State Starts Official Rainmaking Program

A pioneer program for the state's study of rainmaking was officially launched last Friday at the New Mexico School of Mines, Socorro, in a meeting attended by approximately 200 New Mexico ranchers, farmers, businessmen and nationally known scientists.

Robert McKinney of Santa Fe, chairman, New Mexico Economic Development Commission, welcomed the group and read a message from Governor Mabry. McKinney traced the origin of New Mexico from the Ice Age and reminded about his boyhood days in this state wherein he recalled an adequate water supply had always been the big problem. He pointed out New Mexico's grave problems are water and high cost of transportation and announced the federal government is willing to send in qualified experts to assist in the program of rainmaking planned by this state.

Appointment of four more members to the water board was announced. Lon D. Merchant, Captain, president of Southeast New Mexico Grazing Association; Floyd Lee, president of the New Mexico Wool Growers Association; Roy Foreland, president of New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, and Delmar Roberts, president of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau are the new members.

McKinney presented Dr. E. J. Workman, president of the School of Mines, with a $7,500 check to pay for a water-development program including cloud seeding study and a search for underground water.

In addition to that project, which starts at once McKinney asked Dr. Workman to prepare a program aimed at actual rain production. This program would be financed, if adopted, by another $15,000 put up by the governor's emergency fund and the EDC. Work on it would start soon after July 1.

Dr. Workman and McKinney stressed the $7,500 project is aimed primarily at research and any precipitation resulting would be incidental.

The new $15,000 program proposed by McKinney would have as its primary purpose the production of rainfall. Dr. Workman told delegates he could not guarantee what results would be, nor where they could be obtained.

"We're reasonably certain that, under given conditions, we can augment the rainfall in some localities," Dr. Workman said. "We simply cannot make any promises, though, this early in the game."

He said he planned to use new techniques as he went along.

Dr. Workman and Dr. Irving Langmuir, Nobel Prize winner and authority on rain making, gave a detailed explanation of what causes rain.

They explained how seeding a cloud with dry ice or silver iodide and possibly other material, can make a cumulus cloud grow and produce rain.

As most high school students know, a cloud is an accumulation of tiny water droplets, similar to fog, suspended in the air. Rising warm air currents carry these droplets upward inside the cloud and if they get high enough they freeze and fall back to melt and rise again.

A peculiarity of these droplets is they do not freeze at the recognized freezing point of zero degrees Centigrade unless certain dust particles are present. Scientists call these dust particles "sublimation nuclei."

Without them, droplets have to rise to heights of 32,000 to 35,000 feet (at around -39 degrees Centigrade) before they will freeze.

The freezing—or "glaciation"—is necessary to produce rain. The cycle of rising, freezing, falling and melting eventually produces a pellet heavy enough to fall through the cloud layer and reach the earth as a drop of rain.

But it won't reach the earth if it has to rise six or seven miles to freeze.

That's where the "sublimation nuclei" come in. Scientists have found that silver iodide crystallizes in hexagonal patterns almost identical with those of ice or snow flakes and that it is ideal

Plans Near Completion For Demonstration Tour

Plans are nearing completion for a demonstration tour June 17, sponsored by the Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District, which the public is urged to attend.

Present plans call for visitors to meet at Frank Titsworth's garage in Tinnie about 9 A. M. on Saturday, June 17. From there the group start on a tour of farms including those of Mrs. C. W. Luckett, Ed Nelson, and, if time permits, that of Milton J. Mable.

The entire morning will be devoted to the tour of farms and visitors will see several projects the district has been supervising. These projects include land leveling, irrigation structures, irrigated pastures and use of soil surveys. The maps made by U. S. engineers and used in these projects will also be shown.

Ranchers of actual grasses are to be on display and a contest, "Know Your Grasses," is to be staged. Contestants making first and second places will be given awards.

A noon lunch will be served on one of the farms. The afternoon will be devoted to a display and demonstration of farm tractors. There will be 12 different makes and sizes of farm tractors, to be demonstrated by five companies, on which there are 24 various attachments to be used in farming. The exhibition of this equipment will be conducted on the Buster Casey farm, approximately midway between Tinnie and Pictacho.

A full day of entertainment is programmed. Thomas Utterback, work unit conservationist, said the equipment will be demonstrated as long as there is light, and visitors are welcome to discuss the farm machinery with the companies' representatives.

Utterback is the federal government's representative in the Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District, which is classified under work group 14, headed by James Wayne, U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Alamogordo.

The work of the district is in charge of a board of supervisors composed of Bert Pfingsten, chairman; Peter Hurd, vice president; Wilbur Coe, secretary treasurer, and Wilbur McKnight and Daniel E. Brenton, members. The conservation service will lend all possible assistance to the various soil conservation districts.

