Miniature Sawhorse Is Shoe Shine Box

IF YOU have been looking for a serviceable as well as decorative shoe shine box, the one illustrated above will prove of special interest. Actually it's a miniature copy of a sawhorse converted into a shoe shine box. Being of sturdy construction, it can be used as a "step-up" when needed in the kitchen, storeroom or in closets. The large box provides ample storage space for brushes, polishes and other needed shoe shining equipment. You also will find this cabinet an ideal place to store floor waxes, polishes, etc.

The full size painted paper pattern attached below really takes the mystery out of building. Each component part of the box is reproduced full size. After cutting all parts, according to the pattern, each one is fastened in exact position indicated. Hence only small pieces of wood are needed, one or several of these clover boxes can be had at small cost. Send 5c for Sawhorse Shoe Shine Box Pattern No. 45 to East-Bird Pattern Company, Dept. 'Soil Surgeon' Declared Seedbed-Making Boon

Performs Multiple Work, Cuts Needed Time in Half

A new, efficient device for producing finer, smoother seedbeds is the "Soil Surgeon" now on the market.

Designed for use in a plowed field only, the device does the combined work of a double-disc, spiked-toothed harrow and a float—and manufacturers declare it gives the farmer a finer, smoother seedbed in half the ordinary time.

The exclusive use of the soil surgeon after plowing does not turn up dormant weed seeds or plowed-under vegetation, thus giving a cleaner growing crop and richer soil. It levels the ground, fills all air pockets, and seals the moisture in the soil, thereby making for quicker germination and a higher yield.

This "soil surgeon" is designed for use in a plowed field only. It does the work of a double-disc, a spike-toothed harrow and a float—and is said to give you a finer, smoother seedbed in half the time.

Sturdy and simple, the soil surgeon consists of two heavy steel pans with raised sides, to permit loading with dirt for added weight. These may be used singly or bolted together, depending on the desired width to be covered.

To the bottom of each pan are bolted 29 double-edged cultivator knives, each provided with a bearing to permit it to follow easily and automatically the tractor's line of travel. These heavy-duty knives slice the four and one-half inches of soil into one-inch strips, while the action of the pan pulverizes, smooths and levels the sliced soil in a way not approached by any other instrument currently in use on the farm.

The field should first be worked in the direction of plowing, using as many sections side by side as the tractor can pull with weight adjusted. The final finish is obtained by pulling the soil surgeon across the line of furrows. The soil surgeon should also be used as a crust breaker for all incoming crops to mulch and kill small weeds.

Pacific Island Farm

"Pigs in pigs," no matter where you find them—even on the Pacific Island of Guam in the Marianas. On farms established by the U. S. naval government on Guam, American sailors instruct natives in modern agricultural methods. Produce from the farms is used for naval personnel (who are fond of food anyway) for the rehabilitation of the natives. In the photo an American seaman is driving some of the pigs to feed.

Proper Carburetor Use Cuts Farm Fuel Costs

A heavy tractor operating under a load with the carburetor slightly out of adjustment may burn a half-gallon more fuel per hour. In the average 50 days a year that farm tractors operate, the tractor may burn 250 gallons more fuel annually than it should.

Proper carburetor adjustment would save 10 per cent of the total fuel burned in farm tractors annually.

SERVE CHERRIES IN DESSERTS THIS MONTH!
(See Recipes Below)

CHERRY FAVORITES

FOR A MONTH which is short, February has more than its quota of holidays. Just in case you're entertaining for even one of these, I've planned a number of popular desserts from which you can take your choice.

Youngsters and oldsters alike will enjoy colorful desserts whether they're for family dinner or a party. You may serve them ice cream, cake or pudding, or pie. If that's your favorite dessert, and it's bound to be a hit.

Here are a number of top-notch cherry dessert recipes which may be used during this month or any other. Starting with a cherry pie filling, you'll find that several other desserts can be made from it. Filled cup cakes, cherry sundae topping or a cherry frozen pudding, all are made using the same, easy basic cherry sauce that is used for pie filling. The sauce may be stored in the refrigerator for later use or for quick snacks when company drops in to call.

YOU'LL FIND that canned cherries are convenient to use and somewhat lower in price than last year. The following recipes call for water-packed cherries. If you use those packed in syrup, reduce the sugar in the recipe to 1/4 cup.

All-Purpose Cherry Sauce

(Makes 2 1/2 cups)
1 No. 2 can red sour pitted cherries
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Heat the drained liquid from the cherries. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Sift into the boiling liquid and cook until thick and clear, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add butter and cherries.

Cherry Pie

Fill an 8-inch baked pie shell with 2 1/2 cups of the all-purpose cherry sauce. Garnish with 3 tablespoons shredded coconut mixed with 1 tablespoon grated sharp cheese.

Cherry Sundae

(Serves 4)
1 cup all-purpose cherry sauce
1 pint ice cream
Prepare the cherry sauce. Divide the ice cream into 4 servings. Top each with cherry sauce. Serve sauce hot or cold.

Cherry Filled Cup Cakes

2 1/2 cups all-purpose cherry sauce
10 cakes
Prepare the cherry sauce. Cut off tops of cup cakes and scoop out centers. Fill with cherry sauce. Serve with vanilla-flavored whipped cream.

Frozen Cherry Pudding

(Serves 8)
1/2 pint whipping cream
2 1/2 cups all-purpose cherry sauce
3 drops almond flavoring
Whip cream until stiff; fold in cold cherry sauce and flavoring. Pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator and freeze until firm but not hard.

IF YOU'RE looking for other cherry recipes with which to celebrate any event, you'll like the following selection. The first is a delicious cookie:

NOTICE TO FEDERAL INCOME TAXPAYERS

Your income tax return for the calendar year 1948 must be filed not later than March 15, 1949, with the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which you live or have your principal place of business.

While most taxpayers will be able to prepare their returns themselves, a Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue will be at the Court room of the Lincoln County Court house February 20th, 1949 between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. to give any advice or assistance needed. No charge will be made for this service.

