RAMBLIN' AROUND

By PAUL BAKER

I'm asking my friends to share a little of my grief this week, for I've just lost the best pal I'll ever have in this world. He was no different from good fathers everywhere—considerate, understanding and thoughtful—with the welfare of his family uppermost in his mind. He was like many other fathers, but he was some one special to me because he was my Dad.

He earned a small fortune during his lifetime of work, but he was generous by nature and not a hoarder of money. He saved modestly, but adversity twice swept away all his earnings. I always marveled at his courage in coming back. He was not one to grow discouraged or bitter. A great sense of humor, which was his asset until the very last, carried him through many trying times.

His estate is small, but he leaves a legacy far more precious—everlasting gratitude and affection in the hearts of his two sons.

My father has been close to me ever since I can remember. We worked together and played together. I wish now that there had been more play, but he always seemed to understand. I tried to be of some help as we went along the way, but he always outdid me—giving far more than he ever received. That's the way good fathers—and mothers—are everywhere.

Among the thoughts expressed by Rev. Charles L. Conder at the service Sunday, these were especially comforting:

"Not given up,
Given back to God,
Not passed away,
Going forward in growth."

Will Baker was associated in 1919 with his brother-in-law, Raymond T. Baird in publishing the Powell (Wyo.) Tribune. Mr. Baird writes, in part: "You have lost a good father who had lived a well-rounded life. He was a conscientious man of many friends. He made plans for the future, never counting on death's interruption that would come between him and all that he planned to do. He was a good printer, a good farmer, an extra good writer... What I shall do is to place a tribute of flowers on the altar of St. John's Church here in Powell and have the minister read a short explanation that they were in remembrance of a pioneer, William H. Baker, who played his part in the building of St. John's Church in pioneer days—45 years ago."

County Postmasters Back from Convention

Lincoln County was well represented at the state convention of postmasters and postal supervisors held in Albuquerque May 12 through 14.

The following postmasters attended: Louise Babers, San Patricio; Dorothy Parnell, Green Tree; Mable Wimberly, Hollywood; Ann Earling, Capitán; Mathew Price, Ft. Stanton; Herman Kelt, Carrizozo; Virginia Guest, Tinnie; Alleen Lindamood, Alto. Also attending were Mrs. Mathew Price and Jack Earling.

Convention headquarters were the Hilton Hotel and every meeting was held there. This was convenient for those from smaller towns as parking facilities were provided by the hotel garage.

Mrs. Corinne McNatt of Mesquero joined the county group at the convention.

Tom Babers and Stanley McNatt came in Saturday afternoon for the banquet and dance. Lincoln County was honored by the election of one of its postmasters to a state office. Louise Babers of San Patricio will serve as Vice-President of the coming year.

The postmasters were privileged to have Hon. D. H. Stephens, chief postoffice inspector, as an honored guest from Washington. His inspirational and timely addresses were enjoyed by the entire convention.

Mrs. Alleen Lindamood, postmaster at Alto, said upon her return, that "Albuquerque is truly the convention city and proved it by the address of welcome given by Hon. Maurice Sanchez, chairman of the city commission and again proved it by giving us Lee E. Roeder, Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, as our toastmaster at the banquet Saturday night."

SERVICES SUNDAY FOR W. H. BAKER

Funeral services were conducted at noon Sunday, May 15, at the Shaw Mortuary chapel for W. H. Baker, 82, who passed away Thursday at the Carrizozo Hospital after an illness of nearly two months.

The Episcopal service was held by Vicar Charles L. Conder. Margaret Shrum, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelley at the piano, sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Rock of Ages." Communion was in Albuquerque.

W. H. BAKER

William Holt Baker was born July 29, 1872, at Hopkinton, Ia., the youngest of a family of three sons and three daughters born to James N. and Martha Baker. In the early 1890's the family moved to Boone County, Nebraska, and took up a homestead on Timber-Creek. Here they had many pioneer experiences. Though the head of the family was a good manager and had the help of his three sons, it was a constant struggle to make ends meet because of depressed farm prices, recurrent drought and severe winters. Prairie fires at times swept unchecked through the countryside, as well as epidemics.

Will, the young man, completed his high school education at Cedar Rapids High School in 1891. He attended teachers college and taught several years in a rural school. In 1893 he married Mary Olive Baird, whose father, James A. Baird, edited and published the weekly Cedar Rapids Outlook. Mr. Baird induced his son-in-law to learn the newspaper business, and it was wise counsel, for in Will Baker's long life to follow his adeptness at the printing trade many times furnished his family's livelihood.