Rancher Offers Use Of Plane To 'Rainmakers'

Tobe Foster of the Block Ranch has offered the use of his Beachcraft plane to the newly formed Precipitation Research Corporation for conducting rainmaking experiments.

The corporation, composed of Lincoln and Socorro County ranchers, was recently organized and will work under the supervision of the Socorro School of Mines in any rainmaking experiments that may be undertaken.

Several of the ranchers in the group flew in World War II and are qualified to operate a plane.

Mildred Hoffman Weds Local Man

The Trinity Methodist Church, Carrizozo, was the setting for the marriage of Mildred Hoffman and Clarence Hust on June 3 at 7:30 P. M.

Rev. O. L. Oldham read the vows for the double ring ceremony before an altar covered with white flowers and palms. White tapers burned in four candelabra.

Accompanied by Mrs. Ben S. Burns, Veda Lou Branum sang a group of selections including "Ave Maria," "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." The bride party entered to the strains of the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white marquisette, the yoke of which was outlined with bands of white lace. The long sleeves tapered to a point at the wrists, and the tightly fitted bodice was fastened down the front with tiny covered buttons.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a pearl trimmed halo fashioned from the same material. She carried a colonial bouquet of red carnations, and her slippers were white calf. For the traditional something old, the bride wore a pin belonging to Mrs. O. L. Oldham. Something blue was a garter, and something borrowed was a gold evening bag. The bridegroom's gift of pearl choker and earrings was her choice for something new.

The bride's attendants were gowned in pastel formal of different designs. Vivian Greer, Albuquerque, served as Mrs. Hust's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Patty Stevenson, Barbara Jean Branum, Katholene Ward and Norma Compton. Flower girls were Margaret Duncan, Ina Veryl Withers and Barbara Jean Nixon. Trainbearers were Joan Jones, Bergeve, and Donny Rickerson. Ring bearer was Harold Hoffman Jr., El Paso.

Eugene Degner was Mr. Hust's best man, and ushers were Tom Zumwalt and Dick Roberts.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the Woman's Club building with Mrs. Paul Mayer in charge of the guest book. The bride's table featured a four-tier cake topped with a miniature bridal couple.

The mothers of bridal couple wore gowns of navy blue with corsages of white carnations.

The newlyweds left for Roswell after the reception and planned to drive to Colorado Springs the next day.

The Junior Mrs. Hust is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hoffman, El Paso, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hust, Carrizozo. The couple attended the local schools and graduated from Carrizozo High School. They plan to make their home in Carrizozo.

Here for the ceremony were guests from El Paso, Las Cruces, Albuquerque, Alamogordo and Roswell.

Wedding vows were exchanged by Nancy Willis Roby and Thomas Alvan Knight at formal rites in St. James Episcopal Church, Mesilla Park, May 31 at 8 P. M. Rev. Bancroft Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The altar rails were covered with white satin and greenery, and low bowls of Marconi daisies were placed on the pedestals, with floor baskets of white daisies and palms forming background for the seven-branched candelabra carrying ivory tapers.

White satin ribbons wound the pews and a white carpet was spread, down which the bridal party walked.

As the guests assembled, Mrs. Wayne Tretsven, organist, played a recital of wedding music and preceding the ceremony sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Tretsven played the Lohengrin "Wedding March" and the Mendelssohn recessional.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of heavy satin faille, with antique duchess lace bodice and poplin. The rose-point yoke was of helloom lace. The gown was fashioned with moided lines, the full graceful skirt falling into a cathedral train. She was the third bride in her family to wear the gown.

City Hires Auditors, Power Plant Manager

At the regular monthly meeting of the Carrizozo City Council Tuesday evening, James A. Clifford and John A. Dalton, Alamogordo, were present to discuss with council members the question of the annual audit of the city's books. The Alamogordo men explained their method of operation and how they proposed to install a set of books which would simplify record keeping, yet give the city a complete picture of its income and expenditures.

It was pointed out the city does not maintain a ledger and Clifford is of the opinion its use would enable the council to have a complete picture at all times of the city's operations.

The qualifications of Clifford and Dalton for this work were mentioned by Mayor Petty, who informed the council he knew their reputation and felt sure their work would meet all requirements. Clifford stated he had known Petty for a long time and that both had worked for the same firm in Alamogordo some years ago, at which point Petty told the council Clifford had been successful in eliminating a number of that company's problems concerning their accounting system.

Clifford also pointed out some of the Carrizozo's fixture accounts are shown as depreciating while others are not, and that this should be looked into. He added a ledger would show the various amounts collected for water, garbage, etc., as well as an itemized account of moneys expended. Clifford said the forms were drawn up in such manner as to enable a city clerk to have a complete picture of the city's operations at all times, as well as afford anyone interested in looking at the records an easily understood and itemized account of the moneys received and disbursements made.

