Supreme Court Orders New Trial For Alaniz

The State Supreme Court Tuesday ordered a new trial for Valeriano Alaniz, Mexican national who was given the death sentence last year in the murder of Pierre Nalda, prominent Lincoln County rancher.

A unanimous court opinion written by Chief Justice Eugene Lujan stated Alaniz' request for a change of venue to another county should have been granted since it was not controverted.

The high court contends Alaniz made a proper motion for a change of venue because he felt he could not obtain a fair trial in Lincoln County. The court opinion reads, "The defendant is entitled to a change of venue and the trial court has no discretion except to sustain his motion for it."

"It may be," the court stated, "Alaniz is guilty, and should, and will be, punished, but whatever may be the degree of his guilt, the law demands that he be given a fair trial by an impartial jury, according to the law."

Alaniz had pleaded self defense, but Gratien Ernaut, nephew of the slain man, said Alaniz and Campos had shot Nalda after forcing him to make out checks to them.

The most fantastic case drew wide publicity at the trial last March, and was written up in a detective magazine. Ernaut, under oath, testified the two men had come to his uncle's ranch home about 11 o'clock at night and that he (Ernaut) had been forced out of bed by Campos at the point of a knife. The nephew said he had been compelled to endorse checks which Alaniz and Campos had, forced his uncle to write. The two men, who had worked on the ranch from time to time, stated Ernaut, then forced his uncle and him to accompany them to a pickup truck parked outside. The nephew related Campos and Alaniz wanted them to drink out of a bottle that was in the truck and when they refused indicated they were going to kill Nalda and Ernaut.

The nephew, who had recently come to the United States from France where he had served in the French army, said his uncle spoke to him in French to run. Several shots were fired, but Ernaut, who zigzagged as he ran, escaped and made his way to the home of another uncle, Mike Nalda, some 12 miles away, where he hid in the corral until morning. In an interview with the News-Outlook, Ernaut said he thought that family had been killed and did not know they were alive until the following morning.

John Nalda, son of Mike Nalda, returning from a picture show on the night Pierre Nalda was killed, found the gates open and investigated, but when he could not find his two relatives, decided they had gone somewhere and forgotten to close the gates. The following morning, after listening to Ernaut's story, Mike and John Nalda returned to Pierre Nalda's home for a further search, and discovered his body lying face down in a shallow ditch, apparently shot and killed as he tried to escape.

Queen Discusses Water Problems

By LAWRENCE QUEEN
City Utilities Manager
It has been said that one picture is worth 1,000 words. If this is true, no doubt the picture will explain why it is necessary for the Southern Pacific Company to cut down on the village water supply. Granted that the railroad's peak load occurs at the same time as that of the village, it does not explain why the railroad cannot afford to replace the old pipe that is feeding the village.

It is our contention that there would be no shortage here if the line was not leaking almost constantly. I do not mean to imply that the maintenance crews are not working on the leaks, however, in the past 30 days leaks such as are shown in the picture have been visible from Carrizozo every day. The amount of water lost by those leaks would very nearly take care of our need.

Another thing we villagers would like to know is how it happens that the Southern Pacific can pump water 85 miles to Vaughn, sell it to the Santa Fe railroad who, in turn, can sell it to Vaughn for the same price we have to pay for it here. Incidentally, Vaughn uses about the same amount of water that Carrizozo does.

It seems to me that we are being discriminated against because some 20 years ago we, in good faith, made a contract with the Southern Pacific to buy some 25,000 gallons of water per day. At that time the amount was adequate, but conditions in the past 20 years have changed considerably. If they hold us to that contract it will undoubtedly be hazardous to the health of the community, and, as pointed out last summer, it also constitutes a fire hazard. The success of the railroad, as in any business, is based upon service to its customers. The company seems to have lost sight of this fact so far as Carrizozo is concerned. Obviously, it is more important to get that extra train through here than it is to give us a few thousand more gallons of water.

I believe our citizens are sincerely trying to cooperate in conserving water at this time. In fact, our records show, as will the railroad's, that we are using very little more water now than we were this spring, even though the weather is very much warmer, and it is much drier than it was then.

In order to answer the question what is the village doing about a water system, I would like to explain the village was negotiating for a 500,000 gallon elevated tank at Fort Huachuca that would have helped to alleviate the trouble we are now having, but the government decided to reactivate the camp and we lost that tank. Since that time the mayor and City Council have retained the engineering firm headed by Ashley G. Classen of El Paso to make a survey and recommend exactly what we need in the way of a water system. At present the village and Mr. Classen are waiting for scientists from the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology to complete a survey of the geology and terrain around Carrizozo so we may determine where to drill our test wells.

Since our water system will be with us a long time, we can only urge our citizens to be patient a while longer so we can get the best possible system our money can buy.

19 NMIMT Students Are Named To Honor Roll

Nineteen students at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology are listed on the scholastic honor roll for the semester recently closed. It was announced by Dr. William G. Camp, director of the college.

Two students had a straight A record, John E. Hand of West Newton, Pa., who was graduated June 8 with a B. S. in physics, and Theron Young, Metairie Falls, who will be a junior this fall.

Oh, Well, Maybe It's The Hot Weather

The News-Outlook regrets the cut for the picture referred to in several articles this week has not yet been received.

Apparently the mail cannot be delivered into Carrizozo any better than can the village's water supply.

A telephone call disclosed the cut referred to above was mailed from Albuquerque (approximately 145 miles) June 28 but at noon on June 28, it had not yet been delivered into Carrizozo. The local post office is not at fault in any way—its personnel cannot deliver mail it does not receive.

This incident is only one of many that has been experienced. Several months ago first class mail was sent to Alamogordo (50 miles away) which was delivered four days later. In another instance, first class mail sent from El Paso one Wednesday arrived in Carrizozo the following Wednesday. El Paso is approximately 150 miles south of Carrizozo.

These seem to be little doubt mail delivery into Carrizozo can stand as much improvement as get the delivery of its water supply.

Work Started On New Post Office Building

Construction of a new post office building in Carrizozo has been started by the Harkey Lumber Company, local hardware and lumber firm. The new building will be located on the corner of Central Avenue and Tenth Street. John Harkey, head of the U. S. Post Office Department had approved the bid submitted by his company and let the contract. The federal agency will lease the building upon its completion for use by the local post office.

It is estimated that the finished building will have an approximate valuation of $15,000. Plans call for a structure about 35 by 50 feet with concrete block walls, all steel windows and a cement tile covered floor. The interior plaster walls will be decorated according to government specifications. Exterior walls are to be stuccoed white.

On the Tenth Street side of the structure will be located double doors for convenience in the delivery of sacks of mail to local postal personnel. A corner entrance facing both streets is designed for the use of post office patrons.

Construction for the new home of the Carrizozo post office is expected to be completed about August 1, said Mr. Harkey.

H. E. Kelt Sr. is the local postmaster and his assistant is Roy Harmon. Other post office personnel includes Mrs. Clara Bell and Lee Carl.

Former County Resident Heads Entertainment

Mrs. Clyde Adams, daughter of Mrs. O. S. Stearns of Nogal and the former Erma Poage, was named chairman of entertainment for wives of members of the Texas Watchmakers Guild at their convention held recently in San Angelo. It was the first state convention of the guild at which special entertainment was arranged for the wives, but is planned as an annual feature.

The program included a breakfast at Hotel Cactus and a tour of Goodfellow Air Force Base and San Angelo. At a tea held in the Indian Room of the Cactus Hotel, the wives received nosegays of spring flowers as favors.

Albert Cade, president of the San Angelo Guild, opened the entertainment sessions for the ladies with a speech of welcome, and Mrs. Adams introduced the guest artists.

The former resident of Lincoln County is well known in Carrizozo, having graduated from the local high school. She is an active member and officer of the San Angelo Business and Professional Women's Club; past social chairman of the Westminster class of the Presbyterian Church there as well as past social secretary for the church; and an active worker in various civic activities such as the San Angelo Symphony and the San Angelo College of Fine Arts Series.

Historical Society Schedules Pageant

Plans were completed by the Lincoln County Historical Society Sunday afternoon at a meeting held in the museum at Lincoln for the presentation of the annual "A Day In Old Lincoln" pageant, on August 12. This year's pageant, which was written by Mrs. Ruby Douglass of Hondo, will depict a new version of the turbulent history of Lincoln County. Under the direction of Mrs. Nathan Armstrong, Hondo, the story of Lincoln County from its earliest history will be unraveled in "Lincoln County's Frontier Album of Familiar Scenes and Faces." The pageant will include several episodes from the life of William H. Bonney (Billy the Kid), notorious outlaw during the early days of Lincoln County, and concerning whom there has been considerably diversified opinion as to whether he was saint or devil.

The main theme of the presentation shows the blending of the three cultures—Indian, Spanish-American and Anglo-American—which are predominant in the Southwest.

Section I of the album portrays Lincoln Town as a small village whose residents are descendants of Spanish Conquistadores, and features the traditional games, songs and dances of the Spanish-American people. In this section also is depicted the history of the Apaches of the Mesquero reservation whose forefathers bequeathed to them a proud heritage.

Section II is the graphical illustration of the growth of Lincoln County and the reverberation of its growing pains throughout the nation. Scenes in that section depict a busy, growing community that is typical of many in an expanding western empire, and show the excitement, lawlessness, humor and thrills that were a part of everyday life in those early years.

