A HAPPY POND FOR LAME DUCKS

Santa Fe, Jan. 16—The legislature has provided a haven for refugees from the Republican invasion of the statehouse.

Larry Garcia, Demo chairman of Mora county who lost out on his bureau of revenue job is a "mail clerk" in the house for $37.50 a week. (The clerk job is kind of special. The house postmaster, Phil Guillen, no chairman, gets only $70 a week.)

Johnny Vigil, Demo chairman of Santa Fe county, who was displaced in the Republican upheaval is working for the senate as sergeant at arms at a salary rate of $126 a week.

His assistants are Barney Cruz, famous Mora county politico who lost his bureau job in the election upheaval, $37.50 a week, and David Calderon, a primary candidate for corporation commissioner, and another lame one from the bureau, $37.50 a week.

SOME DO BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE

Grace McAfee, the leading lady politician of the Simms statehouse was bounced out of her post as state personnel officer and landed in the senate at $175 a week as chief clerk.

Among her helpers are Qilinda Castner, wife of the former state auditor, at $140 a week, and Virginia Chavez, sister of Lt. Gov. Joe Montoya, $140 a week. Upstairs in the house Beatrice Beach Gottlieb, the former secretary of state who lost out in the bureau of revenue when the Republicans took over, is working for $140 a week.

Lulu Ortiz, secretary to the Demo revenue commissioner, Mike Gallegos, is working in the senate at $105 a week.

SALES TAX CHIEF GOES TO SENATE

Joe Callaway, an election victim in his post as director of the sales tax, is working for senate at $105 a week. Billie Martin, he's a male Billie, who was briefly and modestly in the house from Colfax, is working for the chamber at $70. Another from last year's list, Basheer Hindl of Torrance, is on at the same rate.

Both are assistant sergeants at arms working under the ubiquitous Joe Jaramilla, $87.50 a week.

The two chambers, incidentally, have a total of seven sergeants at arms, officers designated to keep the peace, at a cost of $6350 a day.

Willie Gallegos, cousin of the former revenue commissioner, who lost out on his job in the purchasing office, is working for the house at $105 a week. He has an interesting title—deputy assistant clerk. The assistant clerk, Al Romero of Roswell, also gets $105.

LOWEST RATE $56 A WEEK

Outside of "honorary pages" who get $3 a day and the chaplains who get $5 for praying, the lowest rate in the legislature is $56 a week. That is for janitors, operators of the automatic elevator, dogkeepers, cloak room attendants, an assistant postmaster in the senate, parking attendants.

It goes from $56 up to $175 for the chief clerks.

The two houses have approximately 65 employes at about $4,000 a week. The senate is making sure of safe handling of its mail. Two people at a total cost of $20 a day have been employed to put letters in the boxes of the 32 members.

TWO DIRECTORS

It was a tense situation in the half-bending office at the capitol early this month, two directors no less. Agnes Martin of Las Cruces who held the $500-a-month job as secretary of the state board of cosmetology during the earlier Mechem administration and for three fourths of the Simms administration, showed up at the office and said she was Chevrolet shows you some important differences in low-priced cars just by the look on its face!

Wouldn't you say that most of the '57 cars look good from 50 feet away, but what about from 50 inches away?

What does a close-up of the grille tell you, for example? Is it solidly made like the new Chevrolet grille? Or, in comparison does it look less rich in design—feel less strong and solid? Compare the quality and construction of the bumpers and headlights, the fit of the chrome trim.

The more closely you look all around the car, the more clearly you'll see that Chevrolet has the edge in the way it's put together. You'll find, for instance, that Chevrolet is the only car in its field with a lacquer finish... that only Chevrolet Bel Air models give you foam rubber cushions in front and rear seats as standard equipment. These are just a few of the advantages of Body by Fisher. And Chevrolet, you know, is the only low-priced car that has a Fisher Body.

We'll be glad to give you a close-up, comparative look at this new Chevy any time you care to come in. This week, maybe?

What's ahead for NEW MEXICO in 1957?