Mr. Baird's five sons also learned the printing and newspaper business and three of them—John, Rolla and Ray—made it their life's work.

FAMILY MOVES WEST

When Mr. Baird decided to retire, he turned the Outlook over to his son-in-law. By 1909 the Reclamation Service had opened to homesteaders the new Shoshone Irrigation Project at Powell, Wyoming. Three members of the Baird family, two with families, had already made homestead entry and they wrote glowing accounts of the possibilities of the project. The owner of the Outlook could not resist the challenge of new land. He sold the paper and prepared to move West. He sent his wife and two sons ahead by train. Soon after, Will made arrangements for an emigrant car, loaded it with farming equipment, livestock and household goods and made the rail trip from eastern Nebraska to Powell, arriving in October, 1909. The winter ahead turned out to be a severe one. It was as though nature was trying out the mettle of the new settlers.

At Powell many of the trying experiences of early days in Nebraska were repeated. This time it was not lack of water, but too much application of it. Many of the farms became ruined by seepage and had to be abandoned by the homesteaders. Will Baker's farm was one of those "bogged out" and during the years the land was useless, he worked at the printing trade in neighboring towns. Eventually, the Reclamation Service built a network of open and underground drains, restoring the farms to productivity.

When the land again became tillable, Will returned to farming. In 1918 he sold his holdings and for two years was co-publisher of the Powell Tribune. A new irrigation project had opened on the Sun River in Montana and once again he felt the urge to go to a new country. At Fairfield, Mont., he bought an

Officers Elected for Recreation Committee

Plans for the swimming pool were discussed, as well as other recreation needs in the community.

The secretary was instructed to write letters to swimming pool builders regarding specifications, sizes and costs of various types of pools.

The Carrizozo Board of Town Trustees plan to advertise for bids on the pool as a complete unit.

Mayor Marvin H. Roberts mandated this week that it is mandatory for the town to advertise for bids where municipal funds in excess of $200 are expended; also that engineering advice is necessary to insure the pool's meeting State health requirements.

C. OF C. CHARTER DINNER MAY 28

An organization dinner meeting for the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Saturday evening, May 28, at the Carrizozo Woman's Clubhouse. The $1.50 a plate dinner is to be served by the Woman's Club.

J. H. Fulmer Jr., who has been securing charter memberships in the Chamber of Commerce, said this week he had made arrangements for an out-of-town speaker. He will be Lloyd P. Bloodworth, formerly of Lincoln County, who is now a public relations consultant in Albuquerque. Mr. Bloodworth was connected for a number of years with the El Paso Chamber of Commerce.

Seventy-four firms and individuals have signed as charter members to date. Omitted from last week's names, was Wm. H. Nichols. Others are Paul Wilson, Robt. W. Callaway, Mrs. Edna M. Jones, T. A. Spencer Jr., L. L. Belling, J. E. Thornton, Paul L. Ortiz, Pick Warden, Geo. L. Zimmerman, Rev. Margus Duran, Rev. George J. Boenighausen and Rev. Harris T. Ray.

State's Attorney Gen. Stops in Carrizozo

Attorney General Dick Robinson and Mrs. Robinson stopped in Carrizozo Tuesday en route to Santa Fe from attendance at the County Officers convention in Ruidoso. They were accompanied by Joe Clark, administrative assistant to Natalie Buck, secretary of state.

Mr. Robinson was master of ceremonies at Monday night's banquet. At group sessions he also answered questions on recently enacted legislation. A thousand copies of the 250-odd bills passed by the legislature will be available in June.

80-acre farm, a residence in town and also the newspaper, which he was to publish for several years.

Hard times hit the state in the twenties. Many farmers had crop failures and the price of wheat fell below the cost of production. Business houses began to close in Fairfield and one of its two banks closed. His wife's health had been failing for several years and Will decided to sacrifice his property and move to a warmer climate on the Pacific Coast. In Washington State he again worked at the printing trade for a few years until business came to a standstill during the depression of the early thirties. Unemployed for several months, he decided to go back into the newspaper business and acquired the Pe Ell Tribune in Lewis County. Shortly afterward his first wife, Mary Olive, passed away.

