Accident Fatal To Hobbs Man

Tragedy struck suddenly Monday morning at the site of Standard Oil Company's well drilling operation, 12 miles west of Carrizozo on Highway 380, when one man was killed and another seriously injured in a freak accident.

A. T. Clark, 52, Hobbs, succumbed at the local hospital about 10:55 A. M. February 12, and Roy Stricker, 26, Hobbs, is still confined there in serious condition from contusion and multiple bruises.

The accident occurred about 9:30 A. M. when the block inside the derrick swung and broke the board upon which Stricker was standing, thereby catapulting him approximately 30 feet to the floor of the derrick.

Clark was struck on the head by the falling board as he stood on the floor of the derrick. He was rushed to the local hospital by his son, H. T. Clark, Hobbs, where he died about one hour after arrival. The son is also employed on the crew of which the elder man was a member.

Clark's body was taken to the T. E. Kelley Funeral Home to be prepared for shipment to the Griffith Mortuary in Hobbs, where funeral services and interment were to be conducted.

The two men, who were employed by Barney's Casing Crew, Hobbs, were members of a crew hired by the Standard Oil Company for a special job of running casing. The crew had the work almost completed at the time of the accident.

Jack Finer, a supervisor on the well drilling operation, said it was the first accident of its kind he had seen in his 27 years experience.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Fay Clark of Hobbs; his mother, Mrs. J. H. Baker, Ardmore, Okla.; three daughters, Mrs. G. Q. Stowers, Hobbs; Mrs. T. M. Davis, Gold Hill, Ore., and Miss Mary Ann Clark of Hobbs; five sons, Tony W. Clark, Gardena, Calif.; L. K. Clark, Marguin, La.; Kenneth, Harold and H. T. Clark of Hobbs. Four grandchildren also survive as well as a brother, J. H. Baker, Houston, Texas, and two sisters, Mrs. Zula Hostetter, Odessa, Texas, and Mrs. Tom Wagner, Long Beach, Calif. Clark, who had resided in Hobbs for many years, had been engaged in the casing work for the last four years.

D. S. Elliott Observes Birthday Anniversary

The seventy-second birthday anniversary, February 10, of D. S. Elliott, Carrizozo, was celebrated last weekend when members of his family met in his honor. Mr. Elliott received a number of gifts in commemoration of the event.

Guests included the Elliotts' son, E. V. Elliott and family of Roswell, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Slemmer and daughter, Sherry, Roswell.

The twelfth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Elliott on February 12 was also observed.

Another son of the D. S. Elliotts, Bill, and Louis (Pop) Anderson, both of Carrizozo, attended the double celebration.

Mrs. Mildred Laurer, Altoona, Pa., mother of Mr. Slemmer, who is at present residing with the D. S. Elliotts in order to care for Mrs. Elliott, now confined to bed, was present for the family get-together.

Governor Meets Scouts; Receives Many 'Jolts'

By THOMAS (SKIPPER) GOULD
(As Told to L. D. Fish)

I left the Fort at 3 A. M. with my father and went to the Scout office in the First National Bank Building in Roswell where I was supposed to meet the others of the party. They showed up about 2 P. M. (I missed lunch) and, after a late start, we got to Santa Fe at 5 P. M. We all had supper and stayed overnight at the Indian school. We had breakfast next morning at 8, waited until 10 and then went to the court house.

The Scouts paraded through town to the governor's mansion. At about 11, Governor Edwin L. Mechem appeared. Two buglers sounded the governor's salute and three boys, a Cub Scout, a Boy Scout and an Explorer Scout, each gave a report to the governor. All of the boys were called by name and had the privilege of shaking hands with Governor Mechem.

It is likely that this is the first time most of them ever had such a treat. The governor was standing on a heavy wool carpet and got a decided jolt (from static electricity) every time one of the boys took his hand. The boys felt it too, but the governor got it 29 times.

The Scouts met Mr. Howard Brown, Scout executive. One of the bus lines gave the boys the opportunity to take a free sight-seeing tour of the city of Santa Fe. All the movie theaters were open free to any Scout in uniform. Their program was so crowded that these fine gestures could not be taken by everyone, but the boys all had a good time and thoroughly enjoyed their experience.

Schedule Complete For Basketball Tournament

Coach M. S. Midmanian, Carrizozo, announced this week the schedule of tournament games for District 14 has been released. At a meeting in Alamogordo February 12, the seeding of the various teams was decided and following is the schedule of games, all of which will be played in Alamogordo at the high school gymnasium:

February 22 — Tularosa vs. Clouderoff at 2 P. M.; Carrizozo vs. Alamogordo at 3 P. M.; Capitán vs. Ruidoso at 7 P. M., and Weed vs. Honda at 8:30 P. M.

The second round, also to be played in Alamogordo, is scheduled for Friday night, February 23. This round will match the winner of the Tularosa-Clouderoff game with the winner of the Capitán-Ruidoso tilt, and the winner of the Carrizozo-Alamogordo game will meet the victor in the Weed-Honda battle.

Saturday at 1 P. M. the consolation bracket of tilts will start with the losers of the first round games playing each other.

At 6:30 P. M. February 24, the consolation finals are scheduled, to be followed at 8 P. M. by the third place contenders.

At 9:30 P. M. the two top teams will vie for championship honors.

Bingo Party Given For Fort Stanton Patients

By L. D. FISH

Last Monday, February 12, the ladies auxiliary to the VFW gave a bingo party for the patients at Fort Stanton in the Seaman's Social Club. All those who could attend were there; by actual count 106 patients were present at one time. The various auxiliaries throughout the state provided the prizes. Wesley Young and "Big Jim" Thompson were the callers.

Four ladies who are extremely interested in the welfare of the sick, and equally interested in auxiliary affairs, came from Roswell to help with the event. They are Mesdames Clara Runkle, past president; Effie Brown, banner bearer; Florence Brown and Miss Mary Runkle, junior vice president. The department president, Mrs. Briscoe, well known to everyone at Fort Stanton, made a short but interesting talk during the evening.

The local auxiliary is trying hard to make things a bit more pleasant for the men at the Fort who have almost nothing to occupy their time. The auxiliary is doing excellent work.

The same type of party soon will be held for those patients who could not attend the affair in the club.

Capitan Winner Of Consolation Title

By FRANK F. TAYLOR

In the fourth annual grade school tournament sponsored by the Alamogordo public schools and the schools of Otero County, the seventh and eighth grade teams of Capitan High School won the consolation trophy Saturday, February 10, at Alamogordo.

The Capitan lads met the junior high team from Clouderoff in their first game Saturday morning and were defeated by a one-point margin in a closely contested game. Stars for the Clouderoff five were Campbell, six-foot center who scored 13 of the Clouderoff points, and Flores, who accounted for another 13 of the Clouderoff team's 32 final points. High point men for the Capitan quintet were Eddy Womack of Fort Stanton with 17 points and Joe Gallegos of Capitan with 10 points. Kandy Reyes of the Tigrettes scored one point, along with his teammate, Sonny Herrera, with another single, while Cayetano Chavez scored two points to fill out the 31 total racked up by Capitan.

After dropping this close contest to Clouderoff, Capitan went on to play the Weed five. In a low scoring game, Capitan finished nine points ahead of Weed, with a final score of 22 to 13.

In the afternoon, Capitan took on the Delaware School five, of Alamogordo, for a thrilling game. The latter team, playing their first season of basketball, gave the boys from Capitan a good fight. Capitan led by 10 points at the half, with the score 25 to 15, but in the second half the Delaware youngsters played hard and fast ball and finished the game only three points behind the more experienced Capitan basketweavers. Coffield and Specks were the outstanding players of the Delaware aggregation.

For their fourth game of an action filled day, the Capitan quintet encountered the Alamogordo seventh grade team for the finals of the consolation bracket. The first half of the game ended with only a one-point separation, Capitan holding the lead. Eddy Womack of the Capitan casaba men put the final game on ice with six points in the last six minutes of the quarter. The final horn sounded with Capitan the winner by six points, 21-15.

In the trophy presentations by W. Barnie Caton, superintendent of Alamogordo schools, Capitan was presented with the consolation trophy which was accepted by Joe Gallegos and Eddy Womack as co-captains of the Capitan five. Later Eddy Womack was recalled to the limelight to receive a miniature gold basketball for placing third on the all-tournament 10 chosen by the officials and coaches of the teams represented.

The entire Capitan team, consisting of Sonny Herrera, Cayetano Chavez, Joe Gallegos, Melvyn Ferris, Kandy Reyes, Eddy Womack, Louis Padilla, Rudy Chavez, Boney Zamora and Tom Guck, enjoyed the fine hospitality and good sportsmanship, shown by all the teams playing in the tournament. Frank F. Taylor coached the Capitan team.

Local Telephone Mgr. Transferred To Taos

J. O. MacBurnett, local manager of Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company, who replaced Warren Ratliff last June when the latter was promoted to the Farmington office, has in turn received a promotion which puts him in charge of the office at Taos. He will have 15 employees under him in that town of approximately 5,000. Mr. and Mrs. MacBurnett leave today (Friday).

Joel B. Richardson, Tucuman, will take the position vacated by "Mac". MacBurnett, who came here from Artesia, has been with the telephone company since 1941. He was born at Porter, Okla., and came to New Mexico in 1938. His first job was as a surveyor with J. P. White, Roswell, a contractor. Prior to coming to Carrizozo he traveled over the state for four years as a construction foreman for Mountain States.

MacBurnett served as a second lieutenant with the U. S. Air Force in the European theater during World War II. A pilot, he flew 45 missions over Germany. "Mac," who has made many friends in his short period of residence here, expressed reluctance at leaving and stated he had really enjoyed "having a part in the village doings."

