Lincoln Starts Art Exhibition October 21st

By CAROLINE DAVIS, Curator
The first of the winter series of art shows, sponsored by the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission, will open Sunday, Oct. 21, at the museum in Lincoln, and will run through Saturday, Nov. 3.

The exhibition, loaned by the Roswell Museum, is entitled, "Word and Image," and its theme is novel and interesting. Devised by Paul Horgan, the well known writer and chairman of the board of the Roswell Museum, "Word and Image" matches reproduction of artistic masterpieces with passages from great literature. The mechanical means by which the related works are presented are both practical and surprising.

The Roswell Museum presented "Word and Image" last spring and received many comments for the richness and originality of the exhibition.

The members of the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission are delighted to have the opportunity (through the courtesy of the Roswell Museum) of bringing an outstanding art show to the people of Lincoln County.

Although there is never any admission charge to residents of Lincoln County, Sunday, Oct. 21, will be a free day to outsiders also, and tea will be served in the west gallery upstairs from 3 to 5 P. M.

Art lovers, friends of the museum, and all residents of Lincoln County are especially invited to come to the Lincoln Museum Sunday from 3 to 5 or any day before the exhibition closes Saturday, Nov. 3, to view this unusual show.

This is the first of the fall and winter art series scheduled especially for residents of Lincoln County.

The second in the series, a one-man show by Dan Kuslanovich of Fort Stanton, will have its opening Sunday, Nov. 4, in the west gallery upstairs at the old courthouse in Lincoln. It will be coincidental with the meeting of the Lincoln County Historical Society also scheduled for that date.

Son Of Capitan Couple Dies In Albuquerque

Bernice Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dean of Capitan, succumbed Tuesday, Oct. 16, at Veterans Hospital, Albuquerque. He had been in ill health for 15 months prior to his death.

Services were held yesterday afternoon (Oct. 18) at Capitan with interment at the cemetery there.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edith (Yarnell) Dean; sons, Bobby, Billy and Buddy; daughters, Peggy, Anna Bernice, Nora and Caroline.

The deceased was well known throughout Lincoln County, and at one time held the position of town marshal in Capitan, an office which he occupied for a number of years. He was a former employe of the Capitan Power Plant and during World War II was a guard at the German prisoners camp in this county. He later moved to California where he accepted a position with the U. S. Immigration Service.

Born in Custer County, near Elk City, Okla., Aug. 9, 1893, the greater portion of Mr. Dean's life was spent in and around Capitan.

Lincoln County Demo Committee To Meet

The Lincoln County Democratic Central Committee will hold a meeting at the courthouse in Carrizozo Wednesday night, Oct. 24, at 8 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting is to decide by vote if Lincoln County Democrats will adopt the convention system of nominating candidates, or if they will retain the old primary system.

State Chairman Waldo Spess has been invited to attend this meeting and discuss the two systems, according to Carl Neas, chairman of the Lincoln County Democrats. At this time Spess had not confirmed his acceptance.

All Democrats are invited.

J. H. Brown Heads Local Food Mart

Newcomers to Carrizozo are John H. Brown, the local manager of the new Food Mart store here, and Mrs. Brown who came here about two weeks ago to assist in preparations for opening the super market located in the remodeled community hall building across from the courthouse.

"While her husband has been busily engaged in the Herculean task of stocking the new food market and arranging the displays of its foods, Mrs. Brown has been scouring the village for living quarters. She reports no luck in her search so far but refuses to be discouraged. A nurse before her marriage, one of Mrs. Brown's hobbies is arranging colorful cactus gardens in pottery gardenware designed for most effective display. A petite and gracious person, she expressed the hopeful wish her search would soon be rewarded—she will have room to display the results of her pleasurable hobby.

The manager of the new store, a congenial and friendly individual, was born at Cisco, Texas, Oct. 7, 1894, and attended schools there. He reports that Cisco State College, which he attended, has previously been known by two different names—Brittain and Randolph.

Brown served in France and Germany during World War I and when he returned to the states in July of 1919, after serving in the army of occupation, he went to Breckenridge, Texas, where he worked for the Humble Oil Company for eight years. In 1933 he moved to Fort Worth where he first entered the grocery business. Subsequently he lived in Kilgore, Texas, and various places in west Texas. Brown comes to Carrizozo from El Paso, but had previously been with the Food Mart at Carlsbad. Prior to his employment with that company, with whom he has been associated for the past 18 months, he was with a grocery concern in Hobbs.

Mrs. Brown, the former Miss Lena Nell Rose, is a native of Wichita Falls, Texas, and has a daughter, Mrs. Cecil White of Lubbock, and a son, Jack Jones of Glenn Ranch, Calif., by a previous marriage.

The couple commented on the friendliness of the residents of the community and said they are happy to have been given the opportunity to reside in Lincoln County and enjoy its delightful climate and community activities.

School Band In Need Of Musical Instruments

The Carrizozo School Band is sending out an SOS plea for the rental or loan of band instruments, including cornets, tenor and alto saxophones, trombones, clarinets, horns and baritone, until the class is able to buy new instruments.

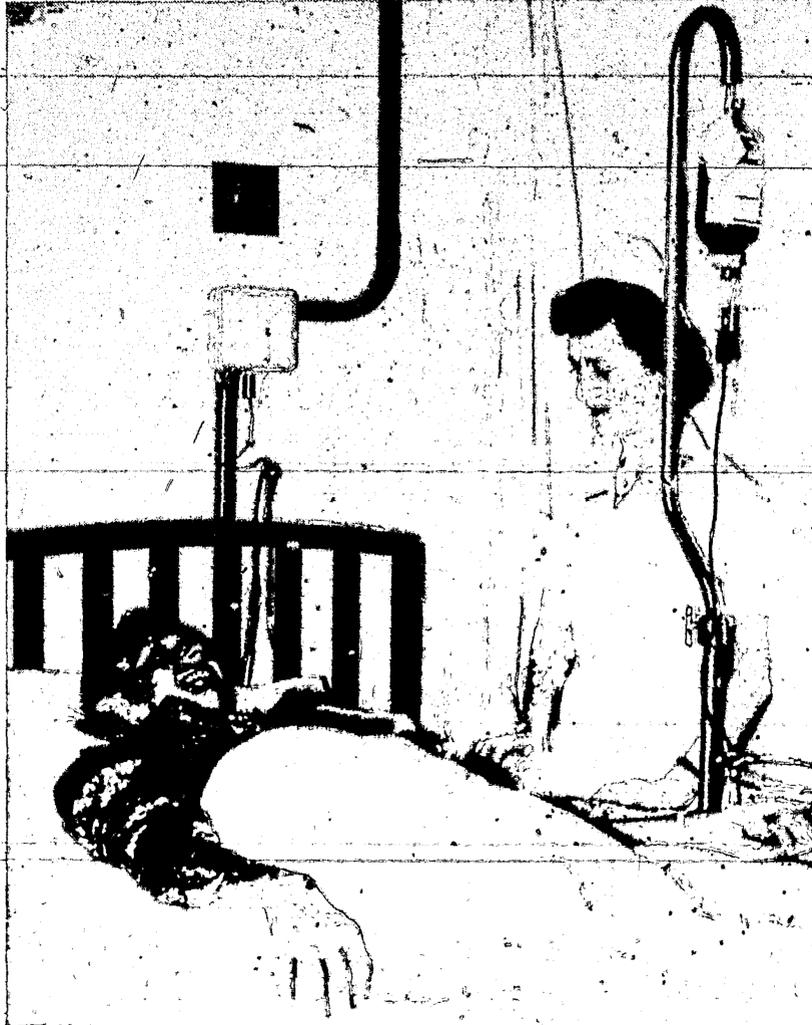

Wanda Garrison, reporter for the band class, stated any instrument accepted by the class would be returned in as good if not better condition than it was originally. Band members will be glad to make any minor repairs.

