WASHINGTON, March 29. — Whenever our people begin to feel disturbed over the country's inflationary joyride, someone high in government circles always steps forth to reassure the public, with honeyed tones, that all is well with the national economy. "Why just look," he will point out, "our national income is at the highest point in history. Things can't be bad when that is the case."
 What is the actual situation? It's another case of the old axiom that "figures don't lie, but those who figure sometimes do." Of course, our national income is at an all-time high, but it is an income of 50-cent dollars. Certainly more money is in circulation than there was 20 years ago, but it won't buy half as much.
 In our inflation, the government's so-called "economic experts" have shut their eyes completely to the ever-cheaper dollar. These are the "experts" whose advice has, over the years, been very consistent—consistent wrong.
 As a consequence, the spending practices of the federal government have brought about this swollen currency, and the blame cannot be shifted anywhere else. It is not the spending of private individuals that has caused the situation, as some government officials would try to pretend, but the wastefulness of the government itself, borrowing and spending with complete abandon.
 And to support these wild practices, the government has issued more and more bonds and more and more currency until we have now reached the point where we wonder if it can be stopped before the country's economy is wrecked completely.
 We can all remember the time when a government bond was considered a gilt-edged investment. But is it now? Let's look at the facts. If you bought a $100 bond in 1931, you paid 75 good, hard dollars for it. When it matures today you get back 100 of the 50-cent variety. So you think you have made $25 over the 10-year period, but actually you have lost $25.
 As an example of government practices that have brought about this economic headache, take administration of the Marshall plan. Instead of sending goods from this country to nations that needed them, we sent dollars. Then the countries came back and bought the goods they needed with their donated dollars, putting more money into circulation but pushing down the value of our money.
 Now we are faced with a preparedness effort that is admittedly going to strain our national economy to the utmost. If our economy isn't sound, it may bankrupt us. Therefore, in my opinion, our principal problem at the present time is to try to bring the value of the dollar back up to something approaching 100 cents.
 My approach to this problem is what I consider the obvious one. That is, cut down on the cost of operation of the federal government. Cut out the agencies that were organized during the depression but which are no longer needed now. Reduce the number of federal employees in the agencies which are retained. Stop wasting funds in unnecessary purchasing.
 As I pointed out in a speech on the House floor shortly after returning to Congress, the responsibility for watching these spending practices rests with the Senate and the House of Representatives and can be accomplished by the various committees. An example of this being done by some committees appeared recently when Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee blocked a plan by the armed services to take over three expensive apartment buildings in the Washington vicinity.
 This is the only sort of action that can bring to a halt the orgy of inflationary spending in which we are now engaged. Certainly the administration has shown no

New Mexico School Of Mines Changes Name

The new name, "New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology," for the Socorro college known for 62 years as "New Mexico School of Mines," has the institute staff busy notifying alumni and other interested persons. Former graduates will be offered certificates bearing the new title of their alma mater.
 The name change became effective with Governor Mechem's signing of Senate Bill No. 72, which reads in part: "Except for financial transactions, the use of the name 'New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology' is hereby permitted in lieu of the name 'New Mexico School of Mines' for common convenience. The School of Mines began its educational work in 1893 with a faculty of two—Dr. Floyd Davis, president and professor of chemistry and metallurgy; and T. S. Delay, assistant professor of chemistry and metallurgy. In 1927 the State Bureau of Mines became a part of the institution, and in 1946 the Research and Development Division joined NMEM. The Institute now boasts 50 persons on its faculty and professional staff, plus a large number of research and technical personnel, clerical workers and others. The college division offers the bachelor of science in eight fields of knowledge, and the master's degree in geology and geophysics. The State Bureau of Mines has become known throughout the world for its maps and publications. The scientists of research division, under the direction of physicist-president E. J. Workman, has gained national attention for its work with artificial precipitation, thunderstorm electricity and other fields of study.
 Officials of the institution feel that "Institute of Mining and Technology" is more in keeping with the progress of the Socorro school to its place in the top rank of American technological colleges. While mining and metallurgy, petroleum engineering and geology retain their prominent place in the curriculum, these fields today require far broader technical training than was needed 50 years ago. Also, such subjects as geophysics, physics, chemistry and mathematics are increasingly vital in America's economy.

VERMEJO NEXT

Since the support of the State Department has been thrown behind the Bureau of Reclamation in its request to the Bureau of the Budget for Middle Rio Grande channelization funds, the picture appears favorable for completion of that project.
 I am now turning my attention to securing approval of the Vermejo Park appropriations. My efforts along this line are in working with the Bureau of the Budget to secure approval of the findings of the Department of Interior, which are favorable to the Vermejo project.
 According to the law creating the project, these findings must be established before any appropriations can be made. When the Bureau of Reclamation has decided the project is "feasible," and their decision is approved by the Bureau of the Budget, the way will be clear for construction.

Assignment New Mexico

By G. WARD FENLEY
 Gordon Greaves, usually easy-going, slow to anger, and ordinarily standing solidly with both feet on the ground, busted out with a vigorous "Editorial We" in the Portales Daily News last week.

Says Gordon bluntly: "We don't like Chinese Elms."
 What surprised us was the fullness of his statement.
 He might as well have said: We don't like garrulous women, bald-headed men, feminine slacks, dust storms, braggart Texans, high prices, Johnson grass and ladies' chapeaux.
 Back in my part of East Texas, we used to say: "The Tuckers and Johnson grass are about to take the country."
 And they were. And there wasn't much we could do about it. It was the same old story as the Chinese elms. Things get root—you can't oust them—so you might as well learn to live with them.
 There are some things we can't get used to putting up with. One of them is graft in high and low places.
 Patrick Henry said: "Gimme liberty or gimme death." His descendants just say: "Gimme." The Fulbright and Kefauver probes have turned many a stomach inside-out the past several weeks.
 It's getting so bad that when we speak of inevitable things such as death and taxes, we are adding political corruption to the list. A lot of people are saying they don't mind so much their coming if they'll just arrive in the order named: death, taxes, corruption.
 It's no longer a question Truth Or, but Truth and Consequences. My wife gleefully showed me a poem in last week's Saturday Evening Post by Virginia Ree Mock. The Mock dame, like my wife, must have been married at least a quarter of a century. It was entitled:
 "Truce or Consequences
 "Love isn't blind; its X-ray vision
 Sees countless reasons for derision;
 His growing paunch, her extra chin,
 Her hair, 'touched up,' his growing thin.
 But if her defects he should mention,
 His would get her full attention.
 Long-wedded eyes miss very little;
 Love isn't blind, it's noncommittal."
 And that's the way we feel about Mr. Greaves' tirade against Chinese elms:

 "Old men's eyes miss very little. The thing to be is noncommittal."
 But this old bald-headed professor cannot be noncommittal about typo errors. One New Mexico paper, we couldn't say which, stated that the "couple would exchange marriage cows Easter morning."
 The Hobbs-Flare ran an Easter Day recipe: "Easted menu, gruit cup topped with sherbet, etc."
 And we didn't get it at all when the Hobbs Flare, a bad offender this week, talked about a car wreck in which "five youths were enjoyed when the automobile overturned. Kinda crazy amusement, we'd say."
 There seemed to be something sinister and illegitimate about farm income in 1950 in the Portales Daily News yarn in the March 13 issue: "Diary products amounted to 22.8 per cent of the farm income."
 Corruption has evidently formed triangles down on the farm in Roosevelt County.
 And that's all this week except to remind you that grain is about the only thing left that can be shocked.

Starching will cut ironing time in half. Dresses, skirts, shirts and blouses stay cleaner longer, shed dust and dirt more easily, and keep a crisp, fresh look longer.

