Shults-Lenard Vows Repeated Christmas Day

Vows were exchanged by Miss Elaine Shults and Alton M. Lenard, both of Carrizozo, Christmas afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride. Her father, Clyde A. Shults, an ordained minister, who also gave the bride away, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bridegroom, now in the service of the U. S. Navy, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lenard, and his wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Shults, all of Carrizozo. Decorations in the Shults home employed the Christmas motif.

The bride was lovely in a full skirted gown of white rayon moire with overskirt of nylon net and fashioned with round neckline, cap sleeves and shaped bodice. Underneath the ballerina length frock which fastened on the side, she wore a crinoline petticoat to give the skirt a bouffant effect. Her nylon net veil draped in graceful folds from a white moire cap outlined with blue and white sweet peas, which were also used to form her bridal bouquet. White brocaded satin slippers and long fingerless gloves of white moire completed her costume. Traditional accessories included a 40-year-old kerchief, belonging to Miss Roberta Key of this village, carried on the bride's white Rainbow Bible; a three-strand string of white pearls borrowed from the maid of honor, Miss Velda Lenard, Carrizozo; and the blue flowers in her shower bouquet.

Miss Velda Lenard, sister of the bridegroom, as the maid of honor wore a long waisted pink rayon moire formal with Peter Pan collar and cap sleeves. The bodice, over moire, was fashioned from lace of pink rayon on pure silk net. Underneath the gown, she wore a crinoline petticoat. A Juliet cap of pink lace over pink moire and white slippers completed her costume. White carnations formed her shower bouquet.

Pfc. Don Shults, brother of the bride, on furlough from the U. S. Air Force Base at Keester Field, Miss., was best man, and the ring bearer was Bobby Lenard, brother of the bridegroom, who carried the ring on a small pillow of white moire.

The wedding march was played by Miss Roberta Key who also accompanied Misses Connie Dean of Bingham and Birtha Shrum of Carrizozo as they sang "Because of You." Miss Key joined in the singing of that selection, and throughout the ceremony played "Because."

A reception was held at the Shults home immediately following the ceremony. The white four-tiered bride's cake which centered the table was outlined in green icing and red cherries and topped by a miniature bridal couple, used at the golden wedding anniversary, Jan. 15, 1941, of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sherrill of White Oaks, parents of "Friday" Sherrill of Carrizozo. Sandwiches, punch, mints and nuts were also served to the guests. Miss Velda Lenard caught the bride's bouquet.

The bridegroom, who is a graduate of Carrizozo High School, reports to his station in San Diego Jan. 2. The junior Mrs. Lenard, a member of the local Order of Rainbow, is vice president of the local senior high school class and a school photographer. She will graduate next May.

Following the reception, the couple left on a brief wedding trip.

Tax Reminder

Drivers' licenses are now due, and automobile licenses must be paid before March 1. Last, but not far from least, are the federal and state income taxes due in March and April, respectively.

Auto Accident Fatal To Ranch Employee

Pedros Rios, employed on a ranch near Capitan, succumbed at Fort Stanton Hospital about 1:20 A. M. Dec. 26 from injuries suffered apparently in a freak automobile accident about 4:30 P. M. Dec. 25. The medical report gave the cause of death as a cerebral concussion and inferential injuries. The accident occurred on a dirt road about one half mile from the Block ranch headquarters.

The sheriff's office reported the man apparently was run over by his own automobile. Officers said the man was alone at the time of the accident and they were unable to determine how it had occurred.

Passing motorists took Rios to Fort Stanton Hospital. It is reported that the deceased leaves a wife and children.

Another accident in Lincoln County which occurred over the holiday weekend was one early Saturday morning which involved four soldiers from Fort Hood, Texas, who were en route to California. The car in which the servicemen were riding failed to make a curve on Highway 230 about eight miles west of Carrizozo, and turned over several times. The men were taken to Holloman Air Force Base and the names and full extent of their injuries are not available.

Square Dance Festival Underway In Ruidoso

The square dance festival which opened in the Buffalo Room of the Navajo Lodge at Ruidoso, Dec. 22 will continue through Dec. 31. Guests will dance to the music of Shirley Brothers, western band from Clovis, with members of the various square dance clubs as callers.

High point of the dancing festival was the free game dinner served on Christmas Day at the Navajo Lodge. Hunters of Ruidoso provided the game which was cooked and served by employees of the lodge. Ruidoso residents furnished the side dishes.

Visitors in Ruidoso were also offered a variety of recreational entertainment. Chamber officials stated the square dance festival will be an annual event if financial receipts for the 1951 project indicate justification.

Capitan Man Reported On Red POW List

Pfc. Margarito Trujillo, son of Mrs. Zenobia H. Trujillo, Capitan, is reported as one of 26 New Mexico men who are being held in a Communist prison camp. U. S. government authorities earlier warned the American people that the list of prisoners as released by the enemy is not official, and that every effort would be made to ascertain its authenticity.

Relatives of the missing men will be notified individually as the list is confirmed, and it is requested that no inquiry be made regarding the present list in order that the process of checking it may be speeded up.

Health Department Issues Warning On New Sanitation Laws

Representatives of the State Health Department were in Carrizozo Dec. 20 in connection with the new law passed by the 1951 State Legislature, effective June 9, 1952, which provides for the regulation of food establishments, methods of sanitation, cleanliness of employes, inspection, enforcement and penalties for violation. The law also prohibits the sale of adulterated, unwholesome or misbranded food or drink. Representatives who were in Carrizozo, as well as other communities throughout Lincoln County, to do some of the bacteria examinations and explain the workings of the new law to owners of establishments who will be subject to compliance with its provisions included L. J. Gordon, Santa Fe, state food sanitarian; Lee Peek, state sanitarian for the district which includes Lincoln County and whose headquarters is the District Health Department at Las Cruces, and Warren Powell, who is with the mobile bacteriological laboratory now stationed in Alamogordo.

Peek explained the new law will require state-wide grading of all restaurants, bars, fountains and meat markets. Those establishments, he said, which fail to meet either Grade A or B requirements will have 30 days in which to make the necessary improvements. Establishments graded C will have no longer than 30 days in which to conform. The district sanitarian reported the mobile laboratory unit in Alamogordo has been doing surface counts of bacteria on all eating and drinking utensils in order to determine the efficiency of dishwashing operations. This, he added, is being done as an aid to restaurant operators preparatory to when the new law becomes effective. The laboratory is also running tests on milk and milk products to determine if they are up to Grade A quality. The mobile unit is expected to remain in Alamogordo for the next month.

Peek also revealed that Ryan Pierson, senior bacteriologist with the laboratory, is available to show films and talk to civic groups which might be interested.

The sanitarian reported their survey indicates a certain percentage of Lincoln County establishments do not as yet meet Grade A or B requirements.

Santa Makes Annual Visit To Carrizozo

Santa Claus made his expected appearance in Carrizozo Saturday afternoon at Plaza Park much to the enthusiasm and delight of the small fry (and some not so small) of Lincoln County. Santa's pre-Christmas visit in Carrizozo is an annual tradition sponsored by the local Lions Club.

Approximately 500 sacks of fruit, nuts and candy were distributed to a large crowd of youngsters who were on hand early in eager anticipation of the coming of jolly old St. Nicholas. Santa had a word of cheer for all the youngsters, who regarded him with varying degrees of emotion. One small boy was very emphatic in his instructions to Santa regarding his deliveries on Christmas Eve, swinging back a couple of times to make sure Kris Kringle thoroughly understood his desires. The tot's thrilled reception of Santa Claus and their happiness over his gifts were heart warming sights.

The local Lions Club, responsible for this yearly event, is delighted with the success of their project, but are determined to make it even bigger and better next season.

Christmas Day was spent at the home of the junior Mrs. Zumwalt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Stephenson of the I-Bar-X ranch.

Heart Attack Fatal To Early Day Coronan

By MRS. A. E. MULKEY
A resident of Lincoln County for 50 years, Joe Willingham, 78, died suddenly of a heart attack Thursday, Dec. 13, in Corona. Funeral services were held Sunday, Dec. 16, at 2 P. M. at the Corona Baptist Church with Rev. D. H. Peoples officiating. Pallbearers were W. A. Maya, Alex Jenkins, L. K. Merritt, John Hamilton, Carl Hiner and J. M. Shelton. Interment was in Corona Cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, Emma of Corona; his son, Alton, of Gila Bend, Ariz., and two daughters, Mrs. Aileen Roper and Mrs. Gertrude Watson, of Corona, as well as five grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Lulu Allon of El Paso and Mrs. Jesse Corn of Campbell, Calif. Survivors also include several nieces and nephews.

The deceased was born May 28, 1873, at Cleveland Parish, La. At the age of nine he and his parents moved to Midland, Texas, where he grew to manhood. He first came to New Mexico in 1901, looking for range land for his cattle, which he found near Corona. He made several trips back to Texas and rode on the first passenger train ever to come to Corona.

