HONDO HAPPENINGS

By ELMA F. ROGERS

Pauline McKnight is the Good Samaritan who has put out the little iron lungs around here. We hope they were well filled as all the money is used here at home. The National Foundation doesn't have a lot of high-salaried personnel, nor is the money sent all over the world, but it is spent in the country where it is donated.

Guess the worst of the flu is past now, as we see a lot more folks around now. There were a lot of our good valley folks down with it and we are all glad to see them up and around again.

Our new music teacher from Nebraska, Mr. Lata, says we have a lot of good material here for a good band and with a little help he can have a real organization. We are sure he will get all the help he needs, as we are all pretty proud of our band. Mr. Lata is also interested in starting a baseball team and we sure he can get a lot of help in that.

The Milt Mables were in El Paso recently. Milt had some vital work done and they had other business to tend to.

See Ed Nelson up and around again after his second bout with the flu, but he doesn't look too pert yet. You are like a lot of the rest of us, Ed—not as young as you used to be. Better be careful.

Mrs. Lutario Fresquez has had quite a time with the flu. She is not too well otherwise and it was pretty tough on her, but she is up and around again now.

See Granville Richardson is around again after his sick spell, but he says he doesn't feel too hot yet.

Haven't seen the Wilbur McKnights lately. Guess they must be down with the flu, as they are around most every day when they are not sick.

See Mrs. Britton is home again after being down at Artesia nursing her sister who has been sick. She is much improved.

This weather we are having sure makes a fellow want to get out and open the fishing season. Guess we will have to get the weather and the fishing season more together some way.

See our new sheriff down here in the valley once in a while. He says he has to keep tab on us down here. Come down any time, Glen.

THE YUCCA

By WM. YELTER

The yucca flowers on every hand Along the Pecos and Rio Grande, And where the San Juan seaward flows It nods in every breeze that blows
In fact, you'll find it wherever you go In tiempo land—New Mexico.

The lily, magnolia or rose may be The flower of your nativity; Perhaps the sunflower you may claim, Or the columbine, of equal fame; But all will love this flower who know The yucca of fair New Mexico.

Pure is this desert flower I sing, White as the down of an angel's wing. Blooming in coulees, on mesa or hill, Perfuming breezes that never are still, And welcoming all, as they come and go, To manana land—New Mexico.

Nearly half of the nation's farmers who work more than two-thirds of the farmland in the U. S. are carrying out conservation practices.

CATTLE ON FEED FIRST OF YEAR SET NEW RECORD

In a recent announcement, the Agriculture Department announced a record number of cattle were on feed in the United States Jan. 1.

The total is estimated at 5,836,000 head, which is 16 per cent above the Jan. 1, 1952 figure of 5,024,000. The 1947-51 average was 4,349,000.

The survey shows a 23 per cent increase in cattle on feed in 23 North Central states, including the Corn Belt, and 2 per cent fewer in 13 Western states. Kansas is the only North Central state showing a decline.

Iowa, the number one feeding state, showed a 27 per cent increase.

The overall increase for the three most important feeding states of Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois was 20 per cent, with more than 2,029,000 cattle on feed.

The two most important feeding states in the Far West, Colorado and California, however, showed decreases of 1 and 15 per cent respectively.

Shipments of stocker and feeder cattle into nine corn belt states also was about a fourth larger last month than in Dec., 1951. Shipments for the July-December period were 18 per cent above the same period in 1951.

The Corn Belt states reported a much larger proportion of lightweight cattle on feed this year than in 1951.

Comparatively few cattle were reported being finished for market in the Plains states, though there was an increase over 1951 in both Texas and Oklahoma.

Almost the entire increase in cattle on feed in the Corn Belt was in those that had been on feed less than six months.

A&M Holds Dairy Course Feb. 16-17

Economy in milk production will be the theme of the fourth annual dairy short course at Milton Hall on the campus of New Mexico A&M College, according to E. E. Anderson, extension dairyman. The course is sponsored every year by the Experiment Station and Extension Service of A&M.

During the short course, Holstein and Guernsey breeders in New Mexico will hold annual meetings of their state associations. The state branch of the American Dairy Association will also hold its annual meeting during the course. Ray Roberts, director of the membership committee of the American Dairy Association, Chicago, Ill., will be the featured speaker at the ADA meeting Feb. 16.

Extension Service Schedules 14 NM Egg-Grading Schools

You won't have to worry about grading eggs under the New Mexico grading law — if you know how to grade 'em. And if you don't already know how to grade eggs, you can learn how to grade them in a short time. Just attend one of the many egg-grading schools which will be conducted throughout the state by the Extension Service and the egg inspection department of New Mexico A&M College.

The schools will be held in 14 different counties in January, February and March. Each school will last three hours and will be conducted by H. L. Mathews, extension poultryman, and Charlie B. Whigham, Jr., chief inspector, egg inspection department.

