

Rambles Around Lincoln County

Tape Recorded Interviews With People Who Helped Build Lincoln County

FLOY SKINNER

My parents were devoted Christians. Along in the early part of the century, from 1900 up till when they sold their farm in 1907, they devoted quite a bit of their time to the camp meetings. He would preach at times and mother sang.

Camp meetings were held around over the county over a period of about eight years. My father would get a few men and they would build a brush arbor and then people from all over the country would come in covered wagons and stay at the camp ground. The meetings would last a week or ten days.

I believe the first camp meeting was in Bonita City in 1900, or possibly 1899. Two different camp meetings were below Angus on what's now called the Gil Peters ranch. At one of these meetings O. P. Humphrey drove up with two or three hundred head of goats. He set up a camp and built a table between two pine trees. Everyone who came along and didn't have anything to eat was invited. They had barbecued goat meat, goat milk and butter and fresh homemade biscuits.

There were other camp meetings at Nogal Canyon, Tucson Mountains, Tularosa, Ruidoso, and on the bank of Nogal Lake in 1905 where they set up a tabernacle tent. These meetings were the beginning of today's camp meetings. They were held about the same time of year as they are now.

My father preached a sermon somewhere practically every Sunday. He married people and buried them. The year he came to Lincoln County a little child died up on the Bonita. There was no lumber available, so my father cut up his wagon and made a coffin for the child. She was the first one to be buried in the Angus cemetery.

In 1907 my father sold his farm to the railroad company and moved to Carrizozo where he put in a feed store and restaurant. I was married to Miss Alice Zumwalt on May 15, 1907. That was the year they started the pipeline. I hauled pipe and helped install the pipeline.

In 1908 I moved to Carrizozo and worked part of the time with my father, delivering grain and coal and so on, and part of the time I worked for my uncle, who was running a livery stable.

In September of that year I was offered a job as repairman on the pipeline so I moved back up on the Mesa and took the job, repairing and doing teamwork or whatever they had for me to do. In 1909 I homesteaded a mile and a half south of Nogal Lake.

In 1912 they gave me a job as watchman at the intake on the South Fork. Then on March 1, 1918, they gave me the job as foreman on the pipeline, the job I still hold, and I have been responsible for all the work on the pipeline. It has been twice renewed from Coyote to Bonita Dam and also into Carrizozo in places.

The first pipeline was built of Missoua pine and joined together with a thin flat band. Two three-quarter crows were put in each end of the band. The joints were spigot joints—one driven into the other. Of course when they put the pressure on the line, and it was over a hundred pounds in places, the swelling of the pipe caused the screws to pull out and we had an unlimited amount of leaks at all times.

Just before we started to renew the old line, 150 men dug out every joint from Coyote to the south fork of the Bonita. They inspected the old pipe and decided it was time to start a new line, which we did. We put in wood pipe with a cast iron collar and wrapped with a round steel band every half inch. They figured the pressure in different places and the stronger the pressure the closer it was wrapped. It was good pipe. It never corroded and stayed slick inside.

In about 1940 the wood line was renewed with steel pipe. In the 39 years I have been foreman of the pipeline we have had a good many superintendents and a good many supervisors and no two men had the same idea. One superintendent, with an office in El Paso, decided the wood pipe wasn't the best thing and he had it practically all renewed with steel, thin steel most of it, and it has caused trouble. It corrodes and the friction in the pipe reduces the flow sometimes as much as half.

Now I'd state that I went to work in 1908 with the pipeline and this October it will be 40 years that I've spent on that pipeline, with the exception of what little time I've spent on my

The Community Church in Nogal, scene of the dedication on Sunday of a set of chimneys. They are the gift of Col. Russell M. Riggins and Mrs. Riggins. The chimneys, located in the belfry of the church, ring out twice daily and can be heard for a distance of several miles.

ranch. I think I will just finish my fifty years. From what I understand, machinery has been taken to Nogal to put in the meters for the new line to Alamogordo. They'll probably be around a year completing the job and by June 29 next year I will have reached the age limit. So I don't think there will be much difference between me and the pipeline. It's been a steady job and I've never regretted that I once turned down a raise in salary and the foremanship on the main line at Tucumcari.

Up until the year 1905, the land around Nogal Lake that hadn't been filed on, in fact, all over the country, was public domain. As I stated before, my father had started a little stock ranch and he leased the school section at Nogal Lake. The north boundary of our fence ran right through Nogal Lake, and we used it for a watering place. The lake, as I remember, had from one to eight feet of water in it the year round.