It was also pointed out the clerk would be able to present a monthly balance sheet to the council at regular meetings.

Clifford explained Mrs. Johnson's work would be easier under the new setup, and that at present the Carrizozo clerk is doing too much work for what she is accomplishing.

Clifford informed the group he installed the bookkeeping system now used by the city of Alamogordo and that even though their city clerk is also the town treasurer, in addition to being assigned many and varied duties in her capacity of clerk, nevertheless she still has "time to burn at times." Clifford informed the group the state comptroller has approved the discontinuance of "a lot of bank accounts" formerly kept by the city of Alamogordo, and is sure the state official would grant this privilege to the Carrizozo city officials.

Mrs. Johnson had previously informed him she was keeping 10 or eleven different bank accounts.

The name of the Roswell firm which has been doing the city's auditing for a number of years was brought up at this point, and Petty expressed the opinion the City Council needs to delve more deeply into the city's operations. He pointed out the council had wanted to ask the Roswell firm many questions last year about the audit, but did not have the opportunity. He added there were at least 100 points on last year's audit which were not clear to him, but stated he might not have adequate knowledge to understand the report.

The mayor apparently is of the opinion the auditor's report should be written in such manner that it is easily understandable to everyone. Petty hastened to add the Roswell firm has always done a good job of auditing the city's books and their report has always received the approval of the state comptroller.

The fact that the city's budget provides a maximum sum of $275 for this annual audit was mentioned during the discussion concerning the Roswell firm. Petty then disclosed he had received a written "bid" from that firm and read a portion of it to the council.

The Roswell firm's bid, in the form of a contract, was for $275. Clifford asked the mayor if it covered the type of auditing he was prepared to do, and was given the contract to read. After looking it over, Clifford informed the council it covered substantially what he proposed to do, and that he would meet that price.

Mrs. Johnson informed the group the Roswell firm had discussed the matter of installing a new system last year, but she had asked them to wait as her plans at that time were to quit within a couple of months.

Mrs. Johnson also informed the group the Roswell firm sent three men to make the audit, which took approximately a day and a half. The Alamogordo men said it would take several days to do the work and install the new accounting system.

It was agreed by council to award the job to Clifford and Dalton on a verbal agreement pending receipt of their written contract.

Council minutes disclosed there were two special meetings held during May. One was on May 11 to accept the resignation of Fred Schlarb and the other on May 29 to approve the appointment of Lawrence Queen as superintendent of municipal utilities at a monthly salary of $300. The minutes indicated no other business was transacted.

Your News-Outlook reporter asked the council why the citizens of Carrizozo had not been notified of these meetings in order they might exercise their right to attend if they so desired. Mayor Petty stated they really hadn't thought about it since the meetings were hurriedly called. This reporter also asked why Carrizozo and Lincoln County people had not been notified through the medium of The News-Outlook the position was available and what procedure they used to fill the opening.

Council explained they contacted the Albuquerque and El Paso employment services as well as made personal contacts. The News-Outlook reporter asked whether there might have been other qualified people in the county who would have submitted applications for the council's consideration had they known the job was available.

Roy Stafer said he had never given it any thought as the subject had never before been brought up, but that it would be a good idea to publish any future job opening.

The reporter pointed out that state and federal governments regularly send notices of their job vacancies and are very appreciative for any space allotted for such information. C. A. Snow said they had not had a vacancy in five years and it had never before been suggested.

The subject of the repair of the "big" motor was brought up by The News-Outlook reporter and was informed they expected it to be completed by Sunday.

A power failure occurred about that time which put the hall in darkness for approximately 30 minutes, and delayed council proceedings.

Queen departed to do some "trouble shooting" and the mayor went in search of candles.

During this delay, The News-Outlook reporter asked if there was anything additional concerning REA or Community Public Service, or whether council plans to do anything about the power plant. Snow said there wasn't anything wrong with the plant and that it is a good one. Upon being told by the reporter of the numerous breakdowns which have occurred since she has lived here, Snow informed her she ought to be in a certain town in Texas where they were without power for two days at one time. The reporter replied she had lived in a large number of towns in various states over the country and she had never before experienced the type of service with which Carrizozo is forced to contend.

When the lights went back on and Queen returned the subject was again brought up. Petty suggested The News-Outlook ask Queen about the "big" motor.

"The problem for the future is to keep our capitalism dynamic; continue to raise living standards and yet to reduce, as much as possible, the human costs as reflected in insecurity and instability." - W. Walter Williams.

Now that the primary election is over, I hope we can settle down to normal life again. I should like to continue from week to week giving you, the people, the story of how your state government operates. Being advised, we can, together, think of ways and means of improving the services and making changes where necessary.

It is only through help from the interested citizen who wants to know how his government operates and where his tax dollar goes that we can hope to bring improvement in government.

