

ALBERT J. PRINGSTEN

The old Nogal Lake was a natural lake. It was originally known as Watson Lake and it had soft water and snow water, but it was not a large lake. Being on forest land, there was a man by the name of Watson who settled on the land and it became known as Watson Lake. The company had to get a 99-year lease from the Forest Service for the lake. I guess they have used about 45 years of it now.

They were not drawing water out of Nogal before the Bonito pipeline was built as there was not enough water in it. Nogal Lake was a natural place for storage, and it held water quite well until the S.P. cut the outlet to the west rim of it. They used heavy charges of powder in blowing the cut. Nogal now leaks the worst when the water gets above the depth of 16 feet. They did a lot of digging to find where the water was leaking out. A fellow by the name of Campbell who was with the old El Paso and Southwestern drilled holes and stuffed them with cement but every attempt he made was of no avail.

I went to my first school in Capitan in 1904. I had an aunt, Mrs. Clara Grelsen, living in Capitan. Her husband was an engineer in Fort Stanton. I stayed in Capitan and went to school. Then they had a subscription school on Nogal Mesa for a few months each winter. I remember the teacher just boarded with each family and I think they paid her $30 or $40 a month. I went to school on Nogal Mesa for a year or two.

About 1906 my dad bought the old P. G. Peters place on Bonito. There had been a school there since 1900. In fact my mother went to school there. I think it was in 1885 or 1884. At that time there was an old log school house. About 1900 P. G. Peters and others got together and built a public school house. I remember going to school there. We had a professor there by the name of Harper. He was a very good schoolman but was high tempered. There were about 90 or 100 students in that little schoolhouse. He taught every thing from high school down to the smallest class. He could give one class their spelling, history to their reading and put some work on the blackboard all at the same time.

I remember one time he slashed me with a switch and I laughed about it. Then he punched me with the sharp end of it and told me next time it wouldn't be so funny, that he might lose his temper.

SPARED NOT THE ROD

Then after he got through thrashing me he walked by Ernest Burt, who instead of putting his arithmetic on his slate was drawing pretty pictures on it. The teacher jerked the slate out of his hand and broke it over his head. Ernest jumped up and knocked Harper down, tore his shirt off and banged his head against the floor. The director tried to iron things out and it was agreed that Ernest could remain in school if he would keep his hands off the teacher.

Elzy Perry and his three brothers went to school there at the same time I did, about 1906. I guess. The younger boy, Lewin, and Harper had a bet to one day. Lewin got him down upon the platform, grabbed him by his ears and beat his head against the floor until old Harper would yell "call rope."

The old professor left Angus and the last we heard of him he went to Florida where the parents were supposed to be a little more civilized and a little more up to date. He almost beat one of their youngsters to death and they sent him to the pen for it. That ended his school career.

I remember going to a Christmas program there. I believe that was in 1903.

World War I came along before I had finished school. At the time the war started I was going to school in eastern Pennsylvania. I wanted to enlist back there, but I didn't find what I wanted. I came home after that term of school in Pennsylvania. I got home in June and in July I enlisted in the Marine Corps. I was sent for basic training to Mare Island, Calif. and then we got ready for overseas duty. I was sent to Quantico, Va. They wanted fellows with a little bit of schooling for commissioned officers, so I joined the first Marine Officer Training Camp, at Quantico. After six or eight months I got my commission as second lieutenant and was assigned to the rifle range to try to teach rookies how to shoot. I had been on the rifle range only a short time when the war was over. I got

Second Ticket Files For Town Offices

Carrizozo voters at the April 3 municipal election will have a choice of two complete tickets. With the filing of his candidacy by Juan Martinez, trustee, all the town board, whose terms expire, are seeking re-election. They are Marvin H. Roberts, mayor; Clifton E. Zumwalt, trustee and Juan Martinez, trustee.

A second group, called the Peoples ticket, filed for municipal offices on Monday. Their candidates are: Wayne Withers for mayor; Leandro S. Vega and L. Z. Manira for trustees.

For police magistrate of Carrizozo, Clarence E. Shaw, incumbent, is opposed by John Mackey.

Carrizozo voters will be asked to approve a bond issue of $165,000 for a new sewer system and disposal plant.

Coronians will vote on a bond issue in amount of $50,000 to be used in constructing a water system.

In Capitan, Mayor D. O. Murphy is unopposed for re-election, as are Fletcher Hall Jr. and Virgil Hall for councilmen (4-year terms) and William L. Holmes, councilman for the unexpired two-year term.

Capitan's voters will ballot on a general obligation bond issue of $85,000 to bring soft water from Eagle Creek into Capitan.

In Ruidoso, a Citizens ticket for mayor and council is unopposed, but three have filed for police judge. Dr. D. E. Snyder is a candidate for mayor and Jack Little, Jack Hitchens and T. B. Hood for trustees. For police judge the three candidates are incumbent C. D. Weems, Herbert Smith and Earl Strachan.

Ruidosos will also vote on a water bond proposal, amounting to $350,000 for an Eagle Creek pipeline and to expand their present water works system.

In Tularosa, G. L. Swanson and Alton Cooper will oppose incumbents Richard Gutierrez and Ernest Bookout for city councilmen. Up until Tuesday no one had filed in opposition to Mayor Walter Ray.

word that I was needed at home, so I got my discharge and returned.

After I went back home I thought I wanted to farm but it was not very glamorous farming with a team of old horses and so I decided to use the little bit of schooling I had. I took the State Teachers examination, got a certificate and started teaching school. I taught in White Oaks for a year and then I took a lot of correspondence courses that summer and that fall I taught in Lincoln.

