

RAMBLIN' AROUND

By PAUL BAKER

Heartly congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ben S. Burns of Carrizozo who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married November 6, 1905, in El Paso, Ill. The couple observed their anniversary quietly at home, with dinner at the Steak House, where Mrs. Burns' sister, Mrs. Belle Boyer, was their guest. Many felicitations and gifts were received from friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns have spent most of their married life in this part of New Mexico. He came here in 1906 to become station agent for the El Paso and Southern Railway at Cuervo. Four years later the couple moved to Ocuera, where Mr. Burns remained as station agent for 14 years. Ocuera at that time was a bustling community of 300 people, with a number of business houses and two hotels.

For the next seven years they lived at Three Rivers, where Mr. Burns was station agent. They were well acquainted with A. R. Fall, rancher, and secretary of the Interior in President Harding's cabinet.

In December of 1932, Mr. and Mrs. Burns moved to Carrizozo where he was station agent until his retirement in 1942. Mr. Burns was asked what stood out in his long experience as a station agent. "If you mean train wrecks," he said, "fortunately, there weren't any." There was some excitement, however, when a lightning bolt struck the depot in Three Rivers, starting a fire in the freight room. With Mrs. Burns' help, the fire was put out and Mr. Burns set to work to repair the disabled telegraph system.

And Carrizozo Outlook

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1933 (Outlook, Volume 48, No. 30)

High Winds Work Against Hunters On Opening Days

Despite unfavorable hunting conditions, the Carrizozo checking station Wednesday morning reported hunters who had registered there made a 50% kill. A total of 302 hunters checked out 150 bucks.

Bert Williams of Holloman AFB checked out a turkey which he killed in the area of White Oaks. He said he was surprised as anyone could be when he came upon the bird perched on a log. He shot the turkey through the head with his deer rifle.

E. R. Polk of Pep, N. M., checked out a bear. Mrs. A. E. Mulkey reported a 20% kill in the Corona area by November 14. High winds made for hard hunting conditions.

L. A. Turner of Magdalena reported 30% had killed deer by November 13, out of 3081 hunters who checked in opening day. By evening of the 13th about 4500 hunters had checked in at the station in the Guadalupe Mountains, 1355 leaving with deer.

In the Capitan Mountains 1455 hunters had checked out by mid-morning of the 15th. They had taken 520 deer, nine turkeys and four bears.

Manuel Chavez and T. D. Ingle took turns manning the Carrizozo checking station at the Highway 380 overpass. Included in the out-of-state hunters who registered were one from Indiana, one from Oklahoma and two from California. The latter pair landed their plane at the Carrizozo airport and when they took off each had his buck.

Following are some of the local hunters who checked out bucks at the Carrizozo station: Jess Garrison, Lonnie Hodgins, Charles L. Hodgins, Richard Kondo, Don Monroe, Donald Hobbs, Juan Chavez, Ralph Dinslip, Bryce Dugger, Jerry Lobb, Gene Garrison, Clarence Hust, Jean Chavez, Earlene Tubbs, Ralph Barot, Billy Fitzpatrick, Harvey Hodgins, Eugene Elam, Jess Grant, E. C. Padilla, Jim Cooper, LeRoy E. Haling, T. M. Chavez, Frank Montoya, Gerald King, Manuel Ortiz, Dan McKinley, Elmer Hust, Pablo Chavez, Atanacio Chavez, Richard Hlicks; also Jim Greer and Michael Holguin of Albuquerque.

As if to even up the score between the hunted and the hunters, Nature usually comes up with some unusual weather about this time of year. High winds and blowing dust held down the deer kill in many parts of the state and some hunters did not stay out long. One report was that 17 sportsmen in the Patos area killed only two deer. Those checking in at Carrizozo fared better than at most stations reporting.

Speaking of the wind, some Carrizozo streets on Wednesday looked like the morning after a littered with dirt, weeds, cartons and what have you. A street sweeper would come in handy to clean up the mess. How about it, Santa? Could you make Carrizozo a present of a street sweeper? ... And by the way, Santa, don't forget to put Joe Moore on your calling list. Here is Joe's 1933 communication to Old Saint Nick:

Dear Santa: Claus: I have been a good boy this year. Please bring me a trumpet and a football suit and a scraper hauler. Goodbye, Joe Moore, Box 513, Carrizozo, N. M.

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

SOMEBODY SLIPPED ON LIQUOR TEST

SANTA FE, Nov. 16 — It has been a legal freak that the disputationous and wide sweeping state liquor law is just now coming up for its first serious court test after 16 years of stormy operation—but it was no accident.

All the way through the liquor bosses have been mighty careful not to let their admittedly shaky law come under the scrutiny of a court of jurisdiction.