Richardson, who was born at Boyd, Texas, has resided in New Mexico 14 years. His mother, Mrs. Jamie Richardson, resides in Amarillo. He has been with the telephone company approximately nine years, having served as a combination man.

Richardson is married and the father of two boys, Joel W., age 9, and Danny, 4. He plans to bring his family to Carrizozo this weekend.

Carrizozo Scene Of White Mt. GPA Meet

The White Mountain District Game Protective Association met at the Southern Pacific restaurant February 8 for dinner followed by a business session. Members from various sections of Lincoln County were present for the meeting at which T. E. Kelley presided.

A number of resolutions adopted at the recent Silver City conference of the state association were discussed at length and endorsed.

The local group voted to ask the state game protective association to seek an increase in the out-of-state license fee from $50 to $100.

The organization also voted to increase its dues from $1 to $2 per year, effective immediately.

The next meeting is scheduled for Ruidoso the first Thursday in March. This meeting will be a business session only, and dinner will not be served.

Legion Offers Facilities To Carrizozo Girl Scouts

The Carrizozo American Legion Post and its auxiliary have offered the local Girl Scout groups the facilities of the post's club rooms.

The Scouts and their leaders are extremely grateful for the interest shown by these two organizations in the youth of Carrizozo. ## Grizzlies Dumped By Corona, 65 - 63

Carrizozo's basketball quintet lost the game at Corona Friday night by only two points. Corona gained the jump on the local team during the first quarter and managed to retain their lead by the percentage of free throws caged. Final score was 65-63.

Corona, playing on their home court, dropped 17 out of 30 shots, while the local cagers connected for only 11 out of 33.

The score at half was 26-22 in Corona's favor. Fouls called against the Corona team totaled 26, with the Zozolites drawing 22.

Vickery led the scoring for Corona, making 25 of the team's total points. Smith and Tafava, also of Corona, netted 10 points each.

The top five men on the local team were fairly evenly matched in the night's scoring—Jimmie Barnett was top with 13 points, Bob Powelson and Eddie Holguin each had 12, and Joe Navarro and Henry Vega accounted for 11 points each.

On Saturday in the local gym the Carrizozo Grizzlies hit a hot streak in the last half to dump the Weed five 56 to 31.

The Zozolites got off to a slow start, leading by one point at the end of the first quarter, 12 to 11, and had increased the lead only 25-20 at halftime. With the beginning of the third period, the local quintet got the range and hit for 16 points to make the score at the end of the third quarter 41 to 23. Carrizozo got 15 more points in the final stanza to end the game, 56 to 31.

Bob Powelson led the scoring for the Grizzlies with 18 points and Jimmy Barnett was next with 15. Ream was high for Weed with 10 and Massey next with seven. Weed fouled 20 times, Carrizozo's 24. Weed hit 11 of 23 free throws and the Grizzlies got 10 of 22 tries.

School Bus Drivers To Meet Here Feb. 23

A meeting of the Lincoln County school bus drivers is scheduled for 11 A. M. February 23 at the court house, Carrizozo. The drivers will hear a general discussion concerning matters to take up at their district meeting in Socorro sometime in April.

They are particularly interested at this time in a campaign for blood donations to the bank at the hospital in Carrizozo.

Ben Sanchez, San Patricio, vice president of the Lincoln County group, told the News-Outlook members of the organization are trying to impress upon residents of this county the vital need for an adequate supply of blood in the bank.

Approximately 30 drivers compose the county group, and attendance of all members at the February 23 meeting is urged.

Plans for a barbecue this summer for the drivers and their families will also be discussed. An important item scheduled on the agenda for the Socorro meeting is the safety factor. Sanchez stated many drivers on the county's highways are not observing the laws in respect to the safety of passengers on school buses, and the violations of safety codes are assuming alarming proportions. Methods for enforcing the law are expected to be discussed at the Socorro gathering.

Floyd Proctor, Corona, is president of the Lincoln County School Bus Drivers Association.

Local Parent-Teachers Observe Founders Day

The regular PTA meeting was well attended Monday evening as parents, patrons and teachers met to celebrate Founders Day. The income tax return for 1950 must be filed not later than March 15, 1951.

Their nephew, Harry (Pete) Straley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Straley, Ancho, recently dislocated his right elbow as well as fractured a bone in basketball practice.

Young Couple Wed Saturday

Santa Rita Church, Carrizozo, was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage ceremony which united Miss Patricia (Patty) Stephenson and Tom B. Zumwalt, both of Carrizozo.

Father Vito C. de Baca officiated at the February 10 nuptials with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hust, Carrizozo, serving as the couple's only attendants.

The bride chose a ballerina length gown of white nylon lace fashioned with a round neck outlined in seed pearls, tight bodice and circular skirt. Her finger tip veil of matching material had a flara effect of lace rosettes with seed pearl trim. The shower bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis was tied with white satin ribbon. White satin slippers and lace mits completed her costume.

In keeping with the old wedding traditions, the bride wore an engagement ring belonging to Will Ed Harris' mother for something borrowed. Her lingerie was blue and something old was a handkerchief which her mother-in-law had carried at her wedding. For luck, the bride placed a coin in one of her slippers.

Mrs. Hust, the matron of honor, wore a powder blue ballerina length frock of iridescent satin with square neckline and circular skirt. Her hat was a cap of shiny black straw with stand-up brim of multi-colored cloth flowers. Her accessories were gray and she wore a shoulder corsage of pink carnations.

The altar was decorated with vases of pink and white carnations over which white tapers in candelabra shed a soft glow.

Only members of the immediate families were invited to the wedding ceremony. A few intimate friends and relatives attended the buffet supper and reception held at the home of the bridegroom's parents immediately following the nuptials.

The bride's large one layer cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

The table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and stock, flanked at either end with huge white candles in silver holders.

For her going away costume, the junior Mrs. Zumwalt selected a suit with pencil slim dark brown skirt flecked in white, and brown fitting jacket of gray with a narrow red stripe. Pockets of unusual design served as trim. Her hat of red milan straw and other accessories of brown complemented the suit. The orchids from her bridal bouquet were worn as a shoulder corsage when the couple left for a brief honeymoon trip to Ruidoso before leaving for their new home in Hobbs where Mr. Zumwalt has accepted employment with the Gray Motor Company. He formerly operated Zumwalt's Auto Service here.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stephenson of the I-Bar-X ranch near Carrizozo, graduated from the Carrizozo schools and has been attending Texas Western College, El Paso.

Mr. Zumwalt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton B. Zumwalt, Carrizozo, graduated from Carrizozo schools and attended the University of New Mexico where he majored in business administration. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha as well as the Newman Club, and was a photographer on the staff of the university's paper, "The Lobo."

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY, M. C.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—The House battle on extension of the reciprocal trade agreements ended with approval of the legislation, but only after several restrictions were tacked on the measure.

One of these was an amendment I offered and was successful in having approved by the House membership.

My amendment provides that no concessions under the reciprocal trade agreements may be made on any agricultural commodity which is supported by our government, if such concessions enable the foreign country to sell the commodity here for less than the government's support price.

It was specifically designed to correct situations like the ridiculous potato scandal, where millions of dollars worth of that vegetable have been destroyed by the government, while we were importing spuds from Canada at the same time.

In other words, here was what was happening. We supposedly had a "surplus" of potatoes, and the government was buying them at the support price. At the same time, Canada was shipping in potatoes to this country through benefit of a tariff reduction and was selling them at a lower price than the support level. Thus, the tariff concession, in effect, was causing a greater surplus of potatoes which the government was forced to buy with taxpayers' money.

Price supports end for potatoes with the last of the current crop, but my amendment would prevent similar traffic in other agricultural products. Of course, halting this one loophole would probably only save 14 or 15 million dollars, and to the government economic masterminds who throw around billions with such abandon, it is just a drop in the bucket. But to me it is a lot of money, and if we start saving a million here and a million there, perhaps we can steer the country away from the bankruptcy toward which some of our leaders seem to be trying to steer us.

You would think that the members of the all powerful ways and means committee, realizing what a rotten situation has developed in this price support and import affair, would have agreed unanimously to this amendment. But such wasn't the case. The committee, which was controlling debate on the bill, fought me all the way.

When the chips were down though, there were enough members on both sides of the aisle (Democrats and Republicans) who went along with me. The amendment carried 173 to 110.

LAP OF LUXURY. Now the government proposes to hike the already high excise taxes, thereby placing another crushing burden on the already overburdened taxpayers. The theory is that excise taxes apply to so-called "luxury" items — things people can easily do without.

What about this theory? Is an automobile a luxury? It may be to a family in New York or Washington where public transportation is near, efficient and cheap. But it certainly isn't a luxury to a wage earner who has to drive 20 miles to work every day. Yet the government wants to place a 20 per cent federal tax on automobiles.

Talcum powder may be a luxury item to a man who uses it after shaving in the morning, but not to the mother who is trying to comfort a crying baby in the heat of summer. A traveling bag may be a luxury to someone who simply wants to go on a vacation, but it is hardly that to a salesman who wants to carry his clothes in something besides a paper sack.

As these hidden taxes are set up now, the government gets its cut on a product, and gets it first, whether the manufacturer makes anything or not. And based as they are on a percentage factor, the excise taxes keep increasing as costs of production increase (wages, materials, etc.). As the taxes increase they raise the general cost of living, the workers demand more money to live, wages go up, costs go up, excise taxes go up, and the spiral goes on and on.

Then our great economic masterminds search through their textbooks trying to find some explanation for our present inflationary trend.

