Commissioners Adopt Land Use Program

The state's land use program for long range highway planning was explained by C. O. Erwin, Santa Fe, state secondary engineer, and A. M. Rowe, Las Cruces, state extension agent, at a meeting with the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners Sept. 20. The commissioners have approved the program for highway planning in Lincoln County.

Erwin stated a number of factors are involved in allocations of funds to counties for road construction, including the number of farms and ranches in the area of the proposed construction; valuation of the property; routes for school buses, mail delivery, etc.; and the number of miles of unimproved roads in the county's secondary system.

Under the proposed land-use program Lincoln County would be requested to submit a report incorporating the foregoing information as well as recommendations for the location of necessary road construction in the order of their importance. Such report would be prepared under the direction of the county extension agent, Austin Albert, extension agent for this county, who was present at the Sept. 20 meeting, said he would be glad to cooperate in the program if the commissioners approved it. Erwin had previously explained the program could not be put into effect without the approval of the county commissioners who subsequently okayed the project. Erwin also reported the program had been employed in other counties in New Mexico as well as other states, and Albert related his experience with the project in San Juan County and expressed the opinion it had been found to be workable there.

When the report is completed, it will contain facts and figures relating to land and property values and needs in this county, as well as a program for construction of roads based on their use which will be indicated by the compilation of data obtained from interviews with residents of the county and from sources of statistical information.

Erwin stated the Highway Department must justify proposed road construction with the Federal Bureau of Roads when government money is used. The responsibility for location of present road construction on the secondary system rests with each county's commissioners and the state is responsible only for the preliminary engineering work after which they attempt to justify the proposed construction to the federal bureau. The proposed land use program report from the county would show the types of land such as U. S. government land, state owned land, ranges, etc., and classify roads as primary, state and county as well as indicate which roads come under state maintenance. The State Highway Department feels it is becoming increasingly necessary to justify certain road construction to the Federal Bureau of Roads, and that the proposed program will facilitate approval by the bureau.

Rowe in relating the experience of the state extension service with the program told how it was organized in other counties and how meetings were arranged by extension agents with county residents and committees organized to formulate a program of road building. Rowe added several of the programs have proved so worthy they have been adopted by each succeeding board of county commissioners. However, they pointed out it was not a hard and fast rule and changes could be made at a later date, but it was indicated any changes would be made only after a general agreement by those in charge of the program. Albert related that in San Juan County when the program was first in process, residents of certain sections of a county would agree that another section in the same county was in greater need and withdraw their requests. Rowe stated the extension service was gratified to learn counties with completed program reports had been allotted road construction funds. In Hidalgo County, recommendations were furnished in 1949 and construction is now underway, according to the extension service representative.

Corbin Hester, chairman of the Lincoln County commissioners, expressed skepticism of the program in view of the fact it had been in operation for several years but that this county had never had any roads approved (no mention was made of the slightly more than two miles of new construction at Ruidoso.) Hester added the commissioners didn't want to do anything to delay work on the roads already submitted for approval. Erwin explained the adoption of the land use program in Lincoln County would in no way interfere with present recommended construction. Hester also asked Erwin to name counties who had had road construction approved even though they had not submitted land use programs. Erwin declined to answer the question, stating that he wasn't prepared to do so, but that heretofore the building of roads had been done in a "sort of haphazard manner" and that the land use program is expected to eliminate difficulty between the state and county administrations. The engineer added he is not in a position to answer for past actions of the Highway Commission, but that the present members are seeking to get the program started in all the counties. He believes that future allocations will be based largely on the land use programs. State Highway Engineer Burton Dwyer was reported as stating the Highway Commission wants to work up a 10 or 15 year road program. The land use program reports are desired not later than May 1, 1952. The extension service representative pointed out the backing of the county commissioners and the county's residents are needed to develop the report. Erwin believes adoption of the reports will eliminate "pressure groups" from interfering with road programs in the various counties. The reports will be on file with all road agencies for the information of the State Highway Commission in case of the "pressure groups" attempting to change road recommendations.

Erwin pointed out the state is not obligated to build the roads recommended by a county's commissioners since justification must be made to the federal bureau. The U. S. government pays 67 cents of every dollar spent on roads within its jurisdiction.

During the course of conversation, it developed the Tinnie bridge project has not yet been approved and that further justification will have to be made to the federal bureau. Forms for incorporation of the additional information needed were left with the commissioners. The Tinnie Arabela road was scheduled for another inspection at an early date, said the engineer, who believes construction will be started this year.

The state engineer explained there will be no cost involved to the county for the preparation of the land use program report other than whatever mimeographing may be done. The extension service assumes all traveling expenses of the county extension agent in connection with the program. The state furnishes the necessary maps, etc. Previous experience has shown there is very little expense to be met by the county. Seven other counties have adopted the program.

Hester told the group he feels Lincoln County has been neglected and that roads are badly needed. Albert explained San Juan County was broken down into areas and a chairman assigned to each area. Facts and figures were obtained from the county's residents and all pertinent information submitted at later meetings and eventually a program of priorities for construction of various proposed roads was set up. Each chairman had a vote in determining a road's priority. Albert expressed the opinion the county's residents had been drawn closer as a result of the survey.

Erwin explained the state's long range planning for road construction will hinge on the needs of all the counties and that every other county is probably in the same boat as Lincoln County.

The subject of the White Oaks road was brought up by Commissioner Wilbur McKnight who stated he was anxious to see something done about a road for residents of that village. It was pointed out it is a school bus route as well as a mail route and that in case of rain or snow vehicles are either delayed or cannot move for several days, and that something should be done about it since the community will probably be isolated several times during the coming winter months.

Erwin expressed the opinion the 2 cent gas tax is needed since the state has more roads than it has money to maintain, and that the Legislature should appropriate money for maintenance at the same time it designates a road as a part of the state highway system. Hester commented that maintenance money should be divided equally, and Erwin said it was believed the land use program would help solve the problem by having concrete facts upon which to base allocations.