S. P. ACQUIRES NOGAL LAKE
Then the railroad came along and wanted to use Nogal Lake to store water in. Three or four of us boys were working for the company at the time and it was pretty agreeable with us. The company agreed to put in a watering trough in one corner of this section and fill it with pipeline water. They ran their pipeline into Nogal Lake in 1907 and fenced the Nogal Lake watershed.

Up to this day I have the same section of land, with the exception of about 300 acres which the Forest Service took over for different purposes. My homestead is one and a half miles south of Nogal Lake. In 1923 my brother and I traded our ranch land for a cotton farm below Carlsbad. I never did raise any cotton myself, but I went down there and helped pick it for a couple of hours. I saw I couldn't pick cotton and I couldn't eat it, so I said "What's the difference?" Later I traded the cotton farm for the original ranch land which my father had in 1900.

Mrs. Skinner and I moved into Nogal in 1923 and have lived here ever since. We have a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cox, who live in Fort Stanton. They are interested with me in our ranch and they also have a new home in Nogal which they have not as yet moved into. We have two grandchildren, Mary Ann Houx, the wife of Melvin Houx, and Dick Allen Cox, a student at A&M College. He was married Saturday, June 23, to Donna Mae Cloud of Capitan.

In the years I have been in the water department I've seen dry years and overly wet years. I'd say that these cycles are practically as regular as the natural seasons. There is no definite time, they come and go. In 1903 and 1904 there was a severe drought. I believe it was a little worse than now. My father's cattle had nothing to eat so we moved them up on the south fork of the Bonita in the spring of 1903 and kept them there all summer. There wasn't any water in the south fork except for a few water holes. In the fall of 1910 when I was repairman on the pipeline, water played out on us again in the Bonita.

I can tell you a few incidents that have happened in my life that seem like miracles. One of them was when I lived on the south fork of the Bonita. I had some cattle up there and every once in a while I'd ride up into the mountains to look after the stock. One day I was riding along a horse trail and came to the point of an old mine. I looked in and saw three men at

Ancho to Acquire School Building

The Carrizozo Municipal Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday night, June 21, in the superintendent's office. Among other matters the board received permission from Mrs. Lusk, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, to sell or otherwise dispose of the school property at Ancho.

After consultation with various citizens of that community the board decided to advertise for bids on the Ancho school property, as required by law, but with the purpose of turning over the buildings to a community organization so that it may continue to be used for the good of the community.

The resignation of Miss Ruth Nix as fourth grade teacher was accepted as was that of Miss Mavrida McGrew of Lincoln who had been elected to the commercial position at Carrizozo. The board also elected Ben Mace of Eaton as teacher of Spanish and English, Miss Anna Bohm of Clayton as commercial teacher and A. W. Flatt of Portales as English teacher in the junior high school.

Doll Ray met with the board to request permission to bid on supplying gas to the school for the coming year. The board voted to advertise for bids on supplying fuel oil, coal, and gas to the public schools for 1956-57.

Subdivision Builder To Start Engineering

C. L. Cunningham, subdivision builder of Midland, Texas, was expected in Carrizozo this week to start the engineering work on 15 homes to be built in Westwood Heights.

First to be constructed will be a furnished model home. J. G. Moore, secretary of the Lincoln County Savings & Loan Association, said this week that the FHA has given final approval to the subdivision and that individual applications for homes in the tract will be considered in the order presented.

Homes are to be well spaced, distinctive in appearance and otherwise meet FHA requirements.

Band Practice Being Held Thursdays Nights

Carrizozo High School was represented by six band members attending the Eastern New Mexico Band Camp at Portales, June 3 through June 10. Those attending were Bill Harman, Robert Firman, Pat Vigil, Susan Spencer, Mary Nickels and Opal McBrayer.

Another band camp is to be held at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, July 7 through July 17. Band director Leon White urges all who can possibly attend to do so. "Those who attended the Portales Camp learned a great deal," he says.

Band practice will be held each Thursday night at the high school band room in Carrizozo at 7:30. If enough band students are interested the band will participate in Albuquerque's 250th Anniversary celebration parade July 4.

Mr. White states that each student is eligible for a free private lesson a week. Students who wish to be in the band are asked to contact Mr. White.

