Death Claims Felipe Gomez

Felipe Gomez, 82, pioneer resident of Lincoln County, died Nov. 21 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dominia Montoya of San Patricio. The aged man had been in ill health for several years. Funeral services were conducted on Nov. 23 at the San Patricio Catholic Church with Rev. George Markul officiating. Members of the San Patricio Choir sang several hymns. Interment was at the San Patricio Cemetery. Pallbearers were Isidro Chavez and Pablo Perez of San Patricio, Jesus Montez, Aristotel Romero, Eustacio Chavez, all of Hondo, and Guinevo Ybarra of Glencoe.

Survivors are his sons, Hilario Gomez, Frank Gomez, Albert Gomez, all of San Patricio; Florencio Gomez of Roswell, Daniel Gomez of Lincoln, Sosteno Gomez of Las Cruces, Vicente Gomez of Alamogordo, Robert Gomez of Deming; daughters, Mrs. Dominia Montoya, Mrs. Inez Pacheco, both of San Patricio; Mrs. Stella Romero of Hondo; Mrs. Lucia Pacheco and Mrs. Carmen Candelaria, both of Roswell, together with a number of other relatives.

The late Mr. Gomez was born in February, 1869, at Santa Fe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Gomez, who came to this country years ago from Old Mexico. The family moved to Lincoln County when he was 2 years old but he lived in Santa Fe with relatives much of the time and attended schools there. After he had grown to manhood, he returned to this county where he engaged in ranching and farming.

His first wife, Miss Miquela Lucero, Lincoln, whom he married in 1891, died in 1892. He subsequently married Miss Beatriz Sedillo of Lincoln in 1897. She preceded him in death in 1941.

The deceased was a member of the San Patricio Catholic Church.

Charles Boone Home After Far Eastern Tour

Charles W. Boone, fireman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Boone of Carrizozo, arrived in San Francisco Nov. 25 aboard the attack transport USS Menard after eight months in the Far East. He is now here on leave.

Apart from her normal employment in support of the Korean war, his ship has taken part in amphibious training operations in Asiatic waters and visited Hong Kong.

The Menard, skippered by Captain Joseph Finnegan, USN, of Redwood City, Calif., docked in San Francisco to disembark approximately 1,500 marines returned to the U. S. under the Marine Corps rotation plan.

While in Hong Kong the Menard was visited by New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey, then touring the Far East.

Rear Admiral R. H. Cruzen, commander of naval forces Philippines, flew his flag in the Menard in Hong Kong while on an inspection tour of areas under his cognizance.

Nov. Busy Month At Lincoln Museum

The month of November was a busy one at the Old Court House in Lincoln. Puerto Rico, Alaska and 30 states are represented on the register, which contains 720 names for the month. With the onset of fall weather, tourists tend to come in large numbers on Saturday and Sunday and holidays, while the register for week days shows a proportionately smaller number of visitors.

The Dan Kuslanovich solo exhibit of paintings and drawing opened on Sunday, Nov. 4, and will be on view at the museum until Dec. 20. It has elicited many favorable comments from tourists and local visitors alike.

The new exhibits in the Old Court Room, upstairs, are attracting attention also.

A children's art contest will be sponsored by the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission in April and the plans and rules will be announced about the first of the year, so that Old Lincoln County's young artists may have ample time to arrange to enter. The contest will be in connection with the museum of New Mexico's traveling art exhibit, "Junior American Artists," which will hang at the Old Court House April 6 through 20, and will feature each prizes in four classes for school children of all ages.

Repair, maintenance, landscaping, sorting, filing, cataloging and correlating of historic materials... these are the activities which occupy the staff at the Old Court House during the winter months. In summer, the influx of visitors is so heavy as to preclude any but the most routine activities. During the month of December, the building will be completely cleaned. The Old Court House will be closed for a brief Christmas recess, Dec. 24, 25 and 26, the only three days in the year when it will not be open. Winter hours are 8:30 A. M. to 4 P. M. and residents of Lincoln County are very cordially invited to drop in at any time.

Wilson Home Scene Of Bonine Reunion

The beautiful ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wilson, located at the South Corn Camp on the Harvey ranch near Carrizozo, was the setting for a reunion of the Bonine family on Thanksgiving Day. All of the nine living children in the family were present with the exception of John Bonine, Clifton, Ariz. The last reunion was held in 1924.

Potted plants of ivy, geraniums, Jacob's coat and others, together with floor vases of mistletoe, algerita and orange pine were used throughout the house. Turkey and all the trimmings were served to 22 guests seated at the linen covered table lighted with white tapers in crystal candelabra.

Singing, games, and dancing were enjoyed by the visitors during their stay of a day and night at the home of the Wilsons.

Attending the reunion were Mrs. Wilson's sisters, Mrs. Minnie Wilson, Aztec; Mrs. Merton Bowman and husband of Clifton, Ariz.; Meadames Mary Walker and Edna Walker of Carlsbad; her brothers, Ab Bonine and wife of Pletown; Ernest Bonine and Warren Bonine and wife, all of Artesia; an uncle, J. R. Bonine of Pletown; two nieces, Miss Tina Walker of Carlsbad and Mrs. Gilbert Wisely and husband of Clifton; nephews, Sammy and Bobby Walker, both of Carlsbad. Another nephew, Don Bonine of Artesia, with his wife, daughter Susie and son Bobby were also here in honor of the event.

Return From South
Mr. and Mrs. Frank English have returned from a visit to New Orleans with their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Frank English Jr., Roswell. Dr. English attended a meeting of medical men while the others in the party went sightseeing, which included a boat trip on the river. The Carrizozoan commented on a dinner which they enjoyed at the famous Anton's restaurant there, stating that the fish they ate was roasted, sauce and all, in a special sack and brought to the table in the same bag.

Gallacher Reported Out As Republican Head
The News-Outlook is informed by several reliable sources that William W. Gallacher Sr. has on numerous occasions stated he has resigned as chairman of the Lincoln County Republican Party. However, highly informed sources say that Gallacher is also chairman of the Republican Central Committee and that no meeting has been called or any official action taken.

$53,200 PMA Allotment For Lincoln County

By AUSTIN ALBERT
The PMA program for Lincoln County will have a total of $53,200 that farmers and ranchers may earn by conducting soil practices on their land during 1952. The maximum payment to any one land owner may earn is $1,250. The PMA program pays part of the cost of soil conservation practices the individual producer may undertake to do. The remainder is paid by the producer.

Before March 1, 1952, farmers and ranchers must fill out an intention sheet which shows practices they intend to do during the year. This intention sheet must be filed in the PMA office in Carrizozo before the deadline before any payments can be made to a cooperater during 1952. Also the cooperater must establish prior approval just before starting work on any practices and will have 60 days thereafter in which to complete the work. Prior approval consists of notifying the PMA secretary that the work is about to begin and the location or area on the farm or ranch that the work is to be accomplished must conform with requirements of the 25 various practices which are approved for the county.

Practices must be listed on the farmers' intention sheet in order to receive prior approval. Specifications for each practice may be obtained from the PMA office in Carrizozo or from PMA county committeemen.

School Band To Appear On PTA Program

The Carrizozo School Band, under the direction of Jerome Bartkus, local school music teacher, will appear on the program scheduled by the Parent-Teacher Association at their regular meeting on Dec. 10 in the grade school auditorium.

Mrs. Mabel Vigil, reporter for the local PTA group, said this week it has been suggested the organization sponsor a drive to raise funds for the purchase of much needed instruments for the band. She urged all public spirited citizens of the community to attend Monday night's meeting and back the project to provide the school with sufficient instruments to meet the requirements of expanding band personnel. It is hoped there will be a large turnout at the Dec. 10 gathering.

At the last meeting, it was decided to hold a PTA membership contest with a prize going to the school room having the most parents enrolled. The fiscal year for membership in this organization starts with the opening of school in September and ends when it closes in May. Those who have not yet paid their PTA dues for the current year are requested to contact Mrs. Ida Herrera, membership chairman; Mrs. J. D. Richardson, president, or Mrs. Ace Baty, treasurer.

Mrs. Vigil emphasized that the ideas and support of all residents of this district are needed, and urged they attend every meeting.

Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner Scheduled

The annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner is scheduled for Dec. 19 at 7 P. M. in the Ice Arena at Albuquerque. Guest speaker will be U. S. Senator Kerr.

Carl Ness, Democratic chairman for Lincoln County, announces tickets for the event may be secured from him. The tickets are $25 each for the men and $8 each for the ladies.

Change Partnership
A change in the partnership of the Phillips Auto Service at Carrizozo occurred last week when E. A. Casey, one of the partners, sold his interest to J. J. Boone, also of Carrizozo. Tom O'Hear is the other partner in the local firm.

Casey announced this week he is now connected with the Shafter Motor Company here.

Bastnasite Reported Found Near Corona

By MRS. A. E. MULKEY
Officials of the Helm and French Mines in Red Cloud Canyon about 15 miles west of Corona in the Gallina Mountains are completing plans, and probably will resume operations about the first of the year.

The mines reportedly shipped ore recently from the mill at the Gallina Station.

G. G. Furman of Corona says this ore is a "rare earth" called Bastnasite, which is a fluo-carbonate of the cerium metals.