Mrs. Lorine Samelson, county schools superintendent, told Erwin the state consolidated schools but failed to allow money to build roads safe for traveling, and it was pointed out the state transportation director had not yet driven over some of the roads in question. Erwin expressed the opinion that I. B. Miller, Roswell, engineer for this district, could send some equipment into Lincoln County to help alleviate the condition of some of these roads, but that, according to the state secondary engineer, was as far as Miller could go in the matter. It was disclosed 13 children are brought by bus from White Oaks and on the Arabela road the high school children must be taken in by their parents. It was related that one man about eight miles from the main highway had to drive cattle approximately 100 miles out of the way in order to get them to market. Hester remarked that adjoining counties have had roads approved while Lincoln County hasn't had any. It developed there are 4100 miles of designated secondary highways of which only about 40 per cent have been built. It was also pointed out the program will have to be flexible enough to take care of emergency changes or other needs as they develop.

Erwin explained that as many as four surveys have been made on various roads throughout the state, and he believes that several surveys are justified if they will save money. He said he knows that such procedure sounds "silly" to the layman but that from an engineering standpoint it is justified. It was pointed out that occasionally one survey is sufficient but not very often. Erwin estimated the cost of the Arabela road as $25,000 per mile.

Mrs. Samelson suggested it might be well for a state engineer to ride over the Arabela road and, if possible, have Mr. Reese of the State Department of Education accompany him. Erwin suggested Miller be notified and arrangements be made for the trip. Mrs. Samelson commented if she had to use her car she could be sure of having to buy a new tire at a cost of approximately $30, and told about the truck that was lost there last year in a flash flood. It is the superintendent's thought that if a state highway engineer will confirm the road is not safe for travel, Reese may change his opinion about the value of consolidating schools.

At one point, when Lincoln County's lack of road approval over a number of years was under discussion, Erwin told the group employees of the State Highway Department performed their duties to the best of their ability and it was his personal opinion he or others of the department should not be treated as though on trial for a crime if road approval was not forthcoming, and reiterated his opinion that the land use program would help to eliminate dissension between state and county administrations.

ANCHO

By ALLIE SNODGRASS

We had a good crowd for the Presbyterian Women's Auxiliary meeting on the 20th. Mrs. Buchanan, retired missionary, now living in Ruidoso, talked extensively on life in Japan, where she spent 51 years. Her aim was to point out what is gained when Christianity is taken into any country. Several ladies drove over from Nogal. And a good many local people attended, who, heretofore, have not joined our worthwhile organization. Mrs. Harry Straley and Mrs. Price Miller served refreshments following the meeting. While visiting in Ancho, Mrs. Buchanan was a guest of the Harry Straleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Lucas were here from Pasadena, Calif., last week, guests of the B. W. Wilsons. Max and Erma are really "home-folks," having lived here several years.

B. W. Wilson has been informed that his niece, Patricia (Chaplain of San Francisco, sailed from New York on Sept. 22 for a year's study in France. Patty, as she is known to us in Ancho, received a Fulbright scholarship.

Mrs. John Allen Hightower and little Billy are on the sick list this week.

Trouble often comes in pairs, it seems. Both Nancy Knight and Harry Straley have been hospitalized in Carrizozo again.

The benefit party on the 21st was well attended and proceeds were good. Of course, it's for our hot lunch project.

The PTA met on Tuesday, Oct. 2, for the regular meeting with a good attendance. Plans were discussed for a cowboy and chuck wagon supper for Nov. 3. Watch for more news on this and make plans to come. Good eats, good entertainment, etc., are something to look forward to.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Jones and girls were in Roswell Monday for Christine to have a tooth pulled. When they returned they found guests at their home. They are Mike Jones, Milt's father, from Portales; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jeff E. Jones and children, and her friend, Mrs. J. R. Henderson and children, all of Coalgate, Okla. They will also visit with Frank Jones and family while here.

Several of us enjoyed picnics in the Jicarillas Sunday. Besides my family, those in the party included Orris Smith, Jackie Silvers, Reba Bingham and their sister, Mrs. Allen Kilo from Oregon, who is visiting here.

News from my mother in Arkansas this week was somewhat encouraging. She states a brother Wilton Haskins has been released from the veterans hospital in Fayetteville where he has been a patient since early August. Wilton will be remembered by many here, since he is an old-timer, a graduate of Carrizozo High School where he received letters in football several years. He is a veteran of World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Hightower visited their daughter, Mrs. L. V. Payne and family, in Carlsbad several days last week. Mr. Payne is principal of the grade school there. Mrs. Hightower says they are having the same type colds and sore throats that are making the rounds here.

Children in school are really looking forward to a trip to the circus. Will try to have more news on that next week.

Wallace Ferguson of Capitan was a business visitor in Ancho this week. Don't remember what it was Wallace said about Highway 54, but believe he is definitely in sympathy with us who have to travel over it daily.

Peg Pflingsten of Nogal stopped over for a visit and to attend to some business a day or two ago. Sure good to see the neighbors like Peg and Wallace, if it is only for a short while.

Walter Hubbard, who has been in the Jicarillas seeing to mining interests has returned to his home in Bell Gardens, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Samora and family attended the funeral of Tony's sister, Mrs. Augustina Samora San Roman in Carrizozo last week. Mrs. San Roman was a former resident of Ancho. Deep-cut sympathy is extended to her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Montano and family and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Otero were in Santa Rosa over the weekend with the elder Mr. and Mrs. Montano, who had just received word of their son, John's death in Korea. John had only been there a short while, but had written of many hardships. He was known and well liked by all in Ancho.

Letter to Editor

Albuquerque, N. M. September 29, 1951.

Editor, News-Outlook: Having lived in Lincoln County for many years, I naturally enjoy reading the Lincoln County News and Carrizozo Outlook with a great deal of pleasure. Of course the things that interest your subscribers in my position, I am sure, are the news items about individuals whom we have known in years gone by. The names and doings of Lincoln County folks are of primary interest.