Tony Adler and Soffie Lusk, both of Carrizozo, were wed in Juarez Saturday, June 16. The couple will make their home in Carrizozo until Tony leaves for summer school at Arkansas A&M. He is presently employed at Rickerson's Texas station.

Many Attend Wool Marketing Clinic

Over 200 people attended the demonstration last Saturday on wool marketing at the Clint Sulzemeier ranch near Corona.

Highlight of the program was the judging of the sheep for clean wool production and shearing the sheep to get the actual grease weight. Along with the grease weight, the shrinkage was estimated by the group. The estimated clean weight varied from 6.31 to 3.5 in the two pens that were judged and sheared.

Ivan Watson gave some pointers on handling the wool on the shearing floor along with the equipment. He recommended the use of a wool table that would let the dirt fall through. How to roll a fleece was shown by Mr. Watson.

The morning program was highlighted by a panel discussion on wool marketing. Panel members were Bud Walker, Joe Skeen and Edd Downing. Dick Stauder moderated the discussion and said the wool outlook was good as foreign wool prices were 10 cents less per clean pound than domestic prices. Mr. Stauder indicated that latest tabulation has the national wool average at 44 cents per pound, making the incentive payment about 41%.

George W. (Mutt) Shanks, unable to be present, sent a report on his use of jackets on his sheep. Some of the advantages he found in wool jackets were that the wool sold better, the wool shrank less, the shearers were satisfied, and he could use the jackets after shearing for protection against storms. By using jackets, he received from eight to ten cents more for his wool. In 1955 he received 37 cents per pound, and in 1956 he received 45 cents per pound for the ewe wool and 49 cents for the lamb wool. By using jackets he plans to shear earlier and avoid loss of ewes getting on their backs when heavy with wool.

Edd Downing stated that he had shipped his wool to Boston and sold at $1.30 clean, but had not yet gotten the shrinkage results.

CORE TESTS ASSURING

Bud Walker had his wool cored upon arrival at the warehouse, but cold it in the grease. He said that he had a great deal more confidence in the wool buyer now, as the buyers' estimate of shrinkage was the same as the core test. He plans to get a core test next year, as the cost of the test was $3 per thousand pounds of wool.

Joe Skeen explained how he fitted a breeding program into his wool improvement and grading with the separating of ewes into pastures for breeding; there is little need of grading at the table except keeping the pastures separate. Mr. Skeen explained that he was on the shearing floor most of the time to be sure the fleeces were put up right. In doing this, he removed dung tags and put weak and broken fleeces in the off-sort bag.

Dick Eosten, a wool buyer, stated that his company had bought the Norman Gross clip at $1.32 clean and that ranchers carrying on a wool improvement such as Mr. Gross deserved to get a good price for their wool.

Charles Jones of the SHS ranch stated that they had sent their wool to Boston for several years and were well pleased with the results.

Frank Sulzemeier Jr. said he was very interested in having his wool cored especially for his own information but that he would "continue to sell in the grease."

Besides the demonstration, the excellent barbecue prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Clint Sulzemeier was enjoyed by everyone.

Barbecue and Dance July 13 at Glencoe

The Episcopal churches of Lincoln County are sponsoring a barbecue and dance at the famous Bonnell ranch at Glencoe on Friday, July 13.

According to Mrs. Wilbur Coe, chairman of publicity, the barbecue will be the best best raised in the county and the beans, salad and cake will be prepared by some of the county's best cooks.

Everyone is invited to drive to the cool Bonnell ranch and enjoy an evening of good food and dancing. Music will be by Wilbur Coe and his western band. Serving will begin at 6 in the evening and dancing at 9. The price for everything is $1.25 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Services in Carrizozo For Ula Mayer

Services were held Sunday afternoon at the Baptist Church in Carrizozo for Mrs. Ula Mayer, who passed away at the Carrizozo hospital June 21 after an illness of a week following a heart attack at her home. Rev. Harris T. Ray officiated at the service. Interment followed in the family lot in White Oaks, the Shaw Mortuary in charge.

Mrs. Mayer was born in Brown County, Texas, the daughter of Anzor Jones and Susan Green Gilmore. She came to New Mexico in the late 1880's with her parents and lived near Alto. She later taught school in White Oaks and Bonita.

She was a past matron of Comat Chapter, Eastern Star (1929) and a member of the Carrizozo Woman's Club.