Schools will be held in the following cities: Tucuman, Jan. 26; Clovis, Jan. 27; Portales, Jan. 28; Lovington, Jan. 29; State College, Feb. 4; Silver City, Feb. 6; Hagerman, Feb. 12; Aztec, Mar. 17; Albuquerque, Mar. 19; Belen, Mar. 20; Santa Fe, Mar. 24; Espanola, Mar. 25; Taos, Mar. 26; and Las Vegas, Mar. 27.

The program for the schools is as follows:

How to improve methods of marketing eggs—Whigham.

What is a good egg?—Mathews.

Responsibilities of and benefits to producers selling eggs under the New Mexico grading law—Whigham.

Actual practice in grading eggs under the requirements of the state law.

The schools have also been planned to help the producer or merchant who does not grade

Roadkings Are High Scoring Outfit

Basketball fans in the area are in for a real treat on February 16 when the Harlem Roadkings take on the Carrizozo Lions Club at the high school.

The Roadkings, like the Harlem Globetrotters, play a fast, fancy and funny style of ball and are guaranteed to provide a very worthwhile evening's entertainment.

Except for Cleo Johnson, their playing coach, who is 5-ft. 8-in. tall, the team height ranges from 6 ft. to 6 ft. 8 in.

The Roadkings were acclaimed the greatest entertaining basketball team on the road by many sports writers on the West Coast and Middle West and this season will travel from New York to California, with a dip into New Mexico.

That they keep a crowd roaring is attested by the statistics that appear after the team has played:

"A crowd of 2500 saw the unorthodox fray and whooped it up throughout and spasms of delight at some of the backside passes and feints and frolics of the Johnson Tribe."

Bobby Grund has the perfect king-pin for his great show in the ageless Cleo Johnson of Cleveland, Ohio. Whether it is dribbling, ball handling, sleight-of-hand magic with the ball, or shooting those long set shots, Cleo now playing his 13th year with the Roadkings, has no equal.

Hondo Drops Two Games to Ruidoso

By SHIRLEY POINDEXTER

The Ruidoso Warriors scored an unexpected victory over the Hondo Eagles January 23, winning 35 to 30 in a spirited and hard-fought game. Good sportsmanship was shown by both teams.

Esly Benavidez scored the first point of the game on a free throw. Poindexter was hurt during the first few minutes, spraining his ankle, but he re-entered the game later and scored for the Eagles.

At half time the Warriors led by 3 points.

In an earlier game, the Ruidoso Bees won from Hondo, 26 to 18. The Hondo lineup was Andy Rue, Felipe Salcido, Melvin Chavez, Leroy Montes and Louie Montoya. For Ruidoso—Ben Hall, Wood Moore, Bill Glascock, Carl Allison and Don Northrip.

Northrip scored the first 2 points of the game. At the half time the Warriors led 16-10. Only 2 points were scored during the third quarter—a free throw by each team. Bill Glascock started off the 4th quarter with a free throw. Fermín Salcido and Carl Allison scored a field goal each.

Lake Arthur took two games from Hondo January 27 on the Lake Arthur home floor—their team winning 28-40 and the Lake Arthur Bees repeating by a score of 31-14.

Corona Rolls Over Capitan Tiger A's

The Capitan A's tried to throw a road-block into the way of the smooth-running Corona 1953 Model A's, and almost succeeded, but not quite. The well-oiled Corona machine rolled to another victory, 58-47, and headed straight for the camp of the Carrizozo Grizzlies.

Wally Ferguson was high man with 19 points, followed by Smith, 17, and Bryan, 16, for Corona. Capitan's Womack, who waited until the third quarter to get hot, netted 14—all field goals. Eleven of Ferguson's points were free shots.

Capitan played its usual system, but didn't turn in its best brand of ball. Corona played mostly around the post, trying for break-in shots. Both teams employed the man-to-man defense. Smith capitalized on his height to make most of his shots. He was very good on taking rebounds. Bryan waited until the last half to get hot and when he did, oh brother!

The Corona Bees squeezed out a win over Capitan's juniors by only one point—45 to 45. Hyde for the Tigers was high with 20 points, 10 of them free shots. Abeyta was high man for Corona with 15.

The box score:

Lincoln County Has Wealth of Minerals

(Lincoln County's wealth is not all above the ground. Below the surface of large areas of the county's expanse is untold wealth in minerals—coal, iron ore, lead, copper and silver. In this and subsequent articles, iron ore deposits are described from information gathered by the University of New Mexico publication on geology, in cooperation with the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.—Ed.)

History of Iron Mining

The rather high sulphur content of the samples is noteworthy. According to Fayette A. Jones (1904, p. 206), P. C. Bell, an early prospector in Lincoln County, discovered and developed in a small way several iron-ore deposits in the Lincoln County region as early as 1902. Jones thought highly of the Lincoln County ores and spoke of them as "high-grade" and "vast." He examined many iron deposits in the area and Bell named the Jones district in Socorro County in his honor. Several men such as W. T. Harris and Lon Jenkins owned iron-ore claims in the Gallinas and Jicarilla Mountains at the turn of the century.

