SATURDAY EVENING POST REPLIES TO CRITICISM

Editor, News:

Thank you for your letter of the 26th and the enclosure. Criticism always is welcome here.

Naturally we are sorry to hear that Milton Lehman's article, "The Secrets of White Sands," offended you and some of the people of New Mexico.

Naturally we don't go around trying to offend readers and I must say that when I first read Milton Lehman's article I did not find the description of New Mexican background offensive.

Sincerely, Martin Sommers, foreign editor, the Saturday Evening Post.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

This week's mail brought a letter from Janie and Dick Coleman who now live in Cleveland. They were residents of Carrizozo for more than a year while Dick was in the service.

French is said to be an expressive language, but there are times when it becomes inadequate, as the following letter from one gal to another shows:

"The other day I took a day off to have the car checked over and greased. After completion I asked the man 'Is everything working?' and he said 'Just perfect!' Well, I started home and on the way the car just stopped.

"The next Saturday, after the rainy week, I cut the lawn in the front and everyone says it is a good idea to water the grass just after you cut it. What do you think happened? Well, the hose started to develop holes. As fast as I patched one, another would start just like a fountain. Guess we need a new hose.

"That was not the end of it. Mom just loves to listen to One Man's Family, so I turned on the radio. It spoke two words and went dead. That was the place where Mom ran out of French words."

When Mrs. Robert Pope found their 4-year-old son, Danny, whacking the chickens the other day, she asked him why and wherefore. The answer she got was "They won't play with me."

Guess maybe Danny ought to have a dog to play with -- one big enough to take a few cuffs and come back for more.

Lowered Excise Taxes Affect Phone Users

The reduction in excise tax rates enacted by Congress and approved by President Eisenhower will affect every telephone user in Carrizozo, according to Donald L. Nett, local manager of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Pointing out that all bills dated April 1 and thereafter will reflect the tax reduction, Mr. Nett emphasized that all savings from the reduction will go directly to the telephone user. For example, a customer paying $4.00 for his regular service and using $2.00 per month in long distance service has been paying $1.10 monthly in excise taxes. Under the new excise tax rates he saves 50 cents a month or $6.00 a year. Other rates are affected proportionately, Mr. Nett said.

At the age of 21, Ralph won the championship. Last week he battled stiff opposition to gain the finals, losing a 10-9 verdict to Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson.

The match was played on Sunday and Ralph returned with a runner-up trophy, the third he has won in recent months.

Local Conservationist Assigned to Espanola

Rex Werner, Carrizozo district soil conservationist, will leave April 19 for a month's assignment at Espanola. Official announcement of Mr. Werner's successor in Carrizozo will be given in a week or two.

Beene, area conservationist and Charlie Solga, area engineer, both of Artesia, and Dan Giles, conservationist of Capitan; also Gordon Hoff, extension agronomist at State College.

Mr. Brown explained the responsibilities of supervisors in soil conservation work and SCD operation. He also stressed the importance of informing the public about the great need for soil conservation work.

Though reorganization of soil conservation departments has been in progress for some time at the Federal and State level, it is believed that soil and water conservation work in New Mexico will go forward as in the past if it is not in fact stepped up.

OFFICERS RECOVER VALUABLE GUN

A valuable .22 target pistol, stolen from a resort cabin near Ruidoso last October was recovered this week by Sheriff Bradley, cooperating with State Patrolman Bill Driggers of Green Tree and City Marshal Dewey Gann of Ruidoso.

The pistol was the property of Harry W. Walker of Midland, Texas, and was highly valued by its owner because he had been given it as a prize for marksmanship. Another gun of less value was stolen from the cabin at the same time and until this week no trace of either had been found.

Bill Driggers knew the gun the minute it was shown to him in Green Tree by an Alamogordo man who secured it in a trade with an Indian for two quarts of wine.

Sheriff Bradley and Officers Driggers and Gann armed with search warrants drove to the Mesquero reservation and after a day and night of investigation arrested Freyne Sundayman, an Indian resident. He was charged with breaking and entering and having stolen guns in his possession. The Indian is reported to have signed a full confession and is lodged in the County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond. His case is to come before Judge Scoggin at the next session of court.

Upon learning one gun had been recovered, Mr. Walker flew here from Midland, but according to the sheriff's office positive identification of the property had already been made.

Following the fire Mr. Fuller expressed his gratitude to the many people who gave assistance, and to the Hondo Fire Department. Without their prompt response, he said, two houses near the barn would have been lost. The barn was destroyed before the fire truck arrived.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

THEY CAN'T SEE UNDER THE NOSE

SANTA FE, April 7—Attorney General Dick Robinson and U. S. District Attorney Larry Larrazolo have been blustering and threatening about what they were going to do to the crooks that were shown up in the senatorial contest investigation.

