

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

(Continuing the reminiscences of an early-day railroad man in the Southwest)

By A. A. FREIERBERGER

Before my tenure on the S. P., on my first booming trip from the Blue Ridge Mountains in Tennessee and Kentucky to the West, I worked for the E. P. & N. E., starting at what is today Oro Grande. At that time it was Jarilla Junction and there was a four-mile branch up into the old Apache lookout hills, called Jarilla. It had been the scene of a big gold strike years before, which then died. I was there when the second rich strike was made and when it was changed to Oro Grande and a smelter was constructed.

William Fleck ran a lot of cattle on his ranch and leased government lands running 40 miles along the E. P. & N. E. He was one of the finest Christian gentlemen I ever knew — cultured, religious, very intelligent, a man who was eminently fair and good, in a land of dumb, dull, vicious renegades, who would rather cut a man's throat for a two dollar bill than do ten minutes' work to earn it. I was a companion of his young son and I always thought I profited greatly by knowing him. I don't think his name ever got into history, as did that of John Chisum, but he was in every way the equal of that famous man.

Hereford was the last station in Texas. Once at Desert, a sand storm undermined the track and the Golden State tipped over, harmlessly lying on its side in the sand. Above Jarilla Junction was Turquoise, where opals could be found freely, and just above that toward Alamogordo, was a station Ford Canyon.

Going north from Alamogordo, there were the old stations of Temporal, Three Rivers and Ocuero. I still see them there. Albert Fall was then developing his fruit ranch up the headwaters of Three Rivers and beginning to enter politics.

Carrizozo then had a mountain branch up to Capitán where there was coal. Not far away over the mountains was White Oaks, an old gold camp, and above that, Fort Sumner, the stamping ground of Billy the Kid. Once roaming the hills back of Coyote, I found a cairn of rocks, inside which was a wrapped log which contained a scrawled paper. It showed the claim boundary of Wm. Bonney.

Carrizozo as I knew it, had a large depot, back of which were a dozen or so buildings. The largest was the railroad hotel and hash house. It was run by a fine woman whose husband we called (behind his back) "Dead Eye Dick." He was true western in looks, 10-gallon hat, boots, handlebar mustache, and sported some sort of a deputy's badge. He was a deputy and he sported his badge of six guns and cartridge belt, and met all the trains at the station to show off his toughness to the admiring tourists.

Going up the line, Ancho was there, with a small cement mill, and once I worked at Gallinas ("chicken" in Spanish) where the night operator and I thought we would start a chicken business. We actually built a long building of adobe bricks but we never finished it and never raised a chicken. The prairie was still full of prairie chickens, sage hens and large blue quail, the kind that didn't whistle "bob white." Incidentally, my old Martin rifle and cartridge belt are probably still rusting in that cache out from Coyote where I stashed it that day of the blizzard and never found them.

What is Vaughn today was Exira then, with a coal chute and water column. I was there when the Helen cutoff was laid which crossed the E. P. & N. E. there. Secretly, in the middle of the night, the crossing was laid. The E. P. & N. E. yielded gracefully without a gun fight.

A lot of the business of the E. P. & N. E. in those days was hauling water in tank cars and I peddled water to the long hauls for 2 cents a gallon at many places. The only time those natives ever got a bath was three or four times a year when showers fell. I became a skillful soap shovel cook, also, when I fired an engine there for a while. The 272-mile division from Santa Rosa to El Paso never took less than 16 hours and from that up to four days. So to eat, we grabbed out the soap and cooked rabbit, quail or a hunk of venison, fried apaches and onions, etc., in the soap stews like the Arabs. Once in a while we made flapjacks in the soap.

Would you remember a man named Silverman? He was a conductor with that unusual name and was an excellent man in every way but one. He had a dynamite temper when riled. Once in an argument he shot and killed his engineer, threw the body on the back of the coal pit and ran the engine himself to El Paso. Assembled at the table, he poured the engineer's blood. I was the fireman and helped to clean him.

