Letter to Editor

Chlsong, Ni, Korea,

Nov. 9, 1951.

Editor, News-Outlook:

I received two of your newspapers and I can't begin to tell you how happy I was to receive them. Those are the first two papers I have received since I have been here in Korea and it was swell to read about all my friends in Carrizozo and Lincoln County.

I arrived in Korea Sept. 11, 1951. I flew from Vancouver, Canada, to Tokyo, Japan, and I spent two days there and then to Korea by boat.

I participated in being one of the guards for the UN truce talk camp.

I am hoping you will keep sending me the paper.

Regards to all my friends in Carrizozo and Lincoln County.

Sincerely,

Pfc. Carroll W. Dolan,

E Company, 17th Inf.,

APO 7, care Postmaster,

San Francisco, Calif.

P. S.: Around Lincoln County I am better known as Bill Dolan.

The Round Table Club held their dinner meeting at the home of Mrs. G. A. Titworth on Thursday, Nov. 15. At this meeting the club voted to contribute $15 to Christmas welfare activities.

The Chamber of Commerce banquet held at the grade school cafeteria on Wednesday, Nov. 14, was well attended with 37 members and guests present. The editors of the Rudoso News and the Lincoln County News were present with their pencils working overtime.

Posters on Americanism are being placed in public buildings throughout the nation during the month of November. Watch for the different issues each week.

The first basketball game of this season will be played here on Friday, Nov. 30. This game is to be played with Weed.

At this writing, L. R. Morgan still holds top weight for the heaviest deer towards his registration for the gun at the Phillips 66 station.

From 404 hunters through the checking station, 33 have checked out with deer.

Hugh Bancroft, Jimmy Kent and Mrs. Ross Flatley are local people who got their deer recently. Dixie Sparks got herself a 16 pound turkey.

The nation's 1951 cotton crop estimate was reduced from 17.3 million bales to 16.9 million bales following unfavorable September Cotton Belt.

THANKS!

By DOROTHY GUCK

There comes a time every year that we are supposed to audit accounts to determine which side of the ledger carries the greater score, the blessings or the misfortunes. Some folks take inventory the wrong way and think the blessings are in the red, but they are wrong. It's almost impossible to put misfortunes in the black if you thoroughly check the account.

How do you count your blessings? Well, you all know how to report the evident good things of life. Perhaps you are making the mistake of not taking account of the lesser items for which to give thanks. For instance, did you ever stop to think how lucky we are in the Southwest that tumbleweeds don't grow like pine trees? What would happen if our winds came from Texas and tossed boulders at us instead of pebbles?

Boys are thankful they don't have three cars to wash. Mothers should be grateful the boys hate that washing ordeal, 'cause cleanliness means growth — to the age when there is a feminine heart interest.

Poor Kansas! Poor St. Louis! Rain, snow. While we bask in the nation's most beautiful sun.

Quit heckling the governor about those dirt roads. About the only thing that ever happens on them is a punctured tire or a good stick in the mud. Most of the terrible toll from traffic accidents occurs on paved highways. Be thankful for mud and ruts.

It's high, but most of us can still buy good beef in the West without going above a dollar, while back East most roasts are $1.10 and steak $1.25.

None of those meteors did you damage, did they? No, they gave you a beautiful display of free fireworks.

Why, we have some of the purest air, glorious soul inspiring scenery, quiet and peace, freedom and all the friendship a person could crave that can be won with a smile and cheerful word.

If you have two hands, think how lucky you are to be able to scratch where it itches. Don't have to think anymore, radios and newspapers do most of it for us. Look, we have both good Democrats and good Republicans. That is more than Argentina has. There is nothing that deserves a deeper gratefulness than a long cool drink of water when you are thirsty, the feel of smooth bedsheets on your toes in summer, the smell of plowed earth in the spring, the stinging of frosty cheeks beside an open fire.

See how easy it is to weight down the blessing side of the ledger? Here's one more suggestion for you if you haven't tried: Go to the church of your choice, stand in your own backyard, or sit quietly beside the fire, but lift your heart above the petty difficulties you've suffered, smile and offer the Creator of the good things an earnest thanks for the giving.

STUDIES ELECTRONICS

Pfc. Don Shults is now at Keeler Air Force Base, Miss., where he is studying electronics. He reports he made the highest grade of the 42 students who participated with him in the first examination. Young Shults, who likes the new work, hopes to be home for the Christmas holidays. He is planning to leave there Dec. 22, and will have until Jan. 2. A former classmate of his at State College is also stationed at the Mississippi base.

