WANTED: GUESSERS ON PIECE OF ROPE

How long is a piece of rope? That question comes up every year, around this time, at the Yucca Bar in Carrizozo. Joe O. Sargent goes out buys himself a long piece of lariat, ties a bunch of knots in it and drops it behind the Yucca backbar.

Guesses on the length of the rope are free—along with a donation, large or small, to the March of Dimes.

The cowboy, greenhorn, or city slicker who guesses closest to the correct length of the rope, wins it with no strings attached. He can lose a fair damsel or maverick—or take it apart and use the thread to sew up his jeans.

According to Joe, a city slicker won the guessing game last year. He hopes more cowboy experts will take a gander at the rope this year, because, he says, "I really put some fancy knots in it."

All guesses must be made by February 10, at which time the rope will be measured by a committee consisting of Sheriff Glen Bradley, Mayor Marvin Roberts and Paul Baker.

News & Views From The Nation's Capital

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY Representative in Congress

Washington — New Mexico, with one of the smaller congressional delegations, now occupies one of the top bracket spots among the 48 states in committee assignments. Re-organization of Congress under Democratic control has brought the state its most advantageous position as far as legislation affecting its vital interests is concerned.

On the Senate Side, Senator Dennis Chavez, as chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee, and a member of the Appropriations Committee, holds chairmanship of the Armed Services Subcommittee of that committee which determines disposition of about two-thirds of the nation's spending. This gives New Mexico added prestige in such important matters as flood control, roads, public buildings and military installations. He ranks among the top half-dozen senators in seniority.

Senator Clifton P. Anderson is chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, which does much to direct the destiny of Los Alamos, Sandia Base and other important installations in New Mexico as well as of the development of the state's vast uranium resources. He is a member of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee and chairman of the Reclamation Subcommittee, which deals with a most important phase of New Mexico's economy. He retains his membership on the Agriculture Committee.

On the House side Congressman A. M. Fernandez retains his membership on the Appropriations Committee, with assignment to the Subcommittee on Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. All of these government activities are most important to New Mexico, particularly the federal aid to school program. He is chairman of one of the subcommittee groups.

My appointment by Speaker Rayburn to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy affords me a most gratifying opportunity to serve on the body that deals with a development of world-wide economic and military importance. I deem it also recognition of the vital part our state has been taking in the atomic energy program since its inception as well as a deeply appreciated personal honor. I chose also to retain my membership on the House Public Works Committee, as well as on the Subcommittees on Roads and on Flood Control, in preference to the place offered me on the the House Rules Committee, where I had served in my previous tenure in the House. I was not unmindful of the prestige of the Rules Committee membership, but I felt retention of my Public Works Committee membership, with increased seniority, would enable me to render service of more direct benefit to New Mexico, where highways, flood control projects and other public installations including buildings are so essential to growth and economic progress.

THE NEW HIGHWAY PROGRAM

New Mexico faces a decade of unprecedented highway development under provisions of the expanded federal aid program which will be presented to the Congress this session. The President in a special message sent to the House and Senate expressed the administration's approval of a road-building proposal made by his Advisory Committee to cover a ten-year period, with an estimated total outlay of approximately $12 billion.

The proposal is based chiefly upon development of the 38,000 miles of Interstate Highway System, which is held essential to defense of the nation in the event of emergency. New Mexico has 1,013 miles of those interstate roads consisting of High-

Wednesday was No-Gripe Day. Anyone found griping or frowning was fined from one cent to ten cents.

Thursday the FHA girls had an assembly for the Junior High and High School students. The Home II girls modeled the clothes they made during the first semester. The Freshman girls presented a skit "Charm-what it isn't". After the skit the girls bringing in the most money on Hobb Day were crowned Hobb Queens of 1954-55.

Wool Growers To Meet In Duke City Feb. 6-8

The 52nd Annual Wool Growers' Convention and the 16th Annual Wool Show and School will be held in the Hilton Hotel, Albuquerque, Feb. 6, 7, and 8. Ivan Watson, extension animal husbandman at New Mexico A&M College, announced today.

One of the top items on the agenda is an explanation of the National Wool Bill and its effects on the sheep industry in New Mexico. Discussions on this legislation and a number of other important problems which confront the wool industry are expected to attract more than 1,500 state sheepmen and families to this year's convention.

