By PAUL BAKER

LETTERS TO EDITOR

I am enclosing a poem I would like to have published in memory of our mother, Mrs. Maggie E. Pflieger.

Very Sincerely, MRS. W. M. ARMSTRONG, Tucuman, Ariz.

TIED HANDS

Folded they lie upon her tranquil breast. My Mother's tired hands, their labor done, knotted and scarred in battles they have won.

Lincoln County Exhibits At Fair

Six Lincoln County ranchers are exhibiting 35 sheep in the range sheep show at the State Fair in Albuquerque. They are: Sutherland and Coats, Joe Skeen, 9566 Ranch, Bud Walker, Charles Fuller, and Clyde Marley. This is the first range sheep show held at the State Fair. These ranchers have ten exhibits of three rams and one ewe that compete for the awards. Also, the ranchers can exhibit individual animals in the single classes.

These sheep have just recently been removed from the range and have had no fitting of any sort done to them. Although they do not compete in weight to the show sheep, these sheep represent the best herds of range sheep in the state. If you visit the state fair, be sure to visit the sheep barn and see the range sheep on exhibit.

Celebrate Golden

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Drake were guest of honor at an open house Saturday, September 17, commemorating their golden wedding anniversary. The reception was given by their four daughters, Mrs. Price Miller of Ancho, Mrs. John Dale of Alamogordo, Mrs. Fred Dale of Willard, and Mrs. William Calhoun of Roswell.

The reception was held at the Drake home in Roswell. A gold and white color theme was used in the floral decorations in keeping with the golden anniversary celebration. A beautiful five tier wedding cake was cut by Mrs. Drake and served along with golden fruit punch to a host of relatives and friends. Mrs. Drake was presented an orchid corsage and Mr. Drake a carnation by their grandchildren. Eight of them were present. One could not attend as he is in the Armed Forces, stationed at a Naval Base in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake were married in Granbury, Texas, in 1905 and have been living in New Mexico since 1924. Their four daughters, before mentioned, are all living in New Mexico. Their only son, a veteran of World War II, was killed by a falling plane in 1947.

Mrs. Drake has two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Parr, Pittsburgh, Tex., and Mrs. Lucy Bloodworth, Spur, Tex. Both attended the celebration, also three of her four brothers, Danby, Peters, Lubbock, Texas; Gordon, Peters and Allen, Peters both of Wellington, Texas.

Mrs. Drake's niece, Mrs. Ruby Massey of Granbury, Texas, and nephews, Wilfred Massey and Thurman Roxburgh of Ft. Worth; also many cousins and other relatives of the couple were there. About eighty guests were served during the reception and group singing of favorite old songs were sung and after a special solo by Mrs. John Smith. A very appropriate oration and prayer was given by Rev. James Wells of Claunch, N. M.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were opened by the guest of honor, and as so many out of town relatives and friends were present, a long table was set on the lawn and all invited to partake that could stay longer. Baked turkeys and all the trimmings were the main dish.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake have lived in Roswell for the past 12 years. Before that time they had ranch holdings near Ancho, in Lincoln County and had lived in that vicinity for 19 years.

OCTOBER 1 THROUGH 8 DECLARED NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON TO THE NEWSPAPERS OF THE NATION:

On the occasion of National Newspaper Week I salute the members of America's press corps.

Our belief in freedom of information stems from our belief in the individual; in his right to have access to fact, in his compulsion to form sound judgments based on what he knows. Historically, the winning of this freedom has demanded the conviction and eloquence, and day-to-day labors of men and women of the fourth estate who, from the early days of journalism, have been willing to incur censure and to risk personal danger in the pursuit of their occupation.

Those who today work in the tradition of a free press have the responsibility to uphold this freedom and to remain worthy of it by reporting with accuracy and candor what they believe to be the truth.

My best wishes go to all of you as you seek to do so.

Dwight D. Eisenhower

Newspaper Week Is Explained Here

By ROYCE HOWES, Associate Editor, District Free Press Winner 1955 Pulitzer Prize for Editorial Writing

October 1 through 8 has been set aside as National Newspaper Week. Its purpose is to focus your attention on an institution in whose operation you have a vastly greater and than perhaps you've ever realized. It is also an appropriate time to call your attention to an effort to deprive you of that hand.

The institution is your newspaper. It's begun by dismantling that term newspaper. It means paper, which after due processing, comes to you covered with news. Paper is a self-evident, tangible thing. There is no disagreement as to what it is. But what of news? It is far less self-evident and deceptively intangible.