The nearest squeak they had was in 1917. That was when Allen Bell, Denver publisher of a magazine that carried the New Mexico "fair trade" prices on liquor at a handsome profit from the wholesalers, was told that the business was going to be taken out of his publication and given to a new liquor journal owned by Paul Case of Albuquerque.

Bell replied by filing a suit in U. S. district court challenging the validity of New Mexico's guaranteed-profits-on-liquor law that keeps prices so high here.

U. S. District Judge Colin Neblett heard the case and announced informally that he would rule against the state price law. While he was preparing his formal opinion Bell suddenly dropped his complaint and went back to Denver with a three-year contract from the wholesalers for publishing the price lists.

BARKEEPERS COULD CHANGE THEIR MINDS

A withdrawal is possible in the current case. Judge James M. Scarborough who said in an informal memorandum that he would rule the whole state liquor law invalid is not expected to present his formal opinion until next week.

Meanwhile if the mood should move three northside bar operators who brought the case to court to drop their case the whole deal would vanish. They are Jake Saiz of Jake's Bar at Riverdale and Ernesto and Alberto Gonzales of the Rancho Bar at Taos. The liquor office had ordered their licenses cancelled for Sunday sales and the operators of the little bars probably had no dream that they might pull down the entire state liquor code structure by appealing to the Santa Fe district court.

PRICE OF LIQUOR NOT CONSIDERED

The state supreme court in its first crack at the liquor law will have no opportunity to pass on the legality of the guaranteed-profits section. The only points that will be considered are those raised in the district court trial concerning the method by which the law was passed in 1933 when Gov. John Miles voted part of it about Sunday opening of bars and let the rest ride.

There have been threats to take the liquor law to court in its 15-year operation. Some looked like efforts to shake-down the industry and never materialized for some reason or other. Others came from liquor merchants who changed their minds upon consideration of what might follow if they tried and failed.

CASTNER RESCUED, COUPLE GETTING $655

Bob Castner who looked like he was going to be a long time unemployed when he left the $700-a-month auditor's office at the first of the year is doing all right. He's making $650 in the health department and Mrs. Castner is getting $305 in the bank department.

Bob is toying with running for corporation commissioner. Castner had a slow time getting started because of his opposition to John Simms for nomination for governor last year. Barney Cruz of Mora, Democrat of notoriety for some 20 years, is back on the payroll as a gasoline pump inspector for the bureau of revenue. . . . Chalk up a score for the new lien and recovery law. Every member of the San Felipe pueblo on relief withdrew because of it. There were 18 or 20 cases. . . . The Raton Range's publication of all 400 names of Colfax people drawing relief checks set off arguments that reached all the way to the head of the New Mexico University journalism department. He's against it.

MILES-BUTTS PRINTING, MORGAN GETS A PLUG

John Miles has already ordered campaign printing for his run for Demo nomination for land commissioner. An opponent, Murray Morgan of Alamo-gordo, got a free plug with his picture in the New Mexico Education Association magazine. Several are hovering at the border of that race with the idea of getting in if the opportunity looks good.

Seven Suggestions For Safe Driving
Have you been wondering
what you can do to checkmate
accidents on Safe Driving Day—
December 17?

Here are some S. D. Day suggestions, based on reports of fatal accidents from more than 20 states:
Check Your Speed—More than 3 out of 10 drivers in fatal accidents were violating speed laws.
Speed law violation was almost twice as high on rural highways
than in urban communities.
Check Your Drinking—In 24
out of 100 fatal accidents a driver or an adult pedestrian had been drinking.
Check Your Car—Among vehicles involved in fatal accidents for which condition of vehicle was reported, about 6%
had unsafe conditions.
Check Yourself—About 1 out
of 14 drivers involved in fatal
accidents had a physical condition that could have been a contributing factor in the accident.
In the majority of these cases
the condition was fatigue or sleepiness.
Check Your Weather—The
weather was rainy, snowy or foggy in 1 out of 6 fatal accidents. This time of the year
road and visibility conditions
are at their worst.
Check The Time—December is
a dark-dreary month and night
driving is considerably more hazardous than day driving. So,
when possible, plan to travel
during the hours of daylight.
And double your care, reduce
your speed, at night.
Check Your Manners—Failure
to yield the right of way, failure
to keep to the right of the center line and other examples of poor manners on the highway ranked high among driver violations in fatal accidents. Take your turn—you'll probably get there just as fast.

Dodge Introduces New 4-Door Hardtop

One of the newest, most exciting automobiles to appear on the American motoring scene in recent years is the glamorous 1954 Dodge Four-Door Lancer Hardtop. All of the youth and vigor of true hardtop styling has been skillfully combined with the comfort and convenience of the four-door sedan. While the car shown above is in the Custom Royal series, the same body style is being offered in the lower priced Royal and Coronet series.