10th Annual EASTER SEAL APPEAL.... Feb. 25 to Mar. 25

Assignment New Mexico

By G. WARD FENLEY

I must be out of touch with modern thought; I do not believe the youth of our nation is going to the dogs. Its funny how so many get the mistaken idea that modern day kids are all bad.

Last week, I got hold of a theme written by a New Mexico high schooler. Here's part of what he said:

"America, to me, is a bowl of wheateas for breakfast, a football game on Saturday, and church on Sunday. America is that old crooked fishing pole and Mom's blackberry pie. America means that chicken in the pot, Irish potatoes on the stove, electric lights, and freedom from want, dictatorial politicians and enforced beliefs from powers above."

I got to wondering if we as adults have a better understanding of what America stands for than the teen-ager.

Let's not be "Pollyannish about the affair and say that everything in America is perfect. 'Tain't so. But as my mother used to say, "it's the best life I have seen yet."

I think one of the best things about our nation is our ability to laugh at and with one another. Blessed is the person with a good sense of humor.

Charlie Faught of Raton must have a keen sense of the ridiculous. After picking out two nonsensical items from the Raton Range, Charlie wrote me with that "may I have that again, and slower, please," attitude.

The items: "Wet snow promises 18 carriers in eight cities" and "Rail switchmen's second wildcat strike in six weeks hits Red China mainland."

And Ed Guthmann, Springer, who likes to gouge Jimmy Barber just on general principles—If nothing else—wondered what the Raton Range meant in a recent obituary notice. The Range said the person who died last week retired nearly 100 years ago.

Wrote Ed: "That's what you would call a life of ease, even into the hereafter—if you're a believer of reincarnation."

Bob Ingraham of the Silver City Enterprise gets a lot of fun out of life laughing at himself.

Last week he ran a yarn saying Grant County was offering to pay a bounty of $500 each for coyotes killed and $25 each for mountain lions. Funny what a little period will do.

Since the story appeared, Grant County coyotes are so stuck up they are not speaking to ordinary animals—mountain lions are so depressed they're leaving for Arizona; and Bob Ingraham has departed for parts unknown until he can explain the typo error to his public.

I saw where Karl Broadley of the Portales Tribune apologized for calling the Portales dog catcher J. H. Robinson instead of Roberson.

An aside to A. L. (Pot) Bert of Artesia (this is not to enter the Eddy County partition argument): Installation is synonymous with installation. Pot took me to task for what he called my typo boner last week. Mr. Webster is on my side, Pot.

And in the Silver City Enterprise last week, the editor said: "Some of the big dogs, Great Danes and Mastiffs, have a bad habit of placing their paws on your shoulders and licking your face." I guess he meant that's when you've turned and are running from them.

That's all this week except the definition of a husband: It's a man who sticks with his wife through troubles she would never have had if she had not married him.

ENCINOSO

By HATTIE LACY

School closed Friday for the teachers' meeting in Carrizozo. I'm sure the pupils enjoyed the extra weekend holiday. We had a very interesting meeting. The Encinosa school children have a new supply of new readers and new workbooks.

After the meeting, I spent a pleasant weekend at Bingham. Several ranches report stock water getting low due to no wind to pump the mills for several days. A few windy days would be welcome, also some moisture.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kisselburg of Plainview, Texas, visited their daughter and family, Mrs. O. H. Booher, last weekend.

Mrs. Romero has been on the sick list for several days. Unusually warm days have followed the cold spell of last week.

Gene Tabor lost several litters of rabbits during the freeze. Raising rabbits is Gene's hobby and it is interesting to hear him tell of his experiences.

Mrs. Claudio Montoya was transacting business in Carrizozo Saturday.

Last Tuesday was visitors' day here. Several mothers visited school throughout the day, as they came to vote in the trustee election. The election was conducted by Mrs. L. D. Merchant, Mrs. Claudio Montoya and Mr. Romero.

Mrs. Bumgardner, the county nurse, and Mrs. Byrl Lipsey visited school on Tuesday. Mrs. Bumgardner had a nice visit with several of the mothers and checked their babies. Her work is highly appreciated in our community and especially in the school.

Mr. Romero visited his son and family in Carrizozo Saturday.

Carlos Chavez, his daughter and granddaughter visited the former's sister, Mrs. Romero, last Sunday.

Sammy Romero, his father and mother, and Rita were visitors in the Romero home Saturday.

Mrs. Joe Tabor and Mrs. Booher were business visitors in Carrizozo last Monday.

Mrs. Chavez of Captain is spending the week visiting in the Romero home.

Mrs. Tabor spent Tuesday visiting in the Booher home.

An aside to A. L. (Pot) Bert of Artesia (this is not to enter the Eddy County partition argument): Installation is synonymous with installation. Pot took me to task for what he called my typo boner last week. Mr. Webster is on my side, Pot.

And in the Silver City Enterprise last week, the editor said: "Some of the big dogs, Great Danes and Mastiffs, have a bad habit of placing their paws on your shoulders and licking your face." I guess he meant that's when you've turned and are running from them.

That's all this week except the definition of a husband: It's a man who sticks with his wife through troubles she would never have had if she had not married him.

FORT STANTON

By L. D. FISH

Frank is still taking his enforced vacation in bed, but I am reasonably certain that a few more efforts like this of mine will encourage him to get up and back to his typewriter. However, in the meantime, here it is again.

Tom Burlison Jr. and his wife, Barbara, spent the weekend with the Burlisons. Their home is in Alpine, Texas.

Mrs. Joe Ferguson entertained the members of the USPHS Bridge Club Thursday, February 8. There were four tables. Mesdames Stemmer, Reid, Baker, Mankin, White, Gould, Payman, Kuslanovich, Merrill, Ferguson, Rainey, Burlison and Kopping and Misses Eileen Reid and Maroney were guests. (Hope I didn't leave out anyone—that is the way it was given to me.)

The Womacks are back from Texas. Their daughter Jennell gave them a new grandson. Does it make you feel old, Emmet? Wesley Young has been really plowing the ground selling tickets for the party to be held February 24.

Richard Portio is in the hospital after having tried to give his pick-up a new look. I'm not authorized to say how he is getting along, but his friends can call the hospital for information.

The ladies auxiliary to the Norton Pepper Post, No. 7688, Captian, gave a bingo party for the patients here at the Fort. Nice party and excellent attendance.

The Paymans went to El Paso and took Miss Young (chief nurse) and Miss Reid with them. Jiggs Marr's dad, W. H. Marr, of Tularosa, spent Thursday with Jiggs and Mrs. Marr.

Dana Kuslanovich had as a weekend guest her friend, Miss Martha Witham. The girls attended the tournament in Roswell.

Mrs. Julia Farris, secretary in the main office, has moved to Captain and has her son, Jimmie Scott, here with her.

The Parkers were in Albuquerque last weekend. Jean was a delegate to the American Legion Auxiliary conference.

Skipper Gould got back from the Scout conference in Santa Fe and gave me lots of information about it. The whole story can be found elsewhere in this paper.

After a long wait, we again have a dental officer here at the Fort. He is Dr. Heck. The doctor was transferred here from the U. S. Marine Hospital in Norfolk, Va., and has with him his wife, little daughter, Dorothy Catherine, and his aunt and mother-in-law. Their home is in Baltimore, Md. We all welcome you and your family here to the "Land of Enchantment," Doctor, and hope you like it here.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft spent three days in El Paso last week. On Monday of this week Hugh Bancroft was seen parked atop the fence of the Wilsons' corral admiring his first herd of cattle, which had just arrived. Looks like the Bancrofts are going into the cattle business in these here parts.

Soil Conservation Need Stressed By Official

"Never will the need for using proper soil and water conservation practices on every acre in the Carrizozo Soil Conservation District be more important than in 1951, when America's soil will be called upon to produce food to help meet the world crisis," R. C. Withers, chairman of the board of supervisors, declared last week.

"It is only through the proper use of every acre of our land that we can protect the soil from serious erosion damage," Withers declared. "This is especially true," he continued, "when we consider that our soil has been under strained production during and since World War II."

He pointed out 22 cooperators of the district made considerable progress in the application of soil and water conservation practices on 200,246 acres of ranch land during 1950, but a big job still remains ahead.

"The use of conservation practices usually means greater production," Withers declared, and pointed out many New Mexico farmers have found crop yields have been increased by 50 percent or more through proper conservation methods.

During 1950, ranchers controlling 136,500 acres in the district have boosted beef production by better grass management, including such measures as adjusting stock numbers to the forage supply, deferred and rotation grazing, and better distribution of animals. The district has assisted stockmen in building 18 stock water tanks, developing five wells or springs and in building water spreading dams for flood irrigation of range from intermittent streams. About 50 acres of abandoned farmland and denuded or poor range have been reseeded to pasture grasses.

The Carrizozo district was organized October 11, 1945, with an area of 411,000 acres. Since then, 90,000 additional acres have been added at the request of land owners, to make a total of 501,000 acres.

Carrizozo is one of 60 soil conservation districts in New Mexico, which now include a total area of 53,000,000 acres. Under provisions of an agreement with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, technical assistance is provided to aid cooperators in carrying out their soil and water conservation programs, Withers said.

All affairs of the district are managed by a board of supervisors which includes R. C. Withers, Carrizozo, chairman; Harry Straley, Ancho, vice chairman; Walton Wilson, Ancho, secretary-treasurer, and Claudio Branum, Carrizozo.

