

RAMBLIN' AROUND

By PAUL BAKER

Carrizozo is anything but proud of two recent incidents involving military personnel at Red Canyon Range Camp and civilians. A number of officers and enlisted men make their homes in our town. Others come here for relaxation during their off hours. To be anything other than courteous and friendly to the men in our Armed Services is unthinkable. Carrizozo is proud to be host to part of the men in our Army's vital guided missile program.

It is to be hoped that the actions of a few civilians will not tear down the goodwill that most Carrizozo people and law enforcement officers have been building. The fines levied as the result of two separate incidents, though in one case all the ordinances would allow, were not enough for the gravity of the offenses. As Sheriff Bradley stated Wednesday night, "somebody might have been killed." He made it clear that any future offenders in like cases would not get off so easy. It is sincerely hoped there will be no recurrence.

Lincoln County is greatly interested in the impending appointment by Governor John F. Strama of a second judge for the third judicial district, comprising Dona Ana, Otero and Lincoln Counties. The understanding was that the new judge was to be appointed from Lincoln or Otero Counties. Attorney Allen Walker of Alamogordo has been mentioned as one of three attorneys whose names are under consideration. The other two attorneys are from Dona Ana County. Mr. Walker is said to be eminently qualified and the appointment of a judge from the northern part of the district would be both just and practical.

Canadian newspaper manufacturers may kill the goose that lays the golden eggs if they follow the advice of their prime minister, Maurice Duplessis. He has advised the Canadian legislature that they should give "special treatment" on prices. American newspapers purchased large amounts of newsprint from Canada, and the price has recently been raised 20 to 25 cents. The constantly rising price of newsprint in recent years has led to a congressional investigation. Rep. Arthur G. Klein, chairman of the subcommittee looking into the matter, has warned that preferential treatment by Canada's newspaper manufacturers might lead to the United States developing more fully its own supply of paper pulp. We heartily subscribe to Mr. Klein's suggestion. This country has the capital, the know-how and the raw materials to manufacture newsprint in sufficient quantity to give Canada a good run in the domestic and world markets.

Every season has its stories of the game played between hunter and hunted. Friday Sherrill tells how he and his wife Alma wounded a buck and trailed it down a mountainside, only to find another hunter had completed the kill and was dressing out the deer. Manuel Jones relates how a buck was laid out cold without a bullet entering its body. The rifle bullet clipped off an antler just above the base of the buck's head, stunning the animal and the hunter walked up for the finishing shot. Norris Jackson, writing in the Artesia Daily Press tells a good one about the fellow who was on his first hunting trip.

H. O. White, 1902 Heronosa, on his first hunt, walked his buck almost to camp before making the kill.

Hunting in the Soldier Springs area of the Guadalupe, White spotted the buck, a 70-pound, three-pointer, and shot, hitting the youngster in the back, paralyzing his hind legs. Taking hold of the buck's antlers White walked the animal down the hill for some 300 yards before finishing the animal off and hog-dressing it.

"What's the use of carrying dead weight down a hill, when it's fully capable of walking down?" he asked.

Ask Carrizozo to Make Survey of Its Trade Area

Presenting New Mexico's resources and opportunities to the rest of the nation is the goal of the reactivated New Mexico Economic Development Commission.

To get a true picture of the State's wealth in mining, agriculture, industry and business, along with its labor pool and opportunities for investment, many communities are being visited this year by representatives of the commission.

Carrizozo was paid such a visit Monday by T. G. Peters, assistant director of the State EDC. He met with directors of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce and explained the EDC's three-fold community service program.

Mr. Peters asked the Chamber of Commerce to undertake the collecting of all data on Carrizozo and its trade area and assembling this information in a pamphlet of easy reference.

"When your business people open your doors in the morning you probably have no idea who your customers will be that day," Mr. Peters said.

Five Men Fined as Aftermath of Fight

Five men drew fines in police court in Carrizozo Wednesday evening as the aftermath of a fight early in the morning of November 24 at Jannie's Bar in Carrizozo.

The fight, in which military personnel and civilians were involved, began inside the bar shortly before closing time and was intensified a short time later on the sidewalk outside the bar.

Arrested in connection with the disturbance were Nick Vega Jr., Tony Lueras, Concepcion Morales, Joe Herrera, Carlos Gallegos and Rito Samora. The soldiers involved and who testified for the prosecution Wednesday night were: Pfc. Willard Burton, Pvt. John Ware and Sgt. Logan Hensley.

The arrests were on warrants charging resisting an officer and aiding or assisting in a disturbance. As the trial developed, charges against Tony Lueras were dismissed because of lack of evidence connecting him with the fight.

The defendants were represented by Attorney Geo. L. Zimmerman and the prosecution was conducted by Attorney Glenn Stiff of Roswell. The district courtroom was well filled with civilians and military personnel from the Red Canyon Range Camp.

In the fighting outside the bar Pfc. Burton, according to testimony, was knocked out and at this point the fight broke up. Burton was taken to Carrizozo Hospital for treatment for a lacerated scalp.

The prosecution called a number of witnesses to the stand, including Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Vigil, Assistant Town Marshal Fay Harkey, Pfc. Burton, Pvt. Ware and Sgt. Hensley.

Officer Harkey stated that he was called into the bar shortly before closing time and that Burton told him: "Officer, I don't want to fight anybody. All I want is a little protection." The officer testified he then ordered everyone out of the bar.

The defendants walked out to the street but did not leave. I ordered them to leave, but they didn't leave."

