MECHEM SHOULD BLAME LATE TOM GALLAGHER

Santa Fe, Nov. 8—The practice of allowing trucks to haul extra heavy loads of "natural" or "local" products started back in 1943 in what was almost a fist fight between Gov. John Dempsey and the late Tom Gallagher, Albuquerque timber operator.

The subject was an embarrassing one for Ed Mechem during the campaign who was advocating lower truck weight limits on one hand to protect the roads and heavier than ever limits for "local" products.

When Dempsey was elected governor in 1942 he was core at Gallagher who had supported his primary opponent and upon taking office one of his first acts was to write a letter to the state police ordering the arrest of Gallagher's logging truck operators for exceeding the legal load limits.

Gallagher, a member of the police board, got hold of the letter and stormed up to Santa Fe with the determined purpose of giving the law governor a stamping.

When the logging man entered the governor's office, Dempsey recognized the look in his eye and quickly commented that he had heard that State Highway Engineer Burton Dwyer had been making some trouble for Mr. Gallagher.

Instead of swinging Gallagher listened and soon the pair were enjoying turfs at cussing the highway engineer, Gallagher with the Dempsey letter in his pocket all the time. The conclusion was a proposal by Dempsey, which the legislature rubber-stamped, to allow trucks hauling natural products of New Mexico, logs and such, a 20 per cent tolerance over other cargoes.

EDC COACHES STILL SCORELESS

The Economic Development Commission which got so much attention in the recent campaign and in the 1954 run still hasn't anything to show for the $200,000 given the agency by the last legislature. The Kaiser cement plant in Torrance, which the EDC claimed as having brought here, was located in the state, according to company officials, by the decision of company officers who were invited by Sen. Dennis Chavez to make a New Mexico survey. EDC claims of having blocked a freight increase on mica were silenced after it developed that a big Texas roofing company had been responsible.

The original EDC was set up in 1940 with an annual appropriation of $25,000 and a $4,000-a-year director. In its two years of activity under chairman Bob McKinney and Director Vince Jaeger it was responsible for setting up a freight rate bureau in the corporation commission and for launching a state-wide inventory of all water resources on (Continued on Page 5)

He was fined $200 court costs, his driving license revoked and he was placed on probation. He is said to be a three-time offender on this charge, having had his driving license revoked two previous times and at the time of his last arrest was driving without a license.

County's Voters Turned Out in Good Numbers Tuesday

New Mexico voters broke a tradition in Tuesday's election by returning to office Ed Mechem as governor for an unprecedented third term. The former Republican chief executive on Wednesday had piled up a lead of 11,000 votes over his opponent, Gov. John F. Simms.

Lincoln County also established a precedent by returning to office a sheriff who had previously served two terms. S. M. Ortiz, Democrat, defeated his Republican opponent, Severo M. Gallegos, by 161 votes, according to incomplete unofficial election returns from the county's 20 precincts.

Two other Democrats won county offices: J. Emmett Reese of Ruidoso, county commissioner District 3, and Bryan Hendricks who was re-elected probate judge.

Mr. Reese's majority over his Democratic opponent, Wade King, was 210 votes.

Mr. Hendricks won over Paulino Aldaz in the race for probate judge by 73 votes.

County Republicans who won offices were incumbent State Senator J. G. Moore; W. G. Bradley for State Representative; Alfonso Soto, re-elected county commissioner, District 1; Clint Sultemeler, county commissioner District 2; Inico Hust, county clerk; John E. Wright, county treasurer; Marian Schlarb, county assessor. Mrs. Schlarb led the Republicans in number of votes, receiving 1661 to 1066 for her opponent, Emeterio Gutierrez.

President Eisenhower and his running mate Richard Nixon had captured 457 electoral votes in 41 states, with a popular vote of 33,212,225. Still unreported Wednesday night were results from 15,214 precincts over the nation.

Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver's electoral college vote stood at 74, in seven states, with a popular vote of 24,192,953.

747 TURNOUT IN COUNTY

Election day saw fair weather throughout the County. A total of 3935 votes were cast in the county out of a registered number of 4773, for a percentage turnout slightly in excess of 72%.

A total of 3293 votes were cast in the 1952 presidential election.

Precinct 18 - Lon - Distant about a hundred miles from the county seat, was again the first to bring in its ballot box. The Lon votes were received in the county clerk's office before 10 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Carrizozo 14-A's completed tally was completed shortly before midnight. The other boxes from the county's larger precincts started coming in after 2 in the morning.

In a contest for justice of the peace, Precinct 10, Alton Gray won over W. S. Campbell, 161 to 103.

Leo A. Joiner was elected justice of the peace in Precinct No. 2, 137, over his opponent W. E. Brady, 63.

Frank Canajas was elected justice of the peace in Precinct No. 13, receiving 221 votes to 203 for Herbert Smith.