District plans for 1951 have been completed and the greatest emphasis will be placed upon grass management, according to Withers. Other measures will be stressed too, he said. They include diversions to take water from eroding gullies and spread it over adjacent grassland, the construction of tanks, wells and other stock water developments to improve distribution of livestock, cross fencing to make desirable and rotation of pastures possible. Additional practices, such as gully control, windbreak plantings and reseeded are also included in the plans for 1951.

"All of which," Withers said, "will result in increased forage production on the range land, and mean increased meat production in the critical years to come."

Researchers are now using sonic methods to test wood without destroying it. These exacting methods can permit safer construction of wood aircraft frames, ladders and scaffolds.

I went to Alamogordo with my husband when he took the grazing applications for the White Mountain District to the supervisor's office for approval. Four-ist court proprietors say they are receiving reservations for the district basketball tournament already. A drug store window was filled with the four trophies to be given the winners of the seventh and eighth grade tournament, and 10 gold basketball awards for individual players.

The Colorado guests of the Gill Peters, Fred and Willard Randels, left for home. They are former residents of the Mesa. Mrs. Randel's father is Rev. Short, one time pastor of the Capitán Nazarene Church, who now resides in California. Mrs. Short was buried years ago in Angus Cemetery.

Several fire conscious people reported the big smoke made when burning rubbish at the Capitán dump lapped up a sizable portion of dry range grass.

Virgil Jones is handing out cigars as he tells of his line son born very early February 9 in Carrizozo. The baby will be named Samuel Allen.

Paul Jones returned from Muleshoe, Texas, to work with Ike Kennedy for the Forest Service maintaining the forest boundary fence above Three Rivers.

Fred Pierce returned to Angus last weekend after being hospitalized in Albuquerque for several days.

Ernest Purcella and Roy LaMay are helping Bill Holmes build a tank at his Loma Grande home.

Mr. and Mrs. Floy Skinner attended the invitational basketball tournament at NMMI Saturday.

Fred LaMay had dinner with the Henry Peebles February 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wigley were honored with a surprise party at the Gill Peters ranch at Angus February 10. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Wigleys. A three-tiered wedding cake with miniature bride and groom decorated the festive table. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, daughter and son-in-law of the Wigleys; Mr. and Mrs. LaMayne Peters, the hosts, and the Fred Pierses. The Wigleys were presented with a lovely set of dishes as Joe remarked, "25 years of marriage sure wears out lots of dishes. This new set is just what we needed."

Carrizozo Students Rate High in Examination

Superintendent L. Z. Manfro announced this week eight Carrizozo High School students ranked high in the examination given last fall to members of the various junior classes over the state. The names of the students and their ratings are indicated as follows:

Roberto Key, rated 100, made 242 out of a possible 250 points; Elaine Shultz, rated 91. This rate indicates she attained a higher score than 91 out of every 100 students participating in the test.

Misses Key and Shultz are numbered among the high scorers in the top 10 per cent of the state.

The following local students are numbered among the upper third and above high scorers in the state: Birtha Shrum, Andy Baroz, Carol Hadley, Richard Lopez, Connel Dean and Joy Leslie.

A special division of personnel at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, graded the papers of students who participated in the examination.

World wool production will probably be up 5 per cent in the 1950-51 season, according to wool specialists.

Telephone Cooperative To Meet In Hope Feb. 21

Telephone service for ranch and farm homes of southeastern New Mexico will be the subject of plans and discussions at the annual meeting of the Penasco Valley Telephone Cooperative, to be held Wednesday, February 21, at 1 P. M., at Hope, according to Daniel Storm, Glencoe.

The cooperative—made up of farmers, ranchers and residents of small communities in the five counties of Lincoln, Otero, Chaves, Lea and Eddy, and the Mesalero Indian Reservation—is working to bring modern dial system telephone service to the rural homes in the area now covered by the Otero-Lincoln REA cooperative and the Central Valley REA organization, with headquarters in Artesia. The telephone service is planned under the Rural Telephone Authority.

The REA in granting loans to cooperatives for telephone service favors those organizations which propose to cover the widest rural area. In keeping with this policy the Penasco Valley organization was given high priority in consideration.

It has been stated by leaders in the rural telephone field, Storm said, all those who need and want telephone service should put in their applications early because it is important installations for telephone service be made at the time the line is being constructed.

Highway Association Seeks Pictures For Map

The National Highway 54 Association will make up a new three-color map for Highway 54, which will be standard size and will show all cross roads and their destinations. The steering committee will need pictures of interest to the tourists along the route.

Pictures of this type should be mailed to Harlan Rensberg, Eldorado, Kan.

The pictures should be in not later than February 20. Any pictures not used will be returned if requested.

Carrizozo Movies

Cary Grant in "Destination Tokyo" comes to the Lyric screen February 16-17. The film is the thrilling story of U. S. submarine action in the eastern seas in World War II. John Garfield is co-starred with Grant in the picture which depicts the ship daring to go into Tokyo Bay itself to gather important intelligence. A musical in technicolor, starring Jane Powell and Ricardo Montalban, is the local theater's offering for February 18-19. "Two Weeks With Love" is the story of a turn of the century family on vacation at a mountain resort. The daughter's campaign to win the handsome Latin guest at the hotel is rife with ludicrous situations including an episode in which a surgical corset brings the story to a howling crescendo. The laugh moments are interspersed with a flock of songs popular in the horse-and-buggy era. Miss Powell, a gifted songstress, is also a first rate comedienne. "Tripoli," which comes to the Lyric February 20-22, is a blazing chapter in Marine Corps history, and stars Maureen O'Hara and John Payne.

The film is set in 1805 when the U. S. was at war with the Tripoli pirates who were attempting to limit the freedom of the sea. Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute was the slogan of the times. The story is taken from the exploits of a Marine Corps lieutenant who organized and led an army across 600 miles of danger fraught desert to attack the fortress city of Tripoli from the rear while warships were shelling it from the harbor. Despite enemy spies and intrigue in his own ranks, the attack is successful and the marine hero raises the American flag on foreign soil for the first time.

"Among American painters of today," says Horgan, "Peter Hurd is significant not because of the fashion but in spite of it."

Ruidoso Winner In Tilt With Hondo High

Hondo's first team was downed by the Ruidoso cagers in Friday night's basketball game, 34-21; a double feature exhibit which saw the Hondo second team nose out the Ruidoso 'A's 21-20. Slow, deliberate action type of playing was representative of both games despite the fact the scores were close. Hondo's first team had 10 fouls called against them with the Ruidosoans drawing 12. Joe Gallegos was high man for Ruidoso with six points. Roy Chavez garnered five of Hondo's total score. In the second string game, 14 fouls each were called on Ruidoso and Hondo. Whittely of Ruidoso dropped baskets for six of his team's tally, and Arthur Ruznez led the scoring for Hondo with 13 points.

Carrizozoan Recipient Of Early Day Relics

Joe Sargent, owner of the Yucca Bar in Carrizozo, has recently been presented several mementoes of long ago days in Lincoln County, reports his sister, Mrs. Alma Miller. Among the gifts are two wheels from the last horse drawn hearse in Carrizozo. The hearse belonged to T. E. Kelley, local mortician, and was last used about 1920. Sargent was presented with the wheels by Mrs. Vincent Rell, Carrizozo. In addition, there is a side saddle which was brought to White Oaks in 1893 by the late Mrs. Nannie Price; a large wheel off a buggy belonging to the father of the late Doyle Rentfro (Mr. Rentfro's father built the buggy which was equipped with iron rimmed wheels), and two ladies used in the old blacksmith shop in White Oaks. Other mementoes from that town included a stand used as equipment in a former dentist's office there; an iron pot used to crush ore, and other miscellaneous items. Sargent, presently residing in Las Vegas, Nev., and here on a brief visit, said he plans to use these items as part of the interior redecoration to be done at a future date in his place of business.

Retail Sales In County Take 28 Per Cent Jump

According to the Bureau of Business Research, University of New Mexico, November retail sales in Lincoln County advanced 12 per cent over October sales, just equaling the gain for the state as a whole. However, compared with November, 1949, Lincoln County's increase of 28 per cent was considerably larger than the statewide gain of 9 per cent. Furniture and appliance store sales were somewhat below October, but substantially higher than those of November, 1949. Increases were reported in both instances by automotive establishments and public lodgings, while sales of building materials dealers were higher than they were in October, but lower than in November, 1949. Decreases were reported by food stores, eating places, drug stores and apparel stores. Plan for the future with U. S. Savings Bonds.

The weather is trying to make news again here this week, and we hope it will be still wetter news. So far we have had only about two or three inches of snow. The Lincoln County teachers met at Carrizozo last Friday for an all-day session. Mrs. Lorine Samelson, county superintendent, presided at the meeting, and problems were discussed by the various teachers. On the way home from the meeting we saw an overturned truck five miles from Fort Stanton. I understand that a Mr. Portillo, was the driver. He was taken to Fort Stanton for attention, as he was unconscious, having been thrown from the truck. I hope the accident did not prove serious. The Hondo Valley Union High School PTA met Tuesday evening at the high school. A meeting was also called for Wednesday at which time the teachers of the local schools will confer with the high school teachers and work out some plan whereby the seventh and eighth graders as they go into the Hondo Valley Union High School will be enabled to carry on work previously begun without a gap in between that will hamper their progress. Work books will be selected to help the student leaving the small grade schools.

Foundation of America

I WENT UP to the little Pennsylvania town where I spent most of my boyhood, to help dedicate the beginning of a new town hall a few weeks ago. It brought back a lot of memories. It also set me thinking about what forms the real foundation of government in this country—namely, the small towns of America.

Swarthmore boasted about 2,000 people when I grew up there, and it still isn't much bigger now. The houses are of that early penitentiary, mansard-roof type, solid, a little ugly, but both the hearthstones and the hearts of the people inside are warm.