It appears that some iron-ore may have been shipped to smelters in El Paso or Socorro in the period from 1900 to about World War I. The first recorded output of iron-ore to the Pueblo furnaces came from the Yellow Jacket mine at Lone Mountain in 1913 when about 3,700 tons of iron-ore were shipped. Small yearly output of iron-ore from Lincoln County continued from 1913 to 1921. During this period five companies shipped iron-ore from small scattered operations in the Jicarilla, Tecolote, and Lone Mountain districts. The output totaled nearly 30,000 tons.

No further output of iron-ore from Lincoln County was made until World War II when increased demand for steel and a price of 9 cents per long-ton unit of iron resulted in half a dozen small operations in the Gallinas, Jicarilla, and Lone Mountain districts. Higher costs of labor and equipment plus the long rail haul made profitable mining unsuccessful.

Geology

Rocks of nearly every geologic age occur in Lincoln County. (Darton 1923 b). Pre-Cambrian granite, gneiss, and schist crop out in the west face of the Oscura Mountains in the extreme western corner of the county. These are overlain in the Oscura Mountains by eastward-dipping Paleozoic strata. A few small patches of pre-Cambrian rocks crop out in and near the Gallinas Mountains where they are overlain by thin beds of the Abo formation and by the Yeso and San Andres formation (Kelley 1946). Pre-Cambrian rocks are reported from the White Mountains. Rocks of the Magdalena group and Abo formation may be absent and hence may not underlie the Yeso and San Andres strata in a large part of northern and possibly central Lincoln County. Permian rocks consisting of sandstone and gypsum of the Yeso formation and the Glorieta sandstone member and limestone of the San Andres formation crop out over most of the county.

In the west-central part of the county, centering about the White Mountains, Triassic and Cretaceous rocks occupy a large structural basin. Overlying these in the White Mountains is a thick series of volcanic rocks which are probably late Cretaceous or early Tertiary in age. Several large stocks and laccoliths, and many dikes and sills intrude most of the above rocks. The erosional resistance of the larger intrusives gives rise to the major mountain masses in the county. Considerable Quaternary alluvium fills the Tularosa Valley in the southwest part of the county from White Oaks to Oscura. Finally there are Quaternary basalt flows which occupy the Tularosa and tributary valleys in the western part of the county.

The principal structural feature of Lincoln County is the large basin of Triassic and Cretaceous rocks. This basin extends out of the Tularosa depression on the south and in a north-north-east direction to a few miles north of Ancho. It occupies an oval-shaped area about 50 miles long and 35 miles wide between Capitan and Oscura. The downward continues north of the northern limits of Triassic rocks near Ancho in the underlying Permian rocks. Although narrower and smaller, it probably extends at least as far north as Corona. The igneous activity appears to be related in some way to this structural downward since most of the large intrusives and volcanic eruptions roughly parallel it. The Capitan Mountains intrusive is an exception to this. It lies to the east of the basin and is an easterly elongated mass about 20 miles in length. (to be continued.)

WASTE IN ARMED SERVICES LACK OF PARTISANSHIP HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON—With the confirmation by the Senate of Chas. E. Wilson, former head of General Motors, as Secretary of Defense, the first serious threat to an otherwise orderly induction of the Eisenhower administration, has been averted. Wilson, confronted with a legal barrier to his acceptance, because of his ownership of $2,500,000 General Motors stock, made a decision to divest himself of the stock in order to serve in the cabinet, which can be regarded only as a patriotic gesture.

This action of self-sacrifice, coupled with the proven administrative ability of the new Secretary of Defense, would seem to indicate that the people of the country can expect from him a business-like, conscientious administration in government that spends more than one half of all the money appropriated by Congress each year.

The armed services, as was shown by investigations made by the Hebert sub-committee of the House Armed Services committee, during the last Congress, have been notoriously wasteful. This has been due in a great degree to the fact that there has been a very evident lack of business experience in the administration of that Department. The enormous procurement program for the armed services has been in the hands of men who were trained for fighting instead of business. If Secretary Wilson remedies this one serious defect in the defense program, he will contribute much toward a reduction of the tax load on the American people.

Thus far in the administration of President Eisenhower, he has received full cooperation from the Democratic minority in the Congress. I believe he will receive that cooperation so long as his administrative policies merit it. There appears to be less partisanship in the Congress today than has been evident at any previous time since the turn of the century. It is my sincere hope it will continue, because the world situation and that in our own country requires full cooperation by all of us.