Registration for the convention will be held on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton Hotel, Sunday, Feb. 6. The convention will get under way with a business meeting and dinner for wool producers Sunday evening. General sessions will be held in the Hilton ballroom, Feb. 7 and 8.

A record number of fleeces have been entered in the annual Wool Show this year, according to Watson, manager. Entries in the open classes total 200, in the junior division, 60. This is about 50 more fleeces than have been entered in any previous show. Fleeces will be on exhibit on the mezzanine floor of the Hilton Hotel for the duration of the convention. A silver belt buckle will be presented to the producer who makes the highest score in the contest.

The grand champion, reserve grand champion, and champion fleeces in this year's annual show will be grouped with the reserve grand champion fleeces of the 15th Annual State Wool Show, and one grand champion and two reserve grand fleeces from out of state shows in a special exhibit of "honor roll fleeces."

"More Efficiency in Sheep and Wool Production" will be the theme of the Annual Wool School — Feb. 8. Educational and informational displays at convention headquarters will focus attention on this theme throughout the convention. The School will be under the direction of Neale, Assistant Neale will be Watson, Richard Stauder, extension wool marketing specialist, William D. McFadden, assistant professor of agricultural economics, and R. L. Blackwell, assistant professor of animal husbandry.

Expert on Native Flora To Talk at Landscape And Garden Workshop

Prospects that water for irrigation of lawns and shrubbery will be increasingly short in 1956 will prompt many home gardeners to use native plants in their landscaping, says W. J. Willbank, extension horticulturist at New Mexico A&M College. Many of the native shrubs such as yucca, the creosote bush, hackberry, and ocotillo not only thrive on less water, but also enhance the beauty of our Spanish type architecture, the horticulturist explains.

Native plants for landscape use will be one of the chief topics of discussion at the Landscape and Garden Workshop to be held at New Mexico A&M College, February 23 and 24, according to Willbank.

Mrs. Mary Orr Russell of Reserve, prominent authority on native plants of New Mexico, will present her ideas on how native plants can be fitted into the landscape picture.

Assisting with the workshop will be several A&M specialists. Dr. M. R. Pack, assistant professor of soils will talk about the use of fertilizer and soil conditions; Marvin Wilson, assistant professor of agronomy, will discuss lawn maintenance; K. W. Hench, assistant professor of horticulture will explain rose culture; Dr. J. H. Eyer, professor of biology, will preview insect control; and Fred Day, director of the campus maintenance and improvement, will assist visitors in planning their landscape programs. Willbank will explain methods of pruning ornamentals.

A special feature will be a panel discussion on highway beautification. Participants will be Mrs. Harold Edwards, president New Mexico Garden Clubs, Inc.; Lamar Floyd, executive secretary Governor's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee; W. J. Keller, district engineer with the Bureau of Public Roads; Stuart Stirling, Grant County Extension Agent, will be moderator.

TRAFFIC DIRECTOR ANALYZES OUR DRIVING ILLS

Louisville, Ky. — America's traffic tangle, which costs the nation thousands of dead, millions of maimed and billions of property damage, has been described as a "masterpiece of misunderstanding" by Paul H. Blaisdell, traffic director of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

Speaking at a meeting here of the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers' Association, Mr. Blaisdell blamed the driving public, public officials, traffic administrators and petroleum processors for a four-pointed misunderstanding of the traffic problem which leads to daily highway disaster.

"First," Mr. Blaisdell declared, "the nation is wrong in its belief in the infallibility of technology. It is not surprising that we, as a people, are certain that technology can solve all our problems. We have built a way of life on our mechanized ability and the labor-saving efficiency of the machine. It's easy to expect the same application of science to rid us of the menace of highway traffic, because it releases us of all personal responsibility. Our popular answer to the problem is that if we built enough good roads and enough good vehicles for those roads, our traffic woes would be over."

So our technology has produced the 'super' highway and the automotive industry has inaugurated the 'horsepower sweepstakes.'

