MRS. MAUDE BAILEY FRITZ

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

Tape Recorded Interviews With People Who Helped Build Lincoln County

My name is Maud Bailey Fritz. My parents were L. M. Bailey and Mary Bailey. I was born in Wichita, Kansas. My father was a government civilian blacksmith at Fort Sill. I came to New Mexico in 1880, crossing Indian Territory in a covered wagon to Las Vegas, New Mexico.

A government ambulance arrived in Las Vegas and they told my father he could have a job at Fort Stanton. The ambulance was to leave at six the next morning and if he wanted the job to pack up the family. We came. I think there was a paymaster with the ambulance.

One thing I remember about the trip from Fort Sill is that a horse was hurt and they had to kill it at a spring called Ocata. It was somewhere on the road to Las Vegas. The Lewis's joined our party there before we got to Las Vegas.

We stayed in Las Vegas until 1881 and moved to Fort Stanton in September. We went to Lincoln from Fort Stanton in 1886. Lincoln was having a boom at that time. About 18 families came and built houses. They were merchants, lawyers, and everything to make a town. Lincoln was quite a town in those days.

We got daily mail from San Antonio to Lincoln by stage. Ed Ozane had the mail contract. Two stages met in Nogal, one from White Oaks and one from Lincoln each day.

Boswell had four houses when we first came to this country. White Oaks must have been a pretty good sized place then. Later I went to school in White Oaks in 1882.

The stage from San Antonio came through to White Oaks. The stage brought the mail through Nogal, Fort Stanton and to Lincoln. That was the end of the line.

My father was a government civilian blacksmith. He got $60 a month and provisions. That was plenty at that time.

My husband was a nephew of Colonel Emil Fritz. My father-in-law's name was Charley Fritz. They moved to New Mexico in 1873 and located on the Spring Ranch below Lincoln. Colonel Fritz was a colonel in the California Volunteers.

I was seven years old when we moved to Lincoln. I was about 9 years old when I went to school there. My teacher's name in 1886, was Mr. Dessalu. Classes were taught in English. We had to learn our abc's—that was the way we started our learning.

I was taught by my mother when I was a child. I guess I was 9 when I started to school. My mother schooled me up to the third reader. They taught about six grades and we had six months of school. It was during the winter because I remember we had to wade through snow to get there.

There were schools at White Oaks, Nogal and on the Ruidoso at the Dowlin's mill. They had a school for the Indians at the Mesalero Reservation.

The Indians were not wild in those days. There were the Jicarillas and the Mesaleros. My father was over at the Reservation because they had a company of soldiers to guard the Indians.

I was married in 1897 at Picocho. There was quite a settlement at Picocho at that time—about a dozen houses. Johnny Kimbrell lived there and there are Kimbrell families living there now. They are his grandchildren I think. He was a rancher and he was sheriff.

The Cline family lived at Picocho. He was a German and had a store. In 1886 the Diamond A and the Circle Diamond came in there. The Block Ranch was over north, owned by H. K. Thurber. He lived in New York.

There was H. K. Thurber and a man by the name of Richardson. I don't know what his first name was. He had two sons, Melvin and Andy who ran it.

The Block Ranch was established when I came to Lincoln in 1886.

They got the mail into Picocho at that time on a stage from Lincoln to Roswell, tri-weekly. The stage went up and down the river instead of over the hill.

Brent was sheriff when I first came here. As well as I can remember, the sheriffs were Pat Garrett, John Poe and Brent. They could only hold office for four years. Then it was Nowlen. Peppin was sheriff before the war. Kimbrell followed Peppin. As a child, I didn't know anything about law enforcement anymore than anything. All I knew was to play, eat, sleep and mind my mother.

I moved to Capitan in 1917 and I have been here ever since. We have six girls all born at the Spring Ranch. They went to school at Hondo. I went down there in 1895 to live at Spring Ranch.

My father had a blacksmith shop at the ranch. We had sheep, cattle and horses. My husband owned a piece of the Spring Ranch. The place, when father Fritz died, was divided up between the four boys and a girl. Henry Fritz, my husband, got the home place and they had some property and some cattle at the Felices. It was the Flying H then but after father Fritz died they called it the Felices. They formed a cattle company.

I have six daughters and four son-in-laws now. They all got their high school education in Capitan. My daughters are Mary Catherine Johnson of Carrizozo; Clara Louise Lowe of Capitan; Carolina Francis Hale of Green Tree; Maud May Estrom of Santa Fe; Louise Ferguson of Capitan and Mrs. Emelia McKnight of Capitan. I have nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

PICKETT STRONGER AT HALI-WAY MARK

SANTA FE, April 4—The primary campaign at the half-way point saw governor running Ingram Pickett getting to his feet after appearing to be down for the count.

Saw State Sen. Murray Morgan pull up to an even running pace with John Miles for land commissioner.

And saw the confusion increased among the six scrambling for the Demo nomination for corporation commissioner.

The major development of the first half of the two-month campaign was Pickett's gradual recovery from a slow start. Organized labor gave him a big lift with its endorsement which was apparently the signal for several small groups around the state coming out in the open in support of the tall corporation commissioner.

CHALLENGER SHUNNED AT FIRST

These developments came after weeks in which Pickett had been treated like one with the smallpox. County chairmen wouldn't let him into their meeting in Albuquerque in March, politicians avoided him in hotel lobbies, and generally he was the loneliest candidate you ever saw.