Poliomyelitis Vaccine Results Promising

According to the New Mexico Dept. of Public Health, preliminary reports just received from the U. S. Public Health Service on the efficacy of the poliomyelitis vaccine used this year throughout the United States indicate a reduction of up to 90% in the incidence of paralytic poliomyelitis in those children vaccinated. Various methods are now being used to check the efficacy of the vaccination of the 6,500,000 first and second grade school children who received one or two inoculations this spring and early summer. The 423,000 children who were vaccinated during 1954 field trials are also being observed this year.

Each state and territory reports regularly to the Public Health Service all cases of poliomyelitis occurring among vaccinated children. The frequency and severity of these cases are compared with the frequency and severity that would be expected if no vaccine had been given. In many States special studies are being carried out in the 5-10 year age group to measure the incidence of poliomyelitis in vaccinated as compared

State Meat Poster Contest Appeals to School Students

The contest, which focuses attention on the state's greatest agricultural product, is open to all students in New Mexico schools—public, private, and parochial. It closes December 15. Contest participants are required to prepare a poster at least 22x28 inches, illustrating either the nutritional value of the everyday diet; the history of the livestock industry in New Mexico; or the economic value of the livestock industry to New Mexico.

Posters will be judged on their attractiveness and neatness, and the stories which they tell about the meat, or livestock industry. All first, second, and third posters will be displayed in local grocery stores after January 1. MATERIAL AVAILABLE Special strip films, motion pictures, and tape recordings are being mailed to school teachers who request them. These audio and visual aids are designed to help school children become better acquainted with the meat and livestock industry. Films and tape recordings can be ordered from the Department of Information, New Mexico A&M College at State College, Mrs. Lambert stated.

First prize in the state contest is a $200 college scholarship to New Mexico A&M College; second prize is a hindquarter of beef; third prize, a hindquarter of lamb; and fourth, a hindquarter of pork. Top contestants in each school will receive one meat meal of their choice for the entire family. Donors of the awards are individual and chain grocers of New Mexico and Texas and meat packers of Albuquerque and Roswell.

The State Meat Poster Contest and Promotion Campaign coincides with a national campaign to promote the use of beef, pork, and lamb at certain periods during the fall and winter. New Mexico school boys and girls 53,000 first and second grade school children who received the first inoculation and some 45,000 who received the second inoculation this spring and summer during the school program financed by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The second allotment of poliomyelitis vaccine for New Mexico is expected within the next few weeks.

News from the EPNG Compressor Station

Mrs. Fred Whitmyre and Mrs. Art Bursan went to California last week for Mrs. Whitmyre to meet her new daughter-in-law to be, and to be a guest in her home until the wedding on the 19th. LEGACY OF A COCKER SPANIEL

The following was printed in Martha Mason's column in a recent Amarillo newspaper.

"My material possessions are few and I leave them all to you—a collar, chewed-on one-end; with two studs missing; a lumpy dog bed; and my clipped water dish. I leave you half a rubber ball; a torn doll which you will find under the refrigerator; a rubber mouse with the whistle missing, located behind the kitchen range; and hundreds of bones under the rose bushes and the flower bed."

"Mostly I leave my memories, which are many. I leave you the memory of a big tennis ball; soft brown eyes, a stubby tail, a brown flecked nose; and my whine at the back door."

"I leave you the spot of sunshine that was cast through the window onto the living room rug at 4 o'clock winter afternoon which I appropriated for my own as I curled into a ball."

"I leave you a tattered rug in front of your easy chair, which was not repaired with exactly the same kind of yarn I chewed it when I was a senseless five months old puppy, remember? I also leave you the memory of my first spanking and my forgiveness."

"I leave you a hallowed trench which you will find under the bushes near the front porch where I found asylum during hot summer days. It's full of leaves now, so you may have trouble finding it."

"I bequeath to you the sound I made scampering through the carpet of October leaves when we tramped through the woods together. I leave you, remembered moments of mornings we sat together on the creek bank, awaiting that first nibble. I remember your laughter at my encounter with the impertinent rabbit I couldn't catch."

"I leave you my devotion, my sympathy when things go wrong, my bark when you raised your voice needlessly in anger, and frustration when I curl my nose under my tail when you scold me."

"I never went to church, and heard a sermon. Yet without ever having spoken a word in my life, I leave you lessons in patience, tolerance, love and understanding. Your life has been richer because I lived."

Q: "What is foremost among the discouraging incidents to which a man in business must accustom himself?"

"Shucks, that's what the party was for."

No salesman lingers at our door with argument compelling; My wife gets rid of him with ease. By buying what he's selling.

Definition of a hick town: A place where if you see a girl dining with a man old enough to be her father, he is.

New Steno: "Where do you keep the round envelopes, sir?"

Supervisor: "What in the world do you want with round envelopes?"