NOGAL MESA

By DOROTHY GUCK

Seems like we just had vacation while the teachers went to Albuquerque for an Institute (Innocent too, as the little boy told his parents), and now it's time for another long weekend, Thanksgiving.

I might be able to give you a list of the lucky hunters from the Mesa, but right now I know of only a few, LaMoyné Peters, Pete Vance, Mike Gados, Arvel Runnels, Buck Price of Clovis and my husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Price, Mrs. Frank Smith and Arlene and Paul Jones are visiting at the home of Dan Jones.

My two boys, Austin Albert and I attended the Hondo PTA Tuesday evening. Mr. Albert, our extension agent, presented 4-H pins to Lincoln County children who had completed project work. It made me wonder if every parent is taking advantage of the many organizations at their disposal to help with the job of making a good citizen of our children. If your child isn't a member of a Scout troop, 4-H club or one of the many young people's associations of the various churches, he's passing up some free investments that pay off in dozens of ways. Look into these organizations. They all aim to build better youth. Choose the one most convenient to you, investigate its program, then lend a hand in making that program work for your child.

Leota Pfingsten drove to Albuquerque Thursday to attend a meeting of the State Civil Defense Committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

A representative from the Weather Bureau drove up to Monjeau and Cedar Creek to put the snow gauges in readiness for measuring the anticipated winter moisture.

All people interested in joining the Capitan Community Singing group be at the high school any Monday night at 7:30, beginning Nov. 19.

CENSORSHIP?

What Don Shults and Alton Lenard don't know, according to Elaine Shults' father, is that she buys two copies of the News-Outlook for them, but sends them only certain items out of the paper. Elaine's Dad calls it censorship of their news.

Blue Plate Special

in the family budget

Everyone knows that a dollar won't buy what it used to. For example, the food you can buy with a dollar today would have cost only 42 cents in 1940.

But your telephone service? Even though you can't eat it— you can't beat it for value in these days of high prices.

Why? Because telephone rates have gone up much less than most things you buy, while the number of people you can call (without payment of toll charges) has doubled. It's a fact that the cost per telephone-you-can-call is actually lower than in 1940!

It's a GOOD BUY every time you say Hello!

By MRS. J. E. PHILLIPS
 Among the successful deer hunters around Lincoln are Roman Maes, Ernest Gomez, Bobby Romero, Boney Baca, Jeff Dockray, Tommy Aldaz, Barney Phillips, Lloyd Hulbert, Edgar Phillips. There may be others I have not heard about.
 Frank Chavez has been ill and in the hospital in Carrizozo this week.
 It has been reported that Jim Ramsey is convalescing satisfactorily.
 Little Dean Armstrong has recovered from her burns. Everyone is so happy that it wasn't more serious.
 Mr. and Mrs. Roman Maes have some new cases and interesting displays at La Palma. I hope to be able to describe them at length next week—after I have seen them.
 Mr. and Mrs. Suddeth and children of Dexter are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taylor. Mrs. Suddeth is Mr. Taylor's sister.
 Mrs. Ofelia Saiga entertained at a party Tuesday evening, Oct. 13. Those who attended reported a wonderful time. Too bad hunters to cook for kept some of us away. Hunters and hunting season seem to take precedence over everything else while the season is on.
 Happy Thanksgiving, everybody. Notwithstanding world conditions, our own little troubles and everything, we still have lots to be thankful for.

Job Opportunities In State And Elsewhere

Walter E. Taylor, New Mexico State Employment Service, reports over 100 unfilled orders for electrical engineers in various parts of the state, and that a shortage of cotton harvest workers still exists in some areas.
 The U. S. Dept. of Commerce said sales throughout the country are slow but not because of lack of money. On the contrary, savings banks deposits are at a new high with the money going into savings instead of purchases. The department also reports that although most cities showed a decline in retail sales in September, 1951, as compared to that month a year ago, Roswell retail sales rose 12 per cent during that period.
 The Office of Defense Mobilization states that serious shortages of labor exist at only two points in the United States—San Diego, Calif., and Wichita, Kan. A growing volume of layoffs, caused by material shortages, are in evidence, especially in metal using industries. According to the report, automobiles were hardest hit with the effects being felt not only at the automobile centers such as Detroit, etc., but at assembly and parts supplying plants throughout the country, including Los Angeles, San Francisco and Buffalo. Some conversion layoffs are also noted where plants are closed down completely to prepare for defense production.