The article in the Sept. 21 issue by Mrs. Guck concerning the dedication of the Capitan school 50 years ago was extremely interesting. I notice that there was a list of 143 students who were attending school in Capitan at that time. I would imagine that this list contains a great many people who are living in Lincoln County today, and I am sure there are many on there who would be known to many of your subscribers away from Lincoln County. If you do not care to publish the list, I wonder if it would be possible for me to borrow it that I may look over it and return it to you when I have finished.

The first time I am in Carrizozo on a week day, I should like very much to call by the paper and meet you.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT S. FOAGE

(Ed's Note: The list of names referred to in the letter is in the possession of Capitan school officials, and arrangements are being made to secure it for publication.)

Capitan Tigers Swamp Mountainair Eleven

The Capitan Tigers emerged Friday with their fourth consecutive victory when they crushed the Mountainair team 32-0 on the Lincoln County team's home field. Scoring in all quarters, the Capitan squad was in the lead 12-0 at halftime and at the final gun had smothered the opposition.

The first score was tallied when Ernest Gomez made a 20-yard end sweep at the finish of a long drive as the first period was ending. Womack failed to make the extra point. Wally Ferguson was responsible for the 12-0 score at halftime with a dart from the 5-yard line late in the second quarter. Malcolm Petree contributed to the tally early in the third period with a smash from the 1-yard line and Womack kicked the ball over for the extra digit. Donny Morris, substitute quarterback, created wild enthusiasm among the football fans with his spectacular touchdown gained following a weaving 50-yard run after circling his right end. Morris was also instrumental in the final scoring with a strike to Stanley Hightower from the visitors' 15-yard line after the Mustangs had reversed an attack that carried to the one. The quarterback followed with a pass to Clifton Keith for a successful conversion.

Spangler of the Mountainair squad starred for the visitors, completing seven of 11 passes and doing an outstanding job from the defensive linebacker post.

4-H Winner Announced In Record Book Contest

By AUSTIN ALBERT

Kay Taylor, Mickey Guck, Harrel Fuller and Sally Strickland are the county winners in the 4-H Record Book contest this year. Kay Taylor of San Patricio was a double winner in that she placed first with her food preparation records and also her record was superior to any other in the home economics division and she rated a first in the girls' record contest.

Mickey Guck, Capitan, turned in a very complete record on his garden project and was judged first in that division.

Harrel Fuller, Corona, was first in the dairy contest. Harrel not only showed accurate and complete records, but his extra work was excellent. He gave demonstrations on feed rations to his club for people in his community.

Sally Strickland, Corona, was first in the meat animal contest. Sally's records showed good accounts of her fat lamb and range sheep project. She will compete in the state contests. Members must be 14 years of age and have at least three years experience in 4-H work. Although Sally is the only one eligible for state competition, all the county winners will receive special medals in recognition of their work.

The contests were judged solely from the contents of record books the youngsters turned in and were placed on accuracy, completeness, extra work and total accomplishments in their work.

Methodists To Observe Worldwide Communion

Worldwide communion services will be observed Sunday by the Carrizozo Trinity Methodist Church as it joins with Christian churches all over the world in a 24-hour period for reaffirming faith in Christ and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

Twenty-four thousand Methodist pastors will lead their congregations Sunday in communion services where individual and national sins will be confessed, according to R. E. Dickenson, pastor of the local Methodist church. An offering will be taken up among the church-goers on a voluntary basis for the purpose of overseas relief, commission on chaplains, and committee on camp activities for members of the U. S. Armed Forces.

Dr. Dickenson, who will speak on the subject, "Worldwide Christian Fellowship," extends the public a cordial invitation to attend Sunday's communion services.

Carrizozoans' Nephew Wins Santa Fe Award

First place winner of the five educational awards given by the Santa Fe Railway is Hunt Zumwalt, Artesia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zumwalt of that city, and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton B. Zumwalt of Carrizozo. The awards were announced by L. C. Dalton, state supervisor of agriculture in the State Department of Vocational Education at State College.

Young Zumwalt is first vice president of Future Farmers of America and official delegate to the national FFA convention at Kansas City Oct. 8-11. His expenses at the convention will be assumed by the Santa Fe Railway, whose annual awards are made to encourage agricultural achievement in the state it serves.

While in Kansas City, the New Mexico delegation and its leaders will join winners from other Santa Fe served states as guests of the line at a special breakfast in their honor to be held at the Muehlebach Hotel on Oct. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Tannis B. Smoot and daughters Sharon and Minette have returned from a vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park and Carson City, Nev. In the latter city, Mr. Smoot met his father, Herman Smoot, for the first time in 23 years.

From there they flew to Mexico City and back to Dallas and then drove to Carrizozo before returning to their home in Oakland. While in Texas, Mr. Roberts visited the home which had been owned by his grandfather in Llano. The Oakland man was born at Bonito City and lived in Lincoln County for a number of years. His wife is a native Californian.

Beef Price Increases Announced; Marshall Retires to Private Life

BEEF PRICES—Harassed small town housewives, who have been fighting a losing battle with the food budget since the beginning of the Korean war, heard the news of a wholesale beef price increase with dismay. OPS authorized the increase of 1 1/2 to 2 cents a pound at the wholesale level. It will mean the home town housewife will pay more for chops and rounds.

In addition, OPS announced retail price increases on hams, shoulders, and bacon by 1 to 2 cents. Celling on pork chops and roasts were recently subject to an adjustment.

Junior Hog Champ

A 13-year-old city reared lad won nearly $600 and carried off top honors in competition with 53 farm youngsters in the 12th annual Chicago Junior Hog Show. Here he is, Carl Silver, Jr., of Dundee, Ill., who never lived on a farm until 5 months ago.

OPS said the new increases will restore fair profit margins to packers. Several had closed in recent weeks because they reported losing money under existing OPS price regulations.

It was estimated the new ceilings represent an average increase of a cent a pound on beef sold by the carcass.

Another order issued by OPS increased the ceiling price on utility grade of live cattle from $11.80 to $22.40 per hundred pounds. This grade is used by canners for the army and some other customers, but represents less than 10 per cent of all beef sold at retail.

FULL SCALE WAR—Military observers believe there is little, if any, chance of Korean truce talks resuming. For the most part they predict increased activity in the fighting, with latest reports confirming this view.

