AMBLIN' ROUND

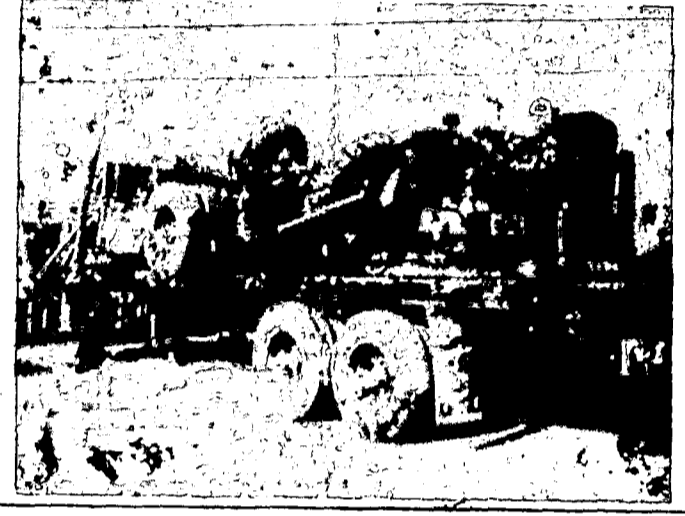

PAUL BAKER

Texaco history, as told by the men who made it is preserved in rows of tapes made by Lou Blachly and the Foundation, Inc. The tapes, which are a tireless work of Blachly, a tireless man, interviewed dozens of Mexicans, now well into their 50's and 60's, and made records of their conversation. It is told by the men in the November issue of Colliers ("The Tape Lives Again.")

The tape recordings of Montague Stevens, a Texaco executive who shortly before his death at 83, told the story of the Texaco-Fowler, one of New Mexico's most notorious bad men of the 1920's. Mr. Stevens knew all about Fowler, who was charged with the murder of 23 men in the course of his happy life (he was a member of a cotillion in Socorro). Accordingly, the technique of his own way of killing is never even tried.

Highway wreckage recently towed into Carrizozo included the two vehicles pictured. Above is the Chevrolet brought in by Bob Means. It overturned 3 1/2 times west of Capitan December 18, killing Mrs. Diane Yvonne Gately, 22, and severely injuring her husband, a Ft. Hood soldier. Below is all that remains of a truck that was pulling an empty lumber trailer. Both crashed into the Mal Pais when the driver, James Profit of Roswell, dozed at the wheel. His wife, Docie Profit, received a broken arm. Two children riding in the cab were unhurt. The truck caught fire and burned and what remained of it was loaded onto the trailer by a City Garage wrecker and brought into town. Profit later was fined $25 in justice of the peace court for driving on the wrong side of the highway.

Public entertainment for old and new year. Several public dances and parties are billed for the week end. On New Year's Eve, Elmer Hux and his Orchestra will play for a dance at the gymnasium in Corona; the Navajo Lodge in Ruidoso is offering Old and New Year entertainment and there will be a New Year's Jamboree at Joe Sargent's Yucca Bar in Carrizozo. A New Year's night dance is to be held at the Country Club, with music by the Dick Bells orchestra.

DISTRICT COURT

Convenes January 3.
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
 Meet January 6.
COUNTY OFFICES CLOSED FRIDAY AFTERNOON
 Court House offices will be closed from Friday noon until the following Monday morning for the New Year's holiday.

NEW DIRECTOR FOR COUNTY WELFARE OFFICE

Mrs. E. E. Russell is the new director of the Lincoln County Welfare office. Before replacing Delmar K. Gillespie in the Lincoln County office, Mrs. Russell was a case worker in Roswell. Mr. Gillespie is taking charge of the Socorro County Welfare office.

Other Court House personnel news is that Mrs. Tillie Mirabal will return to the County Clerk's office as a deputy and Julia Vega has taken the position of Geneva Otero, recently married.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

As a result of traffic mishaps, two have drawn fines in justice of the peace court. Frank Bailego, charged with driving on the wrong side of the road and striking another car, was fined $50 and $5 costs. Edward Vega, charged with reckless driving, was fined $50. The investigating officer said his car struck a post on the 360 overpass. Cayetano Gonzales drew a fine of $25 for driving on the wrong side of the road. Two were also fined for stop sign violations.