Rosella Gonzales Hondo Valedictorian

Principal John A. Hamilton of the Hondo High School has announced that the highest scholastic honor of the current graduating class goes to Rosella Gonzales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Gonzales of Hondo.

Virginia Torres, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Torres, will be the salutatorian of the class. The theme of the valedictory will be "The Importance of Education Toward Personal Adjustment."

Commencement exercises will be at 7:30, May 17, in the Hondo High School gymnasium.

Out there, it was 12 hour shifts, seven days each week and as much extra hours without overtime as a few of the lowly train detectors chose to hold us. Now you have, I suppose, a five day week, 3 hours a day, and frankly, I sometimes wonder what you fellows manage to do with all your spare time.

Seminar a Feature At Postmasters' Annual Convention

By ALLEN LINDAMOOD

Silver City was the setting of the state convention of postmasters and postal supervisors, with the Murray Hotel as headquarters, on April 25, 26 and 27.

It was a highly successful meeting in every way. A large group attended and enjoyed the inspirational and instructive talks by representatives from Washington, Denver and Albuquerque.

The business sessions were held in the ballroom of the hotel and were highlighted by speakers of distinction. The postal seminar, which has proven so beneficial to all, the past few years, was again one of the convention highlights.

The Honorable David H. Stevens, chief post office inspector from Washington was guest speaker at the closing banquet Saturday night. He gave the reasons and explanations for the curtailment of postal service on April 13, saying the department regretted the circumstances necessitating the action and sincerely hoped the lesson learned will be a profitable one for all concerned.

Mrs. J. P. Turner, chairman of the county NFIP chapter, states that this is the first time that funds have been made available for adults of this age group. "This vaccine is being supplied primarily for those adult persons who cannot afford the cost of vaccination from a physician," Mrs. Turner said. "All others are urged to go to their private physicians."

In the past, the national foundation furnished vaccine for second graders during the special field study in 1954 and for first and second graders in 1955. Federal funds were made available in October 1955 for the purchase of vaccine to be used for children up through 10 years of age and pregnant women.

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

A petition is to be presented to Tuesday's meeting of the Carrizozo town board requesting an extension of present building restrictions in certain residential blocks and raising the minimum building costs from $5,000 to $7,500.

The time seems ripe for a study and revision of Carrizozo's out-of-date building code. For one thing, building costs have doubled since the last ordinance was passed in 1940.

It has been suggested that the fire zone be extended, which would require fire-proof construction in additional areas in the business district.

It has also been suggested that the town board consider restricting trailer parking to licensed trailer parks.

A further extension of non-residential building into new areas does not seem necessary at the present time.

Carrizozo has adequate room in the foreseeable future for business expansion within its present business district. There are vacant buildings that can be modernized and plenty of vacant lots for new construction.

Improving and enlarging our present business community would not only make for a more compact trading district but, also improve the looks of the town.

A revamped building ordinance is needed, defining various types of new construction so that building, both residential and commercial, can go ahead in an orderly manner.

Additional Red Cross annual collection funds have been received from Mrs. Truman Spencer Jr., $13, and Mrs. Vick Lopez, $15.70, in Carrizozo; a third report from Mrs. Charles Fuller in Pileacho, $13, and Mrs. Gladys Nosker, Glencoe, $25. A postcard from William R. Sullivan in Los Angeles suggests a remedy for serious traffic violations, not yet tried: "Fines have not solved traffic violations. Better results might be obtained by impounding the car for a few days. If we had to do without the use of the car for a while we might begin to understand the rights of the road." Cab Calloway discovered the other day that looking north on F at the courthouse, he got a perfect view of his new duplex, just off E avenue. Den 4, Cub Scouts get a surprise inspection this other night by none other than Mayor Wayne Withers and Sheriff S. M. Ortiz. The Cubs passed inspection with flying colors. An event looked forward to by their many friends in Lincoln County is the forthcoming golden wedding celebration by Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Skinner. It is May 19. Sen. Dennis Chavez reports receipt of a letter from a gentleman in New Mexico which wound up with the comment: "If you've got any flower seeds, send them to me, because I would like to get something for this 'income tax'." All anyone has to do who has any doubts about the younger generation these days is look around and see what the teen-agers are doing and saying. A case in point is a letter in the recent issue of the El Paso Times, written by Mary Nickels, in which she gave some of her views, worthy of an adult's thinking. We have plenty of reasons to be proud of our young folks today. See below:

