The current edition of the Saturday Evening Post carries a story by George Agnew Chamberlain. One of the top writers of today, he came to New Mexico as a young man to recover his health and lived in Capitan about six years at the home of Mrs. Nellie Reily, now of Carrizozo. Mrs. Reily recalls he was a very fine person, and was soclable and friendly. He returned to the East with his health restored. Ernest Key tells us that young Chamberlain for a time published "El Farol," a Spanish weekly newspaper in Capitan, in the year 1905, and was a close friend of Emerson Hough.

Friday Sherill and Alva I Sitton Jr., newly elected to the town board of trustees, asked the Lincoln County Exceeds News last week to express their appreciation to the voters for its Red Cross Quota electing them to these responsible positions. It was our overuntil the paper had gone to press. Their stutement follows: "We will do the best we can for the town as a whole and be fair to everyone. Feel free to discuss your problems with us at any time."

Ranch House Plan Suits Any Area

This modern reach home with a California touch has a fresh new look. Because it is practical for any climate, American Builder magazine, 79 West Monroe St., Chicago 3, Ill., has selected it as Plan No. 196AN.

The plan includes a combination living and dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms, bath and carport. Both corner bedrooms have cross ventilation. The heating unit is in a small, specially designed room between the living room and bathroom.

The "Monterey" room adjacent to the kitchen and at the rear of the carport could serve as a bedroom, a workshop, a utility room or a playroom.

Specifications call for both fixed and awning windows of ponderosa pine. They are painted to match the redwood siding. A panel "decorator" door, also of ponderosa pine, is painted green, harmonizing with the green asphalt roof. The carport walls are finished in knotty pine paneling, making the carport attractive for use as a summer patio. summer patio.

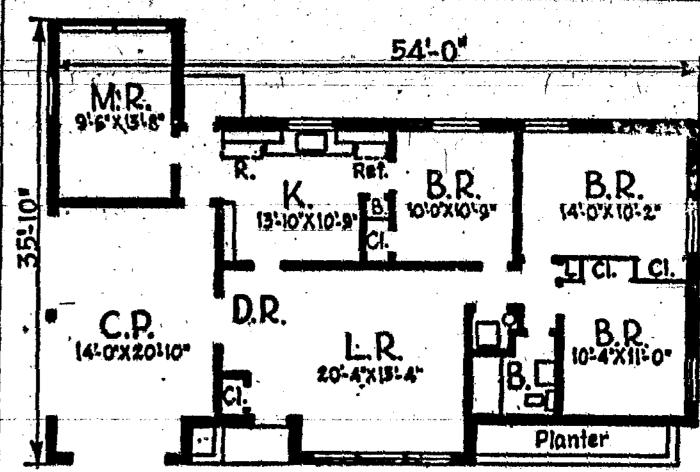

Exterior walls are frame and brick veneer. Part of the siding is: redwood lumber. The trim around the entrance is stone.

The house is designed for future expansion. The carport could be enclosed and the area converted to a bedroom and bath, A future garage could be erected at the side of the carport,