Flame throwers, tanks and artillery were used by the Allies last week in chopping out limited gains in eastern Korea, while in other sectors, U.N. troops beat back large Red attacks.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, eighth army commander, is reported to have said the Reds at present do not have much of an offensive capability left on the eastern front. He reports Red casualties are running at 20 to 1 in comparison with the Allies.

Meanwhile, the word war between the Communist and United Nations commands continues. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned the enemy that the admission that an American plane accidentally machine-gunned the Kaesong area recently is "no indication the U.N. command will accept any trumped up Communist charge, no matter how loudly they protest." He referred to Communist charges of previous attacks which the Allies have denied.

A-WEAPONS TRAINING—Some 12,000 soldiers from the home towns of the nation will get a close look soon at what an atomic explosion can do as they undergo training in the tactical use of atomic weapons. The training will be carried out in the Frenchman's Flat proving grounds near Las Vegas where the atomic energy commission set off several atomic explosions some weeks ago.

The maneuvers will be the first time army ground forces have received actual field training with the new "tactical" atomic weapons recently developed by the AEC. The weapons are believed to include guided missiles with atomic warheads and atomic artillery shells.

PAY RAISE—A pay raise of 10 per cent was approved by the senate last week for approximately 1,600,000 federal workers. The house must act on the bill and President Truman must sign it, however, before the money would be forthcoming.

The measure would increase federal employee wages on the average of $207.53 a year, an annual cost to the government of about $350,000,000. It would grant raises to almost all federal workers except those in the post office department. Postal workers previously were voted increases ranging from $400 to $600 in a senate bill.

NO RUSH BUYING—Merchants in all sections of the country, from the home towns to the big towns, have noticed recently there is no buying rush as there was only a few months ago. Economists have come up with several reasons why rush buying has stopped, but the two main ones seem to be the increased cost of items and the consumer now is buying what he needs, not because he fears future shortages.

During part of 1950 and early 1951 the American consumer went on a buying spree because of predicted shortages. Many of the items purchased were on the installment plan and now the consumer is paying for them. The old fear of shortages, no longer worries the consumer because he believes goods will be available.

And because of higher prices many consumers are saving for that rainy day, to pay off debts, and to buy things when prices are readjusted.

TAFT PROSPECTS—Sen. Robert Taft frankly admitted on his recent speaking tour through Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota was a prospecting trip which will have great bearing upon whether or not he will seek the 1952 Republican nomination for president.

"A lot of people say they want me to run, but I want to be sure of the amount of support I am going to have before I make any final decision," the Ohioan said.

THE GENERAL—The acceptance by President Truman of George C. Marshall's resignation as secretary of defense retires to private life a man who has held a unique place in American public life during the past decade, especially in the minds of people in the home towns of the country. Gen. Marshall inspired confidence in the American people as has no other military man in recent years.

After a long and honorable military career, Marshall rose to new heights as United States chief of staff in World War II. At the end of the war he retired, but was called back by President Truman to head a mission to China in an effort to end the civil war there.

After that fruitless mission he was named secretary of state, during which the government launched the foreign-aid program that became known as the Marshall plan. He resigned that post in 1949. A year ago Truman called him from retirement to take the post of secretary of defense.

Senator Johnson of Texas very well summed up the opinion of the average American's regard for Marshall: "Long after the trivial carping of his detractors has been forgotten, the memory of George Marshall's services will stand as an inspiring monument to future defenders of freedom in the world. Because of his efforts, freedom has survived and will continue to survive."

Gen. Matiball, retired as defense secretary, confers with President Truman and Robert A. Lovett, the new secretary.

RUSSIAN HI-JINKS . . . One of two Russian soldiers who stormed into the U.S. sector of Berlin, fired their pistols and knocked down a woman before capture by American M.P.'s, managers with great effort to walk to the M.P. jeep. He is a senior lieutenant. The Russians drove a Soviet car and were apparently drunk. They claimed to be fleeing from the Soviet zone and claimed the bullet holes in their car were from guns of Russian border guards. Names were undisclosed.

CAPTURE OF ENEMY SOLDIER IN KOREA . . . An unidentified American officer (back to camera) directs a North Korean soldier who has surrendered following the battle of the Bloody Ridge recently. The surrendering Communist came into United Nations lines waving a white handkerchief and making gestures as for directions in giving up to the Americans. Apparently, just before his surrender, he was one of the soldiers defending the ridge so doggedly against U.N. attack.

Crime in America

Four of a Series

'Greasy Thumb and Chicago Politicians

Two Chicago hoodlums in whom the Senate Crime Committee has particular interest were Jacob Guzik and Anthony Accardo. We felt these infamous, rather strangely assorted partners might hold a key to the whole question of organized interstate crime, so widely dispersed were their nefarious activities.

Accardo, back when he was a strong-arm man in Chicago's underworld and reputedly a bodyguard for the late "Machine-Gun Jack" McGurn, used an appropriate alias—"Joe Baiteers."

Guzik is a pouchy-eyed little man of 64, with a ravaged face that looks as if it were made of wax left too long near a hot fire. The warrant for his arrest as a missing witness was not served on him until the final week of our scheduled public hearings.

Guzik is a manipulator rather than a muscle man; he acquired his nickname—Greasy Thumb—from the fact that he was business manager and pay-off man for Al Capone.

It is a strange quirk of randomness that these two men should be partners and joint leaders of the Capone syndicate. Police records show that Accardo was picked up in 1945 for questioning about a gang style kidnaping of Guzik, who reputedly had to pay $75,000 to regain his freedom. Nothing ever came of this episode, for Guzik stoutly insisted it was just a misunderstanding over a "business transaction."

We didn't learn much directly from either Accardo answered only a few elementary questions refusing even to tell about things already part of police and court records.

The gray-visaged Guzik was worse. When we asked him his age, he refused to answer on the grounds that it might "incriminate me as to tend to incriminate me." After he had parroted this monotonous phrase some 80 times, Senator Wiley asked if he had consulted a lawyer; Guzik answered that he had not.

