School of Mines Grads Hear Weather Expert

Dr. Irving Langmuir, Nobel prize winner and world famous scientist, addressed the graduating class of the New Mexico School of Mines May 26. Dr. E. J. Workman, president of the college, stated it was a particularly appropriate choice since Langmuir has been working with the school's staff for the past two years and has developed a great interest in the educational program and forward progress of the college.

In his commencement address, Dr. Langmuir spoke on "The Art of Profiting From the Unexpected," an art he has practiced with great success during more than 40 years of scientific work. "In human affairs we must recognize two classes of occurrences," said Dr. Langmuir. These are "convergent phenomena," in which the overall result depends upon the averaging of large numbers of separate events, and "divergent phenomena," in which "from small beginnings, events of great importance may develop." In the latter "there may be no relation between cause and effect."

Discussing planning as it affects human destiny, Langmuir said that planning is dependent upon cause and effect, and that "planning in general is most useful when it is applied to fields which depend on convergent phenomena." On the other hand, where divergent phenomena are the dominant factor, planning may do more harm than good unless it is very general in scope.

"Discoveries cannot be planned," said Dr. Langmuir in illustration, "but expeditions into new fields where discoveries are likely to be made, can and very often should be planned."

"New ideas, discoveries and inventions, like the mutations that bring new forms of life into existence, are typical divergent phenomena," he said.

Discussing planning with reference to our national life, Langmuir said "there are no supermen and never will be who can predict the outcome of divergent phenomena." Dictators and Utopias are examples of bad planning. Too much planning can be harmful. The atomic bomb, he said, was an example of good planning.

Classical physics, said Langmuir, is no longer the last word in science. During the present century there has developed what is called Quantum Physics, which represents a fundamental revision of the very basis of scientific thinking. He pointed out as opening new fields, the discovery of the X-ray, the electron and radioactivity, and noted that now single atoms, electrons and

Precipitation Research Corporation Formed Here

At a meeting held May 25 in Carrizozo, a group of men from Lincoln and Socorro Counties signed articles of incorporation to form the Precipitation Research Corporation, a non-profit membership corporation.

Bill Cutter, Albuquerque, who operates a commercial flying service there, met with the group and explained some of the aspects of inducing artificial rain, fall as encountered by him in his experiments made under the supervision of the New Mexico School of Mines.

The directors chosen for the first year are Truman Spencer Jr., Willis R. Lovelace Jr., Mark Sloan, L. W. Wieland, Roy Shafer, Kelly Stephenson and Will Ed Harris. The group plan a meeting this week to elect officers.

They have already received their certificate. The corporation has been formed to do research work in meteorology, cloud formations and atmospheric conditions conducive to rainfall. They will carry on their research work under the direction of the New Mexico School of Mines, Socorro, which has been named as the location of the state's new program for an official study of rainmaking.

The corporation plans to retain meteorologists, scientists, aviators, equipment and supplies for the purpose of entering into their study and experimental work.

They hope to increase rainfall by scientific seeding and treating of cloud formations.

Charter members of the corporation are Brock Sloan, Carrizozo; Mark Sloan, Carrizozo; Truman Spencer Jr., Carrizozo; Willis R. Lovelace Jr., Corona; Kelly Stephenson, Carrizozo; Roy E. Shafer, Carrizozo; Maurice Spear, Claunch; Will Ed Harris, Carrizozo; Henry Clary, Claunch; W. M. Petross, Claunch; L. W. Wieland, Claunch; Leonard V. Ladd, Claunch; Howard Surratt, Claunch; and John Earmanspe, Corona.

Transient Sentenced In Robbery of Local Store

Joseph Fred Starnes, 33, Elko, Nev., transient, pleaded guilty in court on May 29 to charges of breaking and entering the Vega Feed Store during the early morning hours of May 22, and taking a gun and other articles valued at approximately $75.

Judge W. T. Scoggin sentenced Starnes to the New Mexico State Prison for not less than 18 months and not more than 24 months. Starnes received the news of his sentence with smiling good humor.