In 1903 he married Miss Emma Wimberly. The newlyweds traveled to Corona in covered wagons and, in two separate trips, brought in 2,000 head of cattle. In 1904 they were permanently located 10 miles east of Corona. At that time, however, there were no fences, and the cattle had to be herded both day and night. The Willinghams lived in tents for about five years, trying to find water for their cattle in a number of places. Finally, a well was dug, water found and a house built about 1909 on their ranch, where they lived until 1945 when they sold out to Clarence Griffin and bought the Tom DuBols place in Corona. The ranch was later sold to J. P. Kennedy, and recently to R. C. Chandler, its present owner. Four children were born to the Willinghams.

Attending the funeral services were one niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Blackburn of Pueblo, Colo., and three nephews and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DuLaney of Fort Hancock, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Willmer Willingham and their daughter, Barbara, of Las Cruces, and Mr. and Mrs. Wyn W. Willingham of Amarillo, Texas.

Mr. Willingham was a charter member of the Corona Baptist Church, a member of the Woodman Lodge for the past 33 years. He served on numerous local election boards and was active in other community affairs. He was a loving husband and father, a kind neighbor, true friend and loved and respected by all who knew him.

Your Christmas Tree

In this modern day when synthetic products are taking the place of most all the old fashioned stand-bys, it warms the heart to know that a substitute for the Christmas tree has not been discovered.

Twenty-eight million earth grown trees brighten the homes in the United States this Christmas, giving seven out of 10 families the lovely fragrance of an evergreen.

Most historians trace the origin of the use of the Christmas tree to Martin Luther, a religious leader who lived in Germany during the 16th century.

Today, thousands of acres are planted for the prime purpose of growing Christmas trees. Cutting usually starts as soon in the fall as the sap has run to the roots.

Through most of our trees come from the Northeast and Northwest, the little town of Eureka, Montana, in the Rockies claims to be the Christmas tree capital of the world.

Have you ever sat before your radiant tree and wondered just how or why people first started using the various ornaments? The lights are a symbol of knowledge in Christendom.

RTA Meetings Planned For January 7

Two meetings are planned in Lincoln County on Jan. 7 to organize membership in a Rural Telephone Association.

One of the Lincoln County meetings will be held in the Hondo-Ruidoso Valley and the other is tentatively planned for Capitlan.

At the Hope meeting, it was revealed regulations of the Rural Telephone Authority in Washington have been revised to make it more feasible for rural people to have modern dial system telephone service.

Paul Frost, manager of the Central Valley Electric Cooperative with headquarters in Artesia, and a former telephone company executive, told the gathering he had conferred with officials of the REA and RTA in Washington and had been assured they would give every help and consideration possible to those in this area who are sincerely interested in receiving telephone service under the RTA.

Mr. Frost explained that good communications are considered a part of national defense and that Washington is anxious rural areas have modern telephone service. He also stated the large telephone companies are cooperating in every way possible with the rural telephone movement. Materials will be made available, Frost stated, after a loan is granted. The loan depends upon the interest shown in bringing the service into a rural area.

The meetings are held for the purpose of explaining in detail the rural telephone program and, more important, for the signing of applications for telephone service.

The signing of the applications by every person who is interested in receiving telephone service is important for two main reasons: First, because the more applications that are presented to Washington from a given area, the more prompt and thorough consideration will be given a loan for telephone service.

Second, because the construction of a telephone network is such that the plans must be made at the beginning to make the coverage as complete as possible. That is, plans should be made from the start to serve all those who need, or are going to need later on, the telephone service.

Mr. Frost and Mr. William Sigenthaler, attorney for the cooperative, are planning to leave for Washington late in January to present in person the applications to the REA and RTA officials. Therefore, a concerted effort to sign as many members as possible will be made following the Jan. 7 meetings.

Miss Dorothy Kerr, teacher in Espanola, and her two sisters, Misses Julia and Martha Kerr, teachers at Corona, spent the Christmas holidays at their home in Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jarnaght, pioneers of this section, sent greetings to all their friends in Corona from Tucson, Ariz., where they have recently moved. They are operating an auto court there. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jenkins have leased the Corner Feed and Grocery Store, formerly operated by the Jarnaghts here. Mr. Jenkins was recently retired from the State Highway Department.

The pupils of Corona school presented a fine Christmas program Wednesday, Dec. 19. The stage settings and lighting were most effective as the Christmas story was related in reading and song. The program was under the direction of Miss Leota Agee, music teacher, with Lonnie Welch as narrator and Sally Mae Pfeiffer at the piano.

Jack Parker, son of Supt. and Mrs. L. Parker, was home from El Paso for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Bledsoe and daughter, Maudine, have moved to the Bonito Ranch where Mr. Bledsoe is employed.

Jimmie Strickland, Carl Mays, Bob and Tarlton Bond are among those college students who are home for the holidays.

The Corona Presbyterian Choir under the direction of Mrs. L. Parker, presented its annual Christmas cantata Sunday evening, Dec. 10, and a Christmas program was presented at the church Sunday morning, Dec. 23.

The Corona Presbyterian Church has installed 20 new pews, enough to fill its auditorium. The pews are made of gumwood and stained red to harmonize with the red cedar ceiling and furniture of the church.

There will be a New Year's party at the Baptist Church Monday night, Dec. 31. All are welcome. Members of both the Baptist and Presbyterian churches went caroling Christmas Eve.

Mrs. A. H. Simmons, mother of (1) S. Simmons of Corona, is seriously ill at her home in Encino.

Jimmie Barnett is home from Cisco State College at Cisco, Texas, for the Yule holidays. His classmate, Bobby John Huffmyer, White Oaks, is also home for the holiday vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. George Dingwall and Mrs. Edith Crawford were the guests of Mrs. Crawford's son, Buster Anderson, and family, at Las Cruces during the holiday.

Another family Christmas dinner was that held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carl with guests including Mr. Carl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Carl; the junior Mrs. Carl's father, C. C. McVicker; Mrs. R. A. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Carl and son, Melvin, of Tularosa. Alvin Carl is a brother of Leo Carl.

FORT STANTON

Home with the William Browns for the holidays are their sons, Ergal, his wife and baby Bonnie, and Billy Dale.

Visiting the Womacks for the Christmas holidays are their daughter and her husband, the George Cantells of Dallas, and their two boys, their son L. T. Womack and his wife, Ruth, another son, Emmett Jr. and his wife, Rosie; Mrs. Womack's mother, Mrs. Goode, and friends, Bob Reik of Odessa and Miss Shirley Carter of Abilene, Texas.

Danna Kuslanovich is home from the university at Albuquerque and Nancy Payman from Loretto Academy at El Paso.

Alfred Sanchez arrived home on leave from the Navy. Alfred has been stationed aboard the aircraft carrier Boxer and has spent the last nine months in Korean waters. Alfred has the rating of yeoman second class.

Henry Sanchez Jr., wife and child are also with their parents for Christmas.

The annual Fort Stanton Christmas party was held on the night of Dec. 21. Due to conditions of the roads several of the entertainers failed to make the party. However, those that came out gave a splendid performance which was enjoyed and appreciated by the patients. Representing the spiritual side were Rev. R. E. Dickenson of Carrizozo, Rev. Wendell Chino of Mesquero and Father Moline of Fort Stanton. Lloyd P. Bloodworth of Ruidoso was master of ceremonies. Music was supplied by the Coe orchestra. The persons responsible for the many donations of food and labor are to be highly commended.

Enough Christmas goodies were donated to take care of all the patients here at Fort Stanton, with enough left over to supply bags for hospitalized patients, recently arrived from Korea, at William Beaumont Hospital, El Paso, and a Christmas box for each Lincoln County man in the service.

The Dan Kuslanovichs held open house for their friends at Fort Stanton and in Lincoln County on Dec. 25 from 6 to 8 P. M.

On Dec. 21 the medical officer in charge, Dr. Carl J. Mankinen, presented certificates of award and service emblems to a large group of employees. A more detailed account will appear elsewhere in this issue.

Carl E. Nees, Lincoln County Democratic chairman, made the trip to Albuquerque to take in the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner held at the Ice Arena on Wednesday, Dec. 19. Nees reports a large turnout and that Senator Kerr delivered one of his splendid speeches.

PERSONALS

A note from Mrs. Elizabeth Lindley, Dexter, states Mrs. Mayo Barton McTelguc of Pecos, student at Highlands University at Las Vegas, attended the Christmas prom at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Gallacher Sr., their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Shafer, and the latter couple's son, Malcolm Scott Shafer, spent Christmas with Mrs. Gallacher's sister, Mrs. Max Scheff, and her family at Silver City.

Yuletide greetings to their friends in Lincoln County have been received in a message from Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burke and son, Lewis, of Medford, Ore. The sender Mr. Burke is a former publisher of the Carrizozo Outlook.