 Questioning Jackson about his family, Olds found out that Mama Jackson kept up her name selecting system for five other children.

A new dollar and cents ceiling price regulation on the sales of use passenger cars has been issued by OPS. Ceilings are set for each body style, line or series of each make of used vehicle for the years 1940 through 1951, and will be reduced at the rate of 2 per cent every calendar quarter starting Jan. 1, 1952. The regulation was effective Nov. 20, but ceiling prices listed in Appendix "A" are not effective until 30 days after regulation's effective date. In the interim, current ceiling prices remain in force. The new ceilings are based on a leveling and harmonizing of prices listed in the several recognized used car guide books and other economic data. Sellers of used cars use the ceiling prices shown for the region in which the automobile is sold. New Mexico is in Region 11. All standard equipment, radio, heater, and other items (except automatic transmissions or drives or air conditioning units) on the car at the time seller acquires title are included in the ceiling price.
 Christmas trees are exempt from price controls.
 Livestock prices advanced 25 per cent between June 15, 1950, and Jan. 15, 1951.
 Anti-freeze prices are regulated according to type. Containers must be labeled according to type, strength and rental ceiling price.
 OPS regulations cover charges made by nursery operators. Managers of nurseries must file a list of ceiling prices and post such list for his clients.
 Dry cleaners and laundriers are subject to OPS services regulation which sets their prices at the highest level in the last December-January period.

Claunch Annexation—

tion to Torrance County. It appears that some of the original signers of the Lincoln County annexation petition had, in February of that year, attempted to withdraw their names from that document, and subsequently those names appeared on the Torrance County petition. No action was taken by the Socorro County commissioners on the Torrance County request, and mandamus actions were initiated in accord with the prior action taken by the Lincoln County group. The actions were consolidated for trial before Judge Charles S. Fowler at Socorro on Dec. 11, 1950. The result was the withdrawal of the Torrance County petition and an approval of the Lincoln County one. The Socorro County commissioners were directed to publish a notice of publication, which was done, and comply with the annexation statutes.

Although there were no objections to the sufficiency of the petition, the description of the area, etc., no election was ordered. A 1951 legislative enactment, effective June 9, 1951, requires county-wide participation in an annexation election. On May 5, 1951, the attorney for the Lincoln County annexation group filed a motion for an order to show cause and asked the court to hold the Socorro County commissioners in contempt for not issuing an election proclamation. The Socorro officials apparently decided the 1951 amendment did not affect the annexation which was requested under the 1947 provisions, and later, on Nov. 5, 1951, issued the proclamation, declaring Saturday, Dec. 1, 1951, and the Claunch Grade School at Claunch on the time and place for the election.

Election judges are William W. Gallacher, Mrs. Marvel L. Spear and Mrs. Berle Talley. Alternate judges are Marvel L. Spear, L. W. Wieland and Mrs. W. M. Petross. A large number of the Socorro County citizens who wish to belong to Lincoln County are widely known throughout this section, and residents of Lincoln County would be most happy to have the boundary lines extended in order that their wishes may be granted.

Saturday, Dec. 1, the legally qualified voters of the area proposed to be annexed will resolve the issue when they go to the Claunch Grade School to mark their ballots.

A sound step toward preventing livestock diseases is to build barns and sheds on high, well drained ground.

Relief Roll Inspections

Under the Jenner-Dirkson provision of the federal tax bill, states are relieved of the necessity of keeping the rolls secret in order to secure federal funds which help pay for the social security aid program. Under this provision, New Mexico and other states may alter their secrecy laws to permit public inspection of assistance rolls, provided that the state prohibits use of names for commercial or political purposes. This was brought out because of the situation which arose in Indiana, when legislation was enacted to remove secrecy provisions of the relief rolls, and the state was denied federal aid, as previously given. Under this federal enactment, Indiana and any other state which passes similar legislation cannot be denied their quota of federal relief money.—New Mexico Tax Bulletin.