More Than 700 Attend 4-H Camp Dedication

"I am thankful for a system of government which permits young people to develop themselves in order to take their rightful places in our democracy," Mrs. Leroy Evans, president of the Southern New Mexico 4-H Club Foundation, told more than 700 persons assembled for the dedication of the new $30,000 Scott Able 4-H Club camp in the Sacramento Mountains in Otero County May 28.

On behalf of the foundation, Mrs. Evans presented the camp to the 4,000 4-H club members in 13 southern New Mexico counties. Wade Green, Eddy County 4-H'er, made the acceptance speech.

Cecil Herrill, extension radio editor, served as master of ceremonies at the dedication. Sam Service, forester, U. S. Forest Service, Lincoln National Forest, explained the natural surroundings of the camp.

The new camp will provide facilities for 216 club members during each camping period. The camp buildings include a large dining hall and recreation building, six barracks and a bathhouse. The dining hall has been named Wade Hall in honor of Otero County Agent Walter Wade who assisted in planning and completing the construction of the camp.

Judge Postpones Sanchez Trial

District Judge W. T. Scoggin continued last Monday the case of Abraham Sanchez until such time as his juvenile son is able to appear in court. Sanchez was ordered to appear May 29, to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court in connection with the case of his minor son who was made a ward of the court last January.

The boy was committed to the care and custody of George Wood, probation officer, third judicial district, and turned over to his father's care with the condition Sanchez follow the instructions and recommendations of Wood for the boy's care and welfare.

Sanchez is charged with failing to follow the recommendations and instructions of the court. Testimony developed in the hearing Monday revealed the boy is in the local hospital with a gunshot wound through the abdomen, alleged to have been self-inflicted.

Dr. J. P. Turner, principal witness in Monday's questioning, testified the boy's condition, at the time of arrival at the hospital, was one of shock and that he was bleeding internally. In order to perform surgery it was necessary to obtain the signed permission of the father or other responsible relative, Turner testified. Turner's testimony revealed the boy's father was sent for, but a second trip was made before he appeared. Sanchez was then informed it was necessary to have his permission for the operation and the financial responsibility would have to be assumed by a responsible person.

Sanchez, according to the doctor, said the boy was under the jurisdiction of the court, and was not his responsibility; that he had turned him over to the court, was free of responsibility and would see an attorney to determine whether he had to sign his permission for the operation.

Turner, upon further questioning, stated he had informed Sanchez they couldn't leave the boy lying there, and he would call

County Demo Chairman Urges Large Primary Vote

"Get out in the primaries and vote," urges Carl E. Ness, Lincoln County Democratic chairman.

Ness said: "So many of the people consider the primaries as a minor factor in the political wheels of government, while on the contrary it is an important key in the advancement of better government. It is in the primaries you choose the most qualified persons that will compete in the November general election for the very important seats that make up your county and state government.

"The Lincoln County Democratic ticket is composed in the majority of candidates running for a second term. They have in the past two years proven their ability to carry on their duties in an effective, efficient and competent manner; they justly deserve a second term. For those offices where there are several candidates competing, we must remember they are all Democrats, unfortunately we cannot send them all to the general election. We must therefore give serious consideration to the man best qualified and vote for that man.

"Let us strive to bring out a record breaking vote in the primaries. I again urge all Democrats to exercise their prerogative, get out on June 6, and vote."

Annual Assessment Work Starts On Asbestos Mine

J. W. House, president, Asbestos Mines Inc., Carrizozo, reports a contractor has been engaged to do their annual assessment and development work, and is now on the property.

The mine is located in the White Oaks district and was formerly the old Las Cinco Arenas property, according to House. He added they have a really nice chrysophyllite ore, and plan to do a considerable amount of development work on the property in the near future. House is supervising the work now being done.

Dr. Irving Langmuir, noted scientist, Nobel Prize winner and foremost authority on artificial rainmaking, who will address an emergency meeting called by the New Mexico Economic Development Commission for 10 A. M. today (June 2) at the Socorro School of Mines in Socorro. The meeting has been called to launch a study of precipitation control by the state and to point out the dangers of present indiscriminate rainmaking efforts.

Contract To Be Let For New San Antonio Bridge

A new bridge over the Rio Grande at San Antonio will soon be a reality, according to State Highway Engineer Burton G. Dwyre. The new structure to be built in the highway letting to be held June 8, along with five other contracts.