The reporter said the class playing is improving rapidly and urged residents of the community to back the project and help the students to achieve their goal of a band which will be a credit to Carrizozo. Any monetary donations will be most welcome also to the 28 members who comprise the band's personnel since their organization fund is practically depleted, and they are further handicapped with only 18 usable instruments for 28 students.

J. A. Bartkus is the teacher of the local group whose ultimate goal is a 35-piece band. Personnel of the present organization includes students from the fourth through the 12th grades.

A good school band has long been needed and desired in Carrizozo and any of the community's residents who may have the desired instruments to make available for use by the students will be sponsoring a most worthy civic program. Who knows but what some Carrizozo youngster may later embark upon a successful musical career as the result of assistance from the hometown folks when it was most needed.

Blood Donors Save Lincoln County Soldier

This is the story of your blood, the blood of people whom I do not know, the blood of people whom I have never seen. I had often heard of blood transfusions, but to me it was just something that you would give sick people in hospitals, and not once did it occur to me that it would play a most important part in my life. It all started about 3:30 A. M., February 13, 1951, near Wong-Jong, Korea. My buddies and I were fighting our way out of a trap. We had secured a 2 1/2-ton truck, and were attempting to break out of this trap. I was the driver. The escape route was heavily mined; I had just gotten the truck underway when I hit a mine which exploded. The truck was demolished, and I found myself lying on the bank of a ditch, unable to move, as part of the exploding mine had penetrated the region of my hip, fractured my sacrum, and perforated my intestines. I fell off the ridge of this bank and landed, of all places among a group of Chinese soldiers. I lay there without treatment for about seven hours, which seemed an eternity to me. Finally the American forces overran the position, and I was evacuated to an aid station. I had been pretty badly blown up, and nothing mattered. My strength was gone, I was paralyzed from my waist down, and there was very little left to resemble life. I was immediately evacuated to a hospital near Taegu, where four transfusions (one gallon of your blood) was poured into my veins. This blood began to give me new life, and I began to take notice of my treatment and surroundings. It was then that I began to think about the tremendous importance that they play in the preservation of life.

I was later evacuated to Japan, where I received more of your blood. While in Japan, I was awarded the Purple Heart—I received this Purple Heart in person, which was only made possible by your donations of life-saving blood. I was finally evacuated to William Beaumont Army Hospital, El Paso, and at present have received a total of 53 transfusions, approximately 30 quarts, or 7 1/2 gallons. You probably will receive no letter of commendation or medals for donating your blood, but you will receive the undying gratitude and thanks of your American fighting men.

If it had not been for your blood on the front lines, I would not be here today. It is earnestly requested that you support your Blood Donor Center at Fort Bliss, and all other blood donor centers throughout this great land of ours, because it is so little to give for so great a cause.

Whole blood cannot be manufactured at defense plants, neither can it be purchased at the corner drug store. It must come from YOU. The need for blood in Korea continues to be great. Many of my close friends are still there, and should they receive wounds such as I received, it is only fair that they be given the chance to receive life saving blood. I am still receiving two transfusions of YOUR blood each month, and I have a long way to go before I reach my hometown of Tinnie, New Mexico, but with the help of YOUR blood, I am confident that I will make it. If you keep your blood flowing to the fighting men of the armed forces, the issue shall never be in doubt, and the Stars and Stripes will fly over these United States forever.

(Editor's Note: Pfc. Johnny W. Hodges is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges of Tinnie.)

J. G. Moore Named To GOP Committee

J. G. Moore, Carrizozo, Lincoln County clerk, has been named by Harry Robbins, Albuquerque, state Republican chairman, as a member of the state GOP committee to meet Oct. 27 for revision of state rules. Robbins has asked committees of the 32 New Mexico counties to meet on Oct. 29 to determine whether county and district candidates shall be chosen by convention or open primary. The committee, of which Moore is a member, will prepare a suggested draft for the new state party rules to provide for nomination of candidates for the various county offices by direct primary or pre-primary convention.

The new state law requires state pre-primary nominating conventions, leaving a choice at the county level. New Mexico Republicans indicate their party rules will set up convention procedure.

County decisions of the two parties must be filled with county clerks by Nov. 5. If a party organization in any county fails to file a decision by Nov. 5, the candidates will be chosen by open primary as in the past.

The new law provides for both convention and primary election at the state level. Every candidate who gets 20 per cent or more of the convention's total votes has his name printed on the primary ballot. Or, a candidate can get his name on the ballot by filing a nominating petition. Conventions must be held by March 4, and petitions may be filed between 9 A. M. March 4 and 5 P. M. "the third day thereafter."

Petitions must be signed by voters totaling at least 2 per cent of the vote cast at the last general election by the party in question for the office in question, and signers must be from at least 10 counties. Candidates would have only a week or two between the convention and filing deadline to secure the necessary number of signatures.

The new law which sets the primary date up to May, was originally passed by the 1932 Legislature but was kept from being put into effect by referendum petitions which placed it on the 1950 general election ballot. Since voters failed to reject it, it is effective for the 1952 election with modification written by the 1951 Legislature.

Carrizozoan's Nephew Injured In California

Brannum who is vacationing in Coalinga, Calif., writes that her nephew, Lin Cooper, son of Jim Cooper, is in the hospital at Hanford, Calif., with a broken neck suffered in a recent plane crash. Mrs. Brannum said her nephew barely escaped from the plane which caught fire after the wreck and was completely destroyed.

The Carrizozo woman sent her regards to her friends in Lincoln County and said she is enjoying her vacation immensely. Mrs. Brannum is the mother of Mrs. Margie Clouse, Carrizozo, teller for the Lincoln County Agency here.

Lawrence Queen, Carrizozo utilities head, said Thursday morning another water test has shown positive for the coliform group and urged all water users to continue boiling their drinking water until further notice.

Contract To Be Let On 10 Miles Highway 54

Delegates who attended the National Highway 54 Association convention at El Paso last weekend report Ralph Jones, chairman of New Mexico Highway Commission, informed them about 10 miles of construction on the controversial highway will be let for contract sometime next month. Jones is also reported as saying that an additional 15 miles will be let next summer, but would not hazard a guess as to when the approximately 17 miles remaining will be completed.

If the contract for the 10 miles of road work is let next month as promised by Jones at the convention, it will mean the completion of the unpaved portion as far as Carrizozo, there remains an unpaved stretch of about 32 miles, according to the highway commissioner.

Gale Moss, director of Kansas highways, reported work totaling $2,523,110 has been done in 21 out of 13 counties this past year, and that next year's big Highway 54 project is the erection of a six-lane viaduct over railroad crossings at Wichita.

Missouri improvements include resurfacing of 12 1/2 miles and the current agenda calls for repairs to an additional 25 miles in the southwestern section of that state.

Oklahoma delegates report the highway through their state is in excellent condition with no work needed during the past year.

New Mexico is the only state in the several where Highway 54 is located that has not entirely completed the paving of this strategic route from Chicago to the West Coast which is known to be not only the fastest and shortest, but is also the mild all-year-round highway between two points. Officials of the national 54 association have previously reported that other states in the association have attempted to bring pressure to bear on New Mexico's highway department to complete this important national highway without further delay. Military men in New Mexico have also informed the present highway commission of the importance of this road to the welfare of the entire state, and it is a well known fact that in case of enemy attack this stretch of unpaved road, which at times is impassable and has dealt not only misery but death itself in the past, could be a serious deterrent to the welfare and safety of many.

Concluding the convention's business sessions at the El Paso Chamber of Commerce building Friday, delegates and visitors were taken by special buses to Juarez for sightseeing and dinner. Dan King, Tularosa, convention chairman, was master of ceremonies during the dinner hour.

Saturday's program included a speech by Governor Edwin L. McChesem and a trip to Carlsbad for a tour of the caverns.

N. D. Wood, Oage Beach, Mo., is reported as the newly elected president of the national association for the ensuing year.