In his speech on "Curriculum Development to Meet the Needs of Youth in the Twentieth Century," Ellis F. White, director of the division of education of the American Social Hygiene Association, told the recent 1937 convention of the National School Boards Association in Atlantic City that, contrary to his own opinion, many people today are saying that the behavior of the younger generation is worse than it has ever been. Said Mr. White:

"Listen to what one person gloomily pointed out: 'The children now love luxury; they show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents... and tyrannize over their teachers'."

"Who said that?" continued Mr. White. "It was said by Socrates about 2,500 years ago."

If a man runs after money—
He's a money mad.
If he keeps it—
He's a capitalist.
If he spends it—
He's a playboy.
If he doesn't get it—
He's a ne'er-do-well.
If he doesn't try to get it—
He lacks ambition.
If he gets it without working—
He's a parasite.
If he gets it after a life of hard labor—
He's a fool who got nothing from life!

Highland, Ill., News Leader: "In these days a depression would be a period when people do without what their parents never had."

Wally Ferguson A&M Senior Class President

State College, N. M. — Wally Ferguson of Capitán was elected president of the senior class for the coming school year in the recent all-campus elections. He is a 1964 graduate of Capitán High School and is the son of Mrs. Louise Ferguson.

A junior agriculture major, Ferguson is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, national social fraternity; the "A" Club; and has served as president of McKie Hall, the athletic dormitory. He was elected Greatest Aggie in the popularity elections held earlier this year.

One time a man doesn't call a spade a spade is when he trips over one in the dark.

Ask Taxpayers to Keep Tax Return Records

A reminder to Federal income taxpayers to retain their copies of returns filed in the recently closed tax filing period was issued this week by District Director S. F. Vidal of the New Mexico office of the Internal Revenue Service. Records of income and expense used in preparation of the return also should be kept.

"Tax records must be retained for at least three years from the deadline date, April 15," Mr. Vidal said. "There is always the possibility that a taxpayer may be called upon to furnish proof of his income and deductions. Keeping copies of returns and records will help both him and the revenue service in such cases."

Student From Holland Visits Lincoln County

A college student from Holland recently enjoyed a trip to Roswell and Lincoln County. She is Miss Els Bender whose home is in a small town in the north of Holland.

Miss Bender spent the Easter vacation with her college friend, LaVoyce Hayes, at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Hayes of Roswell. The two girls are students at the University of Oklahoma.

Miss Hayes is a niece of T. O. Hayes, Lincoln county, rancher. She and Miss Bender visited the Hayes ranch for a short time on a day's trip that included the Mal Pais and Cloudcroft.

Miss Bender has found college life much different in America than in the Netherlands. "The students are much closer to the professors here," she says. "In the Netherlands they don't care whether you come to class or not." Also, walking across the OU campus to classes is much different than riding a bicycle to school 7 1/2 miles a day.

In Holland, she says, couples are usually engaged three or four years, and girls seldom marry until they are about 24. Holland has a population of 500 people to the square mile and there is a great housing shortage. Sometimes couples with one or two children have a chance of getting a house, but usually families all live together or live in apartments.

Miss Bender will return to Holland in August and go to school in Amsterdam next year.

State College, N. M. — A three-day school for engineers and personnel of water and sanitary facilities will be held at New Mexico A&M College May 1 to 3.

Eunice Successfully Defends Track Title

By BILLY LOPEZ

Eunice High School defended its District 5B track title Saturday at the NMMA cindertrack at Roswell by piling up 124 1/2 points to lead seven schools. Hagerman placed second with 48 1/2 and Billy Hicks and Greg Pino with 15 and 10 points respectively led the Carrizozo squad to third place with 40 1/2 points.

