Kirtland Base Observes AFD

New Mexicans will be treated to their first full scale show of modern armed force when Kirtland Air Force Base, Albuquerque, plays host at an open house scheduled for 12 noon on Saturday, May 20, the nation's first unified Armed Forces Day.

Instead of celebrating Army Day, Navy Day or Air Force Day, President Truman has proclaimed the third Saturday in May as a perpetual armed forces day, to be observed by a report to the nation on its defensive status.

This year, when Kirtland gates swing open, the public will be given the opportunity to see for themselves many interesting units of all the forces on the big concrete ramp paralleling the north-south 10,000 foot runway. Elaborate displays will crowd a large maintenance hangar. About 25 different airplanes will be shown on the ramp, with the B-36 vying with the speedy F-96 Sabre, 670 miles per hour world's record holder, for the key position in the public's eye.

During the afternoon, many eye-catching flying events have been planned. The F-96 will perform in several ways. Two of the fast ships will be flown to Biggs Air Force Base, El Paso, to show that the run can be made in a scant half hour in routine fashion—less time than it takes for some of Kirtland's pilots to get home from work through peak traffic periods.

A speed run has been planned where the 650 mile speed will be shown right before the public. The sweptback winged craft will flash through the sky between the KOB transmitter tower 10 miles north of the base, and Kirtland officials estimate the ship can easily cover the distance in about one minute. High speed aerobatics will also be the order of the day.

Partially open to the public, the giant six-engine B-36 will be provided with a "walkover" ramp, in order that those interested might get an idea as to the terrific size of this 21,000 hp. airplane. Spectators will be able to appreciate the fact that the pilot sits three stories high from his "driver's" seat.

Camera fans will have a field day, with open house literally where photography is concerned. Highlight of the afternoon will be a retreat parade, a formal flag lowering review at 5 P. M., where more than 2,500 troops representing all of the armed services in Albuquerque, literally a duke's mixture, will carry out the theme of this first Armed Forces Day by teaming up for defense. An honorary color guard will consist of top grade Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force enlisted men.

Immediately following the parade will be the show-closer, a massed air parade of all types which can be gotten into the air, including possibly the B-36, the B-45, four-engine jet bomber, the fast F-86's and other present day Air Force and Navy types.

New Mexicans who have not had the opportunity to see two unusual types of aircraft perform will have a special opportunity on May 20. Both a helicopter and a high performance sailplane will fly for the crowd; the helicopter will show its famous hovering characteristics, while the sailplane pilot will try to stay aloft throughout the afternoon, proving that New Mexico is an ideal location for mototless flight.

Truly geared into the team for defense, Kirtland Air Force Base, home of the Air Force Special Weapons Command, invites all who are interested in the status of 1950's armed forces to take advantage of this year's open house—browse among the displays, see the air show, and get acquainted with the men of the command.

Odd Fellows Fish Fry

Members of the Carrizozo Odd Fellows Lodge are reminded of the fish fry to be held Saturday evening, May 13, at 7:30 o'clock. The fish fry will be given at the hall of the local lodge, and the Odd Fellows will furnish the fish supplied by Dr. E. A. Grimsco.

Two Receive Rewards From Cattle Growers

Two rewards totaling $600 for information leading to arrest, conviction and sentence of two thieves were paid this week by the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, according to Roy Forehand, Carlsbad, president.

The rewards of $300 each were paid to Bill Smith, Marquez, and Buck Wilcoxson of Grants and were authorized by the last annual convention subject to presentation of proper evidence to association officers.

Smith received the standing reward for furnishing information leading to the conviction of Jimmy Platero, a Navajo Indian of Canyoncito, who was charged with stealing cattle from Lee S. Evans and the L. Bar Cattle Company of Marquez.

Wilcoxson claimed the reward for presenting information to law enforcement officers which led to the conviction of Fred Gabaldon, Albert Taddy Jr. and Robert P. Wilson, all of Valencia County. The three were charged with stealing cattle from Nabor Mirabal of San Rafael. Evans and Mirabal are both members of the association, Forehand said.

"Payment of these rewards makes a total of $2,265 in rewards paid by the association during the past 10 months," Forehand said.

Carrizozo Makes It 5 In Row; Down State San

The Carrizozo baseball team won their fifth straight victory Sunday by downing State San, Socorro, 13-0, in a home game.

A hitting spree started by Bill Dolan's home run in the last of the sixth saw 13 runs cross the plate in three innings. Manuel Gutierrez went the distance for the local nine.

After the game, the Carrizozo ball team volunteered to help fight the forest fire in the Capitan Mountains.

Local Community Hall Gets Face Lifting

Carrizozo Community Hall is undergoing a face lifting. The building is owned by Frank English who stated his plans for remodeling are not yet fully completed.

The building, located on the tree-shaded corner of Tularosa Avenue and Fourth Street, has been the scene of many dances and other public affairs. English said the building will present an attractive appearance when fully completed.

Present plans include large glass windows for the front and Fourth Street sides.

Mrs. Manire Attends Tucumcari Conference

Mrs. L. Z. Manire attended the annual conference of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Tucumcari from May 3-5. Reports on last year's business were read, and plans formulated for the society's program for the ensuing year. The principal speaker was Miss Mary Kesler, who has spent 37 years in missionary work in China.

Mrs. Manire was accompanied by Mesdames Ike Kennedy of Ruidoso, Carroll Johnson and Ray of Tularosa.

The group returned home last Friday.

Lt. Gov. Montoya Visits Carrizozo

Lieutenant Governor Joe M. Montoya in a personal interview May 5 told The-News-Outlook he felt it is possible that Highway 54 will be completed within the near future. He also stated he has never received a salary from the state of New Mexico for any position in state service held by him.

Montoya is now a candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives on the Democratic ticket. He added he has served in the New Mexico State Legislature continuously since the age of 21. Montoya was the Democratic floor leader of the state House of Representatives at the age of 23. From there he went to the state Senate at the constitutional age of 25, and served with that body for six years. He ran for lieutenant governor of New Mexico in a field of 10 candidates in the primary and has held that office for three and a half years. His present candidacy is for congressman at large for New Mexico. He has currently been serving as a liaison officer for the various Chambers of Commerce in New Mexico.