FIGHT BEGAN OUTSIDE

Officer Harkey further stated on the stand that after Burton went outside a light began.

"All were involved in the fighting while I was trying to get Morales to the patrol car. When Burton was hit and fell they ran," Officer Harkey further stated that he picked up a shuffleboard disk that "looked like it had blood on it."

Under cross-examination by Atty. Zimmerman, Officer Harkey was asked: "Have you ever arrested any of the defendants?"

"No, sir."

"Did you place any of the six defendants under arrest?"

"No, sir."

Pfc. Burton testified that he did not provoke the fight. Outside the bar, he said, "he fought more than one." He stated that when he was trying to pick up his car keys on the sidewalk he was hit on the head.

When the prosecution rested its case, Atty. Zimmerman asked for dismissal of the charges against the defendants on the grounds that the defendants could not tell from the wording of the complaints what they were charged with.

A road block was set up and Sheriff Bradley, State Patrolman R. W. Driggers and Billy Petree, constable of Capitan met Officer Gann at the junction of Highway 57 and the Bonita Dam road.

An abandoned car was located at the Nazarene Camp and after a search the two men were located in Vernon Petty's summer cabin on the Bonito. Entrance was gained through a window. The men were placed under arrest approximately three hours after the Star Liquor Store robbery.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

OLD DEMO JOHN STARTS IN FRONT

SANTA FE, Nov. 30—Seventy-year-old John Miles has a head-start in his run with Murray Morgan of Alamogordo for land commissioner. The favor for the long-time Democratic figure was apparent among Democrats from every part of the state who gathered in Albuquerque last week to meet the national chairman, Paul Butler.

The applause that followed his introduction exceeded that for any other at the dinner and political figures in their conversations were heavily pro-Miles.

Morgan is running with the backing of a young group in the party that in some degree includes Gov. John Sitans, the attorney general's staff, Land Commissioner Johnny Walker and Acting Demo Chairman John Joe Wilkinson, and he also has the backing of most of his legislative colleagues and the big teachers' union, er, I mean teachers' association.

That doesn't leave anything for Miles but the politicians who carry elections.

NEVER ANY TROUBLE IN DEMO ELECTION

Miles suffered a bad time in three general elections when everybody was voting. That was in 1944 when he was at the bottom of the ticket in a run for land commissioner against Dick Dillon, and again in the next election when he barely scratched by for re-election against Jew Corn of Roswell. The third time, remember, was in 1950 when he got beat for governor.

But Miles never had any difficulty in an election limited to Democrats only. Just before he was snouted under in the 1950 election he ran like a powerhouse in the Democratic primary completely submerging a powerful opposition combine.

In 1948 he shoved Georgia Lusk out of Congress and was top man of five seeking the two nominations for Congress. In 1944 he won the primary run by 10,000 for land commissioner and the general election by 4,000; in 1940 for reelection he was the unanimous choice in the primary and won the general election by 2,000. When he first ran for governor in 1938 he secured the nomination from the state Democratic convention in the opposition of the state administration.

In his last go in 1950 Miles was defeated by 13,000 in the general election having won the Democratic primary contest over Lake Frazier, Ingram Pickett and David Chavez by a margin of 10,000.

Miles still retains much popularity within the party and as of this date looks like he's going to be hard to stop even if opposed by the statehouse and the party organization.

PICKETT RESUMES GOVERNOR DREAMING

Corporation Commissioner Ingram Pickett has resumed his huddles with political friends on the possibility of going for governor next year against Sitans. Statehouse observers think that Lt. Gov. Joe Montoya is responsible for Pick's revived interest.

Sitans and his friends are trying to beat Joe for re-nomination and it would be a natural thing for Joe to provide a little diversion for Sitans so that he won't have so much time to meddle in other races.

Government May Set Up Minerals Buying Station in New Mexico

In the all out effort to get a government buying station for mica and associated minerals established in North Central New Mexico, Berl Huffman, Director, and William Nellis, Commission Member from the first judicial district, have announced a very generous offer from Sam Glassmire, geologist, and three engineers of Los Alamos—Robert Sharp, Jr., Mining Engineer, William McCall, Industrial Engineer, and John Whalen, Mechanical Engineer, to prepare a report on the "Economic Potentials of Native Mica and Associated Minerals of Certain Areas in North Central New Mexico."

Mr. Glassmire states that the four people appear to be a good cross section of scientists capable of substantiating any conclusions and recommendations which the report may develop. The purpose of the study will be to ascertain whether the area contains sufficient mica to warrant its exploration in preference to a government program of encouraging synthetic mica production or importation of the mineral. The four scientists will also consider the recovery of those minerals associated with mica that are of interest to the government and industry.

Berl Huffman states that the E.D.C. is most grateful to these four scientists who have volunteered to prepare this report without cost to the Commission as a contribution to a worthy phase of state development. People who have mica claims in this area are urged to contact the E.D.C. office in Santa Fe, P. O. Box 706, or to telephone 3-8390, so that Mr. Glassmire and his group may complete surveys of the properties as soon as possible. E. D. C. may be reached at P. O. Box 706 or telephone 3-8390 in Santa Fe.

The report will be used in assisting New Mexico's congressional delegation and others who are trying to get a government buying station located in this area.