So that the highway construction program in many states, including New Mexico, will not be seriously hampered or delayed I have urged the House of Representatives to expedite passage of the $165,000,000 supplementary appropriation asked for the Bureau of Public Roads. This money is needed immediately to meet commitments by the Bureau in payment to the states for money expended on highway work already completed. The Bureau now has before it unpaid vouchers for money due the states amounting to $27,000,000 and the total is mounting rapidly. This shortage of funds is due to a cut of $75,000,000 being made in federal aid appropriations for this fiscal year, which ends June 30. The committee, in making the cut, said in its report:

"This reduction is made on the premise that shortages of manpower, equipment and materials, especially steel, would slow down the completion of much of this road work. If these shortages do not materialize and the work is completed, the federal government is obliged to furnish the necessary funds."

In my remarks to the House I said in part:
"The premise upon which this reduction was made has been proved to be wrong. The shortages did not develop. The result is the states have in good faith proceeded with the program and the federal government is now in the position of failing to keep faith with the states."

"It is my firm conviction that the Congress cannot be a party to this breaking of faith and that immediate action is necessary. It will be dangerous for us to delay this action at a time when the nation's highways are overtaxed, due to the drastic curtailment of federal funds and the diversion by the federal government of 75 per cent of the income from excise taxes on highway users to other purposes than the building and maintenance of highways—the purpose for which they rightfully should be used."

It was my suggestion that the federal aid highway supplementary funds be set up in a separate bill to preclude the delay that will be occasioned if they are left in the general bill which will require a much longer time for consideration and passage.

Among those who have brought to the attention of Congress the critical financial situation this delay in payment of federal funds is causing in the states was Gov. Ed McChem of New Mexico.

FORTY YEARS AGO

(From the files of the Carrizozo News, February 7, 1913—"Carrizozo Sketches: 'IT WAS HOT!'")

The Mal Pais, the black streak of badlands to our west, afford a wondrous spectacle for eyes to gaze on and for curious minds to ponder over. This is particularly true of those newly-arrived, and questions fly thick and fast. To all, or nearly all old timers, the date, the manner of the eruption—its consequences—remain locked in Nature's breast. Conjectures uncounted have been made as to its destructive qualities—Gran Quivira and the Seven Cities having been buried and their inhabitants smothered by the fumes and ashes and burned by the intolerable heat—so the story goes.

Amidst all this uncertainty and conjecture, Lincoln County at one time boasted an individual who knew all about the circumstance because he was right here when it happened. We shall not call his name as he has long since been gathered to his fathers, and to drag his name into the discussion at this late day might impel some carping critic to question the incident. A young man from the east, out of college, discovered the Mal Pais and had heard the stories of the destruction of Gran Quivira. Burning for more information, he finally rounded the old fellow up.

He poured a flood of questions into the old man but the old fellow only listened, giving no answer. Finally the easterner became impatient and blurted: "I was told you knew all about it, that you were here when it happened, but I don't believe you know any more about what happened than any of your ignorant associates; and besides, it must have been pretty hot here at the time."

"You betcha life," replied the O. T., at last aroused, "I was standin' on Church Peak when she let loose. I seen the smoke and heard a rumblin' an' dreckly it was so hot that the brass buttons on my coat was melted. HOT—young man, I should say it was; HOT—er h—!"
And the young man, 'wised up, sent a thrilling story to an eastern magazine.

Saturday morning at 8 o'clock sharp, the first auto on the newly established daily auto line between Carrizozo and Roswell whirled around the post-office corner and headed for Roswell, bearing the mail to every postoffice in central, southern and eastern Lincoln county. A big crowd had gathered on the corner to see the initial start, and a feeling of elation—evident on every face—crowned the event. The auto from Roswell arrived at 4:30 p.m., a little ahead of schedule. Every day since it has been going and coming regularly and we now have become accustomed to the new service and wonder how we did without it so long—and made so little fuss about it. "Tis wonderful!

Jim Redmond made a trip to Roswell the other day, according to the Roswell Daily News, which reported: James Redmond, who has been with the Block and McDonald interests since the war, is in the city, arriving yesterday with a team of range mules, which were not used to city ways and landed him against a North Side fence. The householder indignantly asked him where he was going, and he answered: "Darned if I know. Ask the mules."

Plan Your Cleaning Closet
from SMALL HOMES GUIDE

A closet engineered to fit your assortment of cleaning supplies and odds-and-ends will save you time, energy and temper. Properly planned, it need take up little space.
First, plan what you want to store in the closet: vacuum cleaner, pail, mops, brooms, ironing board, table leaves, or whatever. Perhaps you will also want to use the closet for sports equipment such as fishing rods, golf clubs and guns.
Next, measure the tallest and widest item you want to store in the closet. Your vacuum cleaner will probably be the most awkward. That should fit in without any skew-hawing. Above it you can place a shelf to hold cleaning equipment—cloths, newspapers, paper bags and dust bag filters for the cleaner.
Shelves of special shapes like the L, U and the half-shelf might be the answer to how best to use the space available. The U-shaped shelves shown above hold small items; the center leaves space for tall bottles. Vertical dividers called below the lower shelf will keep everything in its place.
An important point is plan to store what is most frequently used at finger-tip length with no reaching and no stretching.
Adequate ventilation at top and bottom is also a must, for safety reasons. Oily mops and rags can be dangerous otherwise.
Finish the interior of the closet with a grease and dustproof finish. Glossy or semigloss paint, linoleum or oil cloth fill the order.