Montoya said he is always ready to help when called upon by civic groups. He added that if he is sent to Washington there are four primary problems which will receive his attention. First, proposed projects will be given scrutiny to the end that federal spending may be reduced. Second, careful attention to federal problems and will certainly oppose any curtailment of present facilities for federal aid. Third, irrigation and reclamation which he feels to be the key to New Mexico's future.

Fourth, a very serious approach to the rural problems which confront New Mexico; with special emphasis on the problems of the New Mexico farmer and cattleman.

Montoya is an attorney, an alumnus of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He has been engaged in the practice of law for 30 years, but made it clear he is interested in various businesses other than the practice of law. He brought out the point he had a thorough conception of the problems of business and was not a professional politician.

Secondary and farm-to-market road programs will also be given careful consideration by Montoya if elected.

He concluded his remarks by stating he is a definite booster for Highway 54 and it is his fervent hope the work on it will be completed in the near future.

The Sodality girls will be in charge of the food sale.

Bingo may be played at the old Santa Rita School starting at 4 P. M. on Sunday, May 14. Prizes will be awarded for the best scores.

Lincoln's Worst Forest Fire Under Control; Many Narrowly Escape

By DOROTHY GUCK

The worst fire ever to have occurred in Lincoln National Forest is at last believed to be under control. A drizzling rain that started at 2 A. M. Thursday was still falling at press time. All fire crews were standing by and were expected to remain at the scene all day Thursday in order to maintain a complete fire line around the area.

Conditions on Thursday appeared to be in favor of the fire fighters since there was little wind, and very cloudy skies. Because of the rough terrain, the fire crews are unable to reach the upper side of East Mountain.

Although the actual number of acres burned is unknown, it is estimated the area is seven to nine miles long, and between two and three miles wide, in places.

At the height of the fire, approximately 500 men were on the scene. At the present time, about 250 men are on the fire line.

The regular service crew for Lincoln National Forest have been on duty continuously since the inception of the fire. In addition, forestry service crews from New Mexico, Arizona and California have been assisting in halting the conflagration.

The eight California rangers will remain in the area for a few days in case of further need for their services.

Earl Moore, forest supervisor, has been at the fire camp most of the week, as has been Sheriff S. M. Ortiz, Deputy Clyde Atwood and State Patrolman Herbert Douglas.

A complete Red Cross installation has been set up at the fire camp to handle any casualties. It is under the supervision of the Army and the Forest Service.

Many close escapes experienced by the fire fighters, who have been performing superhuman duty, are reported. A very efficient fire camp is established at the site, and the men are receiving excellent food and have been provided with plenty of blankets. The Army has provided "pup tents" for the soldiers, and the civilians are sleeping on blankets on the ground.

Charles Sutton, Alamogordo Forest Service, is assigned to the camp as manager. The Captain High School has placed their shower rooms at the disposal of the fire fighters. Approximately 150 soldiers were taken there this week to refresh themselves with hot showers.

Sparks from the Whitcamp sawmill started the conflagration May 4, as the tinder dry country was whipped by fierce winds. Visibility was zero until late in the evening.

Dean Earl, Captain forest ranger, headed a crew of 150 men, and succeeded in building a line around the fire during the night, however the line was lost next day as winds again became severe. The Whitcamp and Holladay mills were both destroyed.

Saturday morning the cigarette of a careless smoker was flipped into the duff to start a second blaze in the Gap, west of the road. The tired crews were powerless to stop the new smoke. Shortly after noon it exploded in all directions. The fire camp withdrew from the timber before fire swept through their campsite.

The Taber ranch, owned by Mr. Coors, was in the line of the fire, but the buildings were saved by a wide fire line hastily cut around them. The Merchant ranch was also saved from any damage.

Sunday night the surrounding towns of Carrizozo, Capitan, Ruidoso, Lincoln and Hondo were stripped of manpower. Soldiers were recruited from Fort Bliss, Walker Air Base and Holloman Base.

Monday at 3 P. M. the fire had burned the north side of East Mountain from the Gap to a section near Koptian Springs.

Near tragedy in the Capitan Mountain fires has brought out many stories of the heroism of our Lincoln County men. Faithful to the saga of bravery in the days of "Billy the Kid," our local fire fighters well deserve to be heralded for their courage.

Saturday night, Roy Morgan led a crew of men before the leaping flames to safety on top of the mountain. Sam Servis, Forest Service man of Alamogordo, saved his crew in the same manner.

Monday afternoon, I was in the fire camp when a weary group of men were rescued from a rock slide that could be seen above the camp. Speed Simmons, game warden of Artesia, Earnest and Roy Purcella, Joe Phillips and 13 soldiers took refuge on the slide near the crest of the mountain when flames completely surrounded them. The boys dug their feet and faces into the rocks trying to protect them from the searing heat. For three and a half hours they were marooned on the slide. Meanwhile, they were missed in camp. Fred Pflingten rode out on horseback to find them. He topped out on the ridge above the slide and helplessly watched until the worst of the flames had burned on to the east. Then shouting above the wind that whipped through the burning timber, he led the men up through the smoking embers to safety. The men, shaking with fatigue and the terror of their close escape, were streaked with black. They suffered blistered feet and faces, but no serious injuries.

Monday, an Army captain from Alamogordo effected the rescue of the Whitcamp family from the heart of the burn. The Whitcamps were reluctant to leave their home when the fire burned the sawmill Friday. Monday, the velocity of the wind increased to whip the fire in renewed strength. Flames again swept through the sawmill burning the homes. The Whitcamps, father, mother and three children, took refuge under one of the three trucks. Then the trucks burst into flames.

The Army captain was driving his jeep up each road he came to in the burning area, his siren shrieking, searching for any possible persons who might be stranded. He heard a woman's cry and drove through the smoke to the sound. The Whitcamps were brought into camp, black, frightened and ready to seek shelter elsewhere.

Probably the most pitiful victim of the terrible holocaust is a small bear cub found in a tree above the smoke of burning duff. The pads of his broad feet were scorched and bleeding and he readily accepted the kindness and fondling of human hands in lieu of the care of his dead mother. Ross Flatley brought the cub into the fire camp where he was the center of attraction until Mr. Flatley received permission from the Game Department to take the cub to his ranch.