"Where did you get this phrase you have been using all the time?" asked Senator Wiley.

"I have heard it on television," Guzik replied.

In Chicago's teeming Negro district, "policy wheels"—a variety of the "numbers" racket in which are daily drawings for combinations of winning numbers—have come to be big business. An estimated $1.5 billion has been played on these in the past five years. Operations of this magnitude, of course, could not exist without graft being paid to dishonest police for protection.

There is a melancholy moral in this when one considers that the staggering sum is amassed from the nickels, dimes and quarters of the inhabitants of some of the worst slums in America. There are numerous wheels operating—with fanciful names such as the "Roman Silver," the "Calcutta-Green Dragon," the "Jack-Pot Whitlaway-Alabama-Georgia."

One witness we summoned was Edward Jones, a one-time Pullman porter. He was a partner with his wife, mother, brother and two other men in a policy wheel known as "The Maine, Idaho and Ohio." Its net profits, 1948 through 1949, came to $3,654,982.22.

In 1946, Ed Jones was kidnaped and held until his family paid $100,000 ransom. Even though five years had elapsed since the kidnaping at the time we questioned him, the exporter, who wore a huge star-shaped phre ring, was exceedingly timorous. He insisted he did not even know whether his abductors were white persons or Negroes because they were "blind-folded" at the time.

Whether Jones was kidnaped solely for ransom, or whether it was a "muscle" operation whereby gangsters took over part of the business, never has been established. Jones himself denies that the "Maine-Idaho-Ohio" has been "muscle." However, Ed Jones and his brother, George, though each continues to draw a 20 per cent share of the profits—have lived in Mexico City since the kidnaping.

Our Chicago hearings also provided a case history of how a one-time hoodlum can establish himself in a legitimate business and become enormously wealthy. The case was that of Joseph Charles (Joe) Fusco, 46, now the operating vice-president of Gold Seal Liquors, Inc. (wholesale distributors), a stockholder in four other liquor distributing companies and part-owner of a brewery.

From a sales volume standpoint, Fusco boasted Gold Seal was Chicago's "No. 1" dealer. His own net worth was possibly $1,000,000 and the book value of Gold Seal alone, of which he owns 25 per cent, was $2,200,000, he told us.

Virgil Peterson of the Chicago crime commission gave us this thumbral report: "Joe Fusco designated several years ago as a public enemy, during the prohibition era, was a principal lieutenant in the Capone syndicate, handling the manufacture and distribution of illicit beer. He is presently suspected of being the respectable front in the liquor industry for the syndicate. . . . It has been stated that the syndicate owns or controls at least 17 per cent of the retail liquor stores in Chicago. . . .

Peterson also identified Rocco De Stefano, with whom Fusco admitted doing business, as an "important syndicate man."

Painfully, with the witness making long speeches at almost every question, Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley extracted from Fusco some details of how he gave away 20 to 25 cases of whiskey as Christmas gifts to public officials and other friends. Practically every cop in the district came around at Christmas time for a bottle or two, Fusco said. He became belligerent when asked who received his Christmas liquor. "If you were in Chicago," he barked at Halley, "maybe I would send you a case, too."

Halley retorted: "Maybe I would return it to you."

"I don't know," said Fusco, arrogantly. "I have never got any back."

There was an ugly aftermath to Fusco's appearance. Apparently the mob got the idea that he had "talked." Ten days later a black powder bomb went off in the doorway of his Gold Seal warehouse. The newspapers captioned a picture of Fusco inspecting the damage: "Be Talked to Kefauver."

Everywhere we went, the committee found political immorality, but in Chicago the rawness was particularly shocking. I previously mentioned Dan Serritella, simultaneously a state senator, scratch sheet operator, and business partner with Greasy Thumb Guzik. We accumulated evidence that proved the connections of the Capone gang with politicians of both major parties. The mobsters played politics strictly for their own interests. When we asked ex-Capone Philip D'Andrea whether Capone had been a Republican or Democrat, D'Andrea replied: "He was a Republican when it fitted his clothes, I guess, and a Democrat otherwise."

The pro-Capone bloc in the legislature included Democrats and Republicans alike. For instance, Virgil Peterson, testified that Sen. Roland Libonati, a Democrat, "has been pictured with Al Capone and with 'Machine-Gun Jack' McGurn."

Another bloc member was James J. Adducci, a Republican and for 18 years a member of the Illinois legislature. Mr. Adducci appeared before us and outlined his political philosophy and certain facets of his career. He has been a friend and consort of numerous notorious Capone gangsters, and admitted having been arrested frequently himself on numerous charges—including kidnaping—but never convicted.

For eight years, according to Adducci, he has been getting a commission of "between $5,000 and $6,000 or $8,500" by selling stationery and envelopes to the state. He also boasted of having control of about 40 patronage jobs, including 10 men on the staff of the sheriff of Cook county, and "a couple of highway police." Adducci cynically told us that "my conscience made me" oppose the crime commission bill. Asked if he ever had studied the bill, Adducci roughly answered: "Hell, no, I didn't study it!"

"I come from a very funny district," he also told us. "I have every element there is in the world, I guess, in my district, I have the pimp, the pack-roller, the safe-blower, the dope fiend and every other damned thing in there. I mean, I come from the West Side of Chicago, a very poor district. All those elements are in there. Skid Row, you may have heard of Skid Row."

The chairman: "You never have any trouble getting elected, do you?"

Adducci: "No, I don't, Senator."

A Bleak Christmas

Four years ago I spent Christmas in France and New Year's in Italy. It was the most depressing holiday season of my entire life. Paris was dark, the street lights barely flickering, candles were used past time in the hotels; there was almost no heat, food was scarce, and worst of all people had lost hope. Sometimes it seemed that they went through the routine of living merely because they had become accustomed to the habit of living.

Even the great cathedrals and palaces which had looked down on conquerors and revolutions looked gloomy and weary. Even they seemed to lack hope.

That was the crucial winter the Communists chose for their deadly strikes and riots to take over western Europe, a winter before we had adopted the Marshall Plan or begun to send postwar food. That was also the winter when the American people, usually ahead of their government, sent western Europe a token of encouragement through the friendship trials.