Episodes from the life of Billy the Kid make up Section III of the album, and are taken from his adventures in the Texas panhandle, Old Town in Albuquerque and Lincoln County.

The finale of the pageant is the portrayal of one of the most sensational incidents in the career of the Kid—his escape from the Lincoln County jail.

Wilbur Coe, president of the Lincoln County Historical Society, who presided at Sunday's meeting, was assisted by committee members Mesdames Ruth Martin and John Davis. A social hour followed the business meeting.

State Fair To Award $9,000 In Rodeo Prizes

Prizes totaling $9,000 will be offered in the championship rodeo during the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque September 29-October 7, Floyd Rigdon, state fair commissioner, announces.

He also disclosed Beutler Bros., Elk City, Okla., have been engaged again to supply the rodeo stock. Lynn Beutler will serve as arena director and will bring nearly 250 head of rodeo stock to the annual exposition, including bareback, saddle bronc and parade horses, as well as bulldogging steers and Brahma calves and bulls.

Rigdon said Wilber Plaugher of Prather, Calif., will serve as clown. Plaugher, who appeared at the 1950 fair, will bring new acts and comedy routines to the events this year.

An important addition to the rodeo performances this year will be Fess Reynolds and his Brahma bull liberty act. This is a sparkling new presentation from California which is living evidence of the extreme patience and training required to induce animals to perform.

Meanwhile, Leon Harms, fair secretary-manager, said that all entries in the livestock show will close September 17. Harms urged both large and small stockmen to make plans now to enter the annual show. He stated preliminary for this division will total over $47,000. The New Mexico State Fair premium book will be off the press sometime in July, and those desiring a free copy together with entry blanks and other information should address requests to Leon H. Harms, secretary-manager, New Mexico State Fair, P. O. Box 1963, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Water Shortage Acute; Officials Discuss Sale

Capitan Forest Fire Brought Under Control

By DOROTHY GUCK

A fire that threatened to burn the same disastrous way of last year's Capitan Mountain holocaust was sighted by Forest Service fire guard Paul Jones Thursday morning, June 21. Jim McEuen picked up helpers and started for the blaze immediately. The nearest road was a good three mile uphill climb from from the fire.

By Thursday night about 40 acres of fir had been destroyed in the head of Kaprian Canyon on both sides of the Summit Trail. Thirty local fighters worked through the night. The Mesquero Apache Red Hat crew was shifted from mop-up work on the recent conflagration in the Sacramento Mountains to the fire line of the Capitan blaze Friday morning.

The wind velocity continued to rise Friday until in mid-afternoon hot embers were blown as much as a quarter of a mile from the main burn, and the total acreage destroyed climbed over 60. Ranger Dean Earl believes the fire was relatively slow in progressing because of the type of timber and the many patches of green grass atop the mountain.

The Red Hats were especially complimented by the Forest Service for their superior line building tactics and their untiring persistence. The S. P. farm crew, under Red Ramay, were on hand. Bill Humphries of the State Game Department put in many hours on horseback giving assistance. The logging crews from the Dodson & Harris sawmills also helped.

While Capitan and Nogal Mesa residents were watching the smoke rising Friday night from the summit of East Mountain, a colorful cloud obscured the sunset and drifted over the whole sky. Several worried calls were made to the Mesa ranger station wondering if another fire could be burning on the west side of the district. Family arguments arose. Perhaps it wasn't smoke, only a rain cloud. The question was settled with news of the huge forest fire raging out of control on the Gila National Forest, whose cloud of smoke left a blaze visible to all of Lincoln County.

With the special attractions New Mexico can offer tourists in our green forests, fine fishing streams and beautiful picnic grounds, it behooves every citizen and every guest of the state to be especially alert at this time to the extreme danger of being careless with fire.

NMIMT Representatives Start Water Exploration

Geophysical exploration for an adequate supply of well water for the town of Carrizozo has been resumed by representatives of New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology.

Charles Holmes, physicist with the research and development division of the institute, arrived Friday, June 22, with a crew of two men to continue work on the problem. Holmes reported that the preliminary geological work has been done by the State Bureau of Mines division of the Socorro college, and that his group will continue with the application of modern geophysical methods to the detection of underground water. After the survey is completed, which will include a study of wells in the area, the data will be evaluated to assist Carrizozo in obtaining an adequate water supply.

An additional crew reached Carrizozo this week. Mayor Vernon Petty said data from the college is expected shortly.

Carrizozo's water shortage continues as the mayors and city councils of Carrizozo, Corona and Vaughn planned a meeting with P. B. Harris, land and tax agent for the Southern Pacific Company, on Wednesday of this week at Corona. The joint meeting was called to discuss the proposed sale of Bonito Dam which, a recent Associated Press story disclosed, is apparently contemplated by the railroad company. According to the newspaper ar-

At a joint meeting of officials of the villages of Carrizozo, Corona and Vaughn with P. B. Harris, El Paso, land and tax agent for the Southern Pacific Company, held at Corona Wednesday afternoon, it was confirmed Bonito Dam and adjacent land is for sale. Harris said his company is willing to discuss the matter with any interested group or groups.

Representatives of the three towns will schedule special meetings to study the feasibility of the three communities pooling their resources to purchase the property. Before any action can be taken along this line, a resolution from the city council of each community to proceed with a survey of acquisition is indicated as necessary.

A special meeting of Carrizozo's council will be held tonight (Friday) at 7:30 at City Hall.

Another joint meeting of the mayors and trustees of the three communities is planned at a later date.

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY, M. C.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The House of Representatives last week passed the Revenue Act of 1951. It is a piece of legislation which will affect every person in the United States vitally because it will increase the nation's tax bill by $7.2 billion, not with standing increases of $10 billion during the past year.

The measure came before the House under a "closed rule" which meant that no amendments could be offered to the bill except by the Ways and Means Committee. I strongly opposed the increase in excise taxes which will bring that amount to $11 billion, and I disliked the overburdening of the taxpayers in the $1,000 to $5,000 bracket. For these and other reasons, I voted against passage of the legislation.

In a speech on the floor of the House, I voiced my objections to the bill. Writing a tax measure is an extremely difficult job, and the members of the Ways and Means Committee are very able men, so I did not intend my remarks as a criticism of them.

"But I do regret," I told the House, "that the bill was not delayed until after the appropriation bills were acted upon. I say that because of the cuts we are making in the appropriation bills which should have some effect on how much money we must appropriate for the federal government."

"I also feel that in appropriating the money we now are, it is not for the purpose that the Constitution decreed, that is, the up keep and maintenance of the federal government. There is so much of this money being appropriated for redistribution to countries throughout the world that I am getting a little fearful."

I also called attention to the growing burden that the increased excise taxes are putting on the individual American citizen. If the new hikes are approved, it will bring the total from this type of tax up to about $11 billion.

A quiz program a few months ago had as its jackpot question, "How many concealed taxes are there in one pair of shoes?" The guesses ran 3, 5, 10, with one man going as high as 75, an answer that drew a round of laughter from the audience. The correct answer was that there are 502 hidden excise taxes involved in the sale of a pair of shoes. That explains why the pair of shoes you bought 10 years ago for $3 now costs you $22.

My principal objection to increasing these excise taxes is that a goodly portion of them will be paid by the same people in the $1,000 to $5,000 bracket who will pay $1,031,000,000 in additional taxes under the new bill.

I told my colleagues that I feared greatly this measure would pour fuel on the inflation fire. If this bill becomes law, the laboring people will feel, and justifiably so, that they are entitled to another boost in wages. They will get that increase. Then when the farmer sees wages going up, he will say, "What about my parity? It must be increased." And the inflation whirl is off on another mad ride.

It is my opinion that we should not completely take the word of those who want us to appropriate large sums of money until such time as we know what we can appropriate and what we can spend. The federal government is not much different from an individual's home, except that it has the power to tax. But the tax barrel is getting empty, and I think the government, like the head of a household, should look at its funds unless it wants to go into debt.

Back in 1935 or 1936, if a man earned $5,000 a year that seemed a sufficient amount to take care of him, his wife, and perhaps a child or two. But today, with the prices so high that a dollar will only buy about 40 per cent of what it once did, that $5,000 does not go very far.

I certainly believe that our government should be financed on a pay-as-we-go basis, but I don't think that means we should give government departments and agencies a carte blanche to spend what they please. As I told the House:

"I think every dollar we need for the defense of this nation or to help those who help us win this terrific conflict should be spent, but I am not naive enough to say or to think that when you give a man in uniform billions of dollars to spend, and he has had no previous experience in purchasing, that you will achieve the greatest efficiency along that line."

"I think the men who represent the purchasing department of the armed services ought to be men of great ability (in purchasing). You do not learn that in West Point or Annapolis. There you learn to have great military knowledge. We certainly recognize that such military knowledge has been used well in the various conflicts in which we have been engaged."

