FLOY SKINNER

Another incident that seems almost like a miracle happened during our right after World War I. My two brothers-in-law and I and our families went over to Elephant Butte dam to go fishing. We drove in at the dam and down to the water. I'd say the lake was about half full. We were fishing alongside of some foundations where there had been some machinery when a bunch of medical corps soldiers came in from El Paso. They made camp nearby. Not long afterwards three of them came over where we were fishing. They didn't say anything to us but they decided they'd swim over to the Butte.

One of the soldiers started out. He was a good swimmer and he got across to the Butte OK. The next one started out and he was getting along pretty well so the third soldier started out. He got out into the lake about 150 yards and began to holler for help. The middle soldier turned around and went back to him. When he reached him that fellow latched onto him, but he kept working him back and got within about 50 feet of shore when they both went down. We were standing there fishing, watching all this. "Boys," I said, "We must do something. Let's get them out of there. You boys get hold of me and I'll take the lead and go out to them and we'll drag them in." They said all right.

We had our ordinary clothes. I took the lead and went out and got hold of these boys and dragged them out on the gravel bank. We laid them on their stomachs with their heads down hill, pumped on them a little and brought them to. Finally this soldier on the Butte decided he'd swim back. When he got about half way he began to holler for help. I knew there wasn't a chance for us to get to him, but it was a miracle, we saw a boat coming around the bend. We waved our hats for them to come toward us and when they got pretty close we pointed to the soldier out there. They went to him, but they wouldn't let him grab the boat. They just told him to relax, turn over on his back and rest and they'd stay right with him. They soon had him on shore.

The soldiers stuck around for a few minutes and then got up and walked off without even saying thank you. I don't know who they were and don't to this day, but we saved two of their lives.

Another time my family and I, my son-in-law and daughter, went up to El Vado lake. We stayed overnight and camped close to the Chama River. The next morning Sam and I started fishing. We went around the bend where there was a big bluff and the water came straight to the edge of it. We put our bait cans down and began to prepare to fish. We noticed the water began to creep up on our bait cans and we moved them back a time or two. Then my son-in-law happened to look up the river and shouted: "There's a man coming down the river!"

Four men were fishing in the bend of the river across from me and I yelled to them: "Boys, there's a man in that creek. Let's get him out!" They didn't pay any attention - never quit fishing. Sam and I threw our poles down. This man was struggling against the current but it was too strong for him and carried him under the bluff. I waded out into the river to give him a hand when he came out from under the bluff. I don't know how I did it, but I managed to get hold of him and drag him back to the bank. The current was pretty strong and the rocks were slippery. We worked over him quite a while before help came, but it was no use. He must have drowned when the water took him under the bluff.

There was a lawsuit as the result of this drowning and I was called as a witness. They questioned me before we went into court. I told them I had been a water man all my life and dealt with water and I figured that they turned loose probably a couple of hundred second feet of water with no notice at all. The man had been fishing on a small island and the rising water swept him into the river. The suit for damages was settled out of court.

Another incident that seemed almost like a miracle happened after we moved to Nogal. One morning when I walked out into the yard I saw smoke across in the valley. It looked like it was Albert May's house. I jumped in my pickup and started over there. On my way I had to cross a creek and there was a little water in it. A couple of young

Baseball Program Gets Under Way

Fifty-three boys used the recreational facilities at the high school gymnasium last Monday and 31 lads have indicated an interest in the baseball program which got underway last Thursday afternoon according to John Voigt, city recreation director.

"We were very pleased with the interest the boys have shown thus far," Mr. Voigt stated and indicated that the gym is being intensively used during the hours of nine through five in the afternoon.

The gym is open each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from nine in the morning until five in the afternoon and closed during the noon hour.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays the gym is open at the usual hour of nine and the hours of one through three are set aside for girls only on these days.

Game facilities include badminton, basketball, shuffleboard, checkers and table tennis.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp baseball action gets underway for the lads from the ages of 8 through 18, who are still attending school.

Two teams were formed this week and Mr. Voigt stated that any boys who wish to be placed on a team contact him immediately in order to be placed on a team.