The new bridge will be of steel and concrete construction, and will cost about $300,000, Dwyre said. It will replace the temporary structure now across the river on U. S. 380 and will be 1,333 feet long.

"This will give the state a passageway over the Rio Grande that will be impervious to the elements, as nearly as we can conceive such things," Dwyre said. "The traffic on this highway has increased to the point where it becomes necessary that we have a permanent structure."

Dwyre recounted something of the history of the bridge and said he hoped the jinx that seemed to cover this river crossing will be eliminated with the construction of the new bridge.

The first known bridge at this point was built by the old San Antonio-Carthage railroad. This span was used by highway traffic also, cars and wagons straddling one rail and bumping over. This came bridge was used by highway traffic after the railroad stopped operations over the bridge until 1933 when a contract was awarded the Lee Moor Contracting Company to build a new bridge.

The $100,000 bridge, built of treated timber with concrete flooring, was partially washed out when the Rio Grande flooded in 1941. E. D. Shuffelbarger built a temporary addition at this time at a cost of over $25,000. Six years later a fire destroyed the entire structure, once again closing the road to traffic.

E. M. Silver was awarded a contract for another temporary bridge, the one standing today. Costing only about $30,000, it was not intended to withstand a heavy Rio Grande flood.

Cost of maintenance of the bridges plus the cost of the bridges themselves has brought about an expenditure of about $600,000 in bridging this one place over the Rio Grande.

Other projects included in the letting on June 8 are SP-FAP 92, 93 and 94 between Raton and Des Moines, S-127(3) between Belen and Bosque, S-126(3) from Tatum toward the New Mexico-Texas line, S-77(4) between Fort Sumner and Roswell, and S-164(1) in Cox Canyon between Cloudcroft and Weed.

WHAT HAPPENS TO POPPY MONEY?

By LAWSON D. FISH During the recent poppy campaign many people asked me what happens to their poppy money. I am certain that many more wondered the same thing. It is a good legitimate question and deserves the right answer.

Insofar as the Veterans of Foreign Wars is concerned, it boils down to this: Each and every post that conducts a poppy sale must buy its poppies from the national headquarters at the rate of 5 cents each. About half of this nickel goes to the disabled man or woman veteran who is still able to manufacture poppies by hand; the other half, to the VFW National Home for Orphaned and Aged Veterans, which those little tykes, orphaned by the war, who have no daddy or mommy to tuck them into bed at night or to fix their oatmeal for them the next morning. All the rest of your poppy money stays right here at home for the benefit of needy veterans or their dependents.

You may be assured that (1) not one cent goes to pay any salaried worker; (2) not one cent may be used to pay incidental expenses of the post promoting the sale. All of it, except for that one nickel, is to be used right here at home for the benefit of any needy veteran, or his family—some person who might be a good friend of yours. How do you feel now about your poppy money? Pretty good? I know you would!

Sometimes an overly ambitious chairman will take money out of his own pocket to give to various carefully selected organizations (not individuals) to help promote the sale of poppies. This has been done in various localities, but everything you gave for your poppy stays right here at home.

On May 20 a considerable sum of money was tossed around in this locality (all the way from Hondo to Carrizozo). Just about everybody had one or more poppy on their hats, their shirts, their dresses. Some even bought one, wore it an hour or so, and gave it back to the very carefully selected matrons to sell over again.

The officers and members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Horton Pepper Post No. 7851, have no words to express their gratitude to you wonderful people who helped us so much. All we can say is—thanks, thanks a lot!

The American Legion held their poppy sale May 27. The money I gave them for my poppy might buy a pair of socks or a good breakfast for some little tyke who doesn't know where his folks are. It might even buy her a little doll to take to bed with her when she doesn't have anything else to hang onto.

We are very lucky, aren't we?

He also served the State Highway Department from 1924-43, since which time he has been field auditor for the New Mexico Bureau of Revenue. Stromel, born at Koehler, near Baton, is 36. CORONA

By MRS. A. E. MULKEY Six people from Corona took the postal examinations last week in Carrizozo. They were: Carl Mays, Mrs. George Davis, Herman McKibben, Miss Eugenia Austin, Mrs. Gertrude Watson and Colin Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Owen and children were in Roswell this week. Their new son is under a doctor's care.