THREE FINED FOR TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Argus Champlon: "There may be messier, more cluttered up places than a newspaper office, especially a weekly, but I've never seen one unless it was a junkyard." "The reason, of course, is because of the great gobs of paper which cascade into the average newspaper establishment. By the end of a business day, waste baskets are overflowing, desks are piled high and the floor is apt to be ankle deep in debris. "Just the periodicals which arrive at a newspaper office are enough in themselves to clutter up what otherwise might be a tidy business establishment. "The things which the layers of paper blanketing a newspaper office can cover up are wondrous to behold, and the periodic digging out process to which the office is subjected brings to light a host of interesting treasures. "Flash bulbs, film packs, carbon paper, photographs, partially used packs of cigarettes, long missing fountain pens, baseballs, postage stamps and eye glasses all have disappeared during the big excavations. "Every time I survey the disorder in the office of the mighty Argus, I remember the merchant on Cape Cod who operated a successful hardware store which always was in a state of untidiness. "How come the place always looks like an unmade bed, Nate?" I asked one day. "Well, Nick, I'll tell you," responded Nate. "Whenever you go into a store and find everything in its place, they ain't doin' no business."

Several View Pictures Taken in White Oaks

Bob Koontz gave an informal showing in Carrizozo Tuesday of colored pictures he took in White Oaks on the day of the 54 Highway dedication. They included street scenes, remaining buildings, Old Abe and South Home-plate mining property and pictures of three of the town's pioneers, D. L. Jackson, Herman Kelt and Mrs. Richards.

MASONIC LODGE, EASTERN STAR INSTALL OFFICERS

By MRS. R. E. LEMON

The weather man put no damper on the enthusiastic crowd who were able to make port for the meeting of Masons and Eastern Star services Monday evening at the Masonic Temple in Carrizozo. Many of the officers elected were unable to be present due to blizzard conditions and icy roads.

A delicious banquet at 6:30 was served by Mrs. Vernon Petty and her efficient committee, the Rainbow Girls, serving about 60.

Mrs. Clara Lowe, toastmistress, presented a musical treat, Mary Guck played a group of Christmas songs on the accordion, and Mary Ann McKnight a clarinet solo, "Forever and Forever."

Mrs. Lowe and Mr. Lowe introduced the new Masonic officers. The installation was open to visitors and a good crowd witnessed the Masonic ceremony, with L. Z. Manire as installing officer, and Dewey Wooten installing Marshal.

New officers for Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., were: James G. Ramby, Worshipful Master; Ralph McGuire, Senior Warden; Vernon Petty, Junior Warden; E. A. English, Treasurer; R. E. Shafer, Secretary; Leon A. Farrar, Senior Deacon; R. L. Sherrill, Junior Deacon; Ewing Carter, Senior Steward; Robert M. Shafer, Junior Steward; J. D. Garrison, Chaplain; Percy Parker, Marshal and J. F. Tom, Tyler.

Otho Lowe was presented a Past Master's ring by Senior Past Master F. A. English.

Mrs. Brown had as her special guests for the evening her sister Mrs. Rose Lempenau, and her brother, B. J. Lempenau and Mrs. Lempenau, all of Topeka, Kans. They made the trip for the occasion and to spend the holidays with the Browns.

The ceremony honoring the new Worthy Matron was beautiful and a solo dedicated to her, "A Beautiful Star is Shining Tonight," was sung by Margaret Shrum, with Mrs. Shultz at the piano.

A Past Matron's pin, a gift of the chapter, was presented Alice King by her mother, Mrs. Degner.

The new Worthy Matron gave an outline of the work planned for the year and asked the cooperation of every member to help her carry out her plans.

Mounted Patrol Honorary Pallbearers At A. Guest Funeral

Members of the New Mexico Mounted Patrol, Lincoln County Troop 5 gathered in Roswell last Sunday to pay tribute to a fellow member, Ambrose Guest, who died Saturday as the result of an accident.

Mr. Guest, 43, was operating a tractor on the Cooley farm northwest of Roswell Saturday afternoon, when a piece of the equipment struck him on the head, killing him instantly.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Ballard Chapel, Roswell, Rev. O. L. Oldham, pastor of the Baptist Church in Tinnie, officiated. Burial was in the South Park Cemetery.

Mr. Guest was born November 22, 1911 in Del Rio, Texas, the son of the late Bart Guest. He came to Vaughn in 1924 and a year later went to Roswell. In 1933 he moved to the Hondo Valley where he went into the land leveling business. He had worked on several Lincoln County ranches under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Service.