Tax Rate Increases

The 1951 average property tax rate for New Mexico, as reported by the State Tax Commission, is $20.46 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This figure may be compared with the average tax rate of 1950 of $25.65. The increase of 80 cents per $1,000 was necessary, in spite of the increase of $37,651,971 in the total assessment for the state, from $603,654,930 in 1950 to $641,306,901 in 1951. The total amount of property taxes levied in 1951 is $16,969,097, as compared with $15,483,050 in 1950. It should be noted that the average tax rate includes $20 for state, county, school and municipal general purposes in each year, the excess over that figure being for debt service.—New Mexico Tax Bulletin.

The Bull Elk And The Poacher

Dear Poacher:
 Yes, Mr. Poacher, I mean you! The would-be sportsman who took his rifle into the woods, I would say, to pursue a bear or at least the law permitted you to hunt bear with a rifle on this fine September day about the 18th of the month, the day you shot and killed that big fine Bull Elk in the Jemez Mountains and left it lie to rot. Yes, you killed one of the largest and finest game animals that is held in trust by the state for the people or sportsmen. I wish to be corrected if I refer to you as a sportsman instead of a poacher or one who (poaches) trespasses upon preserves to shoot or steal game in the more appropriate name. You knew with no doubt in your mind that you were a poacher the minute you lifted your rifle to see that fine set of antlers out and upstretched from the head of this bull elk, you knew it was not a bear of either color or legal game, had you thought it was instead of severing its throat and taking the eye teeth or ivory as a souvenir from its mouth and leaving it lay, you would have completed the day's hunt by dressing this bull elk which would have dressed out about 500 to 550 pounds of delicious palatable meat and taken it to where you and your hunting partners were camped and then to your domicile. No, you knew a bear of either sex or color never grew such antlers. You placed the last bullet just two inches below the right antler at some 50 steps off a forest service trail.

Now to bring you up to date on this fine game animal that you stole by shooting it illegally; this animal was born and reared by a herd that was released in the Jemez Mountains about three and a half years ago. The bull was one of the first calves or one of the first reproductions which is most necessary after planting or reintroduction of any game animal to permit legal hunting at a future date. It is poachers like you who steal the increase or reproduction and retard the lawful shooting date for the true sportsman.

I am sure you got a lot of pleasure and a lot of reward from your fellow man, from your family at home or whomever you told of this unsportsman, unlawful act which you committed while hunting bear. Yes, you would have a thousand alibis and possibly tell a thousand lies about how this came about in order that the majority of sportsmen in the state would not look upon you as one who (poaches) steals game from them; or even the manufacturer that put that high-powered rifle in your hands or God that gave you strength to pull the trigger and eyesight to put the bead on the elk's head two inches below the right antler and the strength to carry you away from such a terrible scene. You should string those ivory teeth on a gold chain and display them around your neck in order that lawful sportsmen may congratulate you on being a good POACHER, a stealer of their game!

A person who has no regard for game laws or laws of nature, yes, you were scared and no doubt left the area leaving the animal for the buzzards and bear to eat in order that you might come back looking for another big bear with large outstretched antlers. It is suggested that you visit the zoo with your camera and look for the name on the pen gate of the animal inside or better yet call for the zoo keeper to help you identify a bull elk from a bear. Do this when no one else is at the zoo. Take photographs of a large bull elk and place them in front of the door size mirror at home taking that same rifle and drawing a bead two inches below the right antler then ask yourself "What do I see?" My guess will be a poacher, one who steals game.

In closing I want to be very fair and frank with you, if you feel that this version of your unlawful act is crippling and unfair, I will be more than happy to hear your side and your suggestions as to how it should be written or corrected. WOMAN'S WORLD

Start Sewing Early on Gifts for Approaching Holidays

By Etta Haley

STARTED MAKING a list for Christmas presents yet? Most of the lists have a way of growing while the budget shrinks.

Some presents like dresses, pinafors, bed jackets and coveralls are made to order...

Too much cannot be said for the personal touch you give presents.

If you plan to make many presents then do it on a schedule to speed the work.

Once you've started on a project, you get into the swing of making that particular item.

It's important, too, to have all essential materials on hand.

Pretty, ruffled trimmings...

have to make a trip for certain thread, trimming, hooks and eyes and such after you've started working.

Colorful Towels

Brides need towels, but so do older homemakers who find theirs are on their last few days of service.

Linen remnants can be utilized if you want lovely towels, but cotton from old sheets, pillow cases, flour and feed sacks can also be used.

If desired, make plain finishing.

Gift Pinafors

Make pinafors for the little ladies on your gift list to glad- den their hearts, as well as those of their mothers.

seams on the towels, and then run a band or two of rick rack, narrow band trimming or other trimming a little above the seam.