Even now there is hardly a political observer who gives Pickett a chance to win but they've all been looking over his prospects and his vote pulling power in earlier elections.

Last September Pickett with some undetermined amount of help from Sen. Dennis Chavez led a movement that defeated Gov. John Simms' group in the special election on the utility control amendment.

A major consideration in that Pickett election was an obscure provision that would have kept Pickett from running for governor without resigning his place on the corporation commission. It is being asked now if many of the voters had that in mind when they voted against the amendment.

Upper Hondo SCD Completes Land Leveling Projects

The Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District has cooperated in four land leveling projects in Lincoln county.

Recently completed is 15 acres on the Clifford Smith farm at Tinnie; 15 acres on Fred W. Slauson's farm at Glencoe; about six acres on A. T. Pfingsten's farm at Hondo and about an acre on Kenneth Nosker's fruit farm at Glencoe. An overnight storage reservoir was also built on the latter's farm.

Concrete pipelines are being installed on the Nosker, Slauson and Ralph Bonnell farms. District equipment assisted in the installation of a syphon for a group of farmers near San Patricio. The syphon replaces an old ditch that was washed out.

District equipment was also used to repair a revetment on the Peter Hurd Sentinel ranch at San Patricio. The revetment protects a spring furnishing water for irrigation.

Groundwork for stream bank protection is being laid on the Hondo and Bonito rivers. The Charles Fuller, A. T. Pfingsten and Frank Peters farms would be involved, as well as the Tinnie ditch. These revetment jobs will protect fields against further stream cutting.

The Tinnie ditch at a point about a mile east of Hondo is threatened by undercutting by the Hondo River. Archie Fuchs, soil conservationist says it is hoped that a solution to this problem may be worked out.

Fermin Montes Elected District NMEA Proxy

Fermin Montes, superintendent of the Hondo Schools, has been elected president of the New Mexico Education Association.

Mrs. Elsie Kimbrell, Picocho, was elected secretary of the association.

The district meeting next spring will be held at Hondo.

J. D. Stewart, principal of the Magdalena school, was elected vice-president of the association. Teachers from all county schools, about a hundred in number, attended the Socorro meeting.

Joquin Ortiz, president of the Carrizozo School Board, was elected a district representative on the executive committee of the New Mexico School Boards Association, at a meeting in Las Cruces March 23. Mr. Ortiz attended the meeting with R. G. Firman, superintendent.

Some Fruit Damage From Monday's Freeze

Apple prospects are still good after the freezing weather Monday night, County Agent Ralph Dunlap reports. Other fruit did not do so well, as many peaches, plums and other early fruit were in full bloom. Temperatures dropped close to 20° above in some parts of the county.

The apple trees are starting to show green, with full bloom expected in the lower part of the Hondo Valley during the week of April 9-14.

As mites are likely to be as troublesome as last year, the county agent advises, the apple grower should put a delayed dormant oil on now. A 3.2% oil spray is one of the best controls for mites.

While getting the delayed dormant oil, the apple grower should get enough lead arsenate for the calyx spray. Lead arsenate is a very good codling moth control, especially for the calyx spray.

"I know there have been a lot of people who haven't been contacted," she said this week. "I hope everyone can help and will send a dollar for their membership to their county chairman or to me."

April has been set as "Cancer Month in New Mexico" by official proclamation issued by Governor John F. Shuman. The governor is shown here handing the signed proclamation to Jack Warner, of Santa Fe, vice president of the New Mexico division of the American Cancer Society.

Poisonous Weed Causes Sheep Loss

Loss of about 35 head of sheep in the past two and a half weeks on the Gnatkowski ranch east of Jacks Peak has been traced to poisonous broomweed (sometimes called turpentine weed).

Symptoms of a weakened condition in about 75 head were noticed early in March. Losses began two weeks later. Cause of their death was not determined for some time. Suspecting a poison weed, Mr. Gnatkowski moved the flock to a new pasture and no more new illness occurred.

Symptoms were loss of appetite, drooping head, loss of coordination and general weakened condition before death. Post mortem examination by Dr. Bob Bond revealed extensive damage to kidneys and liver.

Archie Fuchs, soil conservationist, was called to make an examination of range conditions. He found range grass plentiful but that the sheep had been eating the poisonous weed, which they seldom do when range grass is available.

He told Mr. Gnatkowski that it was probable the sheep had eaten the weeds because it was about the only green plant present on the range at this time of year.

Broomweed is very common throughout the state. Mr. Fuchs said he knew of only two other cases where range stock had been poisoned by this weed and they were where no other feed was available.

The weed can be controlled and kept in check by good range management. The weed establishes itself readily in old fields and bare spots on the range.

Lincoln County News Office to be Remodeled

Remodeling of the Lincoln County News office was started this week. Mrs. Era B. Smith, owner of the building, has engaged Frank Vega to do the work.

A new front is to be put on the building, matching the exterior of the adjoining Thornton Market.

Mr. Vega has just completed improvements at the Petty Motel, including painting inside and out, new doors to the units and canopies in colored plexiglass. A variety of bright colors were used to paint the units of the motel.

Other recent business improvements have been at the Coffee Cup in Carrizozo, interior painting at the Food Mart, painting of Blakely's Studio and painting and installation of a new sign at the Ortiz Chevron stations.

Ft. Stanton Hearing By Legislators

The State Legislature Interim Investigating Committee will inspect the property and conduct a hearing at Fort Stanton May 25, according to State Sen. J. G. Moore, member of the committee.