Unopposed justices of the peace elected were E. E. Greisen, Precinct 9; Lee Lawing, Precinct 13; Everett W. Dame, Precinct 14 and John Mackey, Precinct 14.

The hospital levy carried 711 votes for to 233 against.

Former Governor Mechem was the only Republican to win state office. He carried Lincoln County by 570 votes over Governor Simms.

The Eisenhower-Nixon team did even better, coming out of the county with 1976 votes, a lead of 917 votes over the total of 1053 received by the Stevenson-Kefauver team.

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

(A tape-recorded interview describing the first jail in Lincoln.)

The following interview with Aunt Sally Slaughter was recorded in September 1953 at the Old Lincoln County Courthouse Museum. It has been loaned to the News through the courtesy of John Boylan, curator of the Museum.

AVUNT SALLY SLAUGHTER

We came to Lincoln County in 1878 from San Antonio, Texas. We thought our daddy had lost his mind when he decided to come to New Mexico. He said "Oriz, you won't have anyone to do the washing and you'll have to learn to cook and do everything."

I was about 17 years old when we came to New Mexico. We brought horses and mules from Texas. The Indians were in front of us and behind us along the way but didn't cause any trouble. When my mother came with a party three months later they were attacked by the Indians.

John Slaughter, an uncle, was already here when we came. He was sheriff of Tombstone for eight terms.

We first came to Roswell which was just a few houses then. I boarded for three months with Captain Lee. He was my cousin. They did their cooking over a fireplace. Mrs. Lee came from a big city and I felt so sorry for her. It was a nice place to board. We had good eats. I stayed with them until my husband—Will Slaughter and Charles Slaughter bought the Seven Rivers Ranch after they had been all over hunting ranches.

The Indians only caused trouble once when we lived at Seven Rivers. My father was coming back from the post office and they waylaid him and shot off the back of his saddle but he wasn't hurt. My father furnished beef to the Agency and later an Indian said in Spanish: "We almost got you." My father said, "But you didn't."

My father built a big adobe house with a dirt roof. One of those terrible rains came and I guess the water was a foot deep in the house. My mother had brought beautiful carpets from San Antonio. Mother just cried and my father said, "Oh, don't cry. I'll buy you some more."

Twice a year we had to go from Seven Rivers to Las Vegas to sell our wool. When we got to Ft. Sumner on one of our trips we stopped to buy corn. We had about eighteen head of mules to load and when we went to buy corn for them like we always did, Billy the Kid said: "I'm sorry, but there's just enough corn here for my eight men." He had beautiful horses tied to the rack. He was dressed so nice. He had on cowboy clothes and he had a green silk sash around his waist. He didn't look like a murderer. He smiled and said:

Desert Dan says

Heard a harangue on the radio the other night by the Socialist party of the U. S. They said it was OK for Egypt to take the Suez. That may be but they operate in that country but in America we make a down payment on what we want an arrange for monthly payments. I ain't sayin' that England and France are right. They used say that if the U. S. had stayed in the League of Nations there wouldn't have been any World War II. What's happenin' in Egypt makes that argumint look pretty silly. The United Nations might as well close shop if we goin' back to the 'days of Old World diplomacy an' phenaglin'.

LINCOLN COUNTY IN BYGONE YEARS

20 Years Ago
(From the files of the Lincoln County News, Nov. 9, 1936.)
"Lincoln County Goes Democratic" was announced in its election feature. Franklin D. Roosevelt carried the county, as well as Dennis Chavez and Carl A. Hatch senators and Clyde Tingley governor. Ben Greisen, candidate for sheriff, was the only county Republican to win an office.

L. B. Bacon and Carrie Roberts were united in marriage at Las Cruces. November 4 several local citizens watered their sunflowers carefully, then scraped them off their windshields. Mrs. Porter Stone of Carlsbad was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shelton, in Corona.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank English and son Frank visited Frank English at the NMMA in Escondido. Irvin S. Cobb tells the story of a Maine hunting guide who was shot at so many times by city slickers prowling the woods that he had a special cut made of awning cloth with broad stripes. But he got shot nevertheless. At the inquest the city slicker who got poor Eph was asked how he could possibly have mistaken him for a deer. "I thought he was a zebra," was the reply.

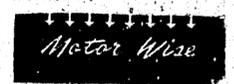

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Beltran returned to Carrizozo from a trip to Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Payne, daughter June and son Odell were in Texas to attend the centennial celebration. L. H. Burgess, principal of the Lincoln school, and teachers Miss Ofelia Miranda and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Trujillo were attending the teachers convention in Albuquerque.

(From the files of the Carrizozo News, November 10, 1916.)
The nation elected Woodrow Wilson president and New Mexico went Democratic in most of the state offices. In Lincoln County, five Democrats and five Republicans were elected. T. E. Kelley, W. W. ther absent or tardy were Lily Harkey, Estella Harrison, Clark Hunt, Nash Sanchez, Euda McMillan, Lorenz Stihmel, Fern Day, Henry Hull, Adelle Lalone, Harold Alexander and Cooper Warden.