Ralph Edwards To MC T. Or C. Celebration

All residents of Lincoln County have been invited to attend a massive three-day celebration, the Annual April Fool's Fiesta, a fiesta of fun, at Truth or Consequences, March 30, 31 and April 1. The event will be highlighted by the personal appearance of Ralph Edwards with his entire cast of the Truth or Consequences radio and television shows. The nationwide broadcast will be March 31 and the Edwards television show April 1; also to be filmed during the fiesta will be another national TV show by Erskine Johnson's "Hollywood Newsreel."
 The Sierra County Sheriff's Posse will stage its twelfth annual three-day rodeo with Beutler Brothers, Elk City, Okla., in charge. A stupendous parade on March 30 led by Ralph Edwards will include at least five bands and five mounted sheriff's posses with hundreds of horses.
 If you appear at the Truth or Consequences Chamber of Commerce by 9 A. M. March 30, you will not only "see the elephant," but you can join a real elephant shoot in competition for a valuable prize.
 In connection with the festival activities, the Truth or Consequences Chamber of Commerce will stage an elephant shoot

Joe Coe, Tularosa, has been seriously ill and confined to the Champion Memorial Hospital, Alamogordo, for 10 days. He is reported as improving and is now at home. Mr. Coe is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Runnels of Bonita Dam.

March 30. The shoot will be held in territory surrounding the city which last year legally adopted the name of Edwards' radio program—Truth or Consequences, New Mexico.
 According to Don Thompson, Chamber of Commerce president: "Anyone over the age of 21 may join our shoot by filling an entry blank at the Chamber of Commerce and paying a small fee. The hunter who first shoots the elephant's picture with a camera will win merchandise with a value ranging into thousands of dollars."

Roy S. Miller, districter director of the Office of Price Stabilization for New Mexico, issued the information in Albuquerque recently and emphasized that all operators of eating establishments are covered by the ceiling price order which specifically directs that complete records of the business be preserved for OPS inspections.
 "A restaurant menu is the price list of merchandise sold in this class of retail business, and since food selections are constantly changed—a record of all items and their prices must be preserved," Walker stated.

FORT STANTON

By L. D. FISH

Next Sunday, April 1, Shirley Anne MacClain will become the bride of Staff Sergeant John C. Williams in the Chapel of Our Redeemer at Fort Stanton.

Barbara and Percy Wiggs have a new Studebaker. Owning a new car is not a sign you have money; it is a sign you had some.

Speaking of new cars, "Pancho" Hernandez has a new Chevrolet pick-up.

The Ray Bakers are off on a vacation somewhere; no one seems to know where they went. They will be back soon. In the meantime, the painters here are doing a nice job in Baker's quarters.

Mrs. Rainey has returned from an extended vacation trip.

Lloyd Miller, Ramon Ventura and Ignacio Torres have been doing jury duty in Carrizozo.

Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Ziporyn have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Hogan from up near Chicago way. Have you folks noticed that while the air here at the Fort is quite rare, everything else is well done?

Several days ago a Bulck automobile owned by a resident of Ruidoso was wrecked between here and the highway. It was on the infamous "S" curve less than a mile from the Fort. About a year and a half ago two men were killed there and another seriously injured. How many does it take to eliminate an obvious hazard?

Mrs. Dan Kuslanovich entertained the USPHS Ladies Bridge Club March 22. There were three tables.

Francis Jennings is planning to go to the U. S. Marine Hospital in New Orleans to have an artificial leg fitted. Hope you have nothing to kick about, Frank, when you get to where you can.

Bert Minter went fishing at San Marcial last weekend. They came back nearly fish-less. My boy David went along and he said that little Judy Minter caught a nice bass. Bert hasn't said much about it.

The Rev. Oscar J. Rainey conducted three Easter services last Sunday. In the morning he was in Ruidoso, in the afternoon in Glencoe, and in the evening here at Fort Stanton. There was excellent attendance everywhere. Both chapels here were filled to capacity.

The men here in the hospital found their food trays appropriately decorated in keeping with the season. (The men enjoyed that, Miss Reid, and all thank you for thinking of it.)

The regular annual Easter egg hunt at the Fort was held Easter Sunday. Details of it can be found elsewhere in this paper.

The DAV Auxiliary from Alamogordo came to the Fort during the week and distributed books, homemade candles and cookies, along with a number of other things useful to the patients here. Mrs. Wiggs escorted them through the institution.

Books were sent to the patients here by Ira J. Briscoe, Tucumcari, and by Mrs. A. N. Hord, member of the E de P Bujac Post, Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post No. 3277, Carlsbad.

This isn't a Fort Stanton item, but several people are wondering what is being done about Highway 54. Heard anything yet?

The Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Post No. 7688, Capitán, is holding another enchilada supper the night of March 13. That's tomorrow as you read this. Come to the VFW Home in Capitán.

Wire Screen Platforms Prevent Poultry Disease

Use of wire screen platforms around and under feed troughs and water fountains has solved the coccidiosis problem for many poultry producers. In many cases, according to reports from veterinarians, it has eliminated the need for using sulfonamide drugs in the birds' feed.

Droppings of infected birds contain the parasitic organisms that cause coccidiosis. When these droppings are not screened away from young stock, they pick up a heavy dose of the parasites and come down with the disease. Where the wire is used, they pick up only a few parasites at a time and in that way they build up resistance to coccidiosis.

Such limited exposure frequently acts almost like vaccination, because it helps them acquire immunity against heavy exposure.

NOGAL MESA

By DOROTHY GUCK

A lady driving an out-of-state car stopped at a gas station at Ruidoso Junction Wednesday of last week and remarked to the attendant, "This is my first trip through New Mexico. Friends said I might see some wild game. I hope I do." About eight miles farther on Highway 70, a doe jumped into her car. Unfortunately, the deer didn't stop to open the window, but hurtled through the glass, breaking its back and cutting the face and arm of the driver. My Dad called the game warden to kill the doe, and Mother furnished first aid for the motorist, who said as she left to continue her trip, "I think I won't leave this wild country."

My Mother, Mrs. Walter Gray of Glencoe, is to have a party in honor of her seventieth birthday anniversary March 27.

Bert Pfingsten stopped to ask if there would be camp meeting sunrise service. I am sorry there wasn't. Bert is the best egg scrambler in the county.

The dance at Bonnell Ranch drew all the LaMay family and Peg and Leota Pfingsten. They enjoyed every minute until the wee hours.

Peg Pfingsten and Ralph Bonnell left for Albuquerque Sunday to attend the stockmen's convention. Leota will leave next weekend to play at Lovington for the district extension club meeting.

Good Friday, Geraldine Randall, Bonnie McKuen and Leota Pfingsten took a group of children to the O-Bar-O for an Easter egg hunt.

Ben Pfingsten, who has been batching all winter while his mother resides in Tucumcari, celebrated Easter at the Carrizozo movie. He has become quite an accomplished cook of beef soup in recent months.

Randall Halliday is putting the Angus sawmill in shape to take care of the timber on the Jones land.

Sonny Luck, Roy Morgan and crew answered the fire call last week, started by trash burning and resulting in the destruction of several acres of grass and timber on the Mesalero Reservation.

Sunday, Barney Luck and the ranger with the help of several valley residents, fought a fire in the timber of Pine Canyon above Green Tree. This fire was the result of a carelessly left campfire.

More new white-faced calves are appearing on the Mesa every day. With the market price for beef remaining at such a high level, there is no doubt that these four-legged babies are facing a rosy world of careful coddling and wholesome feeding. Maybe it is just as well that human value doesn't vary.

Farmer Gives Pheasant Eggs To 4-H Members

Four H club boys and girls with a "little red hen" can put her to work hatching "something wild" this spring.