"But into this technological paradise we inject the same old human being with the same reactions, vision defects, emotional disturbances and intellectual capacity which were his when the first Macadam surface, two-wheel brakes and gas headlights represented the acme of our highway and automotive progress. We have built a superman complex into the modern driver, while God has yet to turn out a new model with a turbo-jet engine, cornmeal-powered eyesight or a superpergasulating nervous system. Through our own misunderstanding of our own weaknesses, the technology which could give us bet-

Youngsters' Birthdays Honored by Party At Fort Stanton

Seven youngsters who attend Fort Stanton School were January guests of honor at a birthday party given at the school Friday afternoon. After the children had enjoyed outdoor games and taken pictures they were invited into the kindergarten room where a huge cake, gaily decorated and bearing candles, awaited them.

"Happy Birthday" each little honoree took his turn at blowing out the candles. Playing of children's records that the school had received for Christmas was also a part of the entertainment. Birthday cake and hot cocoa were served to about forty children.

Honorees at the party were George Blighumb, Guadalupe Gonzalez, Henry Towne, Johnny Baloo, Lawrence Begay, Elisha Conn and Beatrice Boyd.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Hattie Lacy, Fort Stanton teacher, and Miss Marion Kittell, social worker.

ter highways and traffic has built us a booby trap."

Mr. Blaisdell listed "an exaggerated sense of fair play" as the second element of misunderstanding leading to traffic trouble. Many years ago, he said, "we created a police power to maintain the peace and dignity of the state. Then we started to handicap that police power with technical fetters which tended to give all the breaks to any alleged violator. No right thinking citizen of the United States could believe in an uncurbed police power, but it's ludicrous to complain about the traffic law violator while refusing to give the police the machinery of enforcement!"

"All any driver needs to do to avoid entanglement with the law," the traffic expert continued, "is to live by the rules. When the rules of good driving are violated, the culprit is al-

YOUR 'LUCKY' GUEST COLUMNIST FROM THE SIDELINES

By BUD SPENCER
Sports Editor
San Francisco News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bud Spencer returns to the "sidelines" in this discussion of boxing, one of his favorite sports, but one, nonetheless, he feels is in a certain amount of disrepair. Sports editor of the News since 1948, Spencer entered sports writing through the Olympic Games, in which he set the world's record for 400 meters.

Sugar Ray Robinson, who made a potful and has more than a namingo-colored convertible to show for it, is cash-poor and trying to make a comeback.

Beau Jack, who earned a half million as two-time lightweight champion, is fat broke and making motions like a fighter again. The same old, same old story. Only the names are different as you go back through the years. Joe Louis, Benny Leonard, Lew Jenkins—names—on by the dozens—tried it and the fo' of a glamorous comeback turned into a lie.

Physical deterioration in a champion is a horrible thing to see. The legs go first, warped reflexes won't respond, and greatness is eclipsed. Why do they try the impossible? Money quite often, but not always. Marva Trotter

Louis said it quite well when she was in "armed" that Joe Louis announced his retirement after the second Jersey Joe Walcott masquerade. Mrs. Louis said:

"I hope Joe is right. But you know how primo donnas are... they want another chance."

Pugs make it fast and it comes in big bunches. They can't retire to a normal life and when they keep going, it takes a lot of money.

They're finished, washed up and they're empty, but they're use to believe what's happened to them. They go back to try it again and come back home broke, in body, spirit and pocket-book.

Many pugs don't even retire and try a comeback. They just go on fighting too long. Few, quit with their reputation unspilled.

The eventual fate of a prizefighter is usually the same—with few exceptions he ends his career broke and broken.

Beau Jack is a typical example. He traded his body for temporary fame and luxury and went home, physically beat up and his money dissipated.

The little showman boy from Augusta, Ga., was the biggest drawing card in boxing history among the little fellows and he brought in total gates of more than two million dollars. His share amounted to about $500,000 and conceding half of that to his parasites, his managers, he still had a quarter of a million dollars coming to him.

But out of it he went home to a little two-room shack on the outskirts of Augusta with nothing but a $25,000 annuity—payable at $250 a month when he reaches 50. Where did it go? Need one say it was "stolen" from him?

Who sanctions the pigs at the trough? Boxing commissions, of course, and it's illogical to expect a manager to collect the hog's portion of the piggy bank. There are a few decent, honest managers, but for the most part they are legalized rogues in a sanctuary where cheating is an accepted practice.