"A MISUNDERSTANDING that could have been avoided" is the theme of this true story. One morning, a lady we know entered a store where she had long been a good customer, a bill from the store in her hand. "I've already paid this bill once," she told a clerk, with obvious annoyance. The clerk took her message and the bill to the store manager, who consulted his books. "We have no record of payment," said the manager at last. "Perhaps the lady has a receipt? She hadn't. Politely but firmly, customer and manager each insisted that the other must be mistaken. Neither, though, had clear-cut proof. It became increasingly apparent that however the matter was finally settled, someone would not be completely satisfied. An unfortunate situation — that need never had arisen, had the lady been in the habit of paying all of her bills with CHECKS. Then, if she had paid the bill, as she believed, she WOULD have had a receipt — her cancelled check.

THE LINCOLN COUNTY WAR

Two Capitan women — Mrs. Henry Fritz and her daughter, Mrs. Louise Ferguson — declare that the Lincoln County War in New Mexico in 1878 had its beginning in a $10,000 life insurance policy on a relative, Col. Emil Fritz.

Lincoln County court records show that Alexander A. McSween, an attorney, stated that he collected the insurance money and that he refused to turn it over to the Fritz estate. The records also show that Charles Fritz, brother of Emil, stated that McSween "collected" and "kept" the money. And it is a matter of reliable information among members of the Fritz family today that Charles Fritz' sister, Emilie Scholand, to whom the $10,000 had been willed, never received any of it.

In the six bloody months of the war, the Englishman John H. Tunstall, a partner with McSween in a Lincoln store, was killed by a posse sent by Sheriff William Brady, first administrator of the estate, to seize cattle on the Tunstall ranch; Brady was murdered from ambush in Lincoln by Billy the Kid; and McSween was killed in a siege of his home in Lincoln by the Murphy-Dolan faction.

The estate case dragged thru Lincoln County Probate and District Courts from 1875 to 1894. There is no record of McSween being ordered to turn over the money. The Fritz family received none of it. Where did the $10,000 go?

The Capitan women have heard the story from the late Henry Fritz, the husband and father. The son of Charles Fritz, a rancher, Henry was 12 years old when the struggle for power started in Lincoln County. The Fritz family, which was related to the German royal family, had no shooting part in the war, and members of both the McSween and Murphy-Dolan factions visited at the Spring Ranch headquarters nine miles east of Lincoln.

This is the women's story as they heard it from Henry Fritz:

When McSween, a Kansas attorney, and his wife rode into Lincoln town in an oxcart, they were virtually penniless. McSween opened a law office, and Charles Fritz and Major Lawrence G. Murphy, the latter a partner of Col. Fritz in the Lincoln store, employed McSween as a lawyer. McSween was starting on a shoestring, and they were glad to help him.

Col. Fritz died on June 26, 1874, while on a visit to Stuttgart, Germany. Charles Fritz and Emilie Scholand employed McSween in 1876 to collect the insurance money after Brady had resigned as administrator. As the women recall, McSween went to New York City to collect the $10,000. There were no insurance agents in Lincoln at that time; indeed it was unusual for a person on that frontier to carry life insurance. And it would have been difficult, if not impossible, to cash a $10,000 check because no banks were nearby.

McSween returned. With him was Tunstall, who reputedly had money. In 1877, McSween and Tunstall opened a store in Lincoln, a competitor of the Murphy store.

Some time after McSween's return he and Tunstall bought cattle from a ranchwoman for $1.98 a head — cattle that the Murphy firm, in which James J. Dolan had become a partner, had attached for a store bill. Dolan was married to Caroline Fritz, an aunt of Mrs. Ferguson.

When a sheriff's deputy and posse rode out to take possession of the cattle, they encountered Tunstall who opened fire. The posse ordered the Englishman to stop shooting. He turned and rode away but continued firing. The posse first shot Tunstall's horse, and as further shots were exchanged the Englishman was killed. The women emphasize that the posse had been sent out to possess cattle for money due the company and that the law was on the company's side.

(Tunstall was killed on February 13, 1878. The posse had been sent by Sheriff Brady and was led by J. B. Matthews, a deputy. At this time Dolan had acquired control of the Murphy firm and it was known as the J. J. Dolan & Co. At the beginning of the war, Major Murphy, a very ill man, went to Santa Fe, and died there in October, 1878. Billy the Kid was a friend of Tunstall, and it is generally accepted that the Kid's avenging of the Englishman's death touched off the shooting war. Not long after the death of Tunstall, the Kid killed Sheriff Brady from ambush. By July 19 of that year, McSween was dead.)

Two days before the death of Tunstall, McSween filed a petition in Probate Court, charging Emilie Scholand and Charles Fritz "were wasting" the estate by bringing suit against him for monies he had collected. The petition alleged attempts to settle were rebuffed, and McSween expressed belief the suit was brought at the request of Dolan "who is striving to obtain possession of said monies and who is not entitled thereto as petitioner believes." (The suit apparently referred to a court order attaching McSween's property.)

McSween charged further that Dolan on January 15, 1878, "sold, assigned and mortgaged all his property" to Thomas B. Catron. McSween also charged that Dolan tried to assign all interests "due and owing" to the Fritz estate firm the late firm of L. G. Murphy & Co. (Catron, a power in New Mexico politics, has sometimes been called a silent partner in the Lincoln County War.)

At the time of the war Lincoln was the county seat. Records in the courthouse in Carrizozo, the county seat since 1915, begin with the Probate Court documents in September, 1876. Brady's petition for resignation as administrator stated that the Merchants Mutual Life Insurance Company of the City and State of New York, which had insured Col. Fritz for $10,000, had gone into bankruptcy about the time he had been appointed administrator in 1875.