New Steno: "Didn't you say I was to mail the circulars?"

"How are getting on at home since your wife went away?"

"Fine. I've reached the highest point of efficiency. I can put my socks on from either end."

The office manager frowned at the clerk. "Mr. Williams," he said, "I'm afraid you're ignoring our efficiency system."

"Maybe I am, sir," admitted the clerk. "But someone has to get the work done."

YOUR GARDEN TOOLS should serve you better and longer if you follow these sugges-them away for the season.

First, clear metal surfaces of rust with steel wool or a wire brush, then oil them. Next sharpen cutting or digging edges with a file, being careful not to destroy the angle of existing bevels nor to file so thin that tools will nick ally, wax wooden handles.

Where wood has become rough and splintery, sandpa-

A truck driver confided to a member of our staff the other day: "I figure I drive enough

That's one reason why I have

Take paying bills: I handle

DOUBLE CHECK these advan-

Seven Suggestions For Safe Driving

Have you been wondering
what you can do to checkmate
accidents on Safe Driving Day—
December 17?

Here are some S D Day suggestions, based on reports of fatal accidents from more than 20
states:

Check Your Speed—More than 3 out of 10 drivers in fatal accidents were violating speed laws.
Speed law violation was almost
twice as high on rural highways
than in urban communities.

Check Your Drinking—In 24
out of 100 fatal accidents a driver or an adult pedestrian had
been drinking.

Check Your Car—Among vehicles involved in fatal accidents for which condition of vehicle was reported, about 6%
had unsafe conditions.

Check Yourself—About 1 out
of 14 drivers involved in fatal
accidents had a physical condition that could have been a contributing factor in the accident.
In the majority of these cases
the condition was fatigue or sleepiness.

Check Your Weather—The
weather was rainy, snowy or foggy in 1 out of 6 fatal accidents. This time of the year
road and visibility conditions
are at their worst.

Check The Time—December is
a dark-dreary month and night
driving is considerably more hazardous than day driving. So,
when possible, plan to travel
during the hours of daylight.
And double your care, reduce
your speed, at night.

Check Your Manners—Failure
to yield the right of way, failure
to keep to the right of the center line and other examples of
poor manners on the highway ranked high among driver violations in fatal accidents. Take your turn—you'll probably get
there just as fast.

Why the Letter Went Astray

Port Gibson, Miss., Reveille—
"Postal Service News tells the story of the jaybird, looking for nesting material, swooped down on a dilapidated rural mailbox, grabbed a letter in its beak, and flew off. A member of the family startled the bird with its heavy cargo, and the letter was dropped—an envelope containing a pension check! Those interested in improving their mailboxes can secure helpful information from their carriers."

The frequency and severity of these cases are compared with the frequency and severity that would be expected if no vaccine had been given. In many States special studies are being carried out in the 5-10 year age group to measure the incidence of poliomyelitis in vaccinated as compared to unvaccinated children within these ages. In addition, intensive investigations are being carried out in areas where epidemics of poliomyelitis have occurred this year, such as in New England and Wisconsin. On the basis of these studies the Public Health Service now reports that:

1. The number of reported cases of poliomyelitis, paralytic and nonparalytic, among some seven million vaccinated children throughout the United States is now running 25 to 50% below the incidence expected without vaccination in the same age groups.

2. Special studies in seven areas (California, Connecticut, Florida, Minnesota, New York State, New York City, and Washington) revealed a reduction of 67 to 90% in the paralytic form of the disease among children 5-10 years of age.

3. In epidemic areas, particularly New England and Wisconsin, the infrequency of paralytic cases among vaccinated children is notable.

The State Health Department is cooperating with the Public Health Service in supplying data regarding the incidence of poliomyelitis in New Mexico. The number of cases that has occurred in the State in the 5-9 year age group is small and therefore no conclusion can be drawn from them, but the trend in New Mexico seems to follow that seen elsewhere. Since January 1, 1955, there have been 10 cases of paralytic polio and four cases of nonparalytic poliomyelitis in unvaccinated children in the 5 through 9 year age group, and two nonparalytic polio cases in the vaccinated children in the same age group.

FIVE BULBAR CASES
Five of the paralytic cases in the nonvaccinated group were of the bulbar type, the most severe form of poliomyelitis. One of these children died. The two vaccinated children who contracted nonparalytic polio had received two inoculations each of the polio vaccine. In the vaccinated cases with paralytic poliomyelitis one 7-year-old child had received one inoculation of vaccine and one eight-year-old child two inoculations. Both cases were very mild, and will probably show few after-effects of their poliomyelitis infection.

