EDC Seeks To Make Gas From N. M. Coal

Robert McKinney, chairman of New Mexico Economic Development Commission, announces broadening of the state's industrial base is New Mexico's goal in the war preparedness program. He stated a pilot plant to make oil and gasoline from New Mexico coal is being sought.

McKinney said he attended hearings of the interior committee headed by Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.) on construction of government plants to make oil and gasoline from coal.

"And," added McKinney, "we can rest assured that Senator Anderson will do everything possible to secure one of the proposed pilot plants for New Mexico coal fields. New Mexico has billions of tons of coal suitable for the plant in the Raton area, where the Dawson mine has closed; in the Gallup area, where coal mining is only a small portion of its former capacity; and in the undeveloped areas of the San Juan Basin in northwestern New Mexico."

McKinney said that mining of iron and tin would receive special attention in the Economic Commission's survey of the state. He reported Senator Dennis Chavez stressed importance of the deposits which although of low grade have much strategic importance.

McKinney announced all New Mexico cities will be asked for inventories of available manpower and housing. The data, he said, will form the basis of EDC efforts to bring about construction of war manufacturing plants in the state.

He reported all members of the state's congressional delegation emphasized need for water before New Mexico can take care of industrial and population increases. All, he said, offered full support to the EDC water resources development program.

McKinney said he had talked with a cross-section of Washington from the President down.

"I am convinced that we are facing a series of emergencies as grave and as prolonged as those which began in 1939," he reported.

In the future, he looks for conversion of much of the industrial capacity to war production, raw material allocations, price and wage fixing, credit controls, government arbitration of labor disputes and higher taxes.

"The Industrial East," he said, "will suffer much greater dislocations than predominantly agricultural New Mexico, but our goal will be to produce our share and more for the total defense effort."

City Council met in special session Wednesday night to consider several problems confronting the city at this time. All members were present.

An important issue which the council discussed was the water situation which is again giving trouble. Councilman Vega stated the southeast sector has been without water except for infrequent periods since last Saturday. Lawrence Queen, utilities superintendent, related how he and Vega had attempted to correct the situation by "pinching" the line to give the southeast side water, and that it resulted in the main part of Carrizozo being without water while the southeast side received very little pressure.

Vega also related they had asked Southern Pacific officials to unlock a meter on the railroad grounds and give more pressure so that pipes on the southeast side could be flushed out and ascertain if there was any stoppage there. He added it had taken 17 turns of the valve, after which it was reported, water was on in the main part of town as well as the southeast side.

The News-Outlook representatives arrived in the southeast part of town shortly after the water had been turned on, and saw its muddy appearance which existed until the pipes had been thoroughly flushed out. They also went to the railroad grounds and viewed the meter alongside which was the lock and chain.

Soon after the News-Outlook representatives left, it was reported, this valve was again shut down by Southern Pacific officials which resulted in stoppage of the flow of water to the southeast sector.

Queen explained only 37 gallons per minute as shown by the meter is coming into town, whereas the average summer need is 50 gallons per minute. He added this much usage is not out of line.

After lengthy discussion, it was agreed the city will write to the president of the Southern Pacific Company, explain the situation, and ask for all possible relief in view of the fact there is no shortage of water at this time. Council also worked out a program to help water users in the southeast sector. Water will be turned off on the north side of town during the hours 6 A. M. to 7 A. M., 9 A. M. to 10 A. M., and 3 P. M. to 4 P. M. All water users in Carrizozo will receive notice to this effect. Water users will also be instructed to restrict their water usage to household purposes only for the duration of this emergency.

The subject of a storage tank for Carrizozo was discussed. Mayor Vernon Petty told council about a tank having a capacity of 500,000 gallons and a complete height of 57 feet, which the city can purchase if it is found to be satisfactory. Petty added there is a possibility of the tank being placed on an unavailability list in case the war situation gets worse. He showed council members a picture of the tank, and said he expected to have figures on other tanks by the next regular meeting on August 1. Queen told council the tank under discussion would give the southeast sector 28 pounds of pressure which is what the main part of town has.

It was pointed out that even if Carrizozo should eventually secure its own water system, a storage tank would be needed to insure the most efficient operation.

It was revealed during the meeting Robert McKinney, chairman of the New Mexico Economic Development Commission, had been contacted and had offered to act as an intermediary in assisting the town to secure federal funds at a very low rate of interest with which to develop a water system. It was reported McKinney had also suggested the possibility of a federal grant for an undetermined amount which will be gratis to the village if it can be obtained.