The portable kitchen, light plant and many cases of food were almost lost at the first fire camp before their hasty removal to a new site at the junction of the Gap and the Base roads. The

Local Residents Urged To Save Electricity

Carrizozo city officials report major repairs are being made on a generator at the light plant, which will take approximately three weeks to complete. They are urging all residents to restrict their use of power and lights to a minimum.

The city especially urges conservation of power and lights during the peak hours of 7 to 9 P. M.

The city dads have indicated service will not be interrupted except in cases of extreme emergency.

Vaguely reminiscent of the war years between 1941-45 is Carrizozo the past few nights when street lights of various sections of the town have been "blacked out" in order not to work undue hardship on any section of town, power shutoff of street lights will be alternated.

Carrizozo Boy Receives Promotion In Japan

Airman George E. Kimbrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kimbrell of Carrizozo, has recently been promoted to the grade of corporal in the United States Air Force. His attention to duty and abilities as an airman were the contributory factors which led to his promotion. At present Corporal Kimbrell is assigned to the 1956th Airways and Air Communications Service Squadron whose headquarters are located near downtown Tokio, Japan.

The 1956th AACS Squadron is a major Air Force radio teletype relay communication center. Corporal Kimbrell served two years and eight months in the United States Navy and was discharged in 1946. He re-enlisted in the Air Force during the month of July, 1942.

He graduated from Hondo High School with the class of 1946.

N. M. Educational Group Convenes In Albuquerque

Albuquerque was the convention headquarters for the sessions of the Educational Council of the New Mexico Education Association, which were held recently.

Mrs. Elva Wilson, superintendent of Lincoln County schools, who attended the sessions, reported some of the principal discussions were based on the administrative structure of the New Mexico Education Association and the subjects of teacher welfare, tenure, retirement and salaries were covered.

The duties, responsibilities and functions of the Commission for Defense of Democracy Through Education were also discussed. Complete understanding of the platform and legislative program by each association member was urged.

The support of PTA associations is sought by the Educational Council in their work of defense of democracy through education.

Carrizozo Girl Appointed To Radio Station Staff

Miss Martha Jane Nicholas of Carrizozo has been selected news editor for WCST, campus radio station at Texas State College for Women, Denton, for the 1950-51 school term.

The newly appointed news editor is a freshman speech student at the college. Staff selections were made by radio-speech teachers, graduating seniors who are specializing in radio-speech, and the present station manager.

4-H Club Workers To Spring Clean New Camp

Dedication ceremonies for the recently built 4-H Club camp in the Sacramento Mountains near Clowdcroft, May 26, put members, leaders and county agents behind the eight-ball, says L. E. Kurtz, state 4-H Club leader.

The $30,000 Scott-Abbe Camp, built by donations for club members from the southern New Mexico counties needs a spring cleaning, so May 11 and 12 have been declared as "work days" among 4-H Club circles. Members, leaders, county agents and friends will roll up their sleeves then to add the finishing touches to the camp.

However, in order to overcome the cardinal rule of 4-H Club activities, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," workers will have a dance in their combined recreation hall and mess hall the night of May 11.

25 Graduates Get Diplomas

Commencement exercises for the graduating class of Carrizozo High School were held May 4 at 8 P. M. in the grade school auditorium.

Wagner's Tannhauser March, played by L. W. Snider, was the music selected for the processional, after which the congregation joined in singing the National Anthem. Rev. Jesse Allen, pastor, First Baptist Church, delivered the invocation.

The speakers of the evening were assigned to chairs upon the stage which was decorated with the graduating class' colors of blue and gold, and bouquets of roses and carnations.

The salutatorian address was made by Sabino Vidaurri, who pointed out the problems of youth today, and what commencement meant to them. His talk was entitled, "As Tomorrow Dawns."

The class quartet, composed of Juanita McSmith, Barbara Brannum, Charles Hodgkin and Roy Dow, sang "The Alma Mater." After the quartet's vocal selection, L. Z. Manire, superintendent Carrizozo public schools, introduced the principal speaker of the evening, H. O. Reid, assistant dean, College of Arts and Sciences, University of New Mexico, who told the audience he was extremely happy to finally "blow in."

The severe sand storm during the day had delayed his arrival sufficiently to make him fear he might not reach here in time for the exercises. His address to the assembly was based on "power."

"We kneel in prayer and we rise in power," was the theme of Reid's talk. Power and intelligence must go together for effectiveness, he stated. Reid spoke of the millions of students who would graduate this year and expressed the hope they would combine intellect with power. He mentioned his friend who was a bridge engineer, and said he, too, was a bridge engineer—an engineer of human bridges; bridges between what is and what ought to be. Years later, when the friends met again, the bridge engineer told Reid he had thought of their talk many times, and had come to the conclusion human bridges were as important as concrete bridges.

Reid asked the graduates if they had made plans for their future, and pointed out power without control is like a ship without a rudder. He added the world was crying for men and women with leadership qualities.

Reid quoted from the speech made by the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt at his first inaugural ceremony in illustration of a point he wished to make. At that inaugural, with the country in chaotic condition, Roosevelt said, "The thing to be most feared is fear itself." Reid added that regardless of any personal opinion regarding the late President's policy, the man had an aim and was going ahead to make that aim.

Although many instances of poor judgment on the part of today's youth have been headlined in the papers recently, Reid does not believe they should all be condemned for the errors of a few. He reiterated his opinion that power must be combined with intelligence and good judgment if our young people are to attain their rightful place in the nation's economy. It was pointed out opportunity could mean much or little to the young man or woman, and patience and persistence were necessary to make the most of any opportunity offered.

Reid related the story of the farm boy who went to college where he achieved scholastic success. At graduation, his parents were there to watch him receive his awards. The father was overheard telling the boy's

The editorial columns are newspaper editors' only media for expressing their opinions. All other reporting is done on the basis of facts, and personal opinion has no place in a news story. A news story must be reported on the basis of events in chronological sequence without regard to the personal opinion of the writer.

Another editor has expressed the attributes of a good journalist in more effective language than this writer can ever hope to equal. Stephen Lauzanne, France, has said the most essential in journalism is not a knowledge of history or men; neither is it the ability to catch a point quickly, the art of presenting facts properly, nor the skill to headline news in an appealing manner.