The first shipment of some 50,000 cc. of poliomyelitis vaccine was recently distributed to private physicians and County Health Departments by the New Mexico Pharmaceutical Association. Children from one year through ten years of age and pregnant women are now being vaccinated. To date some 53,000 first vaccinations, 49,500 second vaccinations, and 4,100 third vaccinations have been given in New Mexico. This includes some 4,000 children who received three inoculations in the field trial of the vaccine in 1954, and come

"Entries in the New Mexico Farm & Livestock Bureau Meat Promotion Contest are beginning to roll into state headquarters," Mrs. Linda Lambert, chairman of the New Mexico Meat Promotion Committee, said this week. "It looks as though we'll have fine participation in all schools in the state."

The contest which focuses attention on the state's greatest agricultural product, is open to all students in New Mexico schools—public, private, and parochial. It closes December 15. Contest participants are required to prepare a poster at least 22 1/2 inches, illustrating either the nutritional value of the everyday diet; the history of the livestock industry in New Mexico; or the economic value of the livestock industry to New Mexico.

Posters will be judged on their attractiveness and neatness, and the stories which they tell about the meat or livestock industry. All first, second, and third posters will be displayed in local grocery stores after January 1.

MATERIAL AVAILABLE
Special strip films, motion pictures, and tape recordings are being mailed to school teachers who request them. These audio and visual aids are designed to help school children become better acquainted with the meat and livestock industry. Films and tape recordings can be ordered from the Department of Information, New Mexico A&M College at State College, Mrs. Lambert stated.

First prize in the state contest is a $200 college scholarship to New Mexico A&M College; second prize is a hindquarter of beef; third prize, a hindquarter of lamb; and fourth, a hindquarter of pork.

Top contestants in each school will receive one meat meal of their choice for the entire family.

Donors of the awards are individual and chain grocers of New Mexico and Texas and meat packers of Albuquerque and Roswell.

The State Meat Poster Contest and Promotion Campaign coincide with a national campaign to promote the use of beef, pork, and lamb at certain periods during the fall and winter. New Mexico school boys and girls 52,000 first and second grade school children who received the first inoculation and some 45,000 who received the second inoculation this spring and summer during the school program financed by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The second allotment of poliomyelitis vaccine for New Mexico is expected within the next few weeks.

News from the EPNG Compressor Station

Mrs. Fred Whitmyre and Mrs. Art Burson went to California last week, for Mrs. Whitmyre to meet her new daughter-in-law to be, and to be a guest in her home until the wedding on the 19th. Fred Whitmyre is to leave on the train the latter part of this week, also to attend the wedding. The son is Douglas Elliott of Travis Air Base.

Carl and R. B. Eford were home during the week end, hunting. They attend ENMU at Fortales.

Earl Bush, brother-in-law of Oco, Noyes, and two friends from Clayton were here hunting. They got one deer, near Alamogordo.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Whitaker and children of the Blanco gasoline plant of EPNG were here in the home of the John Whitakers this week, also hunting. One deer was killed in that hunting party.

Jay Ayers and Garth Harshfield from Farmington were hunting guests of Carl Buttrill's, but went home empty handed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Poage and children, Jimmy, Pat, David and Peggy Jo were visitors in the Carl Buttrill home over the week end. Jimmy, who is 17 years old, took a 10-point deer home with him. Mr. Poage is superintendent of the Blanco plant near Farmington.

Adell Galle and son Marshall of Jal were here in the Carl Buttrill home, and hunted, but were unlucky—no deer.

Several in camp have not got their buck. Next week a list of those who did will be sent in.

Mrs. Carol Gibbons and daughters are in El Paso this week. Carlotte and C. E. Buttrill were out of school the first of the week with severe colds.

may also enter one or more posters in the national contest. Prizes are offered for first to sixtieth place posters. The first prize is $200; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $50; fifth $25; sixth $10; seventh, $5; eighth, $3; ninth, $2; tenth, $1; and forty-first to sixtieth, $5.

In addition, the school teacher whose students send in the most posters will receive $100 in the National Contest.

Entry blanks for both the State and National Poster Contests may be obtained from home economic teachers. Mrs. Lambert said. State Contest entry blanks should be mailed to the New Mexico Farm & Livestock Bureau, Box 1031, Las Cruces. National Contest entry forms should be sent to the National Livestock & Meat Board, 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois.

LEGACY OF A COCKER SPANIEL

The following was printed in Martha Mason's column in a recent Amarillo newspaper.

"My material possessions are few and I leave them all to you—a collar chewed on one end, with two studs missing; a lumpy dog bed; and my chipped water dish. I leave you half a rubber ball; a torn doll which you will find under the refrigerator; a rubber mouse with the whistle missing, located behind the kitchen range; and hundreds of bones under the rose bushes and the flower bed."

"Mostly I leave my memories, which are many. I leave you the memory of a big tennis ball; soft brown eyes, a stubby tail, a brown flecked nose, and my whine at the back door."