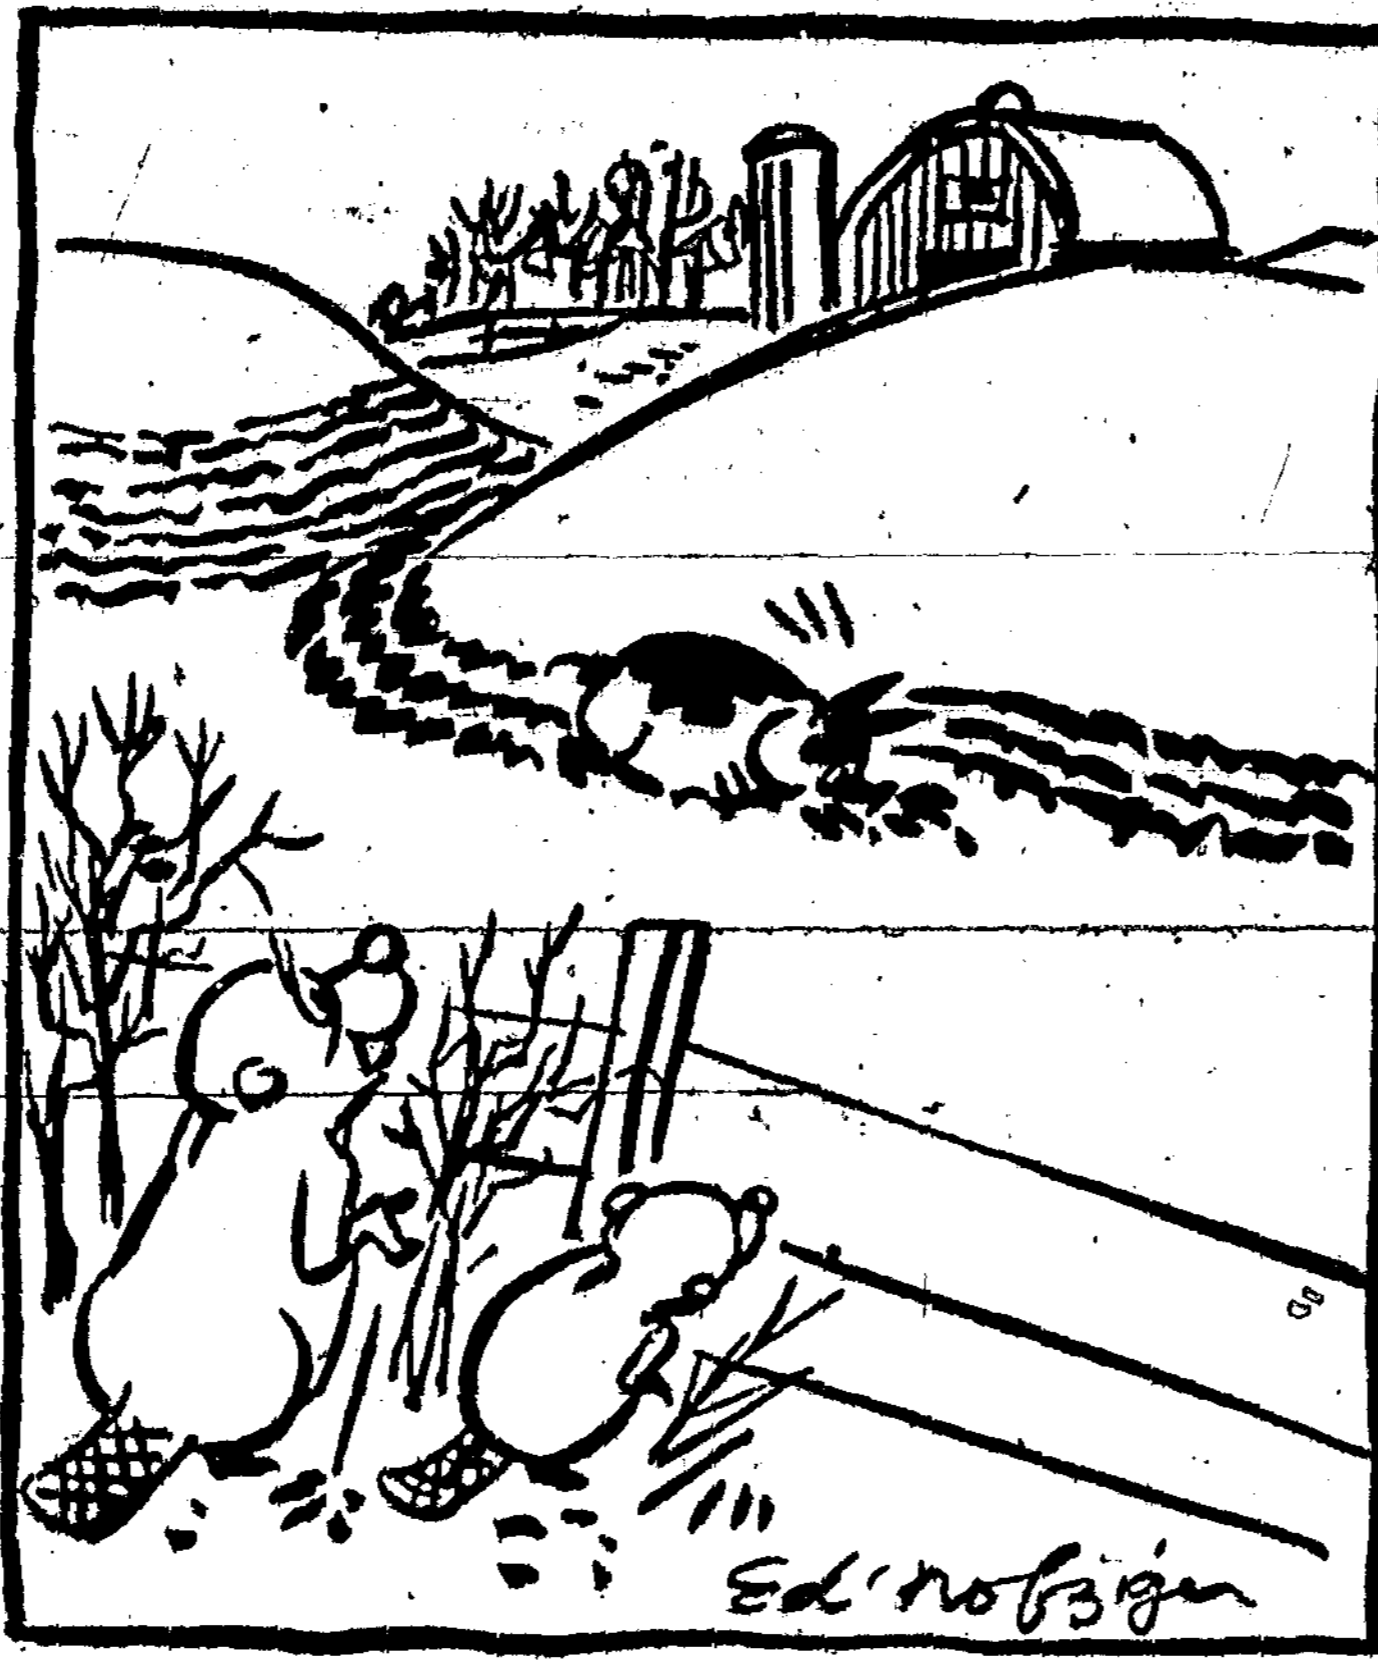

Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Barnum of Wichita, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor of Duncan, Ariz., and Mr. and Mrs. Homer McDaniel of Alamogordo were the holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Barnum. Caleb Barnum and Mrs. Taylor are a brother and sister of the local man, while Mr. McDaniel is his daughter, the former Shirleen Barnum.

A family dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Harkey on Christmas Day. Guests included their son, Fay Harkey and his family; their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Petty and her family; and son, Jack Harkey and his wife. Another guest was John Bragg, who is making his home with the senior Harkeys while he is attending school here.

Pfc. Roy Dow, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dow, is home on furlough from Stillwater, Okla., where he is taking clerical training at A. & M. College. He reports back on Jan. 5. Other guests of the senior Dows over the holidays were their sons, Ralph Dow and his wife, Arthur Dow and wife, all of Albuquerque, and Sam Dow and wife of Grady, N. M.

LAKE FRAZIER

Lake Frazier Announces Governor Candidacy

Roswell's mayor, Lake J. Frazier, formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last week. He stated he would seek a place on the Democratic ballot by petition if he is not nominated at the pre-primary convention.

A native Pennsylvanian, but a resident of New Mexico for 26 years, Frazier is a graduate of Lafayette College, the University of Virginia and Georgetown University Law School. He was admitted to the Virginia bar in 1922 and to the New Mexico bar in 1927.

Although Frazier has not yet divulged the details of his platform, he stated he is in favor of improved highways, adequate control over utility and fire insurance rates, establishment of state departments of labor and agriculture, and increased home rule for communities of the state. He believes that New Mexico's highway system is to a large extent obsolete and that much highway construction must be done at the earliest possible moment. Other points made by the Roswell mayor include: (1) A state department of labor to see that labor laws are properly enforced and assist in settlement of disputes between employees and employer; (2) a state department of agriculture to give farmers necessary information for greater freedom and productivity as the present extension service cannot meet requirements without additional help and facilities; (3) state's growth has outmoded many municipal laws.