Here's a short, factual review and forecast for telephone users in New Mexico which may interest you—and could offer a surprise or two!

- In 1956, your Telephone Company... provided the means for a total of $30,000,000 local and long distance calls
 - ... added nearly 16,000 new telephones
 - ... paid nearly $4,800,000 in federal, state and local taxes
 - ... employed over 2,000 men and women with a $9,700,000 annual payroll
- Of course, we're proud of these achievements. But, like other businesses in this expanding economy, we've got to grow with our state.

So, in 1957, your Telephone Company will need to spend over $14,000,000 on new telephone buildings, the equipment to put in them, and the lines and cable to bring better service to our customers' homes.

That's a big order, requiring lots of time, lots of money. But we think we can deliver it our earnings are sufficient to attract investors to place their savings in the business.

It's also a challenge, and one we're proud to accept.

FOLKLORE CORNER

By TED RAYNOR

THE PREACHER AND THE COWMAN

The father-in-law of a Lordsburg minister ran a goat ranch south of town. A small cattle rancher had a place in the vicinity of the goat ranch, and it was said that sometimes the cowman didn't care whose cattle he put a brand on.

One day the preacher was riding horseback to visit his father-in-law, and he saw a man driving some cows and calves. Thinking he would be friendly and sociable, the preacher started to ride across to where the other fellow was.

At that time, if a man were taking someone else's cattle, he would wave his arm to an approaching person to keep away. The preacher was from another part of the country and he did not understand this sign language. He mistook the wave for a friendly gesture and rode over to where the cowman was.

The rancher said: "Don't you understand when a man waves at you, that means to keep going? If I hadn't recognized you as that damn fool preacher, I would have taken a shot at you."

A number of years lapsed, and the minister quit preaching and went into the cattle business. And the cowman started preaching. One day the former preacher saw the cattleman, but the latter did not seem to recognize him. The ex-minister said:

"You don't seem to recognize me."

The other replied: "Yes, I recognize you. You're that preacher who used to be at Lordsburg. I was a cow thief then. Now I'm a preacher and you're the cow thief."

LADY WHO KNOCKED OUT A COWPUNCHER

In 1897, B. T. Corder of Las Cruces, then 12 years old, was helping his father, Noah H. Corder, work cattle along the head of the Nequas River in the Rock-springs, Texas, area. The trail took them through a canyon in which there were small settlements of persons who had a little land and a few goats and cattle.

As they drove the hawling cattle past the ranch of an old lady who had two or three milk cows and three calves, the calves tried to follow the herd. The cowboys chased the calves back several times, but one finally got in the herd. They were a mile or a mile and a half from the old lady's ranch before they were able to cut the calf out of the herd.

Corder and his uncle, Tom Schrier, drove the calf back and put it in a pen. When the old lady came out to the gate, Schrier told her what a hard time they had had in getting the calf out of the herd. She then told Corder and Schrier what she thought of cowpunchers driving off her calves. The more the old lady talked, the madder she got. Finally, she said to Schrier:—

"I have a good notion to take a rock and knock you off your horse."

Corder's uncle kind of smiled and replied: "Lady, I wouldn't spoil a good notion."

He was rolling a cigaret and wasn't paying much attention to her. He didn't see her pick up a rock and throw it. The rock hit him behind the ear and he fell unconscious from his horse.

The old lady thought for sure she had killed Schrier. She ran into the house and dashed back with a bucket of cold water. Corder poured the water on his uncle and in about five minutes or so he revived. The woman was most apologetic.

The incident tickled Corder and he was laughing over it as they rode on to catch up with the herd. It wasn't funny for Schrier. He turned to his nephew and said:

"You keep your trap shut. Don't you tell that cow camp about this."

Last Year's Tax Forms Useful for Reference

Federal income taxpayers who sought aid last year from the New Mexico Internal Revenue Service offices should be sure to dig out their 1955 returns as a guide in preparing the 1956 forms. If they had questions or problems then which will recur this year, District Director S. P. Vidal cautions taxpayers.