She and Paul Mayer were married in 1914. Her husband passed away in 1945. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Ora Tully of Glencoe, Mrs. Felix Miller of Tularosa and a number of nieces and nephews. Memorial bearers were Roy Harman, Henry Hoffman, Ed Turner, Vernon Petty, T. E. Smoot and Mr. Baxter.

Old-time Resident of White Oaks Visits Friends and Familiar Scenes in County

C. N. (Dick) McMains and Mrs. McMains, photographed a few years ago in Havana, Cuba, where they were vacationing.

C. N. (Dick) McMains of Long Beach, Calif., was visiting in New Mexico for several days last week. He spent Friday and Saturday in White Oaks, Carrizozo and Lincoln.

Mr. McMains was born at Cloudercroft July 9, 1884, to Columbus and Margaret McMains, while they were on their way to settle in Texas Park.

As a lad he went to school in White Oaks. One of his teachers was the late Mrs. Ula Mayer. Some of his schoolmates were Jim Cooper, Willie Gallacher, Nettie Lemon, the Leslie boys, Cliff and Corrine Hubbard, Ruth, Charlie, Will and Ed Tompkins, the Lee boys, Eddie Fitzpatrick and Cy Ramsdale.

When he was a young man Dick McMains punched cows in the summer time and worked in the mines during the winter. White Oaks, he recalls, was a thriving town of 4,000 up until about 1900 when negotiations to bring the railroad through town failed, and the mines began to close.

Carrizozo Officials Go to Santa Fe Re: Sewer Bonds

Carrizozo town officials were in Santa Fe Tuesday conferring with state officials on the sale of sewer bonds approved by the voters at this spring's election.

Those making the trip were Mayor Wayne Withers, trustees A. T. Roberts, Leandro Vega, L. Z. Manire and town attorney H. Elfred Jones.

Progress being made on the sewerage system installation will be discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the town board.

Sam Sampson, engineer for Ashby Classen & Associates, has arrived and started running levels in a field survey for the sewer system. He previously supervised the work of installing the town's new water system mains.

"We'll soon start digging again," he commented. "But it will not be so inconvenient for the public this time, as the sewer lines will be in the alleys instead of in the streets."

TOWN MARSHAL RESIGNS

Town Marshal W. W. Mercer has tendered his resignation, effective July 1.

Wrestling Saturday At Miller's Hall

Wrestling matches return to Carrizozo Saturday night at Miller's hall, again under the auspices of the Jericho Club.

Women grapplers tangle in the first match, Kathy Starr vs. Joan Ballard. Champ Thomas meets The Phantom in the second match. The finale is a mixed tag team.

In Monday night's card of all-women matches, Joan Ballard lost to Kathy Starr in a rough and tumble affair. Laura Martinez lost to Bonnie Bartlett. The losers came back to win a lively tag team match. At one point all four wrestlers were mixing it up in the laps of a front row of soldiers. The referee, trying to get the girls back up in the ring, had his shirt torn off.

Summer Recreation Program Begins On School Grounds

A summer recreation program is underway for the youth of Carrizozo with the Carrizozo High School as the site of the youth activities. John Voigt the recreation director announced this week.

A schedule of varied activities was announced for the youngsters with table tennis, badminton, basketball, shuffleboard, softball, volleyball and baseball available for the youths, both boys and girls, of the community.

The gymnasium, located in the high school building, will be the scene of table tennis, badminton, volleyball, shuffleboard and basketball games each morning of the week from nine until noon.

While the gymnasium will be the scene of these activities the playground, located directly in front of the junior high school building, will be available for youths in the 6-10 age groups, with slides, merry-go-rounds and swings supervised by Mr. Voigt, dividing his time between the gym and the playground.

The gymnasium will be open in the afternoons from one o'clock until five o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, from 1 until 3 o'clock, the gym will be available for the girls' activities, only, and the girls may participate in badminton, table tennis, volleyball, shuffleboard, and if enough interest is shown, a girls' softball league will be formed for Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

BASEBALL LEAGUE

A baseball league is to be formed with the division of teams by age groups and any boy 8 through 18 years of age is requested to sign up for league play with Mr. Voigt, immediately, in order to get the league underway.

Present plans call for the league to play games on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at approximately 3 o'clock, with each team playing at least once a week.