Survivors are his widow; his mother, Mrs. Bill Ford of Roswell; a brother, Murdie, of Salinas, Calif., and a sister, Mrs. Rose Ewing of Ramona, Calif.

Heart Attack Fatal to Don Emmett Ferguson

The death of Don Emmett Ferguson, 52, in Capitan last Saturday marked with tragedy the homecoming of a couple who came to Lincoln County from California to spend Christmas with kinfolks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and their son, Don Jr., stopped in Carrizozo last Thursday and spent the night with Mrs. Ferguson's sister, Mrs. Meyer Barnett, and family. They were en route from Ventura, Calif., to Capitan and the home of Mr. Ferguson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ferguson of Capitan, whom they had not visited for a number of years.

Friday the Fergusons continued on to Capitan. It was the following morning that the family was stunned when Mr. Ferguson had a fatal heart attack.

Services were held in the Angus community building on December 27 at 2 p.m., with Rev. H. T. Ray and Rev. Clyde Shultz officiating.

Interment was in the Angus cemetery following the service. The Shaw Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Don Emmett Ferguson was born May 20, 1902, on Nogal Mesa. He and Sally Johnson were united in marriage October 13, 1929. To this union one son, Don Jr., was born. For the past 15 years the family has made their home at Ventura, Calif.

Besides his widow, Sally, and son, Don, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson of Capitan; two brothers, Champ of Capitan and William McDonald of Ventura; four sisters, Mrs. Frank Titsworth of Tinnie; Mrs. Mary Werner of Capitan; Mrs. Bessie Evans of Roswell and Mrs. Francis Conley of Abilene, Texas.

STORM FRONT VISITS STATE

A storm front of blizzard proportions moved into New Mexico Monday. In Lincoln County, along with many other parts of the state, automobile traffic on major highways was halted for a number of hours.

During the late afternoon and early evening nearly a dozen cars were stalled by icy conditions at different places along the Indian Divide. Tow cars from the City Garage, Bob Means and Virgil Hall's were all busy getting stalled cars off the Divide. One of them was a house trailer.

Shortly thereafter, the State Highway Patrol and Sheriff's office closed traffic on two highways — U. S. Highway 54 north from Carrizozo and U. S. 380 east from Carrizozo and west from Hondo. This action, according to State Patrolman Eddie Apodaca—probably prevented a number of serious mishaps.

Every hotel and motel in Carrizozo was filled Monday night when approximately 200 motorists were unable to get through on the highways. Four inches of snow was reported to have fallen in Corona up to midnight Monday, and a blizzard on Indian Divide reduced visibility to almost zero.

Approximately a thousand cars were said to have been delayed overnight at Tucumcari and about an equal number at Vaughn.

By Tuesday noon traffic on the County's main highways was back to normal.

Carrizozo Band Preps For Sun Bowl Parade

The Carrizozo High School Marching Band and majorettes resumed practice and drill this week for participation in the Sun Carnival parade on New Year's Day in El Paso.

Featured in the parade will be some fifty major floats, thirty marching bands, color guards, and mounted organizations, as well as the 132-piece marching band from Florida State University.

One of the features of the day will be the Sun Bowl football game between Texas Western College and the Seminoles from Florida State University.

PEOPLE CONTROLS ON SEVERANCE PAY

The thousands being claimed for severance pay at the statehouse is for time off accumulated at the rate of one day a month with a limit of 24 days. This is the state's first big experience with the system and it has uncovered a lot of bugs that should be worked out.

There is no standard method of keeping track of the time workers take off on sick leave or vacation. Some offices keep rigorous records broken down to a single hour off the job. Others delegate the checking to a clerk or a stenographer who keeps the records on the back of an envelope. Still others keep no record at all, relying on the memories of the employees themselves.

For instance, when it was disclosed last summer that a $330 a month employee of the state education office had spent six weeks in school in Colorado while on full pay the action was defended on the basis of notes produced by the employee which assertedly showed that she had six weeks time off coming for overtime worked and accumulated vacation leave.

The state pays out perhaps $100,000 a year for salaries in lieu of vacations, a sum that cannot be audited or certified.

LAWMAKERS FACE BLOODY NOSE SESSION

The legislature meeting here next month is 85% Democratic (73 of 86 members) but that's no sign it's going to be 85% harmonious.