"There is little change in the forms normally used by most taxpayers except for a few points of clarification and generally improved typography," Mr. Vidal said. "These minor revisions are not likely to affect problems which were common to many taxpayers last year and which we were happy to help solve."

"Taxpayers referring to last year's return, while working with the 1956 forms and the excellent new instruction booklet, should be able to come up with the right answers without too

Muto testimony, to quote Embrey, that "Beyond a doubt there had been a fight to the end, probably over a harem of does as this is their mating season, and this nice eight-pointer had lost the battle."

Good Fishing, Right Now

Fishermen in the Clayton and Fort Sumner areas ought to be doing some pretty good fishing just now. Two thousand rainbow trout 8 1/2 inches long were planted in the stilling pond below Alamogordo Dam in the week ended January 12.

Personnel of the Department of Game and Fish treated the water during December, to remove a good quantity of carp and suckers. When the water had thoroughly cleared, the trout planting was made.

Early Lamb Shearing May Increase Returns

Shearing lambs before starting them on feed can increase returns.

In tests at Colorado A&M College, five lots of lambs were clipped and the other left unshorn. The shorn lambs not only made a more economical gain, but they grew a two-inch fleece, making them eligible for an incentive payment on their weight as well as their fleece.

The daily gains of the unshorn lambs were 27 a pound a day compared with 32 pound a day for the shorn lambs. Feed costs for shorn lambs were $2.10 less per hundred weight of gain than on the shorn group.

When the lambs were marketed, the unshorn group sold for $18.50 a hundred compared with $18.75 for the shorn group.

Adequate shed room must be provided for protection of shorn lambs during periods of inclement weather.

Cattle May Soon Bite Back at Hefty Grubs

Entomologists have been working for a long time to find an insecticide that can be fed or injected into the bodies of beef cattle to destroy heel-fly grubs before they bore holes in the hide on the animals' backs.

Many insecticides have been rejected either because they were ineffective or because harmful residues remained after their use.

Latest news on this front is that an apparently successful systemic insecticide (one that works internally) has been found. It's Dow ET-57, an organic phosphate chemical with an almost unpronounceable name: O,O-dimethyl-O-2,4,5-trichlorophenyl phosphorothioate.

Preliminary tests indicate that one dose given orally to an animal just after the heftly season ends, will move throughout the body to destroy both northern and common species of grubs before they break thru the hide.

ET-57 will not be available commercially, however, for some time. Although considerable research has been done, it will take at least another year to investigate fully its effects on treated animals, possibly residues in meat and dairy products resulting from various size doses, the most practical means of administering the insecticide, and its performance in different geographical areas.

In preliminary tests, one dose of ET-57 given by mouth was sufficient to kill 92% to 100% of all grubs within a few days. Long-lasting residues appear unlikely to occur in the meat of treated animals, but more work is being done to determine the necessary time limit between treatment and slaughter. Presence of residues in the milk of treated cows for several days suggests that ET-57 will not be satisfactory for treating dairy animals.

Research on ET-57 is being done by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Dow Chemical Company, and by several state experiment stations.

Meanwhile, the search for new and even more effective systemic insecticides continues.

Irrigation Exposition Is Top Event on Agricultural Calendar

One of the top events on New Mexico's agricultural calendar for 1957 will be the Southwest Irrigation Exposition at the Otero County Fair Grounds, Alamogordo, February 15 and 16.

The first ever to be held in the state, the Exposition will feature educational and commercial exhibits and demonstrations and lectures on about every phase of irrigation agriculture, from the source of water to the marketing of irrigation crops.

The two-day event is being cooperatively planned by the Otero County Extension Service, the Upper Hondo and Macho Soil Conservation Districts, and the Otero County Electric Cooperative.

Helping to stage the Exposition will be county and state extension workers, irrigation specialists, soil and water conservation officials, farm equipment manufacturers and dealers, and farm organizations.

Firms interested in exhibiting their machinery and equipment should contact Walter Wade, Otero County extension agent at Alamogordo. Those who wish to demonstrate certain types of equipment should telephone or write J. Leo Dirnberger, extension agricultural engineer, State College, New Mexico.