Any adults or high school grads who wish to coach a baseball team are requested to contact Mr. Voigt at the school. It is hoped that each team may have at least one adult coach.

If personnel for three baseball teams are registered, the baseball time and date will be changed from Tuesday and Thursday afternoons to Monday, Wednesday and Friday, dependent upon the interest.

If enough interest is shown a builder's group will be formed for children who are interested in building model airplanes, boats and etc. All children who are interested in this activity are urged to notify Mr. Voigt in order that material may be ordered and a room set up for this activity.

Gym hours are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 to 12 and 1 to 5; Tuesday and Thursday, 9 to 12 and 1 to 3—girls only in the afternoon.

Authorize ASC to Take Wheat Agreements

The ASC office in Carrizozo is authorized to take agreements for acreage reserve on wheat farms in Lincoln county for those who have a wheat allotment on their farms.

Payments will be usually from $1 to $8 per acre, depending on conditions on the farm. Agreements must be signed and approved by July 29 for this year's program.

J. J. Wright. We ran this store until the start of World War I, at which time Mrs. McMains and I moved to Long Beach. Mr. McMains was married in Douglas to Maud Eve McCullah in 1913. They had a son and a daughter, who live in Downey and Bellflower, Calif. Mrs. McMains passed away in January of this year. A grandson, Chuck Hamel, is accompanying Mr. McMains on his New Mexico trip.

After he was in Long Beach for about three years, Mr. McMains got into the service station and parking lot business. He acquired a string of these stations in Southern California, called Dick's Service. A year ago he sold all his holdings, but still retains his home in Belmont Heights, Long Beach. Five or six years ago he helped organize and became a director of the City National Bank, the only independent bank in that city.

"Several years ago," he said, "I used to see some New Mexico people at Long Beach picnics—John Canning, Harry Jacobs, George Bragg and Doc Lacy, who used to be postmaster at Carrizozo."

Mr. McMains and his grandson visited in Roswell Sunday and saw Carlsbad Caverns on Monday. While in Carrizozo he talked with Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lemon about having a reunion of Lincoln County people in El Paso some time in the future.

When Officer W. W. Mercer left his home Saturday morning and got in his car he found that it had been ransacked. Two articles missing were a blanket and a pair of pliers. Later that morning the officer stopped to question a stranger who was walking along Highway 350 near the overpass.

The man was Joe Alamanzar, 22, transient from Amarillo. The officer asked him where he slept that night and the man led him to a place beneath the overpass. There was found the missing blanket. When asked why he took the blanket, the man said "I was cold and hungry."

Why didn't you knock at my door? Officer Mercer asked him. "I'd have given you something to eat."

Alamanzar's eating problems have been solved for at least 30 days. He was given that time in the county jail and fined $5 costs for petty theft in Justice of the Peace Shaw's court later in the day Saturday.

AN EASY WAY TO SHOE A HORSE

The other day we met Jon (cq) Carberry, a rancher, on a street corner in Las Cruces. The conversation got around to horses, and Carberry told us about the way he has of shoeing his top, sorrel cowhorse, an unusually gentle and well-trained animal. "I noticed a few years ago," Carberry said, "that my horse had a habit of lying flat on his back on a soft, sandy place in the corral. Sometimes it was hard to get him up on his feet he was so comfortable. Sam is a very gentle horse and he doesn't make mistakes on the range, so I didn't want to be rough with him. Once or twice I had to drag in a bale of alfalfa hay and set it a few feet from him. That got him up."

"Sam's relaxing on his back gave me an idea. Shoeing a horse isn't an easy job. You have to take some of the weight of the horse, and it's not comfortable for a horse to stand on three legs when he's used to four. So I said to myself, 'Why not shoe this horse while he is lying on his back?' "Sam never kicked, and that made my way of shoeing him easy. One day while he was lying on his back and dozing, I quietly dragged in a bale of hay and set it right by his head. He didn't get up but just started eating the hay. I started shoeing him, and I finished before he had eaten all the hay. I wish I could shoe the rest of my horses that way. If you come by the ranch at the right time someday, I'll show you this easy way of shoeing a horse."

loved the wagon road leading to Lake Valley. At Tierra Blanca Creek they came upon two men asleep in the brush, with partly-filled bottles lying beside them. Picking up the bottles, Victorio smashed them against a rock. The miners woke up at the sound of the splintering glass and reached for their guns, only to see them pointed towards them in the hands of the two bucks.