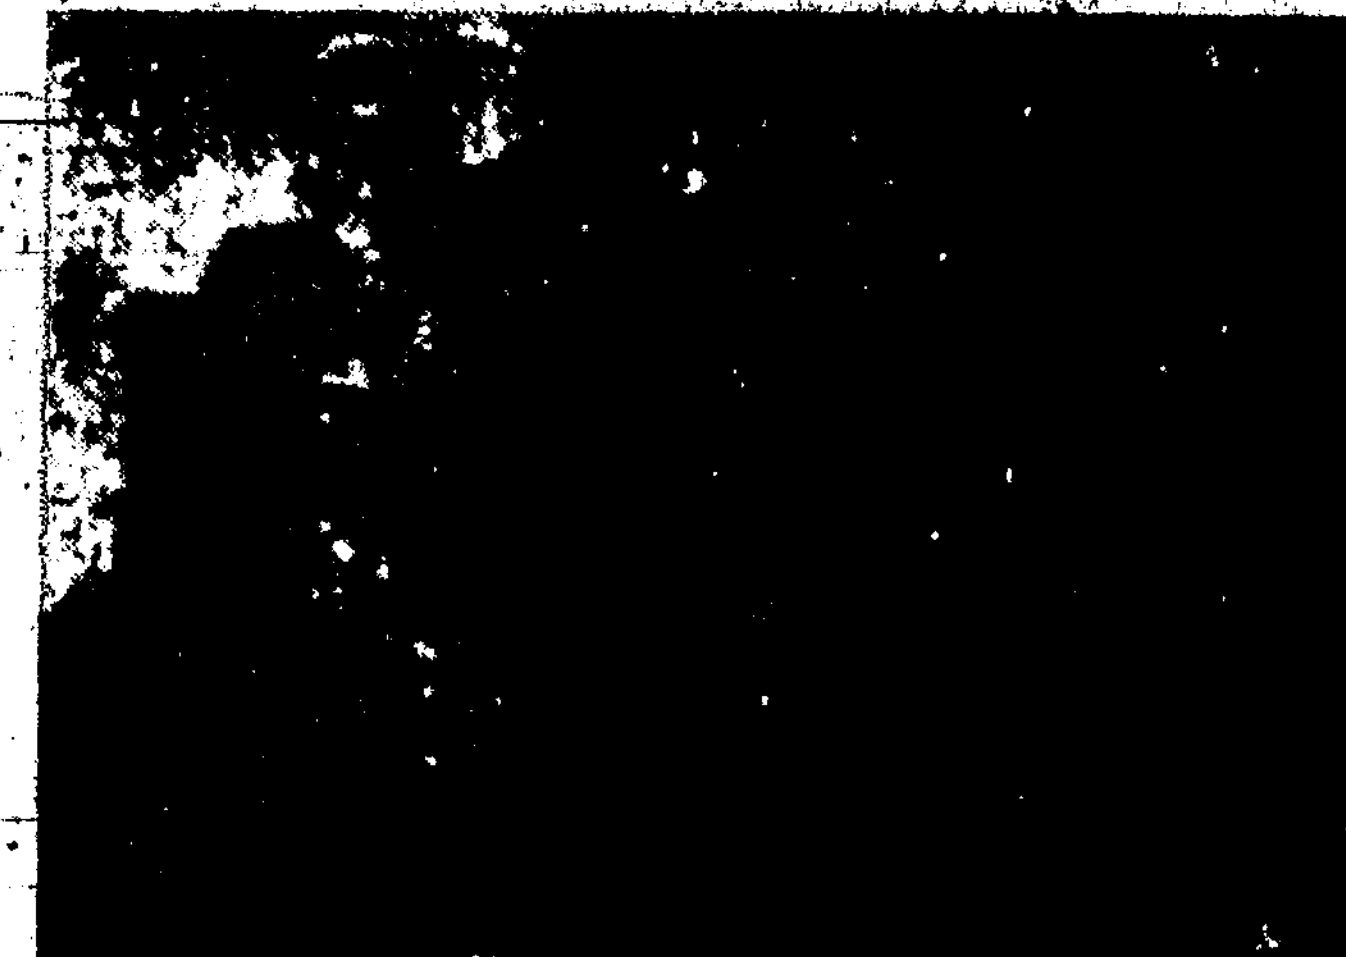

While I was teaching in Lincoln I took the forest rangers examination and passed the Civil Service examination and was assigned to the Carson Forest in 1923. I worked there for a year and then was transferred to the Santa Fe. I stayed on the Santa Fe until 1923. In 1923 I came back and started working for the railroad company and worked for them until Dad's death in 1933. Then I took over as farm superintendent for Bonita Farms and operated them for the Southern Pacific until the time of the sale which was in October, 1933. I didn't get fired, I just bought my job.

The railroad bought all of these farms down here, more or less to acquire the title to all of the water of the Bonito; however they only had a permit for five second feet and to maintain their water right, the land below the Fort Stanton Reservation had to have the water applied to beneficial use on all acreage that they bought in order to keep the water right in good standing. Their operation was not really for the purpose of making money. Their farms down here were more or less of a white elephant. They had the operation but they would not put out any expenditures or improvements, just for maintenance. If anybody operated in the red, it didn't hurt anybody's head. Of course they were glad to see a fellow operate in the black but there wasn't any disapproval if you didn't.

There were several old home orchards, in fact, about every little place on the Bonito had a few old apple trees, pear trees and plum trees, but they had never been commercial and after ten years of begging I got the Southern Pacific Co. to plant 17,000 trees that we have now.