Roadkings Are High Scoring Outfit

Basketball fans in the area are in for a real treat on February 16 when the Harlem Roadkings take on the Carrizozo Lions Club at the high school.

The Roadkings, like the Harlem Globetrotters, play a fast, fancy and funny style of ball and are guaranteed to provide a very worthwhile evening's entertainment.

Except for Cleo Johnson, their playing coach, who is 5-ft., 8-in. tall, the team height ranges from 6 ft. to 6 ft., 8 in.

The Roadkings were acclaimed the greatest entertaining basketball team on the road by many sports writers on the West Coast and Middle West and this season will travel from New York to California, with a dip into New Mexico.

That they keep a crowd roaring is attested by the statistics that appear after the team has played:

"A crowd of 2500 saw the unorthodox fray and whooped it up throughout and spasms of delight at some of the backside passes and feints and frolics of the Johnson Tribe."

Bobby Grund has the perfect king-pin for his great show in the ageless Cleo Johnson of Cleveland, Ohio. Whether it is dribbling, ball handling, sleight-of-hand magic with the ball, or shooting those long set shots, Cleo now playing his 13th year with the Roadkings, has no equal.

In an earlier game, the Ruidoso Bees won from Hondo, 28 to 18. The Hondo lineup was Andy Rue, Felipe Salcido, Melvin Chavez, Leroy Montes and Louis Montoya. For Ruidoso—Ben Hall, Wood Moore, Bill Glascock, Carl Allison and Don Northrip.

Northrip scored the first 2 points of the game. At the half time the Warriors led 16-10. Only 2 points were scored during the third quarter—a free throw by each team. Bill Glascock started off the 4th quarter with a free throw. Fernin Salcido and Carl Allison scored a field goal each.

Lake Arthur took two games from Hondo January 27 on the Lake Arthur home floor—their team winning 28-40 and the Lake Arthur Bees repeating by a score of 31-14.

Corona Rolls Over Capitan Tiger A's

The Capitan A's tried to throw a road block into the way of the smooth-running Corona 1953 Model A's, and almost succeeded, but not quite. The well-oiled Corona machine rolled to another victory, 58-47, and headed straight for the camp of the Carrizozo Grizzlies.

Wally Ferguson was high man with 19 points, followed by Smith, 17, and Bryan, 15, for Corona. Capitan's Womack, who waited until the third quarter to get hot, netted 14—all field goals. Eleven of Ferguson's points were free shots.

Capitan played its usual system, but didn't turn in its best brand of ball. Corona played mostly around the post, trying for break-in shots. Both teams employed the man-to-man defense. Smith capitalized on his height to make most of his shots. He was very good on taking rebounds. Bryan waited until the last half to get hot and when he did, oh brother!