Most taxpayers have already made substantial payments on their 1949 Federal tax through withholding from their wages or direct payment to the Collector, but, nevertheless, all taxpayers must file annual returns on or before March 15, 1949, as provided by law.

More than 2,200,000 Cub Scout, Boy Scouts, Senior Scouts and their adult leaders in every part of the nation will observe this 30th Anniversary.

POWER PLANT

that uses its Head!

THIS is the husky thrill-producer you find filling the bonnet of any 1949 Buick.

Look it over and you'll observe, among other things, that it is a valve-in-head straight-eight.

In simple language, this means that years ago Buick engineers lifted the valves from the side of the cylinder and put them on top—with some immediate advantages.

Such an engine "breathes" better. Gets a full, even charge on every intake—exhausts spent gases more easily—enjoys extra power, life and ginger.

And in such engines, compression ratios are relatively easy to establish. To step them up, the head is merely brought closer to the piston—no extra problems are presented getting fuel in and exhaust out.

Thus Buick power can—and has—kept pace with progress in fuels. Compression ratios suit gasolines actually available—and there's no waiting for tomorrow's gasolines to get full performance.

There are other things to notice about this engine.

It's a Fireball power plant—uses a special and exclusive type of piston that gets more good out of each fuel charge.

And it speaks with soft, new quiet. Self-setting valve lifters automatically keep valves properly seated, ending tappet noises for good.

With gasolines getting better, the swing to valve-in-head design will undoubtedly grow stronger. But that is what Buick has had all along—a power plant that uses its head to give extra lift and thrill.

That's enough reason to see your Buick dealer now, with or without a car to trade, to get your order in.

'TAKE the WHEEL ---Get the FEEL'

Ford Motor Company has a big national campaign on to get folks to take a ride in the '49 Fords. Seems like a smart idea to us— now that the new Chevy is out. So, we want to you to ride in a new Ford. Just ask, and you can take the wheel of my new six-cylinder. Stop me anywhere, any time. The same goes for Chet's fancy eight-cylinder convertible. Drive either one over the roughest street or road you can find. Then you'll know why Ford says "Take the wheel— learn the FEEL" of the '49 Ford.

Swap Talk

Other day two of your friends were swapping talk. One was Mr. Ernest N. Welloff. He claims no great genius, but does know something of what America has meant to him. Born of immigrant parents, he learned as a boy to work hard. Saved his money, later put it to work for other people. His business is manufacturing. He boasts the American Way, not so much for what it has done for him as for what it has enabled him to do for himself.

His employee, Willie B. Secure, is not so sure. He always thought "security" was simply saving up for the "rainy day." That is, until certain persons got hold of him. They just about convinced him that capitalists are his enemies. Willie's no Communist. He is just one of the 29 per cent of our population that believes company profits are 30 cents and more per dollar of sales. (Actually, they're less than 10 cents!)

Squeeze Play

This scene began as Willie met up with his idea of capitalism, Mr. Welloff. Neither of them are stuffed-shirts. They are quite on speaking terms.

Welloff: How're you getting along, Willie?

Willie: Pretty good, but not making as much as I'd like to.

Welloff: Neither is the company. We've got caught between prices and costs. Equipment is sky-high. Materials are sky-high. We can't increase prices much more. What's your trouble?

Willie: Same thing. Can't make ends meet.

Welloff: If only we could get more production, Willie, we might raise wages. Without more production, it would be tough on us. A tax cut would help, too.

Willie: You mean the company couldn't pay an increase? I thought it was plenty able to pay.

BOY SCOUT WEEK will be observed in Packs, Troops, and Senior Units through Parents' Nights, Special Courts of Honor, Indoor and Outdoor Campfires, Cub Circuses, Scout Expositions, Senior Scout Events, and other special activities.

Welloff: What we get comes from customers, Willie. We'd have to pass it on to the public. Your wages are part of our production costs. We collect your wages from our customers. Our workers get 90 per cent of our sales dollar last year.

Willie: You mean that the union is asking for wage increases from the people?

Welloff: You know those new automatic machines we've been planning on? They cost plenty. Should we pay raises out of money we put aside last year for those?

Willie: Well, no, Mr. Welloff. Just let me get my hands on one of those beauties. Betcha I can impress the foreman plenty!

Welloff: Sure. And your production will go up. Your higher production will help us get more income out of which we can gladly pay increases.

Willie: But, Eddle over there says the stockholders are taking us for a ride. They're rolling in dough, you know.

Welloff: Well, we paid them a dividend last year, but it didn't make them rich.