This interest in election fraud is kind of strange coming after other incidents of election irregularities which they must have known about all along if they're able to read the newspapers or even to listen to the radio.

Before the outside investigators hit New Mexico most every 6-year-old in the state knew that a man convicted of a post-office embezzlement described by the U. S. district attorney of that time as a felony depriving him of his civil rights has been elected to the state legislature and had served, casting his vote and drawing his pay. He was listed on the election records of Taos county as voting in the election of 1952.

Those guys, if they are in anything less than a comatose condition, must know that there is a very prominent northern New Mexico politico who suffered the misfortune of his wife being committed to the mental hospital at Las Vegas but who has another voting under his wife's name.

The readily accessible records of the state penitentiary and the equally easy to look at election records show a considerable number of ex-convicts who have not had their citizenship restored by pardons taking a hand in the election.

These widely known about cases of election fraud suggest that there won't be much trouble for the recently turned up cases of violators in the senatorial election.

BLONDE BARE INVOLVED IN BALLOT CHANGING

The charges of ballot changing in the senatorial contest, which are documented by scores of pictures of crudely altered ballots in the majority report of the Senate sub-committee in charge of the senatorial contest, involve a good looking blonde woman who hit Albuquerque shortly before election and who screamed shortly afterward.

The woman came here from one of the territories, said she was a representative of the Democratic national headquarters and offered her services to the party as state chairman. That didn't get far but she did wind up in the counting room of one of the Albuquerque precincts and became the subject of a big hunt when the investigators were out here trying to find out "wha happen" in the senatorial election.

The blondy was reportedly hustled out of the state and hasn't been seen in her old haunt of the Hilton hotel bar since.

We haven't heard of the lady being placed on the FBI's most wanted 10 and probably won't because accusations of vote stealing are not yet considered as serious as accusations of money stealing.

TWO HAVE RECEIVED PRISON SENTENCES

You know, in all the course of time we really have convicted two vote thieves. One was a San Miguel county man who very thoughtfully marked the ballots for his neighbors when a flooding arroyo prevented them from getting to the polling place. He scored most of the races 63 to 0 in the Democratic primary and was convicted and sentenced to the pen. As it turned out he didn't get to the pen, being pardoned by the late Jawbone Jones, lieutenant governor under John J. Dempsey. The other case also came up under the Dempsey regime. A Santa Rosa man was sent up for marking ballots with a pencil lead hidden under a finger nail. He was also pardoned by Dempsey's lieutenant governor.

AROUND THE STATE ON A TYPEWRITER

The WCTU entered a float in the Truth or Consequences Fiesta parade that immediately followed a beer company entry blaming the brew for death and destruction on the roads. The temperance union's entry carried the wrecked cars in which a half a dozen were killed when they collided with a beer truck near T or C. It caused a lot of grumbling among townstolk.

Frances A. Hunt
Collection of Paintings
Features State Flowers

(From the Roswell Record)

Most interesting and unusual is the collection of paintings. Frances A. Hunt has just finished and which are now hanging on the walls of the Hunt home, 1301 North Montana ave. in Roswell.

The collection consists of individual pictures of flowers of each state in the United States plus those of Hawaii, Alaska and Washington, D. C. There are 51 pictures in all, framed identically in 8 x 10 frames of Central American mahogany. The picture of each flower has a complimentary background of color, designed by the artist.

Mrs. Hunt, wife of Leonard E. Hunt who paints too, has been more than two years collecting the data for the collection and painting and framing the pictures. She found most of the states most cooperative in sending the needed information, and after collecting all the data, the actual painting of the flowers was no trouble at all, for Mrs. Hunt loves to paint.

It is interesting to note the duplicates of flowers chosen by the states. The rose is the most popular, particularly species of the wild rose. Four states, and Washington, D. C., have the rose in some form or color for their state flower. They are New York, North Dakota, Iowa and Georgia. Four have the violet. They are Illinois, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

Three states have the golden rod, Alabama, Kentucky and Nebraska, and both Mississippi and Louisiana claim the magnolia. The beautiful dogwood, its blossoms in the form of a cross, appropriate to the Easter season, is the flower chosen by both North Carolina and Virginia. Called to mind is the old legend of the dogwood tree which goes something like this: One time its trunk was strong and straight and from its sturdy limbs the cross was made. The Lord, seeing its humility as He hung there, promised that never again would the tree be a means of pain and shame, that from then on the trunk would be slender, twisted and bent and that its flowers would be beautiful. The blossoms always take the form of a cross, the outer edge dotted with tiny brown and red spots symbolizing His nail-prints and flower center to resemble the Crown of Thorns. All this so people in admiring the beauty of the dogwood would look even deeper and remember the day on Calvary.