"Being far from New York," Brady's petition read, "I authorized Levi Spiegelberg of that city, with the concurrence of this honorable court, to collect, compromise and discharge the amount of said policy as my agent and attorney. Since then, said Spiegelberg wishes to be appointed administrator for the State of New York; unwilling to bear the responsibility of accepting or refusing this request, I leave the matter to the sound discretion of this court."

Charles Fritz was named administrator to succeed Brady. On August 1, 1877, McSween filed a petition asking to be released as surety on administrator's bond. The petition stated that Dolan was co-surety, and Pictures were shown by Mrs. Alma Bradley and a drawing contest was conducted by Mrs. Hattie Lacy. Cocoa and coconut cake sent by the hospital kitchen were served by Anselmo Gutierrez, James Badoni and Brad Lovell. Rev. Charles L. Conder, chaplain, read a Thanksgiving story and poetry, and Mrs. Conder provided tangerines for the children. Some fifty children participated.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carter of Grants were visitors here Friday. Mr. Carter is one of the merchant seaman who was here at one time. He works for the AEC in Grants.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parker spent Saturday in Albuquerque. Percy was hunting pheasants and got his bag limit.

Joe and Lorraine Barber and children spent Thanksgiving with the Minter family.

Jess Pennington spent the long week end with his family in the Duke City.

Herbert Totten spent the week end down South of the Border. Mr. and Mrs. Becroft of Saford, Ariz., were visitors here Sunday. Becroft was here in the hospital several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Levitt and children spent Saturday in Roswell shopping and staying over for the basketball game that night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Womack and Eddie of Roswell were up Friday to see the game with Hagerman.

Mary Ann and Dick Cox each brought guests home for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Valencia of Pecos has been visiting Connie and Jack. Mrs. Valencia is Connie's mother.

GLENN WESTALL, U. OF O. HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

Glenn Westall of Ruidoso was home for the holiday week end from the University of Oklahoma to visit his parents. Dean Wofford came with him and goes to the same University, he is from Jay, Okla.

That Emilie Scholand and Charles Fritz were administratrix and administrator of the Emil Fritz estate.

In his petition McSween stated: "Your petitioner has collected the amount of a policy of insurance on the life of said deceased (Emil Fritz) for ten thousand dollars in the Merchants Life Insurance Company of the City and State of New York, No. 1058, dated July 12, A. D. 1871, and that he is satisfied from information from reliable sources that if said money is paid to the said Emilie Scholand and Charles Fritz or either of them, such will be misappropriated by them, leaving said bondsmen or sureties to make good their defalcations and maladministration."

McSween asked the court to order an account of the administration of the estate. He also asked to be relieved from responsibility as bondsman and that the bond be declared null and void.

On July 8, 1880, nearly two years after the death of McSween, Charles Fritz replied to a citation served on him to report proceedings in the case. The reply in Lincoln County Probate Court stated, in part:

"A suit was instituted and is now pending in District Court concerning the interest of said Emil Fritz in said partnership and also in reference to a life insurance of $10,000 that said Emil Fritz had on his life and was collected and kept by A. A. McSween, deceased. That no assets have ever come to my hands from said estate and all the interests involved in said estate are now in litigation in District Court."

The final document in the case is an administrator's report filed on July 9, 1884. Charles Fritz stated that from the time of his appointment to January 2, 1883, he did not receive one dollar's worth of property. On November 12, 1881, (eq) he obtained judgment for $3,500 in District Court as administrator.

The sheriff levied on what was known as the Tunstall store, in which McSween had been partner, and the land on which it was located. At a public sale Fritz bought the store and land for $1,870. On February 1, 1883, he rented the building to Dolan at $30 a month, with the provision that Dolan was to apply the rent on repairing the property. A new storehouse was built for $350 and repairs cost $300. The report stated Fritz never had any funds belonging to the estate to pay bills other than the $3,500.

That was the end of the court records. None of the proceedings gave a hint where the $10,000 went.

N. M. Farm Land Values Up From Last Year

A report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on current developments in the farm real estate market as of July shows a continued upward trend in market prices of farm land in New Mexico this year.

Farm land values in New Mexico rose 5% between March and July 1955, bringing them 2% above their general level as of July 1954.

Nationally, a continued moderate advance in dollar value of U. S. farm land during the first half of 1955 brought farm real estate values back to their previous peak reached in late 1952, following the Korean outbreak.

Compared with a year earlier, farm land values in 38 states showed gains of 2% or more this July and the national average increase was 5%. Largest increases occurred in the central Corn Belt, where gains ranged from 5% to 8%. But similar increases occurred in Texas, Louisiana, and Florida.

Only three states — Maine, Vermont, and Wyoming — reported values significantly below a year earlier.

The strength in land values, according to the Department of Agriculture, appears to be based in part on strong demand for additional land to enlarge existing farms and permit more efficient use of farm machinery.

More than two-thirds of the farms and farm tracts sold in 1954 and the first half of 1955 were bought by farmers.

Lice Can Cut Poultry Profits

What can be more irritating to both poultry and the poultryman than a lice-infested flock? Such poultry grow at a slower rate and produce fewer eggs. In laying flocks kept for producing hatching eggs, heavy infestations of lice can cause egg fertility to drop off to almost nothing.

The louse spends its entire life on the host bird and spreads through a flock rapidly during cooler weather. The lice eggs, attached to the feathers by a gluey substance, hatch in two weeks or less, and in another two weeks the lice are full grown. One pair of lice may produce 120,000 offspring within their life span of a few months.