Any adult or high school graduate who wishes to coach one of the teams is urged to contact Mr. Voigt at the school.

The roster of the two teams, that have been named after the two veteran clubs of the 1933 World Series, are:

Yankees: Joe Beltran, Bill Nickles, Cosmo Gallegos, Robert Luna, Chino Lueras, Andy Lopez, Leo Chavez, Frank Gallegos, Joe Beltran, Robert Firman, Sunny Shrum, Larry Ortiz, Lucy Gallegos, Richard Lopez, Tommy Delgado, and Scott Lewis.

men—I think they'd been working for me on the pipeline—were down in the creek dipping up water into a tub.

I said, "Boys, there's a house on fire. Is there anybody in it?" They said, "Yes, there's somebody in there." "Well," I said, "Let's get them out." I dashed up to the house and jumped out of the pickup. The smoke was boiling out of the house from under the eaves and everywhere. I kicked in the front window and when I did that the flames came right out in my face. It was something awful. I ran around to the kitchen door and gave it a kick with all my might. I kicked the bottom out of the door and when I did that the window sucked the flames back and I could see a little child lying on its face just back of the door. I reached in and pulled the child out. It had a good many blisters and burns and had passed out. I told the boys "Take this child to the doctor as fast as you can go."

About that time the child's mother came back. She had been over to a neighbor's house talking to a lady and didn't know her home was on fire. She had left the child sitting by the stove looking at a catalog or something. The child's name was Margie May, Albert May's youngest daughter. She was about a year and a half or two years old. She got well and is married, now and I see her time and again.

Two minutes after I kicked that door open the house was gone. If I had been one minute later and hadn't kicked in the front window it would have been too late to save the little girl's life. The draft drew the flames away from her and gave her a little air. That was a miracle, as I saw it.

We did everything we could to help the family. We took a crew of men up there and put them up another house as good as the one that burned down. In a couple of weeks the family was living at home again.

When I was made foreman on the pipeline the company turned a pickup over to me and a gang of men. I've operated that pickup for 38 years without turning the car over or having any accident. That's a pretty good record for mountain driving—day and night, in rain and snow. I've met plenty of drivers that almost hit me, but I've always avoided a wreck.

(Next Week: Some incidents along the Bonita pipeline.)

Falling Tree Kills Logger on Capitan

Lloyd C. Harris, 41, a logger of Green Tree, lost his life Tuesday morning on the south side of Capitan Mountain.

A tree that he had felled, struck a dead tree, which in turn toppled on Harris. His back apparently was broken and he was dead on arrival at Fort Stanton hospital. The body was taken to the Ballard Mortuary.

The accident occurred at 8:30 in the morning, near the scene of a fatal accident April 16 in which Onis Reynolds was killed.

Mr. Harris was born in Stevens County, Texas. He had been associated in the logging and mill business with his uncle, Jess Harris of Green Tree, since 1923. He leaves a widow, Edith, a daughter Jennie 13 and a son L. C. Harris Jr., 11, of Green Tree.

An inquest was conducted in Capitan following the accident.

State Police Stepup Checks on Traffic

N. M. HIGHWAY DEATHS

To Date This Year	178
To Date Last Year	140

LINCOLN COUNTY

To Date This Year	3
To Date Last Year	8

Although the traffic death total in Lincoln County to date this year is a bright picture compared to the state as a whole, the enforcement of traffic laws has become more strict.

During the past week State Patrolman James Clayton has issued 12 separate citations to motorists for speeding, passing on yellow lines and reckless driving. It is a policy, he says, that will continue as a curb to the soaring traffic death toll in this state.

State Police Chief Joe Roach has handed down a tough list of "eight commitments" for traffic law enforcement, as outlined in an all points bulletin:

NO QUARTER FOR VIOLATORS
1. Give no tolerance to traffic violators.
2. If given an opportunity in any traffic court, recommend that the violator have his license suspended for at least 3 to 30 days.

3. In flagrant cases of traffic violations, if given an opportunity, recommend to the court a jail sentence, in addition to a full suspension of the license.
4. Irrespective of sentiment or emotions, file charges against drivers involved in accidents where there was an obvious violation.