I made several trips to San Francisco and many in El Paso and at Christmas time would send as many oranges as I could think of in a box of apples. Mr.

Fire Equipment Rushed To Put Out Grass Fire

A grass fire burned an acre or more of the Merchant land in the Capitan Mountains Sunday morning. A call from Mrs. Bill Edgar brought the Volunteer Capitan Fire Department to the scene, and Forest Service equipment under the direction of Ed Guck, Paul Jones and Jim Robinson.

The grass burned close enough to the Edgar home to threaten its safety. The quick action of the two groups of firemen soon squelched the blaze. Mrs. Edgar graciously served the men coffee and doughnuts before they returned to Capitan.

Plans Discussed for Grasshopper Control

A meeting on grasshopper control is planned for the evening of March 26 in Capitan at the school, starting at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in grasshopper control is invited to this meeting. George Fulkerson and John Durkin will be at the meeting to explain the program costs and procedures.

Last year, the cost to the rancher was 20c per acre. To participate in the control program, the rancher must form a committee to "handle their money" put up in the program.

This meeting is being held to inform the ranchers and have them ready for control if the hoppers develop, and if the ranchers want it.

Early Morning Fire Damages Food Mart

Considerable damage was sustained by Food Mart in Carrizozo by a fire that was discovered last Saturday morning.

Orlando Lucero, 13, who was on his way to his father's barber shop at 6:45, saw smoke inside the building and ran home to phone in the alarm.

Origin of the fire was in a motor in a frozen food box along the east wall of the market. The box and its contents was destroyed, a hole burned in the floor, a portion of the market's wall blackened and vegetables and fruit in an adjoining case damaged. There was also smoke damage to the building and merchandise stacked nearby.

John Titch, Food Mart manager, estimated damage to merchandise alone will amount to several hundred dollars. A quantity of perishables was donated to the Lincoln County Hospital and to the school lunch programs of the Carrizozo school and St. Rita's.

For his promptness in turning in the alarm, Orlando was rewarded by a gift of $20 from the Food Mart management.

Plant to Treat Sewage Needed in Carrizozo

According to the State Health Department, Carrizozo is lagging behind other towns in providing needed sewage treatment facilities.

Within the past few years treatment plants have been built in Alamogordo, Socorro, Melrose, San Juan, Portales, Las Cruces and other towns.

A look at Carrizozo's overflowing tank and related ponds full of digesting sewage should convince anyone of the need. Summer will soon be here and with its advent will come the odors and the flies which always go with an uncontrolled sewage dump ground. Flies spread disease and odors are a nuisance, not to mention the effect they have on property values.

Sewage treatment is good business because it protects the health of the community. A sewer collection system will serve all of the people and not just the few who happen to live near the old sewer lines.

Carrizozo is an important crossroads on two major highways. It will become even more important and needs the facilities that go with a modern town. A "Yes" on the sewer bond issue will get rid of a stagnating sewage pond right on the town's doorstep.

"I know the people of Lincoln County will come through and reach the goal," Mrs. Charles A. Jones, county chairman said, adding:

"It will not be possible to contact everyone in the county. Those who have not been contacted by local fund chairmen may send their contribution to me and I will give their community credit for it."

A year's membership in the Red Cross costs only $1.

Fiesta Feature of Pan-American Day At Hondo School

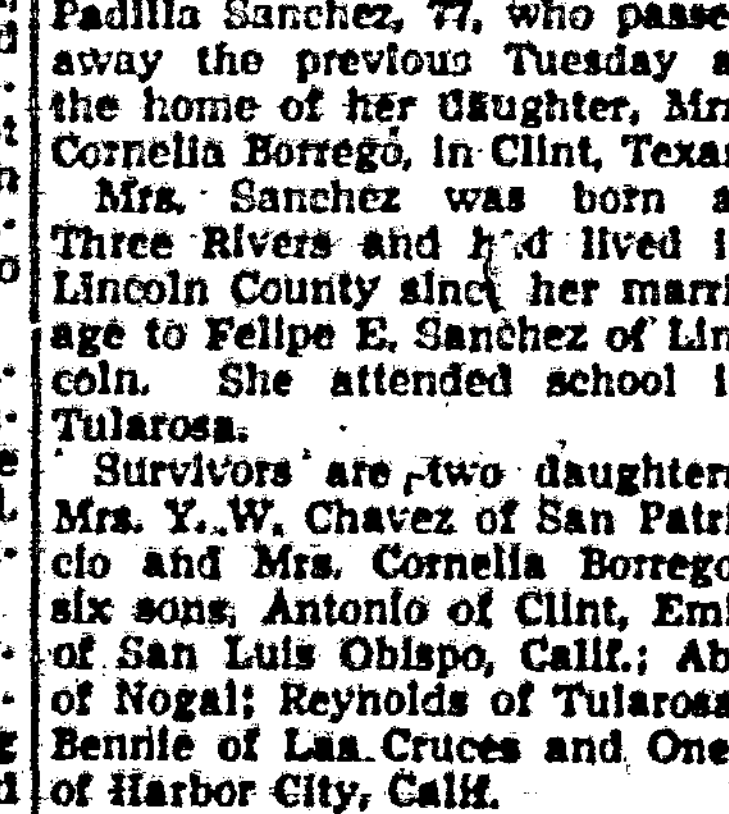

Preparations for the Hondo High School Fiesta are well under way for the observance of Pan-American Day on April 14. The celebration will feature a repertoire of dances and an original skit, La Fiesta del Rancho Grande, by Superintendent and Mrs. F. S. Montes.