The Carrizozo girls basketball team lost to Alamogordo 17 to 6, ending a string of victories for Carrizozo. The team was coached by Mrs. T. A. Spencer. H. C. Franklin was the team's manager.

Miller and Son were having a special demonstration and sale of the Great Majestic Ranges.

FOLKLORE CORNER

By TED RAYNOR

When Jesse James Hid Out at Hillsboro

Three men and a boy sat around a campfire at the head of the Mimbres River in the Black Range late in the fall of 1898. The men were talking about outlaws they had seen while the boy D. M. (Dan) Miller, then about 9 years old, listened.

That was the night the boy heard Old Spike, who had been a lieutenant with Quantrell's riders during the Kansas-Missouri border warfare in the Civil War years, tell about the time Jesse James, the notorious Missouri outlaw, had hidden out near Hillsboro.

Dan Miller, one of eight persons now living in the ghost mining town of Lake Valley, said that his father D. S. (Sam) Miller, recalled seeing Black Jack Ketchum, the Dalton boys of Missouri, and some of the younger outlaws in Tombstone, Arizona.

"But I never met Jesse James," Miller said. "Yes, you did, Sam," Spike remarked. "I met him when he saw a rider coming across the mesa, Spike kept on digging. He had his Long Tom handy on the edge of the hole because Apaches were still raiding."

Finally, Old Spike asked: "Do you remember on the street in Hillsboro in the early 1890's when I introduced you to a Mr. —?" (Dan Miller could not recall the name he had heard around the hunters' campfire.)

Spike then described what the man wore, and asked Miller if he remembered going to the back of the Keller, Miller and Co. store in Hillsboro with the person to whom he had been introduced.

"Yes, I remember that," Miller replied, "but what the hell's that got to do with Jesse James?"

Spike leaned back, laughed and said: "It wasn't anybody else but him."

And he told Miller he had visited and drunk with James on at least two occasions in the back of the store. In those days the whiskey was kept in the back of the store—a barrel of good whiskey on one side of the door and a barrel of cheap liquor on the other side. Whiskey was sold by the quart and gallon or by the drink. The store had no bar.

Old Spike related further to the Millers and Jim Stuck, the third hunter, how James had disappeared from Missouri and it was believed he had gone to California. Spike then lived right north of Gold Dust on the road between Caballo and Hillsboro. One was while digging in a hole for places on the flat, he saw a rider coming across the mesa, Spike kept on digging. He had his Long Tom handy on the edge of the hole because Apaches were still raiding.

Finally, the horseman saw Spike and rode towards him. Spike climbed out of the placer hole. As the rider came close, Spike recognized James, who also had been a lieutenant with Quantrell. They visited for quite awhile.

Spike told how he guided Jesse and his horse to a cave in that area and kept them under cover for about a week to give anyone on James' trail time to show up or go on by.

Miller said he believed James lived at Spike's house at the old placer camp, near Gold Dust; for several weeks after danger of pursuit was apparently over.

James promised him he'd go to California and quit his outlaw career, Spike said. The last time the placer miner saw James he was riding west.

(The outlaw was killed in St. Jo, Mo., by Bob Ford on April 3, 1882.)

About 1904 or 1905 Spike was fatally injured while driving a team with Vega Blanca headquarters of the John Cross Ranch, owned by the Los Animas Land and Cattle Co.

Several days before Spike told his story of hiding out near Hillsboro, Sam Miller had taken his son aside and remarked that he noticed the boy was having trouble saying "Mr. Spike" while the man called him "Old Spike."

"That's not his real name," Sam Miller said to his son. "But go on calling him Mr. Spike." He then told the boy Spike's true name and cautioned him to say nothing about their conversation.

Few people ever knew Old Spike's real name or that he had ridden with Quantrell, Dan Miller said. To the best of Miller's recollection Spike's name was John McAfee.

Garland Alvis took his family to El Paso on Wednesday to visit his mother, Mrs. Sue Edmonds. Mrs. Marvin Bombeck of Port Arthur, Texas, also made the trip as she's been visiting at the Alvis home for several weeks. Mr. Alvis returned on Friday and will go down at a later date to bring his family home.

George Dingwall and F. B. Lindamood were in Alamogordo on Friday.

The John Von Rosenbergs, Eldon Jones, Milford Brooks and Mrs. D. A. Kincaid were here from Albuquerque the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Love of Los Angeles are visiting her brother and family, the Jim McEuen's. Last week end they all made a trip to Carlsbad Caverns.

The Don Taylors of Alamogordo came to see her parents, the Lincoln Whites, on Saturday.

Donna Peebles has been out of school recently while she recovers from the measles.

The Jerry Peares of El Paso and Will Mayers of Clovis met for a week end at the Pearce's Gavilan Canyon home.

The Charlie Peebles were Roswell visitors on Thursday.