"I leave you the spot of sunshine that was cast through the window onto the living-room rug at 4 o'clock winter afternoon which I curled into a ball."

"I leave you a tattered rug in front of your easy chair, which was not repaired with exactly the same kind of yarn I chewed it when I was a senseless five months old puppy, remember? I also leave you the memory of my first spanking and my forgiveness."

"I leave you a hallowed trench which you will find under the bushes near the front porch where I found asylum during hot summer days. It's full of leaves now, so you may have trouble finding it."

"I bequeath to you the sound I made scampering through the carpet of October leaves when we—tramped through the woods together—I leave you, remembered moments of mornings we sat together on the creek bank, awaiting that first nibble. I remember your laughter at my encounter with the impertinent rabbit I couldn't catch."

"I leave you my devotion, my sympathy when things go wrong, my bark when you raised your voice needlessly in anger, and frustration when I curl my nose under my tail when you scold me."

"I never went to church, and heard a sermon. Yet without ever having spoken a word in my life, I leave you lessons in patience, tolerance, love and understanding. Your life has been richer because I lived."—MM

A: "Seeing his stenographer yawn while he is dictating one of his snappy salesmanship letters."

Food Mart Sales Up Over Last Year

Food Mart, Inc., last week reported a total of $8,853,985 in sales for its 41 supermarkets for the quarter ending Oct. 1, 1955, and at the same time announced current construction of four additional supermarkets.

Sales for the third quarter represent an increase of $4,711,659 over figures for the third quarter a year ago. Sales in 1954 for the quarter ending August 25, were $4,147,326. The 1955 third quarter sales figure includes sales for the 10-week operation of the newly acquired Worth Food Markets in Fort Worth, Texas.

In addition to the local branch, Food Mart also has supermarkets in other New Mexico cities and in El Paso. The food firm announced that construction of four new supermarkets is in process, two for El Paso and two for Fort Worth. All are scheduled for opening by the first of the year.

Net profit after taxes for the third quarter was $186,468. Earnings per share of common stock were 66 cents. The food firm declared a regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents per share of common stock payable November 25 to stockholders of record November 15.

Since Food Mart acquired Worth Food Markets in Fort Worth on July 23, 1955, the third quarter report does not reflect the full quarter sales volume for the Fort Worth stores, a company spokesman said.

Kenneth Barnhill Addresses Hondo PTA

Kenneth Barnhill, chief probation officer for the Third Judicial District, addressed the Hondo Valley Parent-Teacher Association, November 8. His talk centered around three case histories of New Mexico youth, and he emphasized the necessity for the recognition of abnormalities in children.

From cases, such as these described, come many of the 12.2% of the children between the ages of 10 and 18 who were contacted last year by the police.
Mrs. George Sisneros, president of the PTA, introduced Sheriff and Mrs. W. G. Bridley, Manuel Chavez and Miss Nell

Craig, who has recently come into the county to help with the work of Mr. Chavez. Announcements were made of the dedication on November 17 and a rummage sale to be sponsored by the PTA.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. Pablo Monroya, Epi Gurule, and Albert Gomez.

RIVALRY BETWEEN HOTELIERS

In 1899 the McGrath brothers, Herbert and Lemuel, together with their father, Judge McGrath, built the Vendome Hotel in Lordsburg, which was considered by all to be first class in every respect. The people marveled at Lordsburg being able to support such a hotel. Home people, such as cowboys, ranchers and farmers, could get a room for 50 cents. Traveling men were charged $1.

Twelve years later another enterprising businessman saw room for what he prided himself on as a first-class hotel known as the Holland House. Both hotels are running under the same names today.

The purpose of this story, says its teller, Claude Fuller, is to show the rivalry between the two hotels. The only patronage the hotels got then was traveling men and county people who came to town.

As trains arrived, the hotel proprietors would meet them with their little two-wheeled carts. One night as the train stopped in Lordsburg, the proprietors of both hotels were there, along with the man who was running a hotel on the back street. One passenger got off the train.

"Right this way," says Joe Holland, "the only first-class hotel in town."

"You are a — old lying —" says Judge McGrath, and the fight was on.

The man on the back street got the customer for his hotel. Those were the good old days.

THREE KNOCKS ON THE DOOR

My cousin used to live with her grandmother when she was small. They were asleep one night when around midnight they heard a knock on the door. They heard another and still another. Each one was louder. They were frightened and didn't answer. All they heard were three knocks and then silence. They waited a while and then went to the window and looked out. They found a sheet of snow had fallen, but they couldn't see anything or anybody so they went back to bed. In the early morning they got up and went to look around the house and on the porch but couldn't see footprints in the snow or any evidence of anyone having been there.

A little later on in the morning a girl came and told them a very dear friend of the grandmother had died that night around midnight. My cousin's grandmother told her that the person knocking must have been her friend coming to say goodbye before she died.