The setting of the fiesta is at the rambling ranch house of the Aragon's territorial New Mexico during the last quarter of the nineteenth century, and the story centers around a traditional birthday celebration of a young girl whose identity will be withheld from the public until the announcement of the Fiesta Queen later in the evening.

The evening's entertainment begins with a serenade to the young girl and preparations for the fiesta to follow, the servants furnishing the comedy situations.

The entertainment will feature songs which include the well-known Mexican tune El Rancho Grande, and a narrator explains in detail the events as they take place. The dances are under the direction of Mrs. F. S. Montes.

Federal Agency Heads View Soil Conservation Work

Members of various agencies in New Mexico of the United States Department of Agriculture met in the County Commissioners room in the Courthouse in Carrizozo Monday morning. They discussed work of the agencies and problems in assisting ranchers to improve the management of their grazing units.

It was the first agency coordination meeting on soil and water conservation ever held in New Mexico.

The following agencies were represented:

Forest Service—N. H. Buck and W. L. Hansen of Albuquerque; D. D. Cutler of Alamogordo.

Farmers Home Administration—Carroll J. Shafer and Robert D. Marshall of Roswell; Henry A. Pahn and B. B. Atchley of Albuquerque. Mr. Atchley was moderator of the discussion.

Bureau of Land Management (an agency of the Department of Interior)—John R. Killough of Las Cruces; Claude Martin of Roswell.

Soil Conservation Service—A. T. Pfingsten of Hondo; D. A. Giles of Carrizozo; S. H. Fuchs of Capitan; G. L. Beene of Artesia and R. A. Young and Ray C. McDaniel of Albuquerque.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation—Herman McKibben of Carrizozo.

Mr. Atchley stated that the purpose of the meeting was to bring together all agencies interested in soil and water conservation and also to discuss the problems of borrowing Federal funds for these uses.

Mr. Pahn pointed out that the FHA was interested in the operator and the land. "Funds are available for loans," he said, "if the land has not been improved as a result, then its purpose has been lost."

There was a discussion on mesquite and brush control, permissible loans on leased lands, association type loans (those made for pipelines and SCJ equipment), and loans to sub-marginal operators.

It was brought out that the weakest link in America's agricultural picture is the number of farms on which people cannot make a living. An attempt is being made by the Department of Agriculture to assist sub-marginal operators in reorganizing their operations to get back on a self-supporting basis.

PARTY LEAVES ON TOUR

Following lunch, members of the agencies left on an afternoon's tour through White Oaks to the Crenshaw ranch. There they viewed the recovery of grass on an area where brush had been removed by cabling, at a cost of $3 an acre.

The itinerary was north thru the National Forest on which juniper can be controlled profitably. It was also noted that rotation and deferred grazing would be desirable. A visit was made to the H. S. Foster headquarters. A stop was made at the Wilson Allotment which covers an area of 15,000 acres, on which it is estimated that juniper control could profitably be done on 3,000 acres. Opportunities for juniper control were also pointed out north of the Jearilla store and in the Jacks Peak area. In the vicinity of the Capitan Mountains many patches of cactus were observed which reduce the carrying capacity of the range.

After passing the Capitan Divide the party entered the Hondo Watershed Project and the area within the National Forest which has been treated under this project to control floods and improve the watershed; also spreader dams and contour ditches to divert water out of gullies and away from head cuts.

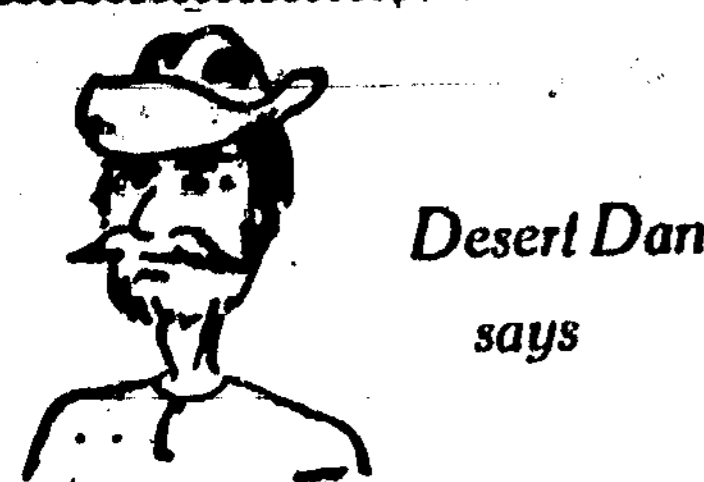

The party then returned to Carrizozo. Tuesday's itinerary was a visit to the Upper Hondo Watershed Protection Project, under the guidance of Archie Fuchs.

The tour was through a portion of some 13,000 acres of National Forest land that had been treated. The total cost of this work has been $3.40 per acre of land actually treated and $2.70 per acre for total acres (54,000) affected.

It was pointed out that there are privately owned lands intermingled with the forest lands. In most cases the privately owned lands were not treated and it was noted that the runoff from last summer's rains was rather severe, whereas on the treated areas on the forest there was practically no evidence of flooding.

Juniper eradication work on the Ralph Pearson ranch was viewed; also spreader structures on the Bancroft Ranch and brush cabling operations, and gully plugging on other ranches. Mr. Grantham was praised for doing a good job of range management.

The tour returned to Capitan for lunch, and ended following a question and answer period and further discussion.

PICKETT FORCING SIMMS SUPPORT

SANTA FE, March 14 — Seven-Foot Pickett's challenge of Gov. John Simms for nomination for governor has had the effect of pulling the Demo politicians together behind the young governor.