Utilities Head Explains Water Mains Flushing

Lawrence Queen, Carrizozo utilities manager, in answer to several inquiries, has written the following article for the information of the village's residents in connection with the draining of the town's water mains:
"Since some maintenance work on the village's streets, performed by the county grader approximately two months ago, was completed the mains have been flushed out four times. In blading the streets, one of the mains was accidentally broken by the county equipment which made it necessary to cut off the water and completely drain the lines. When the water was turned back into the mains, much rust and sediment was loosened and it was necessary to drain the mains again on the following day.
"The Health Department was notified of the water's condition and samples were taken. A total of seven samples were taken and each sample broken down into five units. Out of these 35 units, only one showed presence of bacteria in the coliform group. It would seem the other four samples in that particular group should have shown the presence of bacteria and why they didn't is beyond my comprehension.
"After receiving the report from the Health Department, the Southern Pacific Company permitted us water with which to again flush the mains, which made three times within one month. Just two weeks ago, in conjunction with the local fire department and the Southern Pacific Company, each fire plug was pumped and extra chlorine added to the mains. On the following day the chlorine content was checked and found to contain 4 per cent or twice the minimum amount that is required by the Health Department. The tests were made at several points in the system and in each instance the result was the same.
"Another point that should be explained is the fact that the water is first chlorinated at Bonito Dam, again at Nogal Lake, and finally here at Carrizozo just before it enters the village water mains. It is checked daily by a railroad employe who, incidentally, is a resident of this town and drinks the water the same as you and I. According to his records, the chlorine content of the water is not and never has been below the required 2 per cent.
"I trust the foregoing explanation will give the information desired by Carrizozo water users, and will be glad to furnish any additional data that is possible for me to do so. As all of us know, we need a more adequate water system, and I might add Mayor Vernon Petty and the village council are now working on, and have been for sometime, this same problem. It is a well known fact that adequate utility systems cost money, and since it will be your money, we can't be too careful of how we spend it."

Carrizozo Grizzlies' Losing Streak Unbroken

The Carrizozo Grizzlies' losing streak was unbroken Friday afternoon when they went down to defeat at the hands of the Vaughn eleven to the tune of 21-0. Bobby Hicks suffered rib injuries which will keep him out of the game with Ruidoso today (Friday).
Part of the bad luck, which appears to be dogging the local squad this season, for last week's loss is attributed to the rough weather which was encountered at Vaughn when the lighter weight local men met the heavier out of town eleven in a bad sandstorm.
The Grizzlies' only count was made after a setup in which Kennedy spiraled to Holguin for a gain of 40 yards, and Lee Straley took the ball on the two-yard mark to push over for their only touchdown.

Veterans Urged To Join American Legion Veterans of World War II have established an enviable reputation as good risks under the loan provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights and they pay their obligations on time, but there is one big debt millions of them have overlooked, according to the American Legion.

The veterans of World War II and of the Korean conflict are the beneficiaries of the most generous readjustment and rehabilitation provisions ever made by any nation, anywhere, anytime, says the organization, and lists the following statistics: A total of 13,201,829 World War II veterans drew mustering out pay; 10,644,493 got terminal leave pay; 8,216,034 drew unemployment compensation; 7,499,033 got schooling or on the job training under the GI Bill; 2,480,490 got loans to buy homes; 140,523 got loans to enter a business of their own, and 61,319 got loans to purchase farms.

But these benefits, these rights and these privileges didn't just happen, states the Legion. They had to be fought and labored for. The American Legion states it has always stood on the firing line of veterans' legislation and war veterans who have benefitted as a result of the Legion's loyal efforts in their behalf, should be appreciative.

An eligible veteran who has received a college education or bought a home or drawn an unemployment check under the provisions of the GI Bill should show his appreciation to the Legion by becoming its member, says the Legion, and capitalize the "GI" in Legion for a stronger and more secure America!

Provide fire-fighting equipment for homes and farm buildings, but, better still, eliminate fire hazards before they eliminate you.

R. G. Stewart and Manuel Freeman reported a wonderful time fishing at San Marcial last week.

The past matrons of the Eastern Star held their club meeting at the home of Mrs. G. A. Titaworth on Tuesday of last week. Those present were Mesdames Ogner, Sales, Sitton, English, Mayer, Lowe and Grace Jones. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Grady Eldridge, Virgil Hall and Ray Taylor were to meet Orland Wilson at Cedar Edge, Colo., and go on to Durango, Colo., for an elk hunt.

Edward Choate, high school teacher, had a pleasant surprise last week. When he reached home from school his house was buzzing with company. Gleason of Anson, Texas.

By G. WARD FENLEY I am amazed each week at the items that make newspaper headlines in the different parts of the country.

If there happens to be a national emergency on tap—such as the baseball world series—you can be sure that all papers will run the same thing.

But nine times out of 10, each of the U. S. A.'s 1,800 dailies and probably four times as many weeklies will each have some banner story that is predominantly important to that specific part of the country.

Tops, for example, now to Gordon Greaves of Portales is that that year harvest season is in full swing. That's a natural for Gordon because that's his bread and butter.

To all agricultural sections of the nation, the first crop of Jack Frost is uppermost in the minds of readers of newspapers.

Then we like to see some editor get excited over some wrong that is happening in his neighborhood.

Too bad he can't print his reactions verbatim. But the editor of the Union County Leader did his best last week about a "gyp" circus that hit town: "Of all the sorry 7/8 1/4 - 7/8 1/4 outfits to call itself a circus."

You can read between the lines and know just what blankety-blank expletives the editor was whirling through his mind.

The talk in state and national capitals is always politics.

I heard about a guy in Santa Fe this last week telling another that he was driving an "Eisenhower" car.

"You know—an Eisenhower car—you never know whether it's going to run or not."

With all the talk about irregularities in the camps of both Democrats and Republicans, you get to wondering if we are electing the right type of officials.

In Africa a man can't hold office until he has shot a rhinoceros.

In America his only qualification is to be able to shoot the bull.

I got a nice letter from Ralph H. Faxon, secretary for the Navajo Trail Association (Walsenburg, Colo.) telling me what was news in his locality. Seems Ralph, as a lot of others, reads the Roy Record.

Now for state-wide news. Jack Sitton (Carlsbad Little Argus) saw a sign: "Bull in Gallup by Navajos." He wants a sign to read: "Bull in Carlsbad by Cave Men."

Also from Carlsbad: "Hugh Hall moved into town and found two other Hugh Halls already in the Caverns City. The newcomer has henceforth changed his cognomen to 'Baldy' Hall."

From the Santa Fe New Mexican: "Elizabeth Ann Bigbee, 11, suffered an arm bone fracture when she fell in the carnival's 'Fun House.' No fun for her, says the New Mexican.

They marry young at Tucumari (News): "Viola Faye Stormes, 2, and Elber T. Stewart, both of Oklahoma City, married by Judge Fred White."

The Thursday Bridge Club met at Mrs. Carl Mankinen's on Thursday, Oct. 11, with first prize won by Mrs. Percy Parker, second, Eljeen Reid, and low, Mrs. Tom Burleson. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The local bridge club recently held a dinner and bridge session for the members' husbands, who reported an excellent turkey dinner was served them. Honors for the evening went to the following: First prize, Mrs. Dan Kuslanovich; second, Mrs. Leo Payman; third was a tie between Miss Lenore Stemmer and Dr. Darlington. Low went to Nurse Minch.

John Kelley of the Engine Room is sporting a new Olds Rocket 88.

The committee of the Bonita Club reports there will be no party in October due to the fact that so many of the members are on vacation during this month.

Earl Harcrow of the office staff has been vacationing this past week. Also of the office staff, Miss Evelyn Cheney is taking some time off.

Mrs. Leo Payman and Mrs. Dan Kuslanovich are again back in nurses' uniforms. Both of these ladies worked during the last war.