The "something wild" will be ring-necked pheasants from settings of wild pheasant hatching eggs which Samuel Martin, a Washington state game farmer, will give to 4-H club boys and girls throughout the nation. There will be 12 eggs a setting. (Youngsters are asked to pay only the cost of packing and mailing—30 cents.)

Martin is a game farmer who raises over 10,000 wild pheasants yearly, and sends them in canned form throughout the U. S., as well as exporting to the Orient and South America.

In the "spring flush," he has a surplus of hatching eggs which he has heretofore sold to other game farmers at 25 cents per egg. This spring, however, he has decided to give away the eggs to boys and girls who are interested in the outdoors.

With the eggs, Martin will send a sheet of instructions on how to set and raise the wild pheasants. Settings of eggs will start going out on April 15, continuing through June, and will be sent in order that letters from boys and girls are received. Only one setting will be permitted to a boy or girl, and each request must be countersigned by the 4-H leader. Address Samuel Martin Game Farm, Freeland, Whidbey Island, Wash., and enclose 30 cents in stamps to cover cost of packing and mailing.

SYSTEM OF EDUCATION

Agricultural extension work is an out-of-school system of education in which adults and young people learn by doing. In New Mexico, it is a partnership between boards of county commissioners, New Mexico A. & M. College, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture to provide services and education to all residents of the state.

ON THE JOB

By WALTER E. TAYLOR

N. M. State Employment Service MALE STENOS—Several local offices of the New Mexico State Employment Service are holding orders for male stenographers, a job very difficult to fill in this state. Most World War II veterans who took stenographic training under the G. I. Bill have secured good jobs, but not many in New Mexico took the training and many who started it dropped out before completing their courses. Several leading industrialists proudly boast of having started their careers as stenographers. Billy Rose started his climb to wealth as secretary to Bernard Baruch. Most employers prefer women as secretaries, but companies and government agencies who have stenographic jobs requiring extensive travel and field-work frequently have need for men with stenographic training. Some of the country's leading lawyers earned money for law training by acting as court reporters.

CREDIT—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer thinks business deserves more credit than it gets, considering its very big contribution. On the subject of jobs and who provides them, Secretary Sawyer recently said: "It is idle to talk about putting men to work unless there are profitable businesses that can offer jobs. If a company isn't making money, the jobs won't last long."

COOPERATION—To facilitate recruitment of emergency civil service workers in defense categories, the Department of Labor and the Civil Service Commission have signed an agreement under which civil service agencies will recruit through state employment service offices when workers are not available through civil service registers. In signing the agreement, Civil Service Commissioner Frances Perkins said, "The agreement applies to all agencies of government in their recruitment, with special attention to the needs of the expanding Defense Department." Under the agreement, civil service agencies will accept state employment service proficiency test results for applicants for typist, stenographer and other clerical positions.

Some 250 courses in 27 departments will be taught by 85 instructors at UNM's 1951 summer session. The session will open June 7 and close August 4.

The calendar announced by Dr. Jesse LeRoy Riebsomer, summer session director, is tests and instructions for new students, June 7-8; registration, June 9; instruction begins, June 11; registration closes, June 16; Independence Day holiday, July 4; and session ends, August 4.

Summer Sessions Set For N. M. University

Departments in which courses will be offered are: Anthropology (both on the campus and in field sessions); art (both on the campus and at the Taos Field School); biology, business administration, chemistry, economics, education, civil engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, industrial arts, English, geology, government, history,

Home economics, journalism, library science, mathematics, modern languages, music, philosophy, physical education, physics, psychology, sociology and speech. Students desiring courses not now scheduled for the eight-week session should write to Dr. Jesse LeRoy Riebsomer, summer session director, and request the type of work desired. If a sufficient number of requests for special work are received, plans will be made to offer those courses.

Wild Foxes Hamper Rabies Control Efforts

Elimination of rabid wild foxes will be necessary before the United States can completely eradicate rabies in domestic animals and human beings. So declares the American Veterinary Medical Association's committee on rabies.

The committee says that communities, cities and entire states are demonstrating that rabies can be prevented by dog licensing, removal of stray dogs from the streets, and preventive vaccination of all dogs. In various sections of the nation, however, there are reservoirs of rabid wild animals, especially foxes which can start fresh outbreaks of the instant community control measures are relaxed. All it takes is for one rabid fox to bite and infect an unvaccinated dog and the disease may soon spread to countless new victims.

The Bi-Weekly Wednesday Bridge Club met at the Hotel Buena Vista with Mrs. Burt Cheney as hostess. Bridge prizes were received by Mrs. L. E. Merrill and Henrietta Belknap.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Clark spent the Easter holidays in Idalon, Texas, with Mr. Clark's parents. Claude Walker, Shorty McCrooy, Jimmy Palmer and Ray Province enjoyed some fishing at Elephant Butte last week.

The members of the National Honor Society held a wine and cheese party at the Travis Werners last week. Mrs. Martin is a sister of Travis Werner.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor drove to Albuquerque last weekend to meet W. J. Taylor, who flew there from Los Angeles. W. J. Taylor is Frank's father and is spending a few days at the Taylor home in Capitán.

Earl Harcrow, R. G. Stewart and John Ferguson attended the mid-session meeting and banquet of the IOOF, which was held in Roswell on Friday and Saturday, March 23 and 24. The state officers of the Grand Lodge conducted this session.

Home for the Easter holidays from their respective schools were Wayne Cozzens and wife, Doyle and Eileen Cozzens and Eileen's girl friend, Lorraine Bjellans, who is a music teacher at Fort Sumner High School. Teddy and Hollis Cummins were also home for Easter.

Little Winkle Bancroft has been receiving medical care at the hospital in Carrizozo. He has been there almost a week.

Election of officers will be held at the PTA meeting tonight (Friday) at the high school.

The Lincoln County Ropers Club is entertaining members' wives and guests with a dinner and dance to be held on Saturday, March 31, at Bonnell's Ranch.

The Volunteer Fire Department was called out Friday of last week to a grass fire located down by the old grade school.

Highway Auto Insurance

The advantage of competitive bids for insurance has been again demonstrated. Purchasing Agent McWhirter received 17 bids for writing insurance policies on highway department automobile fleets. Award was made on the basis of lowest premium costs to the James Russell Agency in Santa Fe of $21,090. Last year, according to newspaper reports, the premiums amounted to $40,360. The insurance covers 959 highway department vehicles for public liability and property damage. To award contracts for insurance on the basis of competitive bids seems to meet with the approval of most insurance agents.—New Mexico Tax Bulletin.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Alma Miller, Carrizozo, has been visiting her parents in Plainview, Texas.

T. E. Kelley was a patient at the local hospital for a couple of days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sargent and son, Jackie, were guests of the H. E. Kelts Sr. over the weekend. Mrs. Sargent is a daughter of the Kelts.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank English returned last week from Pennsylvania where they were called by the death of Mr. English's brother.

F. C. Brown and Mrs. Mattie Littleton, both of Carrizozo, were the lucky winners in the recent guessing contest at Petty's General Merchandise, which closed March 17.

Mrs. Marvin Roberts and two small sons visited with her father, L. E. Bayes, Raton, recently while Mr. Roberts was in Denver attending the district sales meeting of Ford dealers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Evans and daughter, Candy, are visiting Mr. Evans' parents in Findley, Ohio. They plan to return about May 1. Mrs. Evans is the former Hope Snow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Degner left this week for Estancia where they were called by the illness of their son-in-law, Emory Ladd, World War II veteran. Mrs. Ladd is the former Louise Degner.

College students from Carrizozo and vicinity home for the Easter holidays included Howard Harkey, Ancho; Eugene Degner, Glen Snow, Barbara Jean Brannum, C. A. Brannum and Veda Lou Brannum.