A few things about my town have changed in the 30-odd years since I moved away—but not many. There's a new movie house—unheard of in my day. And an underpass has replaced the old railroad grade crossing where watchman Mike McCarthy, friend of every kid in town, used to treat and tame until school was out and all the children had been herded across the tracks.

Some swank new homes have been built in the cow pastures and woods where I once trapped skunks; but Frank Getz, now the town tax assessor, greeted me with the observation: "The skunk-catching isn't so good up here any more, but I see you're still catching them down in Washington."

Pearson's Police Record

Biggest change in Swarthmore, however, is going to be the new town hall, for which—with proper ceremonies—we broke ground. The old town hall, gaunt, ungainly eyesore, caught fire last year, which reminded me that maybe the police records had burned with it, thereby removing from the clutches of my senatorial well-wishers the criminal evidence they have been so diligently trying to find.

A certain senator has been eagerly digging into my past of late, and last week an attorney close to the McCarthyites stood up in court and indicated by his cross examination of me that they were even trying to track down an incident in Reidsville, N.C., where, after taking down a Chautauque tent, I was arrested at 2 a.m. for taking a sponge bath in the murky Southern railroad yards.

This is a story which I tell every time I go to North Carolina, the last time having been to the North Carolina press association in Chapel Hill about a year ago. I also get numerous letters from Judge Ira Humphries who presided over the court, and Rev. William A. Lambeth, then Methodist minister in Reidsville, reminding me of my wicked past.

Brief for Sen. McCarthy

Presiding at the town hall ceremonies in Swarthmore was William H. Ward, now a top executive of the Du Pont company, who, like me, worked his way through college by spending his summers on a chautauque tent crew. And I couldn't help but remember how Hill Ward and Gibson Bradford, now Barnesville, Ohio's, leading banker, once took advantage of the liquid coolness of the fountain in the public square at Wellsboro, Pennsylvania, to remove the all-night grins of taking down a tent.

I hope Senator McCarthy doesn't go after them, too! At any rate, I was acquitted in Reidsville, N.C., and there was even a little lecture by the judge to the arresting cop that it was the duty of every citizen to keep clean.

What Senator McCarthy doesn't know, however, is that the burned records in the old town hall at Swarthmore would have showed that I was also arrested on an entirely different charge at an earlier age (about 15) and that time found guilty.

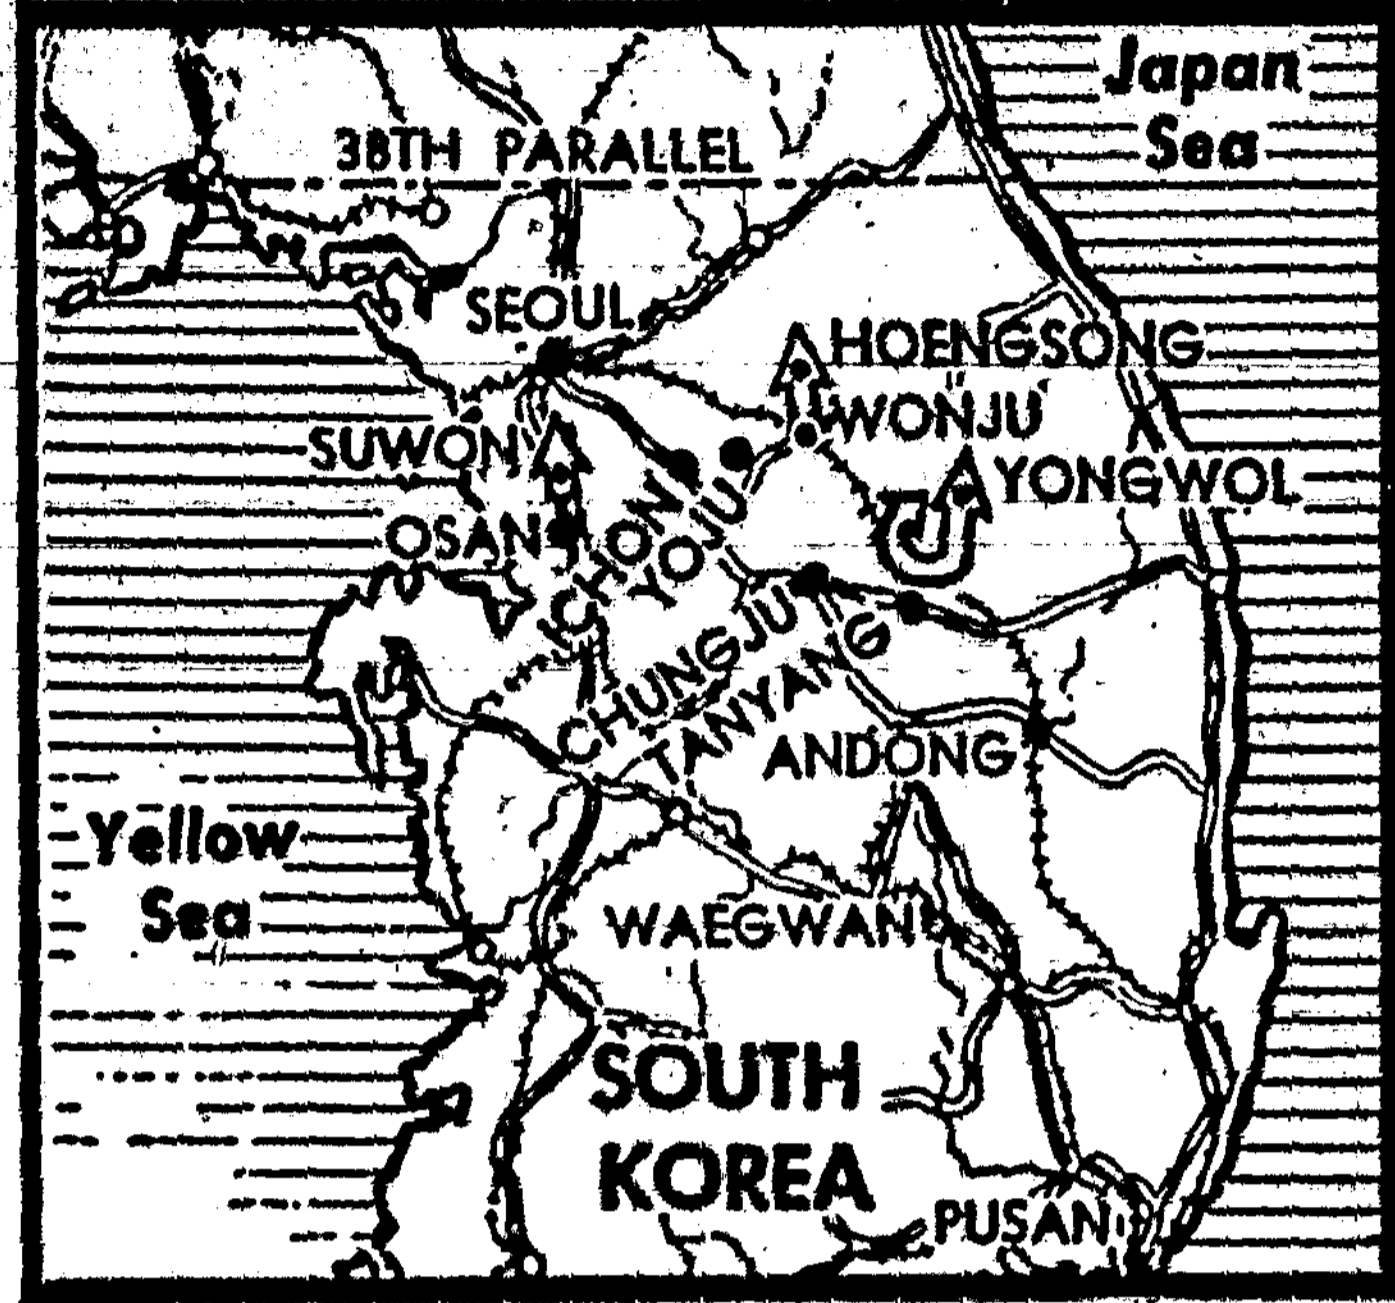

It was after a college football game. Swarthmore had beaten its old rival, Harvard. The two Quaker colleges were supposed to practice brotherly love, but didn't. Afterward, I rang the village fire bell and got caught. Fines: $5.

Backbone of America
Well, all these memories and a lot of others came crowding back at that dedication ceremony. And among them was the realization that our small towns are the backbone of America, and that if we ever lose our small-town independence, and the nominally spirit that goes with it, then we might really be in danger of going the way of Russia.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Government Issues Stoppag Order Freezing All Wages and Prices; AEC Conducts Atomic Experiments

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

The mystery of the vanishing Chinese armies who failed to take advantage of their breakthrough into South Korea remained unsolved as U.N. forces advanced toward the 38th parallel. The advance was not an all-out push, but a probing action by U.N. forces in an effort to locate the enemy.

WAGES-PRICES:

A Stoppag Order

A stoppag order freezing wages and prices was issued by the government. Although unsatisfactory as far as the average consumer was concerned, the measure at least was a stab toward stopping the wage-price spiral that had swept across the nation in the last few months.

The main effect of the order was that it brought to a standstill hundreds of collective-bargaining negotiations in industry. Prices on a number of goods and services were frozen, but there were also a number of exemptions, the most important one being the price of food.

According to administration spokesmen the price freeze would be replaced as fast as possible by specific ceiling prices, industry by industry. Such a procedure could go on forever.