Cerium alloyed with magnesium and aluminum is now used in the manufacture of jet engines.

The mine also contains fluorapatite and some traces of uranium. At present, this mine is the only one of its kind in the United States.

Jack Claunch Declared Officially Dead

Relatives of Master Sergeant Jack Claunch, 30, Nowata, Okla., former resident of Carrizozo, have been notified by the War Department that the Air Force man, who was lost last March 10 over the Mediterranean while on a routine flight, has been declared officially dead as of that date. Although an exhaustive search was conducted for the crew of 12 men, no trace of them or the bomber was ever discovered, according to reports. Young Claunch, a flight engineer, had been stationed with the 509th Bombing Squadron at Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, prior to leaving for Laken Heath, Eng., where he was based at the time of the tragic event.

The widow of the young airman resides at Nowata, Okla. They had no children. His mother, Mrs. Erva Claunch, and grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Adams, reside in Tulsa, Okla.

According to reports received by the family, Sergeant Claunch was on routine night flight with 10 other planes flying at about 10,000 feet altitude within an area of about 10 miles of each other. When the crew of the bomber did not report within a specified time an extensive search was started in which French, English, Spanish and Italian fliers joined, but to no avail. According to reports, no distress signal was heard from the ill-fated bomber and it apparently dropped from the air without advance warning of trouble.

The young airman, who served in World War II as a crew chief of a bombing squadron in the South Pacific and escaped without a scratch, re-enlisted in the Air Force in April, 1947, and was given his former rating.

Claunch, a graduate of Carrizozo High School, worked for the Holland Drug Store and Albert Roberts during his school days, and had been employed as a fireman for the Southern Pacific Company prior to his re-enlistment. Although his headquarters was Tucuman, the young couple maintained their home in Carrizozo.

Soil Conservationists Elect New Officers

By AUSTIN ALBERT
A. T. (Bet) Pfingsten and Peter Hurd were elected farm supervisors while Daniel Brenton was chosen ranch supervisor in the recent election of the Upper Hondo Conservation District.

Two appointed supervisors will be selected by this group at a future meeting to fill the expired terms of Wilbur McKnight and Daniel Brenton, previous appointed members of the board. These supervisors are elected for terms of three years to conduct the business of the district.

Garden Club Meets At Lincoln Home

By CAROLINE DAVIS
The Tres Valles Garden Club, which enlists its members from the Ruidoso, Bonito and Hondo Valleys, met last week at the historic Old Ellis House in Lincoln.

Mrs. Giles Ramey was hostess to about 20 members of the club. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Glover, floral designers of Roswell, were featured on the program and displayed beautiful and original Christmas designs, including centerpieces and door pieces.

The guests toured the historic house, guided by Mrs. Ramey. Tres Valles Garden Club sponsored a turkey shoot Sunday, Nov. 25, at Hondo. Organized only last year and affiliated with New Mexico garden clubs, Tres Valles has undertaken several community projects. The club was able to offer material assistance in the landscaping of the Ruidoso and Carrizozo hospitals, and contributed plants and labor for the beautification of all the churches in the "Three Valleys."

Current projects of the club include landscaping the Hondo Union High School and assisting with a proposed children's hospital in Roswell.

Founder, first president and a moving force in the Tres Valles Garden Club has been Mrs. Wilbur F. Coe, prominent clubwoman of Glencoe. Mrs. Coe is currently touring the world by air and members of the garden club are eagerly awaiting her return. It is expected that she will bring a report on exotic gardens in the far corners of the world.

Rod Heads To Meet Town Basketball Team

By FRED REMFRO
Under the auspices of the Carrizozo Lions Club, Ole Olson's All-American Red Heads meet the local town basketball team Tuesday night, Jan. 15. Admission is set at 50 cents and $1.

The visiting all female team to in great demand and Carrizozo is fortunate in having booked the professional, according to Olson. The Red Heads' itinerary for just a few days reads like this: January 13, both afternoon and night games at Fort Bliss; Jan. 14, the girls are booked in the new 1,600 capacity gymnasium at Anthony; Carrizozo on the 15th; Santa Rosa, the 16th; Sandia Air Base at Albuquerque on the 17th; Grants, the 18th; San Luis, Colorado, the 19th; two games at Costilla and Taos on the 20th, etc.

It is reported the visiting basketball team is not the one with a similar name that played here several years ago. The personnel of Olson's All-American Red Heads includes: Bonnie (Muscle) Gilliland, 6-foot Arkansas; Mabel (Personality Girl) Matlock, another 6-footer from Salina, Okla., and Betty Bradshaw, Senath, Mo., who plays center and measures 6 feet 4 inches in height. Most of the members of the team hail from the Midwest and are 5 feet 8 inches or taller.

What such Amazons will do with "Skeeter" Carl, Larry Stockton and others on the town team challenges the imagination. Let us hope that Dr. Turner attends the game.

Choir To Sing
The choir of the First Christian Church of Roswell will present a program of Christmas music at the Chapel of Our Redeemer at Fort Stanton Sunday, Dec. 9, at 3:30 P. M. The Roswell singers will also entertain the patients at Fort Stanton hospital with a program of Christmas carols.

O. J. Rainey, chaplain of the public health hospital, extends residents of Lincoln County a cordial invitation to hear these singers.

Joseph Adams Dies In El Paso

Joseph Richard Adams, 79, former pioneer Carrizozoan, succumbed Dec. 2 from a heart attack at the El Paso home of his son, Louis J. Adams, with whom he had resided for the past three years. He had been in failing health for the past 10 years. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Carrizozo at the Baptist church. Rev. R. E. Dickenson, local Methodist minister, officiated, assisted by Rev. Harris Ray, pastor of the local Baptist church.

Mesdames Charles Hodgkin and Fred Schlarb sang "Old Rugged Cross" and "Rock Of Ages" as Miss Kathleen Ward presided over the registry book. Interment was at the cemetery in Angus where the graveside prayer was read by Rev. Dickenson. Pallbearers were Messrs. Henry Hoffman of El Paso, Floy Skinner of Nogal, William Gallacher Sr., Herman Kelt, J. W. Harley, Elmer Eaker, Joe West and E. A. Orme-Johnson, all of Carrizozo.

Honorary pallbearers included Monroe Howard and W. M. Ferguson of Capitan; George Strauss and W. S. Norman of Tucuman; Vincent Bell, F. A. English Sr., R. E. Lemon, Florencio Vega, Roy Skinner, R. E. Berry, Lealie Harmon, Will Ed Harris, all of Carrizozo; Alito Stover of Tularosa; L. R. LaMay, A. B. Zumwalt Sr., Tom Bragg of Nogal; D. L. Jackson of White Oaks; Al Highfill of Los Angeles; W. C. Pittman, C. L. Hines, W. J. LaFleur, all of El Paso, and Frank Miller of Three Rivers.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Joseph Adams of Tulsa; a son, Louis J. Adams of El Paso; a daughter, Mrs. Erva Claunch of Tulsa, Okla. (another daughter, Mrs. Ervin Johnson, preceded her father in death at Austin, Texas, in 1945); a granddaughter, Mrs. Evelyn C. Greer, Tucuman; and a brother, A. W. Adams, Meza, Ark., as well as other relatives. Mrs. Winzell Richardson of Carrizozo is a distant cousin of the deceased. Born in Goldsboro County, Texas, Jan. 3, 1872, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erving Adams, he moved with his family to Corey County, Texas, as a small boy. He attended schools in that county, and it was there that he subsequently married Miss Evelyn Freeman on Dec. 24, 1897. The young couple moved to Carrizozo in April, 1907, and had maintained a home here since that time until about three years ago when he joined his son in El Paso. He had been engaged in the drayage business for a short time before purchasing a pool hall which he operated for approximately 25 years prior to his retirement in 1932.

The deceased was a member of the local Methodist church and the Carrizozo Odd Fellows Lodge.

Methodist Group Meets At Home Of Mrs. Devitt

The Women's Society of Christian Service met Nov. 23 at the home of Mrs. Spence Devitt, president of the group.

The Bible study program was under the direction of Mrs. Marshall Powell, assisted by Mrs. Ace Baty. The subject of Mrs. F. O. Brown's devotional was "Thanksgiving."

Refreshments of cake and punch were served to 13 members and two visitors. Table decorations featured the Christmas motif.

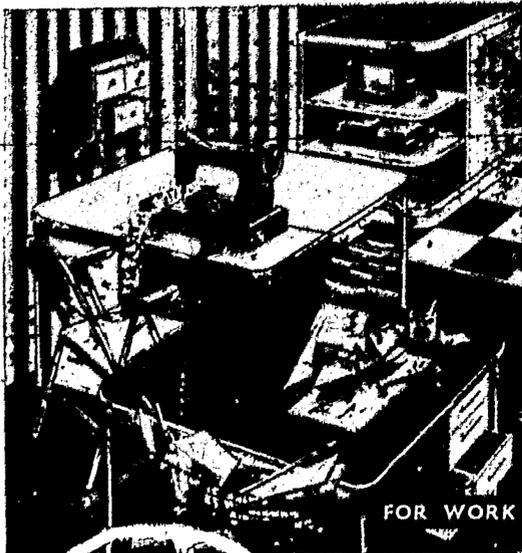

The next meeting of the group will be held at the home of Mrs. Fay Harkey Dec. 12 at 2:30 P. M. The organization is sponsoring a bazaar and bake sale Dec. 11 at the new educational building of the Carrizozo Methodist Church. Mrs. Fay Harkey is chairman of the sale which starts at noon and requests anyone who wishes to make donations of baked goods or handwork to contact her.