The founders of communism expounded the doctrine that the

PERSONALS

Corporal David Sanchez left this week after spending a furlough with his sister, Mrs. Joe Ortiz and family, Carrizozo, and other friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Snow, former Carrizozo residents and recently from Abilene, Texas, have returned to the village to make their home. PFC Monroe Alexander, former Clayton man now stationed with the U. S. Army at Fort Sill, Okla., was a guest at the Herman E. Kelt Sr. home Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Mrs. Leo Sanchez of Oakland, Calif., is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez. Her husband, who is employed at the Naval Air Base, Alameda, is their son. Lee Mulkey, son of the News- Outlook's correspondent at Corona, celebrated his tenth birthday anniversary last week with a party. Lee has a tonsillectomy scheduled in July at the local hospital. Mrs. Harry Morriss and her daughter, Mrs. John Ed Stephens, are spending a few days with Mrs. Morriss' parents at the Flying H Ranch near Roswell. A family reunion has been planned for this week. Frank Boyce, former Carrizozo attorney now with a New York investment firm, writes friends from there that he misses Lincoln County despite all the excitement of the "Big Town." The popular young attorney's work with the New York firm has necessitated several trips to Europe. Nilo Miller, F/N, U. S. Navy, serving aboard the destroyer USS Hale, left recently after a 10-day furlough with his wife, Mrs. Natalie Miller, and their two children, Eileen and Benjamin. The Navy man's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Miller, Captain. Mrs. Miller, who is employed as a bookkeeper at the Carrizozo Hardware Company, makes her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez, here. The H. E. Kelt Sr. are expecting their daughter, Mrs. Jack Sargent, and her husband this weekend. The latter couple's small son Jackie has been visiting his grandparents. Another grandson, Billy Kelt, returned to Tucuman last weekend with his father, William Kelt. The Herman E. Kelt Jr. are in San Francisco where young Kelt is stationed with the U. S. Navy. The ego of the editors was boosted this week with a letter from sailor Dick Roberts, former Carrizozo resident now with the U. S. Navy in Hawaii. Dick said it would help so much to bring a touch of New Mexico into the Hawaiian Islands if he could have a copy of the News- Outlook each week. Thank you, Dick—just wish we could have some of that water—minus the salt—surrounding the islands for our local supply. To keep your vacation free of tragedy, the National Safety Council advises you to limit the distance you drive each day. Trying to cover too many miles leads to speeding, fatigue and mechanical failure. And it's no fun anyway!

FORT STANTON

(Too Late for Last Week)
By L. D. FISH
Miss Young, chief nurse here at the Fort, has had the pleasure of having two good friends of hers as visitors the past several days. Miss Nelson and Miss Collier are nurses who have retired from active service. Last Sunday there was a patio party for them at the Nurses Home and the 19th a picnic was held at the Bonita Club. We wish both you ladies the best of everything in your well earned retirement. This item has been kept a secret for a long time but now it can be told. Perry Zamora, my first assistant here in the laboratory service, has been called to active duty by the Navy. He has passed all of his exams and is ready to go. Two years ago Perry told me (quoting Lincoln) "I will study and get ready, maybe my chance will come." It has come, Perry, get out of here fast. Dr. and Mrs. Kopping have returned from vacation. They went to California and, I guess, had a wonderful time. Speaking of California (and who doesn't in one way or another) reminds me of the fact I hadn't mentioned something that should have been in here a week ago. Rudy Knudsen and his wife and youngsters have been guests of the Jack Shaws the past couple of weeks. They live in Middleton, Calif., where Rudy and Mrs. Knudsen are teachers. You remember Rudy, he was a teacher in the Captain schools a few years ago. They have some wonderful kids; just the kind that every parent can be proud of. The VFW dinner last Sunday night went off with a bang, as most of their dinners do. I have an idea that the cooking done by one Senor Hegm Thompson had a lot to do with the success of the affair. Jim is a good cook without even half trying. Last Sunday many people from here went to the pot-luck dinner held in the basement of the Methodist Church in Captain. The best food I have ever eaten was served to about 50 people and made of young ones. I think it would be a good idea to have affairs of this kind at least once a month or oftener in first one church and another. There is a lot of work connected with it, but anything worthwhile involves work. The church is a good place to be on Sunday, even if it is only to eat. Here is something I know all of you will be interested in. Three of Ray Baker's Boy Scouts went to the Aquatic Camp at Alamogordo Lake from the 10th to the 16th and brought back some merit badges. Adolph Wilson took the boys there and Ethel Thompson brought them back. Ernest Sanchez, Joe Wilson and Jimmie Armer were the boys who went. Joe and Jimmie earned merit badges in canoeing, life saving and swimming. Ernest has been in too short a time to get merit badges but he will earn his share if he stays with it. Ray Baker has certainly brought out the best in a bunch of mighty good kids. Several days ago my boy, David, went to the diggings at Government Springs where the University of New Mexico Expedition is working. I had warned him to not get in the way. He came back breathless with great praise for the men who took time enough to show an enthusiastic youngster what you are doing there. I'm asking all of you good people again to tell me things to write in this alleged column. I can't just make it up, you know. Tell it to me; I'll tell it to the world.

Alamo Swimming Pool Completely Modern

The Alamogordo Swimming Pool at Alamogordo has completed a program of modernization begun last summer when Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Roessler purchased the property. The 40x120-foot pool, largest outdoor pool in New Mexico, is automatically chlorinated and has two diving boards—one three feet and the other nine feet high. The water tapers in depth from 18 inches to nine feet and certified Red Cross lifeguard Gilbert Aibel is on duty at all times. Swim suits and towels are available for rent. The admission price permits the swimmer to remain in the pool for an unlimited period of time during any day. Four hundred persons may be accommodated in the pool at one time. Water for the pool comes from a 200-foot well, and the pool is open every day of the week except Mondays. Children under 6 years of age must be accompanied by adults. The swimming pool and bath house operate under health and safety regulations of the State Health Department and modern accommodations have been provided. A sun deck atop the bath house has been constructed for the convenience of patrons. Mr. and Mrs. Roessler, who came to the U. S. from Austria 28 years ago, report tourists are amazed and delighted upon learning of this outdoor pool in the middle of the desert. The owners urge Lincoln County residents to take advantage of the healthful recreation swimming affords by using the modern and safe swimming pool within easy driving distance from any point in this area. Every stillborn pig represents a loss of 180 pounds of feed.

Proper feeding of the sow before the pigs are born also helps to cut down the number of runts. Miss Jean Kelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Kelt Sr. of Carrizozo has returned from Santa Fe where she was an attendant at the wedding on June 10 of Miss Irene Doltchenoss and Lewis Munson, both of that city, in the First Baptist Church. Rev. Walker officiated at the candle-light ceremony.

Feel that V-8 get-away!
That's V-8 power you're getting, Mister... the same kind of power America's finest cars are turning to. Yet in a Ford it's priced lower than most diesels. Best of all it's backed by Ford's experience building more V-8's than all other makers combined. And with Ford's Automatic Midget Maker, in both Ford's Six and V-8 engines, you get savagely power that's wonderfully easy on your gas.

Forest Fires Keep Game Dept. Personnel Busy

Game and Fish Department personnel have been kept busy fighting the recent disastrous fires throughout the state.

The Guadalupe fire north of Las Vegas has been using the services of Carl Berghofer, A. C. Ledbetter, E. M. Lang, Tom Holder, Orville Luttrell, Marion Embrey and, recently, Frank Ramsey. This fire should not have too much effect on game.

District Deputy W. A. Humphries has been hard at work on the Capitan blaze.

The serious McKnight fire in the Black Range between Silver City and Truth or Consequences may prove very detrimental to game in this area. Working to stem its tide are G. A. Caldwell, Jewel E. Butler, Jim Hall, Alton Ford, Jack Sherman, John Shaul, Delbert George and L. A. Turner.

On all these fires, the man up there in the sky, keeping in constant touch with the ground workers by radio, has been that reliable flying game warden, Ray Bell. Ray landed in Santa Fe recently from the Guadalupe effort at 12:30 P. M., and after a quick dinner and a change of clothes, took off in the Department Piper at 2:30 P. M. for the Black Range conflagration. The men-in-charge know they can depend on Ray for correct, prompt observations.

Department radio and walkie-talkie equipment is constantly available in these emergencies.

May Bond Sales Show Decrease in County

S. E. Grelson, chairman of Lincoln County's Defense Bonds Committee, announced that receipts of this county invested $787.50 in U. S. Defense Bonds (Series E) during the month of May. The chairman also pointed out that purchases decreased by $7,143.75 under those of April.

"Our duty as good Americans in these days is plain: To produce more, to save more, and to spend less on non-essentials," the chairman pointed out. "Not only is this course good for our country, but also for the people who follow it, especially so at this time," he continued.

of a real fire. The practice run was planned by Mayor Brown and Mr. Thomson to see how quickly and how many volunteer firemen would be on the job.

Miss Katheline Montoya and Tony Otero were married last Thursday in Vaughn. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Montoya and a recent graduate of Corona High School. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Otero and is employed at the Helm and French mines. The young couple went to Estancia, Albuquerque and other places on a honeymoon trip. They will be at home in Corona some time this week.

Mrs. A. E. Mulkey and daughter Elene and son Frank are visiting Mrs. Mulkey's mother, Mrs. Ada Harris, in Albuquerque this week.

By DOROTHY GUCK
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters of Long Beach, Calif., have been the guests of the Gill Peters the past week. Mrs. Bowen Zumwalt returned to Artesia with promises to return to the Mesa this week for a visit with her daughter, Chloee.

Sergeant and Mrs. Fred Randall of Denver were the guests of the Lamoyne Peters.