The wage freeze would be wiped out as soon as a flexible wage policy could be compiled, it was announced. This "flexible policy" was considered necessary to permit lagging wages in some industries to come up to a certain standard.

The price order was complex and confusing, especially with respect to farm products and food. First of all, there was no freeze of any food prices at the farm level.

But on the processing, wholesale, and retail levels, food prices were frozen if the farm prices of those foods were above parity. Thus, beef, veal, pork and lamb prices were frozen.

(Parity is a sliding scale designed to keep farm prices at a fixed relation to the farmer's costs. The law prohibits price ceilings below parity.)

Most farm products at the time of the wage-price freeze were below parity. Poultry and eggs were examples. If and when the farmer's price went up on those things, the wholesaler and retailer could not raise prices to increase their margins. The increase, however, would be automatically passed along all the way to the consumer.

Other things exempt from price controls included communication and publication fields—like newspapers, books, magazines, radio, television and theater admission.

Controls

Price administrator Michael V. Dikala (right) looks on as Attorney General J. Howard McGrath administers the oath of office to 12 officials who head regional and district offices of the economic stabilization organization. These men will direct the price-wage freeze law.

AEC Tests

Captain Carroll Tyler, manager of the AEC Santa Fe operations office at Los Alamos, N.M., announced test detonations at the atomic testing range near Las Vegas. Tyler gave no details of the tests. His announcement was a warning to residents of the area that such tests were scheduled.

A-BOMB:

Tests Rock Las Vegas
While most of the world waited with apprehension at the result and announcements of the first atomic explosion in this country in a number of years, residents of Las Vegas, Nevada, 40 miles from the atomic testing range, were frked about the whole business.

The atomic energy commission shrouded its experiments in silence. It was known, however, that three explosions took place. Las Vegas witnesses reported a tremendous white flash in the sky, closely followed by another flash, orange in color and not as bright.

Las Vegas residents reported windows shook, houses trembled and burglar alarms in business establishments were set off.

The last explosion was felt and seen in Boulder City, about 85 miles from the test range.

EUROPE:

Time for Co-operation
In the last few weeks, especially since General Eisenhower made his tour of Europe, there seems to have developed a feeling of mutual co-operation between the United States and our allies.

The reluctance to arm and speed up production that was evident only a few months ago disappeared. Britain has launched a production speed-up and rearmament program. And now France has announced plans to take her place beside the U.S. and Britain.

To further this co-operation, French Premier René Pleven arrived in Washington for conferences with President Truman. After a series of meetings it was announced Pleven and Truman were in agreement as to policy in the far east, especially in Korea and Indochina. Most observers agreed the talks would open the way for greater co-operation among the western nations in the defense of Europe, with much greater participation on the part of France.

KOREA:

Mystery Unsolved

The mystery of what happened to the Chinese armies that pushed United Nations forces south of the 38th parallel and seriously threatened to cut them off from Pusan remained unsolved.

An unexpected lull swept over the Korean battle front as Chinese pressure ceased. Then probing attacks northward by U.N. forces failed to make contact with the main armies of the enemy.

Latest reports told of continued movement of U.N. troops northward and only minor resistance. The situation raised a number of questions and possibilities. For one thing, it raised the question of whether or not the Communist armies had been hurt to the extent they were unable to continue a strong attack. The possibility seemed unlikely in view of the numbers of men available to the Communists.

There were also rumors to the effect the Communists had suffered severely from cold and disease. There were other reports that the Chinese would not fight below the 38th parallel.

The mystery was still unsolved after two weeks of minor fighting. The battlefield lull also relieved the tension on the political front. The urgency of branding China the aggressor in Korea was lessened.

POLITICS:

Republican Policy

The drums of politics, which will grow louder in the next few months, were sounded by Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio when he called on Republicans to meet head on any Truman "trucking" to Communist sympathizers or any appeasement of Russia.

Taft made it plain that he thought the Republicans could defeat the Democrats in the next presidential election on the issue of foreign policy. Whether or not the campaign shapes up along these lines depends greatly on events in the next few months. On the surface it appears that Senator Taft may face some opposition along this line from within his own party.

Senator Taft's influence with Republicans is tremendous, however. He heads the senate G.O.P. policy committee—and has been called the leading Republican contender for the 1952 presidential nomination.

In his own words, this seems to be the core of Taft's policy: "We must meet head on any trucking to Communist sympathizers, any appeasement of Russia which is likely to lead to more aggression, and any waste of our resources with the idea that we can buy the support of nations."

DRAFT:

Bitter Controversy

The all-powerful house armed-services committee stepped into the bitter controversy over drafting 18-year-olds for armed service duty with an order to the defense department to consider raising the top draft age from 26 to 30 as an alternative.

The move virtually put a stop to the department's plan of drafting 18-year-olds. Congress may still act on the measure, however, which the defense department reports would provide between 250,000 and 450,000 men during the first year.

Also in the draft news was the announcement by the defense department that non-veterans 19 through 25 who have married since the Korean war began June 25, 1950, should be drafted. Only single non-veterans now are being taken.

Plans also were underway to lower the draft standards. This move would provide perhaps 150,000 men now barred for physical and mental reasons.

ECONOMISTS:

Urge Stiffer Taxes

Four hundred economists, members of 30 institutions throughout the country, recently urged the government to increase taxes and tighten controls.

Their views were interesting in that they all believed that emergency fiscal and credit policies, rather than price-wage controls, constitute our primary defense against inflation.