CORONA

By MRS. A. E. MULKEY
 Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jenkins have leased the Corner Feed and Grocery Store, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jarnagin. The Jarnagins are taking a vacation and plan to be away several months.

The Corona Cardinals won both A and B games at Hondo last Friday, Saturday night the Cardinals won the B game, but lost the tilt by a score of 52 to 39 to Capitlan.

The Razien Metals Company of Woodward, Okla., has a crew of men shipping iron ore from its iron holdings in the Gallina Mountains.

A. C. Thomson, sawmill owner, and J. M. Tracey, rancher, left Corona last Saturday for a trip to Texas. They plan to bring the new pews for Corona Presbyterian Church on their return trip.

The Corona High School Operetta "Tom Sawyer" under the direction of Miss Leota Agee, music teacher, will be presented Saturday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 P. M.

Walter Jones, son of Mrs. Stella Jones, was slightly injured when a big transport truck which he was driving turned over on the highway between Roswell and Ruidoso Saturday.

TRANSFERRED
 Ernest Aguayo, Southern Pacific Company employe, has been transferred to Lordsburg, Mrs. Aguayo expects to join him there soon. The couple's daughter, June Aguayo, who was married on Nov. 18 to Bill Ramage, Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, is working at a bank in that city. Mrs. Ramage, Carrizozo High School graduate, chose a beige suit for the wedding ceremony which was performed at the local Church of Christ.

BOB WILLS
 Bob Wills Band To Play At Navajo Lodge

Appearing in Ruidoso at the Navajo Lodge's gala Christmas party on Dec. 20, will be Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys.

The band, which has gained national prominence for its playing of western music, has been featured in a number of motion pictures. It has also been playing to radio audiences for over 10 years. On a recent tour Wills and his Texas Playboys played to one of the largest crowds ever attracted by any name band. The band leader's horse (Pumpkin) is one of America's finest trained horses, and its owner is reported as having refused a purchase offer of $125,000.

Carl DeBord, owner of the Navajo Lodge, said he believes it is the first time that a nationally known dance band has made its appearance in Lincoln County.

The hotelman stated he is happy to introduce to residents of this county Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys for topnotch musical entertainment. Because of the limited capacity of the lodge's Buffalo Room, DeBord reported he cannot accept more than 225 reservations.

New officers of the Carrizozo Odd Fellows Lodge elected at the Nov. 27 meeting include James Thompson, noble grand; Earl E. Harcrow, vice grand; Dewey F. Footen, treasurer; Ray Evans, recording secretary; W. J. McVeigh, financial secretary, and B. G. Barnum, trustee.

Despite this year's large cotton crop—estimated at nearly 17,000,000 bales—the carryover of cotton next Aug. 1 is expected to be only about 3,000,000 bales. The carryover on Aug. 1 of this year was 2,200,000 bales.

What's a penny to me?

"Before I was married a penny was just something to weigh down a pocketbook. But now—well, a couple of pennies more or less in the price of meat means the difference between having and not having.

"Pennies may be out of style generally, but not in my house. And now that I've learned the real meaning of money, I'm saving regularly—at the bank, of course."

LINCOLN

By MRS. J. E. PHILLIPS

It's an 8 pound 12 ounce boy for Mr. and Mrs. Clark Pflingsten and they have named him Peter Andre. He was born Sunday morning, Dec. 2, at the Ruidoso Hospital. Both mother and baby are doing well and are expected home soon.

Barbara Armstrong is ill with a bad cold today. Here's hoping she'll soon be all right again.

We are all so happy to have Mrs. Annie Ramey home again and well enough to be back on her job at the museum.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pflingsten are home again after a vacation trip on which they traveled about 3,600 miles without finding a range that looked better than this one. They say they had a very nice trip, however.

Joe Baca was able to come to town this morning after having been ill with a cold for several days.

Services were held at the Catholic Church in Lincoln last Sunday. There was a large crowd in attendance. Certainly enjoy hearing the church bell ring on Sunday morning.

Joganne Anastae took several youngsters to Sunday school at Fort Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Giles Ramey took Mrs. Ruth Martin and Ethelyn Phillips to church there.

Edward Penfield went to Roswell on business last Friday.

Mrs. Cristobal Zamora went to Roswell with Mr. and Mrs. Boyd from Fort Stanton last Saturday. Arnold Ventura has been ill. Hope he's better now.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis were in Roswell for the day Tuesday. Jim Luna, who works in Roswell, visited his mother and sister in Lincoln last week.

Word has been received from Mobile that the Dr. Koppings are the proud parents of a baby girl. They have named the recent arrival Christine.

Sam Romero of Fort Stanton was one of the five New Mexico veterans of Korea to arrive in Seattle Dec. 1. He is on a rotation leave and up for reassignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ness and their two sons, Stephen and Jonathan, of Petersburg, Alaska, arrived in Capitan on Sunday, Dec. 2. They will spend a few days visiting with Ness' brother, Carl, of Capitan and Fort Stanton, before continuing their journey to Cuba, Mo., the home of Mrs. Ness, where they will spend the holidays.

Several of the women of Fort Stanton are baking cookies and making candy in preparation for the Christmas party for Fort Stanton patients.

Mrs. Kusanovich was hostess this past week to the bridge club.

Lyda Peebles is recuperating from her vacation and agrees with me that for service, rest and good meals, Carrizozo hospital is the place to go.

Ben Pflingsten went down there a couple weeks ago and didn't let us know. Of course, all he had was pneumonia.

A word of warning to the Carrizozo residents: During these little blows we're having, I wish you'd nail your rugs down. They come rattling up here to the Mesa and we get plumb ornery about it.

Dr. and Mrs. Seltsam are visiting in Los Angeles where the doctor is attending a meeting of the American Medical Association.

NOGAL MESA

By DOROTHY GUCK

I've been taking a vacation from the Mesa and haven't heard any news worth passing on to you.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davis were in Roswell for the day Tuesday. Jim Luna, who works in Roswell, visited his mother and sister in Lincoln last week.

FORT STANTON

Nancy Payman spent the week-end with her folks, accompanied by Ruth Jean Craig of El Paso.

Herb Totten of the X-ray department left for New York Tuesday, Dec. 4. Leo Payman will take over his work. Herb plans to ship out as soon as possible.

Albert Pearl, creator of beautiful shell jewelry and lamps, received his fit for duty discharge Monday, Dec. 3. He left for Los Angeles to ship out.

The husbands of the bridge club wives entertained the ladies with a bridge and canasta party Saturday, Dec. 1. The men served a barbecued 84-pound pig. Dr. Carl Mankinen was the official barbecue chef. Dan Kusanovich was responsible for baking pies and rolls, while Bill Gould took care of the vegetable end. All reported a good time and the food excellent.

Word has been received from Mobile that the Dr. Koppings are the proud parents of a baby girl. They have named the recent arrival Christine.

Sam Romero of Fort Stanton was one of the five New Mexico veterans of Korea to arrive in Seattle Dec. 1. He is on a rotation leave and up for reassignment.

Thanks to cooperation of local townspeople, highway department and others we have a badly needed speed zone on the highway, passing right through Ancho now. Motorists, please heed the speed sign of 25 miles per hour. We feel a great need for this slowing of traffic to protect our children as well as everyone concerned, so slow down and let's not have the siren blow in Ancho.

Cap and Spurgeon Straley were in El Paso on business Monday. They drove a new Jeep pickup home for Harry.

We have greatly enjoyed a visit this week, with Levene's mother, Mrs. Deme Blasinger of Roswell, who came home with us Saturday after we took Butchie there to have the cast removed from his arm. The doctor was fairly well pleased with condition of the arm, but placed a short, lighter cast on, more or less for protection, which he will wear until about the middle of January.

"Rookie" Straley has had a bout with flu, but is back in school this week.

Hear considerable enthusiastic talk from the youngsters about their Christmas program, which is in progress at school.

The handmade quilt was given away at the school house Saturday night following the picture show. Lucky winner was J. A. Morrow of Clovis, brother of Beattie Jones.

Ramon Montano writes home-folks fairly regular from Korea. He says "don't worry, I'll be fine." Ramon is with a medical battalion.

Auxiliary Praised For Christmas Seal Work

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary who volunteered their services to the 1951 Christmas Seal sale are helping to halt the spread of tuberculosis which leads all diseases as a cause of death among young people from 15 to 35 years of age, said Mrs. Clyde Brewster, county Christmas Seal sale chairman, when she reported that returns from the seal sale to last Saturday morning amounted to $408.50.

The 1951 Christmas Seal sale, proceeds of which will finance the 1952 tuberculosis prevention and control program of the Lincoln County Tuberculosis Association, opened on Nov. 19 and will continue until Dec. 25.

Generous contributions in time and energy are being made by all volunteers to the Christmas Seal sale. They were hard at work long before Christmas Seal sale opened, checking lists, preparing Christmas Seals for mailing and performing many other services.