The city plans to write McKinney.

USMC Has Unlimited Male Enlistment Quotas

The United States Marine Corps now has unlimited quotas for male enlistments and reenlistments effective immediately, Colonel E. L. Hutchinson, USMC, director of the Eighth Marine Corps Reserve District, and Major Glenn N. Norris, USMC, officer in charge of the district headquarters recruiting station, announced in a joint statement this week.

Veteran members of the Marine Corps Reserve in rank of sergeant and below may apply for one year temporary active duty by making application at U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Post Office 3, Albuquerque.

Veterans not presently in the Marine Corps Reserve but who desire to apply and meet current enlistment standards will be enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. Veterans that held the rank of master sergeant upon discharge will be reapportioned to active duty rank of sergeant, technical sergeants are to be appointed to active rank of corporal. In the event of mobilization of Marine Corps Reserve those accepting reduced active duty rank will be reapportioned to the rank held prior to applying for active duty.

Under this directive, a veteran is any male with a minimum of 90 days service in the Marine Corps or 36 drills and two annual field training periods, or 12 drills and one annual field training program in the Organized Marine Corps Reserve.

"The guarantee of one year temporary active duty is dependent upon budgetary limitations, and any extension thereof are dependent upon the world situation," Colonel Hutchinson said.

Major Norris stated that enlistees will be assigned to Class III, Volunteer U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

Enlistees residing in New Mexico, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas will be assigned to active duty at the huge Marine Base at Camp Pendleton, Ocean-side, Calif.

Quotas for Marine Corps male reservists above the rank of sergeant and veteran women Marines will be promulgated in the near future.

President Asks For Broad Powers

President Truman on Wednesday moved to put the United States on a war footing to meet the threat of Communist aggression.

Steps taken are:

Authorized the secretary of defense to call up National Guard units and Army, Navy and Air Force reservists as required; to exceed the budgeted strength of military personnel, and to draft whatever men are needed to reach the increased strength required.

Government agencies directed to review and modify their programs to avoid competition with preparedness drive.

Steps asked of Congress:

Remove all statutory limits on size of the armed forces.

Provide $10,000,000,000 additional military funds; details to be supplied later.

Authorize a priorities and allocation system for materials needed for national security; limit the use of materials for non-essential purposes; prevent inventory hoarding; authorize seizure of materials needed for the fighting effort.

Empower the government to reinstate control over consumer credit (installment buying) and credit use for commodity speculation; tighten private real estate credit requirements.

Authorize government loans and loan guarantees to spur defense production.

Steps he will ask later:

Heavier taxes. Mr. Truman said they should be balanced to spread the burden equitably and designed to prevent profiteering.

A stepped-up program of military assistance to the nation's North Atlantic partners and "certain other free nations whose security is vital to our own."

Possible step:

Drastic price control and rationing, "but only if a sharp rise in prices forces such a move."

On July 6 the Twentieth Century Club of a small Mississippi town, population 2,000, won the $10,000 award presented by the General Federation of Women's Clubs for outstanding community service. The governor and other prominent citizens in that state were present to join in the celebration staged by the small town of Iuka.

The president of the Iuka club gave the local weekly newspaper a full measure of credit for making it possible to achieve the award. She told the assemblage of the encouragement and support given the 19 club members by the paper. The club completed 32 community projects, and publicity was given each one by the weekly paper.

The club president related it was necessary to hold the interest of the town and county in their projects, and the paper had given encouragement and belief in their ultimate success.

The completed projects include a parking lot; clean-up of one park and playground equipment for another; sponsored four artists' concerts; staged a Halloween carnival; sponsored a county-wide youth night; backed a $50,000 bond issue that built a gymnasium, Negro school and renovated the high school; sponsored a spring formal; contributed literature to the grammar school; and sponsored an eye, ear, nose and throat correction fund for the county.

The improvements desired and achieved by that small Mississippi community show what can be accomplished by team work. What is desirable for Iuka is not necessarily true of Carrizozo and Lincoln County. Here, our needs and desires are undoubtedly different, but the splendid teamwork of the small group of Mississippi workers can most certainly be duplicated in our section of the country.

The editors of The News-Outlook believe, as did evidently that editor of the Iuka paper, progress requires the cooperation of all.