Pe Ell was a one-industry town, dependent upon logging, and during the depression years most woodsmen were idle. The publisher of the Tribune, now 61, was not dismayed. He worked hard and built up a fair commercial printing business. (Continued on page 8)

Report Cattle Thefts Increase "Alarmingly"

An alarming increase in cattle thefts in New Mexico during the past two months has been reported by Sherwood Culberson, Lordsburg, President of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association. "At the present time at least six different cases are being investigated by inspectors of the Cattle Sanitary Board, and reports from our members in different parts of the state indicate that cattle stealing is on a definite upswing," Culberson said. Urging increased activity on part of all law enforcement agencies in the state, Culberson also called upon the some 6,800 members of the association to report all possible theft cases to the proper authorities promptly in order that an effective investigation can be made.

MONEY AND BANKING
In Everyday Living

BANK CHECKS PROMPTLY!
Be sure to deposit checks you receive as quickly as possible. When you hold a check you run the risk of having it returned unpaid, due to the account being closed or the death of the person who drew the check. A check held too many months also may be returned by the bank on which it is drawn because of the "stale date."

WHO OWNS THE BANK?
Our nation's banks are owned, not by the government or a single group, but by many people from all walks of life who hold shares of stock in their local bank. The American banking system is a system of locally managed, privately owned, chartered banks, operated for the benefit of local people, and therefore for the benefit of the nation.

Many of our neighbors come to us for "financial counseling." Friendly, helpful advice on money matters, based on experience. If such counseling might help you, it is yours for the asking.

DID YOU KNOW that your life insurance policy has a double importance? It protects your family, of course—and its cash surrender value is good collateral for a low-cost loan at our bank. You simply add your signature to an assignment form and a note, and leave your policy with us. Cash is made available without delay or red tape and your policy remains in full force.

SMOKEY THE BEAR SAVES THE DAY

Following the first place award in the Lincoln County essay contest pertaining to the Smokey Bear Forest Dedication at Capitán, May 7, it was written by Will Rogers, Capitán High School Junior Student.

Smokey Bear was leaning against the bole of a large tree in the shade spread around him in an irregular circle, taking life easy, when he was disturbed from an unworried sleep by an Elf of the Capitán Forest.

"Come quickly, Smokey," called the Elf just as soon as he was near enough for the great bear to hear his tiny voice. "Come quickly, some careless camper has left his campfire burning and soon it will be out of control."

"Where?" yelled Smokey as he jumped to his lumbering feet and ran to get his fire tools. "Down in the canyon near where we had our reunion last year," yelled the tiny Elf, running at his top speed to keep within shouting distance of Smokey. "In that glade where we met last year!"

Finally after two hours of back-breaking labor combined with the Elf's quick wit, Smokey had the fire under control. Other Elves of the Capitán Forest had emerged from their secret places to aid in the fight. They wiped the perspiration from their faces and smiled triumphantly at one another, then they turned and walked slowly homeward. Each turned off the path to his home without even saying goodbye to the others.

Friends, forest fires like the one Smokey and the little elves extinguished and many, many others burn enough trees and timber every year to build 80,000 frame houses. Not only does a fire destroy timber that could be used to build houses, but think for a moment of the homes of the forest people that a large fire will destroy in just one hour's time. So please, for your own sake, for the teenagers of today, for the little folk in the grade schools, and for Smokey