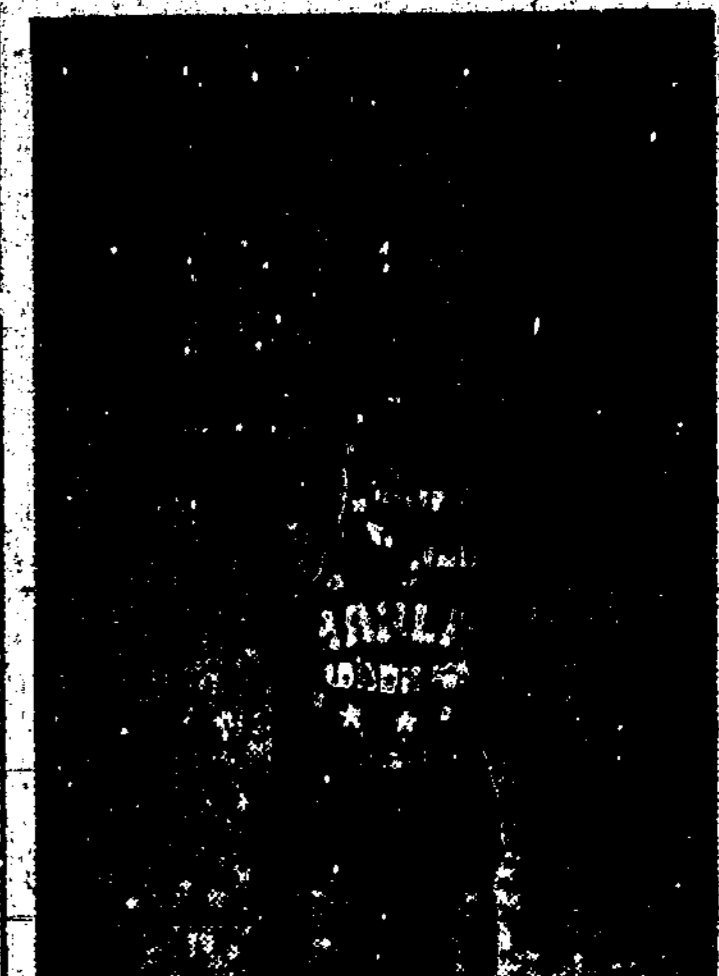

The Corona Bees squeezed out a win over Capitan's juniors by only one point—46 to 45. Hyde for the Tigers was high with 20 points, 10 of them free shots. Abeyta was high man for Corona with 15.

The box score:

Corona Rolls on Toward Valley Championship

Saturday night Corona had little trouble holding onto their undefeated status as they rolled over the Carrizozo Grizzlies, 79 to 37.

Carrizozo was hoping for an upset as they took the floor, but the smooth working Corona dribblers quickly smothered any such idea.

The game was marred by some rough play. Grizzly tempers flared and two men had to be sent to the showers—one by the referees and the other by

Lincoln County Has Wealth of Minerals

(Lincoln County's wealth is not all above the ground. Below the surface of large areas of the county's expanse is untold wealth in minerals—coal, iron ore, lead, copper and silver. In this and subsequent articles, iron ore deposits are described from information gathered by the University of New Mexico publication on geology, in cooperation with the Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.—Ed.)

History of Iron Mining

The rather high sulphur content of the samples is noteworthy. According to Fayette A. Jones (1904, p. 206), P. C. Bell, an early prospector in Lincoln County, discovered and developed in a small way several iron-ore deposits in the Lincoln County region as early as 1902. Jones thought highly of the Lincoln County ores and spoke of them as "high-grade" and "vast." He examined many iron deposits in the area and Bell named the Jones district in Socorro County in his honor. Several men such as W. T. Harris and Lon Jenkins owned iron-ore claims in the Gallinas and Jicarilla Mountains at the turn of the century.

It appears that some iron-ore may have been shipped to smelters in El Paso or Socorro in the period from 1900 to about World War I. The first recorded output of iron-ore to the Pueblo furnaces came from the Yellow Jacket mine at Lone Mountain in 1913 when about 3,700 tons of iron-ore were shipped. Small yearly output of iron-ore from Lincoln County continued from 1913 to 1921. During this period five companies shipped iron-ore from small scattered operations in the Jicarilla, Tecolote, and Lone Mountain districts. The output totaled nearly 36,000 tons.

No further output of iron-ore from Lincoln County was made until World War II when increased demand for steel and a price of 9 cents per long-ton unit of iron resulted in half a dozen small operations in the Gallinas, Jicarilla, and Lone Mountain districts. Higher costs of labor and equipment plus the long rail haul made profitable mining unsuccessful.

Geology

Rocks of nearly every geologic age occur in Lincoln County. (Darton 1923 b). Pre-Cambrian granite, gneiss, and schist crop out in the west face of the Oscura Mountains in the extreme western corner of the county. These are overlain in the Oscura Mountains by eastward-dipping Paleozoic strata. A few small patches of pre-Cambrian rocks crop out in and near the Gallinas Mountains where they are overlain by thin beds of the Abo formation and by the Yeso and San Andrea formation (Kelley 1946). Pre-Cambrian rocks are reported from the White Mountains. Rocks of the Magdalena group and Abo formation may be absent and hence may not underlie the Yeso and San Andrea strata in a large part of northern and possibly central Lincoln County. Permian rocks consisting of sandstone and gypsum of the Yeso formation and the Gorieta sandstone member and limestone of the San Andrea formation crop out over most of the county.

In the west-central part of the county, centering about the White Mountains, Triassic and Cretaceous rocks occupy a large structural basin. Overlying these in the White Mountains is a thick series of volcanic rocks which are probably late Cretaceous or early Tertiary in age. Several large stocks and laccoliths, and many dikes and sills intrude most of the above rocks. The erosional resistance of the larger intrusives gives rise to the major mountain masses in the county. Considerable Quaternary alluvium fills the Tularosa Valley in the southwest part of the county from White Oaks to Oscura. Finally there are Quaternary basalt flows which occupy the Tularosa and tributary valleys in the western part of the county.

The principal structural feature of Lincoln County is the large basin of Triassic and Cretaceous rocks. This basin extends out of the Tularosa depression on the south and in a north-north-east direction to a few miles north of Ancho. It occupies an oval-shaped area about 50 miles long and 35 miles wide between Capitan and Oscura. The downward continues north of the northern limits of Triassic rocks near Ancho in the underlying Permian rocks. Although narrower and smaller, it probably extends at least as far north as Corona. The igneous activity appears to be related in some way to this structural downward since most of the large intrusives and volcanic eruptions roughly parallel it. The Capitan Mountains intrusive is an exception to this. It lies to the east of the basin and is an easterly elongated mass about 20 miles in length. (to be continued.)