Lobbyists, it appears, are going to start more fights than the politicians and it looks like they are going to be long and loud. Here are a few of the subjects that threaten to make this session one of the roughest the state has experienced.

The pledged strengthening and rewriting of the public utility regulation laws.

A renewed fight on the liquor industry, probably involving higher taxes and lower prices.

An attempt by big chain store interests to tax out of existence the trading stamps that have become so popular since Gov. elect John Simms, working as a lobbyist in 1953, got a law repealed that had made use of the stamps prohibitively expensive in New Mexico.

The many times promised repeal of the pre-primary nominating convention and return to the direct primary. The politicians promised it but they don't like it.

An effort to raise the severance tax on oil and gas; a movement to knock out the 20-mill limitation on property taxes; possibly a movement to increase the sales tax by 50%.

Deer Story To Stop All Deer Stories

The Hot Springs Herald, published in Truth or Consequences, comes up with a story which, it says, is "the deer story to stop all deer stories—and there are witnesses.

"During the recent deer season, Mrs. Genevieve Gray, who is employed at Carrie Tingley Hospital, shot a deer. She put her tag on the animal and turned around to get her gun which had been parked beside a nearby tree. She picked up the gun and turned to see her deer get up and dash away. Knowing it to be badly wounded, she followed. Soon she heard a shot ahead. Mac McCordle of Winston had shot the deer a second time. As McCordle looked at the tagged deer, Mrs. Gray approached and informed him that the animal was her deer. "McCordle agreed, saying: "Lady, you tag 'em and I'll shoot 'em!"

New Water Well Is Producing Near Clovis

The Albuquerque Journal states that the first well drilled in New Mexico under the 1954 Soil and Water Conservation Loan Act has been completed and is producing water on the Jeryold farm, some 14 miles northeast of Clovis. Information on the well was supplied the Journal by Farm Home Administration director B. B. Atchley.

"So far as I know, the well is the first one completed under the new law in the United States," Mr. Atchley said last week. The well is 390 feet deep and test pumped 850 g.p.m., although total capacity is estimated at about 1100 g.p.m. The underground water supply was said to be "seemingly ample and adequate."

The conservation loans, sponsored by U. S. Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, allow federal loans up to $25,000 for individuals and $250,000 for corporations for wells, land leveling, ditching, improving ranges and trails, for fencing, and other work aimed at saving water or land.

Mr. Atchley said loans are made through the Farm Home Administration, which then sells the note to private credit, insured by the government, with the government taking 1% of interest—the notes carry 4 1/2% interest—for administrative purposes and insurance. If private firms take over the note entirely, they receive the whole 4 1/2%.

Some 140 loan applications are being processed in the district office, which handles New Mexico and Arizona.

Propose Road Work on Missouri's Highway 54

The Missouri Highway Commission right of way agents are reported to be acquiring rights of way needed for a re-location of U. S. Route 54 north of Linn Creek.

The proposed relocation will begin at a point south of Darnel and extend southwesterly about 3.2 miles to Linn Creek. When completed it will eliminate many curves in the present roadway and lengthen sight distance, thereby increasing the safety of this highway for the motorists.

THE ALPHABET OF TRAFFIC SAFETY

Walter Bahr of the Carlsbad Police Department has devised a Traffic Safety Alphabet. Every letter is used in calling attention to the rules of good driving: Always be alert. Bad brakes can mean broken bones. Careless driving is critical. Driving drunk courts death. Exercise good judgment everywhere.

Following too closely is fool-hardy. Giving hand signals is gratifying. Heeding caution is not hazardous. Intersections may cause injury. Journey's end shouldn't be an undertaker's job. Knowledge of driving laws is being keen. Laxity costs many lives. Moving vehicles can become maiming monsters. Never let road courtesy become neglected. Open roads often beckon hospital doors to open. Passing on curves is perilous. Question yourself on your driving I. Q. Reckless driving may cause ruin. Speeding is not considered sensible. Tires should be good to avoid trouble. U-turns are un-wise. Visibility for safety reasons is vital. Without disregard for others is wanton. X usually marks spot of fatality. Don't let one X represent you. Yielding right of way depends on you. Zone signs mean danger zones.

NATION'S WATER IS ITS LIFELOOD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—President Eisenhower's warning that water is rapidly becoming the nation's most critical natural resource points up the habitual shortages of fresh water in many parts of the United States.