At present, The News-Outlook believes the completion of Highway 94 and adequate and reasonable utilities will greatly facilitate the growth and progress of Carrizozo—the completion of the highway will benefit Lincoln county as well as Carrizozo. Your editors will continue to aid in every way possible that Carrizozo and Lincoln County may finally obtain the basic needs the News-Outlook believes essential to their future prosperity.

If a newspaper is to have any meaning or value to a community, it must be willing to work for the good of its citizens. It must be willing to take a stand on civic matters and help promote projects of benefit to the community by giving them ample and comprehensive publicity.

By the same token, a newspaper must give similar publicity to matters which it believes adverse to the public's welfare.

The News-Outlook wishes to point out there are no personal attacks involved in any opinion we may express regarding civic matters. News articles, of course, must contain facts only of incidents as they happen. Without news coverage on all subjects possible, the community's paper would have little appeal to readers. A paper should be just what its name implies—news—paper—a paper of news items that will tell the people facts of interest and importance to them.

A newspaper is concerned only with giving its readers the facts—straight. Its opinions concerning such facts may be expressed only through the editorial columns. However, an unprejudiced and unbiased paper is always ready and willing to allow space to the "other fellow."

The News-Outlook is always willing to give the "space" in which to present the "other side" of the argument. This paper holds no animosity against anyone. An issue is simply an issue with its editors, and no personal feelings are involved. The paper will defend its right and privilege to publicize news of interest and importance to its readers, but it will also recognize the right of the "other fellow" to his opinion, and cheerfully and willingly allow him space in which to express that opinion.

Letter to Editor

The Editor
 Lincoln County News
 Carrizozo, N. M.
 Dear Editor:
 Your editorial in the Friday, July 14, issue of The News-Outlook dispels many doubts which may have arisen from other articles you caused to have printed. It is a good editorial, we need more like it, any time.
 Whether you agree or not, it is possible, that the village officials are trying to make Carrizozo a better place in which to live. As individuals, they chose Carrizozo for a home, just as you and your family. Perhaps the time worn religious comparison is applicable, "Catholics, Jews, and Protestants are all striving for the same goal, they are simply on different routes."

I believe that the newspaper is one of our strongest mediums for strengthening human relations. A sure way to fall in human relations is to emphasize faults. The old horse-trading business man had poor human relationship because his philosophy was to try to get the best of the other person by belittling him. Good human relations are built by trying to bring out the best in the other person.

I honestly believe that you can do a great job of coordinating constructive ideas, and work for our town. If you eventually surpass even the great Benjamin Franklin as a master in the art of good human relations—that too will be Carrizozo's gain.
 Sincerely,
 VERNON PETTY.

The Corona Presbyterian Church closed its third annual vacation Bible school Friday evening under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. L. S. Markham. The total enrollment was 45 students and 10 teachers, with an average daily attendance of 40 students. Thirty-seven certificates were awarded for an 80 per cent attendance.

Alexander K. Mench, Tucuman, graciously tuned and repaired the piano, and loaned and installed an organo for the Bible school.

The Bible school theme, "Set Aflame His Story," was carried out in the closing program, which opened with an organo prelude by Sally Mae Pfeiffer. The Bible school rendered songs and a Bible study demonstration followed by a piano solo by Miss Patsy Bagley. Mr. Mench played the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Ethel Parker at the organo.

For the closing candlelight service, Mrs. Joe Atkinson read the story of "The Sacred Flame" and Clifford Grosenbacher, accompanied by Sally Mae Pfeiffer

In promoting the welfare of Carrizozo and Lincoln County. The paper, as well as residents of this community, stand to benefit by any growth and prosperity achieved.

In conclusion, we again refer to the remarkable progress made by that small community of Iuka, Miss., through their cooperative teamwork. The same success may be achieved by Carrizozo and Lincoln County in their goals.

True, if war comes, we may be temporarily delayed, but eventually with the proper spirit of cooperation, Lincoln County will take its rightful place among the outstanding communities in New Mexico.

In early May the Dennis Coopes left here for the beautiful capitol town in the big state of Texas to make their home and fortune. But that something of the West, when it gets hold, always draws a person back, so last week they came rolling in and that glimmer in their eye when they were telling about driving over town hunting for a parking place, and waiting for the red lights to turn. It gave one a feeling of peace and happiness and glad that there is an "old Lincoln town" to live in with plenty of parking space and no red lights to stop our slow or speedy progress.