Burr R. S. McClain has just recently been honored with a promotion to supervising operating engineer. His jurisdiction is over the power plant. Other recent promotions are Louis Merrell, building superintendent; Jack Shaw, assistant building superintendent, and Joe Ferguson, general mechanic.

waste paper baskets and burned up $1,100 in Carlsbad. Moral: "Don't clean house."

Farmington Times: "Sometimes ethel, sometimes regular but always good gasoline." Blondes always carry a punch.

Also the Farmington Times was saying that there are no old maids on the Indian Reservation: "The rest don't remain unmarried very long."

Don Pinkston in the Roswell Record on the subject of why women don't want to serve on juries: "It is a law of female human nature to be contrary and they never lose an opportunity to be coy." Boy, I wouldn't dare say things like that. I'm married.

In conclusion for this week, Don might have added: "The thing that most women dread about their past is its length."

ANCHO By ALLIE SNODGRASS Way the news has been delayed from Ancho lately, one might think I had a broken arm, but its my little 6-year-old "Butchie" who has a broken arm. He fell from the swing at school last week, breaking left arm above the wrist. Dr. Turner sent us to an orthopedist in Roswell. Burch will wear a cast for several weeks, but so far so good. Governor Mechem was there, as well as four members of State Highway Commission. This is the first time the 54 meeting has been held in El Paso. When and if we do get "our strip" finished we can give a large measure of the credit to the Straleys, who have seen to it that Ancho was represented at every meeting. Several Ancho ladies drove to Claunch on Friday for a book review and all day meeting of the Presbyterian Auxiliary. Sorry I have no more details on same at this writing. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pair and son, Donald, are visiting in Detroit, Texas, this week. Charlie is being relieved by Paul Pratt. Glad to have Paul and his wife with us. Among guests at the E. I. New Managers Named For Petty Motel Here

New resident managers at the Motel Petty in Carrizozo are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn M. Parsons.

Although the Parsons' home has been in Birmingham for the past two years, Los Angeles had been their residence for a number of years previously.

The new managers replace Mrs. Robert M. Grantham, sister of the Petty brothers.

Parsons, in an interview with the News-Outlook this week, said he and his wife will attempt to maintain the same high standard of service for which the motel is noted.

Parsons, who was born in Dodge City, Kan., attended schools there but has made his home in the West for the past 35 years.

NOGAL MESA

By DOROTHY GUCK Lots of complaints about the weather being too dry, but in other respects, isn't it wonderful? Washing dries on the line in no time, haven't needed many fires for warmth and the leaves are most all on the trees yet.

Folks on the Mesa are beginning to round up their cattle. Roy and Fred LaMay, Henry Peebles and Dan and Virgil Jones all brought some down from the high country this week.

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, Friday, October 19, 1951

No War This Year

THE month of September and early October when the harvest is in is the time when the chancelleries and general staffs of Europe watch closest for signs of war. If Europe can get by this period of dry, mild weather before winter bogs down an attacking army, they figure there will be no danger of war at least until June.

Top U. S. officials, likewise, have made all-important surveys of the war possibility, and it is possible for this column to report what their general conclusions are:

1. Russia will not launch World War III this year. However, Russia is expected to continue pressing war by satellites.

2. China, not Russia, has been more eager for a truce. The U. S. war study indicates that Russia came out with the truce proposal chiefly for propaganda purposes; perhaps to stall for time in order to get new arms to Korea.

3. Next step in Communist aggression is likely to be Burma, Thailand, and Indo-China. This area is all-important to the Kremlin if the millions of China are to have rice. Moscow would probably gamble on starting World War III in these countries, though she doesn't actually want it.

4. In Iran the Russians will probably march into the northern province of Azerbaijan and take it by force—if the British go into southern Iran to protect their oil refinery. Here again the Russians are willing to gamble that the west will not go to war over Iran.

5. In Germany, the U. S. analysis does not anticipate a Russian military move, but does foresee a continual army build-up.

Behind Iron Curtain

Increasing evidence is coming back from inside the iron curtain to show that the freedom-friendship balloons and other activities of the crusade for freedom have really got under the Kremlin's skin. In east Bohemia, for instance, fields where the balloon messages fell were declared "off-limits" to farm workers by security sections of the national Communist committee. In another section of Bohemia, Communist officials offered rewards to the teams of youth brigades who collected the largest number of friendship leaflets.

Near the Czech-Austrian border, a pair of border police reported "voluntaneous flying objects" which might be enemy paratroopers. When Prague got the report, it dispatched tank units and great excitement.

The flying objects, however, turned out to be pillow balloons with the word "Svoboda"—"freedom"—written on them in large letters. They were bouncing along the ground in the early morning twilight like miniature flying saucers. Inside of them, of course, were friendship messages from the American people to the people of Czechoslovakia.

Wooling Out Bureaucrats

It hasn't received any publicity, but President Truman has ordered a drastic housecleaning to sweep the drones from federal government. An ultimatum has already gone out to all agencies to clean house or face budgetary and personnel cuts. The present emergency has caused great demands on the manpower resources of our country with shortages of manpower in certain special areas, already being felt. The federal government, as the largest single employer in the country, should set the example. Therefore, I expect the head of each executive department and agency to bring about maximum effectiveness and economy in the utilization of personnel. The President wrote in identical letters to civil service chairman Robert Ramepek and budget director Frederick Lawton.

Truman ordered them to "request reports from all departments and agencies and conduct regular inspections and surveys so that reports can be made to me on progress in conserving manpower."

"This manpower conservation program should be given top priority throughout the executive branch," the President added.

As a result, Ramepek and Lawton sent a joint ultimatum to all agencies to "take steps to assure the most effective and economical use" of manpower.

Washington Pipeline

Though she stands ace with new Secretary of Defense Lovett, dynamic Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg may resign. She was brought in by George Marshall to cut the waste out of armed services' manpower and has nearly accomplished her mission. In a recent week-end operation, Michigan's Sen. Blair Moody and Walter Reuther, of the auto workers, talked defense mobilizer Charley Wilson out of $600,000 in contracts.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World

Kaesong Out As Conference Site; 934 OPS Violations Are Reported

HOUR OF DECISION.—For weeks the people in the home towns of the country have held to the hope of peace in Korea through negotiations. This hope all but died last week as Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, following a conference in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew Ridgway, gave an irrevocable "no" to Communist demands that the United Nations send negotiators back to Kaesong to resume the peace talks.

As an alternative, the UN command offered to meet the Reds at Songhyon in no-man's-land. At the same time, Gen. James Van Fleet, commander of the eighth army, issued a warning that has been interpreted as a thinly veiled threat. He implied, in a statement announcing the opening of an Allied fall offensive, that his forces are capable of driving the Reds completely out of North Korea.

Should the Reds refuse to meet the Allies at Songhyon and do not suggest another meeting place, which is considered possible in many quarters, the newspapers of America will be filled with news of all-out war in Korea during the next few months.

Some observers believe the Chinese do not want to fight another winter campaign. In this hour of decision, in which Communist and Allied forces face each other across a bloody and war-torn Korea, the hope of peace rests squarely on the Chinese.

In his announcement that his forces are capable of driving the Reds from North Korea, Van Fleet said that the Allies inflicted 183,237 casualties on the enemy during the past four months. This is equal to approximately 10 Red divisions.

Since the war began the United Nations forces have inflicted an estimated 1,200,000 casualties on the North Korean and Chinese. United States army officials estimate the Reds now have 400,000 men on the fighting front with another 200,000 in immediate reserve.

NEW DRAFT CALL.—More men from the home towns of the nation face a draft call during November and December with the announcement last week that 35,000 men will be called for duty in the army and marine corps.

The latest call will bring to 734,000 the men called since the draft was resumed in 1950. The marines have taken 41,000 of the total.

The 30,000 needed in November is 5,300 more than previously announced. Present strength of the corps is about 211,000 officers and men. Of the total, the marines will take 19,900 men.