5. In cases involving liquor, attempt to trace back to the tavern dispensary selling to a drinking driver the person responsible and file such information with the liquor bureau and the court against both the individual and the liquor license owner.

6. Use all facilities and competent manpower possible, in addition to the National Guard, in every community to get as many incompetent, irresponsible and erratic drivers as possible off the roads.
7. We find the three main driver faults are: Speed to crowd the most fun into the shortest time; drinking and driving; and impatience which leads to chance taking where there is congested delay.

8. Use discretion in every case handled, applying firmness and courtesy, but submitting no borderline cases.

Services for Victim Of Gun Accident

Mass was said at St. Patrick's Church in San Patricio Sunday afternoon for Bonifacio Trujillo, 11, who was killed by the discharge of a 22 rifle last Thursday afternoon at his home in San Patricio. Burial was in the San Patricio cemetery.

An account of the tragedy given the News is as follows: Arturo Trujillo, 14, his brother Bonifacio, and at least one other youngster were outdoors shooting at cans with a 22 rifle. Bonifacio and another youth said they were going swimming and walked away.

Arturo swung around with the gun and it discharged. The bullet struck the ground and ricocheted, striking Bonifacio in the back. A small part of the bullet entered the lad's heart and he died five minutes later.

Arturo became grief stricken and incoherent and had to be placed for the night in a padded cell in the new Alamogordo jail. His father, Victoriano Trujillo, returned the boy to the family home the next day.

Two new employees at the R-Bar Ranch at Nogal are Ab Burns, in charge of livestock, and Andy Anderson, who has charge of 100 acres under irrigation.

Trustees Adopt Bond Ordinance

At a special meeting last Friday evening the town trustees approved Ordinance 71, authorizing the issuance of sewer bonds. The trustees have been informed that the State Treasurer will purchase the bonds at 2 1/2% interest.

It was reported at the special meeting that progress is being made in securing a site for a garbage dump.

At their regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, the Carrizozo town trustees gave approval to the Lions Club to beautify the triangle park area across B Avenue from the Carrizozo hospital. This small plot, originally the gift of Henry Hoffman, could be made a place of beauty and usefulness in the town, the trustees were told. A delegation said the Lions Club proposes to plant flowers and grass and install benches, picnic tables and perhaps a small fireplace.

The trustees said they were in favor of anything that beautified the town and asked the club to present a detailed plan for their project.

The trustees approved building permits for: Alton Lenard ($2500) move government surplus house to lot west of Clyde Shultz residence. To Refugio Najer ($500) add room to dwelling. To Sabino Vidaurri ($500) repair front of store building. To Vincent Bell ($555) add two rooms to house.

In other council business the trustees accepted the resignation of Walter Mercer as town marshal.

Renewed the contract with the Southern Pacific to furnish clear ice in carload lots.

Voted to install 4-inch fire hydrant at corner of Drexel street and B avenue.

A property owner questioned the right of the town to charge for a meter and connections from the town's mains to his property line. It was brought out that such charge had been customary for some time.

A business man protested a water bill of $36, which indicated water usage for one month four times greater than the average over past months. Utilities Manager Weik was instructed to check the water meter for accuracy and also check other possibilities for waste of water.

The trustees had previously set aside $1,000 for repair of the streets.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Wayne C. Withers, trustees L. Z. Manire, R. L. Sherrill, A. T. Roberts, Town Clerk Johnson Stearns, Town Attorney H. Elfred Jones, and Mr. Weik.

Dedication Service Marks Installation Of Church Chimes

By ROSALIE DUNLAP

The Schulerich Carillons, recently installed in the Presbyterian Church in Nogal, were dedicated at a church service there Sunday evening.

The chimes are the gift of Col. Russell M. Riggins and Mrs. Riggins of Nogal and Houston, Texas. The chimes are automatic in operation and are set to ring out over Nogal morning noon and night. They have been heard as far away as the Nogal Mesa camp meeting grounds.

They were shipped from Schulerich Carillons, Inc., of Sellersville, Pa., the first part of May and arrived in Carrizozo May 24. Installation was by Mr. Faget of New Orleans. He is an engineer in the employ of the manufacturers. The chimes have a value of somewhat over $2,000.