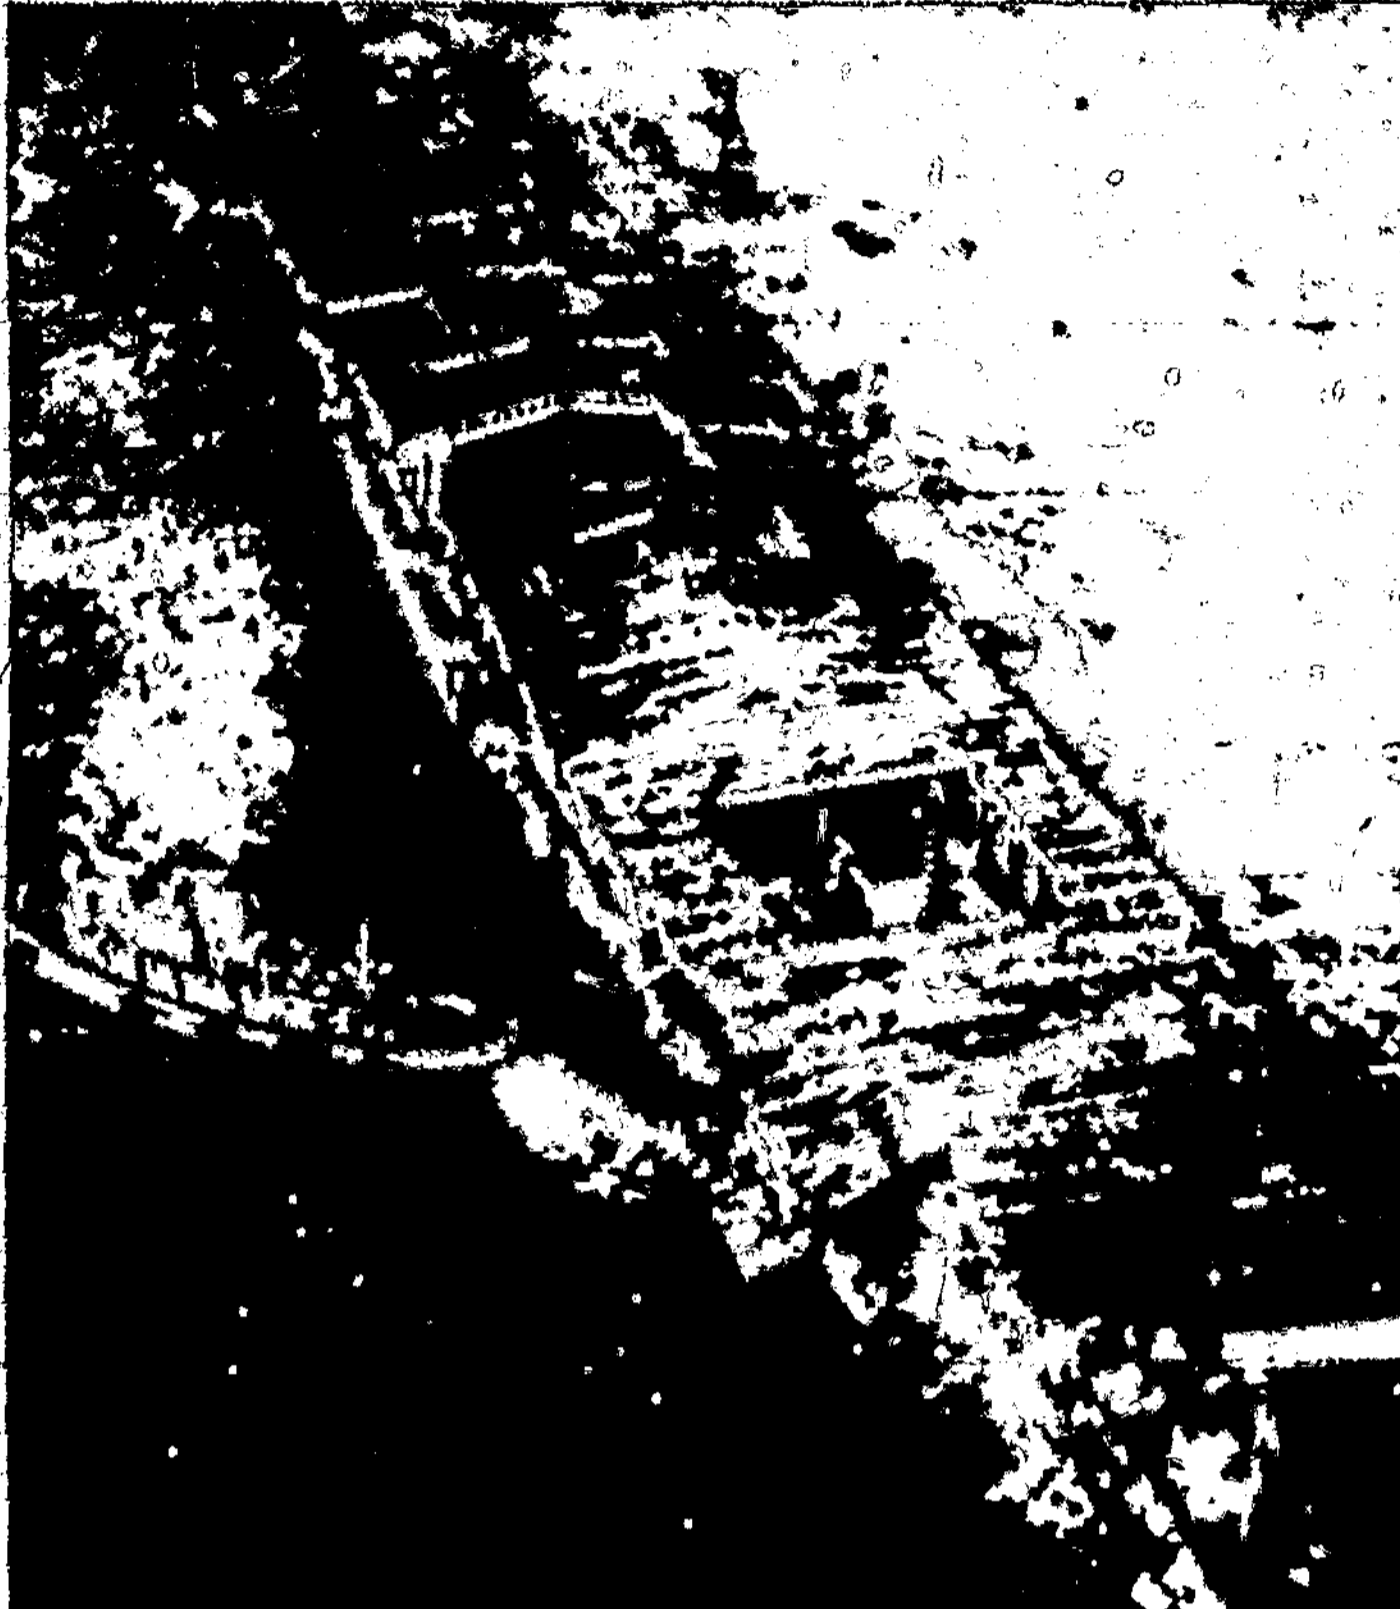

They recommended:

1. Scrutinize carefully all government expenditures and postpone or eliminate those that are not urgent and essential.
2. Raise tax revenues even faster than defense spending grows, so as to achieve and maintain a cash surplus. Merely to balance the budget is not enough.
3. Restrict the amount of credit available to businesses and individuals for purposes not essential to the defense program.

The recommendation to achieve a cash surplus would require a tax increase of more than $1,000,000,000, the minimum required to balance the new budget.

home? What about a hydrogen bomb? What protection do I have in case a bacteriological bomb or balloon is loosed in my community? What defense is there against radiological warfare, or the dropping of insect pests or plant diseases to destroy crops and animals?

There are defenses to these atomic bombs, to attacks against health and crops and animals. But every citizen must be as well educated in these defenses as acutely aware of the danger, and as alertly conscious of just what action to take as he is of any chore of his daily life.

The government has been for months making detailed studies of the bombing of European cities in World War II, of the effects of the atomic bombs at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. They have worked out patterns and effects and defenses.

THE FICTION CORNER

The night was a murky one. Only the stark bulbs sending their light through the gleaming windows of Joe's Diner relieved the darkness. Bill Owen lounged against the door wondering whether to go in.

THE JACKPOT

Consider three points. First, when Peter said "You are Christ" he meant "You are unique." No Jew looked for two Christs. There is no one else in Jesus' class, there is only one of him.

GRASSROOTS World Is Becoming Fed Up With Peace Leagues

IN THE PAST QUARTER of a century or less, the people of the world have suffered three major disappointments. The first was the failure of the League of Nations, of which President Woodrow Wilson was the instigator following World War I.

national boundaries of each against any aggression on the part of the larger and stronger nations. Hopes of what the Charter would accomplish were not entirely disappointed until President Roosevelt at the Yalta Conference gave to Stalin the President's approval to the taking back the three Baltic provinces that had fought for and won their independence.

They believed because they wanted to believe, despite the fact that had marked the League of Nations and the League of Nations and the League of Nations and the League of Nations.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Petty Grudges

"MY WIFE does a lot to make me as happy as I can be, but she's so darned unhappy herself," writes a husband from a Colorado farm. "Daisy is 37," his letter goes on, "and she is devoted to me and our five kids. But I honestly don't think she has another friend in the world. She suspects everyone, distrusts everyone, and criticizes everyone. She has had quarrels with practically every woman in our town. This one said something mean about her when they were in high school; that one didn't come to see her when she had her first baby, and the third rented the house she and I looked at when we wanted to live in town one winter. Someone else borrowed a book and never returned it, and still another criticized Daisy for giving our girls permanents while they were in grade school. One of her oldest friends hasn't spoken to Daisy for years because she sent Daisy a Christmas present, and Daisy found a card sent to this friend from another woman, inside. Daisy never forgave her."

Has Never Forgiven "Her family and mine would be glad to make much of our children, especially the girls, who are now 16 and 14. But my wife has never forgiven my mother for something Ma said to a friend when I was first married, to the effect that she didn't believe Daisy wanted chil-

den. With my sisters Daisy says she has nothing in common. And with her own only relative, a married brother, she has not been on speaking terms since his wife gave a party on the night we were giving a party. "Now, the tragedy is," George Ingalls' letter continues, "that Daisy really hasn't any idea things are this way. She is so devoted to a wife and mother she can't see that she is cutting our girls off from all the pleasures natural to their ages, by ruling that they never can enter certain houses and that she doesn't want them to be friendly with this family and that."

"This means constant arguments and disappointments for the girls. Their mother tells them that they will have plenty of friends and good times as the years go on, but that she simply will not forgive old slights and prejudices. One of my sisters has boys a few years older than my girls; she is generous, respects nothing and forgives everything, and she wants our Sheila and Donna to join their cousins for all sorts of good times. My wife forbids it. We could have fine parties of our own out here on the farm, for ours is a grand old house and there is a good deal to amuse kids, but the same reasons hold here, too."

"Can you suggest some argument or course that will solve this problem and give my girls a chance to live somewhat freer lives? They are both loving, natural girls who laugh off their mother's worries and suspicions. But they naturally can't accept invitations against her will. And gradually it has been dawning on them that it is not in one case or two, but that her dislike embrace practically our entire social group. What can I do?"

Wrong Moral Training Your wife, George, didn't have the right moral training when she was young. She may have had schooling, dancing, riding, tennis, languages. But she hasn't been taught to forgive. She hasn't been told to be humble, to put herself and her little petty pride and vanity and sensitiveness aside; to wipe the slate gloriously clean of old hurts and grudges every little while and start fresh. No, she has nursed her precious little grudges, injuries, her slights and snubs, the forgetfulness of her friends, their innocent mistakes or hasty comments. If your mother said Daisy didn't want children, 16 years ago, the mere fact of having five lovely children doesn't heal the hurt in Daisy's pitiful little narrow heart. She has revealed in her ineffectual little revenges, which have hurt only herself, and you and her children, and never have reached their real target at all.

Of the good times she has missed, she hasn't had any. The holiday parties, the pride she might have felt in showing her children to old neighbors and friends, Daisy will never know. She is too deeply wrapped up in her own righteous indignation.

Here is a very extreme case of a common trouble. Lots of women nurse one or two grievances all their lives; rarely does anyone make quite so thorough a job of it as Daisy does. What they all need was a good mother or father.

WOMAN'S WORLD Adult's Clothing Can Yield Good Materials for Child's Wardrobe

By Erita Haley

MOST MOTHERS have found that it's expensive to outfit children completely from ready-made clothing, but the cost can be cut if only some of the wardrobe has to be purchased.

Even though you may not have other youngsters who pass their clothing on to younger members of the family, the child's own clothes often have remake possibilities. Clothing from mother and daddy can frequently yield good material for a child's wardrobe. No child, no matter how small, will be enthusiastic about clothing which is unattractive, and who can blame him or her? Children have an innate sense of styling and color which may come from their being admired in something nice. At any rate, whatever you remake, do it carefully, with a flair for style, so your efforts are put to good purpose.

Fabrics which you draw from old clothing should be clean, if the garment can be laundered, well and good; otherwise, have it cleaned professionally. Laundered old clothing should be pressed before you start remaking it or you cannot get the material straight enough to use for cutting. Garments should be taken apart at the seams for restyling. If the clothing used is more than ample, save time and simply cut apart at the seams.

After you have the old material cut from old clothing, tint or dye as necessary. You may have better-looking clothing if you simply add color to faded old clothing, than using it as is, in its wanted-out appearance.

How to Re-Use Old Knit Suits Those little cotton knit suits which your toddler-going-on-two has worn since fourteen or sixteen months of age or earlier will undoubtedly be showing signs of being too small right about now. You'll find that most of them will still fit through chest and shoulders, but they're useless with their pants.