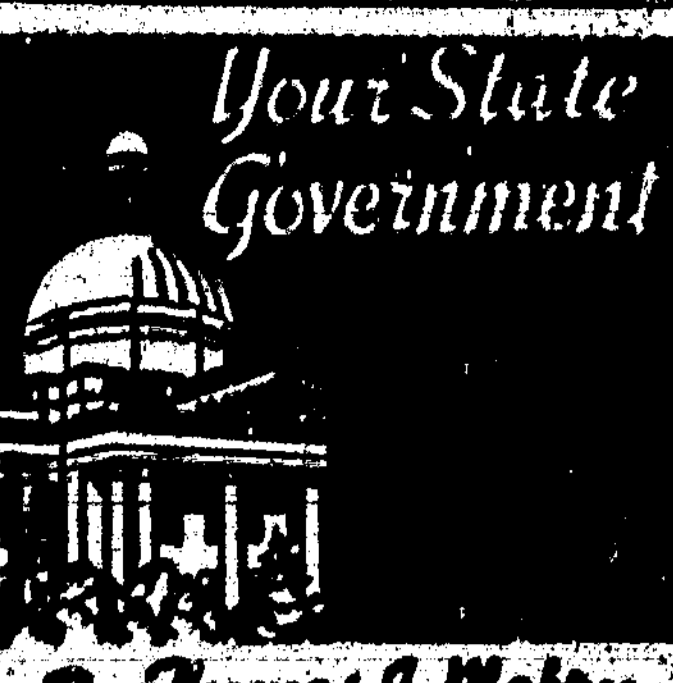

There were three small fires started by lightning in the Galina Mountains Saturday evening and Sunday. All the fires were quickly brought under control and very little damage was done. Mrs. Christine Crowe was serving as clerk this week at the Corona Trading Company. Phillip Minor came home from Belen where he has been working and is employed in helping build the new school gym.

Phillip Austin, who has been working for the REA here, recently injured his toe and is wearing a cast on his foot. Mrs. Mary DuBois was in Albuquerque last week visiting her son, Frank, and family.

Pete G. Nunez, brother-in-law, Christian Kuopp, 80, died recently in El Paso. Kuopp had made his home in El Paso for 50 years. He had served in the civil service employment for 35 years at Fort Bliss. He was a frequent visitor in Corona. Mr. and Mrs. Nunez and daughter, Dolis, attended funeral services in El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hillmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pfeiffer and daughter, Sally Mae; Ben and Dell Mae Roberts visited relatives and friends in Belen Sunday.

A vacation Bible school at the Baptist Church ended last Friday with a picnic at the Three Pines Park just south of Corona. The enrollment was 30 with an average daily attendance of 22.

"The sorrow of knowing that there is evil in the best is far out-balanced by the joy of discovering that there is good in the worst."—Austin Riggs.

As we go into the last lap of this rather unusual and bitter primary campaign I hope that we do not forget that in spite of what one or two candidates are trying to say, New Mexico is a great state of great people; that we enjoy governmental advantages, privileges and low taxes not available to the citizens of many other states; and that we have made great progress in the last few years.

Some candidates are prone to greatly over state their cases and to make promises that they know will be hard, if not impossible, to fulfill. Many have tried to out-shout you when they cannot out-reason you.

They think only of their own selfish interests—like an egg, so full of itself there is no room for anything else. But when we brush away the chaff and look at the clean grain of the crop most of us can make our decisions upon the merits of candidates and the facts as we know them.

We will not follow the shallow thinking of the fellow who promises us Utopia at no cost to the taxpayer. We will follow, rather, the thinking of the candidates who tell us the truth about the costliness of any substantial extension of public service—who give us both sides of the picture. There is no one to pay the bill but the taxpayer.

But let's not forget the election long enough to look over some of the record and notice things that make us proud to be New Mexicans; things which give us added faith in ourselves and our state. Here it is:

(1) Notwithstanding we accommodate tremendous tourist travel, New Mexico's highway accident toll is 12 per cent below the national average, according to the recent survey of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

(2) Our state police, which has won high praise from national surveys, operates with less men per thousand miles of highway to patrol than any state in the Rocky Mountain region.