On Friday, May 25, Mr. Faget installed the chimes. A battery was built to accommodate the four loud speakers. The player and automatic controls are in the church building almost directly below the belfry.

The chimes seem to bring us rain. It rained the day they were installed and again on Sunday, dedication day. They were first heard for Sunday School May 27, when open house was held.

Approximately a hundred and fifty people gathered outside the church early Sunday evening to enjoy a bounteous supper. The worship and dedication service followed. Church members and visitors were present from Capitan, Ruidoso, Carrizozo, Anecho, Corona, Nogal, Nogal Mesa, Fort Stanton, White Oaks, Roswell, El Paso and Albuquerque.

Rev. Bill Lytle took for his sermon the first of his series of talks on the Book of James.

Special music consisted of two numbers — a trio by Ted, Eva and Donna Zumwalt and a vocal and instrumental duet by Ted Zumwalt and Murray Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Evans of Ruidoso were present at the dedication and Mr. Evans was called on for a few remarks. "The gift of the chimes by Col. and Mrs. Riggins was a very beautiful thing for them to do," he said. He recalled that the first camp meeting on Nogal Mesa was held 16 years ago and he said that the people of Nogal had always been staunch supporters of the camp meetings.

He also told some of his experiences in starting new cowboy camp meetings and the powerful part that prayer had played in their success.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans are to leave soon for Colorado to start a new camp meeting at a site 65 miles from Colorado Springs.

Col. Riggins spoke briefly. He said it was a great pleasure for him and Mrs. Riggins to make this gift to the Nogal church. "Though we live in Houston," he said, "our hearts are in Nogal. We spend more and more time here each year and eventually hope to make this our permanent home."

Rev. Lytle said the church was deeply indebted to the donors of the chimes, also for the work of many people and many hands in the work of remodeling the building.

He expressed the wish that Rev. Markham, former pastor, and Mrs. Markham, could be present for the occasion.

The church is the former Nogal school house and is one of the oldest buildings in the community. It was built in 1837.

In the Litany of Dedication, the pastor read, in part: "To comfort the sorrowful and cheer the faint, to bring purity and

DELAY IRRITATES STATE SPORTSMEN

SANTA FE, July 3. — Sportsmen's groups are getting restless about the prolonged delay in filling two expired terms on the game and fish commission.

More than a year ago GPA groups were calling for a new member in the place of Angus Evans of Espanola whose term was up January 1, 1955. Now the appointment of a second member has expired, Chairman C. M. Botts of Albuquerque. His term ran out June 12 and there has been no indication of a successor for either Botts or Evans. The influential Game Protective Assn. has a policy against re-appointment of board members.

ALBUQUERQUE FAMILY HAVING BAD YEAR

The family Neal of Albuquerque is in an unlucky year. Husband Melvin was removed as county chairman and is now under a court deadline to pay the county for work done on his property by county employees. Wife Frieda was removed last week as a deputy collector of drivers' license fees. A bureau of revenue official said her books indicated a shortage of something less than the $10,000 surety bond by which she is covered.

DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR BARBER BOSS

No less than the regional chief of the barbers union, D. C. Long of Phoenix, has been picketing the Santa Fe barber shop of Bernabe Romero who for 21 years has been secretary and controlling member of the state barber board. A legislative committee, incidentally, has recommended repeal of the barber price fixing law which gives 75% of the barbers of each county the right to say what prices must be charged.

REPUBLICANS GAIN IN CAPITAL RUCKUS

Statehouse Democrats figure they lost ground in their ruckus with the Republican Gonzales family of Santa Fe. They complained and nagged at bureau of revenue officials to get rid of Martha Gonzales, a Republican on a $200 a month job, until she was finally fired June 1. Husband Ray Gonzales, a big fellow, called on bureau brass for an explanation and it appeared that Commissioner Mike Gallegos, Sales Tax Director Joe Callaway and Section Chief Pedro Gabaldon were in for skinned noses until Santa Fe police arrived. June 29 bureau of revenue workers were started to see a picture of Ray on the front page of the Santa Fe newspaper, showing him at work for the highway department getting ready for the big road program. The road office, they learned, had taken on their tormentor as a draftsman on June 25 at $345 a month.