Research is being carried out to make wool more resistant to soil, as well as to acids so that it can take acidic dyes that give brilliant colors without damage. Wool is now being treated to make it more resistant to shrinking during laundry, as well as treatment that makes it moth-resistant and mildew-resistant.

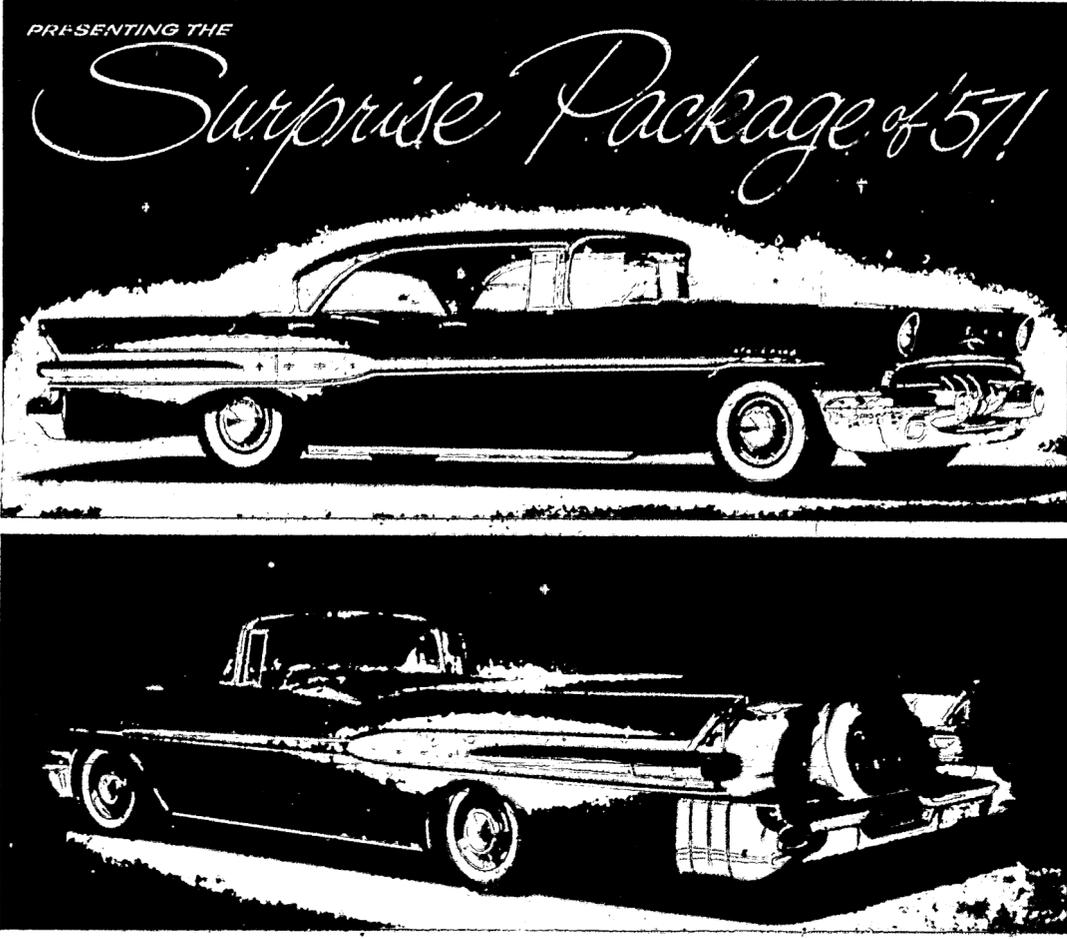

Research is also being done to make wool retain permanent pleats—that is, will hold pleats even better than today's wools. Some of the "good qualities" of wool are its resiliency, which makes it comfortable to wear and helps it keep its shape and resist wrinkles.

Wool appears this fall in tweeds, which may be heavy or featherweight, often brushed and patterned with a handloom.

Fresh from 100,000 miles of road tests, the '57 Pontiac is on display! Even a brief once-over of Pontiac's sleek new lines tells you that you're in at the start of a styling revolution. And that gleaming sheet conceals a carload of engineering "firsts"—all polished to watch-work perfection in the toughest test ever given a new car.

This '57 Pontiac pounded the road through 100,000 miles of tests... through it all Pontiac engineers refined and perfected every feature of this great car.

MONEY AND BANKING In Everyday Living

KITCHEN EFFICIENCY can be upped by observing industry's "unit load" principle in clearing the table. Carrying everything at once, on a tray or cart, conserves valuable time.

SAVING FOR RETIREMENT. If it's quite a way off, may not seem a pressing matter; but note this fact: Of approximately 100 million persons in the U.S.A. over 65, nearly 30% have not been able to stop working. For some it has been impossible to accumulate the cash reserve that they would like to have to supplement income from Social Security... from pensions... from great numbers of others, however, a big factor is just not having started soon enough to save enough often enough.