Dainty face and small hand towels may be hemmed, and then have a narrow edging of lace attached to them.

Monograms Personalize Any Type of Gift

Perhaps you've already made plain towels, or purchased some pillow cases, handkerchief or bridge table cov. r.

Monograms are available in transfer patterns which can easily be applied to any of the above items.

will please any girl.

Another way to apply monograms to buy felt monograms in the desired size and combination, one, two or three letters. Apply the stitching over these to cover the felt, and you have a nice, raised monogram.

Individualize Pinafors With Trimming Effects

If you have little nieces, granddaughters or neighbors' little girls in your circle who come in for presents, nothing would be nicer or more glamorous than pinafors.

It's easy to achieve the sweet, dainty effects with a ruffled attachment on the sewing machine.

Other trimmings which may be made with this same attachment, suitable for pinafors, include plaiting and sewing to the garment in one operation.

Other trimmings which are effective on little girls' pinafors include applique work, lace insertions and even narrow cordlike tuckings.

Make pinafors for the little ladies on your gift list to glad- den their hearts, as well as those of their mothers.

Be at their nicest, use sheet materials in the pinafors, as they will be worn over a simple dress during cooler months.

Add style to the simplest pinafore with wide bands which give them a luxurious look.

Chicago Is in Heart of Nation

THE BLESSINGS that we Americans inherit, and take so much for granted, culminate and effloresce and are symbolized and reach their heights in Chicago.

This is the American City—America of the Americans. Here we are in our glory; our whole incomparable story epitomized; past, present and future.

The glass of this magnificent lake reflected Indian canoes not so very long ago; the dust of covered wagons rose in these Bagdad streets.

One night in October of this year I met Chicago. I walked in a warm sunset to the cathedral and had supper in a restaurant on Chicago avenue near State street.

to most readily into big, pert bows that are so attractive.

Smocking Transforms Dresses Beautifully

Dainty and durable smocking is especially appropriate for little girls' dresses, and pinafors, as well. You'll find that machine smocking done with a gathering foot attachment is quickly applied.

It will iron and wash more easily than hand smocking, too, and any mother who has many dresses to launder will appreciate this feature.

Heavy-duty thread and embroidery silk in contrasting color will yield pleasing effects.

In doing smocking, remember to lengthen the stitch to seven or eight to the inch.

These Presents Will Please Women of All Ages

Career girl or homemaker will be pleased with an attractive apron or two.

Hand aprons in many styles can be made from about a yard of material. Percale or muslin is especially nice when it's touched with contrasting banding or scalloping in plain or print.

Army Hopes To See, Hear War of Future Through TV Camera

Television may be the future "eyes and ears" of the Army Signal Corps.

Experiments already are under way with a mobile television system capable of transmitting pictures from relatively remote field activities to military classrooms.

Use of TV cameras to put field generals in constant touch with their combat troops is within the realm of possibility—the day they can view the battlefield as their men attack may be not too far away.

Science's latest contribution to the field of communications is being studied diligently by the Army Signal Corps.

There are no immediate plans for tactical use of television but preparations are being made for an expansion of both its facilities and techniques.

The Signal Corps' new mobile television system is described by electronics engineers as one of the most complete stations ever mounted on wheels.

Housed in four special, 31-foot buses, the mobile station's equipment consists of three field TV cameras, 10 portable receivers, a large, life-size screen projector, inter-communication radio facilities, power units and complete microwave transmitting, monitoring and receiving equipment.

Present plans for the mobile TV station do not call for direct television broadcasting. Programs, however, will be "piped" from the field to military classrooms or to a broadcasting station via both microwave radio and co-axial cable.

Man Is Returned to Prison For Life at Own Request

WINONA, Miss.—Samuel McClure Walker, after nine years of freedom, is going back to prison to finish out a life sentence—at his own request.

Walker was convicted of murder in 1933 and sentenced to life imprisonment. He became a model prisoner and also aided greatly in the capture of an escaped prisoner. In 1942, he was granted a temporary suspension of sentence and returned to his home.

Recently he wrote Gov. Fielding Wright: "I have become addicted to alcohol. When drinking I am not responsible for my actions. I fear I may commit some act that would make me dangerous to myself or others."

Governor Wright revoked the suspension.

United States Healthiest Large Nation in the World

CHICAGO—The United States is the healthiest large nation in the world, and close to, if not ahead of, the healthiest of the small nations.