LOTS OF MONEY AROUND SANTA FE

The Economic Development Commission which named a committee of five to look into the proposal for the merger of the state magazine with the privately owned Sun Trails paid one of the members, Fred E. Harvey, $500 for a chore. The state barbers board which like all other boards was required to fill out a questionnaire submitted by a legislative in-peace into human hearts, and to lead all who hear them in the way of eternal life." To this the people answered: "We dedicate these chimes."

The service was concluded with silent meditation while the chimes played a choral number "The Lord's Prayer."

Everyone left with a sense of well-being and spiritual inspiration. It will be a day long to be remembered by those who attended.

The manufacture of cement is apparently a long neglected opportunity in New Mexico. Since the announcement that the Kaiser company would build a cement plant near Mountainair (above), another company has said it will build a cement plant nearer Albuquerque and has suggested that an additional plant may be required.

In Everyday Living

THE OLDEST WILL we know of was chiseled on a stone about 2845 B.C. Considering the labor involved, it isn't likely that many changes were made! Nowadays it isn't so difficult for a man to change his will; and, according to experts in the trust field, it is often wise for him to do so, with his lawyer's help, as his family or financial change. In the best interests of those whom you would protect, advise these experts, review your will with your lawyer periodically.

happy vacations begin in a Chevy

You'll love to travel in it, because it loves to travel! When you get this Chevrolet out on the road, you'll want to keep going—and so will the whole family.

Of course, even in a Chevrolet the happiest vacations may involve one or two minor problems. Like fidgety small fry who want gallons of water and keep asking if you're almost there. The big things, though, are beautifully taken care of by this roomy Chevrolet's smooth and easy way of going. That's for sure.

The fact is, few cars at any price hold the road with Chevy's grace, with its solid feeling of stability. And with horsepower up to 225, Chevrolet moves out like a whip-lash, for safer passing. It's no wonder that so many people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet! Stop by soon for a ride.

AMERICAN'S LARGEST SELLING CAR—2 million more owners than any other make.

Only franchised Chevrolet dealers display this famous trademark.

FOLKLORE CORNER

By TED RAYNOR

(Editor's note: In the spring of 1919 Roy Tiley of Hillsboro, then foreman of the GOS Ranch in the Black Range, brought Ben Lilly, famous New Mexico hunter, to the ranch to hunt mountain lions with which the GOS was infested. Tiley became well acquainted with Lilly. These are stories about the hunter that he recalled.)

The Aspen Bark Check

Ben Lilly, once obtained a few necessary supplies from the fire guard at Reed's Peak Lookout in the Black Range. The guard did not want to accept any money, but Lilly insisted on paying. Lilly cut a piece of bark from an aspen tree and wrote out a check to the guard with an indelible pencil. The guard later cashed the check at the old Silver City National Bank in which Lilly had an account. Tiley once saw the check on display in the bank.

Never an Unkind Word

Tiley said he never heard Lilly speak an unkind word of anyone, although the hunter once became critical of bankers. Lilly had small accounts in 22 scattered banks in the Southwest. In 1922 when many banks closed, Lilly lost money in 13 of them. What the hunter said of the bankers was mild—he felt they should be punished.

THE BEAR DOGS

Lilly was guiding Teddy Roosevelt on a bear hunt in the Louisiana cane brake country. He knew a Negro who had unusually good bear dogs and he sent another Negro to see if the owner would loan his dogs for the hunt.

As Tiley recalls the story told by Lilly, it went like this: When approached by Lilly's messenger, the bear dog owner said: "I wouldn't let anybody have my dogs."

"Surely," said the second Negro, "you'd let Teddy Roosevelt, the President of the United States, use your dogs?"

Replied the bear dog owner: "I wouldn't even let Booker T. Washington have my dogs."

BARREL CONTEST

Lilly wore heavy shoes, and he made them heavier by knocking off the wooden heels and putting on pieces of iron. The iron heels were good for sliding down hills, the hunter said. But heavy as his footwear was, he could outjump the cowboys in the barrel contest.