Billy Hicks placed in five events, winning the 880 yard run in the time of 2:09.9, 3rd place tie in the high jump, 3rd place in the broad jump, 4th in the 220 yd. dash and ran a leg in the 2nd place mile relay. Greg tied for first in the pole vault with a jump of 11 feet, 2nd place in the shot put with a throw of 42 ft. 5 inches, and ran an 880 in the 4th place medley relay.

Both Billy and Greg will enter the State track meet this week end in Albuquerque. Billy will be entered in the 880 yard run and Greg in the shot put and pole vault. This will be the third time that Billy has gone to state and the second time for Greg.

Ten out of the 14 making the trip scored in the meet either in field or running events, with Fat Aguilar and Buddy Duncan next highest individual scorers with 5 and 3 1/2 respectively. The Carrizozo track team placed in 11 out of 17 track and field events.

Coach Albert Burch said he was very proud of the good showing the team made in the meet and during the season. He said that everyone who went out for track lettered either by placing in district or scoring 15 points during the regular season. He said that Hicks lettered in every meet during the season.

Those making the trip to Roswell were: Fred Vega, Joe Petty, Roger Pope, Robert Ortiz, Fat Aguilar, Buddy Duncan, Gene Hite, Jessie Howell, Louie Sandoval, Bobby Stearns, Larry Ortiz, Robert Firman, Greg Pino and Billy Hicks.

Carrizozo will have an intramural track meet next week during their P.E. periods running a few events each day. Coach Burch said it would be a toss-up between the Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

EARLY FARMING DAYS IN THE VIRDEN VALLEY

"We didn't need money in those days except to buy a few clothes, pay taxes, and pay the fiddler at country dances."

Hampton Cosper, 80, of San Simon, Ariz., and Lordsburg, was talking about early farming days along the Gila River in the Virden Valley of southwestern New Mexico. He farmed in the valley from the age of 10 until he retired at 75.

"You could buy a pair of overalls then for six bits and they'd last for six months," Cosper recalled.

"Yes, we had a hard time living, but I enjoyed it," Cosper said.

Finding the money to pay taxes was a problem then as now.

Sometimes the taxes on dad's farm of 240 acres were $20 to $25 and he had a hard time raising the money," the Hidalgo county pioneer recalled.

The Cospers always had plenty to eat and good houses to live in. The scarcity of cash was due mainly to the fact that they lived by a sort of barter system, exchanging corn, hogs and chickens with stores in Duncan, Ariz., for food and other necessities. About all the food they needed to buy was coffee, sugar and salt.

They traded with the stores on a year's time. Hampton, his two brothers and his father received the equivalent of a cent a pound in trade for their corn, which one Duncan store owner shipped to Clifton, Ariz.

Hampton Cosper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cosper, pulled out of the drought-stricken Abilene, Tex., area when he was 10 years old. Cosper's dad had a little bunch of cattle that he drove from Texas to the Luna Valley in New Mexico, where he sold them. The family came into the Virden Valley in 1887, and the elder Cosper bought land from an old bachelor, William Wilson, who was somewhat of a character in the valley.

The Virden Valley, with its plentiful supply of water from the Gila, seemed like heaven to the Cosper family after the drought in Texas, where crops wouldn't grow. A farmer could grow anything to eat in the valley, Cosper said.

Hampton's dad bought rich farm land for about $25 an acre and that now sells for $500 to $600 an acre. Eventually, Cosper's three sons bought farms in the valley. The Cospers lived in an area on the lower Gila extending from the Arizona line to the lower box on the river in New Mexico. For some time after the Cospers settled there, only seven families lived in that area.

The Cospers raised corn and hay, and of course lots of vegetables for their own use. "You got 100 bushels of corn to the acre," Cosper said. The corn was shelled, sacked and sold by the pound.