It is the first such state institution to be inspected by the committee, which is to report its findings to the next session of the legislature.

By a close vote of 4 to 3 the committee decided to hear testimony at Fort Stanton on the hospital's effect on the local economy.

A similar hearing in regard to the hospital in Socorro will be held there May 26.

Sen. Moore was in Santa Fe Wednesday to appear in a panel discussion on the welfare situation in New Mexico. Columnist Will Harrison was moderator of the panel, made up of members of the welfare committee.

REA Officials Meet With Town Council

Carrizozo town officers met with REA officials last Thursday afternoon to further discuss the possibility of bringing REA current into Carrizozo.

Attending the meeting, in addition to the trustees and Mayor Roberts, were Hollis Harris, consulting engineer; Jack Hobson, board member, and Jay D. Laster, manager of the Otero County Electric Cooperative.

The following points were brought out in the discussion.

The REA line into Carrizozo from Osceuro is overloaded and to supply Carrizozo would require building a new line from Capitan.

The cost of power delivered to Carrizozo would run between 1.8c and 2c per kw. hour. To this cost would have to be added the town's cost of distributing power to consumers. Carrizozo's present overall cost of manufacturing and distributing power is about 3 1/2c per kw.

In the event Carrizozo contracts to purchase REA power, its present plant would be on a standby basis only.

Carrizozo would be asked to sign a contract to purchase all its power from the REA.

Mayor Roberts informed the News this week that Carrizozo's power plant at the present time is operating well within the demands for electricity. The power factor at the present time is averaging about 50% of capacity.

The maximum power output of the plant is 600 kw. per hour. Peak load requirements at the present time are 440 kw. A third, older-type engine is in good repair and can be used when needed, Mayor Roberts stated.

PAINTINGS ON DISPLAY

John Boylan, of Lincoln has three paintings on display in the office of the Lincoln County Savings & Loan Association in Carrizozo. Two are oils and the other a colored wood cut and will be on display until May 1. The savings and loan association will have the works of a regional artist on exhibit each month.

Two vehicles collided Monday morning during the snowstorm, at the intersection of Highway 390 and 54 in Carrizozo. One was driven by Mrs. Ola Jones of Glencoe and the other by Marvin L. McDonald of Morton, Tex. There was minor damage to both cars.

Carrizozo elected a new mayor, two new town councilmen in Tuesday's election, and approved a $165,000 bond issue to build a new sewage system.

Approximately 60% of the town's registered voters turned out to give good-sized majorities to the Peoples Ticket of Wayne C. Withers for mayor and Leandro S. Vega and L. Z. Manire for councilmen.

The bond issue was approved by better than two to one majority.

Voters were standing in line as the polls opened in the morning and voting continued fairly heavy until closing time at 6 o'clock. A total of 488 ballots were cast out of a registration list of 832. Bond election ballots cast totaled 254.

Clarence E. Shaw and John Mackey, candidates for police magistrate, were in a neck-and-neck race down to the finish line, Mackey ending with a one vote majority. His total was 202 to Shaw's 201.

The Peoples ticket candidates moved into the lead in early ballot counting and had comfortable majorities at the final compilation, which follows:

For Mayor:
Marvin Roberts	177
Wayne C. Withers	269
For Councilmen:
Clifton B. Zumwalt	137
Juan Martinez	136
Leandro S. Vega	330
L. Z. Manire	269
For Police Magistrate:
Clarence E. Shaw	201
John Mackey	202
Sever Bonds:
For	159
Against	95

Write-in votes: For magistrate: Barbara Turner 8, Clyde Atwood 1, for councilman, Frank English 1, Friday Sherrill 1; for mayor, Roy Harman 1.

The new town officials will take office May 1. Town councilmen R. L. Sherrill and A. P. Sifton Jr. are holdovers, having two years more to serve.

The regular monthly meeting of the town board will be this Thursday at 4 p.m.

CAPITAN APPROVES WATER BONDS

There was no opposition to the village officers. Mayor D. O. Murphy was re-elected, as well as Councilmen Fletcher Hall, Virgil Hall and W. L. Holmes.

The water bond proposal received the approval of 107 voters.

RUIDOSO OK'S BONDS

Ruidoso voters approved a water bond issue of $350,000 and elected a Citizens ticket of Dr. D. E. Snyder mayor and Jack Little, Jack Hitchens and T. B. Hood trustees. Herbert Smith was elected police judge.

Water Works Bond Approved at Corona

In Corona's water works bond election there was only one dissenting vote. Party-six voted for the bonds, one against.

For village officials, Mayor G. Cleve Brown received 56 votes. Votes were distributed as follows for council members (two to be elected): Wm. E. Dishman, 40; E. R. (Bud) Bagley, 33; Walter M. Ploffer, 40.

Serving as judges of the election were Mrs. W. S. Dishman, Mrs. Kenneth Knight and Miss Dell Roberts. Mrs. I. H. Burgess and Mrs. A. E. Mulkey were election clerks.

Lions Club to Sell Brooms for Blind School

Proceeds from the sale will be shared with the Alamogordo school.

At Fort Bliss, the civilian conferees will be briefed on development in anti-aircraft artillery and guided missiles, along with hearing discussions on problems of mutual interest to the civilian community and the Army. The visitors will see a demonstration at White Sands Proving Ground, H. M., and later visit RFA training activities at Logan Heights.

Following the dinner, Secretary Brucker will hold an informal conference with his Civilian Aides.