Good Security

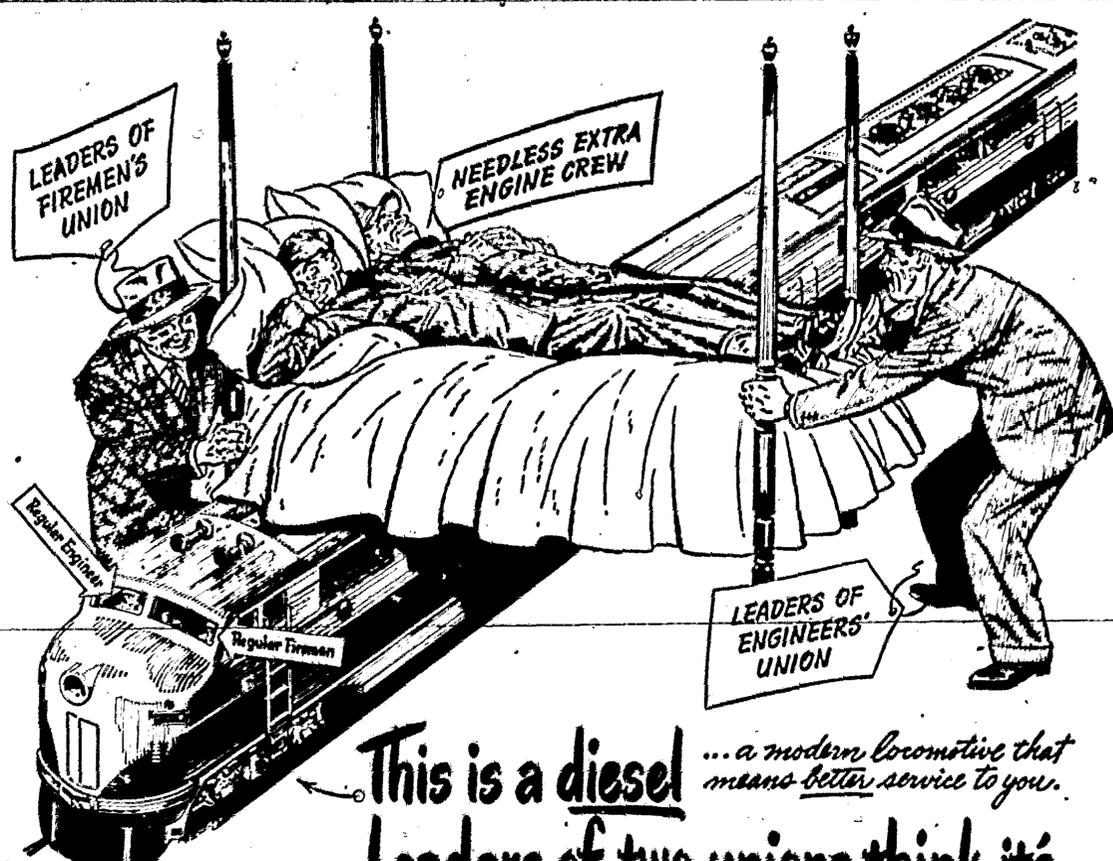

Willie: What did they do to deserve it?

Welloff: This big building we're in, and that annex we're putting up—our stockholders let us have money they'd saved. Their money has created jobs in this town.

Willie: They're Wall Street bankers and wealthy big-wigs, aren't they, Mr. Welloff?

Welloff: No. Most of our stock is owned by people like yourself, professional men and women, and small businessmen. People who have saved up a nest-egg.

Willie: You make it sound pretty good, here in America, Mr. Welloff. Guess I ought to be happy to have the kind of chance you had. That's pretty good security!

This is a diesel ... a modern locomotive that means better service to you.
Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed ... a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

● Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste—a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You

Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this feather-bedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads—of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol. Diesel crews are among the highest paid railroad employees—real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You

You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them on order for even greater improvement in service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You

But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against YOUR interests—as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work". Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch—and why they are telling you about them.

NEW MEXICO NOTES

From A Wheel Chair
By: Katherine B. Mabry

The Governor returned last week from his trip to Washington much refreshed. Maybe it is better that he could go alone this time. I sometimes wonder whether it is not good for the husband to have a little more away-from-home life than mine enjoys. He has had me with him on practically all such trips for the past thirty years.

I asked him what events he missed most during his absence and he said, without a moment's hesitation it was the state press convention at Albuquerque.

Although he enjoyed his eight years on the Supreme Court, no to say the nearly forty years which have been devoted to public service in one form or another, I know that his first love has always been the little newspaper he established and struggled so hard to maintain in the hard years of Clovis pioneering. It is quite understandable to me that his affection for the profession and newspaper men in general, should outlast all other attachments.

With state affairs seemingly running more smoothly now that experience, and familiarity with the duties and responsibilities of the office of the Governor on his side, I believe that the coming two years can be more profitable to the state and more certainly, more enjoyable for both.

Naturally, the time when the legislature is in session is the period which exacts of any Governor his longest working hours. He must be on hand to counsel, advise, to receive and sign bills which have been enacted into law and to receive and visit friends, and to entertain as much as possible.

When there is good feeling between the legislature and the executive, as it was two years ago and now, and when there have not been many changes in the department heads and institutional management, things should move along quite smoothly. I am sure that the greatest headache which the Governor is experiencing just now is that brought on by his anxiety to have many of the desirable things our state institutions need, but which the present times cannot afford.

It is hard to convince those wanting large budget increases, especially for salaries and needed expansion, that some way cannot be found to get the money. But I believe that all will want to be reasonable, and when the appropriations are finally agreed upon they will not be too displeased.

A government, like a household, must learn to live within its income. The family head, which in case of the government, is the taxpayer, must produce all that would be desirable, we should be content to accept the situation. Some high institutions of learning, for example, would like to have and could well use, new buildings and equipment, and to would the housewife like to have a new kitchen range. But can get along with what they have if to do otherwise would unbalance the budget and force them to do without some other necessary things.

Plans were drawn and provision made one four years ago for the building of a new Governor's Mansion here at Santa Fe, for example. But my husband could not see the sense of going to this great expense to replace a home which does very well, when many people could not because of high prices and scarcity of labor and materials and labor for the building of their own homes, and when state institutions were themselves in such great need for additional buildings. He vetoed the idea when he came into office. It is remarkable how we can get

WEEKLY SOUTHWESTERN MARKET TREND

Steady strong livestock markets tended to offset lower cotton grain and winter vegetables during the past week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports.

South Texas cattle markets recorded price advances of mostly 50 cents to $2, with Monday's cold weather market showing the most of the gain. Cows and Bull declined about 50 cents at Wichita, while other southwest terminals held about unchanged. Houston paid 24.75 for medium yearlings. Medium and good steers and yearlings cashed at $22 to $24.25 at San Antonio and $18 to $22.50 at Ft. Worth.

Most hogs, brought steady to 2 cents higher prices for the week, but prices fell $1 to $2 at Denver. Butcher top was $21 at Kansas City, Oklahoma City and Fort Worth, and $20.75 at Wichita and San Antonio. Sows spread from $15 to $18. Sheep markets ruled unchanged to slightly higher during the past week. Good and choice ewes brought $11 at Denver. Ewes sold up to $10.50 at Wichita, and $9.50 at Oklahoma City. Fort Worth took good ewes at $11. Goats advanced $1 at San Antonio. Common and medium nannies in the hair moved at $9.50.

Scattered lots of choice fine 12-month wools were contracted in Texas at 65 cents per grease pound.

Along on what we have when we make up our minds to do it.