News, in fact, is all things to all men. What it is depends on who is defining it. And it is your definition, not the editor's, which matters. The paper stays in business if it does a competent job of fulfilling your definition of news. If it devotes itself just to the editor's conception of news, it soon fails.

When a newspaper man speaks of his news judgment he doesn't mean his ability to determine what really counts under some mysterious process of selection. He means, instead, his ability to surmise what you will consider news. How good he is and how successful the paper depends on how unerringly he can make that surmise.

All readers won't agree that some particular item is news, naturally, but the editor must meet each reader's definition often enough so that every reader will feel he's getting his money's worth when he's buying the paper.

That is where and how you have such a very big hand in determining what goes into it. Now let us to the effort to take this function away from you. It lies in a growing effort by people who are neither editors nor representatives of the readers, to decide arbitrarily which facts shall be printed - without reference to what any individual might consider news.

These people are the censor-minded. They appear in government and in pressure groups. They include those who try to conduct government behind closed doors and in secret places. They are all those who would take away free access to information which the citizen, with his individual right to say what is news, is entitled to have.

What battles and frustrations the editor is on the face of this is an attitude he not infrequently encounters among those who are being cheated of the right to decide for themselves what news is. When he talks about freedom of information, he often hears that what he really means is some undefined special privilege of his own. He is complaining, he is told, because his vanity is hurt.

What he rails against is nothing of the kind. His protest concerns something he was never, and never should be, entitled to have. He is protesting against what he is not entitled to have. He is protesting against the fact that those who buy the news consider it to be.

National Newspaper Week's purpose will be served if you, the reader, pause to contemplate the big part you play in printing news and whether you are willing to have that part taken away from you. A sure way to lose it is to reason that when freedom of information goes the editor is the only loser. You lose far more than any editor possibly can.

Welfare problems confronting the special session of the State Legislature were discussed Wednesday night at a meeting of the Hondo local of the Lincoln County Farm & Livestock Bureau. The meeting was at the Hondo High School. Light refreshments were served.

ATTEND MEETING IN ALAMOGORDO

Last Friday, Sept. 23, Robert G. Firman, local school superintendent, and Spence Devitt, Junior High School Principal, attended a meeting in Alamogordo which was sponsored by the State Department of Education. Representatives from the schools in Alamogordo, Tularosa, Ruidoso, Las Cruces, Gadsden and Weed participated in the conference.

Pat Murphy, assistant state superintendent, and Mrs. Helen Hartnett Dignio, state department expert, conducted the meeting, the purpose of which was to find better ways of teaching citizenship in the schools. In view of the world-wide irresponsible attitude of many of the citizenry, it is believed that this is a project of great importance. A follow-up conference is planned for later in the year.

EDUCATION BOOTH ATTRACTS VISITORS AT STATE FAIR

Albuquerque (Special)—Attracting a great deal of interest and comment here at the New Mexico State Fair this year is the educational booth installed by the folks of Lincoln County.

Among the county's products on display are White Mountain Brand pears and apples, wool, alfalfa, and sorghum. Tourist folders extol Ruidoso's attractions, too. "This year, we have one of the best groups of county booths in State Fair history," says Leon Harms, fair manager, "and we thank the folks of Lincoln County for their presentation."

New Office Manager At State Bureau Of Mines Named

A building cannot really grow. You may add wings to it, be you may build upward, and with the addition of floors say that your establishment has grown. Actually you have the same old place when you're finished and rarely will you feel at home in the sterile, artificial surroundings of the new walls and floors. No, it is only with the addition of personnel, warm, living human beings that an organization actually knows growth. And it is in this trust sense that the Bureau of Mines Business Office has grown with the addition to its staff of Mrs. Deane Coffman.

Mrs. Coffman will be the new office manager of the Bureau's Business Office, these duties having formerly performed by Miss Myrtle Morris, secretary to Dr. Callaghan. Miss Morris has been performing her duties in the handling of both positions. Such has been the growth of this division of the Institute, however, that the situation warranted the calling of another hand on deck.

National Letter Writing Week, October 2-8

By Allen Haley Lindamood Since letters bring happiness why not spread cheer by writing to your relatives and friends the week of October 2-8. If you ever moved to a strange city where you didn't know a soul and soon you started receiving letters a day from the friends you left behind you will appreciate what letters mean.