Jennie Lou and Pete Vance are visiting from Las Cruces, Hazel Perry and son spent a few days from Glencoe, and Mrs. Maggie Pfingsten and Judy LaMay joined the group for a chicken dinner Sunday. The Denver guests are returning home this week and taking Jennie Lou with them.

Ralph Vance rode down to the ranger station one night to have supper with my boys.

The Ben Pfingsten ranch is teeming with activity, too. Guests there include Winnie Pfingsten, Mrs. McIntyre and three children and Marcella Duberry of El Paso and Pearl Kendrick of Albuquerque.

Mike Gatus has been living with Ben while he helped with some construction work on the Bill Holmes ranch.

Most of the Mesa group attended the dance at Bonnell ranch on Saturday night.

The S. P. assessment crew, under the direction of Bert Pfingsten is working near Bonita Dam. Arlis Richardson and Miss Joyce Spivey of Muleshoe, Texas, were the guests of the Paul Jones.

Bobbie Peebles returned home from two weeks intensive training at Camp Chaffee. He says home never looked better. I believe he left about 10 pounds back in Arkansas.

Floy Skinner of Nogal returned home from San Francisco.

Don't forget the square dance Saturday, June 30, starting at 8 o'clock in the old grade school gym at Capitan. If you don't know how to dance, come and learn. If you do know, come and help the rest of us learn. Admission will be 25 cents for teenagers and 50 cents for grownups. It is sponsored by the Capitan PTA. The Ancho Square Dance Group will be there to perform in costume.

Until we get some rain on the forest, don't forget to remember all you've ever heard about the danger of being careless with fire.

Game Ends In Deadlock

Water Shortage—

by the city forces the water downhill through the pipes and the flow causes any rust accumulations to be dislodged. Residents of Carrizozo have complained of being forced to discard quantities of water after Southern Pacific officials increase the pressure for the village.

Bonito Dam is the source of water supply for Carrizozo as well as other towns along the line as far as and including Vaughn. In an article by Lawrence Queen, head of the local utilities, which appears elsewhere in this issue, he brings out a most interesting point in connection with the water supply for Vaughn. Queen states that the southern Pacific pipes water to Vaughn where the company sells it directly to the Santa Fe Railroad who, in turn, sells it to the town of Vaughn for the same price Carrizozo pays the Southern Pacific for its supply, which is 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

Just prior to press releases concerning the proposed sale of Bonito Dam by the Southern Pacific Company, the village of Carrizozo received a request from railroad officials to drastically reduce consumption of water with the explanation the situation is critical and dismal predictions concerning the water supply for the coming months. Practically on the heels of the railroad's request came the news release that the company's de-watering program made this source of water supply no longer essential to its operations.

It is reported the villages served by the company turned about the proposed sale through releases in the daily newspapers. Carrizozo's mayor, Vernon Petty, acted immediately in behalf of the village by wiring officials at El Paso regarding whether the town would be permitted to bid on the system as well as other factors pertinent to the situation.

B. Harris of the El Paso office replied by telegram stating the proposed sale was only in a preliminary discussion stage and no decision had been reached whether it will be on a bid basis. Harris promised a conference with all municipalities involved would be held within two weeks following his wire.

A reversal of Southern Pacific's contention Bonito Dam is no longer essential to its operations came the week following when village officials were notified, without advance warning, Carrizozo's water line was to be "pinched" immediately. The explanation given was the large number of trains passing through Carrizozo daily necessitated allocation of considerable quantities of water for the railroad's use. The southeast section of Carrizozo is without water when the railroad "pinches" the line, and to help alleviate this situation the supply in the other part of the village is entirely cut off three hours a day to permit residents of the southeast side to store water for use. However, they too are plagued by rusty water coming out of the pipes which makes it difficult for them to conserve or have time to store up a sufficient amount of water.

NOTICE TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given that an instrument purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Helena A. Coe, deceased, has been filed for probate in the Probate Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, and by order, the 21st day of August, 1951, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A. M., at the Court Room of said Court in the Village of Carrizozo, New Mexico, is the day, time and place for hearing proof of said Last Will and Testament.

Therefore, any person or persons wishing to enter objections to the probating of said Last Will and Testament are hereby notified to file their objections in the office of the County Clerk of Lincoln County on or before the time set for hearing.

Dated at Carrizozo, New Mexico, this 6th day of June, 1951.

The hours allocated to these residents are 8 to 7 and 9 to 10 A. M. and 3 to 4 P. M. However, so drastically has the pressure been reduced this year by the railroad company that not even with the cutting off of the water supply on one side of town were the villagers able to obtain water at times during the past week.

Last year, when Carrizozo, through a similar situation, its residents were bewildered by the variety of explanations offered by the railroad company for the water shortage even though the dam was full at the time. One official contradicted himself three times in a press release concerning the shortage, and then stated the leaking reservoir on the edge of town was the source of all the trouble. Repairs to it, which took approximately six weeks, were to solve the town's water problem, but somehow failed to accomplish that purpose.

Again, although Bonito Dam is full and only stopped overflowing early this month, Carrizozo must once more drastically reduce its water consumption which is restricted to domestic purposes only. Southern Pacific officials never appeared quite certain last summer whether or not a shortage of water existed, judging from their highly contradictory statements at that time. This year they again appear in a confused mood but with an entirely different slant. Their difficulty this summer appears to stem from the fact they can't make up their minds whether or not the water in Bonito Dam is essential to their operations, so contradictory statements issue, water continues to be drastically curtailed in Carrizozo, and the village itself remains square in the middle of the controversy and right "behind the eight-ball."

It is suggested that Southern Pacific officials take a good look at the picture reproduced on the front page of the News-Outlook, provided they are sincerely concerned regarding the water situation which they have provisionally termed as extremely critical. Shown in the photograph are just two of the numerous leaks occurring in the pipe line between the main cutoff outside Carrizozo and the point where it enters the village main. What the picture does not show is the number of underground leaks but which an inspection of the area will reveal. Other reports indicate this is not the only area where leaks of sizable proportions exist in the railroad's pipe lines.

Whether or not the dam is essential to the railroad's operations, conservation of water in New Mexico is of paramount importance. So much so, in fact, that the state has been engaged for sometime now in research for both underground and above ground water supplies. Carrizozo has had the great good fortune to be offered the services of scientists at the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, Socorro, in an effort to locate a usable source of water so that the village may install its own water system. Dr. E. J. Workman, president of the Socorro school and prominently identified in water research work, sent Dr. Charles Holmes and a two-man crew to Carrizozo last week to continue the exploratory work which they started several weeks ago. This week an additional crew arrived to assist with the project which is expected to take several weeks before any data can be made available to the village.

This work, which is absolutely free of charge to the community, is done in connection with the school's research to locate adequate supplies of water in New Mexico. The last Legislature appropriated $150,000 for a two-year program to be conducted by the Socorro college, but Governor Edwin L. Mechem cut $75,000 from the original amount allocated. This means the scientists have only $75,000 which they must stretch over a two-year period. In view of the extreme urgency of the state's need to locate adequate supplies of water if further progress is to be made, a large number of New Mexico residents are keenly disappointed at the governor's action in cutting this particular appropriation, feeling that any moneys expended in the search of water may mean the difference between a state of great economic importance and one which remains comparatively unimportant because of lack of sufficient water to attract new industries and residents to the vast area which comprises New Mexico. Sections of the state which have grown and progressed most to date are those where an ample supply of water is available.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Cattlemen Withhold Beef in Protest Of Government's Rollback Program

EMPTY MEAT CASES—Empty meat cases were beginning to show up across the nation as cattlemen continued to hold beef off the market in protest to the government's price rollback program of 8-to-10 cents a pound by October 1.

President Truman and Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle continued to stick by their rollback decisions. DiSalle told reporters retreat now might wreck the whole stabilization program.

While Truman and DiSalle were making these statements, Chicago and other cities reported nearly empty cattle pens. Packing firms continued to slaughter only a trickle of their normal quantity of cattle.

At the moment it seems unlikely there will be a great increase in slaughtering until after June 30. Cattlemen are gambling that price controls will be lifted at the end of this month.

The present situation is somewhat similar to the 1948 beef battle when cattlemen withheld beef in their successful attempt to kill the government's price control program.

FAR EAST SPECULATION—The unexpected and unannounced visit of George C. Marshall, secretary of defense, to Korea raised considerable amount of speculation in the home towns of the nation.

Repeatedly, Marshall told reporters he did not expect any Chinese peace move soon and that his visit was strictly military.

Of this much the home towners can be reasonably sure. Aging and not too well Marshall did not make the long and tiresome trip to Korea as a mailman's holiday, so to speak.

MACARTHUR INVESTIGATION—The Armed services and foreign relations committees' investigation of the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur moved on its weary way with two new witnesses.

Acheson's testimony was remarkable in that during the eight days there was no show of temper on the part of the witness or the investigators. In the minds of many, Acheson's thorough coverage of all questions asked was an attempt to justify the administration and the first move toward his withdrawal as secretary of state.

Only on one point was his testimony different from that of other administration witnesses. He asserted that MacArthur approved the 1948 attempt to bring the Chinese Reds and Nationalists together for a "united, democratic China."

The other witness, Gen. Wedemeyer, backed and even went beyond the Korean War proposals of Gen. MacArthur, but said President Truman had the right to fire his old commander.

WHEAT CROP MAKES COMEBACK—The agriculture department reported the nation's wheat crop is making a comeback from bad weather conditions and now promises the eighth successive harvest of more than a billion bushels.