Extravagance breed a extravagance. I believe it is good for us, both governmental agencies and people individually, to need and want things we cannot at the moment have. It teaches us economy and emphasizes the much needed lesson of accepting what is to be had with cheerfulness. We usually find the old, which we wanted to discard, will serve a good purpose yet.

f.o.b. Mohair eased a little in slow trading.

Bad weather cut egg receipts in the southwest and prices held firm to strong. Fryers showed a weak undertone, as an ice storm limited movement from Northwest Arkansas. Other poultry remained about steady.

Cabbage and carrots led general downturns on vegetables and citrus fruits at South Texas shipping points last week. Cold damp weather held back harvesting. Severe freezes over the week end may cause serious crop damage. Minimum temperatures Monday ranged from 23 at Brownfield to 20 at Crystal City. Ice and snow around Hammond, Louisiana, delayed strawberry harvest.

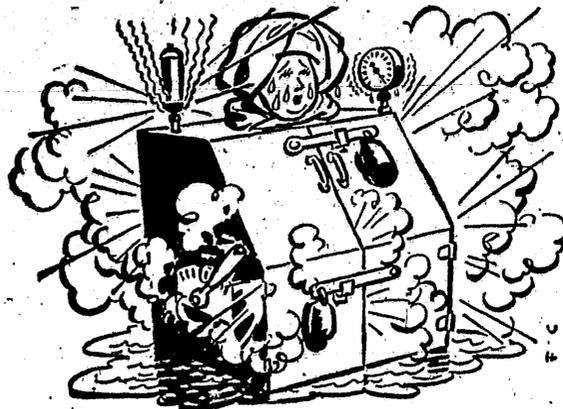

White sorghums and yellow corn dropped 4 to 5 cents for the week and white corn about 2 cents. No. 1 wheat closed Monday at $2.14 3/4 to $2.33 3/4 per bushel in bulk carload lots at Texas common points. No. 2 white corn sold round $1.74 and yellow corn $1.58. No. 3 mill brought $2.03 to $2.68 a hundred.

Rice markets held barely steady last week as growers began to offer rough rice more freely. Patna and Texoro sold from $12 to 12.50 per bushel.

Slow demand for liberal offerings lowered prices of most feeds last week. Bran and shorts sold around $54 a ton, and cottonseed meal $68 to $69 in carlots. Snow and ice created more demand for hay. No. 1 alfalfa brought around $40 a ton at Fort Worth and $30 at Kansas City. Peanuts sold higher. Cotton declined 50 cents to $1.25 a bale for the week. Spot middling 15/16 inch closed Monday at 32.00 cents a pound at Dallas and Houston and 32.70 at New Orleans.

The Boy Scouts of America is organized not only in the United States, but in Alaska, Hawaii, Canal zone, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam. Troops or Packs are also found in foreign countries where there are American boys.

What is the best way to endorse a check for deposit?

When depositing a check to your account, it is best to use a restrictive form of endorsement. This can be done by writing the words "For Deposit Only" on the back of the check and adding your signature. Should a check endorsed in this fashion be lost in the mail, it could not be cashed by a dishonest person into whose hands it might fall. Endorse checks carefully.

"THE QUEEN'S HANDMAID," to be presented on NBC's Monday "Cavalcade of America" this month, is ideal to display lovely Madeleine Carroll's talent. It's an original radio play by Virginia Radcliffe in which Madeleine plays the part of a beautiful French girl who is mistaken for Marie Antoinette. France is a familiar stomping ground of Miss Carroll's. During the war she

Madeline Carroll served there with the Red Cross and the U. S. Information Bureau. Following it she had her own radio program in Paris. She is married to a native Frenchman, Henri Lavorel. Currently Madeleine is starring on Broadway in a hit play, "Goodbye, My Fancy."

DICKIE ORLAN wants to be a comedian — and it seems he's well on his way toward his goal. As the jester of the Sunday MBS "Juvenile Jury" panel, 8 year old Dickie is often referred to as Arthur Godfrey, Jr. Dickie actually plants situations which will lead to punch lines and draw laughs from the audience. His quick mind and spontaneous sense of humor never fail him — nor does the response from the audience. He has a wonderful time at every broadcast because he loves people and is enthusiastic about any gathering that may be planned and clowns his way thru "Juvenile Jury" with infectious exuberance. With all his popularity Dickie is a completely likable and unassuming "guy" who never talks about his radio work.

AFTER SEVERAL TRYS at Hollywood, one at the age of 8 and another at 15, Jane Wyman was told by a Hollywood coach, "Your face doesn't go with your voice." Back in her home town of St. Joseph, Missouri, however, radio saw Jane's possibilities and she traveled across the country, for 2 years on radio under the name of Jane Durrell. Her first break in movies came when she appeared with Carole Lombard and William Powell in "My Man Godfrey." In 1935 she joined Warner Bros. studio and has been there ever since. Recently she proved that significant acting can be done with no voice at all in "Johnny Belinda," when she played the part of a deaf-mute. Her next to be released by Warner Bros. is "A Kiss in The Dark" which is fast moving, funny and a good example of Jane's versatile talent.

MANY YEARS AGO, at the age of 7, George Burns of NBC's Burns & Allen show, made his professional debut in the Peo Wee Quartet. In 1922 when he asked Gracie to be his partner, he was a song and dance man and was to be the comedian of the team. Gracie got most of the laughs, however, so George quickly changed his course to "straight man" and left the punch lines to Gracie.

Not long after that, following a long courtship, George changed Gracie's course by giving her just 10 days to make up her mind to marry. Nine days brought the answer which resulted in one of the happiest couples in show business. When it comes to after dinner speeches, George scores the laughs. He's one of the most popular emcees in the country and is in constant demand at dinners in honor of Hollywood's most famous names.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Record Budget Given to Congress; Acheson Confirmation Predicted; British Say Israel Menaces Peace

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

RECORD BUDGET:

Asked of Congress

President Truman, presenting a proposal for the largest peacetime budget in U. S. history to the congress, was greeted with the expected reaction. Democrats applauded, Republicans instantly demanded deep slashes in recommended outlay. It became evident quickly that the fight on adoption of the budget would be carried out strictly along party lines.