(3) We are building a state capitol which will be one of the beautiful capitols of the nation, without the levying of a single dollar of extra taxes. We are paying for this building as we go from dollars saved from operating budgets in other departments.

(4) According to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and other surveys, we build and maintain our highway system in this state at a lower cost per mile than any other state in the Rocky Mountain area.

(5) We are one of very few states that is operating its departments wholly within budgets in the past three years and have substantial savings to turn back for the relief of the taxpayer.

(6) We spend more, at the state level, to advertise and encourage tourist travel than any of the other states of the Union, excepting Florida, New York and Oregon.

(7) We have not had a single financial scandal involving any institution or any state official or agency head during my two terms as governor. The budget director, set up under my administration, keeps close watch of all transactions involving state finances.

(8) We rank fourth or fifth from the top of all 48 states in the salary paid our public school teachers. And this has been achieved through the earmarking of the sales tax, and other school moneys. We now have a surplus in the public school equalization fund of some five million dollars, saved up for a rainy day when income might drop off.

(9) We have the lowest property tax rate of any of the surrounding states and this limitation on such taxation, I trust, will always be kept intact.

(10) And finally, we have a state which abounds in natural beauty, unexcelled climate, hospitable and industrious people.

And, with the aid and cooperation of the people we are going to continue to develop and move forward.

The U. S. Public Health Service Women's Bridge Club had its regular, semi-monthly desert-bridge Thursday at the Bakers with Mrs. Ray Baker and Mrs. Leonore Stemmer acting as co-hostesses. In addition Mesdames Gould, Benson, Burleson, Howell, Kuslanovich, Lithgow, Merrell, Payman and her cousin, Mrs. Hesock; Reed, Shaw, White and the Misses Reid and Maroney made up four tables. Mrs. Merrell walked off with top prize for high score. Mrs. Baker was second and Mrs. Lithgow was amazed with third prize since she says she hasn't played for some time. The next meeting will be at the Burlesons June 8.

Frank Smith writes that he arrived okay and knows he'll feel better as soon as he can get into the water every day along with the sun. He's impressed with all the fresh fruit to be had and especially plenty of tree ripened grapefruit for juice.

Miss Madge McDonald, one of our very able nurses, slipped away over the weekend and married Norman Pettigrew. Good luck to them!

Miss Margaret Young, the new chief nurse, arrived Monday to take over from Miss Page, who has been acting in that capacity ever since Miss White retired and doing a grand job of it, too. Miss Young came from Mobile via San Francisco where she attended the nurses' convention.

Chief Dietitian Miss Ruth Ostrander took advantage of the long weekend holiday by going to Chiricahua, Ariz., where she spent one night at the Silver Spur Dude Ranch.

The Louis Merrells went to El Paso Saturday.

The barbecue, recently installed back of the Nurses Home, was given its initial try-out last Saturday night. Steak never tasted so good, say those who were on hand; Mrs. Holderman's husband, who came up from Las Cruces was a great help.

Tonight Miss Ostrander is fixing to have the nurses eat out there and who wouldn't want to with such nice weather. Seems this barbecue is going to be a popular place this summer.

Well, folks, with a grin on my face and all my fingers crossed, I shall tell you only about this much: Luke the Spook has crawled back into the woodwork—returned to his old haunts, so to speak—and Mrs. Whitehead is again doing the very excellent kind of writing that all of you have been accustomed to reading (the kind of writing that sold over a dozen new subscribers the past couple of months). I don't have much to say, but there were a few things that were a bit late for last week's paper so here they are:

Charles P. Sacoman Jr., who is the field representative of the New Mexico State Tuberculosis Association, conducted a meeting in the grade school auditorium in Carrizozo on May 24 at 7:30 P. M. A board of directors and several officers were elected. I have always hesitated to use anyone's name in any writing I do but this organization is so extremely important that I would like to have all of you good folks know who these people are and where they come from.

Mrs. Clyde O. Brewster, Carrizozo, president; Mrs. R. E. Whitehead, Fort Stanton, vice president; Mrs. Julia C. Stierlin, Carrizozo, secretary treasurer.