The GOS bought salt in big barrels, at least three feet high. In the barrel contests, the idea was to jump in the barrel and then out of it. Tiley said the cowboys could jump into a barrel but none could jump out. But Lilly could jump in and out despite his heavy shoes and the fact that he was then well along in years.

A GRIZZLY HUNT

In later life Lilly became hard of hearing and when hunting chaimed a dog to him to be his "ears."

Lilly was on the trail of a wounded grizzly for the second day. He had trailed the bear to a cave, where he thought the animal would be, but the bear had left and the trail went into the tall timber. Near the end of the day, the hunter saw brush moving ahead of him.

Suddenly, the bear charged Lilly from the side. The hunter's dog lunged, Lilly wheeled, shot twice and killed the grizzly.

The grizzly measured 14 inches between the ears, and his back track was 14 inches. The hide was sent to Washington, and the report came back, Tiley said, that it was the biggest known grizzly ever killed. Lilly's monogram for his hunting horns consisted of a honeybee for B; a rattlesnake for his middle initial, V; and a Lilly for his last name.

PLACE NAMES

Sierra (County). "Saw." Applied in Spain to high, saw-toothed (serrated) mountains and appropriately conferred on our Southwestern ranges by the Spanish colonists, a term which has been taken over by the English language. It is also a family name. Nicholas de la Sierra, a native of Spain, lived at Guadalupe del Pazo in the middle of the 16th century, and moved to Santa Fe around 1763. Members of his family could be found both in the north and in the southern region of El Paso. Hence, the county name might well be derived from the family, if not directly from "mountain." (New Mexico Place-Name Dictionary)

Percha Creek (Sierra County). A creek flowing through Hillsboro. Spanish, "perch," or "piece of timber" to support anything. (New Mexico Place-Name Dictionary)

Jackling died March 13 at his home in Woodside, Calif. His work in mining low grade copper ore deposits made possible development of such operations as the Chino Mines Division of Kennecott Copper Corp. in Santa Rita and Hurley, N. M.

Like grandfather, Like father, Like son

In 1910, Daniel N. Morales started as a trackman at the Santa Rita Mine of the then Chino Copper Company. Today, as an electric shovel repair helper, he still is helping produce copper and helping the industrial growth of New Mexico. What started as a job 35 years ago, has turned into a career at Kennecott Copper Corporation's Chino Mines Division. And two more generations of the Daniel N. Morales family are following in his footsteps.