A clever Easter card was one received by the editors of the News-Outlook from Miss Veda Lou Brannum. A bouquet of artificial Easter lilies lifts right out of the flower pot painted on the card.

Out-of-town guests of the W. J. Hadleys on Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Robert Saylor, Albuquerque. Dr. Saylor is medical director at the Indian Sanitarium there. The Hadleys are now settled in the house formerly occupied by the Truman A. Spencers Jr.

Mrs. Herman E. Kelt Sr. returned recently from Minden, La., where she was called by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Palmer. Mrs. Kelt, who spent two weeks there, reports her mother is making a satisfactory recovery.

Jimmie Duncan is expected home from Pittsburg, Texas, where he has been staying due to the serious illness of his brother, Benny Duncan, who is a former resident of Carrizozo. The latter has been confined to the hospital in Pittsburg with double pneumonia, measles and an appendix attack, but is now recovered sufficiently to convalesce at home.

Mrs. Bryson Corbett, Albuquerque, was hostess at a tea Saturday afternoon at the Alvarado Hotel given in honor of her stepdaughter, Miss Jerome Biddle, also of Albuquerque, whose marriage to Robert F. Gray Jr. will take place April 7 at St. John's Episcopal Cathedral. Mrs. Corbett is a daughter of the T. E. Kelleys of Carrizozo.

Miss Dolores Gardner, local teacher, entertained her sister, Miss Evelyn Gardner, Dallas, over the Easter holiday. The two, with Misses Minnie Neil and Daisy Dickenson, also teachers at the local schools, went to Tucson over the weekend where they visited several places of interest and attended Easter sunrise services at Tombstone.

Private John D. Lane Jr., on leave from Camp Cook, Calif., spent a day in Carrizozo recently visiting his aunts, Miss Margaret Lane, Mrs. Oscar Moore and Mrs. R. L. Sherill. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lane Sr., Lake Arthur, and his sister, Mrs. E. E. Cummins, and small daughter, Glenda, Roswell, were also guests of their Carrizozo relatives. After visiting briefly in Ruidoso, young Lane returned to California.

W. F. Manire, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Manire, is stationed at Kirtland Field, Albuquerque, with the National Guard Air Force. Young Manire operates a teletype machine at the Western Union office there which is maintained for the convenience of the field personnel. He will receive his B. S. degree in business administration this June at the Univer-

FLAG WAVING

By L. D. FISH

Every so often someone accuses me of being a flag-waver. Whenever that happens I always take it as a compliment. Of course, I'm a flag waver. From the standpoint of patriotism I know of but few activities any better than waving our flag; and there is certainly no better flag to wave than ours.

During the past several months many of us veterans have noticed that there is a marked shortage of American flags waving where they should be. According to the existing rules and regulations governing the display of the American flag the following should be observed:

The flag will be displayed only from sunrise to sunset when flying outdoors on buildings or from a fixed staff. It should not be flown in inclement weather. The flag should be displayed on all days when the weather permits, but these days are especially designated as days when the flag should be flown in a conspicuous place:

New Year's Day—January 1.
Inauguration Day—January 20.
Lincoln's Birthday—February 12.
Washington's Birthday—February 22.
Army Day—April 6.
Easter Sunday—Date variable.
Mother's day—Second Sunday in May.
Memorial Day—May 30 (half staff until noon).
Flag Day—June 14.
Independence Day—July 4.
Labor Day—First Monday in September.
Constitution Day—September 17.
Columbus Day—October 12.
Navy Day—October 27.
Armistice Day—November 11.
Thanksgiving Day—Fourth Thursday in November.
Christmas Day—December 25.

Such other days as may be proclaimed by the President of the United States; the birthdays of states; and on state holidays.

Every public institution and every government building of any kind should display the flag daily, weather permitting.

Every individual has the right to fly the flag in front of his house if he so desires and if he observes the times of raising and lowering the flag in the proper manner, and if he provides the right kind of staff to support it.

The farther away we get from a formally declared war the less important the flag becomes. That flag is always important and sity of New Mexico's commencement exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Youngkin attended the formal dance and buffet given by the New Mexico State Geological Society at the Hall of Pythias, Roswell, March 16. Geologists from all over the state of New Mexico were present for the celebration in honor of the ancient geologist, St. Patrick. Miss Betty Lou Grogan, local high school teacher, and Stanley Dickerson, accompanied the Andersons and Youngkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Stephenson of the I-Bar-X ranch attended the cattlemen's convention in Albuquerque this week with Charlie Harrold. Mr. Harrold is one of the owners of the ranch. Kelly and Cynthia Corbett, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Corbett, Albuquerque, accompanied the trio to Duke City on Sunday after a short visit with their grandparents, the T. E. Kelleys. Two other grandchildren, Marcella and Charles Corbett, are remaining in Carrizozo for a further visit.

An amusing yet momentarily terrifying incident occurred during the visit of small Glenda Cummins with her aunts, the Lane sisters. The little girl, who managed to escape their watchful eyes, wandered across the street and into the Carrizozo Mercantile Company. Glenda had on a T-shirt bearing the name of "Camp Cook" and it was presumed she was the daughter of tourists and had strayed from them. Mrs. Alma Lane-Sherill, who missed the small girl almost immediately, and went in search of her, located Glenda in the neighboring store.

A family dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mrs. B. D. Holguin. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Vigil, Carrizozo; Mr. Vigil's sister, Mrs. Cecilia Zamora of Santa Fe; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lopez, Santa Fe (Mrs. Lopez is a sister of Mrs. Holguin); Mrs. G. S. Mackey, Santa Fe (the mother of Mrs. Holguin); Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cordes, Albuquerque, and Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Edward Reed, Alamogordo. Mesdames Cordes and Reed are daughters of Mrs. Holguin. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nalda, Carrizozo; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mackey, Tularosa, and John Mackey, Captain.

when any of us have loved ones over seas fighting in a war that was wished on us it seems that it would be a comforting sight to see that flag flying all the time in a lot of places.

Those who are working in government buildings and in public institutions would do well to see that the American flag waves at all times within the meaning of the flag laws and regulations.

"PATRICIA'S MIRACLE"

Last November, the American Weekly published Patricia Grover's story. A 10-year-old invalid, she wanted readers to send her left-over Christmas cards so that she could make scrap books for other shut-ins. What happened—the making of a truly great American miracle is told in the American Weekly, that great magazine distributed with next Sunday's Los Angeles Examiner.

Little Iron Curtain

FOR MOST of one day I have driven along what is sometimes called "the little iron curtain"—the border where Yugoslavia and Albania meet. For Yugoslavia enjoys the unsavory distinction of being squeezed between two sections of the iron curtain with Bulgaria and Hungary on one side and Albania on the other.

How tiny, primitive Albania—chiefly a Mohammedan country—happened to fall for Russian communism has always been a mystery to me. I lived on the Albanian border for two years after the first World War, once crossed it on horseback, and its people at that time were rugged individualists who hated all governments, including their own, with the passion of Pennsylvania's high-tariff Joe Grundy. Perhaps the explanation is that Albania is a nation of extreme poverty where the people have nothing to lose by trying new experiments plus the fact that any nation torn by a never-ending series of wars is an easy mark for communism.

At any rate, the border between Russianized Albania and anti-Russian Yugoslavia now is studded with armed guards, and strangers are not permitted within 20 kilometers (about 12 1/2 miles).

I managed to remember enough of the local language to talk my way past the first guard in the restricted zone and thereafter managed to talk my way past guards who stopped our jeep every half hour until we had passed through the old Turkish Albanian city of Prizrend, the border town of Jakovitsa, and Deceny monastery—one of the oldest in Serbia, but it now bristles with armament.

