Winged nothing. I whacked 'em over the head from the doorway while they were shooting at you. By the way, you almost hit me with your own wild shooting."

"Wish I had," Sol grinned. "Say, squirt, you ain't so dumb as you look!"

"And I ain't so much of a squirt, either," Baldy replied indignantly. "Fact is I blew out that light just coz' I could show you what a big feller I was."