"The Christmas Seal sale constitutes the financial support of the tuberculosis association, which is dedicated to fighting TB, and the volunteer workers are making a valuable and lasting contribution to tuberculosis control in Lincoln County," Mrs. Brewster added.

Your County Business

From Minutes of November County Commissioners Meeting

F. O. Brown, Elmer Hust and Faye Harkey have requested appointment of a board of reviewers for the purpose of reporting on the request to close the old White Oaks road from a point near the Carrizozo stock pens north, all being on land owned or leased by Mrs. L. J. Dunning. The commissioners appointed Albert Roberts, Elmer Hust and Faye Harkey as road viewers to report to the commissioners at their next regular meeting.

Vicente Aragon resigned Oct. 13, 1951, as janitor. Commissioners decided not to fill the vacancy then. Commissioners told Ramon Luna they did not care to dispose of a radio and typewriter at that time. Luna had offered to purchase those items from the county.

Commissioners Richardson and McKnight believe no repairs are feasible at this time on the Peralta road as previously requested by Peralta.

The commissioners accepted the bid of L. M. Huffman for a house trailer for the road department. The bid was $499. The clerk was to issue a warrant upon delivery of the trailer which was expected about Nov. 20, 1951. Bids were submitted by Shafer Motor Company, Lincoln County Motors and Huffman. Huffman was the only bidder deemed to have a suitable trailer. Payment is to be made from the farm and range improvement fund.

Letter to Editor

Editor, News-Outlook: I don't know if you are expecting a letter from me or not, or if you remember me or not, I'm Fred Sanchez and I'm here in Seoul, Korea. I'm just writing this letter to wish the people of Carrizozo a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

You see, I don't have any cards to send to the people of which I think a lot about and more so to Dr. Turner who saved my life at that time, and the nurses that helped me day and night to keep me alive. I hope to see you all soon.

Yours truly,
FRED SANCHEZ.

Subjects covered in the following courses included: (1) Sewing, clothing, fabrics, patterns, styling and color; (2) fitting, alterations, placing of patterns on fabrics, cutting, construction, finishing; (3) home decoration course, color combination, formal and informal balance, texture combinations, effects of different styles of furniture, covering lamp shades, rugs and drapes, slip covers, picture hanging and decorating tips for Christmas.

In addition, the adult students were shown films on child training and nutrition.

Parents of Son

Mrs. George Goodson of Alamogordo writes that Mr. and Mrs. James E. Schulze, Oklahoma City, are the parents of a son, James Leslie, who weighed 7 pounds, 4 ounces at birth on Nov. 28. The mother of the infant is the former Norma Jeanne Bailey, daughter of Mrs. Lottie C. Bailey, and niece of the late E. T. Collier of Carrizozo.

David Harkey Observes Birthday Anniversary

The sixth birthday anniversary of David Harkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Harkey, Carrizozo, was celebrated with a party at the home of his parents last Friday.

The youngsters were entertained at games with the prize awarded to Deanna McDaniel.

A huge white birthday cake with decorative trimming of blue icing centered the lace covered table. Pastel colored streamers of crepe paper extending from the chandelier were fastened to favors of wax hobby horses at each place setting, and formed a replica of a merry-go-round in miniature. Punch and ice cream were served with slices of the cake after David had blown out the lighted candles that topped it.

Guests included Mrs. Virginia Anderson, first grade teacher, and her son Billy; Stephen Spencer, Stanley Renfro, Margaret Withers, Deanna McDaniel, Roger McDaniel, Buddy Roberts, Johnny Roberts, Buddy Hill, John Petty, Tommy O'Rear, Ace Baty Jr., Ricky Werner and Billy Nickols.

Mrs. Truman MRS. TRUMAN makes no bones about her desire to turn the White House over to new tenants. At a reception the other day, the first lady confided to a friend: "This is a terrible life. We don't have any privacy at all. If I want to go across the hall to see the President or Margaret, I have to get dressed up. I can't just slip a kimono on for you never know who you'll find in the hall. I'll be glad when we get back to Independence and can live like human beings."

The Taft Brothers

Taft forces are so sore at brother Charles Taft for announcing for Governor of Ohio that they may put genial Congressman George Bander, a GOP stalwart, into the Republican primary in Ohio to run against brother Charles. There are several reasons for this row over the younger member of the Taft family. Primarily, Bob Taft forces are sore because two Tafts in a political race cause confusion and make the public think one family is out to dominate the state. Second, brother Charles has not been regular. He was a friend of Franklin Roosevelt, voted for him a couple of times and served under him in the Federal Security Administration and later in the State department during the war. Charles also defied the regular Republicans in Cincinnati where he has been a member of the city council and helped elect a Democratic mayor, Albert Cass.

Backstage Boss

Democrat Frank McHale, towering boss of the onetime Indiana 2 per cent club machine, makes no bones about the fact that he put Hoosier banker Frank McKinney across as Democratic national chairman, coached him at his first press conference, dictated letters for him to sign, and arranged his appointments.

McHale nabbed the committee chairmanship for his protégé by the old adage of "being the fustest with the mostest." Jake Arver, the Chicago Democratic boss, tipped McHale off that Bill Boyle was on the field and suggested that the big Hoosier might like the job himself. Whereupon McHale put in a long-distance call for his friend and fellow Irishman, Kingmaker Matt Connelly of Mr. Truman's staff.

"I know just the type person you need to restore the prestige of the National Committee," he said. "He should be young, a successful business executive, clean as a hound's tooth, and a loyal Democrat."

"If you knew that kind of a guy, you'd bought yourself a national chairman," Connelly said.

McHale then recommended Frank McKinney who both fits the description and did a bang up job in the Pentagon. Kingmaker Connelly saw to it the door was bolted, refused to let other Democrats with candidates of their own see the President.

Washington Items

Governor Dewey did not meet secretly with Eisenhower at the Waldorf as reported last week. A Broadway columnist got that one mixed with a Waldorf meeting which did take place between Dewey, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, Herbert Brownell, the Dewey GOP mentor, and Gen. Lucius Clay, Georgia-born Clay, a lifelong Democrat, is now in the Eisenhower camp. The meeting discussed ways and means of rounding up delegates despite the fact that the cannot declare until next spring.

There's not the slightest question but that Ike started life as a Democrat. His first speech at the age of 18 at Abbeville, Kansas, was at a Jackson Day dinner.

Taftites are suspected of putting a neat one over on Arthur Krock. He reported that Ike would come over to the Taft side if the senator would desert the isolationists.

Washington Pipeline

Only diplomat who got the VIP treatment at the Soviet embassy party last week was Premier Mossadegh of Iran. The Russians supplied Mossadegh with a four-man escort to run interference through the big crowd which clustered three deep around the savior. (American guests at the Soviet embassy shun Soviet champagne which is sweet and usually hot, but make a beeline for the bowl of caviar as soon as they arrive.

U.S. Charges Commies 'Murdered' 5,500 American Prisoners of War

ATROCITIES—A wave of anger rolled across the United States with the grim announcement by Eighth Army officers that the Reds have killed about 5,500 Americans and 290 other U.N. prisoners of war. Civilian and senate reaction was immediate and brought demands the Korean truce negotiations be broken off and use of atomic weapons against the Communists.

Representative Crawford, of Michigan summed up the average civilian's point of view by stating: "Let's get an answer from the Communists or let's quit negotiating and get tough and push the fight to a conclusion."

The atrocity report said the Chinese had killed 2,513 American prisoners, 10 British, 40 Turkish, 5 Belgian and 75 others of "unknown nationality". The remainder of the victims were slain by North Koreans before or after the Chinese entered the war. It was also estimated that the Chinese have killed at least 2,790 non-Korean prisoners and the North Koreans about 3,000.

The worse atrocity was blamed on the Chinese who killed 1,250 Americans near the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria between September 10 and 18, 1950.

The Eighth Army spokesman who released the atrocity story gave no reason for making it public at this particular time. One result, however, is expected to be the cementing of public opinion for a quick peace or an all-out fight using, if necessary, atomic weapons.

Immediately after the story was released there were reports of investigations into whether or not the death figures were correct. Latest reports indicated they might be revised upward.

PEACE TALKS—There was, however, every indication that a cease-fire might be in prospect for the Korean battle front and possibly an armistice by Christmas. Allied and Communist negotiators were reported nearing agreement on the latest U.N. proposal.

The Allied plan consisted of four points: (1) Hostilities to continue until an armistice is signed; (2) the present battle line to be a provisional cease-fire line; (3) this line to become final if a full armistice is reached within 30 days; and (4) if the armistice is not reached within 30 days, negotiations will start over by drawing a new cease-fire line based on whatever the battle line may be at that time.

The idea behind the Allied plan was to gain a cease-fire now, but at the same time keeping the pressure on the Reds so the final armistice agreement could be negotiated.

Distrust between the Allies and Communists remains the biggest hurdle in any peace settlement.

POLITICS—As a general rule politicians have always been reluctant of putting down in black and white definite opinions on domestic and foreign policies, especially before an important election. Sen. Robert A. Taft, at the moment leading contender for the GOP nomination for president, is an exception to the rule.