(This scene of this item on the supernatural was Las Vegas. It is from the Folklore Archives of Highlands University, and was told to Agnes Rudolph by her cousin Dorothy when the former was 12.)

Housing Shortage—1903

When Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Haynes moved to Alamogordo in 1903, the town had a severe housing shortage. The town of 1,500 population was booming. Two sawmills were operating. The El Paso and Northeastern Railroad (later the El Paso and Southwestern and then the Southern Pacific) employed many in the railroad shops.

The housing shortage was so severe that some people lived in tents. Haynes and his wife were forced to buy a house to get a roof over their heads. The house still stands at Texas and Seventh.

Contractors were so busy putting up business buildings that they found little time to build houses. Sawmill and railroad employes built their own homes at night.

The Haynes lived in town until 1917 when they bought a small ranch, which eventually included about 3,000 acres. Haynes sold out 14 years ago except for 60 acres around the ranch house.

Soon after that a building boom started, with the establishment of Holloman Air Development Center, and the town

Hunting Was Poor Last Week End

Nearly every family in Corona had guests during deer season. But four or five days of wind and dust caused a number of deer hunters to quit hunting and return to their homes. More deer hunters are expected to arrive the latter part of the week— if weather permits. The report is that so far about 20% of those hunting in this area got their deer.

Pvt. Dan Richards of Corona has been transferred from Fort Carson, Colo., to Fort Bliss, P.V. and Mrs. Richards and baby daughter were in Corona the past week end.

Alva Winchester, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Winchester of Corona, has been discharged from the Navy and is now home again.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davidson (Jr. and Sr.) were Martin Mays, Fred Wardwell, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Davidson, and son, of Albuquerque. Mr. and Mrs. Wayman Mays and children and Joe Hill of Alamogordo. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Stearns and daughter, Lynda, of Vaughn, and Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Howell and son, Ray, of Roswell.

Clark Grey of Illinois was in Corona this week in the interest of U. S. Rare Earth and Uranium Inc.

NOTICE

Due to the excessive expense of Trading Stamps and in an effort to use money spent on Trading Stamps to better serve you with more merchandise at competitive prices, effective December first, 1953 we will no longer give Green Stamps. This decision was reached after a two year trial in which we found that such cost was in excess of benefits received and was not practical for our type operation, in which we strive to serve our customers with the merchandise they need in the area where they need it, at the lowest possible price based on a high inventory, low volume business. All accounts paid in full before December 1 will receive green stamps.

Assessor Explains Special Assessment

In answer to questions raised by a number of veterans in regard to the special levy of 1/2 mill to assist the County hospital, Lincoln County Assessor Lloyd Vigil told the News this week the authorized assessment is classified as regards veterans in Section 3, Chapter 221, 1953 New Mexico law, as follows: "Provided, however, that none of the exemptions now allowed by reason of service in the Armed Forces of the United States shall be applicable to any tax levied under the provisions of this act."

Old House Hides Unseen Under Modern Roof Line

In belle-me-mode fashion, the smart, new-looking house, top, grew out of the old house below. Right, that appeared more like a service station than a dwelling. Drawing illustrates how it was done. A new asphalt roof was built to cover the old one, which remains in place. This bold change in roof line was a key to the whole remodeling process.

Why the appearance of a roof deserves primary consideration in remodeling an old home is dramatically shown in these "before and after" photographs from Practical Builder magazine. "It's hard to believe," says the magazine, "but this small, squat, unattractive house has been given only two major changes—the addition of a new wing, plus a new roof built above and over the old roof. The new roof hides ugly lines and creates a home of pleasing architectural proportions. The old roof is still there, so that it was before remodeling. An entirely new roof was built framed, finished and painted with fire-resistant asphalt shingles.

The "B" team won from the Eagles 61 to 13. Willis Kilpatrick, Frank Mulkey, Marvin Aldrich, James McKibben, Norris Proctor, Derrill Robinson, Dee Proctor, Johnny Sanchez and Donald Petros all turned in good jobs for the Cards.

The "A" team took Hondo 73 to 44. Pat Huey led the Cardinals attack with 25 points, followed by Billy Bryan with 17 and Gilbert Bryan with 12. Lyman Strickland, Eddie Knight, Jack Alirez and Leslie Sharp turned in a good game.

Salas and Chavez led Hondo with 8 markers apiece. The Cardinals "A" team hit 22 out of 32 throws.

The Corona Cardinals played Morlarity at Corona Saturday night, Nov. 12. The "B" team lost to Morlarity by 4 points, and the "A" team by 2 points.

National Education Week Concluded

The Carrizozo Public Schools completed a successful observance of American Education Week on last Friday. Highlight of the observance was the Open House program Thursday night which commenced with assembly and concluded with visits to the respective classrooms in the various schools.