Cut the shirt off the pants at the waist and hem the bottom of it. It may be worn with slacks or overalls for several months in this state. Overalls can be made inexpensively from some of Dad's work shirts, an old seersucker housecoat of yours, or even a corduroy skirt.

While dyeing gives new bluffs.

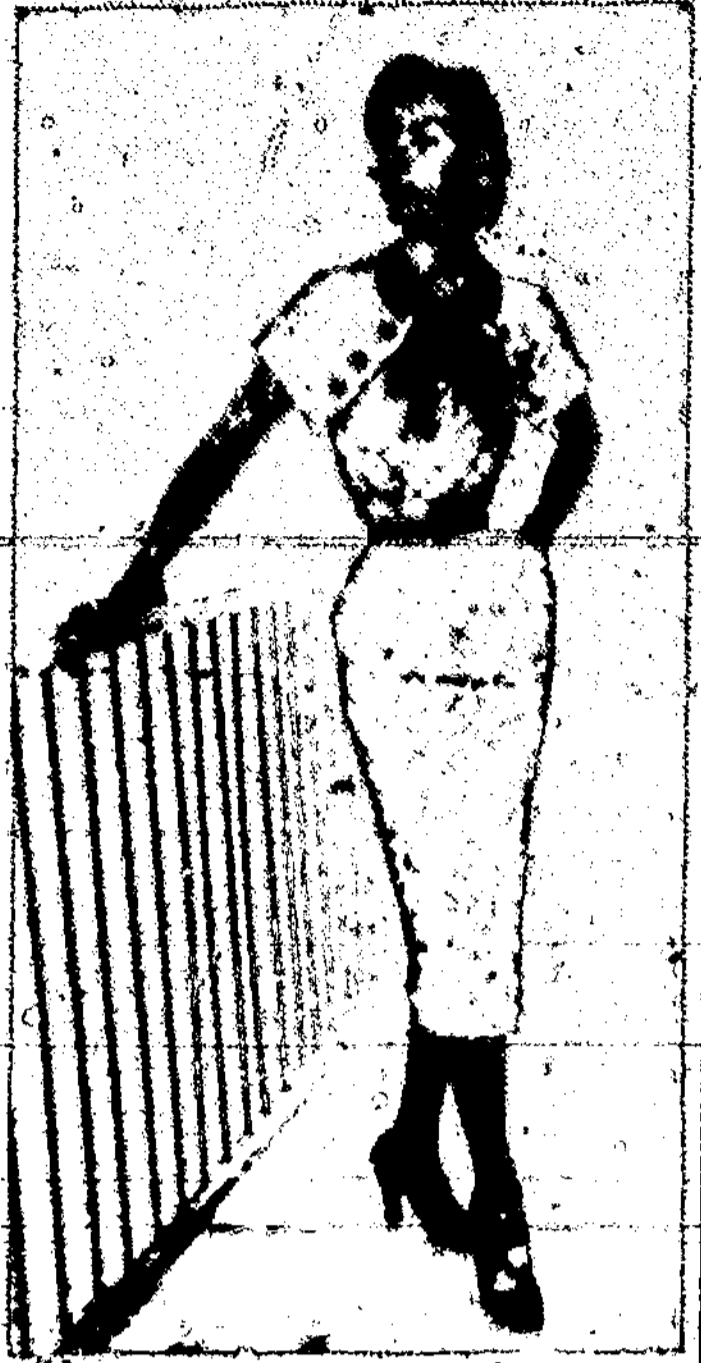

These little knit shirts which you've converted to "T" shirts for overalls are usually pastel shades which are not as practical for the toddler who gets more soiled. Deep tones such as navy, white or brown, to which they can be dyed, will be more serviceable. Overalls and slacks which are worn at the knees can be used again, if they are still large enough. If you place decorative patches on the knees, these can be very clever, indeed. If they're cut in the shape of animals and in a contrasting shade and then sewed to the knees.

Sweaters which have become too short in the sleeves can have these cut off and the armholes bound to prevent raveling with a knit or contrasting binding. You'll then have a slip-over type sweater which keeps tops covered. These are nice to wear over a shirt.

Old corduroy overalls or other pieces of similar material of your own can be made into butcher boy or boxer jackets which are excellent to wear with slacks or overalls, for both boys and girls.

Little Girls' Clothes Require Careful Trim Your little daughters can look charming in clothes that require little material, and a little bit more of trimmings. It's amazing what can be done with mother's old maternity dresses, robes, lin-gorie, or even with clothes the girl herself has outgrown.

Take, for example, the outgrown dress in a pretty pastel shade. This can be converted into a sundress, or pinafore, if you simply cut off the bodice and restyle it with an apron effect with a bib front. Use straps over the shoulders that continue to a waistband that ties in the back. Cuttings can be used to fashion wide ruffles to edge the shoulder straps.

Old organdie formal or discarded sheer curtain material dyed a luscious pink, blue, aqua or yellow are excellent sources for material if you plan to make a starchy pinafore for the little girl can wear for dress occasions, either over a dress or over slip and blouse. Simply use a pinafore pattern that you like and cut from the material as you would from yard goods.

What about those old pinafores which the girl has outgrown? Add an extra inch or two which she needs at the bodice by inserting a band of eyelet trimming. Then add length to the garment with an eyelet ruffle at the skirt and she can have another year's wear from it. Old maternity dresses which you never want to see again have plenty of material in them for gay dresses, especially if they're charming prints. The skirt of one dress has enough material for a two or three year old's dress or two sun suits for a small boy.

Fashion Light Coats From Old Clothes In-between coats for the children are considered an extravagance to buy, but there's many a day when you'd like them to have something lightweight to wear. You probably have enough material at home for a coat project if you check the sources.

An old lightweight wool or rayon topper, either yours or your husband's would be ideal. Perhaps you have some discarded men's white flannels that are too small or too yellowed ever to be used again. For yellowed woollens such as flannel, use beige or light blue dye, and you'll have a nice shade for either boy or girl. The collar can be faced with scraps of matching velvet or of the same color.

Brighter shades of old material can be dyed navy blue, Brass buttons and scarlet lining will give you a beloved classic refter style. Any materials you may use for a coat project will be all or at least part wool, and you can expect some shrinkage when the fabric is dyed. Careful pressing, however, will restore much or all of the loss to the material.

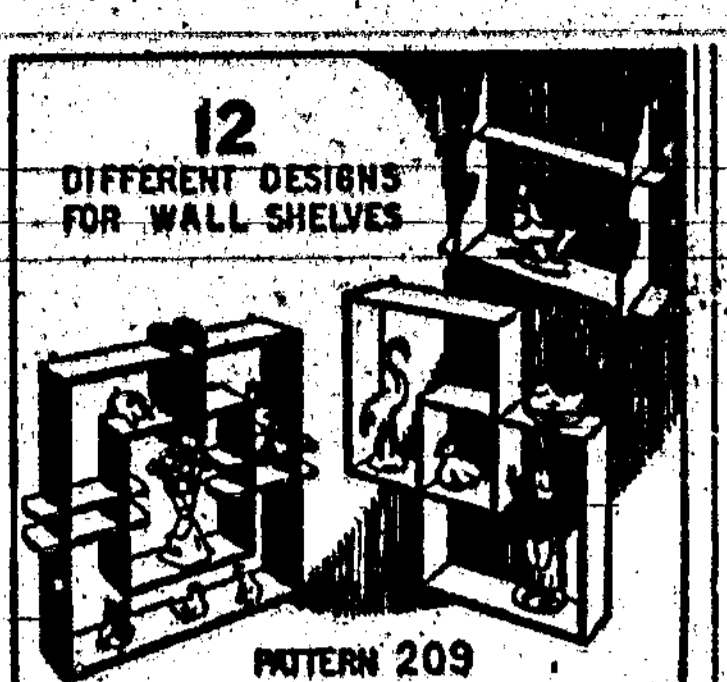

Use a warm iron and a damp cloth over the material when pressing. While drying the material, keep away from both intense heat and cold.

Should the material used have a combination of several types of fibers in it, or if you're not certain just what it contains, it's wise to use an all-purpose dye.

Add New Trimmings To Hand-Me-Downs If little sister is anything but enthusiastic about her big sisters' clothes, which she always inherits, embark on a project of redecorating the old clothes.

Pastel dresses which are faded can be dyed bright shades, and that will give them an entirely new look. Best results are achieved if you dye a bright shade of the color or already in the garment, like red for pink, deep, royal blue for light blue and gold for yellow. Of course you can add blue to a yellow dress and get green; or pink and tan to white to get tea cream pink, etc.

AROUND THE HOUSE
One of the most delicate fabrics of all, when it comes to washing, is wool. Extremely hot water will actually destroy wool fibers, so never put woollens in anything hotter than lukewarm water. Don't let them soak for any length of time; don't wring them or twist them; don't hang them up to dry. Wash them quickly, squeeze the water out gently, and spread them flat for drying.
When your clothesline needs washing, coil it around a washboard or a piece of wood about that size; stand it in a tub of hot soapy water, and scrub it thoroughly with a brush. To avoid twisting and tangling, let it dry right on the board, and put it up again when it's completely dry.
If you must hang a garment up to dry, first pin it or baste it to a turkish towel, and hang the towel and all over the line. Or, dry it indoors by spreading it on a clean window.

To avoid having woolen garments turn stiff and hard after washing, add a few drops of glycerine or a pinch of borax to the wash water.
If you want to shrink a woolen garment deliberately before the first time it's washed, soak it in cold water for about two hours; then spread it out to dry without stretching it in any way.