The senator recently wrote a book setting forth his views concerning U.S. foreign policy which he entitled, "A Foreign Policy for Americans". Before next year's campaign is over it could be that Senator Taft will wish he had never had the inspiration or time for his literary effort. The senator, charging that President Truman put "all kinds of political and policy considerations" ahead of his interest in liberty and peace, has started a cyclone in political circles that will grow as the election gets nearer.

Taft also says in his book, "If the present trend continues, it seems to me obvious that the President will become a complete dictator in the entire field of foreign policy and thereby acquire power to force upon congress all kinds of domestic policies which must necessarily follow."

In rebuttal, the Democrats are charging that Taft is still an isolationist and the same man who said in 1940: "War is even worse than a German victory."

AGAIN 'NO'—For the second time in as many weeks President Truman had occasion to say "no" to a proposal that he meet with Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Pléven for a big four conference. The suggestion was made by President Vincent Auriol of France. The President contended the United Nations is the forum in which the leaders of the world should work for peace. He added, however, he would be willing to confer with Stalin if the Soviet leader came to Washington.

On several occasions the President has given the same answer to such a proposition, expressing the opinion that agreements with the Russians are not worth the paper on which they are written.

MEAT SUPPLY—The small town housewife will resume her role as the dictator of prices of steaks, chops and roasts in the neighborhood butcher shop in the next few months. That is the opinion of prominent cattle producers and farmers in the midwest corn belt where cattle and swine are finished for market.

Stockmen base their reasoning on mounting livestock production in the nation, with federally inspected beef plants turning out beef at a higher rate than in any November in four years.

Housewife resistance to high prices is credited with already rolling back pork prices from 1 to 12 cents a pound below ceiling levels.

Gross farm income is reported higher this year than last because of the large number of animals marketed at higher prices, but net profits are reduced because of higher operating costs.

Also of concern to cattle producers is rising imports of foreign meat, some of which has not yet been placed on the market. This country's imports of pork and beef this year are breaking all former records. Pork imports are up 60 per cent over last year.

AUTO TOLL—The National Safety Council, which has geared its statistical service to a weekly basis, reported last week the death figure from automobile accidents has reached 965,000. The millionth death will occur during the third week of December, the NSC predicts.

"This tragic event would make a mockery of all that Christmas stands for," Ned H. Dearborn, council president said. "I appeal to everyone to drive and walk with extreme caution during the next few weeks. The millionth traffic death can be delayed if everyone does his part."

NEW TAXES—While vacationing in Florida, President Truman is reported to be working on another request to congress for increased taxes. The report states he will definitely ask for more money when the lawmakers come back to work in January. Only the amount of the increase is yet to be determined.

The report immediately drew the ire of Republicans and Democrats alike. Several stated they will not vote for any more taxes. And Senator George of Georgia, chairman of the powerful finance committee which handles tax measures in the senate, has already stated he will not vote for an increase "short of all-out war or a war crisis."

The lawmakers are well aware of the fact that 1952 is an election year and that a tax increase is always an unpopular measure.

UNITED NATIONS—Talk continued in the United Nations last week on disarmament with the Western powers outlining details of their plan and the Russians proposing one of their own, a dusted-off version of one that has been rejected by the West a number of times.

Not even the most optimistic member of the United Nations believed that anything other than talk would come from the proposed plans. The rival disarmament plans are attracting a great deal of space in newspapers in all parts of the world, but the general public seems to view them as propaganda.

Crime in America

By ESTES KEFAUVER United States Senator

Philadelphia: Police Tactics In the City of Brotherly Love

In Philadelphia, one of the nation's largest, most efficiently organized numbers rackets flourishes—operating through "a politico-gambler-police tie-up that makes it impossible for any intruder to edge his way in from the outside."

A paralyzing attitude of apathy seems to hang like an ether mist over the police department. One judge who agitated—finally with some success—for stiffer action against the numbers racketeers, told the Senate Crime Committee frankly that the "big fry" just didn't seem to get caught.

Evidence indicated that Philadelphia is organized by the numbers operators into various geographical territories, each with its own "numbers bank." Public Safety Director Samuel H. Rosenberg told us he understood that was the way the racketeers operated. We questioned Rosenberg:

Q: Are you aware that it is common knowledge, in connection with gambling operation, that payments are made to police officers?

Rosenberg: I have never been able to prove that. We have asked for proof, and have never been able to obtain it!

One of his worst handicaps in administering the police department, Police Captain Vincent Elwell appeared and "wanted to know who locked up 'Mike.' He addressed him as 'Mike'."

That night, McDonald said, he was called in to Captain Elwell's office and was ordered to alter his report on Caserta. McDonald claimed he refused and that Captain Elwell then told him, "Stick around, I want to talk to you." In about 10 minutes, Captain Elwell walked to the door and asked, "Who is hollering out there?" A sergeant promptly stepped in and dutifully announced: "A man is complaining about being short some money out here."

Thereupon, on Captain Elwell's orders, the numbers writer, Rogers, was brought in and complained he was short about $123. McDonald was accused of turning in less money than he had taken from Rogers at the station house when he brought him in, and Captain Elwell immediately suspended him.

"McDonald gave a picture of the operations of the politico-gambler-police triumvirate," the report continued. He named a policeman who, he said, was known as the "collector" for Captain Elwell—he would come into the station house with his pockets "bulging." McDonald testified—and a ward boss who frequently conferred with Captain Elwell at the station house. McDonald estimated that protection money paid to police alone, exclusive of "payment to the higher-ups," totaled at least $162,000 a month.

The nucleus of Stromberg in Philadelphia was the assistant superintendent of police in charge of detectives, white-haired George Richardson, who heaped vilification upon him.

Richardson asserted that Stromberg had run his part of the Philadelphia numbers racket by remote control from New York, after leaving Philadelphia around 1914 and still had a hand in Philadelphia rackets. Eight months earlier, Richardson had written the director of the Greater Miami Crime Commission: "Rosen has connections with the underworld throughout the entire nation. So far as the local mob is concerned, he is their undisputed leader and is commonly known as 'The Mahoff.' Among his followers his word is law."

Since testifying before us, Chief Richardson has been suspended from duty on a charge that he had forced the "confession" of a man who had been sent to the penitentiary for homicide. After 12 years in prison, the victim was found to be innocent and released.

Judge Joseph Sleane of the common pleas court told us that many of his colleagues on the bench were content merely to impose small fines and no jail sentences on persons pleading guilty of gambling offenses. In five years prior to 1950, we learned, out of thousands of gambling arrests, only two defendants actually had gone to jail. However, as our report summed up: "There has been a change in attitude on the part of judges since the committee held its hearings in Philadelphia. More and more jail sentences are beginning to be imposed and it is a fact reported by municipal authorities, that the numbers game is no longer as easy to carry on in Philadelphia..."

The committee took note of a local "cause celebre," which we regarded as "indicative of the tie-up of gamblers, politicians and police." Michael McDonald, a Philadelphia policeman, had arrested a numbers writer named Jack Rogers. While Rogers was being looked, McDonald said, one Mike Caserta, "who had been named by Rogers as his backer," came into the station house.

McDonald said that Caserta offered him $200 if he only would modify the charge against Rogers to disorderly conduct. McDonald testified: "I refused the offer. As he turned away he said, 'I will frame you good.' When he said that, I grabbed hold of him and placed him under arrest."

At that point, McDonald continued, Police Captain Vincent Elwell appeared and "wanted to know who locked up 'Mike.' He addressed him as 'Mike'."

That night, McDonald said, he was called in to Captain Elwell's office and was ordered to alter his report on Caserta. McDonald claimed he refused and that Captain Elwell then told him, "Stick around, I want to talk to you." In about 10 minutes, Captain Elwell walked to the door and asked, "Who is hollering out there?" A sergeant promptly stepped in and dutifully announced: "A man is complaining about being short some money out here."

Thereupon, on Captain Elwell's orders, the numbers writer, Rogers, was brought in and complained he was short about $123. McDonald was accused of turning in less money than he had taken from Rogers at the station house when he brought him in, and Captain Elwell immediately suspended him.

"McDonald gave a picture of the operations of the politico-gambler-police triumvirate," the report continued. He named a policeman who, he said, was known as the "collector" for Captain Elwell—he would come into the station house with his pockets "bulging." McDonald testified—and a ward boss who frequently conferred with Captain Elwell at the station house. McDonald estimated that protection money paid to police alone, exclusive of "payment to the higher-ups," totaled at least $162,000 a month.

The committee inquired, too, into the underworld penetration of a Philadelphia steel fabricating concern, which we concluded had been accomplished through "political influence." A numbers racketeer named Louis Crusco had bought his way into the Strunk Steel Co. by virtue, the committee inferred, "of his close association with the son of Philadelphia's mayor." Crusco was an old friend and neighbor of Richard Russell Samuel Sr., son of Mayor Samuel. The numbers man bought his interest in the company under extraordinary circumstances: he carried the purchase price, $34,000, in cash in a satchel to a stockholders' meeting. Richard Samuel Jr., 19-year-old grandson of the mayor, accompanied Crusco and, according to the testimony of one stockholder who was selling out, "apparently was the mouthpiece for Mr. Crusco."