It isn't necessary to write a "book" each time you send a letter. A short letter can be full of news if you put your mind to it. So again may I say, "Please write letters during National Letter-Writing Week."

ADMINISTRATION LACKS SENATE BALL CARRIER

SANTA FE, Sept. 28—The special session of the legislature at midweek was going forward without a ball carrier for the administration in the senate. Democratic Floor Leader Murray Morgan who would lead the fight for the governor's tax program is frankly against all but a levy on uranium.

Gene Lusk, governor, aspiring senator from Eddy and confidant of Governor John Simms who has been expected to take the lead for the administration program if Morgan didn't come through, is equally opposed to most of the tax proposals. Like Morgan, he favors only the uranium levy.

The popularity of that uranium tax, from one-eighth of one per cent, was inspired by oil and potash interests who don't think uranium should get a one-eighth of one per cent ride while they pay more than two per cent.

SPENDING REQUESTS HAVE FEW BACKERS

The course of the special session at mid-week indicated the governor would be rebuffed in his efforts to pull in another $500,000 more for the state police and $3 million for the welfare department.

If he got it all and only the uranium tax to offset the spending it would leave the state's general bank account flat broke or maybe in the red after enjoying a surplus of more than $6 million last spring.

The uranium tax estimated at $200,000 a year may not produce one-tenth that much if Navajo and Laguna Indians are successful in their effort to avoid the tax. Most all New Mexico uranium production is on land held by those groups.

The administration's second best hope for a tax increase is on particular horse racing, another one that would produce only a token amount, maybe $200,000 a year. Opposition to the tax was pronounced at the opening of the session.

The only tax proposal in the governor's call that would raise any significant money, an increase in the income levy, looked like it was dead and buried before the legislature met.

WHISKEY TAX

The governor, it was learned, rejected a strong plea to raise money for the welfare department by raising the tax on liquor. A prominent Democratic attorney presented the proposal which would have produced a million a year and could have been handled without increasing the legal minimum prices at which liquor is sold.

The mood of the legislators in the early hours of the session indicated the welfare program needs would be met with available money sufficient to restore the levels of payments in effect before the April reductions but with tough restrictions intended to cut thousands off the give-away lists.

Such a course would hamper the political plans of the administration but in the long pull might prove more politically successful than building up a big spending fund with increased taxes.

VOTE AGAINST NO. 6 HARDLY A MANDATE

Last week's election results didn't produce any mandate for Corporation Commissioner Ingram Pickett to step out and run for governor but they did show power in the hands of those who opposed the No. 6 utilities amendment.

Pickett and Sen. Dennis Chavez who led the fight against No. 6 went by only about one vote but even that was a good showing considering that other amendments carried by 3,000 or 7,000.

Chavez it was learned after the election, had mailed thousands of letters to followers asking their vote against the amendment.

The stonewall crowd which at first seemed indifferent to the fate of the amendments undertook an all-out push for No. 6 in the final few days and perhaps could have put it over with a few more days effort.

The Chavez influence was overdone in Taos, Rio Arriba, Guadalupe and some in Mora, counties that had been expected to go overwhelmingly against the issue.

One of the unexplained votes was in Union which went heavily against the amendment. The county is one in which neither Pickett nor Chavez are known to have any great following.

No mystery was the top-sold vote against No. 6 in Valencia, the county that is given credit for beating the proposal. The result is generally credited to Filo Sedillo, former county Dem chair and now clerk of Sen. Dennis Chavez' Public Works committee at $14,900 a year.

Embarrassing, perhaps, to Corporation Commissioner Jim Lamb, was the vote against the amendment in his home county of Dona Ana. Lamb had taken a public position in favor of the amendment.

Pickett, who by defeat of the amendment is free to run for governor without resigning his 6-year term in the corporation commission, was dragging his tail feathers after the narrow win and told reporters that 1958 and not 1956 was his time to try for governor, in the past few days, however, his spirits have revived and now he's hedging on whether it will be next year or 1958.

MONEY AND BANKING — In Everyday Living —

IT HAD BEEN A HOT DAY and Mrs. M was exhausted. Mentally retracing her steps since breakfast, she figured she'd covered a good two miles — of which the biggest part had been one long trudge to pay bills. Then a half-forgotten word of advice flashed into Mrs. M's mind: "Why not pay with CHECKS — by MAIL?" The very next morning she told us recently, "I opened my checking account with you — and I've had a more restful summer ever since!"