BROWSE IN THE BREADWINE STORE: we were struck with the large number of special-purpose tools available to the public nowadays—each designed to do one particular job... to do it well. We could help thinking "How like modern banking, with its wide range of special-purpose services—financial tools to meet the many and varied needs of Americans!" It pays to make full, frequent use of your bank.

CAPITAN

By MARGARET BENCH

A very enjoyable party was given by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Coker on Halloween night for their family and friends. Every one had a grand time at the wicker roost. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ragsdale and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ragsdale (Junior) and son, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McClaskey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young and son; also several of the W. W. Young children, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Neal and children, Mrs. John Philpott and children and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Macie Edmondson and Mrs. Leo Powell visited their doctor in Ruidoso last Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaMay had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Merchant left last Monday for Artesia to visit Mrs. Merchant's sister and spend the night. They attended funeral services for Roby Connor, then journeyed on to Wyoming, where they will be for a while on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Powell and Bobby visited Mr. and Mrs. Leo Robinson last Sunday afternoon.

A group of friends from the Nazarene church visited Grandmother Hipp last Sunday for a few hours. They sang songs and brought a message of cheer.

Our new band teacher has arrived from El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis and daughter Charlotte, of Alamogordo, visited Mrs. Davis' parents, Rev. and Mrs. Moore, and her two sisters over this past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greene and son Mike of Alabama arrived last Monday morning to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jones. Mr. Greene has just received his discharge from the service.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Williams attended funeral services for their son-in-law, Roby Connor, of Artesia, last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Provine and daughter of Las Cruces visited his mother, Mrs. Corrine Provine, and other relatives and friends last week end.

Winter has arrived early, with its cold winds, rain and snow. The moisture did not last long but it has left its cold touch. The Merchant Ranch reported an inch. The woods are in better condition for the approaching hunting season which starts Saturday.

Serviceman Hurdles Language Barrier

A letter from Guy Tom Howard to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Howard, expresses his joy while touring Japan. He is in the Navy, aboard the USS carrier Bon Homme Richard. Since language is a problem with him, he selected picture cards to show the Japanese taxi driver to show him where he wanted to go. In Japan's capital, Kyoto, he did not have a picture of the Imperial Palace, so he wound up at a tourist hotel named the Western — a comfortable place in complete western style.

On his way he stopped for a sandwich which cost him as much as three hours' ride in the taxi. He thought this was a strange set of values.

Someone entered the Cummins store past midnight last Saturday by removing a window on the east side, and left it out. This caused an ever-blooming plant (Sultana) to freeze. The prowler pushed the plant to one side as he entered the window. Hollis Cummins very much regrets the loss of the prized plant. It seems nothing was stolen from the store.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gallina of Memphis, Tenn., visited Mr. and Mrs. John Annaratone and son all of last week. Their visit was one of joy and happiness.

Mrs. Johnnie Werner and daughter Mary Lynn of Las Cruces have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Phillips of Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Travis Werner of Capitan. Ethelyn came last Friday and Johnny came for them last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Spears and two daughters, of Lovington, were here last Saturday looking over the hunting grounds. They visited the Leo Robinsons at their ranch home.

Tom Guick, who attends State College in Las Cruces, came home to see the Capitan - Tatum game last Friday. He visited his parents a short time and returned to Las Cruces.

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Hall are driving a beautiful 1937 4-door Plymouth in two tone grey and dark blue Savoy. They broke it in by taking her mother, Mrs. Ed Tonn, to her home in Lubbock, after a few weeks' visit with them. While in Lubbock they attended the Texas Tech homecoming game.

Girl Born to Service Couple in Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Marguerite Trujillo are the proud parents of a daughter born August 20. She weighed 7 lbs. and 14 ozs., and was born in Germany where Marguerite is in the service. Mrs. Trujillo is the former Irma Carvajal. Their many friends will be delighted to know that the baby's name is Margaret Linda and at two months of age weighs 11 pounds. Welcome, little lady. You are such a bright happy little baby in your picture.

Mick Guick will portray Newton Cooper, the town constable. Dale LaMay, acting Dr. Cameron a prosperous medical specialist. Rose Carvajal, will take the part of Paula Bailey, Mr. Bailey's niece.

Everyone is urged to attend an evening of laughs and spine tingling sensations.

Capitan FHA Officer To Attend State Meet

Phoebe Taylor, State FHA Historian, of the Capitan High School chapter, will attend a state executive council in Albuquerque at Valley High School, to discuss themes, goals, and ways of carrying them out and ideas for presentation of members on November 17, at 9 a.m.

TATUM TAKES SEMI-FINAL GAME

By BONEY ZAMORA JR.

The Tatum Coyotes displayed skill and strength as they ran over the Capitan Tigers by a score of 13-0, to gain the title of the Southern Regional Champions. Friday, November 9, the Coyotes met the winner of the Northern Regional contest between Menaul and Central of Kirtland, both winners of their districts.