The Luther Kings are off for a short vacation. Their first stop will be at Nacona, Texas, where they will visit some of Leah's relatives, and from there on—destination unknown. Have you seen Joe Sargent's new Olds 98? Wow! After arriving back in Zoza with this woof job, his first stop was outside Sharon's hospital window. There he grandly stepped out, opened both doors and waved his arms around as though conducting a tour. Sharon was duly impressed! Harry Morriss says at last he has finished painting the units at the Lava Vista Court. Now he wishes he had fifty more to start on. Hear talk as how Dick Hicks now knows the game of ship, captain and crew. So does Bobby Mackey. Sharon Sargent continues to improve, but slowly. She is not completely out of the woods as yet, however. Personal thanks to First Sgt. Cook for making it possible for me to make an imperative trip to Cruces. Thinking arrangements had been completed the night before, the rug was yanked from under me the next morning when I found myself with no transportation, and the nearest bus line 90 miles away. So thanks again to "Cook" who made the drive for me, in spite of the fact that he had just driven in to Zoza the night before, from a 2200 mile drive, straight through. And speaking of cars—wait till you see O'Brien come out in a real gone Cadillac! And just a little more about cars—Mac McIntyre is expected to emerge from Alamogordo in a spankin' new Pontiac convertible! Even an amateur can recognize superb photography, probably through a longing to be able to do as well. Biakely's Studio has some of the most beautiful in portraits and pastorals. The production and lighting effects are out of this world! Anyone lose two keys to a Mercury or a Lincoln? They can be had at this office, if so. Telephone Manager Boling and his wife and two little boys are getting somewhat tired of living in a motel. Mrs. Boling says it is next to impossible to keep youngsters corralled. The Bollings will move into the house formerly occupied by the Don Nettis, next week—they hope! With the exception of year model, it will be difficult to tell Sally Ortiz's and Joe Sargent's cars apart. Of course, there's always the slight difference in official and unofficial license tags! The old wooden rails around the Ruidoso race track have been replaced with iron pipe. It almost resembles Churchill Downs now. Racing will start at Ruidoso on June 11. Both the Quarter Horse and the Thoroughbred will have their own races. Newlywed Grace Barnett was recipient of some lovely gifts at a surprise shower given in her honor, last week. Forgot to tell you that the Cactus will not close during the time the vacationing Kings are away. "Hoppy" will be in complete charge and will be host to all who enter therein. And now, to all of you—Gracias and Adios.

They attended funeral services in Carrizozo Sunday for their grandfather, W. H. Baker. S. O. Barnes is now driving a new 1955 pickup truck.

and his friends try to prevent forest fires. One realizes that man is not the only cause of forest fires, but he causes most of them. So why be careless and indifferent to forest fires, when it takes only a second longer to crush out a cigarette or a match. Make sure that your camp fire is really out and not just playing possum. Do not create a hazard to scar the beauty of our national forests. Let's keep our mountain wonderful green!

ESSAYS DESCRIBE GOOD LIFE IN THE HONDO VALLEY

Dorothy Jean Chavez of San Patricio won first prize and Fred P. Bowser, second prize, in a recent essay contest describing the advantages of living in Lincoln County. The winning essays follow:

WHY I LIVE CONTENTEDLY IN THIS HONDO VALLEY

By Dorothy Jean Chavez
As I sit here on this spring afternoon of April in my home looking out the window into the beautiful valley I live in, I wonder if anyone else in the world can be as happy as I. No, I do not live in a big city where there are many big buildings, cars, and modern ways of living; but I live where the simple life in the valley makes me so happy.

It makes me happy to know that I am the daughter of a wonderful mother and father who have worked so hard to make me contented. I am happy to live with the love of my sisters and brothers around me at all times; to be able to enjoy the pure fresh air I breathe, and to drink the cool fresh water that comes from a close-by spring; to know that there is plenty of food around me at all times — not frozen foods that come from stores — but the eggs that come from the hens we raise; to enjoy milk that comes from our cow, meat that comes from our hogs, chickens, and other domestic animals, as well as the fresh vegetables that come from our small gardens in the summer.

One of my greatest pleasures is to walk into our orchard on a hot summer day and help myself to a nice big apple, peach, pear, or plum, and to sit and relax under the cool shade of a tree and eat it. The aromatic apple blossoms and the small herd of sheep feeding take the place in my heart of the noisy streets in cities. To me a city is monotonous. There is nothing to do in a city but go to movies, watch television, or walk the streets. I like a more useful entertainment by helping my mother and father after school, working in our small gardens, and caring for the sheep. I think I am less likely to get into trouble by doing this than by roaming the streets like some boys and girls in cities who have nothing to do. After the work is done, it is enjoyable to sit at the dinner table with the rest in my family, to eat a home-cooked meal, and to listen to my father talk of his younger days. I help with the dishes, and then study my lessons if I have any, or listen to the radio: I go to bed peacefully, without having to listen to noises from streetcars, buses, and people.

In the morning I get up and go to school. The school I go to is a small consolidated school; but, oh, what a school! I have attended this school six years, this being my last, since I am graduating. Students and teachers are friendly, and everyone knows each other so well that all troubles and happiness are shared. My hours in school are well spent by attending my classes regularly, and with the help of my teachers, learning more and more every day. I enjoy school so much that some times I hate to leave after school, but I know that I am still to come to a happier environment — home!