Frazier added that the Roswell cost of municipal government is $1.10 per month per person as compared to the national average of $2.87, but that the wages paid Roswell municipal employees compare favorably with the national average.

The Fraziers have two children, Mrs. Kermit E. Shotts of Roswell and Lake, Jr., a student at New Mexico Military Institute of Roswell. The gubernatorial candidate has held various offices in civic and fraternal organizations including: past judge advocate of the Department of Mexico American Legion and past commander of the Roswell post; past chapter commander and past department commander for New Mexico of Delta Theta American Veterans, and past president of Roswell Kiwanis Club. He is also district chancellor for New Mexico of Delta Theta Phi law fraternity; member of the Masonic Lodge; Knights of Templar; 32nd Shrine; the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; Woodmen of the World; Elks; and Sons of the American Revolution. He is a member of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at Roswell; served as probate judge of Chaves County from 1931 to 1932; assistant district attorney for the Fifth Judicial District from 1933 to 1939. He is currently president of the Municipal League of New Mexico.

WSCS Meets

The Women's Society of Christian Service met Dec. 19 at the home of Mrs. L. Z. Manire. Mrs. Marshall Powell was in charge of the program of Bible study.

Refreshments of "tiny tree breads" and coffee were served by the hostess to Mesdames Fred Karlin of Los Alamos, Ace Baty, Dee McDaniel, F. O. Brown, Lee Carl, Marshall Powell and Miss Frances Degner, all of Carrizozo.

The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 2 at the home of Mrs. Ace Baty when members will discuss plans for the White Mountain zone meeting to be held here Jan. 9.

A goal of 18 million bales of cotton has been set for 1952—the same as the goal for 1951—but indications now are that increased yields will be necessary for achievement of this goal.

LINCOLN

By MRS. J. E. PHILLIPS

The Christmas party for the patients in the Fort Stanton hospital on Friday evening, Dec. 21, was apparently a success. Everyone seemed to be having a good time. The people promoting this party, an annual affair, deserve much credit for the hard work they do in order to bring Christmas cheer to the boys who are so far from home.

Jim and Jean Luna of Roswell are spending the Christmas holidays in Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Womack and sons of Albuquerque spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hulbert.

Mrs. Annie Ramey and Maurilda and Barbara McGrew went to Ruidoso Christmas Day to visit Mrs. Mildred Ramey and children, and attend the big dinner and Christmas party at Ruidoso. They say they had a wonderful time.

The Roy Rameys came over from Socorro on Christmas Eve to wish all the family a Merry Christmas.

Mrs. Ruth Martin had all of her family home for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Reidy and children came from Holbrook, Ariz., and Ruth Penfield from El Paso.

Mrs. Maggie Pflingsten had Christmas dinner with her family at the home of Bill and Betty Shreengost, near Hondo.

Jonnie Amastae, Margaret and Ruth Jo Reidy and Barbara McGrew went to the community Christmas tree at Fort Stanton Sunday evening. Santa was very nice to everyone.

Our Lincoln school presented a very enjoyable program last Wednesday evening. There just isn't anything much nicer than a group of children performing. Each one did his part so well that Santa Claus came in after the program to bring each of them a bag of candy and nuts. Also, the VFW ladies from Captain gave each child a treat.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Welsh and family of Logan and Mrs. Margaret Hendricks and Bryan Hendricks of Albuquerque spent several days with "the Phillips." Christmas Day, Joe and Margaret Phillips and children, Ronnie, Claudia and Joanne; Mrs. Eliza Phillips, Richard Phillips and Jimmy Wright came up from Roswell.

Robert Hinchey went to Albuquerque for the Christmas holidays. Mrs. Helen Meeks had Christmas dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers and Will.

Little Patsy and Jerry Zamora are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cristobal Zamora.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Dockray and children spent last weekend at the Gipsen ranch. I guess they met up with Santa Claus over there for Dixie came back with a beautiful doll and Kay said he had some new socks.

Several ladies helped with the big Christmas dinner served at the school house Thursday, Dec. 20. They tell me it was a wonderful dinner—turkey and everything.

Rosa and Emello Zamora are home from Las Cruces for the holidays and Lucio is also home, on leave from his station in San Diego.

Max Sedillo is home on his first furlough since he joined the Navy. They must be taking good care of him, judging by the way he looks.

Joe Gomez is still on furlough and Orlando Sanchez was home for Christmas.

Barbara Armstrong is still in the hospital at Fort Stanton, but we hope she had a Merry Christmas.

Happy New Year!

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our deep appreciation to all our friends for their kindness and thoughtfulness at the death of our loved one.

Mrs. Joe Willingham and son, Alton, and grandson, Jay; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roper and children; Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Watson.

C. E. Shaw Named Mortician Assistant

The new assistant at the T. E. Kelley Funeral Home, Carrizozo, is Clarence E. Shaw, Carlsbad. Mr. Kelley stated Shaw will relieve him of much of the detail work in connection with the operation of the mortuary.

Although the new assistant comes to Carrizozo from Carlsbad, he is a native of Mountainair, N. M. He attended schools there and graduated from Gup-ton-Jones College of Mortuary Science at Nashville, Tenn., in 1949. He received his license to operate in New Mexico in August of that same year.

During World War II, Shaw, who was a corporal in the U. S. Air Force, was stationed at various posts throughout this country. He received an honorable discharge in February, 1946. Carrizozo's new comer was married to Miss Josephine Jackson, Socorro, in that village on Dec. 22, 1945. The couple have two daughters, Dierdre, aged 4, and Deborah, 17 months old.

NOGAL MESA

By DOROTHY GUCK

Christmas morning we awoke in a thick fog that must have given Old Santa a hard time. But he always seems to find his way to every home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford came out for Christmas Eve with Leota and Peg Pflingsten. The latter had Christmas dinner at the Schreengost home at Hondo.

Lyda and Henry Peebles journeyed to Fort Stanton for dinner with the Bill Goulds and Mrs. Peebles' mother, Mrs. Ora Hicks, who had just returned from Michigan.

Chipe and Gill Peters had the LaMoyné Peters family and the Joe Wigleys as Christmas guests.

At the station, my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gray of Glen-coe, helped make the day a merrier one.

Had a note from former ranger and wife, Tom and Lois Buchanan, who are now farming in Thomas, Okla. Tom says wheat prospects look good and he's feeding cattle recently purchased. Katrina is as tall as her mother.

The L. W. Pattisons are living in a brand new station at Heber, Ariz.

The Dean Earls went to Kansas for the holidays.

And if you care for old ranger news that goes way back, my brother, Gordon Gray and family, are still enjoying work with the Forest Service in Washington, D. C.

Hope 1952 brings more rain, more happiness and skips all birthdays past 21.

Precipitation Group Signs "Pay As It Rains" Contract With Krick

A contract between the Precipitation Research Corporation of New Mexico and the Water Resources Development Corporation, Denver, which is headed by Irving P. Krick, has been signed. The New Mexico organization was originally formed by a group of Lincoln County ranchers, but now includes eight other counties. T. A. Spencer Jr. of Carrizozo, one of its officers, told the News-Outlook recently that the southeastern New Mexico rainmaking group expects good results from the program during the coming year. The area to be covered starts at Bellview, N. M., continues westward along the south boundaries of Quay and Guadalupe Counties to the west boundary of the latter county, then north to Highway 60 and west along that highway to Mountainair, continuing south to Anthony with the south and east boundaries of the area the New Mexico state line.

Operations will be conducted at every favorable seeding opportunity during the 12-month period from Dec. 1, 1951, to Dec. 1, 1952, and payment will be based on the benefits received. Benefits will be computed from precipitation observed at official U. S. Weather Bureau stations, and will be computed separately for each county which lies totally or partially within the operational area. Benefits will be gauged monthly by averaging the available monthly precipitation totals at official U. S. Weather Bureau stations in or near the county. Stations in Lincoln together with those in a portion of Socorro County, adjacent to this county, are located at Ancho, Bonito Dam, Capitan Carrizozo, Corona, Fort Stanton, Claunch and Farnsworth. The last two stations named are located in Socorro County.

No monthly payment is due from any county unless precipitation exceeds the median precipitation of record for that county, and median precipitation is defined as the average, weighted by the number of years of available record, of the medians for the individual stations. The median precipitation for any given station and any given month represents the amount of precipitation which has been equaled or exceeded 50 per cent of the time in the past. Payment due for precipitation amounts between median and 150 per cent of median shall be computed by dividing the maximum payment by 50 and multiplying by the percentage by which median precipitation

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Capehart Amendment Allows Price Increases on Thousands of Items

HERE WE GO—With a sigh of "here we go again", home town housewives across the nation learned the Capehart amendment to the controls law is effective immediately.

Under this amendment manufacturers and processors are allowed to use their pre-Korea prices and add or subtract cost increases or decreases through last July 25 in computing new ceilings.

There is just one possible hope for the consumer. Manufacturers are not required to seek new ceilings, but are allowed to do so.