Board of directors: Mrs. Wilbur Dishman, Corona; Archie Perkins, Corona; Dr. Larry Moore, Ruidoso; Mrs. Phil Laramie, Capitlan; Mrs. Dave Fresques, Pecos; Dr. E. E. Whitehead, Fort Stanton; Fernin Montes, Honda; Father Vito de Baca, Carrizozo; Dr. J. P. Turner, Carrizozo; Clyde Shultz, Carrizozo.

Little Collie Bethel Payton was so ambitious and so impatient she got tired waiting for "That Old Story" to come around so she made her appearance on May 23 at 6:30 A. M. She is setting up housekeeping temporarily in an incubator donated by the Woman's Club of Ruidoso some time ago. Ladies, doesn't it give you a good feeling to know that your efforts have given a cute little tyke a chance to live and enjoy this old world? When I talked to Eddie and Thelma a few nights ago they were so impressed with the baby, and each other, they could hardly talk to me.

ENCINOSO

The Block ranch is to be turned over to the new owners now in a few days. Cecil and "Shorty," cowboys at the ranch, made a trip to Roswell Friday. They were to return to the ranch Sunday.

"Red Mud" Lambert of the Block went to Lubbock over the weekend on business.

I. E. Wasson was a visitor at the M. J. Allen ranch Saturday. Bill Hogg and wife, Tom, made a trip to Tatum.

The people of the Encinosa community are glad to hear there will be a new student at the Encinosa School next fall. Mr. Hogg's son, a seventh grader, will be in school. He probably will offer some good competition at baseball.

There are only a few men left at the fire camp now over on this side of the mountain, as there are only small fires left in this area. Some have cropped out on top of the mountain, so there are some men camped on top who will patrol the area for awhile longer.

A light—too light—rain fell a few nights ago. We caught about one barrel of water in the cistern so I hardly know how to estimate the rainfall. After having been dry so long here, the ground was hardly damp from this slight moisture, but we are thankful for "anything wet" around here, at least until things get wetter.

MILES or CHAVEZ

An Appeal to REASON An Appeal to LOGIC

The next governor of New Mexico will be either John E. Miles or David Chavez, Jr. The other three candidates for Governor—Ingram Pickett, Lake Frazier and Henry Eager—merely confuse the issue. There are some sincere people who will want to vote for one of the above three candidates, even though they know none of them has a chance to be elected. To these people we would like to point out very forcibly that: A VOTE FOR INGRAM PICKETT IS A VOTE FOR CHAVEZ A VOTE FOR LAKE FRAZIER IS A VOTE FOR CHAVEZ A VOTE FOR HENRY EAGER IS A VOTE FOR CHAVEZ Unless you want the Chavez family in control of New Mexico, then you should vote for John E. Miles. There is no alternative. John E. Miles served New Mexico well during the four years that he was governor. He served the state well as land commissioner. He served us well as our congressman. We believe that as an administrator he is infinitely superior to David Chavez. WE URGE THAT YOU VOTE FOR JOHN E. MILES ON JUNE 6th. Sponsored by Miles Supporters