Boxing laws limit a manager's take to one-third, but 50 per cent is average and in many cases a fighter is lucky to get one-third of the money coming to him. If he gets that, "Expenses," an elastic word in pygmydom, covers a multitude of sins, including thievery.

And now Beau Jack comes back not as a champion, but as an abused and used fighter.

"There's nothing wrong with the light game," he says, "as long as a fighter keeps in shape."

And this good, this simple little man truly believes it.

In the game with Estancia the Grizzlies were never able to get going. Their shooting was erratic and the floor play was not up to par. As a result they suffered their worst defeat of the season, 30 to 43. Estancia fielded a smooth team. They shot well and commanded the backboard most of the time. THE BIG TEST . . . In a series of color transillies and animated copy panels, this dramatic Fisher Body exhibit in the GM Motorama of 1955 shows how Fisher Body engineers conduct a roll-over test at the General Motors Proving Ground. The first picture shows a driverless 1955 Chevrolet Bel Air as it is towed toward a ramp at approximately 50 miles an hour. The second picture shows the car rolling over. In the third picture, the car starts its second roll. The final picture shows the car right side up just before being driven away. Damage to sheet metal, of course, is inevitable, but the primary purpose of the test is to study the strength of the basic body structure.

TRAFFIC DIRECTOR

ready outside any known pattern of fair play. Why must the police be greater perfectionists in their assigned task of public protection?"

Mr. Blaisdell listed, chemical tests for driver intoxication, radar speed control devices and driver license revocation among strong enforcement tools against which the false sense of fair play has been leveled.

He called upon the courts to accept evidence gathered by the tests or by radar and to resort more frequently to license revocation as a means of violation control.

Third element of traffic misunderstanding listed by the speaker was called "statistical stupefaction." He pointed to confusion which arises in the mind of the average person when he hears, on the one hand, that total numbers of persons killed or injured on the highways are growing every year and, on the other hand, that the traffic death rate is getting lower.

Mr. Blaisdell explained that the death rate is figured on the basis of the number of fatalities per 100,000,000 car miles driven and the mileage is figured on the basis of the number of gallons of gasoline being sold throughout the country.

"From this rather tenuous equation we come up with a traffic death rate," he said. "And that death rate is falling and has been falling for several years. But the number of people killed on the highways has steadily increased. So this piece of statistical prestidigitation only confuses us, when the one true yardstick of highway safety is total traffic casualties."

Other statistical shortcomings, Mr. Blaisdell said, lead to a false belief that a small percentage of the driving public causes the vast majority of accidents or that a "safe" speed limit can be left to the judgment of the individual driver.

Mr. Blaisdell's fourth factor, "the supreme egotism of the individual," to the other guy. "Hospital beds are filled with the victims and morgues piled high with the bodies of those whose highway egomania proved to be too thin a thread to sustain life. When the moment arrives that individuals accept the responsibility for their own performance as highway users, safety on the roads will be a reality instead of an objective."

Soup to Shirts—Five-Shelf Cabinet Holds Either One

This five-shelf kitchen cabinet holds all, shows all. The doors swing open to reveal two top drawers with a neat array of dish towels and table linens and three lower drawers holding pie and muffin tins, pot covers, and miscellaneous utensils. The smooth-grained, ponderosa pine wood readily takes any paint or natural finish. The cabinet is equally at home in a bedroom, where it can be used for shirts, ties, socks, handkerchiefs, and underwear. Most ponderosa pine kitchen cabinets, in fact, are suitable for other rooms of the house.