Among the items affected by the new order are wool and cotton yarns and fabrics, knit fabrics, liquor and wine, lumber and millwork, crude oil, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and many other processed foods.

Price Director Michael V. Di Salle has warned congress that prices "apparently are rising again and it would be a dangerous risk to decontrol any major item now.

FOOD PRICES—While the OPS was announcing possible future price increases, the Bureau of Labor Statistics revealed that its latest index on food prices indicated an increase of nearly 1 per cent since its previous report.

The bureau pegged the price index at 231.2. That placed it 131.2 per cent above the 1935-39 average and 14 per cent above June, 1950.

Leading the advance were fruits and vegetables, and dairy products, including milk, cheese and butter. Meats, poultry and fish declined, as did fats and oils.

TRUCE TALKS—The drawn-out, frustrating Korean peace talks continue with the two sides deadlocked over supervision of the truce and the Reds refusing to open discussions on the exchange of prisoners.

Perhaps the most significant news from the truce talks is that the negotiations have entered the sixth month. It is almost inconceivable that two parties can talk for five months without agreement.

TRUMAN—President Truman cut short his Florida vacation and returned to Washington. The President hastened to assure the public that no sudden world emergency dictated his return.

It was obvious two things were uppermost in the President's mind: (1) The deadlocked Korean truce talks, and (2) the still-developing tax scandal.

It was considered unlikely there would be any public announcement concerning decisions on the Korean situation until those decisions had been carried out. The tax scandal, however, was another matter.

The President and those surrounding him have become more and more concerned with the developments (see blow) in the tax fix probe. White House intervention, even the calling in of J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, to conduct a sweeping investigation, appeared to be a likely prospect.

MRS. F.D.R.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, one of the most controversial figures to appear on the American scene, came under attack of Archbishop J. Francis A. McIntyre for "assuming the role of an agnostic and fatalist".

Mrs. Roosevelt said on a radio program recently: "I don't know whether I believe in a future life. . . I came to feel that it didn't really matter very much because whatever the future held you'd have to face it when you came to it, just as whatever life holds you have to face it in exactly the same way.

"I think I am pretty much of a fatalist. You have to accept whatever comes, and the only important thing is that you meet it with courage and with the best that you have to give."

The archbishop said he considers it "a strange situation that one who is chairman of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, on the question of religion, assumes the role of an agnostic and fatalist."

DEFENSE—Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett has announced that a provision for increasing the Air Force from 80 to 143 wings—126 of them combat—will be in the 1953 fiscal year budget now being prepared and which will be presented to congress early next month.

The actual size of the defense budget has not been announced, but it is believed to be within an informally set ceiling of $43,000,000,000 for the entire military establishment.

Congress appropriated a total of $39,403,294,000 for the Army, Navy, Air Force and the Office of the Secretary of Defense for the present fiscal year, exclusive of foreign military aid.

The present 80 wings of the Air Force—their size varies from about 73 planes for fighter units to 30 for heavy bombers—are not modernized since they are in many instances made up of aircraft such as the B-29 and B-50. These planes are World War II vintage and must be replaced.

TAX FIX—The House Ways and Means subcommittee graft in the Revenue Department was blown wide open by the charge of Abraham Tettelbaum that two men claiming friendship with federal officials tried to shake him down for $500,000 with promises of a "tax fix".

Tettelbaum, a wealthy Chicago lawyer, further identified as attorney for the Capone family in some of their legal troubles, swore that Bert K. Nasser, Hollywood, Fla., businessman, and Frank Nathan, Pittsburgh, led him to believe that they knew of a Washington clique which was on the lookout for "soft touches".

Nasser and Nathan both vigorously denied the charge, but Attorney General Howard McGrath ordered a grand jury investigation of charges.

As far as the people in the home towns are concerned, the charges and Senate continue to throw a darker shadow across the Internal Revenue Bureau, under fire since the dismissal of Assistant Attorney General Theron Caudle by President Truman. And the deeper the investigating committee digs the more dirt that is likely to be uncovered.

There is no doubt now that the echo of this investigation will be heard in the election campaign of 1952.

Crime in America

How the Laws Are Enforced In Up-State New York

As the Senate Crime Committee trailed the national crime syndicate across the country, evidence everywhere pointed in some way to New York City. America's largest metropolis, nerve center for much of its financial and industrial life, also was a nerve center of the underworld.

Our New York investigation, however, was not confined to the city itself. Months earlier we had conducted closed sessions in Manhattan, probing the workings of a vicious New York-New Jersey gambling ring and the flagrant operation of gambling establishments upstate at Saratoga Springs.

One result was that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who had refused to go to Manhattan to see the Committee, convened a special grand jury to investigate the Saratoga conditions.

In Bergen County, New Jersey, just across the Hudson River from New York City, gambling had become so notorious that there finally had been a partial crackdown.

At the time of our hearings, only Anthony Guarini, who seemed to have been the front man for the ring, had been sent to jail. After our hearings, however, gambling indictments were returned against Joe Adonis, Salvatore (Solly) Moore, Arthur Longano and James (Piggy) Lynch.

We questioned a Newark (N. J.) certified public accountant, George Goldstein, who seemed to perform the same functions for East coast mobsters that attorney Eugene Bernstein performed for the Chicago-Capone syndicate. He acknowledged that for some years he has handled tax returns for "the New Jersey gambling partnerships."

Profits from these various companies were shared by Guarini, James Rutkin, Adonis, Gerald Catena, Salvatore Moretti, and Lynch. Actually, there is no way of telling exactly how much they took in, as Goldstein admitted he made out tax returns from figures which were not based on any real audit. But one gambling company alone admitted to gross receipts of $180,000 in its 1945-46 tax return.

Still another business-like facet of the gamblers was their method of converting into cash the sizable checks taken from their victims. Max Stark—since sent to jail—was "check casher" for the mob. Daily, he would bring to the small Merchants Bank of New York City some 60 to 70 checks signed by losers at the casinos. Over six months, the checks came to about $3,000,000. Stark, conveniently, had become a stockholder in the bank; he owned 10 per cent of the bank's stock.

Another New Jersey operator examined by the Committee was Willie Moretti. The 60-year-old older brother of Salvatore Moretti was—and is—a big-time gambler, and, more lately, part-owner of a big laundry and linen supply company. Willie let slip a great many scraps of information about the East coast mob.

Willie's talkativeness, apparently, was not an isolated phenomenon. When rockets boss Frank Costello was testifying months later, Rudolph Halley quoted transcripts of telephone wire taps, legally obtained, which showed that Moretti called Costello "chief," and that Costello told him ". . . Rest and don't call me so much. . . Don't talk too much, you know. . . Costello insisted he was just giving a little friendly health advice to a sick friend.

We took Willie through a list of leading gangsters, and with only a few exceptions, he knew them all. Halley: Aren't these people. . . what you would call rackets boys? Moretti: Jeer, everything is a racket today.

Halley: These people come from a great many different cities around the country. . . How do you get to meet all of these people. . . ? Moretti: Well, you go to race tracks and you go to Florida, and you meet them; and the man that is well known meets everybody; you know that.

Halley asked him if he belonged to any political clubs. "I don't belong to any. I am a bi-partisan," Moretti answered. The incredible gambler went on to boast that he didn't "operate politically"—that, if he did, he might have become a member of Congress—"maybe sitting where you are."

What about some old charges filed by an established competitor, a laundry in the same Jersey area, that Moretti was taking business away from them by "strong-arm" methods? It was all a lie, Willie said; he did business in "a polite way."

Even the firm that had complained about him now has merged with his company. "Fortunately, God helped me," he explained. The president of the rival outfit "went horseback riding, fell off the horse, got kicked in the head. . . and died, so his company became my partner."

Our examination ended on a friendly note. He showed us a postal card which he had made of what he called "the Moretti estate" on the Jersey shore. "Expansively, he told his attorney to give me the postal card. "Let him look at it," Moretti said. "Maybe he wants to come down for dinner some time." And, as he left, he urged: "Don't forget my home in Deal if you are down the shore. You're invited."

The situation which we uncovered in Saratoga Springs was this: In August of 1947 Superintendent John A. Gaffney of the New York State Police asked that a survey be made of gambling conditions in Saratoga Springs. It was established that six wide-open casinos were in operation, one of them backed by William Bischoff, alias Lefty Clark, the notorious Detroit gambler, and Joe Adonis of New York City.

All this information was dutifully transmitted to Superintendent Gaffney. Gaffney put it in his "confidential file." Nothing at all was done about it until 1950, when, because of newspaper exposures and bad publicity resulting from the alleged trimming of a customer at one of the casinos, orders went out to put the lid on. The gambling was throttled down.

The excess given us in many hundreds of words for the existence of this situation was, in effect, simply this: Gambling had been going on at Saratoga Springs for some time. True, the state police were supposed to enforce the law. But there was a "policy," it was explained, that the state police enforce the law in "rural areas," not in cities that had regularly organized police departments.