WASTE IN ARMED SERVICES LACK OF PARTISANSHIP HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON—With the confirmation by the Senate of Chas. E. Wilson, former head of General Motors, as Secretary of Defense, the first serious threat to an otherwise orderly induction of the Eisenhower administration has been averted. Wilson, confronted with a legal barrier to his acceptance, because of his ownership of $2,500,000 General Motors stock, made a decision to divest himself of the stock in order to serve in the cabinet, which can be regarded only as a patriotic gesture.

This action of self-sacrifice, coupled with the proven administrative ability of the new Secretary of Defense, would seem to indicate that the people of the country can expect from him a business-like, conscientious administration of the one department in government that spends more than one half of all the money appropriated by Congress each year.

The armed services, as was shown by investigations made by the Hebert subcommittee of the House Armed Services committee, during the last Congress, have been notoriously wasteful. This has been due in a great degree to the fact that there has been a very evident lack of business experience in the administration of that Department. The enormous procurement program for the armed services has been in the hands of men who were trained for fighting instead of business. If Secretary Wilson remedies this one serious defect in the defense program, he will contribute much toward a reduction of the tax load on the American people.

Thus far in the administration of President Eisenhower, he has received full cooperation from the Democratic minority in the Congress. I believe he will receive that cooperation so long as his administrative policies merit it. There appears to be less partisanship in the Congress today than has been evident at any previous time since the turn of the century. It is my sincere hope it will continue, because the world situation and that in our own country requires full cooperation by all of us.

So that the highway construction program in many states, including New Mexico, will not be seriously hampered or delayed I have urged the House of Representatives to expedite passage of the $185,000,000 supplementary appropriation asked for the Bureau of Public Roads. This money is needed immediately to meet commitments by the Bureau in payment to the states for money expended on highway work already completed.

The Bureau now has before it unpaid vouchers for money

LINCOLN COUNTY 20 YEARS AGO

(From the files of the Lincoln County News, February 3, 1933.)

TWENTY YEARS AGO
The Carrizozo Woman's Club entertained with a lavish six o'clock dinner and entertainment last Friday evening. "Cheer Up," by Mrs. Paul Mayer, was followed by the Hocus-Focus Vaudeville Show. Performers in the show were the Mmes. Sam Allen, Mrs. D. X. LaVallee, Mrs. Edith Crawford and Mrs. T. A.

due the states amounting to $27,000,000 and the total is mounting rapidly. This shortage of funds is due to a cut of $75,000,000 being made in federal aid appropriations for this fiscal year, which ends June 30. The committee, in making the cut, said in its report:

"This reduction is made on the premise that shortages of manpower, equipment and materials, especially steel, would slow down the completion of much of this road work. If these shortages do not materialize and the work is completed, the federal government is obliged to furnish the necessary funds."

In my remarks to the House I said in part:

"The premise upon which this reduction was made has been proved to be wrong. The shortages did not develop. The result is the states have in good faith proceeded with the program and the federal government is now in the position of failing to keep faith with the states."

"It is my firm conviction that the Congress cannot be a party to this breaking of faith and that immediate action is necessary."

"It will be dangerous for us to delay this action at a time when the nation's highways are overtaxed, due to the drastic curtailment of federal funds and the diversion by the federal government of 75 per cent of the income from excise taxes on highway users to other purposes than the building and maintenance of highways—the purpose for which they rightfully should be used."

Among those who have brought to the attention of Congress the critical financial situation this delay in payment of federal funds is causing in the states was Gov. Ed Mechem of New Mexico.

It was my suggestion that the federal aid highway supplementary funds be set up in a separate bill to preclude the delay that will be occasioned if they are left in the general bill which will require a much longer time for consideration and passage.

FORTY YEARS AGO

(From the files of the Carrizozo News, February 7, 1913—"Carrizozo Sketches—IT WAS HOT!")

The Mal Pais black streak of badlands to our west, afford a wondrous spectacle for eyes to gaze on and for curious minds to ponder over. This is particularly true of those newly arrived, and questions fly thick and fast. To all, or nearly all old timers, the date, the manner of the eruption—its consequences—remain locked in Nature's breast. Conjectures uncounted have been made as to its destructive qualities—Gran Quivera and the Seven Cities having been buried and their inhabitants smothered by the fumes and ashes and burned by the intolerable heat—so the story goes.

Amidst all this uncertainty and conjecture, Lincoln County at one time boasted an individual who knew all about the circumstance because he was right here when it happened. We shall not call his name as he has long since been gathered to his fathers, and to drag his name into the discussion at this late day might impel some carping critic to question the incident.

"A young man from the east, out out of college, discovered the Mal Pais and had heard the stories of the destruction of Gran Quivera. Burning for more information, he finally rounded the old fellow up.