It took our country a long time to recognize that seasonal and voluntary unemployment would always be with us and that the economic up-set from it would be easily reduced, if not overcome.

Unemployment of large numbers hits hard, not only at the families of those unemployed, but likewise at the economy of the whole community where it appears. No one has found the formula for full employment of all workers, but we have made progress. We have learned that it is not quite enough that our society follows the maxim "live and let live." We have learned that we must "live and help live" if we are to achieve the greatest good to the greatest number.

In order to ease the burden on the unemployed during the period that they are seeking new jobs, the legislature created the Employment Security Commission. This is the New Mexico agency that works with the federal government, employers and employees in administering the unemployment compensation law. Only the employer pays for unemployment insurance in New Mexico. The employee himself derives the benefits of these payments but he does not contribute anything from his own salary.

Today all of the states, as well as the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii have unemployment compensation systems. Unemployment compensation does not provide sick benefits. On the contrary, benefits are paid only to those covered employees who are able to work and are available for work.

Originally, only those employers who had eight employees on the payroll contributed to the unemployment compensation insurance. Successive amendments to New Mexico's law were made reducing the number of employees necessary before the employer was obliged to carry unemployment compensation insurance until today the employer of only two persons is included within the law's provisions. Several occupations are exempted, such as domestic employees, charitable and religious organizations, agricultural workers, federal, state and county and municipal employees.

There has been considerable agitation now to widen the base of unemployment compensation insurance so that employees in some of the above groups will be eligible to participate in these benefits. This, however, will require federal legislation, which is now before Congress.

Paul Jones has settled down to his routine duties as fire guard at Bonita Dam, though he still spins a fine yarn about his lion hunt to any willing listener.

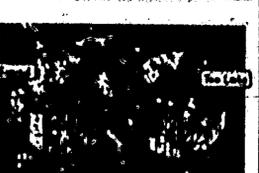

Ranger Guck appreciates the extreme care the many pic-nickers used while outing in the forest during the Decoration Day weekend. Despite the drought, only one campfire was carelessly tended and burned an area about 12 feet square in the south fork of the Bonita. Campers in that area found the fire and extinguished it.

A large crowd attended the annual Memorial Day services at Angus. Many brought a picnic lunch and ate their noon meal in the Angus school yard. The visitors enjoyed the program presented by Norton Pepper Post, VFW, Capitán. A business meeting was held afterwards and all interested in the maintenance of the cemetery were invited to participate. It was voted to designate the second Saturday in August of each year as a day of work at the cemetery.

For those for whom it is not possible to work in the cemetery on the designated work day, it was suggested those persons might wish to contribute to the fund for the upkeep of the Angus cemetery. Mrs. Henry Peebles, Nogal, is the secretary and treasurer of the committee in charge of the maintenance work.

August 12 is the day designated this year to contribute work toward necessary fence repairs, etc. The public is urged to attend, bring a picnic lunch and necessary tools.

Tomorrow may be too late. The time to have L.F.C. IMPROVED LIGHTNING RODS placed on your buildings is today before you have a loss. Four out of ten farm fires are caused by lightning. You can prevent this by calling a local factory trained installer for free estimate.

Doctor's Prescription Results In Active Business

When a doctor advised Mrs. Peter Soutar, Des Plaines, Ill., to take up a relaxing hobby, a thriving business that eventually meant a college education for her daughter was the result.

Following the doctor's orders, Mrs. Soutar began to make stuffed animal toys from the gay print fabric or cotton bags. Her ingenious use of the printed cotton feed sacks turned out to be anything but relaxing. Her friends and neighbors were so enthusiastic about her handiwork that Mrs. Soutar soon found herself taking orders as fast as she could fill them.

Not long after she had turned professional, Mrs. Soutar set up her basement as a shop and branched out into making aprons, curtains, bedspreads, rugs and a wide variety of household articles.

At first Mrs. Soutar's chickens provided enough printed cotton bags for her sewing projects. From her chicken feed bags, she obtained colorful polka dot, striped, floral and solid cotton fabrics. As the orders began to pour in, though, Mrs. Soutar's small flock of chickens couldn't eat enough feed to empty sacks to meet the demand of her customers.

Mrs. Soutar went to a local feed dealer who agreed to sell her used feed bags. His customers bring them back to the store, and he, in turn, sells them to the clever seamstress. In this way Mrs. Soutar obtains good quality material in a variety of attractive designs at little cost.