THE PRESIDENT declared it would take 41 billion, 858 million dollars to run the government right for the next year. And the punch line was that half of every American tax dollar would be spent to hold back the Communist tide in the world.

On a party line basis, approval of the budget was assured, assuming, of course, that the Democrats hold fast. The President had a comfortable majority in both houses and there should be no difficulty in getting his proposal adopted.

But the 41 billion-plus figure wasn't all. Mr. Truman served notice he will ask more funds later to supply arms to non-Communist nations, a step which would push the budget even higher.

THE ONLY possible bar to approval of the Truman budget was public reaction to the plan to finance with 50 cents of every American dollar anti-Red activities abroad. Would the people go along with American foreign policy and the theories of policy-makers that such a step was the only answer to Communist menace? Apparently the President is confident, because of his victory at the polls, that the people will support him in such a move and thus showed no hesitancy in his budget proposals nor in making his declaration that he plans to call upon the American people for even more money to stem the Communist tide.

Already thoughts are turning to the 1960 congressional elections and congressmen whose seats were not completely lullied by the 1948 Democratic sweep, may want to sound out the public sentiment on the huge expenditure program. If that is the case, public opinion may be the final factor in adoption of the budget.

PALESTINE:

Toll And Trouble

The British lion was roaring at a snail.

In a prepared statement, the English government declared that Palestine developments are "gravely threatening world peace."

Coupled with the dither was a report that Ernest Bevin, British foreign secretary, had offered to resign because of his Palestine policy and that Prime Minister Attlee had refused to accept the resignation.

THIS WAS instantly and emphatically denied.

All those developments came as Israel formally filed with the U. N. security council at Lake Success a complaint that the British were fomenting an "artificial crisis" over Palestine by troop movements and various actions just as negotiations were about to open with Egypt.

The British foreign office statement warned that the security council has been "losing control over events" and said it had a reason to fear new Jewish violations of the cease-fire orders in the Holy Land area.

Meanwhile, the critics of British policy in the Middle East prepared to demand that Secretary Bevin explain how it happened that five RAF planes were shot down by the Israelis near the Palestine border. Britain's air ministry asserted all five planes were shot down while flying over Egypt.

IT COULD NOT be denied that the situation was difficult. Broken down to its basic essentials, it is a condition where one people must, or have been told they must, give way to the infiltration of another people—the Jews moving into Palestine and the Holy Land area, the Arabs moving out. It has never been a secret that British sympathies, for whatever reason, lie with the Arabs and John Bull looks with jaundiced eye on the partition action and the influx of the Jews. But the United States and some other nations have sided with the movement to return the Jews to their homeland, and thus the stalemate.

It may yet require organization of action by a United Nations police force to settle the affair.

TRAILER DEMONSTRATION

Huge Exhibit Planned at Chicago Show

Desirability of life in a trailer coach will be demonstrated to Americans when manufacturers from seven states and three countries exhibit their models at the 1949 trailer manufacturers' association show in Chicago starting February 18 and continuing through February 27. The display will be housed in the International amphitheatre.

Truman's Flag

Here is the silk flag which was presented to President Truman at his inauguration January 20. It is held by Lucy E. Notaro, civilian employe, and Brig. Gen. Hugh B. Hester, commander of the Philadelphia quartermaster depot. The flag was made in the embroidery section of the depot.

ACHESON:

Should Make It

General belief was that Dean Acheson would be confirmed by the senate as secretary of state. Named by President Truman to succeed George C. Marshall, Acheson is certain to be taken over the hurdles in public hearings on his appointment.

Protégé of Justice Felix Frankfurter and former intimate and employe of Franklin D. Roosevelt, intimate with and former employe of Alger Hiss, Acheson must inevitably be reminded of these facts by some of his interrogators.

On the other hand, he can point to a long and distinguished record of public service in which his loyalties have never been questioned. But in view of the current spy hunt in Washington and Acheson's connection with some of its principal figures, it would be little less than a miracle if his appointment were to be unquestioned.

According to the record, Acheson began his state department career with an attitude sympathetic to Russia—that is, to the extent that he believed the United States should do everything possible to get along with the Russians. But, since Yalta and Potsdam, observers report that attitude has changed and he is now one of the most determined anti-communists.

The ghost of Franklin Roosevelt will walk and the echoes of the Yalta and Potsdam parleys will rustle as the Acheson hearings progress. But with Truman supporters firmly in the saddle, there is little doubt of Acheson's final confirmation.

DESTRUCTION:

Nothing to Chance

Destruction would be certain... there would be nothing left to chance if military scientists perfect their newest idea of a guided missile. This would be no "ordinary" guided missile. Instead, it would be one that would identify its target from a picture, then attack it.

That's no fantastic dream of the men who plan the weapons of war. A hint of its imminence was contained in a "glossary of guided missile terms" made public by the federal research and development board.

The glossary's reference to the subject was terse, saying merely this:

"Guidance, homing, active—A system of homing guidance wherein the source, for illuminating the target, and the receiver are carried within the missile."

Here was the general idea: A guided missile (it could be a rocket or merely a pilotless plane) fitted with a television set and a picture of the intended target—perhaps an aerial photograph of a city. The missile is launched in the general direction of the target. When it arrives at a point when the pattern of the picture matches what its television "eye" sees, the missile "homes in" on the target.

That's an over-simplified description because thousands of complex electronic actuating computing devices must make instantaneous and accurate reckonings; link the "eye" and the "brain" of the missile to its controls, and relay back to the base from which the missile was launched information on where it is and what it "sees."

Man's ingenuity in developing destructive devices apparently has not yet reached its zenith.

CHAIN STORES:

Food Dollar Chart

Despite the prevalence of many convictions to the contrary, consumers who lay a dollar down on the counter of a chain store get food that costs an average of 83 cents.

This leaves 17 cents to the chain with which it must pay all its incidental expenses and 10 cents of this, or about three-fifths, goes out in wages to employes of the chain.

IN PAYING 17 cents to the chain the customer thus lays out that amount for the chain's combined wholesale and retail services. After the 10 cents goes to employes, the remainder is allocated in this manner: one and one-half cents for rent and maintenance; two cents for warehousing and cartage; a little over one cent for shrinkage, spoilage and theft, and one-half cent for advertising. This leaves from one to one and one-half cents net profit to the chain, less income taxes of one-half to one cent.