He poured a flood of questions into the old man but the old fellow only listened, giving no answer. Finally the easterner became impatient and blurted: "I was told you knew all about it, that you were here when it happened, but I don't believe you know any more about what happened than any of your ignorant associates, and besides, it must have been pretty hot here at the time."

"You betcha life," replied the O. T., at last aroused. "I was standin' on Church Peak when she let loose. I seen the smoke and heard a rumblin' an' dreckly it was so hot that the brass buttons on my coat was melted. HOT—young man, I should say it was; Hot'er'n h—!"

And the young man, wised up, sent a thrilling story to an eastern magazine.

Saturday morning at 8 o'clock sharp, the first auto on the newly established daily auto line between Carrizozo and Roswell whirled around the post-office corner and headed for Roswell, bearing the mail to every postoffice in central, southern and eastern Lincoln county. A big crowd had gathered on the corner to see the initial start, and a feeling of elation—evident on every face—crowned the event. The auto from Roswell arrived at 4:30 p.m., a little ahead of schedule. Every day since it has been going and coming regularly and we now have become accustomed to the new service and wonder how we did without it so long—and made so little fuss about it. "Tis wonderful!

Jim Redmond made a trip to Roswell the other day, according to the Roswell Daily News, which reported: James Redmond, who has been with the Block and McDonald interests since the war, is in the city, arriving yesterday with a team of range mules, which were not used to city ways and landed him against a North Side fence. The householder indignantly asked him where he was going, and he answered: "Darned if I know. Ask the mules."

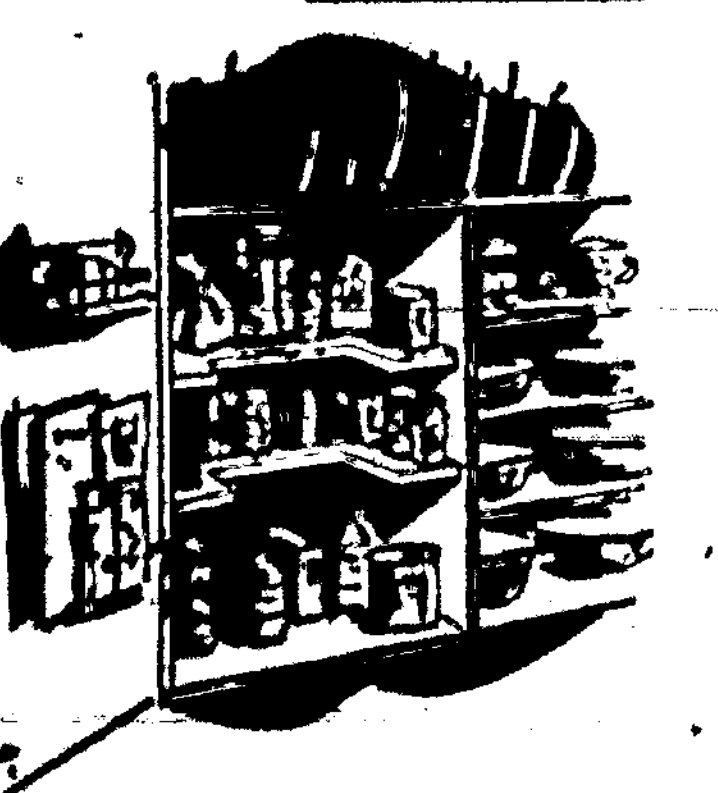

Plan Your Cleaning Closet

from SMALL HOMES GUIDE

A closet engineered to fit your assortment of cleaning supplies and odds-and-ends will save you time, energy and temper. Properly planned, it need take up little space.

First, plan what you want to store in the closet: vacuum cleaner, pail, mops, brooms, ironing board, table leaves, or whatever. Perhaps you will also want to use the closet for sports equipment such as fishing rods, golf clubs and guns.

Next, measure the tallest and widest item you want to store in the closet. Your vacuum cleaner will probably be the most awkward. That should fit in without any skew-hawing. Above it you can place a shelf to hold cleaning equipment—cloths, newspapers, paper bags and dust bag filters for the cleaner.

Shelves of special shapes like the L, U and the half-shelf might be the answer to how best to use the space available. The U-shaped shelves shown above hold small items; the center leaves space for tall bottles. Vertical dividers nailed below the lower shelf will keep everything in its place.

An important point is plan to store what is most frequently used at finger-length with no reaching and no stretching.

Adequate ventilation at top and bottom is also a must, for safety reasons. Oily mops and rags can be dangerous otherwise.

Finish the interior of the closet with a grease and dustproof finish. Glossy or semigloss paint, linoleum or oil cloth fill the order.

ter, 7-3. Hart of Lake Arthur turned in an excellent game at guard, keeping Joe Hernandez down, but Esky Benavidez played heads-up ball.