TAX BILL.—By the time this appears in print the house and senate committees may have finished its work on the new tax increase measure and reported it in final form. The senate version calls for a $5.4 billion boost in taxes; the house $7.2 billion. Whatever the final figure, the total tax bill will be one of the largest in the nation's history.

Last week's tax news, however, was not confined to the new tax bill. Of interest was the announcement by Senator George that the new bill "is the last tax-increase bill I will support short of all-out war or a war crisis."

The senator's announcement was of special significance in that he is chairman of the senate finance committee and it is his job to guide tax measures through the senate.

He pointed out that the new tax measure will increase revenues to $27 or $28 billion a year in a full year's operation, an all-time high. "That is enough to spend in a year," he said. "It is about $15 billion more than we should spend even with a stepped-up defense program."

Then he added, "There must be a cut. I know there can be cuts if there is any strong will in the executive department."

Without Senator George's support any future tax measure would have little, if any, chance of getting through the senate.

MEAT-RULE VIOLATIONS.—The office of price stabilization made the startling announcement that its agents have found 934 violations of meat regulations, involving 435 slaughterhouses, in raids in every section of the country. Two out of every five of the 1,145 slaughtering plants check were found violating beef regulations.

Michael V. DiSalle, price stabilizer, made a bitter attack on the meat industry when the violations were announced. He said, "The price of beef is a vital element in the housewife's table budget and it must be held within reason. Surely if the members of the meat industry, who have been putting selfish interest against the nation's economic health, will stop to think of this, they will join with the great mass of people and help us keep the American economy on an even keel."

If found guilty of breaking OPS regulations, violators can be fined damages of three times the amount of price overcharges, and sentenced to a year in jail and a $10,000 fine, or both.

POPULATION SHIFT.—Since 1790 the center of population in the United States has continued to move westward. The new center, established by the 1950 census, is located eight miles northwest of Olney, Ill. It is 42 miles west and 7 1/2 miles south of the 1890 center near Carlisle, Ind.

The new shift reflects the westward and southward migrations that took place during World War II when new industries moved into these areas, census bureau officials reported. The trend is expected to continue as more and more industries move west and south.

On the 18th of this month a marker will be erected in the cornfield on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snider where the center is located. Nobody lives within half a mile of the point. Once a farm home stood 200 feet from the point.

The population center's westward movement has totaled 664 miles in the last 150 years. In 1790 the center was 23 1/2 miles west of Baltimore.

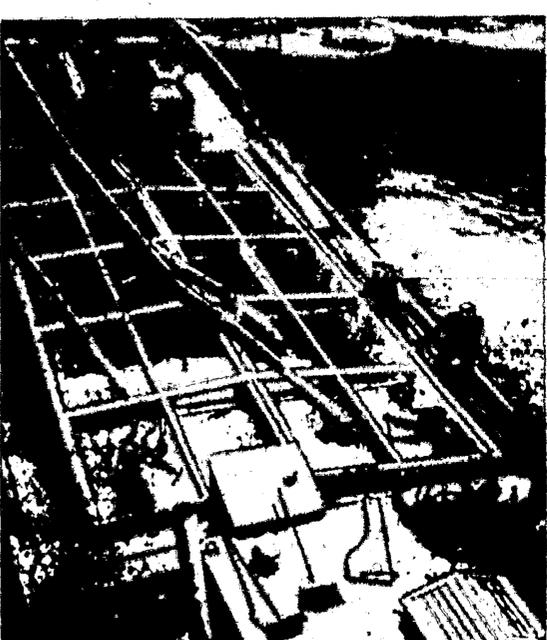

UNITED DEFENSE FUND.—The united defense fund has joined with the national community chest campaign this year in an effort to raise $18,534,864 to carry on its work. Of the total, $16,511,854 is being sought through checks and the remainder will be raised in New York city and other non-check areas. Bulk of the funds—$13,658,207—will go to USO.

The united defense fund was formed in November, 1940, to raise funds for services to the armed forces through USO and other organizations; to aid defense-impacted communities through united community defense services; and to help process clothing collected by American Red Cross for Korea.

The annual community chest drive was opened September 26 with a nation-wide radio address by President Truman. Community chest officials said their best estimate of the combined total to be raised by individual checks this year is $20,000,000.

RED BARLEY FOR BRITAIN . . . Russian barley is pouring into the holds of a lighter from the Russian freighter Stanclova at Surrey docks, London. The grain is transported by vacuum power. Last year Britain took 800,000 tons of Russian grain for which she paid $200,000,000. Material needed by the Russians. Recently the British contracted for one million tons of Red grain from this year's harvest. Britain depends this as vital to her economy.

Governor Espregueira de Barros, his wife, two daughters and a son take refuge in a huddle on the floor of the "Lion's Palace" in Sao Luis, Maranhao, Brazil, when a rebel force of thousands greeted him with guns, knives and clubs on his return after a federal tribunal had confirmed his election. Few persons were killed in the demonstration and about 25 others were wounded. The opposition contends too many bullets were thrown out.

ENGLISH TRAIN DISASTER . . . This is an air view of the wreckage of the express passenger train that was wrecked recently near Rugby, England. The train was derailed outside of a tunnel. Thirty persons were reported killed and at least 25 injured. One of the cars in the foreground of the picture was smashed into matchwood. The locomotive of the train, after derailing, rolled down the embankment at right.

Miami: Polluted Playground

As we opened hearings in Miami, it oppressed us that an area so blessed by nature could be so polluted by man. The fabulous coast had become the plunder-ground as well as the playground for America's most vicious criminals.

With the nod of well-paid so-called law enforcement officers, Miami was the winner capital of the national crime syndicate.

A great deal of this has been changed. The senate crime committee's investigation bolstered the efforts of Miami's decent citizens to strike back against the underworld.

Even months after our disclosure in Miami, the lid still was clamped tight upon illegal bookmaking, in so far as any large scale activity was concerned, and many of the gambling casinos run by out-of-state hoodlums were shut down.

Let us begin with the story of Walter Clark, sheriff since 1933 of neighboring Broward County, of which prosperous Fort Lauderdale is the seat. In Sheriff Clark's ballroom, there were three notorious gambling joints. Among the out-of-state racketeers said to be associated with them—as well as in Miami casinos—were the infamous Joe Adonis, the brothers Meyer and Jake Lansky, Vincent (Jimmy Blue-Eyes) Alo, and bookmaker Frank Erickson (since imprisoned), all of New York City and New Jersey; and, from Detroit, Joe Massel and William G. Bischoff, alias Lefty Clark.

I asked Clark why he violated his oath of office by ever letting them operate. He gave the brazen reply: "I was elected on the liberal ticket, and the people want it and they enjoy it."

Clark went on to reveal he had been well acquainted with gambler Jake Lansky for 12 or 15 years and that Lansky among others, "contributes to the campaign."

In Miami (Dade County), we looked into the activities of James A. (Smiling Jimmy) Sullivan, a former traffic policeman who had been sheriff since January, 1945. The voluble Jimmy, who wasn't smiling much toward the end of his examination, admitted that his assets jumped from $2,500 to approximately $70,000 during his five years in office.

On Smiling Jimmy's performance on the witness stand, the committee, in its report, had to conclude: "Much of Sullivan's testimony was vague and evasive and the committee does not consider it credible." The fantastic aftermath, however, was this:

After a grand jury indicted Sullivan, charging him with neglect of duty, failing to enforce gambling laws, and permitting deputies to accept bribes, Governor Fuller Warren, in October, 1950, suspended him from office. Early in April, 1951, however, the indictment having been dismissed on a technicality, the Governor reinstated him.

A tragic sidelight was told us by George Patton, who, after serving his country honorably in World War II, became a Miami Beach policeman and later a deputy. He declared he had intended to be an honest officer but soon "learned that law enforcement didn't always operate the way I thought it did."