Thursday morning, the Civilian Aides will go to White Sands Proving Ground to receive a briefing and witness test firings of missiles. Returning to Fort Bliss early in the afternoon, they will inspect a Nike and Corporal display and hear an orientation commentary in the First Guided Missile Brigade area.

The following three items were contributed by Mrs. Rachel Floyd of Truth or Consequences.

ON REMOVING WARTS

If you know a person who has warts and would like to remove them, follow these directions. Take the person and hunt for a dry bleached bone of a dead cow. Then carefully pick the bone up, begin rubbing the warts one at a time and calling the number, and have the patient call off the number, too. The person who has the warts then must turn his back while the other person lays the bone in the exact position in which it was found. The two persons walk away without looking back. The patient must be sure not to tell how the warts were treated, for if he does the warts won't disappear.

ONE LOOK AT GOLD

Hiram Yoast, a horse rancher in the lower Caballo Mountains was chasing a bunch of wild horses from out of the mountains and across the foothills. His horse stumbled and began to limp. Yoast dismounted. Looking at the horse's foot, he found a rock stuck between the hoof and the shoe. After prying out the rock with his pocket-knife, he put it in his pocket because it was too heavy to be just a "plain rock," said Mrs. Floyd who heard Yoast tell the story.

Later Yoast took the rock to an assayer and had it assayed. It ran high in gold. Yoast searched the rest of his life for the spot where his horse stumbled, but he never found the place again.

THE POT OF GOLD

Early in the 1920s a family named Green moved on a farm across from the Lower Penasco School in the Sacramento Mountains. They terraced the hillside for crops, a new method that accidentally brought them more money than the crops.

While plowing on the hillside, one of the men in the family unearthed a pot of gold coins. None of the neighbors ever knew how much money was in the pot, but apparently there was enough to pay the Green family to move, for they left shortly after finding the pot of gold.

The Henry MacLarens of Vancouver, British Columbia, visited the George Dingwalls over Easter. The William Dingwalls of El Paso came with them on the visit.

Mrs. MacLaren is a cousin of George and Bill who was born in Dingwall, Scotland. After her marriage she came to British Columbia to make her home.

She suddenly became very sick and a priest was called in. After hearing her confession, the priest came out of her room with a little box which he gave to her children with instructions to bury it where it could never be discovered again.

It seemed this woman had made a pact with the devil, and he had given her a box with magic talions which enabled her to remain young.

In order for the woman to be cured, the priest made come holy water with which he was to bathe the woman. As the priest began to bathe the woman, she began to grow older and older and within the hour she was an old woman. She died the following day, and friends and relatives who came to view the remains found it hard to recognize the woman.

This is a Las Vegas story told to me (C. De Baca) by one of my aunts and was told to her by her father. This story is supposed to be true and many still hope to find the magic box. (The story is from the Folklore Archives of Highlands University, Las Vegas.)

Annual Meeting of Hospital Auxiliary

By JULIA SHERILL Reporter

The annual meeting of the Lincoln County Hospital Auxiliary met at the Woman's Club Building, Tuesday evening, April 3, 1956, at 7:30 p.m. Fourteen members and one guest, Dr. Turner, present.

Meeting was called to order by Mrs. A. N. Spencer, president. Mrs. Moore gave the opening prayer. Minutes were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ray.

At the board of directors meeting held March 19, it was suggested that the Auxiliary buy a Sigmoldscope set that is badly needed, for the hospital. The motion was made, seconded and carried that this instrument be bought. The cost is $85.

It was moved, seconded and carried that as the officers elected at the organizational meeting of the Auxiliary had served such a short time, the same officers should be carried over for the next year.

Mrs. Connie O'Rear asked that she be relieved of her duties as Recording Secretary and Treasurer and another be elected in her place. Mrs. Hazel B. Jordan was nominated and elected as recording secretary and treasurer for the coming year, the other officers to remain the same. We are sorry that Mrs. O'Rear felt that she could not serve.

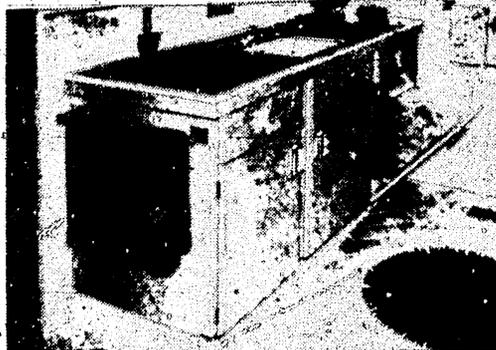

Dr. Turner gave a talk, explaining some of the aims and views of the Hospital board. Mr. Moore spoke of painting the rooms of the patients and suggested drapes and weatherstripping the windows and doors as something constructive the Auxiliary could work toward.

Mrs. Turner, ways and means committee, was asked to look into costs, materials etc. and report at the next meeting. The Sewing Committee is waiting for material to begin work on new hospital bedspreads.

The Flower Committee plans to improve the grounds by planting flower seeds and shrubs. Any one wants to donate seeds or a plant or shrub?

The Cart Committee needs more help. How about volunteering for a week day? There is plenty of help for Sundays but some of the other days are short of help. Please call Mrs. Fay Harkey, who is chairman of this committee.