Five school days and Saturday pass; then, comes Sunday. I think it a great blessing to attend my Catholic Church, which sets in our valley. Again there is a smallness to it, but there is no other Church for me. It is always nice to see friendly faces of some of my teachers, school-mates, and other people from the valley.

I have had city people ask me, "What do you country teenagers do for entertainment?" Sometimes there is so much to go to I can not decide where to go. I go to movies at the close-by towns. There are school parties, programs, plays, concerts, picnics, dances, and other things I go to. I think the valley offers plenty of entertainment along with work for me to do.

In this theme, I have tried to express my deepest love and appreciation that exists in my heart for the Hondo Valley in which I live contentedly.

WHY I'M HAPPY IN LINCOLN COUNTY

By Fred P. Bowser
It's hard to say just why I am happy here. There are so many things to make me happy. I love rural life in the first place. I was born here, and with the exception of the years during the war, I have lived here all my life. Having experienced both urban and rural ways of life, I can definitely say that I prefer living in the country.

I like the air here, so cool and crisp, not like the sooty air of the city. I love these hills around us and the evergreen and pine which grow on them. One of my chief joys is to drive up the Hondo Valley, either to Ruidoso or to Capitan, and just look at the scenery. At the end of a hard day, as we drive home to Lincoln, nothing improves my spirits more than the scenery along the way.

I love life here for its abundance of animal life. The sheep and horses, birds, and deer, dogs and kittens, all mean something to me. They help in their own way to make life more livable. I like the cactus and the desert flowers, the apple orchards, and the tiny bubbling streams of the Hondo, Bonito, and Ruidoso.

4-Hers Set Goals for Achievement Day

With their eyes on the County Achievement Day on September 3 in Capitan, the 4-H boys and girls are really getting down to work on their projects. The 4-H members taking fat lamb are planning to get their lambs at the 9H's ranch on May 23, or the Skeen ranch on May 28, if they do not already have one. Along with the choosing of lambs, a judging session will be held, starting about 10:00 a.m.

The Corona 4-H Club held a picnic Sunday in Red Canyon with a good turnout. George Shanks, local leader, was in charge of the activities. Ranchers are becoming increasingly aware of the weight-for-age program in selecting replacement heifers. The New Mexico A&M has just released the results of an eight year experiment along this line. The cows in the experiment were divided into two groups; one group was the compact cattle selected on show type; the other group were selected for size and thriftiness with no attention paid to type.

The large cattle outproduced the compact cattle all the way around. The larger cattle had the best of the others by 10% in calving percentage and the calves were 47 lbs. heavier.

This advantage carried on over into the feed lot, as the calves from the large cows gained better. The fat carcass grade ran about the same for both types.

Last year Fred Pfingsten, along with rating his calves accused the record of each cow for the past years to cull his breeding herd. As he had to make a reduction in numbers, he used this method and yet did not hurt his breeding herd.

June 4 and 5 Dates for Junior Rodeo, Roswell

Bill Wingfield, President of the Chaves County Sheriff's posse, today announced the first official call for contestants to the Second Annual Chisum Trail Junior Rodeo, to be held in Roswell June 4 and 5. This is the Nation's largest Junior Rodeo and is approved by the American Junior Association, Mr. Wingfield said.

There will be three age groups: 10 through 12; 13 through 15; and 16 through 18. The events will include ribbon roping, calf riding, barrel races, double mugging, calf roping, bareback broncs, bull riding, and many other contests especially designed for each age group.

Big Cows Shine in A&M Range Test

Eight-year results of a New Mexico A&M College experiment show that in weight-for-age selections, large Hereford beef cows—long legs and body—hold the edge over compact cows of the same breed.

John Knox, head of A&M's animal husbandry department, says that the study indicates that large cows stay in the herd almost a year longer than the compact type. In calving percentage, the larger cows bested the others by 10 per cent, with a 96.5 per cent calving record. The margin continues at weaning time — 93.8 per cent calves weaned from large cows, compared with only 81.6 per cent for the smaller compact animals.

On a herd lifetime average, the large cows produced 1 1/2 more calves.

On an average for the entire breeding herd, the weight of calves from large cows averaged 100 pounds heavier than the calves from compact cows.

When the calving figures are interpreted on the basis of average calf weight for each 1000 pounds of cow in the herd, the advantage for the large cows is still 47 pounds more calf output per animal. Calves from larger cows show the highest average daily gain, too.