"Until Crusco came along," our report to the Senate summed up, "the company had never been able to get any business from the city of Philadelphia but, while Crusco was negotiating his stock purchase in the company, it received a contract from the Philadelphia Transit Co., a local public utility, on which there were no competitive bids. The president of the company testified that this deal had been suggested to him by the mayor's grandson, who, coincidentally, was placed on the company's payroll as part of the Crusco stock deal."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Pay Attention to Grooming Details and Earn Friends

By Eritta Haley

DO you have as many friends as you'd like? Would you like to make a better impression on more people, especially when you meet them for the first time?

If you answer in the affirmative, then your wishes can come true. A "yes" answer means you're open-minded about your appearance and will do something to improve it.

It's a busy world we're living in, and its people are very busy. Although you may have been told we shouldn't judge people by appearances, that remains the way in which things are done. If you appear sweet and charming, you naturally interest people to know you better than if you are mousy in appearance. Somehow most people are too busy to try to find out about someone they meet casually unless there's something attractive to find at first glance.

Don't let lack of prettiness bother you. Don't let a lack of many fine clothes disturb you. These have little to do with the essential question of looking well to people. Basic cleanliness, good taste in clothes, careful grooming and a sense of what's fitting for you, all these are much more important.

True, some of these things take time every day, and it's also true that you'll have to spend some time studying yourself, admitting your shortcomings and then trying to find out what to do about them, but that can be interesting. After all, the subject is you!

Start by looking at yourself every

Contrast bath to dulls . . . morning in the mirror and do some self-analysis. See if make-up applied differently can add more to your face. Brush and comb the hair in a new way. Perhaps it can do something for you.

Institute Routine For Cleanliness

There's something sparkling and glowing about a girl who's as clean as it's possible to be. Just watch those about you: see if those who are immaculate don't rate more attention and praise than the pretty girl whose slightly untidy hair, nails and unpressed clothes leave much to be desired.

Cleanliness, then, is attractive. A daily routine faithfully followed adds up to more cleanliness than thorough scrubbing once in a while "when you have nothing else to do."

One bath or thorough shower a day is an absolute essential. Perhaps you prefer the shower in the morning, others may like the re-

All-Over Tucking

All-over tucked black taffeta is used in this dress designed for the careful spender from the Busy Ferretta Collection. The shirtwaist bodice is bandaged around the throat and tabbed with rhinestone buttons; it fastens with stay, self-covered fabric buttons. Tucks on the bodice go up and down, while on the skirt they go round and round.

laxing tub bath before dinner or retiring. That's up to you; but make it once a day. Lather yourself with soap thoroughly and rinse well. Dry briskly.

Add toilet water or bath salts to the water, use talcum or dusting powder, if you wish. These are things to make bathing more interesting and luxurious, and also a matter of personal preference. The important thing is the thorough cleansing.

Skin cleansing depends on your particular skin. Soap and water is essential here, too. You may want to use cleansing cream in addition to it, and older women may and skirts to tails for smartness.

need a night and eye cream, too, but don't skip the cleansing. Wash your hair when it's soiled. This may mean twice a week if you live in a climate full of smoke and soot or if the hair is oily. It may mean once a week or once in ten days. You are the judge of when the hair is soiled, but do be critical. There's nothing so untidy as lank, dirt-coated hair. Keep it full of vitality and rich in color with the shampoo.

Use Good Sense In Clothes Selection

It may take you years to learn how to be well dressed, but if you try, the results show immediately. Good taste is a necessity, and you may have to learn this the hard way, through many errors. Learning is, however, interesting, and when you learn, it will never leave you.

Good taste in clothing implies many things. It means something which fits you, personally, in type and styling. It points up your best qualities and hides figure as well as coloring faults.

Good taste is not dull. It's dramatic, but it's not being flamboyantly daring so as to offend. Good taste is subtle; too, and as such may require thought and study.

Certain things are basic. With one of the shorter coats, you should wear a narrow skirt, for they look best. If the skirt shows under your coat, it must be darker than the coat or matching.

With sport clothes, one does not wear high heels, open-toed or open-heeled models. Have them trim and tailored. Save the others for dress occasions.

Try light gloves with darker clothes, and you may be surprised how smart they look. If a costume is simple, add interest with contrasting jewelry. If elaborate match the jewelry to the clothes, so attention is not too divided and confused. If in doubt about jewelry, it's smarter not to wear it.

Here are Good Tips For the Budget-Minded

When one has something nice and fitting and is certain that costume is attractive and compelling-getting, there's little desire for a lot of choice.

With a limited budget, choose clothes that go well together. This is especially true in the accessory picture. You may be able to afford only one set. Select suits and dresses which will go with the color.

Forget about buying things which will go with only one suit or dress. You'll not get full value in use on such items. Forget about the most expensive fabrics and materials in accessories. Buy quality in less expensive accessories, like good cotton gloves in place of leather or suede.

Good Clothing Care Spells Good Grooming

Many dresses and suits have an almost miraculous way of shedding wrinkles if they're hung as soon as taken off. This helps assure them of being in condition when next you wear them again.

Spot cleaning and frequent pressing of clothing helps keep them looking well, and saves the clothing as well as professional care. Pay special attention to collars and cuffs when doing a spotting job. Other spots should be removed as quickly as possible to prevent ruining the garment.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Chaperoning Today More Subtle

ARE THERE NEVER to be any more chaperones, and what can we put in their place? demands a harassed mother, Madeline Thorne of Evanston. "I have three girls and two boys, and we've always been proud of our beautiful family," the letter goes on. "But for the last few years the situation has gotten pretty well out of hand and neither Lane nor I know just what to do."

"Our oldest girl, Susan-Ann, is 18, Sally-Ann is 16, and Mab, who follows two brothers, only 9. All three girls are pretty, with the red-blond hair, and brown eyes of Lane's folks. Both older girls are popular, and they have been dating boys for some years. At first that was simple; they moved in herds of six and eight, and after school parties Lane or I could pick them up at 10:30."

Can't Say No

"But children get an awful lot of amusement now; something social goes on Friday nights, all day Saturday, Saturday nights, and Sunday. We simply cannot be with them all the time. My other children have rights and demands, and when the older girls say 'may we go, the others are going,' Mrs. Smith is letting Gloria go, Elsie's

"But do what we will, there are times, a good many of them, when our girls are off with their friends, and nothing would seem stranger than for me or any other adult to go along, sit through the awful shows, yawn at the table in the candy store, accept the youngsters' forced politeness. Long ago, when mothers chaperoned their girls, life was quieter, parties few and far apart, movies and night clubs, soda counters and motor cars and telephones unknown, youngsters didn't expect to be amused all the time."

"Now do advise me. I want my girls to be happy. I don't want them to be the freaks whose parents lock them up in high towers. They love me, they trust me and confide in me completely. I'm never shocked, never affronted or surprised. Help me to do the right thing in these all-important years, because so soon they'll step into lives of their own, and understand better what is going on now, and what the values of home guidance and influence are."

This letter made me think pretty seriously, for no one knows better than I if a mother attempted to chaperone one girl today she would have her time completely filled.

No, Madeline, you can't do it. While you were watching Lee dance, Sally-Ann and her date would be a mile away at a movie.

... hours of floor walking . . .

brother is going," what can I say? Can I say "no, you stay at home and do your needlework and put your bureau in order?"

"It's movies mostly now, cokes and hamburgers, and home early. But once or twice lately the nearby movies haven't been attractive, and so this awfully nice boy who really drives carefully. Mother, and his father let him have the car has taken Lee and Sally-Ann and others further away. And once when Lee was alone on the trip, it was a nice girl's voice at two in the morning, explaining that there had been a bump, no one hurt, nothing to worry about, they were being brought home.

"Nothing to worry about! What do they know of the agonies, the endless hours of floor-walking, watching the clock, telephoning, sitting down to wait again! It isn't as if there weren't accidents; it isn't as if there weren't dangerous boys even in high-school groups, for these are."

"How can Lane and I keep an eye on them? We've tried to raise our own with high principles, but other families don't. We've tried to warn them of the dangerous and stupid things that can happen but when did youth ever take that seriously!

Keep Things Going

"Being friendly with their friends, letting them have friends in their own home, supplying pop and books after school—we do all that! Lane is nice with the girls' friends; to get things started we used to superintend pencil games, keep things going.

Packaged Trees Ready for Yule

Minnesota Factory Ships Over World

BY CHRISTMAS, Roy Halvorson, known friend Duluth, Minn., as "the Christmas tree king," expects to have shipped about a million and a quarter trees all over the world. Each of the trees—swamp spruce, 32 to 40 inches tall, treated with green, white or silver preservative and having metal bases with sealed-in formulated sap—comes in a special gift package, wrapped in tissue paper, tied with ribbons and containing a box of 24 ornaments.

Halvorson caters to companies and individuals with large gift orders—all the donor has to do is fill in an order form, listing each person to receive a tree. The trees are packed in white corrugated cartons and mailed direct from the factory with gift cards.

So far he has orders for 20,000 gift packs. Mr. Halvorson says Christmas trees this year are 15 per cent higher in price because of increased cost of labor and materials. His factory operates from the first of September through Christmas, rests until February, runs until June and stays idle July and August.

Trees come from Halvorson's 10,000-acre forest, or on state-owned forests. Each year, Halvorson crews cut over 10,000 acres of swampy wastelands. Minnesota's school fund gets two cents for each tree.