An article written by Frank G. Dickinson, Ph.D., director of the Bureau of Medical Economic Research of the A.M.A., states that "our rate of health progress, as shown by increasing life expectancy, is also greater than that of the other large nations and nearly all of the small nations.

The extent of our medical facilities is also a factor in this progress, the article reported.

"We have the greatest number of physicians per 100,000 population of any nation in the world except Palestine, where many of the refugee physicians do not make their living by practicing medicine," Dr. Dickinson wrote.

"Although we have chosen to spend only four cents in every dollar of our family budget for medical care, we seem to use our expenditures rather well."

Dr. Dickinson pointed out that although in Sweden only one-fifth of all births are attended by physicians there is an extremely low maternal mortality rate. However, he noted, that Swedish perinatal mortality is higher than in Sweden.

The former fact shows, the article concluded, "that physiological and environmental differences are important as well as differences in medical facilities. Yet, with the co-operation of engineering and other professions, medicine has produced remarkable health progress in the United States."

Girl Returns to Father Promise Made in Youth

MUNICH, Germany.—A 16-year-old girl who rode the "freedom train" through the Iron Curtain and wanted to stay, returned to her homeland to fulfill a promise.

Zsuzs Zyblora went back to Aachen because she had promised two teenage boys to join them in a flight to the West. She kept her promise as the three walked across the Czech border and asked for asylum.

Zsuzs had been a passenger on the train that Engineer Jaroslav Hlavacek brought across the border on an unusual short last September.

THE WHITE HOUSE

$5 Million Spent on Renovation Of Historic Executive Mansion

When President Truman and his family move back into their home at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue shortly after the first of the year, they will find the historic old White House a stronger, safer structure designed to last another century as the residence of the nation's presidents. During the 170 years of the renovation at a cost of well over $5,000,000 the architects and builders have been careful to preserve the traditional appearance of the White House both as to exterior and interior, so that to all intents and purposes the old mansion remains the same as it always has been in the minds and hearts of the American people. Four new bedrooms have been added, making the total number of rooms now 54. Only the strengthening of the basic structure has been concentrated upon; there has been no change in the architectural arrangement of the house. On the first floor, there are no great changes except in the state dining room, used only for official dinners. Formerly paneled in dark oak, this room is now painted a celadon green. An antique Hepplewhite four-legged dining table which seats 22 is a new addition. The private dining room, used by the President and his family, has Eberhard and Hepplewhite furniture in the 18th century tradition, most of which has been in use in the Blair House, temporary residence of the Truman family, during the reconstruction, but which is refinished and reupholstered and placed in the original location. In general, the first floor retains its air of simple dignity, while undergoing a strengthening of color throughout. The blue room, frequently called the prettiest in the house, is a deeper and more vibrant blue. The red room is a lighter red, not as dark and brown as before. The draperies are red-silk damask of 18th century design, and the same material is used to cover the walls. The only different note in the room is white damask used on a set of Hepplewhite chairs and a Chippendale wing chair. The walls and draperies of the green room are the same shade of striking emerald green and damask. Much of the furniture in this room had been in use in the Blair House. The green room had been redecorated and restored only a few months before the house was vacated. THE EAST ROOM, the largest in the White House, where Abigail Adams, wife of the first occupant hung her washing, is used only for state receptions. A white and lemon-gold silk damask has been woven from an old document characteristic of many used in the 18th century. This material is used for the draperies, replacing the old cranberry red silk ones. Here, too, hang the portraits of George and Martha Washington saved when the British burned the original building in 1812. The grand stairway to the second floor is entered from the main hall, rather than the secondary cross-hall as before the restoration. The marble floor, columns, pilasters, and wainscot of the main floor hall are new. A set of walnut framed Louis XIV benches have been installed. The hall is somewhat sparsely furnished, in keeping with its essentially plain architectural nature. The second floor is brighter and more informal. The Monroe room is furnished with its restored and refinished original pieces. The draperies here are of an 18th century print of fruits and flowers in rose and blue. This room is very simply furnished with a desk, bookcase, sofas and lounge chairs suited to its historical background. Having undergone a varied history and having been relegated to different rooms in the White House, the massive Victorian bed in which Abe Lincoln slept is once again the main feature of the Lincoln room on the second floor. Other pieces of furniture belonging to Lincoln are also used in the room, once Lincoln's study and where he signed the Emancipation Proclamation. While the treatment of the second floor for the most part expresses a spirit of informality, the third floor is even more informal. The third floor bedrooms are smaller and economy and simplicity have been sought in the process of their renovation. There are 17 full bathrooms and 16 half baths in the house. The original kitchen, on the ground floor of the White House, with its vaulted ceilings and stone fireplace has been replaced by a new and modern kitchen. The old kitchen will be used as a conference and broadcasting room. Here will be sofas and lounge chairs of more modern vintage but completely restored; together with an old pine table and large hutch built from old rafters of the house at the time the building was reconstructed in 1815-17. The main interior change is a strengthening of color throughout, and in contrast to this, the executive mansion will be a "whiter" White House.