New Idea for Old Baths

One-third of the 44,500,000 bathrooms in the United States are over 40 years old. Practical Builder magazine estimates. While plumbing fixtures will last this long, they become out-of-date in styling and convenience. Obsolete plumbing dates a house and this, the magazine says, makes the bathroom a prime target for remodeling. Even old houses of modest size are getting bathrooms agleam with ceramic tile, glass and chrome.

Storage space is a major innovation in modern bathroom planning. Wood kitchen cabinets are being adapted to functional and decorative use in bathrooms. Flanking a white or colored sink and topped by a counter of ceramic tile or other suitable material, ponderosa pine cabinets offer plenty of shelf and hamper area for clean and soiled towels, linens, and laundry in space previously wasted.

Since warm, attractive color is one of the first considerations in today's bathrooms, wood cabinets fit in well. They can be decorated in any color to suit the other fixtures, walls and floor, and can be redecorated at will.

Remodeling Helps Couple Maintain Big House Alone

Finding a home with enough living space is a key problem when the family is young. Later when the family is grown, the problem is reversed. The husband and wife cope with the difficulty of maintaining a large house alone.

This problem faced Frank Brehm of Cadillac, Mich.

Two of his three children were married and living away. Looking ahead to the time when the last child would also leave, he wanted additional first floor living space in his 7-room cottage so he could close off the second floor and enjoy "bungalow living." But he wanted the second floor to remain available for visits from the children and other guests.

The home, itself, was very similar to thousands of other houses across the country. Mr. Brehm wrote to A. B. Campen who heads a mail remodeling consultation service in Peoria, Ill. Campen suggested tearing down an old woodshed that adjoined the house and replacing it with a new wing. Specific plans were drawn by Campen and a local contractor was engaged to carry out the work.

The new wing contained a large bedroom, a utility room, a first floor bath and added closet space—the necessary ingredients for first floor living.

A new main entrance was built at the side of the house. It opens into a hall from which the kitchen, dining room, bath, bedroom and utility room can be entered without crossing any other living area.

Interlocking asphalt shingles, which give good protection in high-wind areas, were applied to the new wing. These were similar in appearance to the shingles on the main roof. As a further unifying feature, the roof line of the wing was extended across the front of the house to join the roof of the main porch. This also helped to "cut" the height of the house, improving the appearance.

Mr. Brehm reduced costs by doing himself under the guidance of the contractor. Labor was saved by using easy-to-install ponderosa pine window units, with sash and frame fitted to each other at the factory.

By insulating the wing's ceiling and exterior walls, Mr. Brehm reduced its heating requirements to a point where the existing heating plant could handle the added load.

Victorian 'Pagoda' Changed Into Modern Colonial Home

It looked like a pagoda with a porch, but it was only a Victorian left-over whose heyday was long past. So, the owners of the pre-World War I house in the "Before" picture (right) remodeled. Their efforts paid off in the stately Colonial home above.

Remodeling was extensive inside and out, but cost plus the original price of the house totaled only half of what the house is worth in today's market.

The first step was to remove the oversized porch which had shut out sun light from the living room. Next the rounded, half-octagon corner on the left was squared off. Four small dormers were removed to simplify the roof line.

The "new" house is clean-lined, with white clapboard siding, and a dark gray-green roof of fire-resistant asphalt shingles.

The house now has fewer windows, but they're larger, and provide more air and light. All stock units of ponderosa pine, the new windows are more uniform in size and shape, as called for by the architectural simplicity of the house. All sash is removable for easy clearing outside of the glass. The paneled front door and imposing frame are authentic Colonial.

Inside, the house was changed from a one-family to a duplex, with a private entrance on the left for the upstairs apartment. A kitchen had to be installed upstairs, and a new bathroom on each floor. The old first-floor kitchen was remodeled to include a dining nook, and appliances and new wood cabinets were arranged in an L-shape to make best use of space.

The basement was rebuilt to serve both families. One-half is a recreation room, a quarter is a heating and utility area, and the remaining quarter is a laundry. The laundry room contains a kitchenette to be used for "rec room" parties.

To keep down heating bills, the large house was fully insulated with mineral wool. A new heating system was installed, with modern hardwood radiators.

Clover Mite Is Household Pest

An unwanted household visitor in many city and farm homes this spring may be the clover or brown mite.

These same brown spider mites—a common pest of clover, alfalfa and fruit trees—often feed on various grasses and other plants then migrate into the home. The mites are usually found around the foundations and window and door sills. They are harmless but can become annoying when in large numbers.

The clover mite can be controlled with malathion. The mixture is 50% malathion emulsifiable concentrate at the rate of two teaspoonsful to a gallon of water.

The lower foundation of the home and up the sides of the house to the window sills, paying particular attention to the cracks, should be sprayed with the malathion mixture. The ground and vegetation should be sprayed from the house out a distance of 10 or 12 feet.

Patient Praises Courtesies and Service at Carrizozo Hospital

Little do we think about the hospital until there's sickness or an accident. . . then a doctor is our first thought. Now, after being in the Carrizozo hospital, I'm mighty grateful for Dr. Turner, the pretty nurses, cooks and housekeepers—all working together to keep patients happy and help them get over their ailments.

I learned how the new superintendent, Mr. Moore, and his head nurse, Ruth Carter, helped a great deal in making patients more comfortable. Three times a day you get a genuine good back-rubbing with a soothing lotion. Who wouldn't like that? A choice of fruit juices or 7-up is offered three times a day. That's something to pep you up, especially when served by a beaming pretty girl like Margaret Shrum. She is a member of the Carrizozo Women's Auxiliary which has been doing this good work in the hospital for some time.