Donorship Russians

My purpose in visiting this isolated, desolate part of the Balkans was purely sentimental, partly to see whether the United States is getting credit for its good program, partly to gauge Yugoslav sentiment toward Russia and the United States in an area far from the official blarney handed out by the diplomats in Belgrade.

Regarding the food program, the United States has given the Yugoslav government $7,000,000 worth of flour with the understanding that they sell it through their regular ration system but making it clear that the flour comes from us. Its distribution was organized under Richard Allen of Carmel, Calif., a former Hoover food man who has also arranged for American inspectors to travel through the country. I traveled part of the time with one of these inspectors—officer George Trent—as he interviewed local officials and local farmers and it appears the United States is getting credit.

Lesson for U. S.

Thirty years ago I had charge of 100 Bulgarian prisoners in a diminutive Serbian village called Dobro Do, which means good valley—but the valley wasn't good, because it had been burned out by the Bulgarian army and my job was to rebuild the homes of Serbian widows, using Bulgarian prisoners for labor. We also had a transport company of 100 mules and 100 conscripted Albanian mule drivers who every night sat around campfires—the Albanians, the Bulgak prisoners and their Serbian guards discussing war and what caused war.

That was in 1919 and they recalled that in 1912 Serbia and Greece had fought Turkey, then in 1913 Bulgaria had fought Serbia and Greece, and in 1914 the World War started. Thus for six long years the Balkans were plunged in war—war which neither the Serbian guards nor their Bulgarian prisoners nor the Albanian conscripts wanted. Their hope, they said, was Woodrow Wilson—he was going to proclaim a new world in which there would be eternal peace.

Well, the years have come and gone since then. Woodrow Wilson tried and failed, and Dobro Do since then once again was ravished—this time by the Germans, later by the Italians—and then liberated by the Russians who, at times, acted more like conquerors than liberators.

This is the history of a typical Balkan village and when you look round at the poverty which always follows in the wake of war you understand why there is communism in the Balkans, for people who are poor, who are bred white, who have nothing to lose, turn in their desperation to desperate remedies.

Rental Racket

A new racket has sprung up in crowded west coast cities, such as San Diego and Los Angeles. Rental agents are trying to cash in on the housing shortage by selling leads to apartment hunters. A fee of five or ten dollars is charged for rental leads, which usually turn out to be apartments already rented.

This practice may not be illegal. However, in San Diego, the better business bureau has privately warned some rental agents.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS
of Main Street and the World

Eisenhower Says He Would Employ A-Bomb Under Certain Conditions

DECISION—"To my mind the use of the atomic bomb would be on this basis: "Does it advantage me, or does it not, when I get into a war? Now, if I felt that the material destruction that I was going to accomplish was not equal to the moral or great reaction otherwise to this act, then I would abstain."

"If I thought the rest was on my side, I would use it instantly, because I proceed from this basis: The United States is not going to declare war or conduct an aggressive campaign. It is merely going to defend itself, and if someone, in spite of its peaceful purpose, jumps on it, I believe in using what we have in defending ourselves."

With these words Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower told the world—friend and foe alike—just how far he would go to defend western Europe. It was the kind of clear-headed, logical reasoning that people in the home towns of the nation could understand. It reaffirmed their faith in the man chosen to fill the most important post in modern history. It is this kind of reasoning and determination that the Communist nations of the world understand. And if the world understands this reasoning, it could mean another step toward the preservation of peace.

18-YEAR-OLDS—It would be difficult to say at this point who was more surprised by the 79 to 5 senate vote that passed the bill to draft 18-year-olds, opponents or supporters of the measure. For weeks the debate had raged in the senate over lowering the draft age from the 19-year-old limit. And although the bill must go to the house for action, it appeared that much of the pressure against the administration's defense plans has been relieved. Most observers were inclined to believe the bill will eventually reach the President's desk.

The senate vote caused considerable speculation across the nation. In the first place, the man on main street wanted to know is it possible for five senators—the number who voted against the measure—to bombard the U. S. senate with so much propaganda that it completely ties up important legislation for weeks? Second, what happened to the other senators who had ranted and raged against drafting the 18-year-olds? And third, were his statements by opponents that the mothers of the nation flooded Washington with telegrams against the draft entirely true?

Striving desperately to make peace between labor and the administration, Eric Johnston (center), economic stabilizer, met several times with union leaders in Washington. Shown with Johnston (left to right) are: Meany, AFL; Leighty, RLEA; Hayes, IAM; Murphy, presidential council; and Goldberg, CIO.

NO! NO! NO!—After a full week of conferences, watched anxiously by the "average man" who does not understand very clearly the niceties of diplomatic language and maneuvers, the foreign ministers' deputies of the United States, France, Britain and Russia, meeting in Paris, had nothing to report. The only statements were "no, no" issued by Russia's Andrei Gromyko to every proposal put forth by the western powers.

Gromyko first gained the attention of the home-townners of the nation as the "no" man of the United Nations. The main point of difference between the west and east remained the subject of rearming Germany.

KOREAN BATTLE—Slowly, methodically United Nations troops advanced in Korea, storming the hills, digging the Communists out of foxholes with bayonets, stopping and breaking a Red attack at other points, but always pushing toward the 36th parallel.

U. N. commanders continued to expect a spring offensive by the Reds, scheduled for some time during the last part of March or April. Meanwhile, the Chinese suffered severe casualties as U. S. troops pushed ahead, estimated by some observers at 20,000 to 30,000 in two weeks.

There were reports that the Communists had 200,000 men in the front lines below the parallel. In addition they were reported to have 100,000 more troops in immediate reserve in North Korea and a great reservoir, perhaps more than 300,000, across the Yalu river in Manchuria.

RUSSIAN ARMS—According to Russian reports the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) has adopted a 1951 budget of 45 1/2 billion rubles, of which 96 billion would go for defense purposes.

Russia has placed a value on the ruble of four to the American dollar, but since there are so many imponderables involved, the rate does not reflect the true position of the ruble. If the rate is taken, it would indicate a total defense budget of $34 billion.

However, Soviet production, through use of forced labor and purchases from dominated countries at extremely favorable rates, is considerably cheaper than that of the United States.