That was the winter of 1947, but this year it is so different!

Plenty of Mistakes

This optimistic report does not mean that we have not made mistakes, or that the job is finished. We have made plenty of mistakes, and the two most important are:

1. We have failed to sell Europe as a United States of Europe. Here at home we have shown how 48 different states can apply the principle of federalism yet simultaneously live under a central government; yet in Europe we have failed completely to put this across. And this is the only long-term solution for Europe's economy.

2. We have failed to sell the Declaration of Independence in Europe. Though we live under the greatest political document known to man we have failed to get European governments to adopt the principal of "equality" of economic opportunity.

Care of New Floors and Woodwork

QUESTION: We are moving into our new home soon and I would like some information on the care of my floors and woodwork. The floors are varnished oak. The woodwork is birch, also varnished. The doors are of flush design and also varnished. It is all very tight and I would like to keep it that way. What should I use when cleaning the floors and what kind of wax would you recommend? Should finger marks be removed from the woodwork with soap and water? Or what would you advise?

ANSWER: A floor finish should be protected by waxing, except when there are old people or young children in the house. Paste floor wax can be used, applied in a thin, even coat and polished after a half-hour for drying. It can be cleaned with a dry hair broom or cloth, or a specially treated mop. It should not need frequent re-waxing except as required in traffic lanes and near doorways. It should be polished or well rubbed about once a week. This can be done with a polishing weight, or a light electric floor polishing machine. Badly soiled places can be cleaned with a liquid wax made for this purpose. (There are special non-slip floor waxes that are sold in bulk only and made especially for convalescent homes.)

KATHLEEN NORRIS Do Boys Think?

THE FACT that schoolboys are apparently incapable of one minute's serious thought is apt to cost all those who love them very dear. "You know how utterly unthinking boys are!" writes an agonized mother. "A boy who is destined to grow into a fine and responsible man could do something in his schooldays, that was entirely inexplicable and entirely inexcusable—we all know that! If other boys are doing it, if there is a general carelessness impression that certain shortcuts to learning are practically taken for granted, isn't it excusable that they follow the fashion? No, not excusable, but something to be censured, and forgiven?"

Another Chance? "My husband," this letter goes on, "has a high standing in this community; we have always been proud of our one son. Our hearts and his sisters' hearts are crushed by this blow. John knew better than to do what he did; he'll never recover from the horror of this time of shame. But isn't he to have another chance?"

Well, it's my personal conviction that he should have that chance. Because honesty isn't natural, and self-protection is. Honesty is a rare plant of slow growth in human hearts; self-protection whether it be from income tax or speeding laws or innocent home gambling for a tenth of a cent, illicit liquor hidden somewhere, or a little speculation on a shady deal, is natural.

We are all sporadically on a high level of honor in some of our affairs, and we all have a blind side to other transactions that are not quite so admirable. I remember years ago the case of a young woman who played races, bought con-

WOMAN'S WORLD Room Furnishings May Be Set Off With Proper Dressing of Window

By Ertta Haley

THE touch of glamour that a hat lends to a beautiful costume is much the same role which well styled windows play in your home. If you have lovely furniture and beautiful accessories, you need carefully chosen window coverings to show them off, to lend proper background.

Today's furnishing trends are getting away from the ornate window treatments of yesterday, as these detract too much from what nice furnishings you have in the room, and they are also expensive. Now we have simple window treatments which have a luxury of their own because curtains and draperies are full, though simple.

You may have both draperies and sheer curtains at your windows, but since the combination is apt to run into a bit of an investment it may be wise to choose draperies for those windows which give a nice view, while sheer glass curtains are appropriate for a small informal room.

More than any one single thing, remember that windows can add or detract from the atmosphere of the room, depending upon what you do with them. You may have a problem with the size of windows or with their placement. There are answers to these rather common problems, and they are all attractive ones.

No matter how ugly a duckling any one or several windows may be, you can, with some good planning, turn them into assets. Little money to spend, a lack of sufficient fabric to give full luxurious drapes, curtains which don't fit a new house or apartment, all should not receive the attention which a satisfactory window needs, for instance.

Window Magic

Here's a problem window which has been easily made an asset. Felka dot chain ruffling goes under the fabric to camouflage mops and buckets. A Venetian blind, with contrasting slats hides the dreary outlook from the window. Gay ruffles of fabric to match the blind were fastened onto the tapes of the blind and an all-over cornice frames the window.

Take the room with a large bay window which is distinctly an asset. Use a good attractive print or color in draperies for this window. In the same room you may have a fireplace window, that is, one on the same wall as the fireplace. The size of the window is poor, and to use the same draperies on this window as the bay window would be to distract interest from both the fireplace as well as the bay window.

The smartest covering for the fireplace window would be a plain material similar to the wall coloring. If walls are blue, green or gray, for example, have the plain window draperies dyed exactly the same so this window will melt into the background.

Small windows, or a pair of such windows as is found in many homes need not be despairing. Rather than draperies, build a cornice around the whole window and cover this with the same material as a chair in the room. If the window is set off the room a bit, place an easy chair next the window with an ottoman, and have these covered as the cornice. This makes a nice study or reading corner.

If you have a patterned drapery material that is not too distinctive, give the windows a dramatic touch by using a lush swag at the top of the draperies in a color which is predominant in the draperies.

When you have ceiling-high draperies, use attractive blinds to hide the bare spot above the windows. These are especially good for large windows as the blinds can be drawn to give the privacy desired during day or evening.

Blinds Can Solve Window Problems

Problem windows, can, in almost every instance be solved with the correct use of Venetian blinds. If you have a group of two or three small windows which are drab and uninteresting, create a picture window effect by treating the entire group as one unit when decorating. You may hang a single large blind instead of two or three smaller ones, and then use a plain or decorated cornice to span the entire group, with one pair of draperies on the extreme sides.

Once windows have been fitted with blinds, you can use numerous decorating tricks which are simple yet effective. Blind tapes are good to use for repeating the motifs of draperies on them. Artificial flowers sewed on a ribbon and thence onto the tapes are beautifully decorative.