Patton said that when he later became a deputy of Sheriff Sullivan, he collected "close to $50,000" in bribes over a period of nine months for protecting gambling on Miami Beach. He was the "bag man" or collector, he said.

Two other Miami Beach hotels had special prominence in the operations of mobsters. One was the Sands Hotel operated jointly by Alfred (Big Al) Pollizi, one-time Cleveland mobster and Dave Glass and Benny Street, both of whom had convictions in Philadelphia as horse-book operators. We also learned from questioning Pollizi that his good friend, John Angersola, silently held half of Pollizi's 25 per cent interest in the Sands. Angersola, in addition to interests in the Wofford and the Sands, had a piece of still another mob-favored hotel, the Grand.

Purely local and state political matters, of course, were outside of our jurisdiction, but we had a legitimate interest in Governor Warren's 1948 campaign financing because of a $100,000 contribution from William Johnston, the Chicago and Miami horse and dog track operator, and long time associate of the Capone gang.

Johnston insisted, of course, that it was merely his "strong friendship" for the governor which prompted the gift.

The gigantic operation of the S&G bookmaking syndicate was another major avenue of inquiry. The syndicate, which itself admitted that it grossed $26,000,000 in 1948, was started in Miami Beach in 1946 by five "local" boys.

For a long time, the S & G monopoly over Miami Beach bookmaking was almost 100 per cent complete. Even the then-powerful Frank Erickson, who had paid $45,000 for a three-month bookmaking concession at Meyer Schine's luxurious Roney Plaza hotel, came to grief when he attempted to break it. Schine, after he broke off an arrangement with S & G and made the contract with Erickson, was visited by Detective Pat Perdue of the Miami Beach police. Schine said that Perdue told him he should not let the contract go to Erickson.

There was only one flaw in the S&G's highly efficient operation. It became so profitable that it aroused the cupidity of the prosperous crimesters from Chicago who, in the approved manner of upper bracket hoodlumdom, wintered on beautiful Miami Beach, soaking up the sun on their daily walks from hotel to horse parlor. Then, as our Committee reconstructed the story, the ubiquitous and sinister partnership of Guzik & Accardo entered the picture. It is the Committee's contention that Guzik & Accardo acting for the Chicago-Capone Syndicate, dispatched Harry Russell, a Chicago gambler to S&G early in 1949.

Understandably devoted to their $20,000,000 business, the S&G partners didn't want to be "muscled." They declined. The Chicago interests were disappointed but gentlemanly about it. Nothing crude transpired. Their Mr. Russell simply began building up a syndicate of his own, and bookies at a number of plush hotels, dominated by the Chicago mob, flocked over to Russell.

Next, Governor Warren's crime investigator, W. O. Crosby, appeared. Here things get a little complicated: His friend, Russell, Crosby conceded to us, started feeding him information on various books that he might raid, and Crosby started raiding them. All were places operated by S&G bookies.

Finally came the crusher: S&G was buying its wire service from the local distributor of the same Continental Press that already had undergone the experience of being squeezed by Guzik and Accardo. This service was abruptly shut off, leaving S&G paralyzed.

In just about 10 days, the S&G partners took another look at Harry Russell and decided they had been wrong. They decided to recapitalize their business—though they admitted to us that they really did not need any capital—and to let Russell have one-sixth interest. The price they asked for this one-sixth interest in a business that had grossed $25,000,000 the previous year was $20,000.

At the same time Mr. Russell bought into the S&G for $20,000, the S&G "boys" happened to buy a boat named the Clari-Jo. The price of the Clari-Jo happened to be $20,000, and the owner of the boat—lots of coincidences here—just happened to be Tony Accardo.

Accardo when we had him in the witness chair later, refused repeatedly to answer questions about it. Finally, however, Senator Wiley innocently inquired, "Who baptized that name, Clari-Jo? Accardo, momentarily off-guard, replied, "That is my wife's first name and my middle name." As spectators roared with merriment, the crestfallen hoodlum rubbed his jaw with the hand that has a dove tattooed between the thumb and trigger-finger.

"I fell into that one!" he blurted. Guzik and Accardo's 1949 tax return showed a loss of $7,232 due to "S&G Service."

Anyway, the S&G squeeze hit lemons instead of the jackpot. The combination of the senate committee's disclosures and the opposition of the law-abiding elements in Miami Beach finally generated a heat that even the powerful S&G syndicate could not cool off. Abruptly, "the boys," without consulting their Chicago associate, Mr. Russell, decided to go out of business.

Bring Rooms Up-to-Date by Discarding Some Furniture

By Ertia Haley

MANY a room which was the height of good decoration a decade ago today has a cluttered look which is neither in good taste nor good design.

If you can bring yourself to parting with unnecessary pieces, or by substituting a sleek, well-designed piece for some you have, a new clean look is possible for your rooms.

Consider the advantages of an uncluttered room: a sense of luxury and freedom which comes when some space is released.

Another freedom which every homemaker can appreciate is the ease of cleaning that comes when a room is freed of some of its trappings.

In the first place, there is actually less furniture to clean, and good pieces are more readily done than those which are worn and battered by the years.

Once a room has been stripped to its essentials, it's easy to pick up and put in order. It looks clean, even without a thoroughgoing cleaning every day, say homemakers who have tried it.

An important thing in clearing a room of clutter is to have a place for everything. Some old pieces of furniture do not have the capacity for storage that new ones have, and consequently things which should not be out of sight never have a place.

This, naturally, clutter a room. You may be very fond of a certain old chest, let's say, because it's an heirloom, but does it "pay for the space it takes" in the amount you can store in it in the way of magazines, sewing, snapshots, etc., which need a place?

Combine Traditional With Modern Furniture. Those who have traditional furniture need no longer worry about combining it with modern.

In fact, today's most livable rooms are departing happily from the strictly period atmosphere which was the mark of the well decorated room for many decades.

You'll be seeing traditional sofas covered with fabrics in bold modern design, modern desk and chair in

Combined Periods

Here is an excellent example of how traditional and modern furniture can be combined.

First wall-to-wall carpet was removed in favor of good wood floors well polished and easily kept, and a single scatter rug.

The traditional sofa was covered in modern fabric and the modern occasional chair and lamp are harmonious with an old pine table.

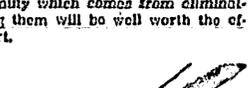

the same room with knotty pine chests. In dining rooms you'll see a good dark mahogany table and it may be teamed with light, modern chairs which are more comfortable than the ones which went with the table.

Secretaries of the dark wood with their many wonderful drawers for storage are part of many, well furnished living rooms though chairs and sofas may be strictly modern.

If you're doing some reorganizing of the furnishings in your home, plan to discard those pieces which are no longer serviceable and replace them with pieces which are useful as well as attractive.

Things which need expensive reupholstering or refinishing may often be replaced with new at a saving.

It may be that you need no other pieces, if you will simply discard those pieces which add nothing of attractive or useful to the room. It may be a wrench to part with some of the things but the comfort and beauty which comes from eliminating them will be well worth the effort.

Use milts for dusting quickly.

Inexpensive Scatter Rugs May Replace Carpeting. Well polished floors with attractive scatter rugs are in many homes replacing overall carpeting which is expensive to replace.

With waxing floors with attractive scatter rugs are in many homes replacing overall carpeting which is expensive to replace.

Decide Color Scheme Before Buying Rug

Choose a serviceable color when you're buying a rug for the room. Another tip to remember before buying is to select a rug which can be readily cleaned.

The trend today is away from elaborate patterns in rugs, as they crowd the room and give it a cluttered look which you are attempting to banish.

It's best to choose the colors in your room, before rug choice is settled. Then you can choose exactly the right background for your desired draperies and upholstery.

Keep Furniture in Condition For Pleasing Appearance. All furniture does not have to be placed against the walls to give an uncluttered look, but it should be kept in an orderly arrangement that is determined in advance.

Tenderly cared-for furniture is an asset in any room and aids in giving the impression of pleasantness. Wooden pieces should be kept polished so they are smooth and satiny.