One of the most damaging admissions made by Superintendent Gaffney, it seemed to the committee, was when we asked him: Q When you got to be the superintendent of the state police, you are supposed to have enough savvy or understanding to leave it (the gambling at Saratoga) alone, unless you are told to go in; is that correct? Gaffney: Well, probably, yes. It has been a policy over the years.

Behind the situation, of course, was the complacency of the Saratoga Springs police department of 23 men. We interrogated an incredible local police chief, Patrick (Paddy) Cox, who admitted that he augmented his police earnings by collecting $10 a night for taking money from the bank to the Saratoga raceway.

Walter F. Ahern, the Saratoga detective supposedly in charge of suppressing gambling in the resort town, confessed that he, too, supplemented his pay—by $100 a week—transporting the bankrolls and gambling loot between two casinos and the local bank every night. The gamblers—though, of course, Ahern "didn't know" they were gamblers—"were afraid of stick-ups more than anything else," he said.

Expert Predicts 50 Per Cent Increase in Delinquency

CHICAGO—A 50 per cent increase in juvenile delinquency within the next ten years has been forecast.

Dr. E. Preston Sharp, chief of the Division of Training Schools for the Maryland Department of Public Welfare, cited the increase in population as the cause for the rise in delinquency.

He pointed out that the highest divorce rate ever recorded was in 1946. Children of these homes of the average age of five, he said, were most likely to be the juvenile delinquents of the next decade.

Navy Declines

THE NAVY has taken an unusual stand regarding the air warfare which is getting more and more intense over Korea. It has turned down a request from Gen. Otto Weyland, Air Force commander in the Far East, that Navy jets help out the Air Force in combating Russian MIGs.

With increasing Communist strength in the air, and with the Air Force sometimes badly outnumbered in battling Russian MIGs, General Weyland requested help from the Navy's carrier-based jet fighters.

However, despite the fact that there is supposed to be armed services unification, the Navy refused. Official reason was that Navy carriers were outside the fighting range.

Air force pilots who sometimes go into battle against superior Communist odds believe the Navy is trying to hide the fact that its jets are inferior to the MIGs. Since the Navy specializes in fighters, and not long ago boasted the best jet fighter plane in the world, this is a bitter pill to swallow.

Navy pilots today are among the best in the world, but apparently planes haven't kept up with either the Air Force or the enemy. As a result only two MIGs have been shot down by the Navy during the Korean War. One was bagged by a Navy Panther jet some time ago, the other by a Navy pilot who, however, flew an Air Force Sabre jet.

Debate Over McGrath

President Truman's advisers are split down the seam on a bold move to oust Attorney General Howard McGrath and name crusading Sen. Estes Kefauver to clean up the Justice department.

This proposal was pushed back-stage by Averell Harriman, who has been on speaking trips out of Washington and knows how deeply the corruption issue is hurting; also by usually cautious White House counsel Charlie Murphy, and younger staff members.

Their argument with the President is: "The investigations are not going to stop with Internal Revenue and RFC, but will go into alien property custodian, surplus property, and possibly the federal judiciary right up to the Supreme Court. The American people won't be satisfied unless the administration cleans house boldly and dramatically. A sure-fire way to regain public confidence is to name General Kefauver as attorney general, giving him complete authority to prosecute, no matter who is hurt."

Mr. Truman seems to like the idea and has been saying privately: "I've always been loyal to my friends. But they haven't been fair to me."

On the other side, a powerful White House force, Matt Connelly, who sits next to the President and makes all his appointments, is more than cool. Connelly vigorously defends his fellow Irishman in the Justice department and has been digging up political friends of Mr. Truman to talk up McGrath and talk down his ouster.

Merry-Go-Round Poll

People not on the political inside seldom realize how much backstage wire pulling goes into the nomination of a presidential candidate. To a considerable extent this lessens the chance of the American people to elect a President. For, while they can elect, not many can nominate.

This frequently leaves the selection of the presidential nominee a matter of barrier and backstage lobbying by the party bosses.

Today, Taft scouts have been combing every state in the union, pledging delegates six months in advance. Some of these may represent the people of their state, some may not. Some may realize that world conditions, the threat of war, the hopes for peace, can change the world in six months, and with them can change the presidential needs of the nation.

Therefore, to sound out the true political sentiment of the American people through the 800 newspapers publishing the Washington Merry-Go-Round, this column is conducting a post-card poll on the Republican candidates. (The Democratic poll will come later.) To vote, address a post card to the GOP candidates of your choice, Box 1992, Washington 18, D.C., and tell him: "I'm for you in 1952."

SOCIAL SECURITY

4,400,000 People Receiving Survivors Insurance Payments

A young man walked into a social security field office recently and said: "I've just started to work for myself and I want to get straight on my rights and obligations under old-age survivors' insurance."

The conversation developed some interesting facts. His father had been a plant foreman, and his job was brought under social security when the original law went into effect in 1937. At the time of his death in the forties, he was fully insured.

Star Dust

By INEZ GERHARD

NAVY Commander Arthur Godfrey made a promise about a year ago that has developed into one of radio's favorite Cinderella stories. While on two weeks' active duty at Pensacola Godfrey was asked by enthusiastic shipmates of Julius La Rosa, to hear the young man sing. Godfrey did, said if La Rosa weren't in the Navy he'd give him a job at once, told the young man to look him up in New York.

ARTHUR GODFREY

La Rosa appeared on the CBS Radio "Arthur Godfrey Time" while on leave, and recently, one week after he was discharged, became one of the "Little Godfreys", a regular on the star's daytime program.

Ginger Rogers and Fred Allen should make a wonderful couple in "We're Not Married", which Edmund Goulding will direct for 20th Century-Fox. It's the story of five couples who find their marriages upset by a legal technicality. Allen's last film was "It's in the Bag", way back in 1945. Zsa Zsa Gabor, George Sanders' wife, will be one of the other wives.

Dick Powell, ABC's sleuth on the Friday night "Richard Diamond" air series, now is grounded. He recently sold his plane, at the request of June Allyson Powell; they'll use the money toward payment on a ranch in northern California.

When a movie or radio star first tackles television, usually in guest spots, the results are usually pretty horrible. If they step out with their own shows—murder! Digab Shore is a rare exception. After some try-outs on other programs she has settled down twice a week in "The Digab Shore Show" on NBC-TV, and from the very first she has been an outstanding success.

By careful management of the family's meagre savings, plus the monthly survivors' benefit payments, the widow had been able to keep the son in school. He finished his vocational school training. He took a job, and then he married. Now he had started his own business, and so is one of more than four million self-employed who are for the first time coming under social security.

This particular interview was of unusual significance in that it is an outstanding example of a generation protected by old-age and survivors insurance building social security protection for the next generation. It is proof that social security has come of age.

In January, 1937, when the program was inaugurated it was frankly an innovation and an experiment. For several years, its progress was necessarily slow, and its impact on family economy was limited. Beneficiaries added to the rolls did not average over a quarter of a million persons yearly and coverage was restricted to persons employed in commerce and industry.

Fifteen years, and the several amendments to the original act, have changed the picture: The widow and the son in our story are numbered among the three out of every four mothers and children who now have this insurance protection. Moreover, not only jobs in commerce and industry, but most other kinds of work are now covered by the social security law.

In brief, the old-age and survivors insurance program under federal social security now affects three out of every four workers in the nation. Sixty-three million persons gainfully employed or self-employed are in work covered by the law.

OBVIOUSLY, fifteen years of operation has not been a sufficient length of time to bring old-age insurance protection to even a majority of the people past 65. However, at the close of the fifteenth year of the program, 4,400,000 people were receiving monthly old-age and survivors insurance payments.

How much in benefit payments does this mean to the average worker and his family? For the worker who after 1930 earns $250 a month his personal monthly benefit payment will be $72.00; he and his wife will get a total of $103 monthly, and in case of his death his widow will get $34.40.

The scale of benefit payments ranges from a minimum of $29 monthly to an individual to a maximum family benefit payment of $150. As earnings up to $3,600 a year are now credited to a worker's social security account, the average benefit payment will steadily increase in the years immediately ahead.