These figures were developed in the latest in a series of price studies by the family economics bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The survey disclosed that individual markups vary widely, of course, within the store, being much higher than the general 17 per cent average on perishable items like fresh fruit and vegetables, and much lower than average on very competitive staples like sugar.

ACCORDING TO the study result, the average food chain markup before the war was 22 1/2 cents—a third greater than today. Today's far greater dollar volume per store, and therefore per employe, is mainly responsible for the lower handling costs per dollar of sales.

Should either prices or total volume shrink materially, the cent or so profit margin per dollar would vanish rather quickly and "red ink" would take its place.

Before the war, the farmer received an average of 40 cents of the consumer's food dollar and 60 cents went for processing, canning, shipping, wholesaling and retailing. Today the farmer gets 53 cents per dollar and 47 cents covers all the various steps in processing and distribution.

LONGER LIFE:

Science Has Key

If parents would insure long lives for their progeny, they must marry young.

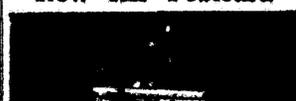

DR. I. A. LANSING of the Washington university school of medicine, St. Louis, reported to the Gerontological society of New York the discovery of a mysterious chemical, called X, which seems to time how fast a human being grows old. "X" is something that parents transmit to their offspring and it is set like a clock, either for long or short life.

The age clock was found in rotifers, but a little human evidence was sighted. Rotifers are microscopic water bugs, swimming with long lashes that make them look like whirling dervishes. The setting of the X-clock in rotifers depend on how early they mated.

IT APPEARS, Dr. Lansing stated, that the age count of X stuff in a fertilized egg sets the clock. When there is little X, the rotifer lives long. As parents get older, the eggs contain more X and life is shorter. He also said that the mysterious stuff also regulates growth—as the volume of X increases, growth stops.

The human evidence is indirect, Dr. Lansing said. A study by Dr. Louis Dublin, showing a tendency for children of young parents to live longer than those born later. And, it must be remembered, humans come from eggs.

New Air Postcard

Air Mail stewardess Betty Schaefer displays the newest form of communication—slightly larger than natural, of course. It is the new four-cent air mail postcard which went on sale at post offices over the nation on January 18. The postal department expects vast popularity for the new card.

Man's ingenuity in developing destructive devices apparently has not yet reached its zenith.

Extreme 'Irk Reds

Russian designers have been told to forget extreme fashions. Styles for the mass consumer are needed instead, said senior inspector of trade in Moscow, V. Syrov.

He wrote in Trud that the artistic council of Moscow's biggest department store recently considered 872 new styles. He said he was astonished that 300 of these were for hats. The artistic council picks the styles ordered for the manufacturers.

DON'T BELIEVE IT... There's an old saying that the "camera never lies", but that you can't always believe what you see is amply demonstrated here. Seamstress apprentice Robert Bradford of Chicago apparently is supporting Italy's famed leaning tower of Pisa with his own two hands, but it's only camera magic. Bradford is a member of a naval unit visiting Italy.

"INTRODUCTION" . . . This photo, made some time ago, seems prophetic in view of the resignation of Secretary of State George C. Marshall. Secretary Marshall is pointing to Under-Secretary of State Dean Acheson as if introducing him. In announcing Marshall's resignation, President Truman said Acheson has been named to succeed him. The post of undersecretary will be filled by James E. Webb, budget director.

NO HOOKY PROBLEM . . . No scholar is likely to play hooky from the Sam Hughes public school in Tucson—at least not during "go western week" for school is more fun than a three-ring circus. Pupils don western garb, as do teachers, and the curriculum for the week includes lessons in rope spinning, technique of handling a six-shooter and other cow country folklore.

RUGGED VOYAGE . . . That's what seems in store for Carl Madrid, 64, Chicagoan enroute to New Orleans aboard a raft which he made himself, and which is powered with an outboard motor. Madrid was uncertain as to how long it would take him to complete his journey, but said that when he reached New Orleans he plans to live aboard his raft and do some writing.

Household Hints... Did you know that shellac will turn white with the absorption of water or moisture? When you cut ribbon off a roll to make hair bows, use pinking shears to avoid frayed ends. Seamstresses will save time, effort and thread if they use scotch tape instead of basting material. When washing cut glass or pressed glass articles, apply sudsy water with a small hand brush to get into the crevices.

The FICTION Corner

The Gentle Extortionist

By CHARLES STUART

Things have a way of working out for the best and giving you renewed faith in people—people like Marty Stone, who fancied himself a pretty hard-headed business man, and Doc Howell, who found that Marty's heart was softer than his head, but who couldn't cure the lump in his own throat.

FROM my small office I can see anyone who passes through the wide front doorway before he can see me. In that brief period I can size up a prospective customer, and that's how it was with Fred Miller.

He was small and frail-appearing. There was nothing spectacular about him except his tie, but it was an eye-catcher. Like a nervous monkey, he patted his eyes rapidly to adjust them to the semi-gloom of the garage. I had time to catalog him as a cinch for a lot of extras.

Seeing me in the office, he came over hesitating at the door until I said, "Come on in." I stood to shake his thin hand.

He had blue eyes that were deeper in their orbits; they hung on mine like those of a dog that isn't sure of a kick or a caress. The flesh beneath them sagged into pouches, and his face was deeply lined. He had the unwholesome pallor of a man who spends a great deal of time in-doors.

"What can I do for you?" I asked. "Why," he said, "I want to buy a car."

"So do a thousand other people in this town," I reminded him. "I know. That's why I'm here now. I want to get on your list for a future delivery."

Even as I told him it would be at least two years before he'd get his car, the way things were moving, I was remembering things that I had heard about him—how his home had been broken, how his wife had taken their boy and gone out to the coast.

"Here's something Fred wanted you to have," I told him. His eyes were so full he could hardly find the door handle.