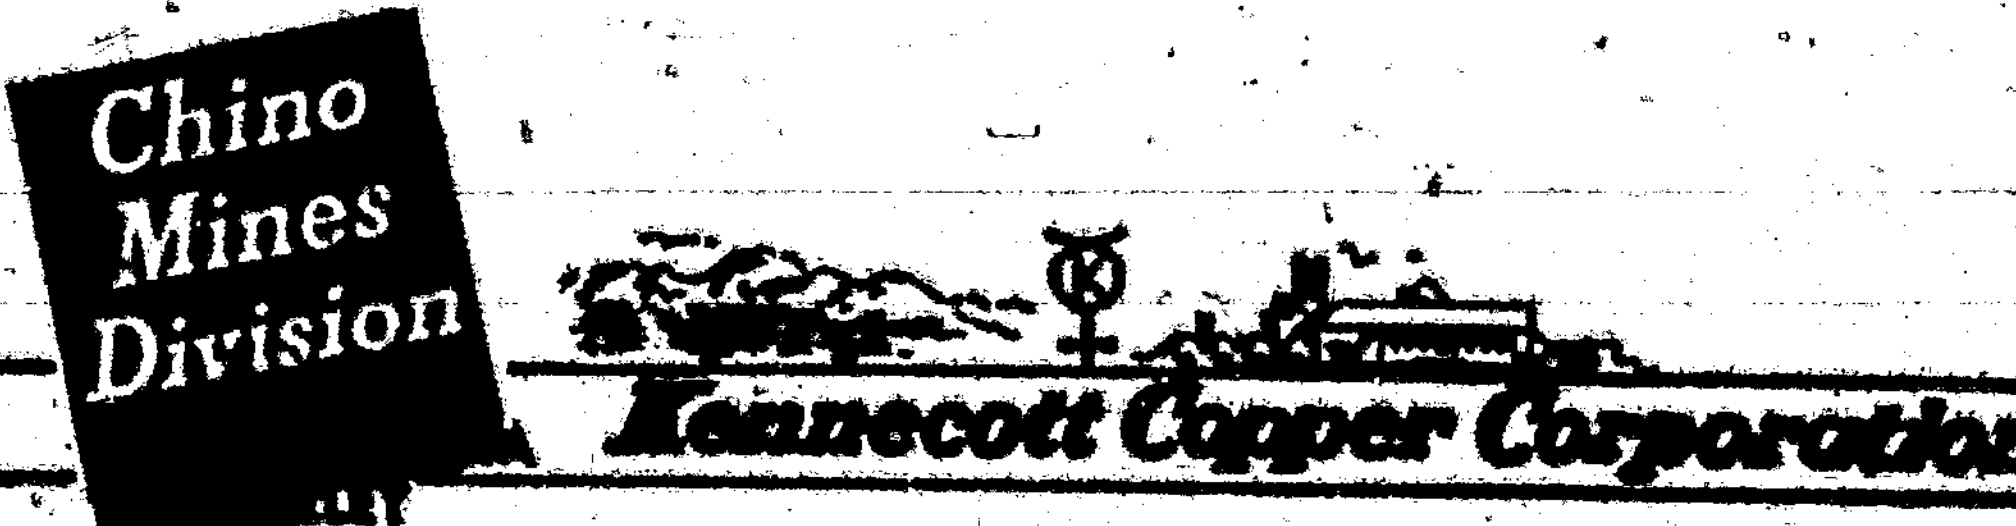

Three of his sons are now working for Chino. The eldest, Carlos D., joined the Kennecott family in 1936 as a trackman. Today, he is a triple valve car repairman. Jesus D. began his career with Kennecott in 1939 as a carpenter laborer. He is now a painter at the mine. The youngest son, Jose D., joined Kennecott's Chino Mines Division in 1941 as a trackman and is now a pumpman at the precipitating plant.

And Daniel N. Morales now has a grandson working for Chino. Daniel F. Morales started in 1955 as an electric shovel sampler.

The "like father, like son" history of the Morales family is repeated so often at Kennecott it can well be called a tradition. In all, 376 men and women at the mine, mill and smelter are children of current or retired Kennecott employees. And hundreds more are related in other ways—as brothers, uncles, nephews, cousins, and in-laws. This family allegiance to Kennecott tells only a part of the story of careers in copper.

Another chapter was unfolded a couple of months ago when Kennecott honored 19 employees who had completed 30 years of service and another 16 who had completed 20 years with the company. Of Kennecott's 2,500 employees in New Mexico, more than 300 have served 20 or more years, a total of more than 7,500 years!

With so many long-time employees and father-son teams serving Kennecott, it is not follow that the Kennecott tradition is careers, not just jobs.

The month of June brought visitors from 33 states and three foreign countries to Gran Quivira National Monument. The Seventeenth Century Spanish Missions and the Indian village site were viewed by 776 persons, representing an increase of 12% over June of last year.

The camp grounds were used by 246 picnickers and overnight campers according to Channing T. Howell, superintendent.

Soil Bank Agreement Forms Available at County ASC Office

The Lincoln County ASC office now has copies of the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve agreements available for signature by farmers wishing to participate in the program, according to R. Archie Perkins, chairman of the Lincoln County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

A short visit to the office will provide interested farmers with full information on terms and conditions of participation in the acreage reserve, which is the first part of the program to get under way this year.

"Growers interested in taking part in the acreage reserve have until July 20 to sign the Soil Bank agreements, designating the acreage of wheat (or other 'basic' crop) which they wish to include under the Reserve," Chairman Perkins says.

"But a farmer who has already planted his wheat crop and who wants to plow or cut it in order to reduce the acreage below the allotment may not have much time before the deadline for adjusting his acreage. In Lincoln County, the deadline is July 20, 1956. The agreement should be signed before the farmer does anything with his acreage."