Scores of the political crowd that make a living off the Democratic party who were bitterly denouncing Simms a short time back are now pulling for his renomination. They fear that a victory by the tall corporation commissioner in the May primary would either lead to defeat of the party in the November election or a revolution in the party in the event of a November win.

The pull-out of the politicians shouldn't be too discouraging to Pickett. He should have expected it after his frequent statements lambasting the party organization. He is apparently risking his $750-filing-fee on a popular vote outside the political organization.

BLOCK IN TROUBLE, OLD ONES CHALLENGE

The governor run, as usual promises to headline the campaign but there should be some excitement in a couple of other spots. Incumbent Corporation Commissioner John Block is best by six seeking his place with a couple of former state Demo chairmen looking like serious contenders.

They are Rex Meador, 1953 chairman, and the old political maestro Ray Rodgers who was not only chairman but twice state school superintendent, twice state treasurer and twice land commissioner.

Block, Rodgers and Meador seem to be out in front at the start with a barking pack behind including Evelene Robinson of Los Alamos, Dave Calderon of Roswell, Floyd Cross of (ugh) Truth or Consequences, and Dee Sturges of Albuquerque.

DICK ROBINSON RUNNING HARD

Closest race on the program promises to be Atty. Gen. Dick Robinson's efforts to beat either John J. Dempsey or Antonio Fernandez for one of the two congressional places. And there are three head-and-head contests in which the winners haven't yet shown their speed. They are John Miles and Murray Morgan for land commissioner—Miles looks like the favorite but it's too early to bet; Lt. Gov. Joe Montoya and Tim-

MONEY AND BANKING In Everyday Living

MANY AUTO COLLISIONS during the winter months are the result of ice over windshields. To spare your car an unnecessary trip to the repair shop, observe these cautions, say safety experts. Have defroster checked periodically, coat your windshield with glycerine, to help keep it ice free; remove all except official stickers from the windshield; and when you're parking during a hail storm, cover the windshield with newspaper.

"STOP, THEFT!" is an old, old cry, used in pursuit of an evil doer. "Stop payment" is a modern order used as a roadblock for one's own could be costly errors. On an evil doer. If a checking depositor at our bank drawing a check on his account and it is lost or stolen, he can issue a "stop payment order." A written notice describing the check fully and instructing us to refuse to pay it. This is just one of many features that make paying by check the safest way to handle everyday money transactions. Why not open a checking account yourself, with us?

WHAT IS IT? It's a place where you can keep your money safely, and through which you can transfer it conveniently; a place where you can borrow, when that will be helpful; a place where trained people put their skills and experience to work for you, and their personal interest into helping you with your personal and business plans; a place where courtesy is the rule, and a sincere effort is made to give careful attention to the attention to the needs of all.

What is it? A bank, of course; our bank—make full use of it!

WHISKY BEFORE BREAKFAST

In the early days when White Oaks was a lively gold mining town, cowboys would ride in to spend their money on poker and whisky. D. L. Jackson, who has lived in White Oaks 53 years, remembers seeing cowboys standing in front of saloons early in the morning while he was on his way to work in a mine. The cowboys were waiting for the saloons to open.

"Why don't you eat breakfast before drinking whisky?" Jackson would ask the cowboys.

The cowboys would reply: "We drink coffee on the range. We want whisky when we're in town."

PROUDEST BOY IN THE WORLD

One day as D. L. Jackson of White Oaks was going into a saloon in Carrizozo, a small boy stopped him. The boy told Jackson that Charlie Siringo was in the saloon. He had just read a book by Siringo and wanted to meet him.

Jackson told Siringo about the boy and then asked: "Will you kneel down and put your arms around that boy and tell him how glad you are he liked your book?"

The cowboy detective gladly went out to see the boy, and he did put his arms around the youngster and tell him he was sure happy the boy liked his book.

"I saw the youngster walk away the proudest boy in the world," Jackson said.

How Alamogordo Got A New Fire Department

Frank Rolland became chief of the Alamogordo Volunteer Fire Department when it was reorganized by public demand years ago.

The department had become more of a social club than an organization for the serious business of fire fighting. The dissolution and replacement of the department began with plans for a show to make more money than the department had made from parties. The show was put on, and the result was a deficit instead of the profit the firemen had expected. They were peeved.

The firemen's mistaken notion that they owned the apparatus and could do what they wanted with it was the second and final step in replacing the department.

Shortly after the unprofitable show a building caught fire. The firemen responded as usual to an alarm. They laid the hose correctly but instead of turning the water on the fire they let it run down the street.

Action had to be taken or the building would burn. Rolland said he got together a bunch of strong men, and in a fight they wrestled the hose from the firemen and put out the fire.

The public was up in arms over the incident. A group of citizens asked the sheriff to take custody of the fire equipment. Then they telephoned District Judge Medlar, who lived in Otero district, but was holding court in Roswell, and asked him about organizing a new department. The judge told the citizens to go ahead.

Dr. J. R. Gilbert said to Rolland: "Frank, if you'll take the chief's job, I'll take the chairmanship of the Citizens Committee, and see we don't go to jail."

Alamogordo got a new volunteer fire department.

LOST BOYS AND A FIRE BELL

Many years ago in Alamogordo Murray Morgan and a nephew got lost. When darkness came, and the boys had not returned, it was decided a big search party was needed.

Someone suggested ringing the fire bell to get together a search party. Then, another said it would be better to ask the mayor first about ringing the bell. Still another thought it would be best to ring the bell and then ask the mayor. Meanwhile, the boys were found.