"Kill them!" shouted the bucks. "No," exclaimed Victorio, "let them live. Drunkards are the white man's scourge."

Then he ordered the warriors to take turns kicking the two men along the road. For over a mile the bucks amused themselves in this way. Finally the miners were all fagged out and lay down in the middle of the road, refusing to go another step. The Indians kicked them till they were senseless, and rode on. Victorio's punishment kept the two miners on the water wagon for four or five months at least.

Permanente Co. to Build Cement Plant On Highway 60

Engineering for a cement manufacturing plant in New Mexico—the first in the State—will begin immediately by the Permanente Cement Company, it has been announced by Henry J. Kaiser, chairman of the board and president.

This is the first step in a proposed $10,000,000 investment in New Mexico, including a plant with an annual capacity of 1,400,000 barrels of cement, located at Scholle, approximately 55 miles southeast of Albuquerque.

The design of all facilities will be handled by Kaiser Engineers Division of Henry J. Kaiser Company. Present schedules call for initial operation of the plant during the fall of 1957.

The New Mexico plant will be designed as a single-kiln operation, using the "wet-process" method of manufacture; and allowance will be made for future expansion as market requirements increase. An initial work force of approximately 100, with a payroll of more than $500,000 annually, is contemplated.

LOCATION ON SANTA FE RY.

The site for the projected plant is located on U. S. Highway 60, near the geographical center of the State. The Santa Fe Railroad, natural gas and power lines run through or adjacent to the property. Permanente has an option on approximately 2,000 acres. Exploratory drilling shows indicated reserves of excellent cement-grade limestone, sufficient for more than 100 years of operation under presently planned requirements.

The chemical nature of the limestone deposits are extremely advantageous for the manufacture of cement; and the ample supplies of clay and gypsum, important ingredients in the manufacture of portland cement, are located nearby. Water, for use in the plant's "wet-process" system, will be obtained from wells to be drilled by the company.

Plant equipment will include a rotary kiln 12 feet in diameter by 450 feet long, one of the largest in the cement industry; raw and finish-grind mills; modern dust control equipment; packing machinery; complete quarrying and primary crushing equipment; warehouse, laboratory and administration building. Fuel for the burning operation will be either coal from the State's vast deposits or natural gas from the Southern Union Gas Company, depending upon relative costs. Electric power is available from the Public Service Company of New Mexico or the Rural Electrification Administration.

New Mexico's building industry is showing steady growth in new housing and commercial structures, much of which uses concrete-block construction; and the State has extensive oil and gas fields, which require large quantities of oilwell cement. Permanent atomic and military installations maintain a continuing demand for concrete in structures, buildings and airfield paving; and the State's mining activities, which include potash, copper and uranium, are major users of cement.

Three-Day Furniture Clinic in Carrizozo

A furniture workshop on refinishing will be held in Carrizozo on July 12, 13, and 14, conducted by Reba A. Smith, extension home management specialist. At this workshop, the ladies will actually work on articles of their own that they have selected to refinish.

Those planning to attend should remove the old finish from the piece of furniture they are going to work on beforehand. Miss Smith suggests the following method:

Styreeze is not as hard on the hands and does as good, if not better, than other types of removers. Clean all dust off the surface, and apply the styreeze with a brush. When fine bubbles begin to appear on the surface (usually in five to ten minutes) start scraping off the finish with a spatula. Do not permit the solution to dry.

STEEL WOOL MAY BE USED

Fine steel wool (triple O) can be used for the remainder of the finish which cannot be removed with a spatula. Successive coats of the remover are sometimes necessary before the wood is entirely clean. An old catalog is a convenient item on which to wipe the spatula. Be sure that the place where you are working is well ventilated, as the remover is inflammable.

If there is any glueing to do on the furniture, Miss Smith suggests that it be left until the workshop, as she would like to give instructions on this, and she also suggests that the sanding be done at the workshop under her supervision.

Miss Smith also suggests that some thought be given to the piece of furniture selected for refinishing. Is it worth the time spent on it? It should be of good wood, hard preferred to soft, and solid wood preferred to veneer, and be of good construction, not requiring too extensive repair.

Anyone interested in the workshop is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harkey are in Springerville, Ariz., on a fishing trip.

By PAUL BAKER

The News will be published Thursday of next week as usual, but due to the Wednesday holiday, copy for publication should be mailed a day earlier than usual.