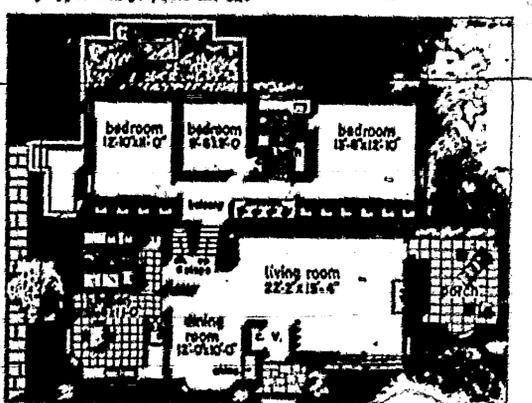

Plan for Split-Level House from Small Homes Guide

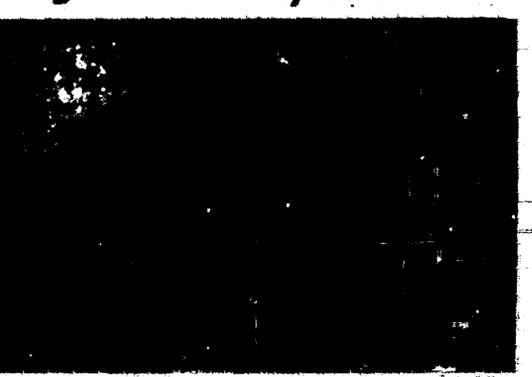

The "three-dimensional" style of the floor plans below makes this home designed by Architect Rudolph A. Matern easy to visualize. The house is featured in the current edition of Small Homes Guide, along with several other designs incorporating the popular split-level feature.

Four levels are shown here, with the "split" approximately in the center. The architect has provided full bathrooms on both main levels to limit up-and-down stair travel. Living and dining rooms and kitchen are at ground level and the recreation area is slightly below grade. The sunken garden at the rear of the house is made a part of the decorative scheme of the recreation room by use of a glass wall between the two.

The magazine points out that the split-level type of house combines the chief advantages of the traditional two-story house and the modern rambling ranch house. It provides as much space for the same money as the two-story types and yet, like the one-

Modern Roof Protects Longfellow's Wayside Inn

Wayside Inn, Sudbury, Mass., dates from 1825, but the first old colonial tavern appears ready for another 250 years. Its roof is protected with fire-resistant asphalt shingles, while the side-walls and windows are kept painted and in good repair.

A century older than the United States, historic Wayside Inn in Sudbury, Mass., stands as a fine example of the sturdy colonial architecture of old New England. Built in 1825, only 60 odd years after the Mayflower landed, the famous tavern was immortalized by the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in his "Tales of a Wayside Inn" in 1825. The pre-revolutionary inn has seen plenty of American history, and has entertained famous guests, including Washington and Lafayette.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

THREE SCORE YEARS AND TEN

THE 70 YEARS WE READ ABOUT IN THE BIBLE AS THE LONGEVITY MARK FOR INDIVIDUALS, HAS JUST ABOUT BECOME THE LIFE EXPECTANCY AT BIRTH FOR AMERICANS AND SOME OTHER PEOPLES SINCE THE START OF THIS CENTURY. WE HAVE ADDED MORE THAN 20 YEARS TO OUR LIFE SPAN.

CONSEQUENTLY, WE THINK MORE AND MORE OF RETIREMENT INCOME, EVEN WHILE WE INSURE OUR LIVES AND PROTECT OUR LOVED ONES, IN CASE... WE PREPARE FOR THE DAY WHEN WE INDIVIDUALLY MAY PASS "THREE SCORE YEARS AND TEN."

"Old Ironsides," the famed 1860, says the National Geographic Society, and still preserved U.S.S. "Constitution," had a sister ship that was launched in 1797 and was christened the U.S.S. "United States." Notoriously slow and heavy, she was nicknamed "Old Wagon" and after many rebuildings was finally scrapped in 1922.

All the cars and trucks exported from New York harbor each year, placed end-to-end, would stretch from Manhattan to Indianapolis, Indiana, says the National Geographic Society.

Americans Today Walk Less Than Forebears

Washington — The modern American, the world's greatest rider, sometimes proves he still can walk—for fun. Recently a Navy officer stepped off 13 miles from one end of Manhattan to the other, the final lap in a 502-mile jaunt over every street on the island. Other Americans have performed more prodigious feats with their feet. But it doesn't happen very often, says the National Geographic Society. According to one study, the American man, 21 through 65, averages 9 miles a day, the woman 10 miles. The high school student hoots 16 miles, the policeman pads 18, and a waiter 13. Probably the outstanding walkers are the English. Hundreds of years ago their walking excursions over the placid countryside developed into pedestrian contests. English heel-and-toe speedsters set the world pace with a formidable array of long-standing records.