Then the bell was rung to call in the other searchers, Frank Rolland said. An old man came downtown and asked where the fire was. He was hopping mad at the idea of ringing the bell and getting out the whole town when there wasn't a fire.

Tomorrow's Sheep May Have Clean Face, Smooth Body

Wrinkle-bodied and woolly-faced sheep in feed lots and on ranges in the United States may one day be a thing of the past. These two characteristics have long been liabilities to the sheep industry in the United States where meat production is the major objective.

The upshot of breeding without these characteristics will be greater profits and better production efficiency.

Progress in improving the smooth body and open-faced characteristics in new lines has been encouraging, according to researchers at USDA's Sheep Experiment Station at Dubois, Idaho, and the Idaho Agricultural Experiment Station. Scientists say they have gone about 90% of the way in removing skin folds and wrinkles from selected fine wool Rambouillet rams and ewes being used in the Dubois experiments, and 50% of the way in eliminating wool blindness.

In several years of comparison trials at Dubois, open-faced sheep have proved better meat producers than wool-blind ewes of the same breed kept in the same flocks. Smooth skinned sheep also offer advantages. They are easier to shear and produce longer staple (higher value) wool than wrinkled animals. Open faced, smooth lambs are preferred by feeders, and packers often pay less for wrinkled lambs because of their heavy pelts.

Wool-blind sheep may have difficulty in finding all the feed they need on western ranges, where grass is sometimes scarce. They usually produce fewer lambs per ewe, weighing less at weaning, than open-faced sheep. Production of open faced ewes at Dubois has averaged about 75 pounds of lambs per year — 11 pounds more, liveweight, than wool blind ewes.

Sheepmen in the western range area generally figure that it takes the first 50 pounds of lamb an ewe produces to pay production costs. Since a wool-

New Wool Program Simplifies Payments

Sheepmen will get simpler and better incentive payments under the pulled provisions of the new wool program. Beginning April 1, payments under the wool program will be changed so that each producer who sells unshorn lambs will be eligible for payment of the weight of his fat and feeder lambs next fall.

Lamb feeders also will receive a payment for the weight-increase of the lambs while he owns them. Anyone who owns lambs for 30 days or more will share in this government support payment. Under the program now in effect (1955 lamb crop) payments are made only on animals marketed for slaughter.

The new provision boils down to this: The original grower will now be eligible for a payment based on the full live weight of the lamb at the time he sells it. Each subsequent owner will be eligible for a payment only on that part of the weight produced during his ownership (at least 30 days.)

The same requirement for the coming marketing year also provides that payments will be made which have No. 1 pelt (wool at least 1 1/2 inches in length.)

Lambs bought before April 1, 1956 and marketed later will be paid under the old formula of full live weight at the time of sale for slaughter. They will still require slaughter house certification.

Payments on 1955 wool and lamb will be made some time this summer. All claims should be filed with the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. The county extension office will assist you if more information is needed.

Some 65 million Americans who get sick are cared for at home every year by Red Cross trained home nurses.

blind ewe, on the average, weans only about 64 pounds of lamb, the grower's net return is 14 pounds. Open-faced ewes, weaning an average of 11 additional pounds of lamb, yield a net return to the grower of 25 pounds, fully 78% more than wool-blind ewes.

Soil-Testing Program For Pecos Valley

Soils problems in the Pecos Valley are in for a licking, according to the three-way cooperative plans of Chaves and Eddy County farmers and New Mexico A&M College.

Here's how the plans have shaped up so far: Realizing the need for chemical testing of soils in their areas, Chaves County farmers formed the Farmers' Soil Laboratory, Inc. a few weeks ago. They raised money to equip a laboratory and employ a full-time chemist to analyze plants and soil samples which farmers submit.

At the same time, the A&M College was developing plans to increase soil testing and fertility demonstrations for farmers throughout the state. The plans of the Farmers' Soil Laboratory, Inc., and the plans of the board of directors of the Pecos Valley Farm Planning Association all seemed to dovetail. So the three organizations joined hands to give better service to farmers in both counties.

Then New Mexico A&M College offered to help out by setting up a demonstration and field evaluation program in cooperation with the substation at Artesia. An extension worker, with headquarters at the substation, will help farmers to check laboratory recommendations under actual farm conditions. Chaves County Agent Al Woodburn and Eddy County Agent Richard Marek will work closely with this program.

"This cooperative effort is an outstanding example of how farmers can work together to solve their problems," says Dr. R. A. Nichols, dean and director of agriculture at A&M. "We've made real progress in getting together in our attack on the difficult soils situation in Chaves and Eddy counties and similar work is planned as needed throughout New Mexico."

Interest in soil testing has increased rapidly throughout the state in recent years, according to Dr. Nichols. The college will expand its soil-testing service as quickly as funds permit.

Effective March 31, Mrs. Virginia Coker, county home demonstration agent-at-large in Otero and Lincoln counties, is leaving the Extension Service.

Kennecott's Earnings, Production Up in 1955

New York — The 1955 annual report of Kennecott Copper Corporation, released last week, shows an 18% increase in the company's copper production over its output in 1954. This amounted to 526,715 tons in 1955, compared to 447,079 tons produced in 1954.

Consolidated net earnings of the corporation rose from $77,806,288 in 1954 to $125,516,291 in 1955. Net income per share in 1955 was $11.60, compared to $7.20 a share the previous year. There was distributed to stockholders $7.75 a share, compared to $6 a share in 1954.

Pointing out that the current high price of copper and interruption in supply have stimulated consumers' efforts to find satisfactory substitutes, Charles R. Cox, president stated, "Both management and labor should recognize the need for continuous operation of copper producing properties in order to discourage substitution."