The new forecast indicated a wheat crop of 1,054,000,000 bushels, about 25 million bushels more than last year's crop.

Unfavorable weather, particularly drought in the southwest great plains, and insects in the same area, coupled with cool, wet spring weather, had put the crop prospects under a cloud a month ago.

THE SLOW ADVANCE—United Nations troops in Korea smashed the Communist "Iron Triangle" and continued their slow advance northward. The Reds have put up stiff resistance in the last two weeks and suffered an estimated 40,000 casualties in defense of the triangle.

The Communist were retreating slowly and orderly. There were indications in some areas of enemy buildup, possibly in preparation for renewed attacks. There was nothing in the over-all picture that indicated a clear cut victory for United Nations troops.

United Nations troops continued their slow, steady advance in Korea, inflicting thousands of casualties on Chinese Reds in the "Iron Triangle."

INFLATION BATTLE—June 30, expiration date of the present defense production act, is only a few days away and there are several indications that the administration is afraid new control laws won't be strong enough.

President Truman appeared worried and made three moves to get a strengthened law through congress. He issued a public warning that the nation may see "an unmanageable torrent of inflation" unless economic controls are extended.

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston, on radio and television shows, has tried to arouse the people to the dangers of inflation. Neither President Truman or Johnston have been very successful in their efforts.

Peace Propaganda

SEN. BRIEN McMAHON of Conn. necktuck bumped into Justice Felix Frankfurter, close friend of Secretary of State Acheson, at a cocktail party the other day and remarked:

"What's the matter with Dean? Why is he so cautious? Here the Russians are out promising the moon to the world, and we sit with our mouths shut like a bump on a log."

"I know it," replied Frankfurter. "It's the English in Dean. He won't promise more than he can give."

Frankfurter referred to the fact that Acheson's mother belonged to the well-known Canadian Gooderham family.

What Senator McMahon referred to was the fact that American propaganda abroad has not always shown imagination and initiative, and that we have not pounded home the very real fact that the American people want peace.

Regardless of Acheson's English forebears, however, part of the failure is probably more due to the fact that the state department has been so hounded by senatorial critics that it is punch-drunk and timid. If it makes any peace moves, for instance, it immediately gets tagged with the appeasement label.

Tests Popularity

General MacArthur's trip to Texas is much more than a visit to admiring friends. Actually, it is a carefully timed test of political popularity to see whether the general's backers should go any further in their latent plans to push him for the presidency.

One of the men behind the Texas trip is congressman Al "Doc" Miller of Nebraska, the same GOP leader who promoted MacArthur for president in 1948. It was partly on Congressman Miller's urging that MacArthur entered the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries.

Both primaries proved a disappointment, and MacArthur felt that his Republican friends had let him down. Earlier, in Tokyo, the general had talked with optimistic visiting politicians who predicted that the American people would rise up almost unanimously to draft him.

MacArthur had even told Lieut. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, then in Tokyo, that he expected to be summoned back to the United States during the GOP convention in 1948 and that he, Eichelberger, should be prepared to take over as commander of Japan.

However, MacArthur headquarters during the 1948 convention proved to be the empty place in Philadelphia, and MacArthur felt that the party had taken him up on the high mountains.

Since the visit to Chicago was disappointing, in that the general failed to fill Soldiers' Field; and since the trip to Murfreesboro, Tenn., also failed to fill the local stadium, the Texas visit will be extremely important. Texas has promised a tremendous ovation, and if it goes over big, his close political backers hope that MacArthur will let his campaign cap be tossed into the ring.

Eisenhower on Ethics

It has never been made public, but General Eisenhower has written "amen" to Senator Fulbright's plan for drawing up a moral code for government conduct. He sent the Arkansas senator a letter, warmly praising his "ethics in government" speech.

"It would be difficult for me to express the fullness of my agreement with your sentiments," wrote Eisenhower. "There are so many specific points in your talk to which I am moved to say 'amen' that the only thing I can say is that, as a citizen, I am truly grateful you made your talk. As to the suspicion that you may be called naive, I have so often had this adjective applied to myself and for such odd reasons, that I have come to look upon it as a very distinct compliment; at the very least, it would seem to imply the opposite of deliberate racketeering."

Eisenhower also called Fulbright's attention to a New York Times story:

"The rise in illegal border-crossings by Mexican 'wetbacks' to a current rate of more than 1,000,000 cases a year has been accompanied by a curious relaxation in ethical standards extending all the way from the farmer-exploiters of this contraband labor to the highest levels of the federal government."

Washington Pipeline

Senators have turned down a request from Vice-President Barkley for a new Cadillac limousine. They decided he can get along on his old one. . . . The Dutch government has made discreet inquiries to find out whether it's true that "Call Me Madam" Perle Meats may be the next American ambassador to Holland. . . . The agriculture department has requested the national production authority to tone down its reduction of steel allocations for farm machinery.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Nervous System Works Two Ways

By Lawrence Gould

Can your nerves make you ill?

Answer: Not directly, says Dr. H. H. Waid Bird in the Mental Health Bulletin, Detroit. All that your nerves do is carry messages and commands between your mind and your body.

dominates in any relation with his parents. The man who becomes a leader is the one who has freed himself from the "mother-image," which implies dependence, and who dares to emulate his father by doing things "on his own."

Have reading difficulties an emotional basis?

Answer: Yes, writes H. C. Gundzberg in Mental Health (London). The best approach to the problem of the child who cannot learn to read is to study "the relationship between his emotional and social adjustment and the reading situation."

Do "mother's boys" make business leaders?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wladimir Fliorberg in business, "as elsewhere, authority depends more on the willingness of the subordinate to obey than on the leader's will to command."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Re-Condition House, Furnishings By Proper Methods

By Ertta Haley

Few homes, no matter how simple, are "a pond-water" houses. There was a time when everything could be cleaned with just soap and water, but now a variety of finishes, and the desire to give furnishings some of their "brand new look" make it essential to resort to varied cleaning methods.

Take a look around the house, especially such items as have been in use for a few months or years. Does the furniture show rings and scratches? Have venetian blinds lost their gloss? Are mirrors and windows shiny, without much effort?

These are but a few of the items in the house, but all of them as well as many others require some special attention to keep them from looking lived worn or abused.

Professional refinishing and attention is no longer necessary for many things about the house, as special cleaners are available to the homemaker which not only do the job soap and water once did, but give the furnishings a finish very much like they had when new. They're time-and-work-savers, too, and as such are economical.

Clean or Polish Painted and Other Surfaces

Painted surfaces may gather grime, dirt, smoke or smudge. When hard scrubbing methods are used, the dirt and grime will come off, but the walls may lose color and certainly their luster which makes them even more susceptible to dirt and other accumulations.

Clean and preserve...

Sinks and porcelain surfaces, as well as tiles respond to cleaning with widely-known powders. These will remove most common stains, and give the sink, particularly, a pleasing odor, as well as a nice finish. If sinks and porcelain surfaces are badly stained, use a household bleach diluted with water. It may be necessary to stopper the sink and let the bleach stand for some length of time to get the stain out.

There are porcelain and enamel polishes, too, for sinks and similar surfaces which will add luster, especially when they are well worn. Pour the polish on a cleaning cloth and apply to the surface. When almost dry, rub off with another cloth and polish with a soft cloth.

A fairly high gloss makes surfaces like this look new, and also helps in preventing stains and scratches to mar the finish.

Protect Table Tops

Since glass mats are such a smart dining accessory these days, this hostess gives her table a glass-like protective coating with a new, non-oily polish that contains silicone. This gives the woodwork a dry glow and protects the mahogany surface against spills and stains from food and liquids.

Clean Venetian Blinds By New Methods

If you have Venetian blinds in your home, you know they take a lot of dusting. In place of the old-fashioned dust cloth, get a brush especially designed for the purpose. Several different kinds are available, all designed to dust several slats at one time.

Blinds like this easily lose their shine and develop film, especially when they have been subjected to harsh and frequent cleaning. Their new look, their glossy finish and color can be restored with cleaners designed for the purpose, by applying a liquid to the slats with a soft cloth. If desired, you may apply one of the liquid waxes to the slats to give a nice, glossy finish.

Applicators for Venetian blind cleaners are usually two rubber sponges, anchored to a spring handle. These will sweep both sides of the slats in one sweep.

Venetian blind tapes do not usually wear out before the blinds, but they may become imbedded with coal from the air as well as stained by cleaners used on the slats. Use a fabric cleaner on the tapes.

Gloss of painted surfaces.

Clean Windows, Mirrors With Little Effort

You can clean and leave a high luster polish on windows as well as mirrors or picture glass in two simple operations instead of four or five with special type waxes or cleaners. If you want to make them scratch-proof, use a powder for this purpose, sprinkled onto a wet cloth and applied. When dry, wipe off with a dry cloth.

Prepared cleaners may be applied with a cloth or a spray. Let them dry, then wipe off, making certain that no cleaner is left on the window, and rubbing the surface completely dry.

Bring Beauty Back To Furniture

Furniture which has been scratched can be treated in several different ways. You may use a polish which thins as it shines and polishes, thereby concealing the scratches very easily. Another way is to use furniture wax which comes in finishes such as mahogany, neutral, maple or walnut. This, too, will cover most scratches as you apply the wax for polishing purposes.