JUST BEFORE SAM G. was to register for his senior year in engineering school, his father passed away suddenly. ### NMIMT Reports Enrollment Way Up

The New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology reports a whopping 40 per cent increase in enrollment. Mr. Arthur F. Stanton, registrar, indicates that the enrollment of students during the recent registration period very nearly approaches the record enrollments which were experienced shortly after the close of World War II. Stanton attributes much of this increase to the small attrition rate experienced last year. The increased desire to attend college also contributes to the larger enrollment. This year's freshman class will have 47 per cent more students than last year's. The Graduate Department also has shown a remarkable increase. Of the total enrollment, more than one half of the students are residents of the state of New Mexico. Altogether, twenty-eight states are represented and the following foreign countries: Formosa, France, Korea, Iran, Jordan, Peru and Venezuela. Stanton goes on to report that the dormitories and dining hall facilities are taxed to capacity. In order to accommodate late arrivals, it has been necessary to convert

Eddie Wimberly of Hollywood and Cecil Clarke of Ruidoso were at home for the week end. They are enrolled at Fortales in the Eastern New Mexico University and report that they like it there very much.

The Horace Belttons of Ruidoso returned Thursday from a fishing trip to Vallecito Lake and Bayfield, Colorado.

FRINGE BENEFITS...

24 extra paychecks every year.

When a Kennecott Copper Corporation employee draws his pay at Chino Mines Division he is in effect receiving an extra — although unseen — paycheck. That's because Kennecott, in addition to paying good wages, spends nearly $1,000 a year in providing each of its 2500 employees with about 20 individual "fringe" benefits, including insurance, pensions, sick leave, holiday pay, and vacations.

Kennecott's operations provide "fringe" benefits, too — benefits which extend to every part of New Mexico. Chino's payroll, nearly $1,000,000 a month, helps create other jobs in the community. Kennecott supply purchases contribute to the success of other businesses. And Kennecott taxes, among the highest paid by any company in the state, help provide roads, schools and other needed state services that build a better New Mexico.

THE LOST MINE AT WHITE OAKS

It was about two o'clock one afternoon in the early 1890s when John Owens drove into the gold mining town of White Oaks in a covered wagon, leading an extra horse that he matched in races. Owens was out of money and he had to find work.

That night he stopped in at Whiteman's store, where miners met to talk over the happenings of the day. He edged up to a job. Was he a miner? Owens replied he wasn't but he had strength and brains to do what a man told him to do. "I cannot use you unless you are a miner," the foreman said. A man sitting on the counter overheard the conversation and told Owens he needed help in digging a well in the Coitler pasture. The job would start next morning. There probably would have been no story of the lost mine at White Oaks if the foreman had hired Owens.

Some 25 years later—in 1910—Owens, former sheriff of Lincoln County, was having dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Jackson, pioneer residents of White Oaks. After Owens had complimented the Jacksons on their baked sweet potatoes and had guessed rightly that they were grown at Portales, Jackson asked Owens if it were true that he had made a gold find a few miles northeast of White Oaks in the 1890s. "I will take an oath," Owens said, "to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth." This is Owens' story as Jackson remembers hearing it. "The day after I started helping this man dig the well he told me to take my two horses two and a half miles up White Oaks Spring Canyon to the spring. It was the only watering hole in that vicinity and the horses would have to come there for water.

We worked up to Saturday evening on the well. The man told me that on Sunday I could ride my race horse up to the spring and find my work horses. I found the tracks and followed them in a northeast direction. It was slow tracking, and about noon I stopped for lunch and tied my horse to a grass in stirrup-high gramma grass.

I sat down on a rock which which looked as if it had "grown" out of the ground. After lunch I picked up a stone and broke several pieces off the rock I had sat on. The broken pieces were yellow. I had never seen gold in a rock and I didn't know what it was. I put a piece of the rock in my hip pocket and spent the rest of the afternoon hunting for my horses. I came back to camp down Coyote Canyon.

Thursday afternoon, my boys, who was working at the bottom of the well, asked if I had heard about the new gold strike at the Old Abe Mine in Baxter Mountain. I told him I found a mighty pretty piece of rock Sunday while I was looking for my horses. "Send it down in the next bucket," he said. "You got this rock at the Old Abe?" the boss called up to me. I told him I'd never been to the Old Abe. "Can you find the place where you got this rock?" the boss shouted.