Tatum brought a throng of fans to witness the gruelling contest on the Tiger field, Friday, Nov. 2 at 2 p.m. The battle was fought in extremely cold weather, but, nevertheless, the cold atmosphere didn't bother the strong Tatum team.

Joe Aldaz of the Tigers received the first kick-off of the game and rushed to the forty where Capitan lost the ball on downs and the strong Tatum force took over. Less than three minutes deep in the first quarter K. Byrum found a hole on the right side of the Capitan line and sped weaving and skirting to the side and finally across the goal stripe.

The Tiger Team commenced to march slowly and the ball still changing hands. Again in the hands of the Coyotes, the ball moved slowly downfield but a penalty returned them to where they started. Neither team showed any exceptional movements for the remainder of the first half which found the score still 7-0.

The final half of the game became a constant exchange of the ball and neither team possessed it long enough to count. Late in the third period Tatum's speedy QB Gary Fisher sneaked for their final score. The conversion failed and the rest of the game was played safe distances from either goal line.

Some of the Capitan boys who shone above the rest in offensive and defensive play were Joe Aldaz, Mick Guick, Dale LaMay, and Ernie Francis, centers, and Ralph Vance and Penny McKnight, juniors.

Game statistics:

USDA Increases Wool "Upset" Prices

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced this week that "upset" prices on Commodity Credit Corporation-owned wool being offered for sale under the competitive bid plan were increased approximately five per cent the middle of October. "Upset" prices are the absolute minimum at which CCC will sell its wool.

Interest in CCC stocks and other indications of a strengthening wool market led to the decision to increase the "upset" prices. Department officials pointed out that three million pounds of CCC-owned wool were sold in the sale for the first week in October. This is nearly half of the monthly CCC sales limit of six and a quarter million pounds.

While CCC-owned wools have been selling at increasingly higher prices during recent months, foreign wool prices have also continued to rise. U. S. wool prices still continue to lag in relation to the world market.

Forest Service to Sell Pulp Timber Acreage

Regional Forester Fred H. Kennedy has announced that the Southwestern Region of the Forest Service is preparing to offer 6 million cords of pulp timber for sale in the Colorado Plateau area of northern Arizona and western New Mexico. The sale will run for a period of 30 years.

The sale area will cover in excess of a million and a half acres of national forest timberland and will embrace parts of six separate national forests — the Kaibab, Coconino, Tonto Sitgreaves, Apache and Cibola.

Cutting will be confined to thinning and improving the extensive stands of young ponderosa pine in the area and to clear cutting alternate patches or strips in the limited acreages of mixed species types at the higher elevations included in the sale.

INSIDE CAPITAL

and under the surface and in the sky. The commission fathered an extensive study of rain-making.

In 1951 Rep. Jim Carr of Fort Sumner successfully blocked a new appropriation for EDC and it was dormant until revived in 1955 as a major part of the Gov. John Simms' program.

CENSORSHIP IN ROAD OFFICE

A new rule in the State highway department that only Chief Engineer Larry Wilson among all the 2,000 working for the outfit may talk to reporters threatens an information blackout on that $40 million-a-year agency. A series of unpleasant news out of the highway department led to the Wilson-only rule.

For almost 20 years under Highway Engineers Burton Dwyer, Pete Erwin and few others who were in for brief periods, the department was an open book for any who cared to look or inquire. The result was good. It brought about quick disclosure and correction of bad spots, promoted public confidence and led to the big reform of 1949 when the department was placed beyond the control of the governor.

One of the reasons cited for gagging all the department officers and employees except the boss was the news that came out last summer about the new federal road program and the plans of that time to take away all access rights to the super-highways.

It would have been a sorry situation now if that secret hadn't leaked. Property owners and voters at large would have been in a mood to vote the department back into politics and to fire everybody in the place. The Wilson censorship won't work. Similar gags have been tried repeatedly at the statehouse without success. At one time Gov. John J. Dempsey tried to channel all news of the whole statehouse through Joe Bursey, his secretary. It had to be abandoned after about a week.

Rich Comstock Lode To Be Worked Again

Washington—A multimillion-dollar hole in the ground is to be reopened.

This is the Comstock Lode in Nevada, producer of vast wealth in gold and silver during a lusty period of American history.

One of the richest mining areas ever developed, the Comstock helped finance the North in the Civil War, provided the basis for several American fortunes, rejuvenated San Francisco, and lifted California from a depression, the National Geographic Society says. As operations declined, the Comstock left on its doorstep one of the most famous of ghost towns—Virginia City.

The Consolidated Virginia Mining Co., one of the best-known names on the Comstock in its biggest boom period, the 1870's, recently announced it will resume work, developing with modern methods low-grade ore deposits unprofitable in earlier days.

Discovered in 1859 by a group of placer miners, the lode lies between two rock faces in western Nevada. It was formed perhaps 60 million years ago, geologists believe, by the upwelling of subterranean fire and steam. These earth fires still burn beneath the lode. Water as hot as 170 degrees Fahrenheit, gushing into the shafts, stopped deep mining efforts at the 4,000-foot level.