Surfaces such as coffee tables, desks and dining tables which get a lot of hard wear may be treated with a polish that leaves a hard glossy finish. This finish enables the furniture to resist stains, scratches and finger marks.

Cream type waxes are good on many types of softly finished woods. They give a soft luster and their wax coating will protect the wood. If you're planning to re-finish furniture, old wax bases as well as paint and varnish can be removed with a preparation which does the job more easily than sanding or scraping.

Rings or marks left on furniture by water, perfume or heat can be eliminated with the use of a second conditioner. Some preparations are designed to be rubbed into the wood, while others remove the surface stains while also giving a polish.

To make dusting easier, there are several different types of chemically treated cloths available. These will give furniture a polish and by virtue of this luster, they keep the furniture resistant to dust, at least as much as is possible.

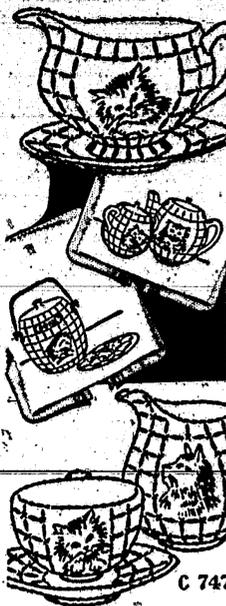

Several Methods are Available For Upholstery, Rugs

Badly soiled rugs and upholstery need professional attention, but there are many occasions when the soil is new or of such an amount that home cleaning will benefit it. Several different types are available, including dry cleaning, foam or dry soil.

For lightly soiled rugs, a powder that is sprinkled and brushed into the rug, left standing and then vacuumed, will freshen and brighten.

Foam cleaners are effective for both rugs and upholstery. Prepare whatever is to be cleaned by sweeping or brushing, and removing all loose dirt. Pour the foam cleaner into a basin and squeeze a sponge in and out of it until the liquid foams. Apply the foam in a circular motion with a sponge to fabric or rug and work through until the foam disappears.

Underactive Thyroid Causes Fatigue

By Dr. James W. Barton

AS WE THINK of the human body, most of us naturally have in mind the underlying bones which form the framework, the hundreds of muscles over the framework, then the various organs which handle our digestion, our breathing and circulation of the blood, and, finally, the brain and nerves.

many of us do not know as much about the underactivity of this gland, which slows up all mental and physical activity. In severe cases, the condition is called myxedema and the individual is called a cretin.

What many of us forget as we think of the body are the various glands which regulate the processes of the body: the thyroid gland in the neck speeding up the various processes and the adrenal glands in the small of back, one above each kidney, which slow down and steady the rate at which the body processes work. There is the pituitary, lying on the floor of the skull, which has much to do with regulating the handling of starch foods by the digestive organs and also glands supplying other organs.

As one of the outstanding symptoms of underactivity of the thyroid gland is fatigue or tiredness, Dr. H. E. Christman, in Ohio State Medical Journal, states that of the many patients who consult their physicians with a complaint of fatigue, only a small number have heart and blood vessel disease, anemia, diabetes or tuberculosis. "Life situations are a little too difficult for some and in others the fatigue can be accounted for by poor living habits."

While we know about the overactivity of the thyroid gland (goiter) and how it makes the various organs and processes work faster,

Therefore, Dr. Christman believes that mild hyperthyroidism (underactivity of the thyroid gland) is present in many patients who complain of fatigue. There were 138 patients with this condition among 1,000 consecutive cases of unselected patients seen in his office.

HEALTH NOTES

Impulse to work is matter of habit; neglect in using impulse may decrease it. That is why regular exercise is valuable.

Too much fat inside and outside abdominal muscles interferes with nature's efforts to store sugar in these muscles.

The impulse to work is usually less than normal in overweight individuals.

Health specialists point out that the ideal weight for men and women is what they weighed at 30.

Excess fat interferes with work of the heart and lungs.

Leanness itself may cause giant disorders.

ONCE OVER Hoss Racing - the Inside Track

By H. I. Phillips

A legislative committee is taking a look-see at New York race tracks to see how racing operates. We are glad to offer some help in obtaining the Facts of Life at Horse Ovals:

1.-The contests are for horses bred for speed and for racing addicts bred for endurance, gallantry and erroneous deductions.

2.-The horses run from five and a half furlongs to a mile and three-quarters. The fans run much farther. A horse pops a coglet, has a tendon, or breaks an leg and has to be retired. A better can suffer all four without weakening.

3.-Horses begin racing at the age of three and usually are through at the age of eight. A race addict rarely seems to develop beyond the age of three and is through only when in the hands of eight pallbearers, seven of whom are still listening for inside information that he may yet snap out of it and stage an upset.

4.-A race horse lives on choice oats and selected hay. (A better should live so well!)

5.-The ponies race under weights, conditions and classifications. It is realized that there are limits to what they can accomplish on a given afternoon. A race track addict acknowledges no such limitations.

6.-Weights are used to give every horse an equal chance. The fans do about the same, loaded or not.

7.-Horses wear special shoes. Fans are lucky to wear any.

8.-Interest in racing is sustained by huge purses. A horse can earn $100,000 for two minutes work. A fan may work all his life for it, even as an optical illusion.

9.-The horses are ridden by a strange race called jockeys. They are too small to take a horse out of a park and yet big enough to show inclinations in that direction.

10.-Betting is done by mutual machines. A mutual machine operates the same as a sausage grinder, except that the meat goes back to the butcher. It is a hamburger apparatus with a built-in cash register. It offers the only medium by which a man can spend an afternoon in a cement mixer and have it come under the head of outdoor sport.

11.-To place a bet you go to a window. These windows are mostly on the ground floor to discourage jumping.

12.-Suspense is added to racing by a photo-finish. A photo-finish is taken whenever two or more jockeys finish within telephonic communication of one another.

13.-Racing is called the Sport of Kings but it is supported by Deuces Wild and Jacks Back to Back. It has talked to a high art the practice of raising out of one side of the mouth, and developed a race known as Whispers Anonymous.

14.-First race starts around 1:45 p.m. Wrong information begins around 8 a.m. All aboard!

India's Hunger Told in Bread

Wheat Loan Is Equal To 4 Billion Loaves

Measured in bread, America's emergency food loan to India recently approved by both houses of congress will equal more than 4,000,000,000 one-pound loaves.

Each loaf will be more food than a peasant of northern Bihar now eats in two days.

By enabling India to buy two million tons, or roughly 75,000,000 bushels, of American wheat in American markets, the $190,000,000 loan may help to keep some 7,000,000 people from mass starvation this summer.

India's diet already includes herbs and locusts, tree leaves, twigs, dried grass and weeds, boiled to a watery broth that can fool the stomach only for a while.

Nearly a third of the 350,000,000 people of the Indian republic are on rationing. They are living on a daily handful of rough-grain-rice; grain sorghums such as jawar, bajra and ragi; or coarsely-milled wheat.

Still vivid in Indians' memory is the great Bengal famine of 1943 which went almost unnoticed by a world concerned with war. Japanese control of Burmese rice stores and a breakdown in India's rice distribution system caused the death of three to four million people directly, many more by disease brought on by malnutrition.

100 YEARS OF BROTHERHOOD

YMCA Plans to Expand Services In Small Towns and Rural Areas

(The first of two articles.)

One hundred years ago the Young Men's Christian Association, known familiarly to four generations of Americans as "the Y," was founded in the U.S. to fight vice, degradation and delinquency in the cities. Since then, its aims have broadened. Today, the Y teaches Christian ethics, through good fellowship, to the entire community. With 3,500,000 members, the Y has been successful in the cities. Now, in planning its next century, the YMCA is going to move into small towns and rural areas.

Always a self-searching organization, the Y is taking into account the somewhat humiliating fact that in this new campaign they are joining the tail-end of the parade. The Y clubs, the Epworth League, the Camp Fire Girls, the Future Farmers of America, the Girl Scouts, the Roman Catholic Rural Life Conference and even the youth program of the Mormon church are far ahead of the YMCA in respect to rural area activity.

Even their arch-rivals, the Young Women's Christian Assoc., is better organized outside of the cities than the Y. Some advisers at last year's Y conferences argued that other organizations held such a decisive edge in the farm country that competition would be a waste of time.

The social service program of the Y, however, is without parallel, offering as it does everything from recreation in the swimming pool or on the basketball court to a course in auto mechanics or professional advice in marital or parent-child relations. No organization which attempts to do similar work in any of its fields of activity is as well organized nationally or internationally or has such tremendous resources in manpower, equipment and experience.

In rural areas, however, the Y has a lot to learn. Fifty-four per cent of the YMCA's established in cities under 25,000 have died of inertia and disinterest in the last fifty years. For its failures in the past the Y freely blames itself. The organizations have failed to learn what people in small towns are like, what services they need and want and how they are best reached. Y officials recently declared:

In the cities, the Y has been particularly successful in handling restless, idle youngsters from all social and economic classes who, anxious for something to do, can just as easily be attracted by a stimulating hobby or a vigorous, healthy sport as by a pool hall or a low-class movie. The same need for legitimate outlets for aggressive energy does not exist in rural surroundings. Nor are they interested in the same skills or educational trends.

On the other hand, people in non-urban areas are likely to be anxious about health problems, and the Y will turn its attention to promoting good health in the country.