Water, the lifeblood of all living things, is also the lifeblood of industry. The production of a ton of finished steel, for example, requires 65,000 gallons.

As the Nation grows, says the National Geographic Society, it gulps down water in ever-increasing quantities. The current demand for public use, industry and irrigation totals an estimated 200 billion gallons a day or 73,000 billion gallons a year.

Falling water tables and squabbles over water rights have plagued the West and Southwest for years. More recently, lingering droughts have siphoned off wells, ponds and streams in the South. Summertime rationing is becoming common in Eastern cities.

DISTRIBUTION PROBLEM

Nature, however, is not rationing rain. The nation's total rainfall continues to average 30 in. a year—a superabundance of 1,570,000 billion gallons. The hastic problem is distribution. The Herculean task of replenishing water in arid zones or cities where demand is out-reaching supply is being approached in several ways: Conservation measures such as anti-pollution and re-use of water, helping nature to increase supplies in areas of scarcity, and conversion of fresh water from the sea. Some methods are old, others new and visionary.

Interior Secretary Douglas McKay says economical conversion of sea water and reclamation of contaminated water offer two of the most promising fields for research.

Several large distillation units are actually operating at oil refineries in remote, sun-baked spots. The largest of these, on the Persian Gulf, supplies 720,000 gallons a day for the Kuwait Oil Company.

Unlimited sweet water from the salty sea is an age-old dream. But present distillation systems are still too costly for general use, the Rand Corporation found in a recent survey. Depending on the process, the cost is $150 to $1200 per acre-foot compared to $150 to $50 for natural fresh water in the United States.

UNDERGROUND RESERVOIRS

Known principles of laundering sewage may eventually provide industry and agriculture with usable water, and science is looking for an economical way to treat industrial wastes.

Part of the nation's supply flows in vast underground reservoirs. In some localities, ground water is being tapped much faster than nature can replace it. Artificial recharging of these reservoirs with excess runoff water may restore a cheap source of water.

On King Ranch in Texas, a 1500-acre lake was built for a recharging experiment. As the lake fills, the water will be pumped down a deep well into a natural reservoir that supplies hundreds of windmills.

Hydrologists are studying other schemes, notably surface treatment of watershed lands to stimulate greater soak of rain and snow. Donuded land sheds water like a tin roof, causing floods and loss of fertile topsoil. Reforesting, proper vegetative cover, contour plowing and construction of small detention dams help the earth to absorb rainfall.

EVAPORATION LOSSES

Plant life, like man and industry, is a greedy consumer of water. More than 70% of the nation's rainfall is used by plants or breathed back into the atmosphere. To conserve local supplies, some experts favor the removal of profuse, undesirable plants such as the thirsty, long-rooted salt pine.

Evaporation robs open storage lakes, reservoirs and distribution canals of perhaps half their water. The rate, of course, varies with humidity. Oil layers or buoyant insulation covers might save millions of gallons.

NEW BOOKS OF INTEREST TO THE CONSERVATIONIST

Three important books of recent publication which present various conservation problems are Harrison Brown's "The Challenge of Man's Future" (Viking Press, N. Y., 1954); Fairfield Osborn's "The Limits of the Earth" (Little, Brown, Boston, 1953); and Durward Allen's "Our Wildlife Legacy" (Funk & Wagnalls, N. Y., 1954).

NATIONAL FORESTS BROUGHT IN $67 MILLION DURING YEAR

Receipts from the sale of timber and leasing of lands on national forests totaled $67,219,619 between July 1, 1953 and June 30, 1954, according to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. Permits for the grazing of cattle, sheep, horses and swine brought in $3,017,172 and leasing of lands for summer homes, resorts, mining and power totaled $1,310,500.

One-third of the 70 million drivers of cars, truck and buses in the U. S. are women.

Farm Bureau's Voice in National Affairs Gets Increasing Attention

(The Christian Science Monitor, a daily newspaper published in Boston, devoted a full page in a recent issue, to the National Farm Bureau Federation's convention in New York City. Following are the observations of Helen Henly, a staff writer for the Monitor):

The 8,000 or so farmers who came to New York for a five-day convention made no more ripple in New York City than a tiny pebble dropped into the ocean. Yet the impact of farmers' thinking in recent years has been surging through national affairs like a wave which gathers force as it rolls.