It was said that Miller had agreed to some fantastic alimony if only she would let the boy come to him for at least a part of the year. He had some sort of minor post in one of the government agencies in town; I knew it couldn't pay very much. I didn't see how he would be able to pay me the price of a new auto, but two years is a long time and much could happen in the interim. Anyway, I could always sell a new car. So I felt around in my desk and finally came up with the list. "What kind do you want? Coupe? Sedan?"

"A coupe, please." "With or without wheels?" Fred smiled, tentatively. He wasn't sure whether or not he was supposed to laugh.

"I'd like wheels, of course," he answered. "Want to put something down?" "Yes, I'd like to. How much do you require?"

"Suit yourself. Even if you give me the full purchase price, it won't bring your car any sooner." He nodded. "Fair enough. I'll leave you two hundred."

I took the bills and gave him a receipt. Then I asked if he had a trade-in.

He looked startled. "No, Mr. Stone, I haven't. Is it necessary to have one?"

"Oh, no. Not absolutely necessary." A trade-in is still nice to have, though, for there is money in those used cars.

"I don't really have a car at all," he explained. "That's why I want this one. My boy will be coming to visit me every summer and he's getting pretty big now." His eyes lit up, talking about the kid. "In two years he'll be eighteen and he'll want a car. This is no town for a boy if he has to walk everywhere or depend on others for transportation. I plan to have a nice auto for him when he's ready for it."

"Yeah, yeah. That'll be fine." There was something holding back in him when he talked about that kid, and it made me uncomfortable. As though he might talk about him the rest of the day if he had any encouragement. But I wasn't giving him any.

"We'll see what we can do," I said, and stood up.

He arose immediately. "You're busy," he was apologetic, "and I've taken so much of your time."

"Not at all," I said, "come in and see me again."

"Oh, I will," he answered, "you'll get so tired of seeing me around you'll want to throw me out. By the way,

Mr. Stone, how much will the car cost?"

"Hard to say, Fred, right now it sells for eighteen hundred. But you guess with me as to what it will cost two years from now."

"I'm sure he only half-heard me. He said, like he was almost talking to himself, 'Eighteen hundred. About what I figured. I'll have it.'"

He wasn't like most of my customers; he didn't keep harping on me for the new car. Until summer came, at any rate. Then one day he brought the boy in. He was lots taller than the old man, already, and devoted to him. From then on until the boy went back to the coast, they were in the garage at least once each day, poring over pictures of the new auto, questioning my mechanics, and discussing it between themselves. Even after the boy had gone back to the coast, Fred would come in and pick up any new literature I might have on the car. I knew what he'd do with it, too; make notes in the margins, write letters about the auto, and send them all on to that boy.

Time went along. The wife and my boys went off on a vacation. I never liked going home to an empty house, so I would put it off to the last minute, and hang around the club till bedtime. That's how I found out that Fred liked the social life and late hours. I sort of figured that accounted for the bags under his eyes.

But Doc Howell set me right. He and I got away for a few days hunting, and somehow of the way to the mountains, Fred Miller crept into our conversation.

Doc thought it a shame the way his wife treated him. "That woman milks him for every cent he can get. He owes everyone, including me."

I thought about all the times I had seen Fred down at the club. Now it costs money to belong, and if one gets into the games very often, that's expensive, too. Fred didn't stack very high with me right then, because I couldn't see how he could be broke and keep up the activities I had observed. I guess Doc read my thoughts.

"Don't be too hard on Fred, Marty," he said. "You may not know it, but he isn't down there at that club every night just for fun. He has a sort of job; assistant to the steward. I rather suspect he lives on what he makes there, and sends his regular salary check out to the wife, for that boy."

He watched the road for a few moments before continuing. "Fred is not at all well. If he would take it easy, get a lot of rest and stop drinking, he might last a long time, but—" his voice trailed off into silence. He rarely talked about his patients. I figured he thought he had said too much already.

I forgot about Fred after that until one fine summer day I found that the next car on my list was for him. But I was dubious about the deal. After all, I was in business to make money; there were a lot of names after his that would be a great deal better business. It looked like Fred Miller was about to get the go-by, at least for a little while.

Then that same day I twisted my knee and had to go to Doc's office to get it wrapped. Climbing the well-worn stairs, I met Fred coming down. He looked just about all in, and very sad. I thought to myself: "Oh, well, what can I lose?" and told him about the car.

His face broke into a million wrinkles as he smiled. "That's fine," he said, "That's good. The boy will like that." He went on down the steps with a lot more life to his tread. I went on up to Doc's.

Just to make conversation, I asked him what was wrong with Fred. His answer was vague, as I might have known it would be.

"Can't understand the little fellow; he goes right on doing all the things I tell him are bad, yet he keeps coming in here to have me check him over. All I can do is shake my head, tell him to get more rest and stop burning the candle from both ends."

He adjusted a couple of pads around my leg, plugged some wires into a machine, and flicked a switch.

"Doesn't seem to worry him. Can you tell me why?"

Neither of us knew, then, but we got the answer later.

When his car was being unloaded at the railway dock, I called him. Most of my customers like to be on hand to get a first glimpse of the car for which they have waited so long. After awhile, he showed up, and I was shocked at his appearance. He was walking slow and easy, like the old man he looked to be. His cheeks were hollow, his sunken eyes deeper than ever. The pouches below them hung away down.

But he was surely happy about the car. I told him it would take a couple of days to get it into shape for delivery.

"Good enough," he said, "I expect the boy over about then."

I never saw Fred again.

Doc let me know. He called me. "Come on over, will you, Marty?" I knew from his tone it was important, so I hung up and went right away. He was sitting in his private office.

When I came in, he pushed a bulky envelope across the desk to me. It was addressed to me in an unfamiliar hand. Opening it, I found a two-thousand-dollar insurance policy with me as the beneficiary. The name of the policy holder?

Fred A. Miller!

I showed it to Doc. "Yeah," he said, "Fred died last night. Natural causes, yet he could have lived a lot longer. Only eventually he would become an invalid, and his son would want to take care of him. On the other hand, he could duck out now and leave the lad something. I guess he chose to have the boy remember him as something other than a sick old man."