THE LACK OF PROPERLY trained teachers, the movement for consolidation of schools, the decline of the rural church, the absence of recreational programs for both children and grown-ups will be its other major concerns. It will attempt to introduce a new awareness of the importance of mental health and study, in conjunction with trained scientists, the emotional stresses and strains peculiar to country living.

The program sounds overly ambitious to those not acquainted with the Y's last century of progress, but the organization has proved its right to plan on a grandiose scale. Its influence on American life in the past century is almost without parallel.

Backball, now called the country's most popular sport, was invented by a YMCA physical education instructor who was looking for something to replace the dreary up-down-up-down callisthenics of his day. A few years later another instructor introduced volleyball. The Y was the first to establish summer camps and to encourage the now multi-million dollar summer camping movement. They gave the Boy Scouts their start-off push. A quarter-century ago the Y first recognized the psychological dangers in the decline of father and son relationships and devised the Indian Guide program to bring fathers and sons back together. They were the first to declare a holiday to honor the nation's fathers, and they have taught millions of young Americans how to swim.

THE FICTION CORNER

OBADIAH

By Richard H. Wilkinson

OBADIAH Nelson was a man of unappreciated qualities. For two years he had worked as clerk in the scenario department of Magnificent Films, Inc., and had thought up ideas for pictures which scenario writers wrote into scripts and directors produced for a neat profit.

"Lady Luck," Magnificent's most recent success, had netted the house something over a million dollars. Noel Norbert, who wrote the script received $2000, and Obadiah, who thought up the idea, collected his $50 per week.

Ada Adams, who occupied a desk next to Obadiah's and who carried $50 a week reading stories, knew what was going on and told Obadiah in no uncertain terms what she thought of him.

"Barium was right," she said. "How a man can be such a sucker and still live is beyond me."

Obadiah blushed to the roots of his hair.

"Why, shucks, I didn't do anything. It was just an idea I had that I mentioned to Mr. Norbert."

And Mr. Norbert collected $2000 for it.

A month later Magnificent began work on "Love's Appeal." Noel Norbert had turned in the script after taking Obadiah to lunch. A week after that Ada Adams came into the little restaurant on Sunset boulevard where Obadiah was eating lunch.

"Well, how's Magnificent's $50 a week sucker today?" she asked. "They tell me Mr. Norbert has turned in another box-office success that you thought up for him. He's making $2500 for it."

"Well, how's Magnificent's $50 a week sucker today?" Ada asked Obadiah.

Obadiah's face went white. Without knowing it Miss Adams had aggravated a wound that she had inflicted five weeks previous with her first scathing comment on Mr. Nelson's lack of what it takes to get ahead. She was, therefore, astonished when Obadiah suddenly rose without a word and left her.

Outside, his cheeks still rather pale, Obadiah was hastening toward the Magnificent studios.

"Mr. Maurice," began Obadiah firmly, "I want to know why it is that you pay $2000 to Noel Norbert for writing scenarios that I think up. No, don't answer. I know why. It's because you think I'm a sucker without enough backbone to stand up for my rights. Well, let me tell you something. I mean, you can drive a horse to water but you can't make him willing—I mean, drink. Or something. Anyway, I'm quitting. The Pacific studios have offered me a thousand a week to work for them."

Obadiah paused, breathing heavily, and mopped his brow. "Well," he said, "I guess that's all."

"Is that so?" said Mr. Maurice. "Well, young man, you're wrong. That ain't half of it." And he punched a bell button on his desk.

ADA ADAMS was eating dinner in the same little restaurant on Sunset that evening when Obadiah came in.

"Well," he said, "I've been raised from $50 a week to $1000."

"So I heard," said Ada. "Congratulations. I'll bet you could have got more, however, if you'd gone back to Pacific and told them that Maurice was meeting their price."

"I couldn't," said Obadiah, "because Pacific never offered anything in the first place."

Ada stared in open-mouth wonder. "Well, well, well," she said. "And likewise, well."

"Even if they had," said Obadiah, "I couldn't have thought up ideas for Pacific anyhow."

"Why?" asked Ada.

"Because you wouldn't have been there," said Obadiah. "All those ideas I thought up were about you and me. Just seeing you put them into my head. Without you I couldn't think of anything. In fact," he added, "sometimes I can't think of anything with you."

Ada swallowed a scallop whole. "For goodness sake!" she exclaimed. "Obadiah Nelson, I didn't think you had it in you to propose marriage."

"Propose?" said Obadiah. "Who's proposing? But it's not a bad idea at that."

Spending Habits In Marked Shift From Pre-Korea

WASHINGTON—The American consumer's "appetite" for various goods and services appears to have experienced a striking shift since the war as compared with prewar years, according to a study of personal consumption expenditures by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

In general, there has been a greater concentration of the consumer spending dollar on durable goods and on food at the expense of some of the nondurable goods and the service sectors of the economy. This trend was evident well before the Korean impact on the economy, even though in some areas intensified by that development.

True, all classifications of goods and services have experienced a marked increase in dollar sales in the last decade, accompanying the rise in total personal consumption expenditures from $72.1 billion in 1940 to an annual rate of $105.8 billion in the fourth quarter of 1950, a 47 per cent increase. However, durable goods and the food classification have shown a substantially greater percentage gain than this, while the other classifications have lagged.

Boom in Durable Goods

The greater-than-normal concentration on durable goods purchases, led by automobiles, was particularly pronounced in the last half of 1950. As a result, purchases of automobiles and parts in the fourth quarter of 1950 were at an annual rate of nearly $13 billion, or almost five times the $2.7 billion of such expenditures in 1940, and at the same time were equivalent to 6.5 per cent of all personal consumption expenditures in that period compared with 3.7 per cent in 1940.

The second biggest percentage gain was shown by furniture and household equipment where consumer expenditures rose from $3.8 billion in 1940 to an annual rate of $13.1 billion in the fourth quarter of 1950, a rise of 245 per cent. The entire durable goods classification hit an annual spending rate of $39.0 billion in the fourth quarter of 1950, nearly four times the $7.9 billion total of 1940, with its proportion of total personal consumption expenditures rising from 11 per cent to 15.3 per cent in the period.

Food Expenditures Rise

Food expenditures have risen to a level considerably above their prewar relationship to income.

Total expenditures for food and alcoholic beverages, which are classified together in the Department of Commerce analysis, rose from $20.7 billion in 1940 to an annual rate of $23.1 billion in the fourth quarter of last year, an increase of exactly 200 per cent. The rest of the nondurable goods section showed an expenditure increase from $10.9 billion to $42.2 billion in this period, a rise of 150 per cent. For services, total expenditures increased from $20.0 billion to $31.5 billion for the period, a rise of about 150 per cent.

Hoppy's Sidekick Now Star Of Big Television Program

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Gabby Hayes, the familiar sidekick to such famous stars of the west as Hopalong Cassidy, Gene Autry and Roy Rogers for many years, has finally branched out on his own, and bids fair to rival them all for popularity.

Gabby, cast in the role of the comic companion for the dashing Westerners, has deserted Hollywood for a show of his own on television. On his popular NBC video offering Sunday afternoon the bearded old character tells stories to two youngsters and also introduces stories in American history that are dramatized by live actors.

Although his business address is different, Gabby's appearance remains the same. He still wears the heavy collection of facial hair brush familiar to kids everywhere. During performances, he takes out his upper bridge to stay in part with his characterization, which has become almost authentic. Only 66, he has been doing the "old cod" act in show business since 1917.

A reported salary of $125,000 lured Gabby away from the wild west.

Pianist Finds Arrangements Fine—But Something Wrong

NEW YORK—Pianist Alexander Brailowsky was once scheduled to play a concert in a small South American city, where no other concert artist had ever appeared. The virtuoso was fearful, lest the auditorium manager, certainly of no experience, would bungled the arrangements. However, the moment he stepped on the stage, his fears left him. The hall was packed.

The audience greeted him wildly and he was forced to take one bow after another. Finally the din ceased and he turned to take his seat at the piano. With lifted coatails, he stopped agape at the discovery that there was no piano on stage!

Frantic efforts were made to locate that one item forgotten by the auditorium manager, but none was found and the concert was called off.

During World War II, a little over 10,000 dogs were processed through United States Army training centers. About 45 per cent of these were rejected as unsuited for training. Dogs actually trained and assigned to duty were as follows: Messenger, 151; Scout, 635; Mine Detection, 140; Sentry, 8,233, and sled dog and pack, 253. Many different breeds were tried out initially. Later the list was narrowed down to German Shepherd, Belgian Sheepdog, Doberman Pinscher, the Farm Type Collie and Giant Schnauzer. The German Shepherd dog proved to be the most satisfactory.

Your baby can recognize you at the age of six months. All babies are born with blue eyes. It is normal for a baby's eyes to have little or no coordination in the early months of life, but if the condition persists after the first half-year professional aid should be sought. At birth, a baby's eye is about two-thirds of the size it will be in maturity. Like the brain, the eye reaches its maximum size long before the rest of the body. It is usually full-grown by the tenth year. The blue eyes of the newborn baby change color in many cases within the first year.

Stabilized Prices
Over $35 billion of goods are sold annually in the U.S. under various legal forms of resale price maintenance, which permits trademark owners to establish the minimum prices at which their products are to be sold. Items sold under the fair trade method in 12 retail fields, notably drug stores, account for only $3 billion. Other price-maintenance methods have sales of $30 billion a year, including consignment selling, which all newspapers and magazines practice, and exclusive dealerships, used extensively in the auto industry.