When Floy Skinner retires from the service of the Southern Pacific next year he can start growing and shipping cherries. We had the pleasure of sampling some cherries he raised this year, as large and luscious as any grown in the famed cherry country of the Pacific Northwest. He said he had given this tree special attention, both in fertilizing and protecting the fruit with poles and netting.

George Wandell is also an experienced hand with cherries. We had the pleasure of tasting several of his sweet and juicy varieties. He has been picking from 12 different kinds of trees, among them the bling, biggareau, honey heart, royal purple, Gov. Woods, gold and tartarin. All these trees were well laden with fruit.

The best cherry crop in several years is being harvested around Nogal. Good crops were also produced on the Johnson Stearns and A. P. Sitton places.

The peach crop in that locality is reported to be almost a total failure due to frost and curly leaf. Prospects are good for apples, grapes, pears and prunes.

A practical joke that wasn't funny to any except those who pulled it off took place north of Corona Saturday. Three separate truck drivers who had come down Highway 54 into Carrizozo reported to the sheriff's office that a man had been shot along the highway about 10 miles north of Corona.

Deputy Sheriff Severo Gallegos and Deputies Pay Harkey and Vernon Petty left to investigate. Arriving at the approximate location of the "shooting" they met State Patrolman James Clayton. Each of the truck drivers had told the same story. As they were driving along the highway they came across four men who were apparently having an argument. One of them discharged a pistol, whereupon one of the four fell as if wounded. The truck drivers brought in a description of a car at the scene. The officers located the car in Corona and soon found four young men who admitted they had taken part in the practical joke. They readily told how the pistol was loaded with a firecracker in the barrel. The fuse was timed to go off at the proper moment a car came along and one of their pals dropped as if shot. The State Police are said to be considering prosecution of the young men involved in the prank. At least one of the truck drivers said a youth pointed the gun at him; the truckers lost considerable valuable time on the road, and the officers were out time and expense investigating.

Mrs. Stella Ann Reilly, dependent wife of Sgt. Reilly of Red Canyon, was flown last Friday by emergency litter plane from Carrizozo to Biggs Air Force Base in El Paso. There an ambulance took her to William Beaumont hospital. Following examination at the Carrizozo hospital it was determined that Mrs. Reilly's condition required a specialist and probable surgery. Two hours after Army authorities were notified the ambulance plane left Carrizozo with Mrs. Reilly aboard.

I went in and asked them if there was anything I could do. They said they didn't know, but the old gentleman had come up with them to look at the mine and just after he got there he passed out. "He's a big heavy man," one of them said. "We're not strong enough to carry him out and we don't know what to do."

The two men were Tom Grafton and his son Miles. The elderly man who had come with them was named Lucas. He must have weighed 220 or 230 pounds. Anyhow, I said we'd manage to get him out of there. We couldn't lift him on my horse because he was too big and too limber. So I said, we'll cut some saplings and make a stretcher.

We went to work with our pocket knives and cut some oak saplings. I had a saddle rope that I always carried and we weaved it around these saplings. I laid my saddle blanket on the stretcher and we put the old man on it. Grafton and his son were good men but they weren't very stout. I was pretty husky, so I carried one end of the stretcher and they carried the other end.

We took Lucas off the mountain for a mile and a half to Mr. Grafton's house. I rode to Parsons Mill and phoned for Dr. Lucas. He came and looked over the man who had the same name as his, and fixed him up.

Next week: An incident at Elephant Butte Dam.

CONTROL CODLING MOTH TO PROTECT APPLE CROP

Apple growers should prepare now for the next brood of codling moth which will hatch in July, usually between the 5th and 15th.

Most orchards I have visited have a clean crop to date, so why let that apple be ruined by this later hatch? Insecticides that can be used in this spray are: DDT, lead arsenate, malathion, also sulfur could be included to help control powdery mildew. If mites are a problem, use aramite or malathion.

'HOPPER CONTROL MEETING AT HONDO HIGH SCHOOL

George Fulkerson, in charge of rangeland grasshopper control work in New Mexico, will be the speaker at a meeting to be held at Hondo High School on July 2, starting at 7:30 p.m.

At this meeting, the rancher must decide whether or not he wants to participate in the grasshopper control program. The cost to the rancher is 20 cents an acre, with a minimum of 20,000 acres.