The men who worked these deep mines, sometimes in niches so hot their bodies had to be sprayed with cold water, sought bolsters recreation on the surface.

CULTURE AND DECORUM

Although more decorous than many mining camps of the period, Virginia City had its moments of excitement. Memorable was the opening of the first opera house which, with its successors, was to provide a showcase for such stars as Modjeska, Joe Jefferson, Buffalo Bill, Lotta Crabtree, and Edwin Booth.

Two feuding mine superintendents attended the opening in

HONDO VALLEY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETS

The regular meeting of the Hondo Valley Teachers' Association was held October 18 with Ernest Booky, president, in charge. The principal feature of the meeting was approving the constitution which is in the process of being revised. A committee was appointed to complete the revision, and present it for approval at the next meeting.

Mrs. Schram was appointed parliamentarian, an executive committee was formed, and a finance committee appointed. Mr. Simmons was elected delegate to the State teachers convention, and Mr. Cole was chosen as an alternate.

Attending the State Convention of the P.T.A. were Berlene Sanchez, Evangeline Montes, Olympia Herrera and Hope Silva.

talloats and Colt revolvers, which they soon put in use.

The history of the Comstock is laced through with stock deals of all kinds; battles under the earth between workers of adjoining mines; and such tactics as influencing the market by confining the miners underground to simulate a bonanza.

Gold and silver from the Comstock started many men toward wealth, among them George Hearst, father of the late publisher William Randolph Hearst. But the group that profited most consistently from the Comstock was the brokers who handled the stocks of the various mines. More than 50 of them acquired substantial fortunes.

Speakers at Youth Conference Stress Responsibilities of the Community

Several excellent addresses and a student and adult panel were highlights of the annual youth conference of the Third Judicial District, held in Carrizozo last Thursday and Friday.

Two addresses were on the agenda Thursday evening, one by Rev. William Lytle of Corona on "Spiritual Obligations of the Home and the Church," and Lt. Col. John J. McCarthy who spoke on "The Military Home."

Poor weather held down the attendance Thursday evening, but approximately 150 were in attendance Friday, including many school pupils who were excused from classes by Supt. R. G. Firman.

Kenneth Barnhill, chief probation officer for the Third Judicial District, presided over Thursday evening's meetings and introduced the two speakers.

SOLDIER REMAINS SUPREME ELEMENT OF VICTORY

Colonel McCarthy stressed the continuing importance of the man in today's mechanized and radar-guided warfare. The machine, he said, is the servant of man, not his master. His address follows:

Among some circles today, there is sometimes a tendency to believe that modern wars may be quickly won by means of mass destruction weapons which will make unnecessary the operations of ground combat forces. But our military planners believe that no assumption could be more dangerous to the security of the United States.

Man himself remains the supreme element of victory in combat. He is the only absolute weapon. The tremendous technological advances of recent years have enhanced rather than diminished his importance, and they have placed a premium on quality of mind and character which is becoming higher every day.

Skilled and brave men are still the vital ingredient of military strength, whether they fight in the air, in ships on and beneath the sea, or in the vehicles of land forces. The fighting men of all these elements carry or receive support from weapons and equipment of such complexity and precision as to make it seem that the human element has fallen to secondary importance. This is not, and never will be, true.

There never will be a machine that has courage, or that understands why it is fighting, or that can form a determination to carry on against all odds, or that can provide inspiring leadership. Machines are men's servants not his masters.

The Army, by the nature of its requirement, attaches the greatest importance to human values. It recognizes man as the basic element of human strength. Hence, it works constantly to improve the moral, physical and intellectual quality of its men. It creates for them an environment of decent, clean living, and of intolerance of vice, dissipation, or flabbiness.

Due to the continuous large scale personal contact involved in the nature of land warfare, the Army's recognition of man as the decisive element of combat is unalterable and fundamental. For this reason the Army strives to improve its members in every way that will enable them to be better men and better soldiers.

Within the Army there are numerous programs to aid in the development of our soldiers. These include projects in the fields of health, religion, education, and recreation. These are available because the Army, responsible for helping to defend the country, has accepted another goal to make the individual's period of service one of advancement. Thus, in the course of preparing to defend his country, the soldier also becomes a better person and better citizen. Fortunately for the Army and the American people the majority of men who have shown poor family training (weakness in character) has been small in percentage but there definitely is room for improvement. The Korean War was graphic proof of this situation as illustrated by the action of the American Prisoners of War. The brain washing techniques caught many Americans off guard. They were not prepared for it. Some were confused by it. A few may have believed the business. A great many of these people were teenagers. The inability of these boys to withstand this pressure was the chief study of a committee set up by the Secretary of Defense that these boys in question had lost their battle before they entered the service, due to the lack of proper family environment. Good citizens—loyal Americans—the responsibility for their building lies with the home, the school, the church, the community. When a man enters the armed forces, the military services must carry on with this development, under the handicap, in some cases, of improper family training and poor community guidance for the 18 years prior to the individual's entrance into service.