Fort Stanton

By LAWSON D. FISH

Friends, this writer makes no pretense at all of trying to fill in for Mrs. Whitehead while she is ill. This column, ordinarily full of interesting items from the Fort, will have to go begging until she is well enough to make it for herself. I don't know if she has anything for you or not; I didn't ask her because she has problems enough of her own right at the moment. I want to say this much, however. All of the patients and all of the personnel here at Fort Stanton, as well as a lot of other people not even connected with the Fort have inquired about her. Through the medium of this column—her column—I shall speak for the hundreds of people who have asked about her. Mrs. Whitehead, we all wish you the very best and we all hope that you will again soon be able to deliver to us much more of the wonderful writing we have associated with you. You have done a truly great job and we are looking forward to the time when we can again read your timely articles.

The Fort Stanton baseball team is going "great guns" now and is about ready to take on any or all teams that might choose to stick their heads up. Last Sunday I looked out of my kitchen window—the field is in plain sight of my house—and I thought I saw a couple of guys in a boat fishing near third base. Well, I went and poured myself another one and the illusion had vanished, but the field was under water! By noon the field was almost dry enough to play on (if you like mud with your ball games) so the committee, composed of Charlie Reed, "Si" Salas, Les Korpela and your writer, decided that perhaps a game could be played with the REA boys from Captain. They came, they saw, and both teams were conquered after the second inning. Just too, too much weather! Rain, wind and dust sent both teams to the dugout and about 20 minutes after everyone had deserted the field we had the nicest kind of quiet and peace that anyone could possibly expect. Well, we tried.

I have been told that some men from Roswell want to play the Fort Stanton team on Sunday so let's everyone turn out and see the slaughter. The Roswell team describes itself as "fairly unpracticed but anxious for a game." C'mon out and see the fun. I guess there will be at least a half dozen umpires arguing with the teams and with each other so there should be some fun. The Seamans Social Club has the Coke concession so, if you get thirsty, don't worry about it. A dime will get you an ice cold bottle of your favorite soft drink.

Have you heard about the reformer who was giving a lecture about "Modern Youth"? He said, "at the rate young people are going now what will our girls of 16 be 10 years from now?" Someone hollered "twenty-six!" That's all for this time.

New Taxes Would Hit Low Income Groups

If all personal incomes in excess of $10,000 a year were confiscated by Uncle Sam, it would barely give him the additional money needed to wipe out the $3 1/2 billion deficit and finance the $1 billion first year's cost of the new federal spending programs proposed in the 1951 budget.

Since the nation faces a choice of submitting to higher taxes or reducing federal spending if Uncle Sam is to live within his income, the Council of State Chambers of Commerce today pointed up some of the difficulties in increasing federal revenues.

This study revealed that if, for instance, the federal government set $50,000 as the maximum income that could be retained by individuals and took outright all income above $50,000, it would get only about $843 million more than it gets now from present taxes on those incomes. This $843 million would be enough to run the federal government only one week.

Or suppose Uncle Sam called $25,000 the most anyone could have and took everything made above that figure. That would give the government a little over $2 billion in additional revenue. This is just a little less than the government intends to spend on agricultural activities and subsidies alone in 1951.

But, of course, Uncle Sam would never think of taking such a big tax bite because he knows he would destroy all personal incentives to earn that much again.

The survey showed further that in spite of the high taxes on incomes of $100,000 and over, Uncle Sam collected only $1.2 billion from 10,844 persons with such incomes in 1947 which is the latest year for which complete statistics are available. This total was only 6 1/2 per cent of all income taxes paid that year. And tax rates on incomes over $100,000 that year ranged from 67 per cent to as high as 91 per cent.

On the other hand, 51 million taxpayers reporting incomes of less than $5,000 in 1947 paid $8 1/2 billion which is 43 per cent or almost half of the income taxes collected that year.

The council said "There is no getting around the fact that any additional burden of taxes must fall on the lower income groups. They have only two choices: submitting to more taxes or demanding cuts in present spending with a halt to new spending."

REA Cooperative Urges Planning For Future

Carl H. Johnson, manager, and his staff are interested in giving assistance to the members of the REA Cooperative in planning their wiring needs. They may also receive help from their wiring contractor, or the State Electrical Administrative Board. The following suggestions are offered by Johnson in planning adequate wiring service:

"Planning the wiring of the farm home is the first step in a new adventure for a good many families in our territory.
"Electricity brings new ways of working and living to the farm;
so your cooperative suggests you consider your present and future needs for electricity. It would be a good idea for you and your family to list all the electrical equipment which you will use in your home and on your farm before you have it wired. Then list as far as possible the additional equipment you plan to acquire during the next few years, and discuss it with your wiring contractor.

"Your electricity is brought to you and distributed around your home or farm on wires of different sizes, depending upon the various uses to which you put power. Too small a wire restricts flow of electricity, and does not give adequate light or power.

"The cooperative is very interested in its members planning adequately now for future uses of electricity—which are certain to come. Unless you plan now, you may find it necessary to re-wire part or all of your farm with larger size wire and different circuit arrangements at considerable expense and trouble. Fail ure to rewire may cause motors to burn out, equipment to use more electricity and operate less satisfactorily than it should.