During the course of the experiment, more than 20 lots of steers were marketed. It's a toss-up between compact and large cows as far as carcass grade of their calves is concerned.

Big cows eat more, but only in direct proportion to the difference in body weights between large and compact cattle, the test shows.

By the time a man can afford to buy one of these little sports cars, he's too fat and stiff to get in one. — Changing Times.

can Junior Association, Mr. Wingfield said.

There will be three age groups: 10 through 12; 13 through 15; and 16 through 18. The events will include ribbon roping, calf riding, barrel races, double mugging, calf roping, bareback broncs, bull riding, and many other contests especially designed for each age group.

Estancia Marshal Gets 3-To-4 Years.

Socorro—Ladd Embrey, Estancia town marshal, was under sentence Saturday of three to four years in prison for the fatal shooting last August of a Sandia Base man, Wm. H. Anderson, 21.

Embrey's attorney, G. T. Watts, asked a new trial and asserted there was evidence of jury tampering. The marshal's $10,000 bond was continued until a hearing May 28.

In an article in the Torrance County News, published in Estancia, Editor Bob Scott states that "Nobody is claiming that Embrey should have killed Anderson, but that Embrey had a right to arrest him and that the shot was certainly fired by accident." He continues:

"State witnesses—stuck with their story as told at a hearing a few days after the shooting that Embrey was not justified in shooting the Airman and that he had his hands in the air when the shot was fired. State testimony also claimed that Anderson was showing no signs of resisting arrest."

"Varied and morbid versions of the incident have been told by Estancia residents—many of them who have had 'run-ins' with Embrey at one time or another.

"The view of many reliable witnesses and townfolk who have no personal grudge against Embrey along with my own personal view, is this . . .

"To begin with Embrey has proved himself capable of holding the position of marshal in the fact that he made an effort to enforce the law rather than 'chicken out' on his duty. And because of this many people who were accustomed to taking advantage of the law bitterly resented him.

"When the shooting of Anderson occurred last August, Embrey was in the hospital, and hope he will soon be home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Hightower were business visitors in El Paso on Friday.

Douglas C. Denny, mining engineer of Alamogordo and White Sands Proving Grounds, was a Sunday guest of Jimmie Kille and Jackie Silvers.

rey's opposition apparently thought this was the chance they had been waiting for to dispose of him. The trial is not over yet—and if there is any justice left in the world, the "hang Embrey" crowd are in for a shock!

"Those pulling against Embrey could naturally 'see' only the part that would make it rough for the marshal, such as the State's witnesses who 'saw' Anderson's hands in the air and 'saw' Embrey go to his car and get a gun, while according to them, the Airman waited patiently for Embrey to return and deliberately put the gun to his head and pull the trigger.

"Any jury in their right mind, surely will be able to see the motive of the State testimony.

"As for a tug toward Embrey's side of the thing:

"The same bar in which one of the State's witnesses was employed, was being watched by Embrey and a deputy—on suspicion of a minor entering the establishment to purchase liquor.

"While Embrey waited in his car across the street, the car driven by Anderson came 'zig-zagging' into town and parked in front of the bar. Embrey apparently called Anderson over to his car and when Embrey opened the door and started to get out, the Airman slammed the door shut catching the marshal's left leg in it. (Embrey lost his right foot and part of his leg in the war, and wears an artificial right foot). If you can't imagine the sensation of this, try it.

"After further arguing and coaxing the Airman to come to the police station had failed, Embrey got his gun to convince the Airman that he meant business—and further resisting the marshal decided to knock him on the head. When the Airman threw up his arm to ward off the blow the gun accidentally discharged, sending a bullet through his head.

"It has already been proven that the gun struck Anderson hard enough to cut his scalp just above the point where the bullet entered. Also proven, by a blood test, is the fact that Anderson's body contained 1.98 mg. of alcohol per cc. of blood. (When the alcohol concentration reaches 2.50 mg. per cc. of blood a person loses consciousness as a result of intoxication). Furthermore, the two companions of Anderson's have admitted they all stopped at a bar in Moriarty on the way to Estancia and 'had a few beers.' The reason for Embrey having to use the gun to strike Anderson with is because his deputy was waiting for the suspected minor at the rear of the bar with the only blackjack the police force had."