The MAN and his RECORD

When a man has the number of true friends John E. Miles can boast of having, there must be good reason. One of these reasons is—He has never gone back on his word. He has grown in stature and ability with each office he has held. Today New Mexico still enjoys the benefits of four successful years of careful administration by John E. Miles as chief executive. Here are some of his accomplishments that are still in effect and force in New Mexico, as law or established policy. 1. The legislative enactment sponsored by Governor Miles requiring open, competitive bidding on all highway construction. 2. Governor Miles initiated legislation for greater protection of New Mexico timber lands. 3. The establishment of a State Prison farm was sponsored by Governor Miles, helping to rehabilitate men and make them useful citizens. 4. During his administration expenditure controls were established to safeguard the taxpayer's dollar and bring about economies in government costs. 5. The State's present permanent registration law was passed under his administration. 6. School terms in New Mexico were established on a nine months minimum, and the first serious attempt was made to increase salaries of school teachers. Too, the Teacher Retirement Law was passed with his active support. 7. Today thousands of people can buy their automobile license plates in January and February because Governor Miles recognized the financial burden of buying a license before January 1. 8. He vetoed the section of the 1939 liquor law which would have permitted Sunday sale of liquor. 9. He sponsored legislation which made it easier for taxpayers in distressed circumstances to redeem their property by an installment plan contract. 10. The same kind of record carried over into his administration of New Mexico's 12 million acres of public lands. It was during his term as Land Commissioner that the biggest lease sale in the history of the State was held, realizing more than a million dollars. 11. As Congressman his public record is outstanding. Because John Miles is not an unknown quantity, because New Mexicans have come to respect from him sound and seasoned leadership... and get it... and because they can trust John Miles, they will vote for him on June 6. alpha particles can be studied. Langmuir noted that there were fashions in science, and that natural laws were found because it was the goal of scientists to discover and study natural laws. Scientists, he said, like to be successful, and have a tendency to follow the leader. As a key word, Langmuir used "serendipity," a term coined by Horace Walpole with reference to three princes of Ceylon who found by chance or sagacity, valuable things they did not seek. Serendipity, the scientist said, can be cultivated. Through curiosity, enthusiasm, an open mind, and the avoidance of dogmatism and know-it-all attitude, one is able to profit from the unexpected. He advised working for fun, and having fun in one's daily work. He begged the members of the graduating class not to reject ideas too readily. Dr. Irving Langmuir, one of the world's most honored scientists, during the last 40 years has earned more than 16 of the most coveted medals and awards of the scientific world. First American industrial chemist to receive the Nobel Prize, awarded in 1932 for his contribution to surface chemistry, Langmuir also holds the Franklin Medal presented by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Faraday Medal of the British Institute of Electrical Engineers, Nichols medal of American Chemical Society, and recently the Maecart medal of the Societe Francaise des Electriciens. He has been given honorary degrees by 16 major universities, including Harvard, Princeton, Oxford and Johns Hopkins. He has served as past president of the American Chemical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Born in 1891 in Brooklyn, N. Y., Langmuir is a descendant of the Langmuir family which came to America on the Mayflower. Taking an interest in science at a very tender age, Langmuir had built his own laboratory by the time he was 12. In 1903 he was graduated from the school of mines at Columbia University with a degree in metallurgical engineering. Both chemist and physicist, Langmuir is best known for his perfection of the high-vacuum

District Attorney Tom Campbell. He said he talked to Campbell in Las Cruces, and that after Campbell had talked with Sanchez on the telephone, the boy's father signed the papers. The doctor stated the boy's condition is very satisfactory unless complications occur which they do not look for now. George Wood, probation officer, testified he talked to Sanchez last February after the boy was referred to him by Judge Scoggin. Wood said the boy complained of not being allowed freedom to go to some of the dances, movies, etc. At that time, Wood said, the boy had been given permission by his father to raise some rabbits, etc., out on the edge of town and sleep in a shack out there, but eat his meals at home. The probation officer said he asked the father to treat the boy with leniency and give him pocket money, and Sanchez promised to do so. The note alleged to have been written by the boy before he reportedly shot himself was not admitted as evidence in Monday's trial. George A. Shipley, Alamogordo, attorney for the defendant, objected to it upon the grounds it was not good evidence and the boy should be there to testify. Judge Scoggin sustained his objection, but said it might be admitted later. Wood also testified Sanchez called him in April of this year and said he wanted the boy "off his shoulders" and "nothing more to do with him." The probation officer said he had given his permission then for the boy designed to enhance the rainfall of the area. Dr. Langmuir, eminent scientist of General Electric Company, was present at the May 27 meeting. He offered to supply any information and advice available to himself and his associate scientists at General Electric for use in the New Mexico Program. New Mexico School of Mines scientists have worked with General Electric Company in cloud precipitation research conducted in New Mexico for the last two years. A sharp warning was voiced by the scientists during the initial meeting that the "indiscriminate seeding of clouds" with silver iodide and other substances might not only be destructive of property, but also might actually increase the present drought. It was pointed out that certain individuals were using silver iodide in dangerously large amounts—far in excess of the tiny quantity needed to precipitate local rainfall. There is evidence that the excess seeding might be causing the floods on the Mississippi through silver iodide being carried by prevailing winds. Also the present southwestern drought might be caused by depleting clouds in the Mississippi area which would normally provide moisture to Texas and New Mexico.

power tube which makes possible modern radio broadcasting, and his development of the gas-filled incandescent lamp which is said to save Americans a billion dollars a year in electric light bills.