I could see the picture. But you just don't know what to say in such cases. So I guess I sounded a little irrelevant when I said, "Cars have gone up, Doc. This two thousand won't cover it now."

Doc looked as though he were disappointed in me. He pulled out his check book and picked up a pen. "Well, I want that boy to have that car, Martin. How much is the difference?"

"Put that stuff back, Doc," I said, "you don't have a corner on soft hearts and softer heads."

He grinned then. "I want to share it, at least."

After old Fred had been decently tucked away—and it was amazing how many friends the old boy had—I called the kid over to the garage. Doc and I led him to the car.

"Here's something Fred wanted you to have," I told him. His eyes were so full he could hardly find the door handle.

It was said that Miller had agreed to some fantastic alimony if only she would let the boy come to him for at least a part of the year. He had some sort of minor post in one of the government agencies in town; I knew it couldn't pay very much. I didn't see how he would be able to pay me the price of a new auto, but two years is a long time and much could happen in the interim. Anyway, I could always sell a new car. So I felt around in my desk and finally came up with the list. "What kind do you want? Coupe? Sedan?"

"A coupe, please." "With or without wheels?" Fred smiled, tentatively. He wasn't sure whether or not he was supposed to laugh.

"I'd like wheels, of course," he answered. "Want to put something down?" "Yes, I'd like to. How much do you require?"

"Suit yourself. Even if you give me the full purchase price, it won't bring your car any sooner." He nodded. "Fair enough. I'll leave you two hundred."

I took the bills and gave him a receipt. Then I asked if he had a trade-in.

He looked startled. "No, Mr. Stone, I haven't. Is it necessary to have one?"

"Oh, no. Not absolutely necessary." A trade-in is still nice to have, though, for there is money in those used cars.

"I don't really have a car at all," he explained. "That's why I want this one. My boy will be coming to visit me every summer and he's getting pretty big now." His eyes lit up, talking about the kid. "In two years he'll be eighteen and he'll want a car. This is no town for a boy if he has to walk everywhere or depend on others for transportation. I plan to have a nice auto for him when he's ready for it."

"Yeah, yeah. That'll be fine." There was something holding back in him when he talked about that kid, and it made me uncomfortable. As though he might talk about him the rest of the day if he had any encouragement. But I wasn't giving him any.

"We'll see what we can do," I said, and stood up.

He arose immediately. "You're busy," he was apologetic, "and I've taken so much of your time."

"Not at all," I said, "come in and see me again."

"Oh, I will," he answered, "you'll get so tired of seeing me around you'll want to throw me out. By the way,

BIBLE SPEAKS International Union Sundry School Lessons DR. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Luke 4:1-13. DEVOTIONAL READING: James 1:1-12.

'Yet Without Sin'

Lesson for January 30, 1943

YOU will never feel the current if you never swim upstream. If you are a drifter through life you can hardly know what the word "temptation" means. And Jesus was no drifter. If ever a powerful purpose, devotion to God, a noble mind and a pure heart could set a man free from all temptations, Jesus would have been that man. But he had his temptations all the same. After the great day of his baptism, when the heavens opened and he felt the Holy Spirit as plainly as a bird from the sky alighting on his shoulder, we are told that he was "full of the Holy Spirit." Surely no temptation could reach him now! Yet the spirit led him to the wilderness where Satan waited for him.

Dr. Foreman

The Devil Is Smart SATAN is a persistent devil. He never takes no for an answer, he will be back again with the same temptation in another package. It was so with Jesus. We must not think that Jesus was tempted to low and ugly sins. People are tempted on the level where they live.

After the Baptism, if not before, he was fully awake to the fact that he was God's beloved Son, that it was his responsibility to begin the "Kingdom of God;" he knew he had a position and a power that no one else on earth had ever had. The problem was: How should he use this position and this power?

Each of the three temptations in the wilderness had something to do with that problem. Two of the temptations, at least, were not to do anything wrong in itself. Each time Jesus was tempted to choose something less than the best, and choosing less than the best, when the best can be had, is sin.

All Temptation Sounds Good "TURN stones into bread," the tempter said. And why not? People were hungry all around; Jesus grew up in a land where most people were lucky to get one square meal a day, let alone three. Jesus would be the Divine leader of the New Age. Why not make it the Age of Plenty? Why not abolish hunger from the earth? It could be done; it sounds good.

So does that other temptation—"Throw yourself down, the angels will see that you are not hurt." Perhaps many worshippers at the Temple expected that the Messiah, God's King to be, would fly down out of a cloud.

Then that temptation which seems at first reading so ridiculous—fall down and worship Satan. It was not so ridiculous as it appears. What did Jesus want but to be King of Kings and Lord of Lords? What difference does it make how we attain our ambitions, if we only reach them? All other world-conquerors had achieved their pinnacles of power by "worshipping Satan," that is by using violence and trickery.

But Jesus, being full of the Holy Spirit, knew that not everything that sounds good, is good.

He saw clearly that not even he could bring in the Kingdom of God simply by feeding people, or astonishing them with aerial stunts, and still less by using those ancient methods of the world-conquerors, the tools of Satan, violence and lies.

Defense Weapon JESUS met his great enemy and beat him down with a single weapon. Every time, Jesus comes out with a quotation from the Bible, incidentally always from Deuteronomy, evidently a favorite book with him. We have the same weapon at our disposal today, and more besides.

There is nothing magical in a Scripture quotation. The point is not that Jesus had memorized these verses so that he could quote them; anybody could do that even without believing a word of them.

What Jesus did was to make those truths his own, they were part of his mind, actually his own convictions. Do you really want to rise proof against temptations? Do as Jesus did: make God's ideas your own. The sharpest lie will blunt itself against the keen edge of Truth.

JUST MORE RESTFUL "Darling, let's get married." "Why the hurry?" "Well, it would put an end to our being just crazy about each other."

Hybrids Stranger—What is the standing of the Spendmore family in this town? Native—Well, I should say they are sort of betwixt and between. They aren't exactly nobody and yet they aren't really anybody.

A Born Poet "But, father, poets are born, not made." "Write what you like, my boy, but don't blame your mother and me for it."