"This is why looking ahead in wiring is very important. If it is impossible to install complete wiring now, that part which is put in should be installed in such a way it can be added to rather than torn out and replaced. Remember, there are many uses for electricity in the home and on the farm. Make sure now that no matter how much electricity you use, and no matter how many pieces of equipment you may come day install, your wiring system will be adequate. It is cheaper and safer to plan early than to rewire

later."

GRACE MORRIS TO ATTEND
GIRLS STATE JUNE 11-18
Delegate to Girls State Grace
Morris, Carriazo, will attend their third annual session at Portales June 11-18. Miss Morris is sponsored by the Carriazo American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 11 and the Carriazo Woman's Club. She is the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Henry Morris, Carriazo.

Girls State is a non-partisan organization promoted by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of New Mexico, to give the girls of New Mexico knowledge of the fundamental principles of American government through actual practice, and to educate them in the privileges and responsibilities of American citizenship.

The program for the 1950 session of New Mexico Girls State is designed to teach the girls the American form of government demands an intelligent citizenry and an honest and impartial administration by the public officials.
The sessions will be held on the campus of Eastern New Mexico University, Portales.
A delegate to Girls Nation, Washington, D. C., later in the year, will be selected by popular vote at the Portales conclave.

RIGHTS AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

There are many factors working against continuation of American liberty for the individual and one of the most dangerous is the antagonism between groups of Americans themselves. We cannot fight effectively against an enemy within or from without if our society is constantly torn with bitter internal strife, one group against another. Under such conditions our economic progress slows down and the moral character of our nation is weakened.

One of the worst blights in America today is the conflict which propagandists have built up between employers and employees. This war of group against group is actively agitated by Communists and other radical elements working for a "New Social Order." But the Socialists and Communists couldn't successfully create enduring strife between these important groups in our American population if both groups had a knowledge of basic sound economics and real social justice.

Social Justice Only Decrees
The true interests of both labor and management are identical.
Employees of a business or industry always have a moral right to request an increase in pay when there is increased productivity
for which they are directly responsible. Social justice gives them the right to request it, though not to force it. Under the capitalistic principles of private property and free enterprise no minority group has a right to take by force the wealth of another, or in effect impose taxes upon others.

Wage raise requests are just,
therefore, when the employees have themselves helped to boost productivity and, thus, company income. Though social justice may in some instances decree that they be given a share of profits or wealth they didn't help create, they have no moral right to demand that. The Socialist doctrine, on the other hand, does not recognize the principle of private property. It gives everybody the right, by force of law, to participate in the fruits of the production of everybody else.

That is the essence of Socialism.

INVESTORS HAVE RIGHTS TOO

People who invest their savings (capital) in the establishment and operation of a business have the right, under the American system, to keep the profit.
The only moral obligation on them is to accord just treatment to the employees and the public.
Social justice decrees, further,
that they reward the employees properly for increased productivity. But to do or not to do this is a prerogative of human rights.
When, or if, an attempt is made to equitize this economically and socially sound code by force of law—or by any force—real social justice is thereupon violated.

Therefore, the demand of Socialist or Communist propa-gandists for a share in the profits of a business solely on the basis of their so-called "Social Justice" or "Economic Democracy," and ignoring the fundamental rights of business ownership, can never be harmonized with the philosophy of American capitalism or real human justice. These are fundamental:
(1) The enforced sharing of wealth is Socialism regardless of what label it may be given. (2)

The voluntary sharing of wealth is an American capitalist (and Christian) ideal which has been liberally exercised. (3) And reward measured upon the base of productivity is economically and morally sound.

Almost everybody has a good word
for the immensely popular Pontiac.
The most enthusiastic spokesmen are those who own this great car.
The facts behind this admiration of Pontiac are very simple—Pontiac is America's lowest-priced Straight Eight. Pontiac is the lowest-priced car with GM Hydra-Matic Drive. Pontiac is the most beautiful thing on wheels.
And Pontiac is famed everywhere
for its dependability and economy.
Those are the facts, and they are impressive. But they are a lot more impressive to the person behind the wheel of a Pontiac. He knows for sure that dollar for dollar, you

City Hires—

now being repaired, but not put him out on a limb since he had only assumed his duties the previous day. The reporter told the mayor she was not trying to crucify anyone, that she was merely seeking information which concerns public welfare. Queen said the "big" motor, when again installed, should handle the load but said he could not predict how long it might work before another breakdown occurs; that no one could predict that—not even REA.

The reporter said she held no brief for REA, was not an electrical expert and was merely asking information. Queen explained there are a number of factors involved and that motors of the type used in Carrizozo are often repaired or rebuilt and used for a long period of time.