They take turns pushing a cart to each room with most any article a patient might need, such as stamps, stationery, hair nets, candy, gum, magazines and the like. They fill the pitchers with ice water, place potted plants in each room and are ready to do any errand needed to be done.

It was a pleasant surprise on Easter day to see a gay little chick favor sitting on the dinner tray. I believe the Girl Scouts made them. A pod from the New Mexico flower—the yucca—was used for the nest. These Scouts make favors for every holiday, which is a fine project. LOUISE RUNNELS

We had snow and very cold weather on April 2. About an inch of wet snow fell.

Alto reports 2 1/2 inches. The teachers reported that the snow was so severe for a while they thought they would have to turn back, en route to Socorro for the teachers meeting held there on Monday. All of the Capitan teachers attended and enjoyed the conference.

WHITE MOUNTAIN GPA TO ASSIST IN PROGRAM TO PRESERVE WILDLIFE

The National Wildlife Federation has listed eight ways the average citizen can help save the wildlife that are in danger of becoming extinct.

"Save Endangered Wildlife" is the theme of National Wildlife Week, now being observed under the sponsorship of the Federation and its member state associations and local clubs throughout the country. Sponsoring organization in this state is the New Mexico Game Protective, represented locally by the White Mountain GPA.

R. R. Hogan of Albuquerque, state Wildlife Week chairman, said every person can help by joining a conservation club or simply by exercising his rights as a citizen. Among these rights, he explained, is the American privilege of expressing one's opinion to legislators and public officials.

Those kinds of wildlife that are about to pass from the scene are getting special attention this year.

Literature published by the National Wildlife Federation lists many of these endangered forms: sea otter, lake sturgeon, lake trout, trumpeter swan, Everglade kite, Eskimo curlew, grayling, California condor, prairie chicken, bighorn sheep, whooping crane, grizzly bear, ivory-billed woodpecker, Key deer, Tule elk, black-footed ferret, kit fox, woodland caribou, gray wolf, red wolf, manatee, Caribbean monk seal, Mississippi kite, swallow-tailed kite, white-tailed kite, roseate spoonbill, Hudsonian godwit, Florida sandhill crane, Layman teal, nene, Aleutian tern, Florida burrowing owl, Peregrine falcon, red-bellied hawk, Kirtland's warbler, Cape Sable seaside sparrow, Great Lakes whitefish, American crocodile and green turtle.

State Chairman Hogan has pointed out that many other kinds of wildlife, while not endangered in the nation as a whole, have been wiped out in some states and are threatened in others.

Here are the recommended "eight courses of action:"

1. Promote research to find ways of restoring the endangered species.
2. Encourage the programs of federal and state conservation agencies. Support the game and fish laws.
3. Work for laws that coordinate wildlife management in flood control, reclamation, river development and agricultural programs.
4. Stop the destruction of wildlife habitat that is caused by soil erosion, over-grazing, burning and other forms of land abuse. Oppose the unwise drainage of swamps and marshes.
5. Start local educational campaigns to create public awareness of wildlife problems.
6. Help safeguard the national and state parks, forests, sanctuaries and other areas that have been established to preserve the wilderness and its wildlife.
7. Work for effective water pollution control.
8. Support the efforts of the Survival Service of the International Union for the Protection of Nature. This organization, with headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, works to save endangered wildlife throughout the world.

Letter to Editor

JURGES NOMINATION OF JUDGE ALLAN D. WALKER

Editor, News:
I am writing this letter in the interest of the nomination of Allan D. Walker on the Democratic ticket for district judge in the coming primary election on May 8th. As you know prior to this year we have had only one district judge for this district which includes Dona Ana, Otero and Lincoln Counties. The last legislature gave us an additional judge so that now we have two judges for the district. Due to the increase in population in the district and particularly in Otero and some parts of Lincoln Counties, the business has increased to such a point that it was extremely difficult for the judge with headquarters in Las Cruces to efficiently take care of all of the business of the district.

After the new judgeship was created Governor Simms recognized the necessity of having one of the judges located outside of Dona Ana County and approved Allan D. Walker of Alamogordo and he has served since January 1st. The office will have to be permanently filled in the November election and Mr. Walker is the only candidate for nomination of either party in either Otero or Lincoln Counties.

You are no doubt are acquainted with Mr. Walker. He was born and raised in Otero County and had been practicing law here since 1936. He is well grounded in the law and has been making an excellent Judge since he was appointed.

It seems to me to be both unwise and unbusinesslike to have both of the judges, the district attorney and all of the assistant district attorneys located in one county and especially where that county is so far from the other counties as Las Cruces is. I feel that a proper distribution of the offices should require that no two judges reside in the same county. I recognize that Dona Ana County by reason of its size and population is entitled to one of the Judges. But the other certainly should be located in Otero or Lincoln County.

Where the judges are located in Dona Ana County, it is necessary for litigants to travel 130 miles or more from Lincoln County and 70 miles or more from Otero County in order to get any emergency action; and in the matter of expenses where the judges live and have their headquarters in Las Cruces, the taxpayers are required to pay transportation, hotel and other expenses for the judge, his court reporter and interpreter each time they hold court in Alamogordo or in Carrizozo. This expense would be avoided if one of the judges lived in either Alamogordo or Carrizozo and would mean a tremendous saving to the taxpayer.