The several species of lice commonly found in New Mexico can be controlled by the same treatment. The most common treatment is a fumigation with a roach paint. A good paint is 1% lindane in an oil solution or Black Leaf 40. Lindane should be applied at the rate of about one pint to each 200 feet of roost, Black Leaf 40 at the rate of eight ounces to each 100 feet of roost, just before the birds go to roost. Don't attempt to mix lindane and Black Leaf 40, although both may be used in separate applications. A second application should be made within 10 days to two-weeks period. Dips, sprays, and dusts can also be used to control lice, but their use requires handling each bird.

Sanitation pays off in controlling lice, just as it does in keeping diseases in check. But regular inspection of individual birds within the flock will help the poultryman to start control measures with the first appearance.

Now Is Good Time To Transplant Trees

If trees and shrubs are transplanted in the late fall, the plants are established, ready to grow when spring arrives.

Evergreens, balled and burlapped, can be moved with greatest success any time after the cool weather in autumn and before the ground freezes solidly. Deciduous plants, generally moved bare root, are transplanted with greatest success after the leaves have dropped in the fall and before the soil freezes completely.

When transplanting, have the plant out of the soil for as short a period as possible. Use wet sack, sawdust, etc., to protect the roots while they're out of the ground.

Holes for transplanting should be large enough so that the roots need not be crowded or twisted.

After the tree or shrub has been placed in the hole, good topsoil should be firmed about the roots or ball. Be sure that no air spaces remain about the roots.

ance of the parasites. Fast action will prevent heavy infestations and the costly reduction in flock performance.

Meat Roster Contest Enters Final Week

The state meat roster contest is entering its last two weeks, with contest entries due by December 15th. Awards for the contest range from a free meal for the best poster from each school to a $200 scholarship for the state winner. Other prizes include a meal for the teacher of the student with the best poster, and state awards of a hind-quarter of beef or lamb or pork.

The poster must be at least 23 by 22 inches in size and can be on the theme of nutritional value of meat, history of livestock in New Mexico, or the economic value of the animal industry in New Mexico. Your teacher will have contest entry blanks, so ask her for one. The livestock industry accounts for a large part of the income in the state, as in 1954, nearly $6 million dollars worth of livestock was sold. You will probably see a film on the livestock industry soon, but be sure to get your poster in by December 15th.

If you have any questions on the contest, you can contact Mrs. Ralph Bonnell, county chairman, Betty Shrecongott, Wilbur McKnight, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Bud Walker, Joe Skeen, or Ralph Dunlap, county agent.

A&M Breeders Develop New Strain of Alfalfa

New Mexico has a newly developed strain of alfalfa for New Mexico, has outyielded and outperformed New Mexico Common, the standard variety for the state, according to alfalfa breeders at New Mexico A&M's Agricultural Experiment Station. Approximately 200 acres of registered seed of the new strain are being produced in the 1955 season and will be available for commercial planting.

Single copies of the Research Report 6 entitled "New Mexico 11-1—A New Strain of Alfalfa for New Mexico," are available free from the county extension service office or may be procured by writing to the Department of Information, New Mexico A&M College, P. O. Box 757, State College.

TRANSPLANTING

planting and often enough during the winter to keep the soil moist. Prune the tops heavily at planting time to compensate for root loss. The final step is a heavy mulching around the plant to prevent damage from alternate freezing and thawing during the winter.

Cooking Venison

If wild meat is a special treat at your house, chances are you already know how to cook it. But if you hear complaints that the meat is too strong, too tough, or too dry, it's time to try some different venison cooking principles.

Before cooking or storing the meat, cut off as much venison fat as possible since the strong flavors are more pronounced in the fat than in the lean meat. During cooking, other fat, such as bacon or salt pork may be added to replace the venison fat removed.

Any strong flavored wild meat is usually improved when cooked with onions, tomatoes, garlic, and other herbs, spices, or condiments.

Most venison is dry, so moist heat cooking is recommended for all but the very tender cuts. A pressure pan can provide the necessary moisture and hasten tenderizing.

Water Plants in Winter

Home owners who want healthy, eye-catching plants around their property should give their landscape plantings proper care this winter.

All ornamentals, shade trees, flowers, and lawn areas around the home need irrigation throughout the winter, as well as during the summer season. Irrigation in the winter will not be nearly as frequent as in the summer, but it's just as necessary.

Most plants make a large amount of root growth in the fall and early winter—a critical time. To decide whether your plants need water or not, dig down around

STATE GAME DEPARTMENT

BIG GAME RETURNS

The report from the Magdalena area as of Monday morning is that 5438 hunters had checked in and 5000 checked out, with 936 buck deer and 396 does, 66 turkeys and one bear. Twelve game-law violators were apprehended.

In the Jemez area there were 5000 to 6000 hunters. By Monday morning 487 bucks had been taken, 299 does, 91 buck fawns, 70 doe fawns and 22 spikes; for a total of 969 reported.

Alamogordo reports 1385 hunters checked in, 675 checked out with 128 deer, 33 turkeys and one bear.

At White Sands Proving Ground 1651 hunters checked in and out, and took out 511 deer.

Guadalupe Mountain area — 5209 hunters in and out, with 2285 deer, some very fine bucks.

Southeastern Sacramento area, 4000 hunters in and out with 890 deer, 51 turkeys and one bear.

In the Manzano Mountains, 200 to 250 hunters on the east side took 16 bucks, and on the west side 647 hunters took 232 deer.

The Corona area kill was about 224.

From Lincoln County, the Hondo check station reports that 1745 hunters checked in, and that 784 deer, 8 bears and 18 turkeys were checked out; and Pine Lodge check station had 402 hunters checked in, 273 checked out with 143 deer and 3 turkeys.