Other business matters considered by council included approval of the following building permits: Vernon Miller, $3,000; Ramon Luna, $1,500; approval of occupation licenses for Robert Means Jr., Dr. P. M. Shaver and Paul Wilson, and approval of liquor licenses for Hollands Drug Store, Johnson Stearns, Yucca Bar, Nick Vega and Pat's Package Store. Council approved retaining Dr. J. P. Turner and Vernon Petty on the local hospital board.

A list of proposed changes and improvements at the power plant prepared by Queen was read. Queen explained he is trying to secure an overall picture of plant operations and suggest the most efficient system for its maintenance.

Petty read a letter from Fred Schlarb recently resigned, which he said Schlarb had insisted be read. The letter charged certain personnel at the power plant with excessive drinking on the job, and having liquor in the plant during working hours, and implied the entire truth about the situation to which he referred had not been revealed. Queen was asked about the matter and said he had seen nothing since he has been there which would verify Schlarb's charges.

Snow said drinking by employees during working hours could not be tolerated. Council did not indicate a formal investigation of Schlarb's charges will be made.

Council agreed a salary of $25 cents per hour will be paid operators at the plant. Bill Elliott is considered a standby operator. The hourly wage scale is based on a five-day week. Employees in a lower classification than operator are to be paid at the rate of 75 cents per hour, five days per week. An exception to this latter scale is the maintenance man for the park who is paid 60 cents an hour.

Council ordered ice plant moneys be turned in daily.

At the close of the session but before council adjourned, The News-Outlook reporter told the members she wanted some points of information concerning the council's policy on certain matters. First, she asked if council would inform the public through the press of any future job openings. Petty said he was not sure he was willing to go along on advertising such vacancy. The paper's representative assured him she was not soliciting business; that such information would be considered newsworthy and handled in the same manner as the federal and state governments' publicity releases concerning job openings.

The council said they were glad to know that inasmuch as it had never been brought to their attention previously. Then the reporter asked for an official statement concerning any possible negotiations with REA or Community Public Service for purchase of the local power plant.

At that point Snow said he had to go to Roswell at 3 A. M. and left (the meeting had not yet been officially adjourned). Petty said The News-Outlook reporter had heard the REA attorney at a previous meeting ask the council for a rate chart and say he would be glad to talk to the citizens of Carrizozo when he had more information to offer. Petty said they have heard nothing further from REA or Community Public Service (the latter company had sent a letter of inquiry some time ago which was read at a regular meeting but council indicated they were not interested in considering that offer for negotiation).

The News-Outlook reporter informed the remaining council members. Information from reliable sources disclosed Community Public Service had talked with Carrizozo's mayor recently and did not feel they are welcome to come into the town.

Since any purchase of the local power plant would entail heavy expense to the company in running the line up from Tularosa and contemplated necessary changes in town outside wiring, it was revealed, the company does not want to start negotiations unless they feel the town is interested in hearing what they have to offer.

The question of special meetings held by the council to transact city business without previous notice to the public was also raised. Petty said the council is privileged to call a special meeting at any time, and that the May 29 meeting had been called on "10 minutes notice" and they could not even locate the clerk to have her there. The reporter pointed out Schlarb had resigned on May 11, according to council's records, and asked whether they had had time to let the public know through the medium of the local paper the job was available. Petty asked the reporter if she felt anyone had been harmed and she replied she didn't know, she was only seeking information as to how the city let the people know about such matters. She also pointed out council is elected by the people of Carrizozo to serve their interests and a newspaper serves as a public utility in informing the citizenry concerning civic affairs.

Petty said he was glad to hear that one hadn't known about it previously. The reporter recalled another special council meeting which had been held without notifying the public, and reminded Petty he had promised The News-Outlook editors there would be no more meetings held without notifying that paper so its representative could be present to report to the people any action taken by the council.

Council members dispersed then without further formal discussion or formal adjournment. T. E. Kelley, council member, was not present at this session.

State Starts—

to seed a cloud which has no "sublimation nuclei."

Dr. Workman said laboratory experiments indicate one gram of silver iodide under ideal conditions could produce a snow that would cover 10,000 square miles one foot deep.

Dry ice if used very sparingly, also can produce rain by speeding up the freezing of rain droplets. But if used excessively it can cause the cloud to break up.

Only about 10 per cent of the thunderstorms that form over New Mexico skies ever develop sufficiently to produce rain, according to Dr. Workman.

"We're certainly not trying to dictate to anybody," Dr. Workman told the new State Water Resources Development Board late in the day. "We just want to get this thing started toward some degree of coordination."

Several ranchers expressed their willingness to contribute money if rain making attempts could be made in their areas. Dr. Workman declined to commit the school's research staff to tests in any specific locality, declaring conditions would dictate future moves.