As to the outlook for 1956, Mr. Cox commented, "The demand for copper remains unchanged and we expect a good demand throughout the year."

It was only a day or two until it was turned up that he had not been registered in the Democratic party long enough to qualify for the primary—four months instead of the 13 months required.

He said that he had always "thought he was a Democrat" but investigation shows that he first registered in Santa Fe county in January, 1952, as a Republican; in October of that year he transferred to Eddy county and registered as Republican and it was not until October, 1955, that he registered in Santa Fe as a Democrat.

turn the case over to the attorney general and the district attorney for prosecution. The law says they shall proceed against any who swear to false claims in filing for the primary on felony charges.

What has the other parties worried is another law that holds penitentiary consequences for any who conspire to commit a felony. That means that any who might have made a deal with this man Smith might be subject to the same kind of prosecution if Smith should be found guilty.

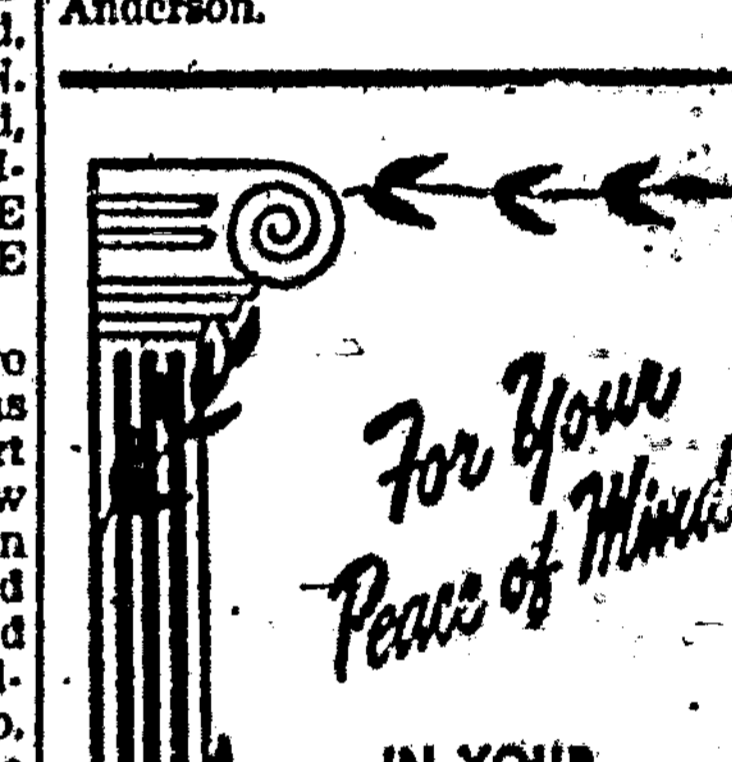

MECHEM RUNNING FOR A LONG TIME

Edwin L. Mechem (that "L" stands for Leard, Ed's mother's maiden name) is playing for the rubber game in his 1956 chase for the governorship—four out of seven.

It's not generally known but Mechem, who is commonly thought of as a non-political type, is in his seventh campaign for public office and so far has won three and lost three.

It started in 1940 when Ed tried for district attorney and lost to Martin Threet 7249 to 8707, a margin of 1458. All three counties of the district, Dona Ana, Lincoln and Otero, supported Threet. Next it was for state representative from Dona Ana in 1946 in which Mechem beat Demo Jack Robinson by a margin of 14 votes.

His next run was again for district attorney in 1948 in which he lost to Tom Campbell 6617 and 8816 and again losing all three counties of the district. From there he went in for governor in 1950 winning handsily from John Miles and carrying almost all the counties in his 1952 run for reelection. His sixth foray into the election field was the 1954 challenge of Clint Anderson for the Senate which was all Anderson.

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

A Truth or Consequences resident would like to see the National Safety Council close up shop and go out of business. In a letter to the El Paso Times he expresses his resentment at the statistics published by the Council, calling public attention to the number of highway deaths that have occurred over the past holiday week-ends, and estimating the number of people who will probably lose their lives in highway tragedies in the approaching drivers' holiday. His letter stated in part:

"I am as much concerned about the mayhem taking place on our highways as anyone. As long as one innocent person is murdered it is one too many and of course, produces tragic results. It is because of my interest in said mayhem that these remarks are directed toward an organization which is known as the National Safety Council.

"I do not know who these gentlemen are, or how they attain their positions, but it is my firm opinion, that far from being a deterrent to highway fatalities, they are definitely a contributing factor.

"This outfit reminds me of the parents of a spoiled brat whose only attempt at discipline is a constant yanking. Junior, don't hurt yourself. Of course Junior pays no attention and in time develops into quite a stinker. But don't forget this—he got that way BECAUSE of this completely wrong approach AND the incessant yammering at him."

We don't know the frame of mind of the writer of the above letter, but apparently he is one who resents any kind of advice, however good it may be. The National Safety Council and its affiliated organizations over the nation are purely educational. Their purpose is to save lives and undoubtedly thousands of people are living today because they have been alerted to the dangers of driving over highways crowded with week-end motorists. Most highway tragedies could have been prevented. The driver might have been going too fast, driving an unsafe vehicle, made a miscalculation or dozed at the wheel. Safety councils save lives through their programs of driver education. As far as Junior is concerned, he doesn't become a "stinker" merely because his parents caution him to be careful. Parental concern for their offspring and guidance, on the other hand, may keep Junior from falling into any one of a number of dangerous practices, such as careless handling of automobiles and firearms.