JEST-IN FUN

Tripping lightly across the campus, the pretty co-ed noticed a handsome athlete approaching her with obvious interest. "You probably don't know me," he began, "but I've seen you around a lot." "I've noticed you, too," she admitted shyly. "Well, are you doing anything tonight?" "Why no," she replied excitedly. "What did you have in mind?" "Oh," answered the ho-man, "I thought maybe you'd be free to sit with our baby while my wife and I go to a movie." "Doesn't your new baby brighten up the home?" asked the gucky neighbor. "I should say so," replied the new father. "We have the lights on all night nowadays."

The gangster on a radio show growled, "Okay, you rat. I've got you covered and now I'm going to drill you!" Then there was complete silence over the air.

The gangster, realizing that the sound effects man had run into trouble, corrected himself with, "On second thought, I'm going to all your throats! Then two shots were heard!

A clergyman, just before the service, was called to the vestibule to meet a couple who wanted to be married. He explained there wasn't time before the service.

"But," he said, "if you will be seated, I'll give you an opportunity later." The couple agreed, and at the proper moment the clergyman said: "Will those who wish to be united in the holy bond of matrimony—please come forward?"

Fourteen women and one man made their way to the altar. "Son, I'm 66 years old, and I haven't got an enemy on earth." "That's a real accomplishment." "Yes, sir, the last one died almost a year ago."

"I know I'm not much to look at," admitted the suitor. "Oh, well," philosophized his bride-to-be, "you'll be at the office most of the time."

Bud: "But Dad, don't you believe two can live as cheaply as one?" Dad: Sure, your mother and I are living as cheaply as you."

State Game Dept NEWSLETTER

PUBLIC INVITED

The State Game Commission will meet on February 7. Setting of the forthcoming fishing season will be among the most important items on the agenda. Commission meetings are open to the public but have rarely been attended. No interest? Excess of confidence? Inability to get away from work?

Why not drop in for an hour if not for a whole day? The meeting opens at 9 a.m., recesses for lunch, and usually continues throughout the afternoon. It will be held in the conference room on the main floor of the Welfare Building, 406 Galisteo, just west of the Capitol grounds.

GOOD FISHING

The Albuquerque Game Patrol under the leadership of Ed Amonette checked many fishermen in the last few days on the Albuquerque and Bernalillo drains. They report fine fishing. The Los Alamos Laak Walton league members unanimously voted to give at least eight hours apiece to bettering fishing conditions in the State.

To publicize this effort they will issue stickers or cards reading "I have hours for better fishing! How about you?" The Game Department thinks well of both organizations' efforts.

CLAYTON LAKE PROJECT

State Purchasing Agent has asked for bids on construction of Clayton Lake. The project calls for building of a dam consisting of 348,000 cubic yards. The site is ready for contractors' inspection and representatives of the Game Department and the consulting engineers (R. E. DeBolt and Associates) were at Clayton February 2 and 3 to show contractors the job on the ground. Plans and specifications are available at the Santa Fe office of DeBolt and Associates. Bids will be opened February 15 at 11 a.m. in the Purchasing Agent's office.

During the week January 24-29 the Red River Hatchery will plant legal rainbows in Rio Grande, Atasco Drain, Abbott Lakes and Nogal Lake. Brown fry will be planted in Focos River from the Lisboa Springs Hatchery.

WEATHER AIDS

Thirteen New Mexico's finest game birds, the Merriam turkey, were released in suitable range in the Guadalupe Mountains of Texas on January 20. This was in exchange for Rio Grande turkeys trapped in Texas and released in northern New Mexico three years ago. Another fine game bird was thus introduced for hunting.

There were natural obstacles to the rounding off of this exchange until recent heavy snows made it possible. The Merriam turkey, a shy, tree-roosting bird, is almost impossible to live-trap unless hunger reduces its caution considerably.

El Paso Rodeo Tickets Go on Sale

Tickets for El Paso's Southwestern Championship Rodeo are now on general sale and reserved seats to any of the six scheduled performances may be purchased by writing the Chamber of Commerce at El Paso. All reserved seats will sell for $1.75.

The rodeo will run six performances through Feb. 13 with nightly shows at 8 p.m., Feb. 9 through 12, and 2 p.m. matinees Feb. 12 and 13.