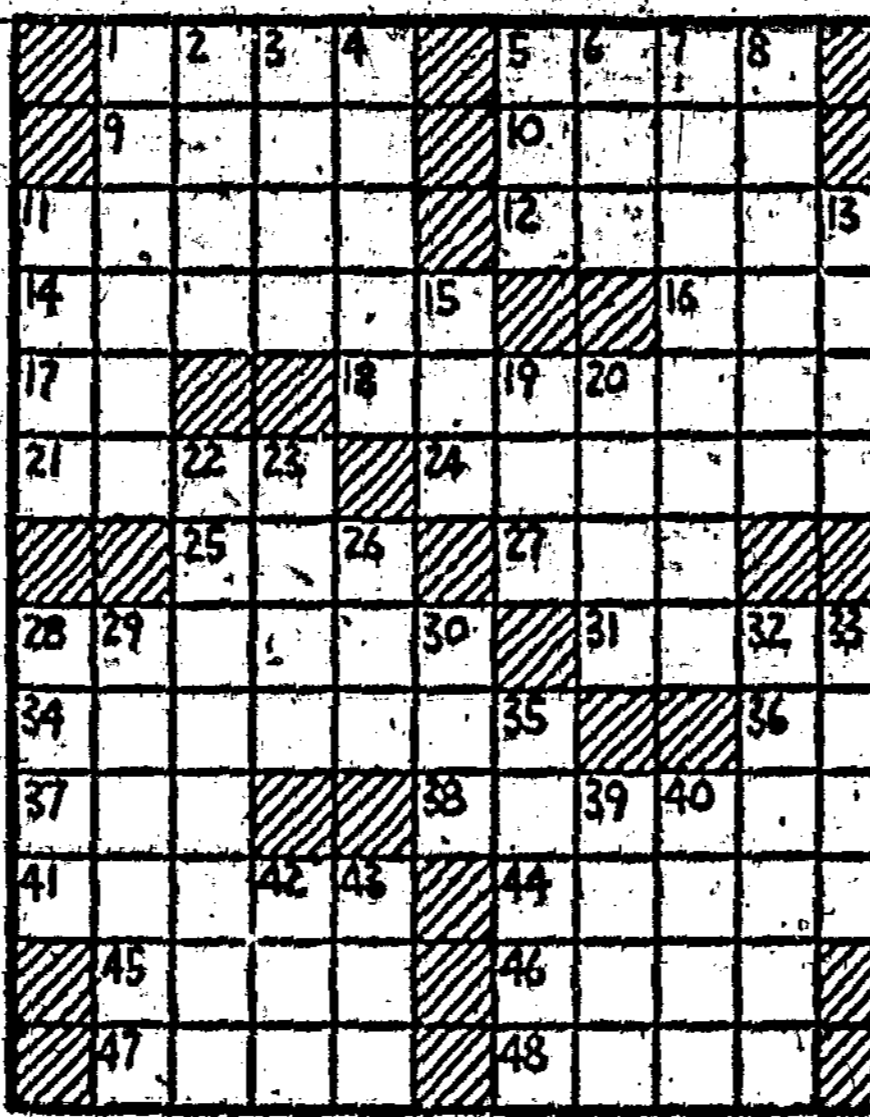

It is not difficult to evaluate the effect of this social insurance program on the average community and the average family. As in the case of the young man mentioned at the beginning of this article, it is making it possible to hold many homes together; as illustrated in his case also, it is enabling one generation to acquire the means to build the same protection for the next generation. This, as old-age and survivors insurance enters its sixteenth year of continuous operation, is the most significant achievement of the program.

SUMMER STORMS

By Ralph Blanchard

FOR a week it had been raining. Ken sat on the porch of the resort hotel and looked over the lake. "Why in thunder doesn't it stop," he asked? He threw the newspaper at a fly on the railing.

Gall was sitting on the swing. She was prety with a few freckles over her nose and cheeks—just a few. "There's no use letting it get you, Ken," she said, looking inwardly that she was tired of it, too.

"With this thing on your leg, you'd be fed up," he snapped, thumping the heavy cast. He had been in an accident two weeks ago. Now that there was rain he was doubly unhappy.

"Maybe by tomorrow I can take you for a ride in the boat," Gall suggested. "It looks as though it might stop raining tonight." Ken kicked his good leg against the steps. "I'll go by myself. I'm not a cripple."

Gall felt her face redden a bit. She, too, was nervous and on edge. The rain had been so bad for the last week that no one had done anything but play cards. She turned her face from Ken.

"I'm not an undernourished school kid, you know!" She knew what he was thinking and answered. "Of course, you can take care of yourself, but it's better to be safe than sorry."

A wave nearly swamped the boat and he was thrown backward.

For a while he thought the sun was coming out from behind the clouds, but the sky grew darker. As the boat sped through the water, it would snap at the waves. After a few minutes, Ken realized that he had gone further than he had planned. He looked up at the sky and saw that it was just on the verge of storming. As he looked up, one of the oars slipped, slid down into the darkening water just out of reach.

The rain poured down as though someone had taken a knife and slashed the under side of the dark clouds. Quickly, he took the other oar and used it Indian fashion, but the boat was much heavier than a canoe, and it was hard to lift the heavy paddle.

The waves grew larger. The shore was at least three-hundred yards away, probably more, and the wind seemed to push the small boat further away. If only he had two oars, his arms would not have been so tired.

In his mind he saw Gall sitting on the porch. He wondered if he would ever see her again. His wrists ached and sharp pains shot through his broken leg.

A wave nearly swamped the boat and he was thrown backward. His head hit the side of the craft. He was having a crazy, ugly dream. Multicolored spots swam up and down before his eyes. A sickening hum rang loudly in his head. Suddenly the boat disappeared. The hum stopped abruptly.

When he opened his eyes, he saw Gall blurred before his vision, and he heard her voice, softly. "It's all right, Ken. It's alright, now."

"She must have missed me and gone for help," he thought. Then her voice faded away. As he closed his eyes, he knew she was right. Everything would be fine.

He felt her soft hand on his face. He wasn't quite sure whether he was sleeping or awake now, but he kissed her fingers as they caressed his lips.

Geography is Both Liability, Asset To Sugar Island

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The sugar island of Antigua—memory-haunted British colony in the Caribbean Sea—is being sweetened with hopes for a brighter future.

Blueprints are now being made detailing an extensive, low-cost housing project for the mass of Antigua's 44,000 people who were left destitute by last year's hurricane, says the National Geographic Society.

Financed by government funds and aided by an American Point-4 grant of technical assistance, the project is being watched by the International Caribbean Commission as a possible model for other West Indian lands.

Meanwhile, the Leeward Island awaits London approval of a general five-year development plan which, linked with postwar investments by private interests, is expected to broaden Antigua's one-crop economy and raise its standard of living.

Tropic Beaches The island's climate appears to be ideal with year-round temperatures ranging from 70 to 82 degrees. Ideal, that is, until hurricane season when winds up to 150 miles an hour blow away everything not securely fastened down. Along its beautiful, palm-strewn shoreline are some of the finest beaches in the Western Hemisphere, yet the soil is generally poor for agriculture.

An east central location among West Indies islands brought early discovery by Columbus in 1493, but lack of a natural water supply delayed colonization for nearly 140 years. By the 18th century, however, British rulers had made Antigua a sugar producing center and its English Harbor an important naval base, where young Horatio Nelson served an early tour of duty.

HAPPY NEW YEAR May it be a howling success

Many Holidays Mark Calendar In Various Regions

With January 1, one of the most important holidays, just around the corner, did you ever stop to think that an unusual number of the 365 days of each year are public holidays?

The number of holidays that you receive each year depends greatly upon the part of the country in which you live, for there are innumerable sectional holidays in addition to the accepted national observances. Many of the Southern states, for example, still set aside a day to commemorate the Civil War.

Columbus Day, October 12, is a holiday in 23 states. Kentucky and Tennessee are the only two states that observe both the birthdays of Lee and Lincoln and Easter Monday is a legal holiday in Texas.

Yet, we Americans are not the best, nor the worst, as far as the number of holidays per year are concerned. The largest number of holidays may be found in India, where 60 bank holidays are observed yearly to meet the prejudices of the varied religions to be found there.

The least number of holidays is found—you guessed it—in Russia. The U.S.S.R. celebrates but five holidays yearly, all Sundays having been abolished.

Gift-Giving Is Old Custom in Scotland

New Year's day is more generally celebrated as a day for gift giving than is Christmas in Scotland. A family get-together on the eve of the New Year was quite a ceremony in old Scotland. There would be the preparation of the "hot pint", a kettle filled with warm, spiced ale. At the stroke of 12, each member of the family would take a drink of the "hot pint" and there would be a general round of handshakes and good wishes.

After good wishes and drinks had been passed around, the family elders would take up the kettle and go out to visit the neighbors to offer them sips from the kettle.

If they were the first to step into the house of a neighbor, it was deemed very important that they not come empty-handed, but with their hands well full, signifying the full year that lay ahead of the house's occupants.

The popularity of tomatoes took a big jump in 1931, after can company researchers, working with processors, helped perfect a method of canning that would retain original flavor and natural high-vitamin count of tomato juice packed in cans. Before this, a small quantity of tomato juice was used primarily for babies and invalids, the company reported. Today juice and whole tomato packs account for 45 per cent of all tomatoes that go into cans.

The increased consumption of tomatoes in various forms is considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to be a definite factor in the steady all-around improvement of the average U.S. diet.

Czech in U.S. Army Ignores Draft Notices from Overseas

KANSAS CITY—The Russian-controlled Czech Army will have to get along without the services of one of its prospective draftees. He's serving with the United States Army in Korea.

PFC Lubert South, who came to America from Czechoslovakia four years ago, has been in the U.S. Army for more than a year. But recently he began receiving notices from his home town in the Iron Curtain country to report for induction into the Czech Army. Each new notice is more insistent than the last.

Naturally, South has no intention of answering the Red call to arms. "I hope my military service will give the way for my citizenship," said South. "I want to make my home in the United States."