Director Homer C. Pickens of the Department of Game and Fish points out that these returns are partial, even for the areas they cover. In many areas the hunters are not required to check in or out.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

A New Hampshire hunter who has been hunting since the age of 15 informed that state's game and fish employees that he had not missed getting his deer in twenty-five years. A pretty fine record in itself; but stupendous when you learn that the hunter is now 91 years old. Can New Mexico match it?

YELLOWSTONE ELK AVAILABLE

Live elk for transplanting and stocking are offered by Yellowstone National Park to Federal and state agencies, zoos and private farms. The purpose is to reduce the northern herd of 11,900 to about 5,000, in view of a "continuing downward trend of grass and other forage plants on range available in late winter and of quaking aspen and willow throughout the northern Yellowstone winter range." Owners of zoos or private game preserves, if interested in obtaining elk from Yellowstone, may get more information from Superintendent Edmund B. Rogers, Yellowstone Park, Wyoming. Since the establishment of Yellowstone Park in 1872, elk have been protected. A herd originally estimated as a few hundred had already exceeded the winter forage supply by 1900, to the extent that winter losses of 5,000 in a year were recorded at that time. By now, the trampling and overbrowsing have so altered the terrain that water runoff and soil erosion constitute a further problem. These changes lead to reduction of beaver population, songbirds, ducks and even fish. Decision to reduce the herd to 5,000 was made by the National Park Service in 1949.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Teague and Daughter Nancy Given Farewell Party

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McKnight gave a farewell party for the Band Boosters' organizer and first president and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Teague, and Nancy, Opal Lee was a faithful, diligent worker for the Band Boosters that we are going to miss her far more than we can ever express.

Those attending were Rev. and Mrs. Kerr and Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins and entire family, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Herrera, Mr. and Mrs. Candy Trujillo, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Aldrich, Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Teague and Nancy, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McKnight and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, members of the Band Boosters.

They were many more who were invited though were unable to attend. They looked at movies of the football games and at flash pictures of children in Christmas plays and other programs. After a nice evening of entertainment and lovely refreshments of cake, coffee and Cokes the group gave the Teagues a box of candy and the Cummins gave them a linen tablecloth. I have failed to tell you that Nancy was our Major-ette, she was a good one and we were proud of her.

A van came from Roswell last Wednesday to move the Teague furniture to Lea Street in Roswell where they will make their home as Willard has work there. We wish you good health, success and happiness there and want you to know that we are going to miss you.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gehring came from Arizona in their new GMC pickup to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with his mother, Mrs. Daisy Gehring.

Mrs. Eva Sutherland came from the college at Portales to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Howard and her children for the holidays. She resumed her studies Monday morning. She is looking well and is doing splendid work.

Rev. Walter Bryon of the First Baptist Church in Ruidoso was called to San Antonio, Texas, because of the death of his brother a few days ago. Seems that without warning or illness he passed on very suddenly. The brother was here in Capitan just ten days ago visiting Rev. Kerr and family.

They're safer moving a mountain Than you are moving a chair

Employees at Kennecott's Chino Mines Division in New Mexico are safer moving a mountain to produce copper than the average person is doing household chores. Actually, they're three times safer!

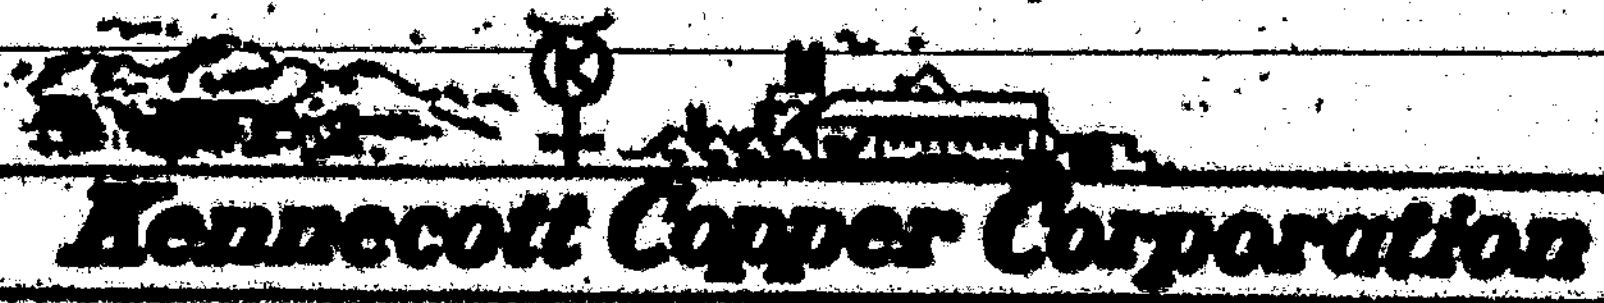

National Safety Council figures show one in 36 persons suffers a home accident each year. At Chino, men in around 300 different jobs, including drilling, blasting and hauling, have an accident rate of only one in 100. In 409,584 man-days worked at Chino, only one day out of 1,365 has been lost due to an accident.

The safety program which has been in effect at Chino for many years is the result of a concern for the welfare of the employees. Every year safe operations call for careful planning and the expenditure of large sums of money. One equipment change now being made to insure greater employee health and safety will cost an estimated $140,000 when completed.

Four specialists are assigned to full-time safety work, while more than 250 supervisors are responsible for safety as a major part of their duties. But all of Chino's 2,500 employees have assigned themselves to making the safety program work. Their enthusiastic cooperation helps to make it a success.