Lauzanne has expressed his belief this essential is the love and worship of truth, and the journalist's only ancestor was Diogenes. Lauzanne compares the journalist to Diogenes who went everywhere with lantern in hand searching for the truth. Sometimes, he points out, the journalist finds the truth and makes it bloom; other times he thinks he has found the truth, but discovers he has been mistaken and must start over again.

Lauzanne expresses the opinion good faith is the most important attribute of a journalist, and that men or women of bad faith are unworthy to be journalists.

The majority of editors, in this writer's opinion, are vitally concerned with the welfare of their communities, and are sincere in their efforts to promote progress in their cities.

The editors of this paper, like Stephen Lauzanne, believe in the policy of keeping faith with their readers. They will endeavor to keep alert to the necessity for and the development of civic projects that will benefit this county. They will attempt to secure all possible facts and, or figures on matters of civic welfare for presentation to their readers.

Two subjects of major importance in the opinion of your editors at this time are Highway 54 and the Carrizozo power plant.

The completion of Highway 54 is necessary if Lincoln County is to attain its rightful place in the growth and progress of New Mexico. The residents of this county are very much "Highway 54 conscious," and there is little doubt they are eagerly watching for the green light signal from state officials which will signify construction on that last remaining stretch of road.

However, growth of communities can also bring other problems. As the community grows, it also must see its facilities grow. Apparently Carrizozo is finding itself confronted with the problem of adequate power in the face of increased use of this utility.

Recent meetings have disclosed both REA and Community Public Service are interested in the power plant. Allen Walker, Attorney General, appeared before the City Council at their regular meeting last week, details of which were published in the May 5 issue of The News-Outlook.

The inquiry from the Community Public Service Company, Tainogordo, relative to a possible sale of the local power plant was disclosed at the regular meeting of the council on April 4. The action of the council on this inquiry was stated in the April 7 issue of The News-Outlook.

Walker has expressed his willingness to appear before the people of Carrizozo with facts and figures for their information and consideration. We have no doubt Public Service is willing to do the same.

The City Council made it clear at their last regular meeting they preferred any decision regarding a possible sale of the power plant be made by the citizens of Carrizozo.

Such decision is not lightly made. Facts and figures must be carefully weighed.

In the event a sale of the local power plant is negotiated, we cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of securing a plant that will enable Carrizozo to keep pace with future growth and expansion of business. Any contract negotiated by the city should include provision for future expansion and permit its citizens to enjoy adequate service at reasonable rates.

Your editors do not claim to be qualified power experts. Neither do they presume to attempt to influence you in any way in this matter. They hold no brief for either REA or Community Public Service. Neither group has as yet given the citizens of Carrizozo concrete facts upon which to base a decision.

It might even be possible there are other means for securing the type of power Carrizozo should have.

Our sole interest in this matter is "keeping faith" with our readers, and informing them of any action taken or contemplated regarding a sale of this power plant.

We are of the opinion something will eventually have to be done about the power system if Carrizozo is to progress, as it fully expects to do after completion of Highway 54.

Even now it does not appear to be adequate for present needs. We have listened to numerous complaints, and have ourselves experienced inconvenience through the local power system.

Last week we were delayed approximately one-half hour in our final press run. As this article is being written, we cannot be sure whether or not we will be able to make the press runs for our May 12 issue. As we limped off the press last week with the remaining pages, during the period of the power going off and on, we were told the "big motor" was out again.

At the time this editorial is being written, we do not know how soon it will be repaired or whether we will be able to make our press runs this week.

As citizens of Carrizozo, we know you want to see your community progress. That many of you are dissatisfied with the present power system is evident from the complaints to which we have listened. It occurs to us, however, your City Council should also hear such complaints. These men were elected by you, as citizens of Carrizozo, and are entitled to know your views regarding local civic problems so they may make the best possible decisions for "all concerned."

We suggest those of you who have complaints about the local power system or any other questions or suggestions pertaining to city government appear at any City Council meeting and inform the members of your views. From past meetings, it would appear the council believes the local plant is in good condition, and doing well. The complaints we have heard, and our personal experience lead us to believe there may be a difference of opinion.

In conclusion, we should like

AN INSPIRING MESSAGE FROM LABOR

One of Arkansas' big daily newspapers has just published a special edition commemorating 50 years of progress by the state. It was the largest newspaper ever published in our state—230 pages—and it presented a stunning picture of an industrious, progressive people and an advancing living standard. Fifty years ago Arkansas was a backwoods state. Today it is a pace-maker for the nation in economic and social progress.

In the past 10 years Arkansas' per capita income has tripled and the educational opportunity now offered its children constitutes probably the greatest degree of improvement achieved by any state in the nation. The progress and the cause behind it arouse a temptation to propound on the great inherent assurances in the American freedom system for improving the welfare of all the people. However, I wish to devote this column to an advertisement in our commemorative newspaper. It sounds a powerful challenge to the people of America. It is the ad of the Arkansas Federation of Labor (AFL).

A Call for Teamwork

The photographic illustration in the advertisement portrays a workman standing on a construction scaffold, waving to the capitalist whose money is financing the building and presumably the industry which will occupy it. The capitalist, being driven into the construction grounds by a chauffeur, is returning the workman's greeting. In the picture is cordiality, mutual understanding, a lively spirit of cooperation. The advertisement is headed: "Sure, Arkansas Is Going Ahead—If We All Pull Together." This is a challenge that transcends state boundaries. It is a challenge to people of all economic levels throughout the nation.

The Arkansas State Federation of Labor advertisement says: "Naturally, all of us—labor, capitalist and the public—want more of these new industries for Arkansas, to add to our payrolls, to increase working opportunities, to make a wider selection of jobs and, in general, to contribute to the welfare of our state and its people. How can we best accomplish this objective?"

A Sound Economic Promise

The advertisement presents this response: "The Arkansas State Federation of Labor, state branch of the American Federation of Labor, believes that our state will grow and prosper to point out not only is it your privilege to attend these council meetings, but it is also your duty as good citizens interested in the welfare of Carrizozo.

through teamwork more than any one single factor... by working together for the preservation of our American economic system. We believe, in the words of our beloved founder Samuel Gompers and our president William Green, that management is justly entitled to fair profits and that labor should produce to its maximum energy and ability to that end.