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By ROGER C. WHITMAN

QUESTION: Could you tell me what to do with the grids of my waffle-iron? The waffles stick to it every time. The iron is about nine months old and up until just a couple of weeks ago it worked fine, but now the batter sticks on both top and bottom grids. I followed the directions that come with it as to what to do in such a case exactly as directed, but it didn't help a bit. Also, could you tell me how to clean the black from the grids?

ANSWER: I believe that if you would be more liberal with the shortening in the batter you would not have so much trouble. Although you did not say that your waffle-iron is an electric one, I presume it is. For some reason the directions given for making waffles appear to be a bit stingy about the shortening. If you would double the usual amount (or almost double it) I feel sure you would have better success. You can clean off hardened batter with a clean, stiff brush, either fibre or soft wire. You might have the iron cleaned up at an electric appliance shop. If that cannot be done, you can clean it at home by covering the iron with a paste of baking soda moistened with water and allowed to dry. This will remove much of the discoloration. Before using again, however, it should be brushed with a vegetable oil and heated, which is the same treatment given to a new waffle-iron.

Truman and Taft Will Be Opponents in Election

By Wright A. Patterson

AT THE TIME this is written it seems entirely safe to name the candidates for the presidency on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the political race of 1952.

Truman had not definitely said that he will seek another term, but has he broadly intimated that he proposes to do so, that there can be no chance of a man in naming him as the Democratic nominee.

This is the last chance any one will have of being named for the job for more than two terms. The new law providing for a two term limit specifically exempts the incumbent, which in this case is Harry S. Truman. Whether he is elected or not, he can at least have the glory of being the nominee of his party for a third term.

The President will select his campaign with an advantage of some nine million votes, representing the army of governmental bureaucrats, their relatives and friends. With such an advantage he believes he can win, and he does represent a big handicap for the Republicans to overcome.

Many Republican leaders, who have in the past figured that Senator Taft was not a vote getter, did not have popular appeal, and did not have organized labor against him, changed their opinions on both points following the last election in Ohio, when Taft defeated the state in his fight for reelection by a majority of better than 440,000.

It proved to the doubting Thomases of his party that the senator could attract votes, and that union labor leaders did not control the union labor vote. They want a candidate for 1952, who will not take success for granted, but will fight for the needed votes.

The limited demand for Eisenhower has largely petered out because the general has not made any announcement of his political affiliations, or uttered any desire for the nomination. Had he done these things, by this time the result might well be very much in doubt.

In his campaign it is reasonably expected that Senator Taft will have the enthusiastic backing of MacArthur. As a participant in the campaign on the Republican side, MacArthur will do much to offset that nine million vote handicap Taft must overcome to win.

Taft is not the type to be overconfident and count the votes before they are cast. He is a realist. He will not let his ego get in the way of his duty. He will fight for the best candidate for the office.

Taft will stand for the maintenance of our free enterprise system; he is opposed to all forms of socialism; he believes in helping those who are down, but he does not believe in making up a nation of indigents by the voting of indiscriminate dotes to all who are willing to accept. His platform will undoubtedly embrace those things he considers as of value to the nation as a whole, and not only those of one or more minorities. It will, in no sense, be a "me-too" platform that has resulted in Republican defeat in the last three campaigns. The 1952 campaign will be a real political battle. It will not be lost because of a lay-down on either side, but it will not be won until the votes have been counted.

We need airplanes to wipe out the Communist nests in Moscow, but the planes we need have not yet been ordered.

It is said the French Communists do not like Eisenhower. We hope Stalin and his compatriots in Moscow do not like him for the same reasons.

MacArthur and his plea for Americanism will largely determine who will be inaugurated as President in 1953.

Let us hope the "too-big" Duponts are successful in perfecting an H-bomb.

Cheer up, Mr. President. It could be worse. Not all of the less than 3,000,000 for whom you have provided government jobs, even those from Missouri, are bad. Some of them are both legally and morally honest, even though dumb.

RESOLUTIONS ARE WORTH WHILE

Resolutions are not the laughing matter that cartoonists and humorists like to make of them. The practice of making new resolutions should be commended as much as possible because it signifies the desire to start out a new era correctly and to correct the bad habits of the past.

Words, like people, so often fall into disrepute by the company they keep. So it is with the word "resolutions." The popular theory is that resolutions are things that are made on New Year's day and then promptly forgotten on the second day of January. Such is not always the case.

Every man or woman who ever achieved success or greatness did so by making resolutions—resolutions not only made with the advent of a new year, but made during the course of every day living. These resolutions might well be more mental than verbal. A successful man is one who profits by his mistakes. He doesn't make the same mistake twice—and, whether or not he realized it, he made a mental resolution not to commit the same error again.

We should all be able to take a lesson from this information and not be afraid to make resolutions, even though we hold a fear that they might not be kept.

Each time we resolve to do better, we have improved our mental lot, a thousand fold.

Naval Observatory Clocks Are Tops

To the most of us, seconds and minutes have very little importance. For that reason it is hard for us to realize the exquisite exactness with which the government tries to mark the passing of every second of time. The clocks in the Naval Observatory are the most accurate in the world, and special pains are taken to see that they remain so at all times.

The standard clocks keep "mean" time, which is the division of the days into hours, minutes and seconds. Regulation of the clocks is so exacting that the daily rate, meaning loss or gain, is so small that it can not be measured.

The clocks are regulated by coincidence of the beats with a sidereal sander. The clocks beat so silently that microphones must be used to magnify the beats in order that they might be heard at all.

Janus, Deity of Romans, Gave Name to January

January comes from the two-faced Roman God, Janus who has the power to look back into the past and also forth into the future.

The Romans named their New Year in honor of Janus, and represented him with a key in his hand to symbolize his power to open the doorways to the past and the future.

The year of the Romans once had but ten months, the New Year being celebrated in the Spring. January and February were the last two months to be added, being placed before the original ten, with January 1 being celebrated as the first day of the year.

Did Christopher Columbus Celebrate New Year Here?

Some historians say Christopher Columbus was the first white man to celebrate New Year's day in the Western Hemisphere. While his ships were being repaired on January 1, 1493, they say, Columbus enjoyed a sumptuous meal with two savage monarchs on the island of Haiti.

The People's Choice

Lesson for December 29, 1931

WITH New Year's Day right around the corner we should take stock of ourselves. What is to become of us as a nation? Can we survive in this atomic age? Is our future curve upward or down?

The answer to such questions lies in the answer to another one: What will the people choose? The most important fact about any people, at any crisis in their life, is not what they have done or accomplished or enjoyed, not what they have at the present moment in power or in possessions. It is not their reputation, their income, their history. It is simply their choices, their decisions. However grand a nation's past may be, however good their present may be, wrong decisions can destroy everything. What will the people choose?

Democracy Means Free Choice THERE are some interesting parallels between the United States, or Canada, today, and Israel of more than three millenniums ago.

It was a little nation, so new it could scarcely be called a nation, so small it could be lost in one of our big cities. But when it was beginning its time in Palestine, it was much nearer a true democracy than it was in the more famous and glamorous times of David and Solomon.

There was at first no hereditary monarchy, the people had no precedents to go by, they had to pick their way through an uncertain world, much as we do only on a smaller scale.

In Joshua's time there had been a military government; first Moses and then Joshua had done most of the thinking for the people. But when he grew old, Joshua knew that in the future the people would have to think for themselves. When the people do think, it is democracy; when they think only what they are told to think, it is a police state. Now Joshua knew that the main choice before the people was basically religious. As he put it: Whom will you serve?

A High Way and a Low THE choice was not merely between good and bad theology. If you choose a God you choose his way of life. The way of the true God was the high way, other ways were low. The Israelites' God was the God of the Law, the God of pure strong living. The gods of the Canaanites were pictured as golden calves, brass he-goats.

There is a world of difference between a man, or a nation, whose highest thoughts cannot rise above the level of the animals they worship, and a man or nation whose highest thoughts are expressed in the bellness, justice and mercy of the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

If any one has a sneaking feeling that all religions are really much the same, let him remember what happened in Palestine. The peoples who chose the animal-gods simply rotted away, leaving few traces in the dust of history. The nation that (not everybody, not all the time, but on the whole) chose the true and living God, has made an impression on history such as no nation so small has ever made.

Idols of Today THE Living God still challenges us, a free people. The words of Joshua might still be spoken in this 20th century: Choose this day whom you will serve. Millions make the wrong choice. Some worship the idol called success—at any price; some fall down and worship Mammon; others worship popular opinion; others will do anything for what is in a liquor bottle; others give their all for the goddess of sex, others for the "great god luck."

The diamond of steady conduct from West Point for cheating (who set them the example), the revelations of the Kefauver Crime Committee, the struggle-hold gamblers have an national affairs, the crowded divorce courts and race tracks, the ravages of liquor and drugs even on young boys and girls, the general foggy confusion about what is right and what is wrong, the prevalence of the bare-faced lie in public life—all must cause a thoughtful person to ask: What kind of choice is our country making?

Can we be called a God-fearing nation or do we also still worship idols?