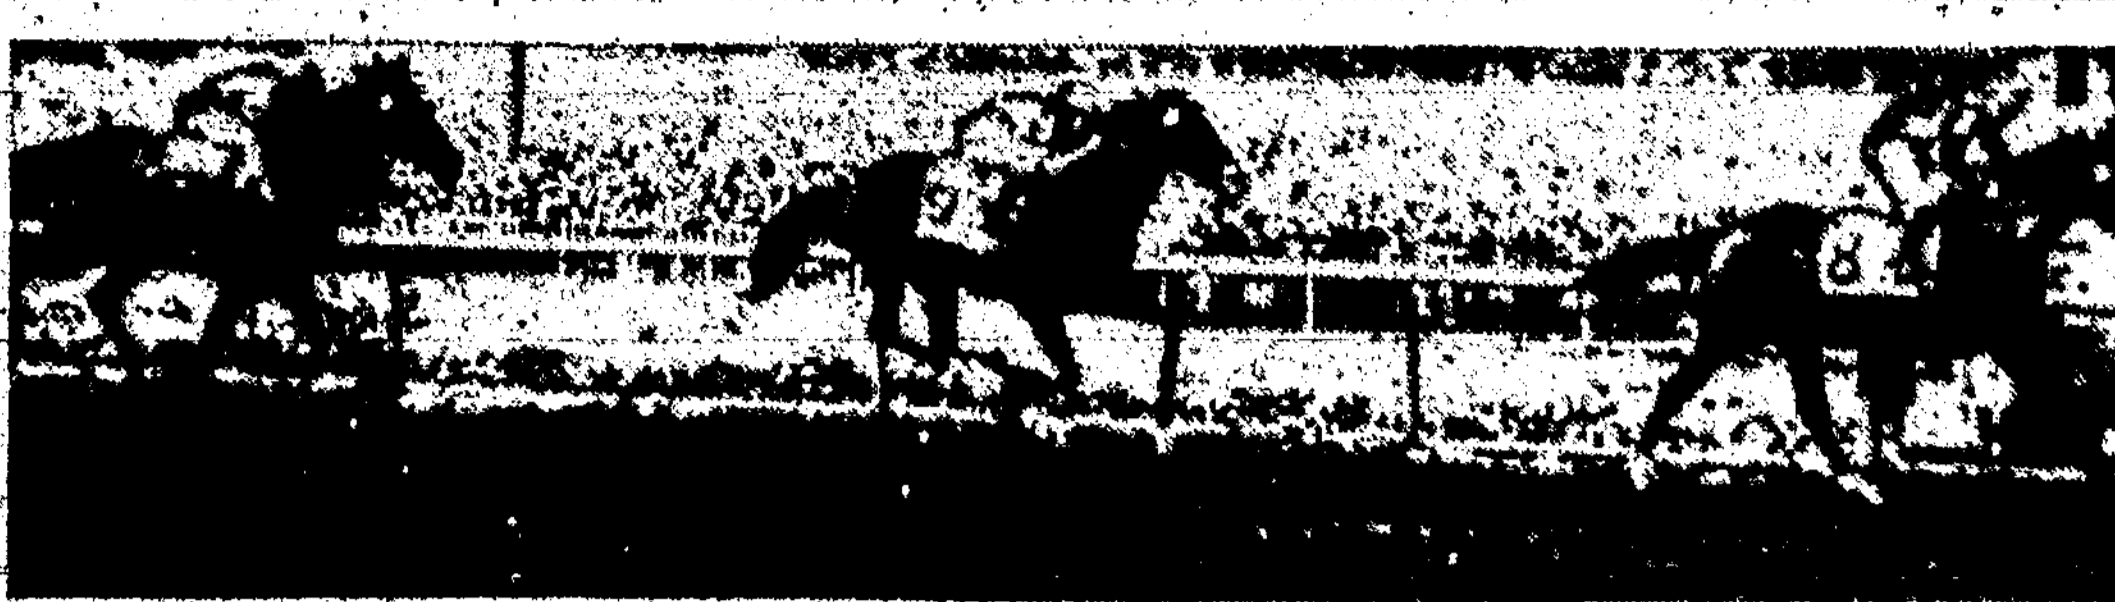

A NEW JOLT—The administration's price stabilization effort which has been called nearly everything, including "fraud", received another jolt, this time in the black and white of the wholesale price index. The bureau of labor statistics' index hit an all time peak of 17 per cent above pre-Korean war prices and 20.2 per cent over a year ago. The bureau said all major commodities advanced except building materials.

The new figures wiped out any hope that the stabilization effort had finally started taking effect and a leveling-off was about to take place. The figures also brought renewed charges from labor that it would take a law "with teeth in it" to stop the inflation spiral.

Michael V. Disalle, price director, told worried housewives in a television speech that it would be three more months before capping prices on food will be posted in stores. It couldn't be done sooner, he reported, because food prices vary by localities.

LAST HOPE—The supreme court refused by a vote of 6 to 0 to review the case of Alger Hiss, convicted of giving government secrets to a Russian spy ring before World War II. It was Hiss' last hope of escaping a five year prison sentence.

The Hiss trial made headlines in the nation's press for months. A guilty verdict and prison sentence was returned after a second trial. The slender, brilliant attorney has stubbornly denied the charges of giving away government secrets.

FEATURE EVENT . . . Bo Fleet wins San Juan Capistrano handicap at Santa Anita, Calif.

UN TROOPS RELEASED BY CHINESE COMMUNISTS . . . A group of United Nations soldiers rests at a medical clearing station somewhere in Korea following their release from capture by Chinese Communists. They are, left to right, P.F.C. Robert Duncan, Dayton, Ohio; P.F.C. Joseph A. Collins, Selmer, North Carolina; Cpl. Lawrence Buckland, Sydney, Australia; Lieutenant Angus MacDonald, Brisbane, Australia; and First Lieutenant George E. Dewrie, Brunswick, Ga. They were held in the custody of the Chinese Communists for a total of 17 days.

ARMY PLANE CRASHES . . . Two officers of the United States air force, one with a walkie-talkie radio set in his hand, stand by what remains of a B-29 which crashed and exploded eight miles north of Woodland, Calif., recently. Eight members of the nine-man crew parachuted to safety, but the fate of the ninth is unknown. He is known to have left the plane safely, but it is feared that he may have landed in the Sacramento river. Eyewitnesses at the scene of the disaster said the big bomber was off before it crashed and burned in this sugar beet field. Note the long ditch dug by the wreckage which still burns.

NINA WARREN WALKS . . . Nina "Honey Bear" Warren, 17, daughter of California's Governor Earl Warren, takes her first public steps since an attack of polio several months ago. She walks between her smiling parents. She is recuperating in Arrowhead Springs, Calif. The governor also plans to take mud baths for his ailing right arm, which shows signs of arthritis. Nina has been taking a few steps daily, but this is the first time she has appeared for photographers.

HONEST NETTER IN ARMY . . . James Kellogg, Manhattan's center who refused a bribe and set off New York's basketball inquiry, passes through check line at Fort Meade, Md. He's so tall the army doesn't have a suit to fit him.

DEFIES FATAL DISEASE . . . Doomed by Hodgkin's disease, Nurse Evelyn Crutcher takes the blood pressure of a patient at a Houston hospital. Death may wait as long as 15 years, during which time the nurse plans to help others.

RACE FROM KOREA . . . A race to the bedside of his mother, critically ill with peritonitis, brought Marine Corporal Thomas Grant from Korea to a Brooklyn hospital for a reunion with his mother whom he hadn't seen in 2 1/2 years.

POLIO PREVENTIVE? . . . Dr. Louis Gebhardt, University of Utah bacteriologist, has announced isolation of three types of polio virus. The discovery is expected to lead to a polio vaccine. It eliminated two years of research.

FATEFUL RING . . . Mrs. Emma Hemeyer flingers ring that belonged to her husband Charles' sixth wife, Anna. Police say he confessed to dismembering body of Anna after the discovery of a human skull in concrete beneath Factoryville, Pa., home.

MODERN HEATING

Dirt-Free Home for the Average American Rapidly Approaching.

The dawn of the dirt-free, dust-free home for the home owners of the nation, which will relieve the average housewife of endless hours of drudgery, is rapidly approaching.

The building industry reports that home builders in all parts of the country are not only installing air purifying devices to remove dust particles, but also are concealing the heating pipes and radiators in walls, ceilings and floors.

It's a far cry from the days of the 1870's when great-grandfather first installed a central heating system and gave up his attempt to heat his home with fireplaces.

Today the American home builder is taking cognizance of old Roman methods and is using hot water to heat his house and is burying the pipes out of sight and sound.

The Greeks may have had a word for it, but the Romans were the ones who pioneered heating practice. Their fabulous baths at Pompeii and Caracalla contained steam rooms, "hot rooms", and "cold rooms", all of which precluded a knowledge of the three basic heating means known today—hot water, steam and warm air.

and, of course, a smattering of air conditioning.

What is it for which heating experts have been searching all this time since the fall of Rome? To tell the truth, nobody was doing much searching at all in the thousand years immediately after Rome's eclipse. The fireplace served quite well, with all the functions of the home being done in, over or in front of it until the middle of the 18th century when Benjamin Franklin invented his stove.

This stove, a very neat invention at the time, was the forerunner of the modern warm air plant. It also was the grand-daddy of all dust dispensers and dehumidifiers. It used a large amount of fuel and gave off a minimum amount of heat.