"We expect safe and sanitary working conditions for our members and the privilege of bargaining freely with our employers for a higher standard of living and for higher wages as we produce more goods at lower cost for the mutual benefit of all."

This sound statement puts fundamental economic laws in their proper relationship and it clearly shows that a sure way for America to continue its progress is through co-operation of the various groups in our economy. This Arkansas labor organization subscribes to the economic law requiring productivity for the creation of wealth and the improvement of living standards for all.

Here is a common ground on which labor and management can surely stand. It is safe and sound. It contains the essence of the capitalist system. At our

Uncle Sam Says

My hat is off to the volunteer U. S. Savings Bonds County Chairman and others who are still giving patriotic service to their country. Year in and year out these volunteers are carrying the message of financial independence through U. S. Savings Bonds to every county in the nation. For 1950 their slogan is: "Save For Your Independence." They'll show you how millions of Americans are securing THEIR future by purchasing U. S. Savings Bonds.

sixth Harding. College Freedom Forum held on our campus last week, 100 community and industrial leaders gathered to explore avenues of approach toward a better understanding between the various groups in our socety. A preacher-conferer offered the suggestion that Christianity—a fundamental belief in God—provides a base on which all segments could stand and work for the common good. The idea of higher wages for increased productivity is a common ground on which one of our most disruptive domestic conflicts could be resolved. This challenge of the Arkansas State Federation of Labor is inspiring.

Nogal Mesa Camp Holds Annual Business Meeting

By DOROTHY GUCK
The Nogal Mesa Camp held their annual business meeting at the Nogal Camp Meeting grounds Tuesday, May 2.

Plans for the summer encampment were made. It takes a great deal of thorough preparation and work to insure the smooth running of the camp and all details were left in the hands of the usual ranchers.

The encampment is to be held July 19-23. Rev. Bob Goodrich of Dallas and Everett King of Albuquerque will be the preachers.

Mrs. Mag. Pflingsten has returned to her home on Nogal Mesa after an extended visit with her daughter, Emma, in Tucuman.

Mrs. Maggie Pflingsten visited her son, Fred, Sunday. She makes her home in Lovington.

Roy Lamay suffered a broken foot Friday night while returning from a fishing trip in Three Rivers.

Bobbie Peebles started work on the Buldoso lookout tower May 1. The two Jones boys, Virgil and Paul, moved to Bonita Dam to work as fire guards during the season.

The drop in temperature Thursday night discouraged very few fishermen. The streams were crowded.

Fort Stanton

By FRANK SMITH

Apprentice Joe A. Gomez, U. S. Navy, dropped in to see me for a few minutes. He is on leave, having finished his "boot" training.

Dr. R. E. Whitehead, medical officer in temporary charge, was able to get away for a few of the meetings of the New Mexico Medical Society convention held at New Mexico A. & M. College.

Most of the children around the Fort are looking forward to going to the commencement exercises at the Capitlan High School.

Several of the younger patients were over to the Capitlan Mountains where the fire has been raging for more than five days.

Mrs. Grace Reed and Mrs. Ellen Howell made a trip to El Paso and across the border during their time off in the middle of the week.

Mrs. Mabel Holderson was over Las Cruces way for a long week-end visiting with her husband.

Mrs. Henry Sanchez moved down near Lincoln to the Sanchez orchard and farmhouse.

We have a new watch and clock fixer here in the person of Fred Alvarez, recently arrived from the Neponset Marine Hospital.

Dr. R. P. Waggoner of Roswell and Dr. C. H. Lithgow did quite some operating last week.

Rodger MacQuigg, thoracic specialist from Albuquerque, is expected down this week for consultation and some surgery.

ENCINOSO

By RUBY ALLEN

A new fire broke out up near the Gap Sunday afternoon. The wind changed and brought flames and sparks back from the east, where the fire was just about under control. Saw an airplane circling the fire, probably our game warden, Bell, locating danger spots and threats of new fire outbreaks. The bad thing about the fire besides loss of timber is the threat to the water line, and the wooden troughs that bring the water down from the springs to several families over here. Five trucks of soldiers returned to the base yesterday, as it was thought the fire was under control.

Visitors to the M. J. Allen family last weekend were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Najvar of Roswell.

Most of the men from the families around here were fighting fire last weekend. The Merchant home has been headquarters for telephoning for help and getting out reports on the fire.

New calves got the cattle range out this way. I think the calf crop figures about 100 per cent.

Dyer Forbus, Bill Randle and many others from Capitlan have been up here helping fight fire. There are also many men from Hondo, Bert Pflingsten, Ed Phillips and others, who have put in their time day and night since Thursday when the fire first broke out.

Your insurance agent is worth his hire

Maybe it's alright to order a guitar or a buzz-saw by mail, but when you buy insurance of any kind, you need a local man to advise and help you. For these reasons:

- 1. Insurance is so adaptable to individual needs these days, that practically every policy should be "tailor made." You need someone to measure your personal requirements and advise you closely.
2. If, later, you have a loss and a claim, your local agent can arrange collection for you with a minimum of worry to you!

A fellow we know who never lost a cent trading cows or broomtails got "took" plenty the other day. We saw him fall for the old gag of "an extra $150" on his old car. What he didn't know was that the new car he traded for had been marked-up $193. Here, we believe in plain, honest figures and all we give for a used car is every last penny it is worth.

VA Advises Veterans On Life Insurance

Veterans who have been notified that their National Service Life Insurance term policies are running out, were advised today by the Veterans Administration how they may keep their low cost insurance in effect for several more years.

Arthur K. Underwood, director of insurance at the Denver VA Center, which handles the 22,000 insurance accounts of New Mexico veterans, explained that term insurance is a purely temporary plan to aid in the readjustment of veterans. However, he said Congress has recognized that many veterans are not yet prepared to convert their insurance to one of the higher costing but more advantageous permanent plans. As a result, several extensions have been allowed on the original five-year period during which term insurance may be held before conversion.

That means, Underwood explained, "that all term policies now expiring may be renewed for an additional five years."

An application for renewal must be submitted with at least one monthly premium before midnight of the last day of the term period.

Premium payments on insurance should be mailed directly to the VA district office, P. O. Box 1260, Denver.