Senate Bill Asks Large Increase in Road Funds for New Mexico

Washington, May 18 — New Mexico has over $160 million in cash and three points of policy riding in the Federal Aid-to-Highways bill to be brought before the United States Senate this week.

Senator Dennis Chavez, chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Works, will take to the Senate a giant road construction bill which will increase New Mexico's operations by one-third, tighten up by by-passing and curb truck weights and sizes.

The multi-billion highway bill, adopted after some 21 days of public hearings which ran to 1,072 printed pages of testimony, would set up the federal aid program to the states on a five-year basis instead of the present two-year program.

New Mexico would receive $93.8 million in the five years for her 1,013 miles of interstate highways with the state to help by $9.38 million, making the five-year expenditure over $100,000,000 on those 1,013 miles during the period, the Senator reported. To compare, New Mexico now gets $2,061,700 for her interstate system each year.

The present allotment to the state of $9,228,000 for primary, secondary and urban routes would go to $12.4 under the new program, increasing the state road building activities by one-third at the state route level, the Senator said.

The state, now getting $5,133,600 for primaries, would get $6.6 million under the new bill; for secondary routes, the present allotment of $3,525,700 would be increased to $5,100,000, and the urban fund of $567,700 would increase to $700,000.

Your Driving Guide is "Slow Down and Live"

Governor John F. Simms has joined with the governors of 47 other states, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to declare Memorial Day to Labor Day, 1955, as the period for a "Slow Down and Live" highway safety campaign. The objective of this nationwide program is to reduce death, injury and property damage on the streets and highways of the nation during the peak period of summer travel.

Lamar Floyd, State Safety Coordinator for New Mexico, points out that "9,511 persons were killed on the highways of the nation between Memorial Day and Labor Day 1954. With the prediction that 50 million Americans will travel to vacation destinations by motor vehicle this year, we have a tremendous challenge to reduce the death and injury toll in summer driving."

The program of conferences and assemblies on training phases of church work will open at 7 p.m. May 30. The closing is set for 7 p.m. June 1.

New FHA Loan Help For Rural Areas

You can't force any lender to make a mortgage loan against his will, even a loan insured or guaranteed by the government. However, there is a way to get such a loan from other sources, say the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

The Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program is a brand-new setup created expressly to locate willing lenders for the frustrated mortgage borrower who lives in a small community or remote area where mortgage funds are not readily available.

You can obtain the two necessary forms application from your nearest FHA or VA office. One is a certificate on which you state that you have tried to obtain an FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed loan from at least two local or reasonably accessible mortgage lenders and have been turned down. That establishes your need for help.

The second form is your application for help. In it, you present the usual personal credit information and describe in detail the specific property you desire to buy or build.

Your forms then go to the proper regional committee which pass your application around mortgage brokers, life insurance companies and other lenders participating in the program. It will go from hand to hand until it comes to one that will make the loan you seek. The lender may be at the other end of your state or even far beyond it.

Don't get the notion that this is a little bonanza through which you can get easy money by mail order. You must make a real try at local financing first. And your personal credit and the property you mean to buy or build must meet all the normal FHA or VA requirements. Its sole purpose is to eliminate inequities that result when geography puts would-be borrowers under handicaps other people don't face.

SIMMS TO KEEP $3000 STABLES

A $3000 stable on the grounds of the new governor's residence is going to stay regardless of the complaints of neighbors and Congressman John J. Dempsey who owns the residential development area in which the executive residence is located. Dempsey apparently relented when it was pointed out that perhaps he couldn't do anything, even if he tried. "You can't sue the state, you know. The stables, not built at state expense, can accommodate eight to twelve animals and can be dismantled and moved when Gov. Simms leaves the governor's office. Among the horses to be quartered there is an Arabian stud colt which was given to Mrs. Simms recently by Washington McCormick Tankersley of Baskinville. The whole Simms family (Mr. and Mrs. and the five youngsters) go in for riding.

SHORT MONEY HITS TEACHERS' ADVANCE

The short money situation in the schools struck just as the state was struggling toward a standard minimum starting salary of $3600 a year for graduate teachers. With budgets for next year completed in all but eight counties the score showed that six had hit the $3600 minimum—Bernallillo, Grant, Santa Fe, Eddy, DeBaca and Hidalgo. Perhaps a dozen others would have been able to take the $200 basic salary increase in addition to the annual increases that most teachers receive such as several years.