Some 58 parents visited the elementary school during the week, while 24 put in an appearance at the junior high school and 19 at the high school, or 101 in all.

The Business classes put on a program in the Big Jo Lumber Company. "It is hoped that next year, with some 800 to 900 parents, that a far better showing will be recorded," Supt. Firman said this week.

American Life Has Fast Pace Says IFYE Delegate from Brazil

By CECIL KERRILL, Associate Agricultural Editor, New Mexico A&M College

"Americans have a good practical philosophy of life. They like all the modern conveniences such as automobiles, refrigerators, dish washers, and vending machines, but they go at such a rapid pace and work so hard that they don't have time to enjoy them."

That's how we've impressed Helena Andrade, International Farm Youth Exchange delegate from Belo Horizonte, Brazil, who has been living with farm families in New Mexico for the past two months.

"In Brazil," Miss Andrade said, "we too like modern conveniences, but our hearts and stomachs are much more important. We're happy if we have love in our hearts and plenty of food in our stomachs. To love and be loved means peace and contentment—that is more important than anything else to Brazilian people."

Miss Andrade arrived in New Mexico in time to attend the final sessions of the State 4-H Club Encampment in August at New Mexico A&M College, where she visited with 4-H club boys girls and local 4-H club leaders from over the state. At the close of the encampment she went to San Miguel County where she spent a week with the Gallejo family near Villanueva, and 12 days with Mary Ann Owen, county home demonstration agent. The next stop was at the Elva W. Lee ranch near San Mateo, where Miss Harriet Lee hosted her on the operation of the livestock enterprise. While in Valencia County, she also visited with two other farm families—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lawrence and Mrs. S. Valenzuela of Los Lunas, where she studied home and community life.

Following a three week visit with the Morgan family in Roswell, the IFYE delegate wound up her tour of the Sunshine State by spending a week with the Alvarez Apodaca family in Las Cruces.

One of her biggest thrills, Miss Andrade said, was seeing the livestock and other exhibits at the New Mexico State Fair in September. "We have nothing to compare with this," she said. Miss Andrade, an attractive brunette, is barely 5' tall. She speaks Portuguese and Spanish and good English.

GARDEN STORAGE

Gardeners are now planning proper storage for the vegetables they grew this summer and fall. But unless the products of your garden are properly stored, you will not realize full benefits from your work during the past growing season.

Many crops can be stored in the garden row. All root crops, such as carrots, turnips, beets, and parsnips will keep for several months if the tops are cut off after frost and a thin layer of soil is thrown over the roots.

When storing garden crops pits, basements, garages, and other structures, divide your vegetables in two groups. Beets, brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, celery, parsnips, potatoes, and turnips (also apples) will do best if stored in a cool, moist place. The temperature should be 33° and 40° F. and the relative humidity 80 to 95%. Dry beans, dry-chile, onions, pumpkins, squash, and sweet potatoes like dry, moderately cool storage places. For these crops, keep the temperature from 40° to 45° and the relative humidity as low as possible.

Be sure to ventilate all storage places. Do not place any garden produce in tight rooms without any provision for air circulation.

Several types of structures can be used for home storage. A cellar, garage, or well insulated room is always a good place for storage. If you do not have one of these, you can build a storage pit. Dig a hole in the ground and line it with straw. Place the vegetables in the pit and cover with a layer of straw and a layer of soil. Placing a piece of perforated stovepipe in the center of the mound before filling.

ing furnishes ventilation in the pit. Another good temporary storage structure can be built by placing a barrel, which is open at one end, on its side on the ground and covering the barrel with soil. Do not cover the open end of the barrel. Place the vegetables to be stored in the barrel—and build a door-cover to fit open end of barrel.

Proper storage will provide fresh, health-giving vegetables for winter use of your family. For additional information, the county extension office will supply copies of USDA Farmers' Bulletin No. 1933 "Home Storage of Vegetables and Fruits," and New Mexico Circular 254 "Home Vegetable Gardening."

Fall Mobile Dental Program Underway

A visit to the Boys' Ranch at La Joya marked the first service on the fall itinerary of the New Mexico Department of Public Health Mobile Dental Unit. The communities of Cimarron and Farley have also been visited, and Vaughn, Dea Moines, Pecos, Jal and Carlsbad are scheduled for visitations. As in the past, the Mobile Dental Unit program is basically designed as a demonstration program to point out the benefits of early and regular dental care.

Emphasis is placed on the prevention of dental decay through education for proper mouth hygiene, correct diet, and fluoridation of public water supplies. The services of the unit are now limited to preschool, first- and second-grade school children.

Complete mouth rehabilitation is provided each child visiting the unit. This includes fillings, extractions, oral surgery, and the provision of the necessary prosthetic devices. X-rays are taken routinely of each child's mouth before any treatment is begun.