When a term policy expires at midnight on Sunday or a legal holiday there is no extension of time and the application must be submitted and the premium payment postmarked before midnight of the last day of the expiring term. Renewed term policies carry a higher premium rate based on the insured's age at the time of renewal.

Veterans renewing or converting their insurance were also advised to complete the beneficiary and settlement option parts of the renewal or conversion forms in order to bring all phases of their insurance to date.

Underwood made an additional warning. Many veterans are renewing their term insurance and paying one month's premium but promptly forget to pay the final month's premium under their expiring policy.

New Mexico Adds New Contest To 4-H Program

A brand new contest has been added to the 4-H club program in New Mexico, according to L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H club leader. A 4-H public speaking program will be conducted in the state this year for the first time. Twenty other states in the nation will also carry on the program.

Suggested speaking subjects for contestants include: What 4-H Club Work Has Done For Me, My Home And My Community; Making The Farm And Home Safer; Agriculture And Petroleum; How 4-H Club Work Contributes To Good Citizenship; Homemaking As A Career; What 4-H Members Can Do To Promote Good Government. Talents must be original.

As incentives for outstanding achievement in the contest, gold filled medal awards are provided for the boy and girl winner in each county by the Pure Oil Company. State awards comprise a set of silverware in a handsome chest for the outstanding girl, and a standard American make 17-jewel gold watch for the top ranking boy.

Winners on both county and state levels will be determined by what the participants say and how they say it, Kurtz explains. County extension agents will furnish complete information regarding this new contest.

Crippled Children Society Meets In Albuquerque

An interesting program is planned for the afternoon, with guest speakers in the various medical fields reporting on the needed services for the handicapped people of our state. There will also be reports on present and proposed activities of the society.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting and to make suggestions as to projects for future years. Reservations for the luncheon may be made by contacting the New Mexico Society for Crippled Children, 1807 North Broadway, Albuquerque.

Recruiting The New Teacher

There is little reason to wonder that our young people have been turning away from a teaching career in droves. Nobody seems to have given a thought to trying to "sell" teaching as a career for the college graduate. All the emphasis has, instead, been on the negative. If a store, or a manufacturer, or an advertising agency tried to sell goods with the methods our educators have been using to fill teaching vacancies they would go bankrupt in a week. "Wanted: Young men and women, at starvation wages, for a job without a future. Long hours. Hard work. Applicants are warned that they will be regarded as social inferiors in the community. Do not apply if you have any ambition to better yourself. Faithful service not appreciated. Please apply, regardless of these conditions, as you are badly needed."

This is the style in which teaching as a career has been advertised, not only stressing the adverse, but sometimes exaggerating and misrepresenting it. The reason is, of course, that school administrators, teacher organizations and other elements in the community have been trying to obtain better financial support for schools from government, and to equalize educational opportunity. That is a worthy purpose, and we have joined in it. At the same time our schools now reap an unexpected and unwelcome harvest. We have so emphasized the adverse that our young people have been misled into thinking that there is no other side. Suppose, for a change, the case were put this way, as it could be in New York City: "Wanted: Young men and women to enter attractive profession. Starting pay immediately out of college, $2,500, or $2,700, if Master's degree. Steady, automatic increases. Double your pay in a few years. Pleasant associations. Make new friends. Be paid while learning. Three-month vacation each year. Retirement pension. Leave of absence every seventh year. Advancement to high executive positions possible, paying $10,000, $12,000 and even $25,000."

Yes, there is an attractive side to the teaching profession and more needs to be said about it. Yet, to get teachers, good teachers, we shall have to emphasize the high mission of the profession. It is not the expected pay that brings young men into the ministry, some of them great, inspiring preachers. Nor are great doctors made that way. We shall not attract great numbers of young people to the teaching profession with material rewards alone, though these should be adequate, but rather by pointing out an opportunity for great service, lived in a setting which is not unattractive for those so disposed. We shall have to clothe the profession with a new dignity, and in this the teacher himself will have to play his part.—Editorial from New York Times.

Ginsberg Music Co. To Demonstrate Musicoach

The Musicoach of the Ginsberg Music Company, Roswell, will be used by that firm during National Music Week, May 7-14. It is large enough to carry five pianos which makes it possible to bring the pianos direct to the customer's door.

The week of May 7 to 14 has been designated National Music Week, during which time the benefits of music in human relations are stressed. The towns, cities and smaller communities marked the occasion. It is no more than natural music be accorded a week of special recognition.

Not all persons respond to the same strains, for just as men differ in thought, taste and manner, they differ in their choice of music. This year's theme for the twenty-seventh annual observance of National Music Week is "music strengthens friendships of individuals, groups and nations." To broaden the contribution of music to the public welfare, the Ginsberg company will participate in this nationwide celebration.

Assignment New Mexico

By G. WARD FINLEY
That petticoat city government down at Hope, New Mexico, has caused a lot of case-hardened male politicians to raise their eyebrows.

It is a nationally known fact that American women control 90 per cent of the purse strings in this country and if they turn their interests to politics—may the Lord pity poor man.

But as far as this columnist is concerned, it is our candid opinion that women should be given a try especially in light of what a mess the men have got this old world into.

Women Could Stop Wars

Man has done a heck of a poor job in stopping wars and rumors of wars. It's old stuff now but the women in one of Aristophanes' comedies stopped wars—and over night at that. The spunky females refused to have anything to do with mates as long as the war continued.

It Is History That War Stopped Immediately

Getting back to the ambitious Hope women, it seems that their first job in office was to give a coffee-and-doughnut feast in honor of the outgoing men.

The men thought they had the last laugh by turning over an empty treasury to the Hope rulers.

This Saturday night Hope's mayor, Mrs. Ethel Altman, and her lady cohorts are giving a tremendous barn dance and on May 26 they will present a four-act mystery comedy—to replenish the treasury.

The men in such a situation would have thought only of raising taxes.

Bless the ladies' hearts—may be we need one for President.

The Pro And Con Of It
Many people have the opinion that women talk too much. And when they do talk, folks call it gossip. When men talk their heads off, it's merely conversation.

A German publication, Badsche Illustrierte, even says that women have two faults: they don't say what they think and they don't think what they say.