DURING THIS TIME, the use of steam as a heating means also was evolved, first in England then in the United States. It's use followed, naturally enough, the development of the boiler and the radiator.

Hot water heating had its start in the chicken coop of one M. Bonnemain in the France of 1777. Mr. Bonnemain used a crude hot water loop to spur the incubation of chicks. Hot water, off to such a promising start, did not do well in competition with steam, however, until about 1920.

Today's homes are no longer uncertain compromises between heat and dirt, heat and health, and heat and cold. With radiant panels, or with radiators recessed or concealed in walls or baseboards, the full use of the space of the room is available. The air remains cool and sensibly moist, whatever the room temperature desired.

Proof of the economy and performance of modern hot water heating is its exclusive use in large developments like Lovelltown on Long Island, perhaps the largest heating installation in the world. Here, forced hot water systems supply heat to the radiant panel floors, and serve year round by furnishing the domestic hot water for baths, kitchens and laundries from the same boilers that heat the homes. The perfection of radiant heating to the installations in general use today, leaves only one uncertainty—what now in heating? Where to go, short of atom heat? Home builders will have to wait and see, but whatever it is it will be good.

Star Dust STAGE SCREEN RADIO By INEZ GERHARD

ALAN YOUNG is sitting pretty, with two picture assignments in his pocket—"Aaron Silek from Punkin Creek" and "Clarence"—and his own television show on CBS. But blond, mild-mannered Alan was just about ready to quit show business not long ago; it had caved out from under him. He'd long been a radio star, had done fine in his only film, "Morgie," but there was no demand for him. It was just about ready to take his family home to Toronto and tackle something else. Then one night he auditioned his television show—a sponsor grabbed it instantly for the west coast, east coast rights were sold soon afterward. Just what he deserved!

Marvin Miller, the radio announcer, seems typed for Oriental characterizations in movies. He played Ghengis Khan in "The Golden Horde", now is slated for the role of a Chinese black market operator in "Peking Express."

Anne Sargent's latest picture, "Three Guys Named Mike," opened in New York the same week that she stepped into the important role of Jocelyn McLeod in "The Road of Life" and began discussing new television assignments.

Chinese Reds Laughed at MacArthur Across River

By Wright A. Patterson

HOW UTTERLY FUTILE would be any United Nations armed force in preventing the suppressing acts of aggression was amply demonstrated by the Korean debacle. It was not any lack of ability on the part of MacArthur that caused that result; it was not any lack of valor on the part of United Nations' armed forces—it was the delay and lack of decision on the part of an international debating society. It was a case of "too many cooks spoiling the broth." It could not change its instructions to its field commander without debate.

The first instance of the inability to decide came when the United Nations forces reach the 38th parallel. MacArthur had instructions not to go beyond that line. It took better than a week to get those instructions changed. That more than a week of delay gave the North Koreans time to reorganize their shattered divisions; to get new arms and munitions from the Red Chinese army on the Manchurian border.

It prevented the total destruction of the North Korean army in North Korea. The job had to be done all over again, and before the Manchurian border was reached. The next stopping point was the Yalu river.

Just north of the Yalu river in Manchuria, a vast army of Red Chinese was being assembled. Into its camp was being poured vast numbers of transport vehicles and tanks. Great munition dumps were being erected. There was no slightest question as to the purpose of it all.

The United Nations had an adequate supply of airplanes and bombs. Those planes and bombs could have destroyed the transport vehicles and tanks. They could have blown up the munition dumps and scattered the million men the camps contained. But MacArthur's instructions would not permit the firing of so much as a rifle across that river.