Maine is the only state that is not represented by a blooming flower. The pine cone is its symbol and of course New Mexico is distinctive too with its majestic and stately yucca.

Mrs. Hunt was born in historic old White Oaks, N. M. She was the former Frances Wells. Her first painting lessons were from Mrs. M. M. Rudiselle, who taught in a private school in White Oaks.

Since then she has studied under various artists, including Arnold Lauder, who was at the Roswell Museum last one time. She has had paintings at shows in Santa Fe, El Paso, Clovis, Albuquerque and in various shows in the Roswell Museum and at Donahue's. She is secretary for the Roswell Art Group and a member of the Chaves County Historical Society.

FROM THE SKYWAYS TO THE HIGHWAYS

FOR MILITARY USE Phillips originated new super-power aviation fuel components—D1-propyl and nounced D1-no-pro-pyl and H1-AKylate. These made possible more powerful fuels for combat aircraft.

RESTRICTED for use in aviation gasoline, these super-powerte have for years been an U. S. Government priority. But now restrictions have been relaxed and Phillips is able to use them in automotive gasoline.

TODAY, D1-propyl is available to motorists exclusively in a new gasoline called Phillips 66 Flite-Fuel. It gives increased power, higher anti-knock quality, freedom from stalling... and it's clean-burning!

"What is more fun than an Easter Egg Tree at Easter time?" asks 5-year-old Janice Curtis of New York. "This tree is gaily decorated with Easter Eggs dyed in bright colors and fastened with adhesive tape. Almost anyone can make such a tree from a small bare limb or shrub and decorate it for Easter fun, says the Poultry and Egg National Board, which adds that you can eat the decorations on an Easter Egg Tree."

Mary Edith Titsworth Weds James H. Durrill

Miss Mary Edith Titsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Titsworth, Green Ridge, became the bride of T-Sgt. James H. Durrill, Westover, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Otha Durrill, Sedalia, at two o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday, March 21, at the Green Ridge Presbyterian church. The Rev. Wylie Steen, chaplain of Missouri Valley College, in Marshall, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked with palms, baskets of white carnations, snapdragons and calla lilies.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Doris Lehman, at the piano, played "Oh Promise Me," "Moonlight Sonata," "Traumerle," "Largo," and "The Lost Chord." She accompanied Miss Carolyn Hurst, Chillicothe, who sang, "A Wedding Prayer" and "Oh, Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor length gown of white sheer nylon over tulle, fashioned with wide bands of Chantilly lace of flower design, forming a V-neckline in front and continuing back over the shoulders, making the petite Chantilly lace sleeves.

Miss Shirley Durrill, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Eliza Paige and Miss Mary Hall of Marshall, were bridesmaids.

Jerry Durrill, sister of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. Stanley Titsworth, brother of the bride, was the ring bearer.

FARM BRIEFS

If cattle slaughter in 1954 is in the range of 37 to 38 million head, prices for cattle probably will not average greatly different from those of 1953, the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reports.

Beginning April 1 the weather bureau of the U. S. Dept. of Commerce began issuing information on winds, sky cover, etc., to most parts of the country, between the hours of 6 and 8 a.m.

At least 40 important U. S. crops depend on insects for pollination.

Insects were as numerous on earth 150 million years ago as today.

Plant Summer Annuals Now

For colorful blossoms all thru the warm season, plan your plantings of summer annuals now. Quick-growing annuals can be used for spots of color between evergreen plantings or for quick-growing screens from late spring until the first killing frost. Their blossoms also make colorful centerpieces and bouquets in your home.

For low-growing beds the different colors of verbena, hardy verbena, dwarf marigolds, and dwarf zinnias, are easy to grow.

Plants of medium height and which are very hardy during the summer are giant and dahlia flowered zinnias, marigolds, petunias, globe amaranth, four o'clocks, petiwinkle, coneflower, balsam, salpiglossis, chrysanthemums and cockscomb or crested celosia.

Tall plants that are useful as quick screens or colorful backgrounds are tithonia—Mexican sunflower, cosmos, nicotiana, princess feather—feathery celosia, ornamental sunflowers, and castor beans.

SCOUTS DO GOOD DEED

Boy Scouts of Socorro did a good turn last week when they turned out 30 strong and planted a quarter mile of windbreak at the N. M. Tuberculosis Sanatorium.

Separate Circuits

For Fire Protection

Homes having water pressure systems operated by electricity should have an entirely electrical supply circuit.