El Paso's mid-winter cowboy blow-out will be produced for the seventh consecutive year by Beutler Brothers, Elk City, Okla. Beutlers, considered the nation's foremost stock contractors and rodeo producers, annually produce most of the top shows around the country including Denver's, Fort Worth's, Cheyenne's and many others in addition to El Paso's.

The brothers—Jake, Eira, and Lynn—founded one of the nation's most successful rodeo concerns more than 20 years ago and now have more than $150,000 invested in their healthy and ever growing enterprise.

Beutlers have over 500 head of cattle which they use exclusively for rodeo contests. Cost of maintaining this string amounts to about $175 a day throughout the year.

Stock is kept fresh at the various shows by a constant rotation and culling of animals when they get weary, sore and unable to perform up to standard. A set of roping calves is used for only three rodeos and the brothers buy many carloads of steers during a season for steer-wrestling and roping.

Lynn acts as managing director, handling all contracts, promotional work, and serves as arena director during shows.

Jake is responsible for transporting rodeo stock and has charge of running the chutes. Eira serves as superintendent of livestock and during rodeo performances teams with Slim Waley of Duncan, Okla., in the important role of pick-up man.

As usual, the Southwestern Championship Rodeo will feature five competing events—saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, and bull riding.

Top contesting cowboys of the game, including such names as Casey Tibbs, Jim Shoulders, Buck Butterford and Harley May, always compete in the El Paso show.

Sandwiched between contesting events will be a series of specialty acts which Lynn Beutler has described as the best array of talent it is possible to get at one show.

Included will be the Glen Randall Troupe featuring the golden Palomino liberty horses, Cy Ritter and his "gold-darn flaming wreck", Jay Slater and his renowned dog act, the Clowns Six-Up-Pony Hitch, and Clowns Wes Curtis and Sherman Crane.

Nursing School Offers Student Training

The Hotel Dieu School of Nursing in El Paso, Texas has announced the opening of its annual spring nurse recruitment drive with a goal this year of 60 new first year students.

The nurse recruitment program is aimed at alleviating a serious shortage of trained nurses in this area.

The Hotel Dieu School of Nursing offers a three year training course with work taken at the school, the new $3,650,000 Hotel Dieu hospital, and Texas Western College.

News & Views

ways 70 and 80 in the south part of the state, 66 in the central area and 85 running north and south.

New Mexico has submitted plans for an Interstate Highway building program estimated to cost about $229,000,000 in the ten-year period. When those plans were included in the Advisory Committee's survey, I found that they proposed only two-lane construction on about 80 percent of Highway 85, although it was to be a four-lane artery in states to the north and south. I pointed out to the N. M. State Highway Department the Bureau of Public Roads and a representative of the President's Advisory Committee, that the two-lane highway would be inadequate and that sufficient money should be made available to New Mexico to build to the same standard as the other states. The result is that the plans are being revised to include the wider road for 85, and that New Mexico's allotment of funds will be made sufficient to do that work.

Undoubtedly it will be necessary for the Public Works Committee of the House and the Senate to make changes in the Advisory Committee and make certain that federal aid money will be allocated to the states on an entirely equitable basis. The expanded highway building program is indeed welcomed by those of us who have fought for so many years for improved roads that would help to cut to a minimum the terrible toll in lives and property that traffic accidents have been taking, particularly on the heavily-congested Interstate System.

COLORADO RIVER CONFERENCE

While you are reading this in your newspaper today I will be with other members of the New Mexico Congressional delegation and other Colorado River Upper Basin States in a conference with Commissioner W. A. Dextelner of the Bureau of Reclamation, and his associated officials, to iron out details of the Colorado River Bill and some other water resource development legislation. I feel there is good reason for optimism regarding the Colorado River Bill in this session. There has been a meeting of the minds between the Texas and New Mexico delegations which has resulted in assurance of cooperation which did not exist in the 83rd Congress.

We are still going to encounter opposition but our chances for success would appear to be enhanced if the President will give the support to the bill that he indicated he would in his State of the Union address. The bill will carry the proposed New Mexico items, including the Navajo Dam and its participating irrigation projects as well as the San Juan Transmountain proposal. New Mexico certainly appears much closer to realization of that desirable development now than it has before.