If you have an especially pretty wallpaper, such as clusters of flowers or fruit, cut the designs out of the leftover wallpaper, and cut into strips measuring one and three-quarter inches, the size of each slat. These can be pasted on the slats with just library paste.

Another trick which is very useful especially in dinettes, kitchens or bedrooms is to make ruffling from one of the materials used in the room. These ruffles can be attached to the blind tapes by simple sewing, and are wonderfully decorative.

How to Emphasize Walls Rather Than Problem Windows

If the view outside the window has nothing attractive to offer, don't emphasize the windows. This is especially true when the windows are long and narrow.

One way to get around this problem is to use an attractively patterned paper in the room, as this is certainly an attention-getting feature. Your room will have to be large to take a boldly printed paper. If it is not, use only one patterned paper wall. Pick a color from the paper and use it for painting or papering the other three walls.

Cancer Mortality On The Decline

Encouraging indications of a decline in cancer mortality are reported by statisticians who base their findings upon the postwar experience of millions of industrial policyholders.

Favorable developments in the cancer picture are most evident, the statisticians point out, when the recent trend of mortality is studied according to whether the primary site of the disease is accessible or inaccessible to diagnosis.

For the accessible sites as a group, both men and women in the insurance experience recorded declines in the death rate from 1949-51 to 1949-50, men by 2.4 per cent and women by 7.2. There was a reduction in female mortality from almost all the accessible specific types of cancer.

In the case of the inaccessible sites as a whole, the death rate among women declined 1.1 per cent, but, on the other hand, that among men showed an increase of 4 per cent. However, both sexes showed decreases for such specific sites as the stomach, intestines, other digestive organs, bladder, and liver.

Considerable increases in death rates were recorded for cancers of the lungs and other respiratory areas. Grately intensified efforts have been put forth on all fronts since the end of the war to fight cancer. These have included the expansion of diagnostic facilities, the opening of more special cancer hospitals, and intensified cancer research. In addition, the statisticians state "great emphasis is still placed upon early recognition and treatment of the disease."

can be readily solved if you'll put your imagination and ingenuity to work.

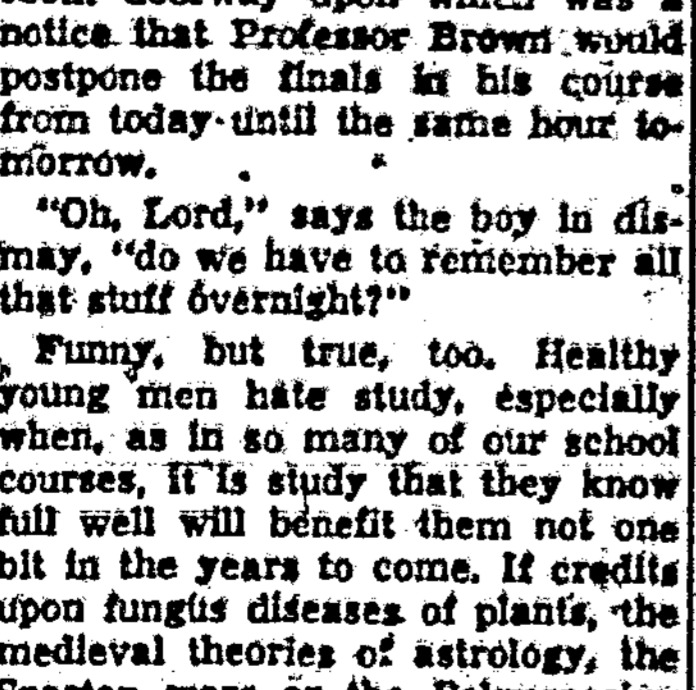

Perhaps you have some, not-so-full draperies, or a length or two of material which do not cover a window luxuriously. Or, if you have two windows to treat rather than one, with possibly a single pair of draperies, you can do several things.

One of the smartest ways to treat the problem is to build a floor length plywood frame for the window or windows. Cover this frame with the material on hand. It will take far less to cover the frame than to make gathered draperies, and the effect is good.

The plywood frame can be straight on the outside top as well as on the sides. Inside, the part which is next to the window, on all four sides can be scalloped, lasso scalloped, or, to add the proper decorative note.

Let's say that you have a wide window or two narrow windows in the bedroom or dressing room. Why not treat these as one, for they will look better and conserve material. You can set twin dressing tables against the windows. Use sheer material right on the windows, in full folds, then a three or four inch width of ruffle across the top, of the same material as is used to cover the dressing tables. Glass curtains of the same material can be used at the sides, tied back to the windows.

A kitchen window which is larger than the cottage curtains you have on hand can be easily remed. Add several rows of ruffle to the bottom of curtain to make it fit.

Another solution is to use several yards of cotton curtain material to make a glass curtain for the window. Several rows of bright material made into ruffles can be used as the bottom edge.

Wanted: Pioneers! Lesson for October 7, 1961

IT IS on record that a Virginian in the 18th century wrote to his family that he was moving "to the far west" meaning the neighborhood of what is now Bull Run, Va., not far from Washington, D. C. Well, the "far west" moved and moved, till it reached the Pacific Beyond that ocean is the Orient, crowded past belief. Where now can the pioneer go? For pioneering is always in the blood of man. Not in every one's, to be sure; there always are contented stay-behinds; but also there always are the restless souls, not content with what has been or is. How shall pioneering instincts have their way when all frontiers are closed?

Un-Travelling Pioneers THE travelling pioneer has about had his day; what we now need is the un-travelling pioneer.

Such explorers are of various sorts. One is the mental pioneer, moving to new frontiers of the mind. These can be found breaking out new trails in various directions. In science there are the men whose minds produced X-rays and plastics, the men and women who did the brainwork that lay behind the splitting of the atom; in government the men on the Judge's bench, in lawyer's offices or in professors' chairs, who have been and are still thinking out the undiscovered meanings of democracy; in education the men and women who have pioneered in new ways of teaching, such as Dr. Laubach, great scholar and missionary, who has led the way in teaching the "illiterate billion" to read and write; these are all pioneers of the mind. God send us more!