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Byrnes of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, stopped in Carrizozo Monday en route from El Paso to Albuquerque. Mrs. Byrnes, before her marriage, was Eleanor Humphrey, daughter of Harry Humphrey, early day businessman of Carrizozo. Her father first came to Carrizozo in 1904 and later he and two brothers, Bernie and Will, established the Humphrey Feed Store. The business was later purchased by John Harkey and the original store building, across from the post office, is still in use. This is Mrs. Byrnes' first trip to Carrizozo since leaving here in 1926.

Under Section 40-18-8, N. M. Statutes 1953, the fine for the above misdemeanor, when prosecuted by the State, is not less than $100 nor more than $200, or imprisonment for not more than 10 days. Toy pistols, spark flares and colored flares are excepted from the ban on other types of explosive fireworks.

County Divisions for Census Purposes to Be Established in State

In a joint program with the State of New Mexico and each of its counties, the Bureau of the Census is establishing areas, known as "Census County Divisions," for use in statistical reporting. Similar areas were established in the State of Washington prior to the 1950 census, and since 1950 have been put into effect in seven other states, Oregon, Idaho, Georgia, Colorado, Tennessee, Kentucky and South Carolina.

Miss Lucille Koellne, a member of the census staff, is here from Washington to consult with county officials and solicit their advice in regard to the proposed areas for Lincoln County.

The proposed Census County Divisions should be particularly useful for local administrative purposes. The census county divisions generally have clear-cut boundaries which can be easily identified, and they are intended to remain as permanent areas. For the most part, they are based on the communities which serve as the focal point of each area. The statistical data for these divisions will assist users of census information to measure the sphere of influence exercised by such communities. It is believed that the census county divisions will be a handy tool for the use of county officials, local newspapers, and business and civic organizations.

Miss Koellne assures us that the county divisions set up by the Bureau of the Census will not interfere in any way with the use of existing county subdivisions.

For census purposes Lincoln County has been divided into five Census County Divisions, Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona, Hondo and Ruidoso.

Personal Income in Lincoln County Shows Increase Over 1954

Albuquerque—(Special)—Residents of Lincoln County received a total of about $11,419,000 in personal income in 1955, an increase of $511,000 over the previous year.

This is one of the highlights of a new 48-page study, "Income by Counties in New Mexico," published last week by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of New Mexico. It was prepared by Vicente T. Ximenes, Bureau research associate, and is being sold at $2 a copy to marketing experts, advertising agencies, national and state business firms, and others interested in income data. Copies may be ordered directly from the Bureau of Business Research.

The work was partially financed by the State Economic Development Commission under an agreement whereby the Bureau serves as the EDC's research division. Material from the new income study will be used by EDC to encourage investment in New Mexico.

The study points to the rapid economic advances made by New Mexico as a result of military and atomic projects, mineral development, and oil and gas production. It also stresses that businessmen should not generalize about New Mexico by merely considering statewide averages.

"You just cannot generalize very much about the state as a whole when per capita incomes vary from $351 in one county to $2,452 in another," Mr. Ximenes writes.

The study devotes a full page to each of New Mexico's 32 counties, and text material discusses even the variations within counties. Each of these pages includes a map, a chart which contrasts the county's main sources of income, tables on 1955 and 1954 sources of income, and a 300-word description of the county.

For example, the Lincoln County page contrasts 1954 and 1955 income as follows:

	1954	1955
Wages & Salaries	$7,343	$7,300
Proprietor Income	2,143	2,634
Property Income	630	941
Less: Contributions for Social Ins.	—112	—130
Total	$10,008	$11,419

Brown for Eddy county assessor is continuing as a state tax commissioner at $700 a month. Rex Meador, tax commission secretary at $700 a month, has entered a deal to sell the state a piece of property across the street from the capitol for $42,000. He bought the property February 29 and declined to say how much he paid. The sale proposal had been presented to the board of finance as a $21,000 deal. When that was noted a couple of weeks later it was explained as a stenographer's mistake.