After having served by appointment for one year, I feel that we should give Mr. Walker the office by election for the ensuing term. By doing so we would continue to have a judge available in Alamogordo and the Dona Ana County people would have Judge Scoggin available at all times.

Motorist Sentenced for Driving While Drunk

Edwin Pearce Mitchell, 38, of Portales was convicted in district court Monday on a charge of reckless driving and driving while intoxicated. Judge W. T. Scoggin sentenced him to 30 days in jail and his driving privileges were suspended for a year.

Mitchell was arrested March 29 on Highway 70 between Green Tree and Ruidoso. The arresting officer was Bob Jurney, new state patrolman for Lincoln County.

Four towns in Lincoln County all took a step forward in Tuesday's election by voting improvement bonds. Water bond issues carried in Corona, Capitán and Ruidoso and Carrizozo voters approved a sewer bond issue.

A new mayor and two new councilmen take office in Carrizozo May 1. They will join two holdover councilmen to make up the town's government. They know there are many problems in a growing community and they can't be solved overnight; also that it's impossible to please everyone. We can cooperate with the town officials by taking just complaints to the regular council meetings and not talking around the corners; by aiding with constructive criticism or suggestions, and by shouldering our share of taxes and fees that the town must collect. In other words, the better citizens we are, the easier the job ahead will be for the new town board.

Getting all the parts of a newspaper together is like fitting the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. It's not easy to get all the parts of the puzzle together every Thursday afternoon, even when everything goes well. This week the News office is being remodeled and it's plain luck if you can find anything you're looking for. The phone was dead for half a day Tuesday and nobody noticed it except the people who tried to call. At 11 a. m. Thursday we're still hoping we'll get the puzzle together about the usual time.

Ingram (Seven-foot Pickett), campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor, was in Carrizozo Wednesday. He made a statement that we would like to hear from Gov. Simms also, namely: "I do not favor the transfer of any state institution from its present location." Mr. Pickett added: "If I am elected governor, the only way I would ever consider moving a state institution into Albuquerque would be to have proof submitted that the Albuquerque climate was a healthier place for patients." Obviously this would be impossible to prove in the case of Socorro, Fort Stanton or Truth or Consequences. The status of three hospitals in these towns has been up in the air for the past two years. The stand that Seven-foot Pickett has taken on this matter is commendable.

Herrick V. (Heck) Johnson, Republican candidate for State senator, was a Carrizozo visitor last Saturday. Mr. Johnson, a resident of Ruidoso, is at the present time compiling a directory for the Permal Oil Trails, his own publication. Mr. Johnson, who called at the News office, said his first view of Carrizozo was March 28, 1910. Arrived here, he was met by his father, Dr. S. M. Johnson and Will Hale of Ruidoso who were driving a team and a hack. An afternoon drive was made to Nogal, where they spent the night, continuing on to Ruidoso the following day.

In a letter to their friend, D. L. Jackson, the Robert Leslie family of Fairbanks, Alaska, write of visiting Mrs. Leslie's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pratt, in Kodiak. Part of the trip was by plane. Mr. Pratt is doing quite a bit of prospecting on Kodiak Island, which is supposed to be highly mineralized.

In a letter written from Ruidoso, Louis Padilla, Sr. tells of the transfer of their son, Louis, to a station somewhere in Georgia. Louis has completed a microwave course at Fort Monmouth and is now fully trained in electronics. "We are proud of our boy," Mr. Padilla writes, "and thanks to the high school education he has acquired in Capitán, he has been able to advance. We are also thankful and appreciative to the high school faculty who helped him along those lines."

The convenient downtown location of most Internal Revenue district offices was of no help to a prospective woman taxpayer at the climax of the last filing season. She dashed into the Scranton, Pa., district office, rushed to the front of the long line of taxpayers seeking assistance and exclaimed: "Please let me through—I'm in an awful hurry, I'm double parked outside!"

"Starvation of the soil leads to starvation of plants, which results in starvation of animals, including human beings."

Blessed are they who go around in circles for they shall be called Big Wheels.

Services in T or C for Mrs. Minnie Perkins

Minnie Drake, one of twin daughters of Ellen and Frank Drake, was born February 24, 1873, at Parsons, Kans., and passed away March 31, 1936, at Truth or Consequences, N. M. She was married at Sillex, Ark., Oct. 2, 1890, to John Thomas Perkins, who precedes her in death in 1924. To this union were born twelve children, eight of whom survive—Walter L. of La Junta and Thomas A. of Pueblo, Colo.; Cora M. Prestridge and Daisy Hillger of Truth or Consequences; Katherine M. Schwab and Raymond of Roswell; Archie of Corona; and Adie L. Jones of Tracy, Calif.

Also surviving are 15 grandchildren and ten great grandchildren and a host of friends. Mrs. Perkins united with the Methodist Church at the age of 12, and was baptized into the Baptist Church in Corona in 1924.

She was a pioneer mother with a keen sense of humor, and she maintained an active interest in world and family affairs until the last. She was the acknowledged center of the family group and remained as inspiration to each one because of her great faith and her unusual ability to "face up" to the realities of life.

Services were held in the First Baptist Church of Truth or Consequences with Rev. O. L. Dennis in charge. He was assisted by Rev. M. C. Abercrombie and Rev. Wm. P. Lytle.

Rev. Lytle sang a solo and was accompanied on the piano by Sherrill Perkins, a granddaughter.

Eight grandsons served as pallbearers.