Moral Pioneers WE need also pioneers of the moral life. "Time," says a line in a poem by J. R. Lowell which has made its way into most hymn-books, "makes ancient good uncouth."

For instance: once upon a time, practically all Christian people supposed that slavery was not only a good thing, but that God had commanded it for all time. Whitfield, a famous evangelist, said that what America needed for its development was more slaves imported from Africa, and more home-brewing of liquor. Today this sounds so ridiculous that it is hard to believe that a Christian could have said it. Their less made-animal good un-couth. But time alone will not do this. There must always be some moral pioneer, some one who will run the risk of being called "bad" by going out in front of popular opinion. Between Whitfield's time and ours there have been moral pioneers, notably a Quaker named John Woolman on whose mind and heart God laid the message: Slavery is a wrong.

Pioneers of God WE need also spiritual pioneers, persons who will move forward to new discoveries of God. For most persons, God is still an "undiscovered country"; and no man can discover God for another, though he may testify to his own discoveries. So in the realm of the spirit each must be his own pioneer; and some men and women, even from sickness, unable to walk as far as the door, have made great discoveries of God.

The man who is honored as a saint by three religions—Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism—Abraham, is sometimes known for the wrong thing. He may be thought of as a travelling pioneer because he moved several hundred miles during his lifetime. But he was not a pioneer in the "old American" meaning of that word, for the Canaan to which he went was no unsettled wilderness but a well-populated civilized country, and he never owned the land he lived on. Abraham's pioneering was in the realm of the spirit. We know from Joshua 24 that even Abraham's father was an idolater; Abraham moved out from the pagan religion of his father and his people, to the discovery of the One True God. No more important journey was ever taken. The traveling of Abraham's feet was of little importance by comparison. It was the traveling of Abraham's spirit that has most blessed us all.

Nickel in Electrodes Television is using large quantities of rolled nickel, with indications that the amount will continue to increase. Pure nickel is being used for the cathodes of the camera and picture tubes of television equipment due to its ability to retain its strength and stiffness at high temperatures (1650° F.) and also because it serves as an excellent base for the oxide coating which gives off the electrons.

Improves Appearance To renew window shades, lay them on a flat surface and paint them with flat wall paint in the color you desire. One side might be light cream yellow, for instance, and the other, forest green.

Uses Proper Primer Porous surfaces, such as wood, plaster and wallboard, must be sealed with the proper primer as specified in each case; otherwise the finish "strikes in" unevenly and does not give the best results.

First Fraternity Collegiate fraternity system, as it now exists, originated at Union college in 1825, when Kappa Alpha was established.

Business Headquarters Fifty-eight per cent more business firms have headquarters in New York state than in the next leading state of the nation, the New York state department of commerce reports.

"Wayang" In far off Java, the little puppet who delights the hearts of Javanese children, is called a "wayang." He is shown in silhouette, behind a white-cloth screen, while a narrator behind the screen tells the story of the play.

Printing Almanacs The first printed almanac was a German one, published in Vienna in 1457. The Almanach de Gotha, published at Gotha, Germany, has been printed annually since 1763.

Stainless Steel In Great Britain a high level of demand for stainless steels was maintained throughout 1960. Production of wrought corrosion and heat-resisting steels continues at maximum capacity with the demand still considerably in excess of supply and order books are filled for months ahead. The two principal producers of stainless steels in Great Britain are committed to erect and operate under joint management a new stainless steel rolling mill which will increase considerably plate and sheet rolling capacity.

More TV Television a problem? Do the children want to watch cowboys and cartoons while you're entertaining guests in the living room? Your set can't be in every room at once, but you can fix it to serve you in two rooms, at least. If it's practical in your home, open up a small section of wall, and place it on a turntable between the rooms. This is particularly adaptable where the TV set occupies a section of a large bookcase.

Has Many Uses Glycerine is used in the preservation of foods and anatomical preparations, in perfumes, for color-printing, in leather-making, in calico-making, in production of explosives, in anti-freeze mixtures and in the manufacture of inks and lubricants.

Sweetpotato Temperature The temperature of sweetpotato curing houses should be kept between 80 and 90 degrees.

Minks in a Coat It takes from 50 to 90 pelts to make a mink coat, depending upon the size of the individual animal and the size of the coat. A good-sized male mink often measures 36 inches or more from nose to tail-tip. Female mink run slightly smaller. Mink coats may be purchased from $5,000 to $20,000 or even more.

New York Fleets New York state, with only 1.8 per cent of the land area and 1.5 per cent of the land in farms in the United States, ranks first among the states in the production of hay, cabbage for fresh use and for kraut, lima beans for fresh market, onions, sweet corn and ducks.

Coverage of Turkey The area of modern Turkey totals slightly less than 300,000 square miles; it lies wholly within Asia Minor, except for a small but important bridgehead in Europe. All of Turkey-in-Europe, and the coastal regions of Asia Minor, enjoy abundant rainfall and produce a varied list of crops, from grapes to forage.

Springtime Household Note When you change your windows from heavy drapes to sheer curtains, hang a sachet bag on the hook that holds the tie-backs. The soft breezes will bring a subtle fragrance into the room.

Cooperative Members More than half the farmers in the United States are now members of cooperatives, but there are not as many cooperatives as 25 years ago.

Way Back When "A magnificent Pavilion of the Purple" was the official birthplace for royal children during the reign of Basil, who ruled the Byzantine Empire about 900 A.D. Today, when someone says: "He was born in the purple," it means, interpreted literally: "He was born a king or queen."

Redwoods to be "Farmed" The towering redwood, or Sequoia sempervirens, is the latest addition to the lumber industry's tree farm program, which employs selective logging in order to permit reseedling. In its foggy habitat along coastal California, the redwood demonstrates a remarkable vigor in re-producing over areas that have been carefully cut. Trees spared from the axe in selected locations soon drop cones which produce seedlings where the forest mounds have been topped. Moreover, the redwood is so hardy that even the stumps of felled trees sometimes put forth sprouts which grow to maturity.