Farmers may, of course, have more time to think than some other citizens caught in the walled-in swirling of the city. Who more than the farmer can know the breadth and depth and height of the thoughts that can be plumbed as he does the chores, runs the tractor, and squints up into the sun to test the temper of the day?

Certainly today it would be a rare farmer who would be wholly engrossed with such narrow concerns as when to plant the "south forty" and how long to feed the hogs or cattle before sending them to market.

Yes, farmers and livestock men on the farms and ranches, with no jangling phones at their elbows and no office buzzer assailing their ears, have many chances to think things through—big things.

Members of the American Farm Bureau Federation who ended their 36th annual meeting in New York City December 16 had no hesitancy in speaking for the record the exact tenor of their own thoughts concerning practically every significant issue in both the national and international scene.

STATEMENTS FOLLOWED UP
Farmers as a group, one soon discovers, are not prone to make fine-sounding statements and consider their work done. When they set up a recommendation, the Farm Bureau's records would indicate, they expect something to happen. They know, from their experience with crops and animals and the cycles of nature, that they may have to give the new developments time to grow and to ma-many states have only one. At present there are 150 delegates in all. Preparation of the resolutions shows how the system works. These resolutions, which flowed in such lucid American prose (without a single "whereas") began way back in the smallest Farm Bureau unit — the neighbors who join together in their township to become, as a group, members of the American Farm Bureau. Months before convention time, these groups submit their recommendations to their county Farm Bureaus which work over them and pass them on to the state bureau. The state bureau, in turn, sends them to national headquarters at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago. Then the special Resolutions Committee and subcommittees take over.

FARM BUREAU

DEMOCRACY AT WORK — Approximately 23,000 local meetings at these various levels were held to develop the resolutions which the voting delegates approved Dec. 16. Such meetings represent a concentration of power of public thinking that the world can hardly afford to underestimate.

But — and this is where the democratic process asserts its ultimate safeguard — not all the resolutions were passed at New York City exactly as submitted. The wording of two major resolutions was amended from the floor and accepted as amended.

SAME BASIC PRECEPTS — As was expected, the American Farm Bureau Federation voted to continue for 1955 substantially the same basic principles which have governed its operations in the year just closing.

High on its list is support of the administration farm program. The work of Farm Bureau members greatly aided passage of this legislation last summer. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told the convention a few days ago. But success in this campaign in no way relaxes the vigilance of these farm people, who view with the utmost seriousness the need to protect and promote what they consider to be basic American freedoms. Spelled out in specific resolutions, federation aims for agriculture include flexible price supports, an expanded program of research and education to improve marketing, reduce costs, encourage new uses, and increase utilization of farm products, and adequate farm credit at a reasonable rate of interest.

The report of the resolutions committee stated: "All government and other policies should encourage maximum use of the great resources and facilities of private traders to sell United States farm products throughout the world. . . . We recommend that United States farm products be offered for sale in world markets without regard to destination whenever it will advance the welfare and freedoms of the people of the United States."

As an example of the pre-emptive thinking of the delegates on these matters, the clause beginning "whenever" was amended from the floor from its original wording which was: ". . . whenever a net advantage will accrue to the United States through trade."

For the Farm Bureau to take a stand on this question is a relatively new development, a member of the resolutions committee explained privately.

Last year the statement concerning world trade intertwined the words "trade and security" throughout, he said, but this year the resolution simply calls for trade because, according to their reasoning, "If we have trade we will have security. We will most likely stay friendly with nations with whom we trade. In other words — you don't criticize your best customer."

Thus is illustrated the process by which policy statements evolve through the years.

As has been said, Farm Bureau policy statements amount to much more than forensic calisthenics. This tremendous organization works patiently and tirelessly for the causes it advocates. Through its 1,663,491 farm and ranch families it can reach and influence many other citizens to take action.

Accession of a new federation president is not expected to change federation policies.

At the closing session of the convention, Charles B. Shuman of Sullivan, Ill., was elected to succeed Allan B. Kilne who, for reasons of health, unexpectedly announced his resignation in the middle of his fourth two-year term.

Mr. Shuman, who will serve for the year remaining of Mr. Kilne's unexpired term, has been president of the Illinois Agricultural Association — the largest statewide Farm Bureau group in the nation — for almost nine years.

new internal revenue code, are January 15 and January 31. They will affect those getting at least two-thirds of their gross income from farming and those whose business year begins January 1. Keaton said that the farmer may file his return and pay his tax on or before January 31, 1955. Or he can file an estimate of tax, paying this amount by January 15, 1955, and file a return and pay up any balance by April 15.