STOP DUST STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD LANA TURNER'S autobiography. In the December Woman's Home Companion, is one of the frankest and most honest life stories ever written by an actress. After telling hitherto unpublished facts about her early life, she goes on to relate the truth about her marriages—to Artie Shaw, Steve Crane, and Bob Trapping. There is the tale of her walking across the stage and speaking one line in her first picture; she was horrified when she saw herself on the screen, but that appearance shot her into fame as The Sweater Girl. She pulls no punches, makes no apologies; the result is a story that holds interest from beginning to end.

THE FIREBUG By Daniel Shifren

Dr. Hawes made whipping motions his staff interpreted as, "Grab the extension, quick!" Saddle Pruitt lifted a phone; then Howitt Stevenson, Dr. Hawes' expert in things linguistic. Lieutenant Linstrum was saying, "Doc, against my better judgment, the commissioner and the rest of the boys thought you ought to be called in on this case." Dr. Hawes had been a psychiatrist until one of his cases caused him to see the application of psychology to criminal detection. "Lieutenant, don't tell me only the commissioner. How about the business men whose properties are endangered by this firebug? The Lieutenant's voice crackled. "The business men too!" Doc suppressed a laugh. "The case interests me. But first, your department lets the story out to the papers that Doc Hawes has been called in." The howl was just what Hawes expected. "Listen, Lieutenant, I like publicity, as you may have heard, but that doesn't matter here. I know these arsonists. Play ball or I can't be much help." Hawes observed the pleasant reactions of his staff, waiting for the silence to break. "Okay, Doc. I hope you know what you're doing." Stevenson had the tape recorder ready; the front-page story in the Chronicle was spread out. The walling was getting to be monotonous. Doc eyed the phone morosely. But this time it pealed. The stranger said, "Dr. Hawes, I've been an admirer of

Greenland's Iceberg Export Drops Behind

Greenland's largest export, icebergs, hit a new low this year when, of an output estimated at 10,000 to 15,000 bergs, none succeeded in reaching the crowded shipping lanes between North America and Europe. The largest Arctic icebergs take off from the continually advancing glaciers and icecap fringe of Greenland's west coast, says the national geographic society. In an average year about 400 of the great production survive an 1,000-mile southward drift before disintegrating in the warm Gulf Stream. This year no icebergs were reported below the 46th parallel along the southern tip of Newfoundland. Moving south through Baffin Bay and Davis Strait to Labrador, many of the crystal "castles" and plain "flattops" jam against the coast or are caught in the natural traps of islands and bays. A few swing into the Labrador current and continue southward. Some drift toward Belle Isle Strait and come move around Newfoundland by way of Grand Banks to invade main traffic arteries and threaten shipping. Major Arctic icebergs are produced by about 12 "name" glaciers. The Humboldt, near Thule, north of Cape York, is one that supplies outsize models. Mountains of ice a mile across and rising 200 feet above water have been reported, but the largest are puny compared to the 23-mile-long bergs sighted by Australian air reconnaissance in the Antarctic in 1946.