Employees and their families benefit from the carefully engineered safety program at Kennecott's New Mexico operations because the family of a safe worker is more secure. The company benefits because a safe worker is a steady producer and a good safety record helps attract competent workmen.

Employee-management teamwork at Chino has produced a safety record which benefits all New Mexicans, because a safe industry is a productive industry and a safe worker is a productive worker. Better production through safe operation means more to New Mexico in the benefits an industry such as Chino brings to everyone.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

DEMOCRATIC STEW IS GETTING THICK
SANTA FE, Nov. 21 - The Democratic political stew in Santa Fe is getting thick. It's Simms vs Montoya; Anderson vs Chavez; Miles vs Morgan and a nice flurry of crossfire between the whole bunch. Here's what's causing it all: Gov. John Simms and Our Clint the Senator got together a while back and plunked for Adlai Stevenson for president with an undertone that maybe Our Clint would be the VP nominee with Adlai. Sen. Dennis Chavez plunked back with an accusation that two individuals were trying to speak for the party in New Mexico, and he didn't like it. They said they were not.

GOVERNOR DISCLOSES HE MIGHT RESIGN
Governor Simms moved in to take the Sandoval County Democratic organization away from Lt. Gov. Joe Montoya and his brother State Sen. Tom Montoya. He tried with less success to keep the Montoyas from getting control of the $61,000-legislature committee for investigating the welfare department. The cause of it all came out a few days later when it was learned that Simms wanted what he considered to be a more acceptable lieutenant governor now that he might want to resign the governorship during his second term to take a vacancy in the U. S. Senate. Such a vacancy, it was assumed, would be created by the election of Sen. Clint Anderson as vice president.

On other fronts former Gov. Miles made it absolutely clear that he wasn't fooling about running for nomination for land commissioner against State Sen. Murray Morgan, administrative favorite for the post, and a wall of home-town opposition was developing to renomination of Corporation Commissioner Johnny Block of Rio Arriba. A less noisy controversy was going on in the background over the attorney general's place.

OPPONENTS HAVE COMMON CAUSE
The biggest developments of the week were the Chavez opposition to the movement for Stevenson and the disclosure that Governor Simms was keeping the door open for a possible resignation in favor of going to the Senate, that of course over Joe Montoya's dead body.

The two subjects were related in that they promise to bring the strong Montoya forces together with those of Senator Chavez to fight the Anderson Simms crowd. Such a combine would probably also attract the followers of John Miles who seems to be running outside the Governor's group. It would make a formidable group.

Such organized opposition would probably not imperil Simms in his run for renomination for governor unless something unexpected develops, but would challenge the Simms and Anderson forces in the naming of delegates to the national convention and would operate for the benefit of Miles and Montoya in their primary election runs. It could konk Our Clint's hopes for VP.

The political fighting that is shaking the Democrats (as Entered as second class matter July 30, 1926, at the Post Office at Carrizozo, New Mexico, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription: In Lincoln County—Yearly—$2.75; Six Months, $1.50; Outside Lincoln County, $2.25 year; six months, $1.75 they're always shaken before every election) contains the usual paradoxes. We have Joe Montoya in what seems to be a position against Anderson, after Anderson had sponsored him right or wrong for 20 years and still has Joe's sister working in his office; Land Commissioner Johnny Walker against Johnny Miles, after Miles broke with his old pal Guy Shepard three years ago to help get Walker nominated for the post; Corporation Commissioner Johnny Block fighting with Rio Arriba Chairman Emeliano Naranjo after the two grew up together in politics.

(That's because Naranjo worked for the No. 6 public utilities amendment in the recent special election and Block was desperately against it. Naranjo is a Simms employe as director of the state drivers license division. CONTENTION PLACES CLINT IN MIDDLE

The most serious threat in the early fighting is the possibility that it might develop a divided delegation going to the national Democratic convention next summer in Chicago. That would look awfully bad for Our Clint if he is still a prospect for running on the ticket with Adlai Stevenson. The least that could be expected from little old New Mexico would be unlet support for its favorite son.

The price of a solid delegation for Clint and Adlai would probably be the renomination of Montoya for lieutenant governor and the Montoya and Chavez choices for some of the other offices.

The State convention for the selection of the delegates to the national pow-wow is tentatively slated to be held before the primary election in May and thus offer an opportunity for such trading.

THE CAPITOL ON THE RUN
The welfare department is going to take on $20,000 a year worth of part-time lawyers between now and the first of the year to chase non-supporting fathers and such. It just bought $32,000 worth of new trucks. State Secretary Natalie Buck is still down with a lingering attack of flu. Republicans haven't replaced Sonny Johns as state chairman because they have none to take his place. Administration Democrats are dismayed about the return of good old Tom Brown to activity. They had planned on his resigning and leaving the state chairmanship to Charlie Spann of Albuquerque. Clarence Crandall, the Santa Fe FBI man who killed the Taos bank robber, is being transferred to Phoenix.

Numerous Donations For Carrizozo High School Curtain Fund

The Carrizozo school auditorium curtain fund now amounts to $187.70 according to Wendell Watson, high school principal, who is acting treasurer for the fund.

During the past summer, the auditorium was painted, a new ceiling was installed, and the floor was refinished, but school funds did not allow for the furnishing of stage and window curtains. The curtain fund was started at the close of the 1954-55 school year with a gift from the 1955 graduating class of $48.30 and a donation by Pat Withers of $25.