Of the counties in which the budgets have been complete nine scheduled no basic increases—Socorro, Catron, San Juan, Bernallillo, El Arriba, Torrance, Taos, Roosevelt and Sandoval. Lincoln took only a $20 increase.

Up $100 a year were Luna, McKinley, Eddy, Curry, Chaves. Up $200 were Dona Ana, Lea, Grant, Santa Fe, Otero, DeBaca, Hidalgo and Sierra.

GEORGIA PLANNING TO RUN AGAIN

State School Superintendent Georgia Lusk has been told by people in far separated sections of the state that they are sorry she isn't going to go for a second term next year. Mrs. Lusk has been giving them all the same reply: She does intend to seek another term and isn't about to try for Congress again, a job she held in 1947-48. Friends of the superintendent think the story is being spread to encourage support for an opposition candidate in next spring's primary.

News & Views From The Nation's Capital

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Representative in Congress

WASHINGTON, May 19 — Those observant Americans who watch long-term political trends must have been at least mildly surprised by the fervent and glowing bipartisan praise accorded rural electrification on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the establishment of REA by President Roosevelt's executive order in 1935. Those with good memories probably recalled that the president's action and that of the Congress in passing the bill sponsored by the Hon. Sam Rayburn, now Speaker of the House, a year later giving REA statutory authorization, were assailed by opposition spokesmen as "socialistic" and "politically inspired." It is most gratifying to those of us who strongly espoused the cause of REA back in the mid-thirties to have it hailed today as a potent factor in our nation's economic development and, as Vice-President Nixon said, a "program of great benefit" and "one of the instances where government must supplement individual activity." Rural Electrification, like soil conservation, has made believers of one-time skeptics.

Regarding the REA anniversary I said in part: "An appraisal of the accomplishments of the REA program is convincing proof that it is responsible for the greatest economic upsurge in the history of rural America. It has given our agricultural industry greater impetus in those two decades than that industry had received from all other sources since the founding of our nation."

Briefly summarized here are some of the principal economic results of 20 years of REA: Today 95% or more than 5 million of our American farms are electrified, as compared to 10.9% or 744,000 in 1935, with no state in the Union having less than 75%. There are approximately 1000 rural electrification cooperatives in the nation which serve 53% of these electrified farms.

"For every dollar of the $2.5 billion loaned to cooperatives by REA to date surveys made by the electrical industry show that the farmer spends $1.00 for electrical wiring and appliances. Conservative estimates from all available sources are that farmers have purchased from $10 billion to $15 billion worth of merchandise for which they would have had no use without electricity. Thus a new market was created.

"There were in operation the first of this year 1,332,000 miles of electric wires carrying energy to REA cooperative consumers. "During 1934 REA cooperatives paid $109,000,000 for whole sale power in addition to that generated in their own plants. Of that more than 52% or $57,000,000 was paid for power purchased from private companies.

"The repayment record of REA borrowers shows that only 14 of the approximately 1000 cooperatives are delinquent in their loan liquidation, the delinquency amounting to less than 1/10 of 1% of the total loan. All of those loans are secured and the delinquency ratio is far below that shown by any bank loan. "Electrification of farms has been largely responsible for increase of 38% in farm production since 1940, despite decrease of 22% in the number of people working on farms. The farm worker today, working shorter hours, can produce enough food for 18 people. In 1930 he could grow enough for only 11. Farm workers' efficiency has increased 63% in 14 years.

"Rural electrification has made one of its most important contributions to the economic growth of the nation by the increase in industrial plants producing equipment and appliances for the rural market. Production and employment increase because of this has been enormous. The rural market today is the largest user of electrical energy per average consumer by about fifty percent.

"Tax return to the United States Treasury as the result of enormous new market for electrical equipment and appliances during the last 20 years has been considerably in excess of the total amount loaned by the federal government to REA cooperatives. In conjunction with the interest paid by the borrowers, the rural electrification program has paid a handsome profit to the nation—in addition to its economic contribution.

"But rural electrification is not a story of the past and the present alone—it will be the wonder story of America in the future for years to come. It is truly a modern miracle worked by American know-how."

Old Alamos in Sonora State, Mexico, mined and minted so much silver in its day that optimistic treasure hunters believe some may still be hidden there. According to legends, says the National Geographic Society, rich Alamos families buried their silver and jewels on the approach of revolutionaries and other enemies. Fleeing the town, some never came back to retrieve their treasure.