Dr. Workman indicated one phase of experiment might consist of a photography team of three men to make surveys of cloud structures in the state. He said he might ask help in weather observation from some members of the Water Resources Board.

T. R. Gillenwater, general counsel for American Institute of Aerological Research at Pasadena, Calif., spoke briefly. He said uniform legislation among the states is needed to cover cloud seeding.

Robert Elliott, chief of the firm's technical department, said results of artificial seeding are difficult to evaluate because there are so many variable factors. He said to date his firm had not found evidence of silver iodide more than 100 miles downwind from where the seeding was done.

Dr. Langmuir earlier repeated a statement he believes it possible Mississippi floods were caused by over seeding in New Mexico and Arizona.

Both Dr. Langmuir and Dr. Workman stressed the danger of what McKinney had termed "wildcat cloud-busting." It was on this subject that McKinney called a meeting of the newly appointed water resources board of the EDC, immediately following the general open sessions. McKinney suggested that several ranchers and farmers now planning to employ private rain-making firms instead should contribute to the official state study.

A number indicated they were willing to contribute, but also wanted the experiments conducted in their own particular areas.

L. D. Merchant, Captain, president of the Southeastern Grazing Association, urged contributions to the study as "strictly a research project" adding he was opposed to "any selfish operation."

He pointed out rainmaking is still in the experimental stage and the scientists "can't promise to make it rain on some person's ranch."

Albert K. Mitchell, prominent Harding County rancher, disclosed he had engaged an Arizona rainmaking firm to make a preliminary survey of northeastern New Mexico preparatory to attempting to crack the severe drought there.

McKinney believed the money for this job would be better spent if contributed to the state study, but Dr. Langmuir suggested the Harding County effort could be coordinated with that of the state.

Dr. Langmuir and Dr. Workman reiterated indiscriminate and improperly controlled cloud seeding could actually prevent rain and prolong drought.

They believe, however, there would be no danger in individual rainmaking efforts if they are properly done and the facts reported to the School of Mines research division.

Few of those who attended the session could fail to be impressed. Puddles lay all over Socorro as the result of an inrush of rain Thursday, and it began raining again Friday night as delegates to the meeting left.

Dr. Langmuir and Dr. Workman expressed belief the rains were the result of cloud-seeding experiments conducted Wednesday and Thursday.

Others commenting on the rainmaking discussion: Floyd Lee, San Mateo, rancher—"We've been talking about this sort of thing in the Mount Taylor region for quite some time. We think that area is ideal for rain making efforts and we would certainly like to do something about it."

John Bliss, Santa Fe, state engineer—"I think they've got something. It's hard to tell just what yet."

Roy Forehand, Carlsbad, president of New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, said he hoped to have a School of Mines staff member attend the cattlemen's quarterly meeting in Carlsbad this month and explain the program to the 400-odd ranchers expected.

Winfield Morton, Rancho Abiqui, rancher—He urged that present rain making attempts be continued under a coordinated setup to exchange data with the School of Mines.

Hubert Ball, Albuquerque, Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District—He said his group would be particularly interested in getting detailed results of actual rain making experiments in the state.

wedding, Mrs. Kille chose a toast colored chiffon, over taffeta and matching small hat. She wore a corsage of green orchids.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cox was the setting for the reception which followed the ceremony. An all-white theme was used in decoration.

The bride's table was beautifully decorated with Marconi daisies, delphinium and branched candelabra holding tall ivory tapers. The elaborate wedding cake, circled with gardenias, was served with punch.

Health of the young couple was toasted with champagne.

Mr. and Mrs. Roby and Mrs. Kille greeted guests on arrival and Mr. Knight and his bride received in the reception rooms.

Assisting were Mrs. Paul Stoes, Mrs. Dwight Allison, Mrs. Ed Cox, Mrs. F. E. Stevenson, Mrs. Shelby Green and Mrs. C. C. Lee. Miss Vera Goering of Gallup, presided at the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight left for a wedding trip to Mexico City, the bride wearing a suit of navy blue linen with white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.

They will visit Fortin and Monterrey also, after which the couple will be at home at the bridegroom's family ranch at Ancho until the fall term at New Mexico A. & M., when Mr. Knight will complete work for a degree.

A large group of friends from El Paso and Plainview, Texas, Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Ancho and Carrizozo attended the wedding.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Roby, Las Cruces, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio. Knight is son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kille of Coos Bay, Ore., and a member of the Straley family, pioneer Lincoln County ranchers. Mrs. Kille has been visiting in Ancho for the past month.

The new Mrs. Knight has been the recipient of many pre-nuptial courtesies, climaxed by the rehearsal dinner given May 30 by Mrs. A. E. Kille, the bridegroom's mother, for the members of the wedding party and both families.