Conservation officials commend Halvorson for his part in clearing the swampy muskeg that covers much of the northern part of the state.

Mutual Defense Gives Skills, Arms to Allies

KANSAS CITY — Training and weapons for the soldiers of 18 other free nations are being provided by the United States Army at installations here and abroad.

The military "know-how" and "wherewithal" furnished the land forces of these friendly foreign nations represents the Army's contribution to the Mutual Defense Assistance Program.

Nearly 2,000 foreign nationals were received for training by the Army during the first 21 months of MDAP.

In the same period, the Army supplied the bulk of more than 3,000,000 (M) tons of military equipment which was shipped to MDAP-member nations.

Training Important

While delivery of 4,400 tanks and other combat vehicles, 2,900 pieces of artillery, and more than 18,000 general purpose vehicles is an important phase of the Army's MDAP role, the training of key officers and enlisted personnel to properly care for and maintain the equipment at its destination has even more far-reaching importance.

The foreign trainees, as instructors upon return to their own countries, will make possible full utilization of all military weapons—those supplied by the United States as well as those furnished by each nation to itself in the MDAP military production plan.

In effect, the trainees form the nucleus of a 20th century crusade for democracy.

To aid in the achievement of that end, the Army has played the foreign soldiers into its regular training system in such a manner that they receive instruction in the latest technical knowledge of arms and equipment along with a liberal insight into the American way of living.

Work Together

Courses were made available at more than 20 Army schools in this country and Western Germany in order that foreign nationals would receive their instruction alongside American soldiers. Uniforms are the only difference as they live and learn together.

Varying in length from two weeks to 14 months, the courses include such technical and administrative training as are required for ordnance, engineer, signal, medical, quartermaster, transportation, finance, adjutant general, and chaplain's corps work.

There is similar instruction in the service schools, such as artillery, infantry, armor and provost marshal courses, and instruction also is offered at the Command and General Staff School at Leavenworth, Kans.

The training is given in the classroom, workshop or field. It is provided on a strict instructor-pupil basis, with no regard to rank or nationality, uniform or speech differences.

During off-duty hours, foreign nationals are encouraged to participate in sports and other forms of recreation and relaxation on an equal basis with the Army students in the schools.

Blood Supplies in Korea Are Shrinking, Says General

KANSAS CITY—Life-saving blood stocks—a vital for treatment of wounded soldiers—have been seriously depleted by 14 months of fighting in Korea, according to Major General George E. Armstrong, the Army Surgeon General.

General Armstrong, returned from the combat zone and disclosed that more than 100,000 pints of whole blood and the equivalent of 500,000 pints of blood plasma had been used by the Army since the conflict began.

"The use of this great amount of whole blood and blood plasma in Korea has seriously depleted our stocks," he said. "It has placed a serious burden on existing supplies."

General Armstrong called on Americans everywhere to continue to donate blood in order that stocks could be built up to a reasonably safe level.

"The continued donation of blood is highly essential, not only to meet the present needs of men in the Armed Forces but to provide adequate blood plasma for stockpiling in the event of further large-scale fighting in Korea or a civilian disaster of major importance," he said.

Dutch Patrol Discovers Odd Village of Primitive Natives

DARWIN—A Dutch patrol deep into the New Guinea jungles has found a completely walled-in village, inhabited by primitive tribesmen, who had never before seen a white man.

The discovery was reported by the chief justice of New Zealand, Dr. Bernard Damen. The Dutch official said that the village had been walled-in against hostile tribesmen and the patrol had to climb singly through a small hole in the wall to get inside. The natives advanced with drawn spears, he said, but were won over to friendship by the members of the patrol.

INFANT CARE

Government's Baby Book Is Best Seller; 28,000,000 Distributed

WNI Washington Bureau
Millions of people all over the world have paid approximately $5,900,000 for the government's baby book and best seller, "Infant Care," which has now reached a distribution of 28,000,000 copies.

Varying philosophies on the care of children from the time they are born till they celebrate their first birthday can be traced throughout the nine editions of this booklet, the first of which appeared in 1914.

In that year, for instance, babies didn't get a chance at even a tablespoon of strained fruit juice until they were 7 or 8 months old, but the 1931 baby is usually getting 2 ounces a day by the time he is two months old. The 1914 baby could not have solid foods at all during his first year, other than soft egg, crisp toast, or zwieback. The 1931 edition of Infant Care, however, says: "Your doctor will decide when your baby needs solid foods in addition to milk. Some start giving these extra foods when a baby is only a few weeks old, others wait until babies are 3 or 4 months old."

Thumb sucking was sharply criticized in early editions of Infant Care. The first edition even recommended pinning the sleeve of the baby's jacket down over the fingers of the offending hand for several days and nights to stop thumb sucking. This attitude has been greatly modified over the years, and the accepted idea now is that thumb sucking is one of the first pleasures that a baby gets. Many mothers now say that it seems to result in a very satisfied child.

Cod liver oil was added to the baby's diet in the 1926 edition, and was identified as containing Vitamin D in the 1929. Frozen foods are approved in the present edition.

Infant Care is sometimes called the "mother's bible." It has been translated into 8 languages. The government printing office sells the booklet at 20 cents per copy, and has become accustomed to many requests for simply "the book."

INFANT CARE has undergone major changes since it was first published. During its lifetime, advances in medicine, science, and in what we know about the emotional development of children have altered much of the philosophy which the book carries.

In compiling information for the current edition, bureau specialists talked to doctors, nurses, social workers, psychiatrists, nutritionists, and parent educators on what the book should cover. They asked parents, living in both the city and the country, what they particularly wanted the book to discuss.

The first draft of the revised booklet was submitted for review to about 70 persons outside the bureau, including 37 doctors, 6 psychologists, 7 nurses, 3 nutritionists, 1 anthropologist, 6 social workers, 8 parents, and 2 parent-education workers.

Fan mail throughout the years of Infant Care's publication has been tremendous. From places as distant as Nigeria have come requests for it, and copies have even turned up in small Chinese villages.

The present edition of Infant Care, like those before it, is an attempt to bring together the most widely accepted modern ideas on the care of children. One unchanging philosophy throughout all its editions has been that babies need a maximum of tender, loving care to grow into healthy, happy children.

Paper Suggests Montana Be United With Alaska

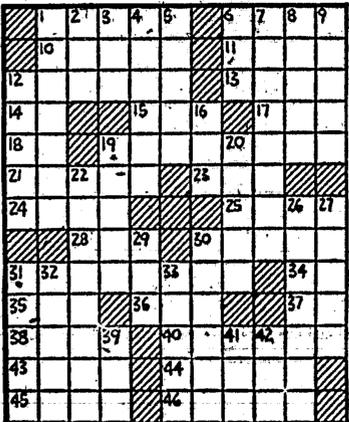

LEWISTOWN, Mon. — A small town newspaper has come up with a solution for the problem of statehood for Alaska.

The Lewistown Daily News suggests that Montana and Alaska be combined into a new state of "Montanaska." The paper said the combination would offset Canada's proposed union of Alberta and British Columbia into the new province of British Columbia.

Balloon's Lift Comes From Volume of Gas

The lifting power of a balloon depends on the volume of gas contained in the balloon. The forces that raise it are the same as those that keep a ship floating in water. That is, the lift is equal to the difference in weight between the gas that is in the bag and the air which the bag displaces.

A thousand cubic feet of air at sea-level pressure weighs 81 pounds, while the same volume of hydrogen at similar pressure weighs only 6 pounds. Thus, 1000 cu. ft. of this gas will lift a total of 81 minus 6, or 75 pounds, in which, of course, the balloon itself must be included. Since 1000 cu. ft. of helium weighs 11 pounds, this would lift only 70 pounds.

The balloon stops rising when it reaches a level where the atmosphere is so thin that the displaced air weighs the same as the enclosed gas.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FRENCH-AMINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Here is why FRENCH-AMINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon, right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FRENCH-AMINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FRENCH-AMINT and feel your "spring" again! One FRENCH-AMINT No. increase in price—still 25¢, 50¢ or 100¢ only!

DON MACLAUGHLIN, who has the lead in NBC's "Counterplay" and stars as "Dr. Jim Brent" in "The Road of Life," is probably the only man in show business who got his start in the role of a horse. He had staked everything on making a success of acting, he'd got a small part on a network show—and it was cut during rehearsal. Don was assigned to help the sound effects man, and wound up by portraying a neighing horse.

DON MACLAUGHLIN

His first year's work netted him just $22.50. However, once he made his dent in radio, the impression became permanent. Born and educated in Ohio, he's called "The man with the typical American voice."

"Mr. and Mrs. North," now in their 8th year on CBS Radio, with Allice Frost and Joe Curtis starring, have a comedy mystery sketch set for Dec. 11. Involving the murder of a safecracker, they call it "Each Dawn I Die!"

Bess Myerson, former Miss America, has been doing fine on her own little television show. Now Walt Framer, producer of "Strike It Rich," has plans. Wants to star in "The Big Payoff," a fashion quiz show, in which "the woman in a person's life"—mother, school-teacher, wife, sweetheart, sister—can win all sorts of clothes, the big payoff being a mink coat.