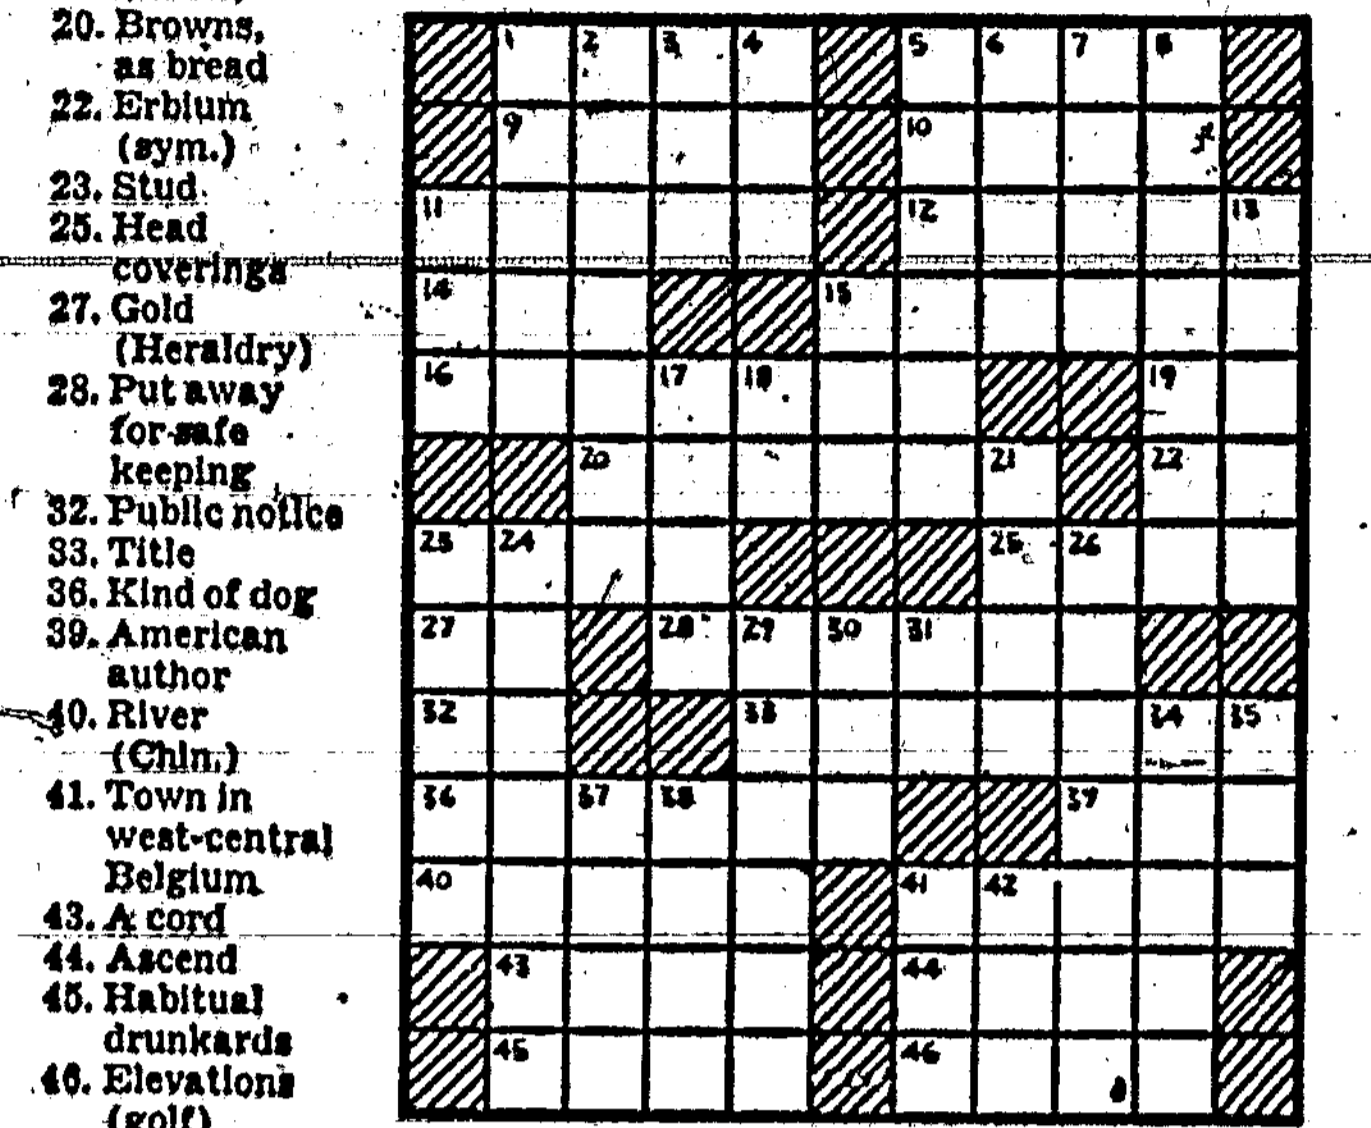

The planes at his command could neither fly beyond the south bank of the Yalu or drop so much as a fire cracker on the amounts of military supplies. Both the North Koreans and the Red Chinese could stand on the north bank of that dividing stream and thumb their noses at the impatient United Nations troops on the south bank. Nothing could be done about that situation unless and until MacArthur received new instructions.

He waited, as he was ordered to do, while the discussion went on and on, and then came the attack. That Red army, with its transport-vehicles, its tanks, its munitions crossed the Yalu, the debating society had talked too long, and the United Nations' forces in Korea paid the penalty for that delay.

What happened in Korea would be the inevitable result in any case where the activities of a United Nations force came under the orders and directions of an international de-

THE FICTION CORNER COMPLETE WITH GADGETS

By Richard H. Wilkinson

DANA BRIDGES is a printer by trade, but every one says he should be a salesman. He has a very competent and confident manner. His choice of words is vivid, his gestures impressive, his delivery powerful.

Back in 1934 Dana bought a Northland Special Six. As every one knows the Northland is one of the most expensive cars on the market. Dana's income is not large, but he is the type of man who likes the best or nothing.

"In the long run a Northland is the best buy," he told his wife. "It will outlive three smaller and cheaper cars."

Rachael, Dana's wife, knew by experience that Dana usually knew what he was talking about. So when Dana stated they ought to own a Northland she nodded and smiled and felt confident that everything would be all right. She didn't, however, anticipate owning and driving the same car for 16 years. Not that she minded too much. The Northland, as the world knows, is expensive enough so that the manufacturer don't have to change the design too radically each year. Fundamentally the 1934 Northland had the same lines that the new 1950 Super Special possessed.

Moreover, Dana being a painstaking type of person, kept the machine in perfect order. Nevertheless, it was an ancient hack and the neighbors used to grin when the Bridges' drove by, and Rachael felt embarrassed and wished that they could have a new car.

It is a safe bet that he would not again undertake such a job as was assigned to him by President Truman. When the time and conditions were urgent both the President and Secretary Acheson failed to urge speed in arriving at a United Nations decision.

It savored of more consideration for the Chinese Reds, of which we have had entirely too much in the past. There should be no place for any who had a part in such actions in the American government. It has cost the lives of many thousands of Americans fighting under the flag and the instructions of the United Nations. In future we should have no part in any armed activities that operate under the orders and direction of the members of an international debating society. Such bosses do not keep pace with military necessities.

The leaders of organized labor, like leaders of other segments of the American people, proved themselves selfish in their demands for those they lead, and the general public turned on them, as it turned on capital when it ignored the interests of the people. The people will turn on the farmers if they ignore the general welfare, and keep on pushing prices of food up.

Evil and Error

A tub-thumping evangelist, having scared three quarters of a deep Southern community into repenting every sin they had committed and numerous others they had never heard of, consented to visit the abode of Sister Johnson for refreshments. She left him alone for a moment in the parlor, and when she returned, found him frowning severely. "Sister," he thundered, "even the appearance of evil should be avoided. For instance, you have here on your cupboard several decanters, each partly filled with what appears to be intoxicating liquor."

"But it isn't liquor," quavered Sister Johnson. "The bottles look so nice on the sideboard, and I fill them halfway with furniture polish for the effect."

"Exactly," pursued the evangelist. "You must avoid the appearance of evil. Feeling a trifle faint, I helped myself to a wee nip from the decanter in the center."

BEAUTY WINS
The World Did not Happen
The Christian church has changed some of its ideas about creation, but it has never ceased to believe in creation. Very few churches, if any, now affirm that the world was created in precisely six 24-hour days, and still fewer would be willing to name the dates on which creation took place.

Nevertheless, the Christian church has not given up, and will not give up, her belief that God created all things. The doctrine of creation means, first of all, that the one God willed the universe and what is in it.

The universe did not happen. It did not make itself. It was not made by different gods working against one another. Zoroastrianism, for instance, teaches that the world was made by two gods, one of light and one of darkness. Whatever the god of light created, the god of darkness would make something exactly opposite. No, Jews and Christians alike say, there is only one Creator, the infinitely wise and good God.

Nature's Laws
NON-RELIGIOUS philosophers have sometimes said that the world explains itself. But Christian philosophers, not to mention Jewish ones as well, have seen that the world does not explain itself. There is too much evidence of purpose and design running through the patterns of the universe. Definite laws can be discovered and to some degree understood.

The same laws which govern matter on this planet, and indeed the very same elements, the "building-blocks of the universe," are to be discovered in the remotest stars. If the universe were an accident it would not be tied together as it is.

It would not be a universe of law but one in which nothing could be counted on, nothing expected. It would be no universe but a multiverse, a mad world, indeed no world at all but an infinite confusion.

Why Are We Here?
BUT CREATION means something more personal. It means that we ourselves have been called into existence by the Almighty, not by a god of mere sheer power, but by the one God of infinite and all-powerful Love. Man is not here on this planet by some trick of blind fate, mankind is not a mere fleck of foam tossed up by the restless ocean of the Infinite, soon to be washed away in the ebbing tides. Man—that means also, we ourselves—are God's invention.

We are not here as he intended us, to be sure; sin has changed the picture sadly; as we shall be thinking next week.

Why are we here? We are here because God put us here. This means that life has a meaning; but also that we cannot find that meaning without knowing the will of God. His will is for our welfare; only the Creator knows what is best for his creatures. God intended this world to be used by us, not abused.

God Invented Us
Lesson for April 1, 1951

"GOD INVENTED IT," says C. S. Lewis about the universe. It is a 20th-century way of saying what the Bible says about God and the world. There have been whole religions based on the idea that God is good and spirit is good—but anything which is not God or not spirit is bad. If this were true, then our bodies would be bad, and all the physical world about us would be bad; our souls, Dr. Foreman would be prisoners, so to speak, in a vast fortress of evil.

This is not the truth the Bible tells. The story of Creation in Genesis tells us that when God had finished with making the world he saw that it was good, very good. He invented the world, he invented spirit and matter both, he invented us body and soul. Whatever evil is now in the world and in man did not come from God, it is not a mistake of God's. The world, as God invented it and intends it, is good.

Needling a new secretary, the firm's president decided to have applicants judged by a psychologist. Three girls were interviewed together. "What do two and two make?" the psychologist asked the first. "Four," was the prompt answer. To the same question the second girl replied: "It might be 22." The third girl answered: "It might be 22 and it might be four."

When the girls had left the room, the psychologist turned triumphantly to the president. "There," he said, "that's what psychology does. The first girl said the obvious thing. The second smelled a rat. The third was going to have it both ways. Now, which girl will you have?"

The president did not hesitate. "I'll have the blonde with the blue eyes," he said.

A group of men were discussing their various backgrounds. One boasted of his illustrious ancestors, and claimed to have descended from a family of very lofty station.