In case of fire in the home the electrical system is shorted out and the separate circuit for the pump will still allow the pump to run and supply water to put out the fire.

SANTA FE, March 31 — The fury over the proposal to bring the state health department under the welfare department has obscured some pertinent and interesting aspects of the case.

The original proposal for the merger was written for the late Hoover commission by an officer of the health department, Katherine Rose, working with a University of New Mexico professor, Dorothy Ivy Cline.

The move to put it into effect did not come from stormy Dick Strahlem, welfare director, but from State Controller Ed Hartman.

Dr. Gerald Clark, the 35-year-old director of the health department since last September, has been for some time in marked disfavor at the governor's office. The reason isn't clear but it probably does not have anything to do with Clark's firing of Don Ross, husband of the governor's secretary, Sue.

A member of the health board has privately guessed that the merger will be followed by "mass resignations," including the doctors in the department.

Strahlem has forecast that the merger would make $100,000 a year more available for public health activities now being spent on office work.

The grand plan if followed through would not only bring the health and welfare department under a common director but also the Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children, the Home for Mental Defectives, Miners Hospital, State Mental Hospital, Boys Industrial School, Girls Welfare Home and the state prison.

That would bring on a revolution or something with seven independent boards fighting for survival instead of only one as now.

IT'S ONLY MONEY THAT COUNTS
 Regardless of what merit there may be in the shotgun marriage of the two departments, the opposition to the deal is so noisy that it's already very unpopular and will likely be used against Gov. Ed Mechem in his run for the Senate.

Health department officers and board members declared it would wreck the public health program before they knew what he plan proposed. Attorney General Dick Robinson condemned it in the press one day and the next day said he would have to wait and see what it entailed.

The source of most of the trouble is in the way it was sprung. It was all worked out on paper before the health department crowd knew what was going on. That apparently was a calculated risk. Had the proposal been tossed out in the open for debate and fighting there never would have been an agreement.

Mechem apparently plans to handle this one like some of his other controversial moves—pop it out as a fact accomplished and let the storm blow.

HURLEY'S STORY FINALLY TOLD

That item in Drew Pearson's Washington column the other day about Republican leaders trying to get Pat Hurley to put up $100,000 for the 1952 campaign is the story Hurley kept threatening to tell during the 1952 campaign. Hurley said they offered him the party nomination for $100,000. Harry Robins, the state chairman at the time, said it wasn't so. They wanted the hundred grand for the campaign fund and as sort of a surety that Hurley wouldn't break with the organization during the campaign, Robins said.

What actually happened in that $100,000 conference which was attended by several prominent Republicans is apparently somewhat different than the versions given by either of the two sides. However, there isn't any way you can tell it so that it doesn't sound reprehensible even if in fact it were not. What did happen for sure is that Hurley was asked in one manner or another for the money and refused to pop. A scrap then developed between Hurley and Robins, part of which is told on a long tape recording of a conversation between Steve Alex, Hurley's assistant during the campaign, and Robins. The tape was turned over to the Senate investigators handling the Hurley contest, and it includes a lot of gab about the $100,000 conversation.

The subject had the whole Republican crowd on edge during the 1952 run. Hurley kept hinting that he might blow the whole story and the way he told it privately made it sound awful, involving the governor and other big wheel Republicans. He was restrained by advisors who argued that he would hurt his own election prospects by

WATCH THOSE BETS ON OUR CLINT RACE

A cocky supporter of Senator Clint Anderson snatched up a wager the other day when a statehouse sharpie sneeringly referred to Our Clint and offered to bet that the Democratic senator would have the closest election he ever experienced in his run against Governor Mechem.

After the senator's friend had cooled off he discovered that he had spotted Mechem 18,693 votes. That was the closest margin in Our Clint's four runs for the House and Senate. In 1940 his margin was 31,887; in 1942 it was 18,693; in 1944 it was 19,600 and was 28,043 in his 1948 run for the senate.

FAR EAST (RHTNC)—While serving aboard the escort vessel USS Marsh, William G. McCarty, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McCarty of Ruidoso, participated in operation Flag Hoist, an amphibious training exercise on the island of Iwo Jima.

The operation which involved thousands of Navy and Marine Corps personnel, was designed to promote the combat efficiency of all participating units, it ordered training in the planning and execution of an amphibious landing under realistic conditions.

The training exercise took place nine years after the capture of the small Pacific island. Japanese resistance ended March 16, 1945.

Just a couple of days before the election when Hurley began to realize that he might be defeated he came right up to the point of handing the whole thing to reporters. The others knew he was about to do it and practically held their breath for 48 hours.