Small scratches, scars and scuff marks can be hidden with colored wax, which should be applied as soon as damage appears.

With heavy traffic, surface dirt should be removed with liquid wax every six weeks or two months and the floor re-polished.

Several waxings will give the floor a beautiful finish. If properly kept up, it will remain beautiful. Wooden floors, properly tended, grow more beautiful with age.

Adopted Daughter-Love Hazard

WHEN our daughter Eileen was two years old we adopted another child," writes John Young, from Kansas City.

like this is right in his own home, and his own wife, who ought to be the first to see it, deliberately shuts her eyes!"

The Reason Why. My dear John, I say in answer, Edna is weighing the invaluable assistance she gets from this daughter-in-law against the overwhelming struggle one woman has with three children of assorted ages, a kitchen, a laundry, marketing, cleaning, cooking.

But there are elements here that are dynamite indeed, and it is your immediate business to move Eileen to some family group or preparatory school of business that will launch her into a life of her own.

Obviously, your wife is a practical person, who expects you to be as detached as herself in your devotion to home, family, business, and the future.

But your 44 years and gray temples are anything but a safeguard against wreckage. Wreckage like throwing over all these advantages mentioned above; wife, home, children, position of business.

My wife is a reserved woman, not demonstrative. I think she has never kissed me of her own accord, in all our married years. She manages the children superbly, and is economical, capable and active in social affairs.

"My trouble is Eileen, my adopted daughter. She is radically different. She is now nearly 10, although to me she still seems the gipsy child we found ten years ago. She rushes to meet me at night with laughter and a kiss; if there is disturbing news it is Eileen who says "Oh, don't tell him, Mother, until he's had his supper!"

... goodnight kiss ...

"In everything I come first with this devoted little heart. At night she never leaves the room without stopping behind my chair to press her cheek against my hair with a goodnight kiss. Any plan means her quick, "Is Daddy going? I'll stay with Daddy."

"Of course I like it. I am a loving sort of fellow, and I had a mother who kissed me goodnight and good morning until I was big enough to go away to war. But I've just come to realize what perhaps you have suspected all along, that Eileen means a great deal to me, and that I mean a lot more to her than I ever meant to.

"When I saw this first I spoke to Edna, my wife, about it. She laughed at the whole thing; it was just my vanity. Eileen, she reminded me, has some Latin blood in her veins, and dramatizes everything romantic. Anyway, she could not possibly get along without Eileen's help with the children, so please to forget the whole thing and not be a fool! Later, when a casual remark of mine was hurt Eileen who thought I was kidding her, that she rushed from the room, and was actually ill for a whole day. Edna indignantly admitted that she might have a crush on me, but observed that the only thing to do was to let it run its course. She'll take a fancy to some butcher boy or marine or someone," she said. And she said again that she could not spare Eileen. What the dickens is a man to do when dynamite

LABOR FORCE

Ratio of Workers to Persons 65 Or Older Continues to Decline

Today there are only five adult workers in the United States for every person 65 years old or over. In 1850 there were 11 workers, 16 years old or over, for every older. In 1900, the proportion was nine workers to one older; in 1920 it was eight to one; in 1930, seven to one; in 1940, six to one; by 1950, five to one. In another ten years, under current population trends, there will be approximately four people at work for every person 65 or over. These figures vividly point up our fast-mounting problems with respect to our aging population, reports the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

As medical science and improving conditions enable more people to live past 65, we are at the same time retiring more older persons from useful work, says the report.

Simply voting the old people more dollars is, no solution, either for them or the nation, the report observes, adding that old people do not consume dollars—they consume goods, like everyone else. Somebody has to produce the extra food, clothes, shelter and other things needed for their comfort.

Therefore any practical program of security for our aged must face two basic requirements, says the report:

(1) Production of goods and services by our young and middle-aged people must be expanded much further, through industrial progress, so there will be a greater margin left over from the workers' own needs, to take care of helpless older members of our population.

(2) At the same time our increasing millions of older people must be permitted and helped to keep on at productive work as long after 65 as possible, instead of being discouraged and penalized for so doing.

Unless these basic realities are kept in mind, the problem will grow worse instead of better, says the report; passing out more and more government dollars looks like an easy solution, but only means that each dollar will buy less and less.

MOST AMERICANS want to stay useful after 65, says the report, pointing to a recent survey of the retirement aims of 3,000 of the company's male policy-holders. Results, as previously published, showed that only 24 per cent want complete leisure when they reach retirement age. The remaining 76 per cent want either to keep on at their present jobs as long as they are physically and mentally capable, or else to be financially able to ease up a bit, with shorter hours or in some lighter occupation. Thus, three out of four of the men in the survey want to keep right on doing something useful after 65.

Such responses further emphasize the need for all retirement programs, whether based on life insurance, industrial pensions or government payments, to be made highly flexible in their provisions for actual retirement from work, the report concludes.

Proud Father Gets Wish; Triple Mary-ment Occasion

KILDANGANAN, Ireland — Joseph Geraghty had told all his friends that he was wishing for it to be a daughter. In fact, he had already chosen a name to be used when the blessed event happened.

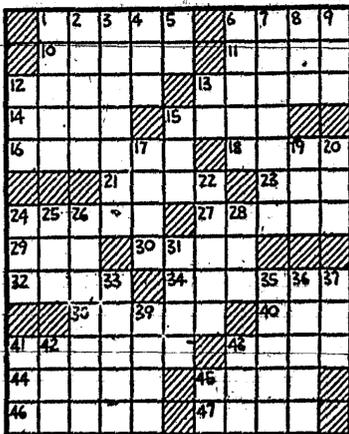

Mrs. Geraghty surprised the proud father by presenting him with, not one daughter, but three female family additions. Proud Joseph still was granted his wish.

The girls, he announced merrily, would be named Julia Mary, Nora Mary and Christina Mary.

THE FICTION CORNER

BERTHA

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

ROY was correcting his English in mid-year book reviews and the whistling annoyed him. It came from the alley beneath the window at the end of the hall. It had begun early that morning, a bright, cheery whistle, measured, high-pitched. Presently he could stand it no longer. He was not a violent man, but on he descended the back stairs there was a grimace about his mouth.

Roy emerged into the alley and headed for a high board fence, from behind which came the measured whistle. He went through a door in the fence and stopped short. A voice said: "Hi, kid!"

Suspended from a peg in the fence was a cage and in the cage was a parrot. As Roy stared at it the parrot emitted a shrill, piercing whistle. Roy was in the act of opening the cage door when someone shrieked. He turned to see a girl with red hair and blazing brown eyes rushing at him.

"Don't you dare touch that cage! Who are you? What are you doing here? You were going to harm Bertha!"

Roy blinked. "Yes," he said calmly. "I was going to bring Bertha's scrawny neck. Bertha's whistling annoyed me. It was driving me crazy. All morning long I have been trying to correct my English book reviews. If the book reviews aren't in by tomorrow I'm apt to lose my job."

The girl's eyes brimmed with tears.

"I'm sorry," Roy said. "Unless you remove Bertha from her present location I shall insist on bashing in her stupid head."

"I'm sorry," said Roy. "Unless you remove Bertha from her present location I shall insist on bashing in her stupid head."

The redhead gasped. "And I'll bet you would do it, too! It's only on bright days that I place Bertha outside. Otherwise, she has to stay in where it's dark. If you don't believe me, comb and see."

Roy realized that she was appealing to his better nature, if any. He permitted himself to be led into the house. The room, where abode the girl and Bertha, was truly a gloomy place.

"I concede the point," Roy admitted. He stared at the girl closely. "I should think on warm days you'd want to get out into the air yourself."

"I do! I spend nearly all my time looking for a job. Today I stayed home so Bertha could have a sunny morning. Tomorrow she won't bother you at all."

"Tomorrow," said Roy. "I won't be here to mind." He scratched his chin.