Rock Hudson, young Universal-International actor who has been singled out for the same type of build-up that sent Tony Curtis soaring to stardom, gets his biggest break opposite Yvonne De Carlo in "Scarlet Angel."

THE FICTION CORNER NARROW ESCAPE

By Richard HHI Wilkinson

LAURA knew her first feeling of fear when Jud took the whip from its socket and flicked it across the backs of the plodding horses.

She had been watching the clouds pile out of the northwest with amazing speed for the past 15 minutes. But this was April, and there was no wind at all. Also, the day was mild, almost sultry. It was hard to imagine a blizzard even in Nebraska.

Beauty and Prince broke into a lumbering trot. The rhythm of the crunching wheels of the heavy farm wagon increased in tempo. Beneath them, at the foot of the long slope, Laura could see the buildings of their farm.

The cloud bank came toward them with astonishing speed, hanging an impenetrable gray curtain from sky to earth as it swept across the prairie. Jud stood up and lashed out with the whip.

Little Lucy began to cry, and a moment later Jud, junior, joined in with lusty bawls. Laura huddled one under each arm and said: "Sh! Sh, now!" But when she lifted her anxious eyes, she felt again the terror.

The farm buildings were not more than a quarter of a mile away. Now they could hear the roar of the wind. It drowned out the crunch of wheels; it plucked Jud's cries from his lips and sent them screaming back over his shoulder. The blizzard struck them like a blast from the Arctic.

Laura drew the heavy bear rugs about the children, and bound her own scarf about her face. She could no longer hear the crying of the youngsters, nor the clapping of the horses' hoofs, nor Jud's shouts.

There was no point in looking up. She tried it once. It was like being suspended in a great vacuum with moving, screaming walls. Even the outlines of the horses were blotted out.

The progress of the team slowed. Jud was no longer using the whip. He sat humped forward, barely visible behind a veil of snow.

AFTER awhile Laura had the feeling that the team was swinging in a great arc. A new terror seized her. The road was straight. There was not a curve for miles.

She screamed at Jud, tugged at his sheepskin coat. He bent down and she tried to make him understand. He shook his head and pointed down. She bent forward, could barely make out the right front wheel. It was running even with the whippetree, had not turned at all.

She settled down once more, hugging the children close. Cold crept in under the blankets. Snow piled up in her lap and on her shoulders. The world had gone mad.

Again she had that feeling of swinging around. She fought it until the horror of it threatened her sanity. Then she poked her head from beneath the blankets. Jud was crouched forward, tense, pulling on the high rein. She beat against his shoulder.

"We've missed the house! I'm turning back!" She could barely catch the words. A cold chill, a hideous fear, congealed the blood of her veins. Missed the house! It would be hours—possibly days before the storm ended. They had no provisions aboard the wagon. They would freeze.

She clutched the children against her. They never should have started out. They wouldn't have if it had been a month later.

The storm attacked with a few fury, an uncombated violence. It lashed and screamed and laughed in hideous triumph at their helplessness. Time once more stood still.

Laura was roused by someone rubbing snow against her cheeks. She sat up, trying to cry out, remembering the children. "They're all right," Jud said, "I gave the horses their heads. They took us home. Wouldn't have made it otherwise."

Stiff-legged, carrying a child in either arm, she went through the sled and into the kitchen. The heat beat against her face. She set the children on the table and went to the stove. The kettle was still steaming. In another five minutes they would have caught.

Increase in Third-Class Mail Rate Is Desirable

By Wright A. Patterson

EVERY TIME the mail carrier delivers mail at my door it consists largely of third class mail, circulars, solicitations of one kind and another. Things I did not ask for, do not want, and do not read, though they are made to appear as letters through the use of special envelopes, one flap of which is folded in so as to make it appear sealed.

An increase in third class mail should be considered, raising it to the price of second class or letter mail. This could be done without imposing any added cost to the people, other than those who use it for sales or other solicitations. Any increase on letter mail affects all of the people and constitutes an added government burden for all to pay. Any increase on second class mail, newspapers and periodicals, would mean an increase in the subscription prices on the newspapers and periodicals, which the public, the subscribers, would pay. An increase on third class mail would accomplish one of two things, or possibly both. It would increase the postal revenues by all or more, than the present annual deficit, if any, or it would reduce the amount of mail, and the cost of postal operations.

It could do some of both, and it would not cost the people of the nation generally a penny. The only ones to be affected would be those using the postal facilities as a means of promoting sales for their products or services, those whose business is that of preparing direct mail advertising copy, and the printers who produce the circulars that are used in such advertising campaigns. All of them together represent but a limited few, not enough to cause any fear of reprisals on the part of those who might vote for the elimination of the third class, or for the repeal of any increase in second class congress may have made in an effort to balance the postal expenditures and receipts.

If the postoffice department has an actual annual deficit, that has not been proven, the practical and sensible way to remedy that condition is by an increase in third class mail. Newspapers and periodicals should collectively urge that method.

Should you be one of the 83 million holders of life insurance policies, or one of the 50 millions who have savings accounts in the banks and building and loan organizations, or one of the 80 million owners of government bonds, or one of the 108 million social security card holders, or one of the 38 million workers expecting to draw industrial insurance, or one with any investment from which it is expected to derive revenue to support you during declining years, you have a very definite interest in inflation. The dollars you would receive today from any one of these sources would pay for less than one half the things you need than would have one half of the dollars as late as even 10 years ago. That is inflation, and it seriously affects each one of us.

What can we, as individuals, do about it? We can demand action on the part of our representative in congress and our two United States senators and demand action in such terms that they will not fail to understand the full meaning of that demand. Tell them you want less new money issued, the government debt reduced, all payments in any form to all minority groups stopped, all government expenditures, unless they can be shown as essential, reduced by at least a million.

A sufficient number of demands will get such results, along with a decrease in taxes, and getting those results will stop inflation. That is your part in the fight against the inflation monster.

The Republican nominee for the presidency may be left to write his own platform, but what about nominees for the house of representatives and the senate. Are they to be entirely on their own in their campaigns?

Attorney General McGrath has headed a crusade for honesty and integrity in sports and athletics. Why not a crusade for honesty and integrity in government. It is needed there more than in sports and athletics.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS International Union Sunday School Lessons BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

Hero's Farewell Lesson for December 9, 1951

A moving picture company once conceived the idea of recording and putting on the screen all over the country what two opposing candidates were saying on various problems. It was enjoyable, or maddening, according to your political views to observe the contrast. Both men read what they had to say, but their reading was entirely different.

One man kept his eyes on his little desk, never made a gesture, never looked at the audience. It was not inspiring, just a middle-aged man reading to himself. Candidate B on the other hand never let his script come between him and his listeners; he kept his eye on them and unless one observed him carefully one would not notice that he was reading. (He won in a walk, too.) Now the way to get the true flavor of Deuteronomy is, especially the chapters selected for this week, is to listen to some one read it who can read like Candidate B. For Deuteronomy is not a dead-book; it is mostly out-of-doors oratory. It was not meant for the eye first, but for the ear.

After the Great Man, What? A great hero, Moses, was taking a leave of his people. In spite of all the grumblings and the rebellions, it is no exaggeration to say that for those people he stood in the place of God. He not only towered above his own generation, but he cast a light far into the centuries, so that to this day we are indebted to the inspired greatness of Moses, the man of God.

Yet the greatest of men must die. When it came time for him to say farewell it is hard to imagine the staking of heart that all his people felt. Before them lay the unknown; their whole course of life was about to change. In ways they could not foresee, with Moses gone, how could they face the future? Was he to leave after him (as some "great" men have done) only a vacuum?

A Challenge In the closing days of his life, Moses focused his people's eyes on two things. First was the Law. Life is not lived by impulse and inspiration only. Life, to have power and meaning, must be a patterned life, clear and definite lines, a sense of direction. So Moses left behind him--not full details, these were for others to work out--the main lines of civic and social, as well as individual life, in the Law which God had made clear to him as the true "design for living."

But Moses does not simply pound it into people's ears: You shall, you must, these are the orders! He sets it out as a clear choice. He shows the people the alternatives: Life and Good on the one hand, Death and Evil on the other. Make up your mind, he says: Choose. The Law of God does not force you. It is not an arbitrary thing. The reason for the Law is never "just because." The reason for the Law is that it is the way to live. You don't have to keep it, Moses says in effect; but if you choose to reject it, the end of the other road is Death. This is true for individuals. It is true for nations. It is a terrific mistake to think of God as ordering us about for his own amusement, or to fit us down. He gives us orders for our own sakes.

A Song ANOTHER legacy Moses leaves behind is a Song. We do not usually think of Moses as a poet, but Deut. 32 is ascribed to him. He knew people might forget the Law, but a Song they would not forget. "I care not who writes a nation's laws," said a philosopher, "if only I can write its songs."

What Moses gave his people was no mere tactical train, but a grand hymn of faith. What Moses most of all wants his people to do, is not to remember him but to remember God. So after all the law is on the books, and all the speeches have been made, at the last he gives his people a Song, to remember God by. Is it not so always? What are the parts of the Bible that mean most to all generations? Always the singing words of Psalm and prophet and gospel, the rhythm of Paul's chapter on Love, the majestic choruses of the Revelation. Though great men pass, though the mind forget the Law, the heart will not forget the Song.