A pruner has been developed that will give a clean cut without mashing the end of the stem. The pruner's cutting edge closes between parallel guards on the opposing blade which prevents the usual injury. Also, the head of the shears is sharply angled to give more power to the bite with less strain on the wrist. It has a tool-steel knife blade and pistol-grip handles. The pruner weighs less than half a pound, yet has a 600-pound bite.

Honest Harold Ickes 'Stole' Tide Lands Oil Wells

By Wright A. Patterson

WHEN I WAS A BOY in Washington county, Iowa, Long's Creek was one of the waterways of that county. It was not navigable even for a light canoe. It was just a creek, with water in spots in the summer, and those spots provided breeding places for bull heads and swimming pools for the boys of the neighborhood.

Because of the swimming holes, the boys claimed Long's Creek as their rightful property. Had the federal government of those days attempted to do what the federal government is doing today, it would have meant an insurrection on the part of those Washington county boys, that would have taken a corps of marines to suppress.

The counties of southern California have creeks similar to those in every county of every state. These California creeks serve the specially useful purpose of irrigation for the hundreds of fertile farms, without which they would not produce, and would be valueless. These creeks have been the source of arguments for these fertile farms, back to the Spanish mission days.

Now, without warning of any kind, the federal government notifies the farmers that they can no longer use the water of those creeks, as they are federal government property, and the rights to the water they carry belong to the federal government. Those water rights have been recognized as belonging to the farms they irrigate for more than 100 years.

That is seizure of property by the government, without adequate compensation to the owner, and it is specifically forbidden by the fifth amendment to the Constitution, but the federal government has refused to recognize the rights to compensation by the citizens.

What has happened in these California counties, could happen in Washington county, Iowa, or in any other county in any state, if California permits the central government to get away with such a steal.

It will be tried in other states, and the citizen will soon have no rights the government at Washington will recognize. That bold move on the part of the attorney general's office is more far-reaching than the little community of Wallbrook in southern California. Should it get away with that steal, there is no limit to what it can take.

In the days when F. D. R. and the New Deal was operating with the regularity of well greased clock work, honest Harold Ickes, then secretary of the interior, was a recognized source of New Deal ideas. One that bobbed up in his always fertile brain was for the government to take over the tide lands oil and so gather in the royalties the operators were paying to the states for each barrel of oil they recovered from the ocean depths, and to return which they had invested large, very large, sums in the drilling and operation of those tideland wells.

The terms Honest Harold offered were far from satisfactory to the operators, and they refused. But they stopped pumping and drilling. The states lost the royalties they had been receiving, and to supplement their diminishing revenues had to levy either taxes on their already ever burdened people; the nation lost the supply the tide lands fields had provided.

And all because Honest Harold had a bad dream. He would provide more revenue with which to meet New Deal spending, and put one over on the wealthy oil operators. Like some other of his ideas, that one did not work out as he had planned it.

Without that tide land oil we cannot meet the national defense requirements and keep 53 per cent more automobiles on the roads. Should the service station refuse to sell you all the gas you might wish, it will be safe to lay the blame at the door of Honest Harold's New Deal dreams.

Appropriation for Fair Deal Point 4 projects is one of the unnecessary expenditures Congress can well afford to forget under our present circumstances. With Fair Deal tutors to guide us, we are rapidly becoming a benighted nation, in need of our own philanthropy.

BOBBY SOX

No Imagination
A husband rushed around looking for his coat.
"What do you want it for, dear?" asked his wife.
"That fellow, Smith across the street just telephoned to ask if I can lend him a corkscrew," was the answer.
"Well, what do you want your coat for?" questioned the wife.
"Surely you don't have to go yourself. Why don't you send Junior over with it?"
The husband turned upon her more in sorrow than in anger.
"My dear," he said, "your last remark sums up the whole reason why women cannot lead armies, control nations or take anything but a subordinate part in the affairs of the world."

Worse Yet
For the first time little Judy saw a cat carrying one of her kittens by the nape of the neck. "You're not fit to be a mother!" she cried in shocked tones. "Why, you're hardly fit to be a father!"

EARLY START

Scotchmen are proverbial for their caution.
Mr. MacTavish attended a christening where the hospitality of the host know no bounds except the several capacities of the guests. In the midst of the celebration Mr. MacTavish rose up and made rounds of the company, bidding each a profound farwell.
"But, Sandy, man," objected the host, "you're not going yet, with the evening just started?"
"Nay," said the prudent MacTavish, "I'm no' goin' yet. But I'm tellin' ye good-night while I know ye all."

American Wild Life

The two Irishmen had landed in America and taken a room in a seaside hotel. To their surprise, they were attacked by mosquitoes, an insect new to them.
They turned out the light and crawled under the sheets. Larry peeped out, just as a firefly flitted in through the window.
"It's no use, Mickey!" he groaned. "They've come back wild lanterns looking for us!"

MISSING LETTER

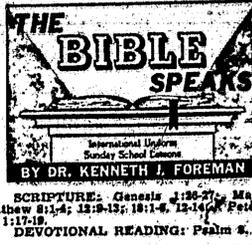

The Ideal Typewriter Company Gentlemen:
We hereby wish to acknowledge receipt of your shipment of one of your extra-special quiet typewriters.
However, upon opening the shipment we found that for the time being we shall be sorely handicapped. In general, the typewriter is in perfect mechanical condition except for one detail. Through some error of assembly there seems to be rather embarrassing omission - there is no letter on the machine for "x," the fifth letter of the alphabet.
Will you please let us know how to send you another machine or have this one serviced as soon as possible.

Sincerely,
Eric Walls, President,
The Xeroxlor Xpress Co.

SIT DOWN, GEORGE!
The boy had shown such ignorance the teacher was disheartened. She finally asked sarcastically:
"Do you know whether George Washington was a soldier or a sailor?"
"He was a soldier," answered the archbishop promptly.
"How do you know that?" she persisted.
"Cause I saw a picture of him crossing the Delaware, and any sailor would know enough not to stand up in the boat."

Berlin Diary
A German was a guest of a Frenchman who asked him how they distinguished in Germany between an optimist and a pessimist.
"It's very simple," the German replied. "The optimists are learning English, the pessimists Russian."

You Are Important

Lesson for July 2, 1951

YOU are important! Whoever you are, wherever you live, whatever you do, you are important to others, to yourself and to God. You are the one and only "you" you will ever be. You have but one life to live, one destiny to fulfill, one soul to save.
The Sunday schools of America are going to put in the rest of this summer studying Christian teachings about human relationships; and we begin, this week, by looking at a basic principle which underlies all of the Christian view of life and its relationships. No other teaching of the Bible will do you much good if you can't believe this simple truth: the incomparable importance of each individual person in the whole world.

Dr. Foreman

In The Image of God

HOW does the Bible teach the importance of the individual?
First of all, by declaring that man was made in the image of God. In spite of man's sinfulness, even in the abject and meanest of men there is still some trace of the image of God.
John Calvin, as is well known, was far from optimistic about the nature of man; but even Calvin wrote that the only good reason why we should love our enemies and do good to the undeserving, is that even in the worst of men there is still the image of God, so that what we do for any man we are really doing for the God whose image is in him.
Every man is in some sense a fresh creation. Widely used child catechism asks the question: Who made you? And the answer is, God made me and all things. Every one has the right to give that answer to that question.

Bought With Blood

ANOTHER reason why we believe that every individual is important is summed up in what St. Peter said (1 Peter 1): We have been redeemed - that is, ransomed, bought back - with what is more precious than jewels or gold, the "precious blood of Christ."
Does this mean only those who are now Christians? Surely not. You have a right to say to any man, anywhere: Christ died for you. If you cannot say that, then you are reduced to saying, Christ died for a limited number of people, and for anything I know to the contrary, you may be one of them.
That is a puny sort of gospel. If there is one thing which every evangelical church teaches with universal enthusiasm, it is that the gospel is offered freely to all. If there is one verse in the New Testament that sums up the gospel it is John 3:16: God so loved the world . . . that whosoever believeth . . .

That is no limited gospel. And no one who takes it seriously can look with scorn on any living soul. Jesus has warned us against scorning even a child. Isaac Watts once let a non-Christian idea get into one of his hymns - "for such a worm as I!" That is not a Scriptural idea. Christ did not die for worms, he died for men.

If So, Then What?

MOST Christians do not need even as much argument as this to make them believe in the worth of the individual; they are sufficiently convinced by the attitude of Jesus himself. Nobody could think seriously about Jesus' treatment of children, or his parables about the lost sheep and the lost coin, without coming to the same conclusion.
The key-question always is: What is this action, this attitude, this plan, this arrangement, this institution, this system, - what is this doing to persons?

Persons are more important than anything else in the world. This by no means goes without saying. For the world of our time is riddled and raddled with other and contrary ideas: as for instance that man is only an animal, or that he is simply the highest of the animals, or that a man's value comes from his family, or his race, or his bank account.
Against all these mistaken views the Christian must stand, firmly knowing that he, no more than others but no less, is made in God's image and an object of God's love; and so in himself, small though his place may be, not only has it value that can never be described in dollars, but it is worth more than the human race can ever own.

The dog's habit of sleeping on the furniture is easily cured. Before going to bed, set a number of small spring mousetraps on the dog's favorite resting places.