The fund has been increased this year by a donation from Raymer Shaw of $3.60, the benefit game between the Carrizozo Grizzlies and the Red Canyon team netted $50.80, and a "girl auction" by the high school students council added another $60.

It is planned to have a school carnival in the spring, the proceeds from the activity going to the curtain fund. Many of the civic organizations of the community, including the Lions Club, Woman's Club, PTA, and Band Boosters Club, have promised their support in raising the estimated $1100 needed for the furnishings.

INSIDE CAPITAL

MAYBE BUSTER HAD LYN ROGERS PLACE

Lyn Rogers of (ugh) Truth or Consequences might have resigned even earlier as Demo state chairwoman if she had known the full makeup of the group that flew to the $100-a-plate dinner in Chicago and left her behind. It included not only Chairman Tom Brown, Assistant Chairman John Joe Wilkinson, Governor Shlms, Revenue Commissioner Mike Callegos and Senator Clint Anderson but also Buster Mulcock, a tax commission clerk from Artesia, who went along as a guest. Mrs. Rogers who had worked seriously for the party said nothing about the Chicago snub-but politely told the governor off about the practice of snubbing women generally in party affairs.

ALKY OPERATION STUMPS AUDITORS

The fantastic operation of the state commission on alcoholism has stumped auditors of the comptroller's staff who have been trying to make sense out of the affairs of the state agency. An audit started last August and supposed to be complete within a couple of weeks is unfinished and the end isn't in sight. The audit will be limited to money matters, not including some equally interesting practices such as the commission hiring a member of the commission. Jobs being provided for an ex-convict from Michigan and another from New Mexico. The study so far doesn't indicate any serious graft, just a mix-up, perhaps caused by mixing emotions and business in handling the agency.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tilch announce the marriage of their daughter Joan, to Donald W. Means, in a quiet but impressive ceremony, Thursday, Nov. 24, 1955.

The wedding took place in the parsonage of the First Baptist Church in Green Tree with Bro. Jesse F. Allen officiating. The groom is the son of Mrs. Sarah Means of Carrizozo.

The bride was attired in navy blue woolen box jacket suit with black suede accessories and carried a white Rainbow Bible topped with a small bouquet of American Beauty rosebuds tied with white satin streamers.

Only members of the immediate families attended.

The young couple left after the ceremony for a brief honeymoon in Grand Junction, Colo., and are now making their home in Carrizozo at the Ortiz Apts.

Two Twirlers Win Trophies in Texas

Anna Marie Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Porter, and Norman Crider, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Crider, have returned from an open national twirling contest held November 28-30, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Anna Marie won a beautiful trophy in her division, this victory bringing her total awards to four trophies and seven medals. Norman won two trophies, first place in senior boys division, and the two-baton division open to both boys and girls of all ages.

These two twirlers, teacher and pupil, are making a name for themselves, having won first places in New Mexico, Texas, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin.

Norman has had an invitation from the Rotary Club of Albuquerque to perform at a special meeting on December 8 at which many famous people will be present.

Dogs, Cats Live Longer, Grow Larger

Washington—Man's animals, like man himself, show a decided tendency today to live longer and grow larger.

Dogs, for one, enjoy greater life expectancy. A dog's life two decades ago averaged out at seven or eight years. Now, though there are no vital statistics on pets, authorities say the average dog lives 11 to 13 years, thanks to better foods and veterinary care.

Scientific breeding and feeding show even more striking results on the farm, the National Geographic Society says. Beef cattle are bigger, milk cows milkier. Young pigs and chickens grow faster. The entire barnyard stays healthier, boosting longevity.

It is possible to breed horses—or cattle, hogs, or dogs for that matter—downward in size until dwarf animals appear. This is horses 200 years ago averaged 14 hands high (a hand's breath is four inches). Today that same height would officially class the horse as a pony; standard race horse height is 15 1/2 hands, a growth of six inches.

Whether dogs as a canine family are growing gradually larger, as one pet-food firm recently surmised, is doubtful. Selection of mates, environment—even dog-show trends—can work great changes in a given breed. Popularity of various breeds fluctuates, changing the overall dog population. But ancient wolf-like wild dogs that fathered man's first domesticated animal were quite close in size to today's dogs.

Horses are a different story. Eohippus, the Dawn Horse, grew some 45,000,000 years ago scarcely larger than a big tomcat. Its early descendants stood about the size of a fox terrier.

Even the last "prehistoric" horse, the not-quite-extinct wild Przewalski's horse of Asia's steppes, is only four feet high—pony size.

It is possible to breed horses—or cattle, hogs, or dogs for that matter—downward in size until dwarf animals appear. This is done sometimes for sideshows, sometimes for serious breeding purposes. Small-sized turkeys for small families are increasingly popular, as are hackney ponies for horse shows.

On the other hand Shetland ponies, chaggy midgets because of long centuries on sparse, cold, island pastures north of Scotland, tend to grow larger generation by generation when transported to greener fields.

No Aged Giants. Neither dogs nor cats, no matter how they thrive on today's feeds, serums, and wonder medicines, are apt to become giants or to match man in longevity.

Dogs rarely live beyond 20 years; cats—surprisingly enough, more often. In 1945 a search was made for the oldest dog in America. Highest authentic age found was 26. But one cat, whiskered Methuselah—among-tabbies lived to 31.

Dogs seldom develop cavities in their teeth, but they do have trouble with the formation of tartar. Tartar may cause inflammation and injury to the gums and eventually loosen the teeth. Veterinarians say teeth should be scaled regularly.