Friends from Corona attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hiner, Rev. Bill Lytle, Mrs. Lois Bagley, Mrs. Alono Sultemeier, Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Heister and Mrs. Mary C. DuBois. Mr. and Mrs. Frank DuBois of Albuquerque, also attended.

Mrs. A. W. McKee of Cedarvale, who recently moved from Indian Hot Springs, Texas, back to her ranch 11 miles northwest of Corona, says that in our news column we recently made a mistake as to her being a former school teacher.

Mrs. McKee did not teach school but she did attend East Texas Normal College, taking the state examination a number of years ago. At the time she attended, the College was owned by Professor Wm. L. Mayo of Commerce, Texas. Later the College was sold to the State of Texas becoming East Texas State College at Commerce, Tex.

We are sorry we made this mistake. Mrs. McKee has many friends in this part of the country, having lived near here for many years.

Charlie Strickland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Strickland of Corona, was the champion bull rider at the recent Albuquerque High School rodeo. He received a silver and gold belt buckle.

Norman Crider Directs Baton Twirling Contest

The first National baton twirling contest to be held in New Mexico was at Milton Hall, on the New Mexico State College campus, March 31, under the direction of Norman Crider.

The beautiful ballroom was filled with people who enjoy watching the baton artist at his work. Lovely costumes, the exhibition of the 30 trophies, 45 medals, lighted batons and regular batons, the flashing of batons, keeping time to music, as each of the 143 competitors went through his routine before the judges, made a very colorful and exciting scene.

There were several corps, duets, two baton and solo performances that were a credit to the work of the teachers who accompanied their pupils. Nine different states were represented and hundreds of people came to watch.

Griff O'Neil, of Alamo, Texas, who has won many titles and honors all over the nation, won the sweepstakes trophy, as well as the first place trophy in two baton and first place in the boys' division.

The Elks lodge of Las Cruces, which sponsored the contest, was on hand for the awarding of the trophies and expressed pleasure on the success of the contest and congratulated Norman in the competent way in which he conducted it.

For home refreshment buy Coke by the case

Four generations of Americans have enjoyed the quick refreshment and unmatched flavor of ice-cold Coca-Cola. For family and friends it's the choice everywhere.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO. OF ALAMOGORDO

INSIDE CAPITAL
When Pickett and Simms were on the same ballot in the general election of 1934 Pickett amassed 122,817 which was far above that of any other candidate on the ticket. Simms got 110,583.

In the primary earlier that year Simms had no opposition and Pickett did which makes comparison impossible. Pickett, however, won his race with 65% of the vote over a party organization effort to defeat him with Terry Moynihan of Taos.

CANT IGNORE VOTING SUCCESS
That kind of election success make it unwise to ignore Pickett even if many do consider him a clown candidate and if many of his proposals sound fantastic.

Pickett's election successes are recent. He tried for corporation commissioner in 1944 and ran third in a field of four. He finally made it in 1943 with only 21% of the vote in a field of seven.

He tried to rush his career in 1930 and filed for governor getting a sorry 6% of the vote in a field of four.

Pickett defectors point to that vote he got for governor in 1930 in arguing that people who support him for corporation commissioner won't go for him for governor. That is probably true in some degree. However, it is risky to compare the candidate who got his first nomination in 1948 with only 21% of the vote and his renomination in 1934 with 65%.

MORGAN CROWDING OLD CHAMP MILES
Murray Morgan's steady work has pushed him into prominence in his run against John Miles for the Demo nomination for land commissioner. Morgan, who carried his own Otero county by only 67 votes in being elected to the state senate in 1932, started as a decided underdog against the old champ Miles who never even came close to losing a Democratic nomination — three times for governor, twice for land commissioner and once for Congress.

Morgan also got a boost from organized labor and is getting important help from a group of War II buddies scattered around the state. They are the same ones who turned out for Johnny Walker and got him nominated for land commissioner four years ago. Walker and Morgan both served as top sergeant of the New Mexico outfit that was together for more than two years in Africa and Europe.

SIX RING CIRCUS WAND TO WATCH
The corporation commission circus doesn't make any more sense than it did when it started.

ed March 6. Rex Meador, Ray Rodgers and incumbent Johnny Block are splitting the politics three ways. David Calderon is enjoying the position of being the only one in the crap with a Spanish name. Eveline Robinson is complicating the race with a campaign aimed almost entirely for the female vote. Des Sturgis has some advantage in being the only Albuquerque resident in the race.

There has been no indication of what is going on in the lieutenant governor contest between Joe Montoya and challenger Timothy Woolston of Albuquerque, Auditor Jim Hannah and his challenger Tom McGrath.

The three-way run for the two congressional places seem to be developing in favor of the two incumbents, John J. Dempsey and Antonio Fernandez. District Attorney Dick Robinson got an endorsement from a home-town Democratic group in Carlsbad, but was turned down by the labor committee.

WATCH APRIL 13 FOR DROP OUTS
Next date to watch on the election calendar is April 13. That's the final time for resigning from the race. There have been rumors of some drop outs. Some think Robert Stephens might quit the governor's race; Woolston has encountered heavy pressure to get out of the lieutenant governor run, and there's a possibility of one or two quitting the corporation commission scramble.

Two Tax Assistance Days Left in Roswell
Only two more taxpayer assistance days at the Roswell office of Internal Revenue are announced by Fred Engle, administrative officer in charge.

All taxpayers desiring assistance should make an extra effort to contact the Roswell office to avoid the big rush Monday, April 16.