The Sly And Wily Woman

I read about a prim little old lady who was embarrassed by the presence of a man beside her at a drugstore counter.

She finally looked up pertly at the clerk and said: "Two packages of bathroom stationery, please."

A little boy was told by his mother that it was God that makes bad men good. The little boy philosophized: "Yeah, but mothers help a lot."

Wives are that stabilizing influence, also. Husbands, said one wag, are like furnaces; you have to watch them or they'll go out.

And In Conclusion

That's all this week except to relate the argument two little boys were having about how to tell a lady worm from a gentleman worm. One clinched his argument with: "Well, you know a worm always turns. If it turns without putting his hand out, it's a lady worm."

Teachers are allowed three days sick leave per year which may be accumulative.

The salary schedule for Lincoln County is according to training and experience. It starts with two years college work and no experience at $1,800 and goes to $3,550 per year for 20 years experience and a master's degree from college.

(An editorial from the New York Times on teacher recruitment is reprinted elsewhere in this issue.)

Information Available On Social Security

"We hear a lot about social security—these days; press and radio discussions raise questions about it that many people cannot answer," said J. Hassler Strickland, manager of the Roswell social security office, to which the questions are directed.

"Just what is the social security act all about? What benefits does it provide? What good will it do your wife and children in the event of your death? What good will it do you when you reach retirement age? Do you know the answers to these and other questions concerning social security?"

"You know what you are getting when you buy groceries from the corner store. You know, in general, what your insurance policy would do for you or your family when old age or death overtakes you. Yet too many people pay that 1 1/2 per cent of their salary each payday for (according to the receipt usually given with the pay check) "O.A.B." In addition to G.A.V. (old-age benefits) you are paying for survivors' benefits—benefits to your family in the event of your death. In other words, you are paying for federal old-age and survivors insurance.

Your State Government

By Thomas J. Mabry, GOVERNOR

"People who have faith often have faith in the wrong thing. However, there is only one kind of person who is definitely lost: the kind who has no faith in anything." — Francis Ambler.

We can have more economy and less taxes in government at all levels—local, state and national—only when we who kick about growing expenditures in government will stop asking our government to continue to expand public services.

It is hard to get any three men to agree upon what service to dispense with. Only when we make up our mind that no department should spend all it can get its hands on and that we can cut out some of the less essential to these services will we be making headway toward economy in government.

I have found that my absolute prohibition against over-spending budgets by any state institution or agency has resulted in a great saving in this state.

I am glad to report that we are turning back to the general fund, from one agency, at the end of this fiscal year about one and one-half million unspent dollars, providing we can collect the severance tax now held up in court. Last year we turned back almost a million dollars and the year before that $784,000, all from one agency, the Bureau of Revenue.

We are operating all departments in the black. We have no use for red ink in any of our institutions or state agencies. Deficit spending means poor budgeting, poor business and governmental extravagance. I simply will not permit it.

Schools and highways in this state take 53 per cent of the total tax dollar.

Only 7 per cent of the total state budget goes to support state administrative functions, which includes all state elective officers and most departments, some 40 of them.

An important point to remember is that it is not the administration of the essential functions of government that takes much of the tax dollar. Only 7 per cent of your dollar goes for such expense in New Mexico, as we have just said.

When we really make up our minds to cut spending (and therefore taxes) we must start in dispensing with some of the many services which we demand today—things which a few years ago we never thought of wanting.

We look to government for too many things, both essential and in the luxury class. Once we break that habit we are on the way to a better governmental economy.

I appreciate the aid and assistance that is given me by the various state institutions of learning, all of which, I feel confident, are trying to save all possible. I especially appreciate the big savings made over estimates for erection of public buildings on the college campus, and otherwise.

We have already been able to restore 5 per cent of the institutional budget cut, and if we prevail in the pending suit and collect the severance tax we ought to have a balance saved and unspent at the end of the fiscal year, June 30th, of about one and one-half million dollars to turn back to the general fund.

We are living in an age when we want all the luxuries that government can bestow, and kick about these things only when we get our tax bill. The time to kick is before we ask for and we vote for luxuries.

Rats, insects and mold destroy annually enough grain to keep 1,000,000 people alive.

Lea County Fair will be held September 15 and 16 at Lovington, according to County Agent Herman Perkins.

Why Bother With Poppies?

By LAWSON D. FISH
Every year shortly after Christmas numerous very worthwhile organizations approach with requests for donations to help them in their work. If it isn't income tax for Uncle Sam's government it's something else. It just gets to the point where a working man, or business man, can hardly make it. Or so he thinks.

The veterans' organizations have always been proud of the fact they almost never ask for something for nothing; they almost always have something to sell. It might be a dinner, a party, or some such thing. This year, as in years past, they will all approach you with poppies. (During the war they gave away everything they had to give.)

Why bother with poppies? There are only a couple of reasons why you should. Perhaps they are not good enough, but here they are: All over the nation in all of the hospitals where disabled veterans (both men and women) are housed, fed and clothed—some for the rest of their lives—those who are able to do so manufacture poppies out of little scraps of red crepe paper and, for their work, they receive somewhere between 2 and 3 cents for each one made.

The veterans' organizations take these poppies and sell them to their local posts all over the land for only what it costs to have them made. The result is the local organizations who make it possible for you to buy these poppies have had to pay out about 3 cents apiece for them. No, they are not free by any means. However, what you pay for a poppy stays right here at home. No high-salaried executive cuts his pay out of the money you pay for a poppy; no organization "somewhere back east" gets anything out of the poppy sale at all. Every cent stays right here and it is all put directly to work for those who cannot help themselves.

Perhaps by this time you begin to wonder how much you should pay for your poppy. Not a single veteran will ever advise you on that. It is entirely up to you. How much shall you pay for your poppy? The answer to that can be found easily enough if you have any answers to the following questions: How much do you owe to the veteran who can't see? How much do you owe to the man who has no legs? How much do you owe to the one who is physically fit, but who is so nervous from the rigors of the prison camp that he can't hold a job without breaking into tears? It's easy to forget isn't it? Some of these you know fairly well. How much do you owe the hundreds of young women who were shocked into insanity by the indignities of war? There are quite a few of them. If you have the answers to all of these questions, you have the answer to how much you should pay for your poppy. The next question about poppies is a very logical one. You will think to yourself, "with all these fellows selling poppies, from whom shall I buy?" That again is up to you. If you like the American Legion best, then by all means buy their poppies. If the Disabled American Veterans is the unit of your choice buy what they have to sell. And, if you like the Veterans of Foreign Wars better, then buy your poppies from them. It makes no difference from whom you buy your poppy. The important thing is to buy poppies! Buy lots of poppies! Patronize all of us if you can, but buy a poppy from someone! Try to remember those men and women who just simply can't forget.