The proper guidance of youth is not only reflected in the community but in the nation as a whole, as the aggregate of character development is indicative of the character of a nation. Present world events point up the result of improper individual indoctrination found in many of the nations which have succumbed to Godless communist influence. Reputation is the world's measure of a man; character is what he really is. It is our duty as older citizens of this great country to see that the character of our youth is properly developed and that development begins with us as the parents, teachers and leaders of these young people.

PROBLEMS OF YOUTH NOT MODERN IN ORIGIN

Reverend Lytle's remarks, in part, follow:

Sometimes we get the feeling that the problems of youth are modern in origin. With that in mind, may I read for you a piece from a Buffalo magazine: "It is no excuse for parents to allege that children are more unmanageable now than formerly, for this simply confesses their own weakness. The truth is that in too many instances the father is so much engrossed by the cares of business and the mother by those of fashionable life that the children are left almost exclusively to their own guidance. The school boy of the last generation has given place to a race old in vice at an age when their predecessors had not yet thrown off the apparel of boyhood. It is ed to a tightly woven look. Oversized plaids in tweeds and flannels are checking in bigger than ever.

Jersey, too, may be found in the fabric department in heavy or light weight. Texture interest is knitted into patterned, ribbed, or brushed surface. Some are bulky knits with the real hand-knit look and is a favorite this fall in sweaters, dresses, and coats.

Flannel may be found in stripes and plaids in both bold and muted color combinations. Gray flannel, however, still has lasting appeal.

It's not so. The home reaches as far as the car can take our young people. We are a part of the community and have an obligation to it.

Survey the needs of your town and make an effort together to meet those needs.

Check the possibilities for the employment of youth.

Have the right attitude towards the youth who may possibly get into trouble. We have an obligation to help them, not to condemn nor ostracize, but to lift up and put back on the right road.

ASKS COMMUNITIES TO HELP IN REHABILITATION WORK

"If the school and community are not prepared to re-integrate the parolee on his release from a correctional institution, the efforts toward rehabilitation and money spent at the state level may be immediately negated," Gerald L. Hodgson told the 3rd Judicial District Youth Commission at the junior high school Friday morning, Nov. 2.

"Some communities incorrectly conclude that sending a child to an institution is an end unto itself — as though something magical were going to take place, in consequence of which the community would not need concern itself further with the offending juvenile," the New Mexico Boys School superintendent observed.

Hodgson pointed out that there are boys at Springer who are arbitrarily denied the right of return to their home and community. Children are also sometimes refused re-entry in the public school after they have been released from the correctional institution.

The most critical period in the life of a paroled boy is that immediately following his return to his community, the Springer administrator indicated. Without more guidance and help in the community, some of these boys may not be able to solve effectively the problems they will face.

The mine with nine lives

Kennecott's Chino Mine was established in 1910 on a revolutionary principle—mass mining and processing of low grade ore. Many mining men scoffed at working with 2% ore. Despite this, a new mine was born.

But even 2% ore didn't last long. In 10 years the copper content of the ore was down to 1.4%. In 20 years it dropped to 1%. Today, Kennecott is mining ore that averages .8 of one per cent.

By standards of the past, the Chino Mine should have died many times. But like the cat with nine lives, it's still very much alive. It continues to be one of the world's great copper mines.

Through the years, new methods, greater efficiency and better equipment have turned into ore, millions of tons of material that was once waste. The life of the mine has been lengthened.

Kennecott continues to try to lengthen the mine's life by practicing good conservation. Research projects seek methods for recovering more copper from low grade ore—millions of dollars are plowed back into the business for new and better equipment.

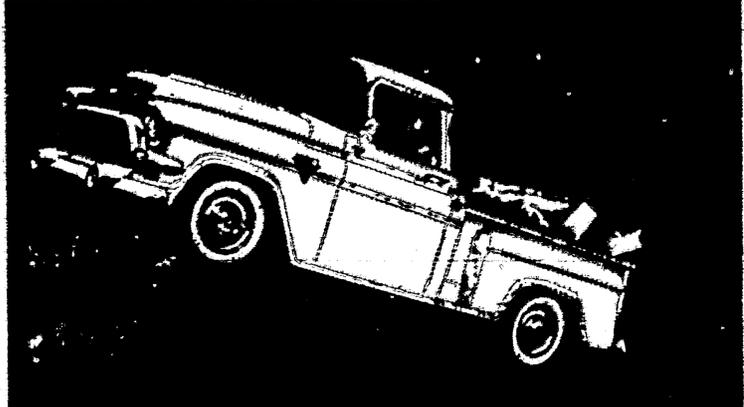

Lengthening the life of the Chino Mine means a longer life for the benefits of Kennecott's operations that help bring prosperity to our entire state.