"What is in it?" I shouted. "Gold!" he yelled. "Pull me up." "I'll go to the livery stable and get a horse, and you take your race horse, and we'll ride out there," the man said. "First, we'll go to White Oaks Spring, keeping track of your work team and follow the tracks of your race horse which has small shoes."

We took that route and rode until it got dark. At daylight the next day we went back to that vicinity, put in the whole day, scarcely stopping to take a drink of water from the canteen. When night came we still hadn't found the place, but I had found the paper bag I had my lunch in Sunday, though it probably had blown quite a ways from the rock.

We hunted every day for a week without results. By that time news of the find had leaked out, and men were as thick out there as flies around a pan of molasses. So many miners took off from their jobs to hunt for the rock that the mines had to shut down.

After about two months the searchers gave up. Then a peace officer in White Oaks said to me: "I'll tell you what I'll do. I got a bunch of goats, I'll build a shanty and a corral. You run those goats on shares, half and half. Going over the ground every day, following the goats, you're bound to find the rock."

I accepted the proposition. I

But Owens, who died in Corona in the late 1930s, continued the search for years. Jackson said Owens would return to White Oaks several times a year to look for the rock Jackson himself has guided strangers on many searches.

What Owens found was a rock cropping. That cropping from which he idly broke off a few pieces some 60 years ago is a few miles northeast of White Oaks. Our greatest asset is the land. Poor land makes poor people. Productive land makes prosperous people.

Most of our farm land is capable of profitable and permanent production, but land washed or blown away becomes useless. Money you would make on crops and livestock goes with it.

Land mismanaged cannot produce crops to compete with crops from land that is taken care of and used according to its capabilities.

Thomas Jefferson, pioneer in soil conservation, recognized the advantage of "horizontal ploughing," known today as contouring. In 1810, writing about the effects of a violent storm, he notes: "Horizontal furrows arrested the water at every step till it was absorbed, or at least had deposited the soil it had taken up."

CORONA NEWS

Mrs. A. E. Mulkey

Correspondent

The Corona Cardinals defended their goal for the third straight week, while scoring twice to beat a tough Estancia team 10-2, Friday afternoon, Sept. 23. Corona had one touchdown called back on an off side penalty. Estancia never threatened Corona's goal line. Corona had a nearly perfect line in defense against the bears. Good blocking in the backfield by Pat Husy and Paul Otero was turned in. On the line Mulkey, G. Bryan, B. Bryan, Knight, Sharp, Proctor, Kilpatrick, Bussey, and Robinson were standouts in defense. Dickie scored the 2 T O's, one on a boot smash and one on a 44-yd. sprint around right end.

Corona plays host to Melrose Friday, Sept. 30, (this week) another tough game from Melrose will be expected by the Cards. Last year Corona defeated Melrose 13-0. MRS. SALLY MCKIBBEN DIES

Mrs. Sally E. McKibben, resident of Lincoln County for 38 years passed away early Thursday morning, Sept. 22, at her home in Corona. She was stricken with partial paralysis June 24.

Some years later the family moved to Texas where they lived for five years. From there they came to New Mexico, and in November 1919 settled on their homestead place seven miles east of Corona.

PURCHASING OFFICE HAS BROTHER ACT

The appointment of Dante Valo of Albuquerque as assistant state purchasing agent last July signalled the advent of his brothers, George and Aldo, into the state supplying business. The brothers firm, Valo Distributing Co., has had some $1700 in business since brother Dante was appointed. The firm never did business with the state before. T. G. (Pop) Peters of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce, was appointed assistant director of the great Economic Development Commission before he had been in the state long enough to qualify as a resident or be eligible for a state job. He came over from Texas in September, 1934. The job pays $3,000 a year.

Most of our farm land is capable of profitable and permanent production, but land washed or blown away becomes useless. Money you would make on crops and livestock goes with it.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Mrs. Maggie E. Pfingsten, wish to express our sincere gratitude to the wonderful and thoughtful people for all generous, unselfish acts, the meal that was prepared, the many calls and the beautiful flowers.

We want you to know that every act was appreciated, even though some may not be acknowledged verbally. And we also know that each of you she knew, she loved, and were it possible she would want to say "Thanks so much."

And so in our inadequate way we do say "Thanks" to all her friends at home.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kind words of sympathy during our bereavement. We also want to thank those who sent flowers and brought food.