Editor News: "This letter should have been written a month ago, but if you are still sending the News to Albany, N. Y., please change the address back to Los Angeles.

Unfortunately, I still feel pretty much the same about Los Angeles. Consequently, I look forward so much to the day when your paper arrives with news from "home." I truly and going to miss the next big voting. I'm living next door to the place of voting. I noticed that the enthusiasm on the part of all voters was genuine, which I thought was wonderful.

Al will get his master's degree next January if he decides to go on for the Ph.D. He will have to spend three more semesters. I don't relish the thought of staying here for another year and a half, but the degree would mean so much to him. The title (unfortunately, in these days) would benefit him far more than the added schooling. When he does finish schooling, he plans on returning to Las Cruces and going to work at White Sands Proving Grounds. They have kept in contact with him and want him to return there. He was happier at White Sands and Oscura Range Camp than he was at McDonnell or is at Hughes.

Susan Lee is getting to be quite a girl. We were in Carrizozo for just two days recently. I stayed with Mrs. Farris and spent most of the time I was there just "chatting."

That's about all from the "only natural gas chamber in the world."

Mrs. Louise Coe Gives Description Of European Tour

By CLARA BAKER

Mrs. Louise Coe gave a most delightful talk on her European tour before a large attendance at the Carrizozo Woman's Club last Friday afternoon.

She first took her hearers aboard the SS Queen Mary and gave them a vivid description of life on a great ocean liner. Upon arriving in England she described the most interesting places visited in London, and then out into the peaceful countryside away from the big cities.

Mrs. Coe painted an entrancing picture of many other places she visited — France, Germany, Holland, Switzerland and Italy. She found people friendly everywhere, especially in Holland; in Switzerland, less so, perhaps because they have grown so accustomed to tourists through the centuries.

Mrs. Coe described the beauty of a rose festival in Geneva; the exquisite furnishings of a castle in Garmisch, Germany, and the canals and music of Venice. Here, she said, the finest orchestras vie with each other entertaining the public. Good music was found everywhere in Europe.

In contrast to America, Mrs. Coe found that people in Europe talk very little about war or the probability of war.

"Although I have made three trips to Europe," she said, "I still prefer Old Mexico. It has everything that Europe has and more." Her next trip abroad, she said, will be a visit to Russia, provided she can secure a visa.

Mrs. S. H. Nickels, club president, presided at a business meeting that preceded introduction of Mrs. Coe. Mrs. J. N. McDaniel read a most appropriate devotional for Easter time.

Pay Barnum, Carl Thornton and Pat White played a clarinet trio number entitled "Clarinet Polka," by Hummel.

From a beautifully appointed table, carrying out a St. Patrick's Day motif, refreshments of sandwiches, individual cakes frosted with green and white, salted nuts, mints, coffee and tea, were served by the hostesses, Mrs. R. E. Lemon, Kelley Stephenson, Roy Shafter, William W. Gallacher, C. E. Degner, C. A. Snow, E. M. Shafter, Pat Murphy and Mrs. S. H. Nickels.

Guests introduced were: Mrs. Austin Wooten, Tacoma, Wash.; Mrs. Conley Chappell, Mrs. Zela M. Lane and Mrs. Florence E. Wrigley, Alamogordo; Mrs. J. L. Black, Mrs. Roy Province, Mrs. Hunt Hobbs, Mrs. Howard Coleman and Mrs. George Titworth, Captain; Mrs. S. V. Clayton, Tularosa; Mrs. Edith Crawford and Mrs. P. M. Shaver, Carrizozo, and the guest speaker, Mrs. Wilbur F. Coe of Glencoe.

Miss Margo Duncan was toastmistress and introduced very graciously the members of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls. Miss Fern Sweet was the candidate for the degrees which were exemplified. Miss Marilyn Harkey played, "Missouri Waltz" as a piano solo; and the Misses La Verne McSmith, Mary Alice King, Faye Barnum and Fern Sweet sang "It Is No Secret" accompanied by Miss Glenda Sue King.

Miss Ruth Owens gave a talk on the meaning of Rainbow. After the meeting light refreshments were served in the dining hall.

Cattle Growers Meet in Duke City March 26 and 27

Albuquerque — Nationally prominent speakers and authorities on agricultural and public land problems are scheduled to appear before the 42nd annual convention of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association in Albuquerque, March 26 and 27, according to Sherwood Culbertson, Lordsburg, President.

"The many important problems today confronting the livestock industry, together with these speakers who are experts in their field lead us to believe that the convention this year will be one of the most important in history. Advance hotel reservations already made indicate that some 2500 ranchers throughout the state are planning to attend."

Heading the convention program will be Governor John F. Simms; Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Earl L. Butz, Washington D. C.; Assistant Secretary of Interior for Public Lands, Wesley A. D'Ewart, Washington, D. C.; Don Collins, President of the American National Cattlemen's Association, Kit Carson, Colorado; Carl F. Neumann, General Manager of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago, Illinois.

ALBERT T. PFINGSTEN

Fairbanks was superintendent of the Rio Grande division at that time. I got his sympathy on the deal, but it seemed the boys in San Francisco felt that, oh well, that's just another expenditure we don't need to make and wouldn't put up a fund for purchasing the trees.

Finally through Mr. Fairbanks and my hounding them we got them to set up and appropriate $17,000 to plant these trees in 1943 and 1953. We planted 17,000 of the four leading varieties of apples. They never did realize much revenue off the trees because they were too young. It takes ten years for an apple tree to come into sufficient bearing to pay its keep.