Watershed Program Begins to Move

Continued mounting interest in upstream watershed protection is apparent in the many applications by local groups for aid in the cooperative projects authorized by the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act signed August 4th by President Eisenhower, according to L. C. Brown, extension soil conservationist at New Mexico A&M College.

Arrangements are being made at both the Federal and State levels, to expedite and simplify procedures for getting the watershed improvement job started. Governors of about a fourth of the states have already designated agencies to handle applications. Formal application blanks for use by local watershed groups are being prepared and will soon be available in all States. In the meantime, local organizations may obtain information on how to initiate watershed programs from the State headquarters of the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Extension Service in each State.

YOUR "LUCKY" GUEST COLUMNIST FROM THE SIDELINES

By HAL LAMAN
Executive Sports Editor
Oregon Journal

EDITORS NOTE: Hal Laman, executive sports editor of the Portland, Oregon Journal, has covered the Pacific Northwest sports scene since 1942, with four years time as an Air Force pilot in World War II. He writes a widely-read column "Inside Out".

If and when Pacific Coast Conference fathers approve a coast-wide basketball schedule, merging Northern and Southern divisions into a nine-team conference, look for a faster brand of basketball.

Coaches now are faced with the prospect of playing each opponent four times, which means that on the third and fourth times around the coaches—and more particularly the players—know almost to the inch how a certain rival reacts to a certain situation.

Result No. 1—Players are able to throw up better defenses because they are well informed on each rival's capabilities.

Result No. 2—Coaches, facing this situation, often spend much time the week before the series in getting ready to stop the pet shot of Joe Whoozis.

In fact, there have been instances of carrying this defense to the ridiculous. One such example occurred in an Oregon-Oregon State game last season.

Watch for the new television program of highlights in the world of sports, entitled Lucky Loyer Sport Time, which will be shown weekly on television stations throughout the west. The sports roundup is gathered by a corps of cameramen on assignment to film the world's top sports events each week.

And to get 'em, coaches are going to have to concentrate more on defense, patterns and worry a little less about how fast a rival can see moves from point A to B.

All this should prove a little more desirable to the guy in the stands. He pulls out his dough to see somebody throw the ball through the basket. Most cute defensive maneuvers are lost on him anyway. He doesn't see 'em.

Another development of conference wide basketball may well be the reduction of foul calls, simply because players will be busier getting baskets and won't have quite as much opportunity to keep badgering a guy until the whistle blows.

But all this is in the future. Right now, northern division teams are opening another season and this time around, it looks as if a three-team race is in the making.

Gill's Big Beavers—intact from last season—still must be rated the team to beat, but a young Washington team, which improved furiously in last season's closing weeks, and Oregon's Webfoots, with Jim (Big Bear) Loscutt back in tow after a two-year layoff, are distinct threats.

Gill had an anxious few weeks during the summer when Halbreck came up with league quote grades in the spring term and then subsequently dropped out of summer school. But Halbreck pulled his grades together during fall term, although he won't be eligible until January 1.

The Huskies will introduce seven-foot Gary Nelson to college fans this season, but they'll be relying on the pop-shooting of Karl Voegtlin, a sophomore flash of last season.

Bill Bercher of the Oregonians would like to have everyone think that his team is just killing out the minutes, but the wiser observer of northern division basketball are making sure he doesn't get away with it.

So as usual, a madcap race is in prospect for basketball fans in the Northwest, with a couple of guys competing who loom as big as the fabled tall firs of the mountainsides.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL!

INSIDE CAPITAL

men's compensation law that has made insurance rates extremely high in some New Mexico industries. The Democrats promised to oppose any change in the system and promised to support a minimum wage law. Both proposals have dynamic qualities.

A proposal to divide the state into two congressional districts and another to redistrict the state for representation in the state house of representatives. Either is always good for a fight. An effort to increase the tax on pari-mutuel gambling on horse-races. As it is the state gets nothing but money for administration of the law. Proposals to curb the climbing cost of public welfare by laws that would open the lists of welfare clients to public inspection, require children, if able, to support parents, and authorize the state to recover money advanced to welfare clients from their estates. This could be the hottest subject of the legislature.

Sambo, the Atwood's well-known cat, received Christmas cards from Alamogordo, Las Cruces and elsewhere—25 in all.