For several years he has been interested in weather studies, in particular the so-called "rain-making" experiments. With his associates at General Electric Company, Langmuir has cooperated with New Mexico School of Mines scientists in a series of successful tests in the artificial precipitation of clouds. These tests were performed near Albuquerque last summer, and further work in this field will continue this summer. Retired in January after 40 years service with General Electric Laboratories, Dr. Langmuir plans to devote the greater part of his time to research in the artificial precipitation of clouds. Dr. Langmuir and his associates have spent a part of the last two summers in New Mexico cooperating with scientists of New Mexico School of Mines on Project Cirrus, a joint weather research program sponsored by the U. S. Army Signal Corps and the Office of Naval Research. Both chemist and physicist, Langmuir's avid curiosity about nature has carried him into many fields. Useful to biology is his method of optically detecting viruses, poisons and other tiny and invisible substances. He discovered atomic hydrogen welding which makes possible the easy welding of aluminum and chromium and hitherto unweldable metals. With the aid of Dr. Vincent Schaefer, he developed an efficient smoke screen used in World War II. Nearing 70, Langmuir remains energetic and full of enthusiasm. He has been a skier and mountaineer climber, and for many years he owned and flew an airplane.

District Court Cases

The San Patricio juvenile who was alleged to have been driving the car that struck and killed 77-year-old Jose Bernabe Lara on May 10 appeared in court Monday with his father. The testimony of Clyde Atwood, deputy sheriff, indicated the mechanical condition of the car was not too good. The boy's father testified the boy had never been involved in any trouble before and that he had always obeyed his parents. The father further testified the car was registered in his name but he had given it to the boy who will be 18 in August. District Judge W. T. Scoggin ordered the boy be made a ward of the court. The boy's driver's license was suspended for a period of six months. Ed T. Evans was sentenced to 30 days in jail and ordered to pay $50 court costs in connection with the stabbing of Ben West Jr. a few weeks ago in Capitan. The jail sentence was suspended upon condition of payment of the costs. West is reported out of the hospital and soon will return to work. Both young men are reported to be from Alabama and are employed by REA in the construction of a line between Nogal and Capitan.

to work in Capitan. Mrs. Joe Ortiz, sister of the boy, revealed in her testimony she and her father have not visited each other in four years and are not on speaking terms. The defendant's attorney then moved the case be dismissed upon the grounds the evidence submitted showed no violation of the court's order in connection with the juvenile delinquency case last January. E. E. Chavez, assistant district attorney and prosecuting attorney for the state, summed up his case by stating the defendant had acted miserably as a father and by his action at the hospital (from testimony given by Dr. J. P. Turner) showed no concern whether the boy died, but was interested only in how much he would have to pay. Chavez pointed out not only the defendant, but every man should be shown his moral and legal obligations, and that the court should teach parents they cannot bring children into this world and then not take care of them. He asked that without making anyone suffer too much, the defendant should be made to care for his minor son and any other children he may have. Judge Scoggin said he would continue the case until the defendant's minor son is able to appear in court and testify, but that the defendant must pay the hospital and medical fees. He further indicated he felt the defendant had failed to exercise his duty as a father, else the boy would not be in his present position. According to Judge Scoggin, the defendant has tried many times to have the boy put in a reform school; that the boy's misdeeds had not been so bad except for the alleged forging of his father's name to a small check, which he implied might have been the result of the conditions under which the boy lived. Judge Scoggin stated he has secured a position for the boy if he recovers, which he may have for the rest of his life if he so desires. The court, stated Scoggin, is interested in the welfare of all children, and feels it best if the boy is kept apart from his father. The judge stated if the boy then continued to do wrong he must be punished. The defendant's attorney objected to the continuance of the case and said his client wanted the motion for dismissal sustained. The judge ordered the case continued, however, until the defendant's minor son is able to testify. Sanchez told The News-Outlook Wednesday he felt the testimony revealed at Monday's trial had put him in an unfavorable position, and believes if and when he and his witnesses are permitted to testify it will throw a different light upon the case.