Last week, during a survey, the "hoppers were just beginning to hatch, but if a good rain comes a larger hatch is anticipated.

FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET AT BONNELL RANCH

Gilbert Terpening of the Wichita Bank for Cooperatives will be a guest speaker at the fruit-growers meeting, starting at 7:30 p.m., July 9, at the Bonnell Ranch at Glencoe.

Financial matters and possible changes in constitution will be the order of business. As the business at the meeting will have a great deal to do with the shed's operation in the future, all stockholders should plan to attend the meeting.

keeping Dick in the office rather than the constant companion of the governor as in the past. Simms this week was in Atlantic City at the governor's conference with a couple of young Santa Fe lawyers, Bill Federici and Sam Montoya, as his companions. Last conference it was Mr. and Mrs. Everett.

PARTY SILENT ON PRICE LAWS

Fair Trade Prices and Loss Leader Law — The administration has made no move toward meeting the howls of complaint about the guaranteed-profit-on-liquor law, and the limited ban on loss leader bargains enacted by the past legislature. A considerable number of Democratic candidates for the legislature have been promising support for repeal of both acts. (State-house Democrats are calling them the Wrong-Way Corrigan.)

Sen. Dennis Chavez — Indications that the senior senator by inactivity or possibly active opposition might jeopardize Governor Simms' run for re-election have been met with what looks like defiance. Chavez was denied the national committeeman post at the party convention and his people were excluded from the powerful party executive committee appointed last week. The most conspicuous absence from the group was that of Filo Sedillo of Valencia who is often the spokesman for the Chavez Democrats. The defiance was continued the other day when the governor congratulated his Economic Development Committee for bringing the Permanent cement plant to New Mexico after Chavez and his people had worked with the firm for the better part of a year in profiting the New Mexico location.

THE REPUBLICANS ALSO SQUIRMING

Meanwhile it appears that the other side is also scrambling to get right on at least one front. Former Gov. Ed Mechem who is going again for the job was quoted in the Albuquerque press a few weeks ago as undecided on what to do about the welfare laws. A couple of weeks later after he was chided for indecision he was quoted in the same paper as favoring the restrictive laws. This week the Republican candidate called for a change in the lien and relative responsibility measures.

GOOD DEMOCRATS GETTING JOBS

In less conspicuous action the statehouse has been meeting the complaints of job seekers by finding places for dozens since the early June convention.

Simms said shortly after the convention that he believed the action on the troublesome subjects had corrected the situation which caused so many to vote against his renomination in the May primary.

However, there are still some discordant spots.

Dick Everett — There were widespread complaints about the governor's $12,000-a-year secretary during the primary campaign and also among delegates to the state convention. Many of those leaving the convention thought they understood that Everett was to be removed and were surprised when indirect word came down that he was not to be disturbed. The only concession in that direction seems to be a new practice of

COMPTROLLER'S AND

The Mora school investigation which saw Col. William Salman, board chairman and member of the state board of finance, given a glasses-smashing slapping by Baracque Noybal, a former Mora Republican chairman, may lead into a series of charges against former boards as well as the present one.

GOVERNOR STRAINS TO SOFTEN DISCORD

SANTA FE, June 27 — Gov. John Simms is rewriting the music of his administration song in an effort to eliminate the four notes that almost got him beat for renomination.

Veterans Tax Exemption — Last year Governor Simms suggested the possibility of eliminating the $2,000 property exemption for veterans as a means of easing the state tax problem. Last week he told the American Legion convention at Carlsbad that the exemption would not be disturbed as long as he was governor.

Truck Weights — Governor Simms supported the 1955 legislative movement for a 20% increase in truck weight limits and militantly defended the legislation during his campaign for renomination. Last week he went before the highway commission and asked for a study to determine the effect of the higher limits on the roads.

Welfare Laws — Gov. Simms presented to the October special session of the legislature proposals for liens on the property of persons accepting welfare department assistance and mandatory requirements for children, if able, to aid in the support of indigent parents. This month he proposed to the state Democratic convention $1,000 exemption in the lien law and an advance in the age of children required to help parents from 17 to 21 years.

Labor — Leaders of the administration group, but not Simms himself, lacked only one vote (Lt. Gov. Joe Montoya's) in a high-powered movement to put through a measure to create a commission to hear workmen's compensation cases and eliminate the jury trial system that is currently practiced. The state party convention pledged retention of the jury trial system.