"Look here," he said. "What kind of work are you looking for?"

"I used to be a librarian," said the girl.

"A librarian!" exclaimed Roy. "Would you like a job correcting English-IV book reviews?"

The redhead's eyes grew round. "Do you mean—why I'd adore such a job!"

"By the way," he said. "I haven't asked your name."

"It's Roberta—Cameron. And if you want these papers tonight, I think you'd better let me get to work on them."

"But I've really grown fond of Bertha!" Roy cried. "Why, if it weren't for Bertha, I'd never have met you."

The day after this, Bertha caught a cold. It was bright and warm in the morning and Roberta left the bird outside while she went to town. At noon it turned cold and began to rain. Attracted by a series of hoarse shrieks, Roy rushed into the alley, seized the cage and returned indoors. Bertha died the next day.

"I—I suppose," said Roberta, "I shouldn't have put her out."

Roy stared. A thousand thoughts galloped through his mind. But he had the good sense not to mention them. Instead he picked up Roberta's hand and Roberta smiled.

White Painted Walls Turned Yellow

QUESTION: What can be done to keep walls that are going to be painted white, from turning yellow? My white painted walls have always turned yellow or have discolored. Would putting bluing (laundry blue) or else some blue paint in with the white paint prevent this discoloration? How much should I use in each gallon of paint?

ANSWER: A good grade of paint should not turn yellow or discolor. I believe you bought an inexpensive grade. I would not advise using laundry blue. If you wish to add a small amount of blue paint to the white, it should be perfectly all right, and might help to give a good white effect. But do not attempt to mix the paint yourself. Ask your paint dealer to mix it for you in his mechanical mixer. If you try it yourself, add very small quantities of color in oil and thoroughly stir each amount, until you get the desired shade.

President Disregards His Dixiecrat Opposition

By Wright A. Patterson

REGARDLESS of what the permanent effect may be on the future of his party, how wide the factional split may spread, the President is determined to make another try at securing legislation on his Fair Deal program.

Senator Humphreys of Minnesota has been delegated to prepare and introduce in the senate eight bills that, if they can be passed, would effectuate the Fair Deal program as contained in the Democratic platform of 1948, for the adoption of which Senator Humphreys was largely responsible.

Senator Humphreys is promised the active support of half a dozen other northern Democratic senators who support anything the President asks for.

The first of these measures is the anti-lynching bill, which the south has been able to talk to death, as an invasion of state's rights. It is the President's belief that the passage of such a measure, with its effect on the southern negro vote, could mean turning the electoral vote of such states as New York, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, and others with a large negro population into the Democratic column, without seriously affecting the white vote of any of the southern states, the people of which are regarded as first-protectors, second Democrats and third Americans.

Only a counting of the ballots in the next election can determine the real answer. If the President is right in his surmise, it could mean his election to a third term. All such bills are to be promoted as welfare legislation.

When the action of the Republicans in the senate, whether or not they will support the Dixiecrats of the south, will not be known until the senate votes. The Republicans are not anxious to affront the northern Democratic negroes. The Republicans, too, would like to have as many of those votes as possible. In all there is much more of politics than of welfare on both sides.

Such a move on the part of the President could mean a permanent split in his party that in time might be politically expensive and mean a third party and a loss of regular Democratic control of congress. Such a result would not be evident in the next election.

When I was in Hawaii between the first and second world wars, an invariable subject of conversation was "statehood for the islands." A large majority of the people of all the racial groups were for it. A small minority, led by the Honolulu Advertiser, was opposed.

The Advertiser based its opposition on its expressed belief in a lack of loyalty on the part of the Japanese, then the largest of the racial groups in the islands, but the publisher and owner admitted the real reason was the certainty that the publisher and owner of the competing daily, The Star-Telegram, would undoubtedly be elected to the United States senate following admission of the islands to statehood, and that he could not afford to have a competitor selected for such a job which would add to his influence and prestige among the island's people.

I am told the opposition to statehood has grown some, since I was in the islands, and such opposition as exists is fathered, not alone by the Advertiser, but also by the Army, especially the intelligence service of the army. It is fearful that statehood would affect the army's privileges and practices.

Such objections as are back of any opposition is not worthy of consideration on the part of congress. The islands are fully entitled to being made a real part of the United States. It has been a step child for an overly long period. To longer continue it on a territorial basis is unfair. Give it a chance to rule itself and to enjoy the advantages of statehood, regardless of petty objections.

The examples starting the breakdown of morality and integrity in America were to be found in the White House, among the President's cabinet officers, ambassadors, and public officials fairly generally. They have accepted bribes for betraying the interests of the American people. But the President says they have done nothing illegal.

Seeing God's Hand

Lesson for October 21, 1951

NOBODY is ever, in all his life, actually as wise as he thinks he is when he is about 17 years old. We have a remarkable case of this in the Bible, the story of a man whose viewpoint, between his 17th and 58th birthdays, completely changed. It is the story of Joseph.

At the age of 17, Joseph was about as nearly insufferable as any one ever has a chance to be. He was the oldest son of the favorite wife of a wealthy cattle-owner named Jacob. Old Jacob needed all the hands he could use, to look after his sheep and cattle; and he put all twelve of his sons to work. Eleven of them had real work; Joseph, though next to the youngest of them all, was a kind of boss or overseer. At least that is what his father intended.

He dressed the boy set in working clothes like the others but in fancy clothes, and used to send him around to see what the other boys were up to. Naturally Joseph's brothers did not take to all this; in fact they hated him so hard that they were on the point of murdering him.

On the very day of the proposed murder, however, the brothers discovered a chance to sell him as a slave. So Joseph was sold off to some traveling slave-trader, and for all his brothers knew or cared, he was off to a lingering death.

Where Was the Hand of God?

JOSEPH expressed no opinion about this at the time. (He was probably gagged.) But judging from his general character and behavior at that time of his life, it is no trouble to guess his thoughts. He was "fit to be tied"; indeed, he must have been tied on a camel's back, for no slave-trader in his senses would make Joseph walk the 200 miles to Egypt.

The better his condition on arrival, the higher the price. (As it turned out, a very wealthy man bought him; perhaps only a wealthy man could afford him.)

If you had asked Joseph while he was being hauled down to Egypt and the slave-market, Where is God in all this? Joseph might well have answered: "Nowhere. The devil is in this, or my devilish brothers. Nobody means any good by it. The only reason they are selling me instead of killing me is that they are making a little by it; these slave-traders are certainly not in business for their health. I am the only man my father trusted, and now I shall die a wretched death in a strange land."

The Wisdom of the Years

WHAT was Joseph at seventeen? At the age of 58 he saw a different picture. Many strange years had passed; Joseph had been slave and then prisoner; then by a dramatic turn in his fortunes he had risen overnight to be the top food administrator, price controller and economic stabilizer, all in one, for the great empire of Egypt.

His brothers, driven by famine, had fled to Egypt for help, and Joseph, after playing cat-and-mouse with them for months, at last told them to their great terror who he was. But he had returned good for evil; had invited down his whole family, father, brothers-and-all, and given them refuge in a corner of Egypt. At last Jacob died.

The brothers, who made the mistake of thinking Joseph no better than themselves, had supposed that all Joseph was waiting for was his father's death. Now would be the time for Joseph's long-delayed vengeance. Possibly Joseph the boy had dreamed of just such an hour. But Joseph the man was wiser. To his brothers, covering before him, he said a memorable thing: "You meant it for evil, but God meant it for good." (Gen. 50:20.)

He still had no illusions about his brothers. They had been a bad lot. But God "meant it for good." That wicked act, selling him into slavery, had been the unintentional means of saving hundreds of lives. Joseph now, with the wisdom of his 58 years, can see the hand of God which his 17-year-old eyes could not see at all.

So in times of distress the thought should come to each of us: God's hand may just now be out of sight, but some day, looking back even on this distress we too shall see the hand of God.