Now for you hardy souls who still have a smile on your face (and I leave you all with this thought), isn't it more fun to buy a poppy than to be eligible to make one?

Of America's 19,000,000 veterans of all wars and campaigns, nearly 100,000 were in Veterans Administration hospitals at the end of April.

For many thousands of these, the war truly will never end. They are doomed for the remainder of their lives to remain charges of their government—grim reminders of the tragic price of war.

A grateful nation has seen to it that these heroes—some bedfast for life, others destined to spend the rest of their days in wheel chairs or on crutches—get the best of medical care. Modern hospitals and highly trained doctors and nurses see to their physical needs, thanks to the American tradition that it is the obligation of government to "care for him who shall have borne the battle."

Much as it provides in the way of physical care for its sick and disabled war heroes, the government cannot give them the extra comforts they need to make their drab lives more bearable, and to remind them that they are not forgotten. That is an obligation which must be assumed by their grateful fellow citizens as an expression of gratitude for the sacrifices they have made, and in recognition of the patience and forbearance with which they are carrying the burden of their handicaps.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars has gladly met this challenge by lending a helping hand in their battle against doubt, boredom, bitterness, and despair. In addition, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, through its service officers in every community, makes sure that the dependents of hospitalized veterans are cared for.

When you are asked to buy a Buddy Poppy, remember that every penny contributed by the American people in this campaign will be spent during the next twelve months for veteran welfare work exclusively. Most of what you give for a Buddy Poppy will be spent right here in our own community—for the benefit of our own needy veterans and their dependents.

The contribution you make through the purchase of a Buddy Poppy will be spent strictly for these patriotic purposes:

- For the aid, relief and comfort of disabled and needy veterans, their dependents, their widows and orphans.
- For maintenance or expansion of the V.F.W. National Home for widows and orphans of veterans at Itona, Michigan.
- For hospital or individual assistance and entertainment for needy veterans and service patients, and their dependents.
- For rehabilitation, welfare and service work, including liaison service with the Veterans Administration.
- For necessary expenses for military funerals of deceased veterans.
- For acquisition, improvement and maintenance of burial plots and the decoration of graves of veterans and their families.

cooks, Earnest McDaniels and Leroy McKnight, failed to salvage the beans and stew, and a new dinner had to be prepared. The old camp was supplied by means of radio from the camp to Mopjeau and thence by phone to Capitlan. The new camp is connected by phone to Block Look-out.

Six huge dozers were brought in Monday night and by Tuesday a line had been dozed out on the northeast side. Wednesday, a plane flew through the low flying clouds to drop dry ice in an effort to give the relief of rain. A slight sprinkle resulted.

Dean Earl, ranger in charge of the fire, is optimistic about the fire providing the weather does not become too hot and windy.

The fire fighters have been finding additional track results of the holocaust since Wednesday when they have been able to penetrate more of the burned area.

Two more bear cubs were found, but since they were not in bad condition, the cubs were released. Carcasses of deer and cats have been discovered, the animals having probably become confused and headed for instead of away from the flames.

Roasts of wild turkeys were found in the tree tops where they had evidently sought shelter, and didn't sense they could fly out of the area of danger.

Occasionally deer were observed running from the interior of the fire area. As they neared the fire line and saw people, they appeared to become frightened and would turn back directly into the flames.

The final sum of timber, scenic beauty and wildlife lost will affect Lincoln County for many years to come.

The forest fire now burning at Ocate in the Carson Forest is believed to have burned off 15,000 acres, which may be a greater loss than will be suffered in the Lincoln National Forest. A forest fire in the northern part of New Mexico near Las Vegas last March burned off 23,000 acres.

In 1910, 1,000 tractors and about 24,000,000 horses and mules did the heavy work on American farms. In 1929, about 1,000,000 horses and mules and about 3,500,000 tractors, developing 77,000,000 horsepower, worked on farms. This has released 3,000,000 acres of crop land for other production, formerly used to feed horses and mules.

Circular Tells How To Reupholster Furniture

Now that materials are more abundant, many New Mexico homemakers are interested in reupholstering chairs which become shabby and worn during the war years.

And these women will be glad to know about a new circular, "Reupholstering a Chair at Home," which has recently been published by the Extension Service of Oregon State College. Copies of this circular may be obtained, free of charge, from county extension agents in New Mexico.

This circular has been written for the homemaker who, without previous experience, wants to reupholster a chair in her own home without professional help. Says Miss Veda Strong, home management specialist with the New Mexico Extension Service, "In step-by-step form, the circular shows how one type of chair may be reupholstered. The same basic principles may be applied to other types of chairs and davenport." "Reupholstering a Chair at Home" is illustrated with 112 photographs and drawings.

mother, "he's the best crop we ever raised."

Reld commended the graduates to hunters in quest of their fortune, and told them to build upon the solid rock of character. He concluded his remarks with the admonition that character is the only diploma which God gives to man.

"Now Is The Hour" was sung by the quartet, after which Patty Stephenson recited the poem, "A Sportsman's Prayer," and Bobby John Huffmyer, valedictorian, gave the farewell address.

Athletic awards were made by M. S. Mirimanian, coach, who was introduced by Raymer Shaw. The perfect attendance certificates were presented by L. Z. Manire.

As the names of the graduating students were called by W. H. Nickels, president, Board of Education, each boy and girl in cap and gown walked up to the stage from their front row seats to receive the coveted diploma. After shaking hands with Nickels, each graduate moved the tassel on the mortarboard hats from left to right side. This placement of the tassel is a symbol of their commencement.

Father Vito C. de Baca, Santa Rita Catholic Church, delivered the benediction, after which the audience stood as the graduates walked up the aisle to the strains of Seymour Smith's "March of the Pioneer," played by L. W. Snider.