GRASSROOTS Great Britain Did Not Use Well Money U. S. Gave

By Wright A. Patterson FORTY-FIVE BILLION dollars of American tax payer's money have gone down the rat hole of British socialism, says Fulton Lewis, Jr., after a careful and thorough investigation in England. He found every war-devastated nation of Europe well-recovered, fully employed with production at prewar figures, with ambitious plans ahead for each nation generally and with their individual citizens, with the shops and stores well stocked with both the essentials and the luxuries of living. In England there was only unemployment, meagre supplies, rationed food, a lack of ambition, reduced production, an ever-increasing burden of debt. All of that, he says, is the result of the fact that this country has contributed to England more than five and a half times as much money as it has contributed to all the other war-devastated nations of Europe. England did not use the money so generously provided for the purposes for which we intended, the reconstruction of the war-devastated nations of that country, but did use it to finance the venture into socialist experiments which did not work. The wealth of England has been depleted without benefit to any class. The "something for nothing" of the Atlee labor government, in so far as it has worked at all, has been, as far as possible, through the money paid to the labor government public office. He does so only as a truly great American interested in the future of his country with the hope of defeating that greatest of all enemies that could threaten us—socialism. My guess is America will follow where he leads. It is our last chance for a continuance of the America we know and love. All of the wild, reckless and needless spending of the taxpayers' money is not confined to members of the congress in Washington. Some of the same disregard for the interests of the people may be found in the council chambers of our towns and cities, in the court houses of our counties, in the legislative halls of our state capitals. It may not be in sums of billions, or even millions, but small of large, as it may be, it is not the money of our elected officials that is being foolishly or needlessly spent, but ours, the people who elected them to office. Congress may be too far away for us to reach in any practical way, but that is not true of our town, county and even state officials. We see them at frequent intervals, and should not hesitate to call them to account for not seeking ways to economize, rather than only ways to spend. The chiselers on the relief rolls are so draining the wealth of the nation that it will not be long before there will be nothing with which to provide relief for those really entitled to consideration.

3-Minute Fiction

Why We Worship

Lesson for November 25, 1951
FEWER than two out of every three Americans belong to any church or synagogue. Yet the traveler across America is never long out of sight of some house of worship. With or without a cross, with or without a steeple, every few miles there will be a church of chapel or meeting-house, where like-minded people meet to worship the One God.

Dr. Foreman
Variety
It is amazing, the confusing variety of ways in which God is publicly worshipped. Some churches are liturgical; that is, the form of the service is prescribed, printed in a book, used with little change from generation to generation. Roman Catholic churches are of this kind (though there is a wide range of detail in the procedures of different Catholic churches); so are the Lutheran, the Reformed and the Episcopal churches, among others.

Other churches are non-liturgical, or free, in their mode of worship, varying all the way from churches with optional forms of worship on out to snake-handling sects like the "Church of God with Signs Following," where you never know one minute what is going to happen next.

The liturgical churches, too, are different as can be. Some liturgies are filled with chanting, incense, long and set easy for a stranger to follow. Other liturgies are brief and simple. The interiors of these various kinds of churches are just as different as the interiors of hotels—all the way from the elegant Waldorf-Astoria down to the ramshackle boarding house of a frontier town. The leader of the worship may be clad in vestments gorgeous in the extreme, or in a plain black gown, or dressed in shirt-sleeves.

The "man from Mars" would be so bewildered by all this that he would ask: Is there anything at all that these different kinds of worship have in common?

Communion
FOR an answer, we can go back more than 3,000 years to the time when Moses was organizing his people's worship as he organized the rest of their lives. You would hardly have recognized that little "tabernacle" in the wilderness as a place of worship at all; it looked like neither church nor synagogue. And what went on in the tabernacle would look strange to a Jew of today, stranger still to a Roman Catholic, stranger of all to a non-liturgical Protestant. And yet, what went on to make that tabernacle possible in the first place, and what went on in it afterwards, give us the answer to the question: What do all the innumerable forms of worship have in common?

First of all is communion with God. In true worship we become aware of Him; in the New Testament phrase, we "approach with boldness the throne of Grace." Worship is right when it actually brings the worshipper into a cleansing consciousness of the nearness of God,—when, indeed, he feels and knows that it is "in Him we live and move and have our being."

Not every one reaches this divine awareness in the same way.

Consecration
BUT there is another sign to worship: Consecration. However varied the order of worship may be, one part of it will be found nearly everywhere: the offering. This is actually one of the most important parts of the service, though it is often neglected and "skipped." For the offering is not only important in itself, but it is a great symbol of what worship ought always to be, a call to dedication.

Into the offering plate go bits of silver, green paper, checks . . . money? Yes, and more. This represents something of the life and work of the worshippers. Every man has some better moments when he would generously like to do something to help the world. On Sunday the church harnesses his vague good will. It gives him a channel for his generosity.

What a man gives ought never to be TO the church but THROUGH the church; it would be an expression of gratitude to God from one who knows that his whole life is God's gift.