Corn was planted by hand, by a man walking behind the plowman. The type of cultivator the Cospers used has long since gone out of existence. It was a plow with three small shovels on two beams, drawn by a horse walking between two rows. A farmer had to go up and down a row twice in order to cultivate it properly.

Despite the back-breaking work and the scarcity of cash, there were compensations for the early-day Virden Valley farmers, Cosper said:

"A farmer never went broke, and he never had a crop failure. The (Gila) river came down every July. It rained more then and you didn't have to irrigate as much. The muddy water of the Gila fertilized the land. After an irrigation a two-inch deep scum of muck from Gila water would lie on the land."

Annual School Concert Receives Applause From Large Audience

By JUDI MERANDA

The Capitán High School Department of Music, under the direction of J. Sando Morrison, presented its annual concert on Thursday, April 25, in the Capitán school auditorium before a large and appreciative audience. Leading off with the National Anthem and the Capitán fight song, the Junior Chorus rendered a selection of folk songs of America, Russia, England, Scotland, Hawaii and a medley of popular music.

Mary Guck, a pleasing young alto, sang "Carolee Jacobsen's 'A Little Pink Rose'."

The Senior Chorus program included such songs as Harry Robert Wilson's "Tribute to Song," "Darkness is Falling" by Charles Winther and Palestrina's "Gloria Patri."

The Capitán Men's Quartette (Walter Jones, Jerry Lobb, Jim Kerr and Ralph Vance) delighted with their singing of "Carry me Back to Old Virginia" and "He."

"The Incognito Serenader," a Mexican Folk Song and "Gilt on Board, Little Children," an American Negro spiritual, and a medley of popular songs including such favorites as "A Rose and a Baby Ruth," "I Almost Lost My Mind," and "Round Dog," brought to a close an outstanding program by the two choruses.

The band, composed of 41 young artists in new uniforms recently purchased by the Band Boosters, introduced its program with two chorales, followed by "The Victory March," "Sunset Waltz" and the "Pianissimo" overture.

Harold L. Walters' Overture, "The Westerners," was followed by Charles Williams' "Dream of Olwen," a piano solo with band, with Carol Allyn Bonnell giving a superb performance at the piano.

As a finale to the evening's entertainment the Queen and her escort gave a number of the dance routines together.

Farm and Ranch

By RALPH DUNLAP
County Extension Agent

Three top yearling ewes will be given to a junior exhibitor by the 9th ranch at the Lincoln County fair to be held in Capitán on September 23-24, 1957. The ewes will be awarded to the most deserving boy or girl who exhibits at the fair. Make plans now to attend the fair.

Grasshoppers are likely to cause damage this year due to the spring moisture. A control program can be done in Lincoln County if the ranchers want it and organize early to get the 'hoppers before they lay eggs. The rancher, the state, and the federal government each share one-third of the cost.

If you find isolated infestations of 'hoppers, usually in a low place, you might easily save yourself a large amount of money by spraying the area early before the 'hoppers move. Dieldrin is an excellent chemical as it will last a long time.

At the Lovelace ranch during shearing they told me of their experience with being dieldrin as a spray to kill the sheep tick. They sprayed all their sheep, lambs included, at lamb marking time last year, and even at shearing this spring I did not see one tick. Another added benefit was no screwworms on the ram's head due to the residual spray in that area. During the spraying, the men were not too careful and let the spray drift back onto them. The result was a couple of sick men.

Indications Point to Good Apple Crop in Hondo Valley

Last week County Agent Ralph Dunlap made a hurried survey through the apple orchards in the Hondo Valley.

"Present indications" he said this week, "are for a good crop of apples in the Hondo area. The late blooms on the Red Delicious will decide the fruit crop above Glencoe, as they had a freeze that killed most blooms that were open. Early freezes reduced the bloom set in most orchards, but there are enough blooms left for a full crop in most orchards."

"John Thomas has a good crop of peaches showing on his trees. The lower third of the tree has very few peaches, but the upper part is well loaded. He is having trouble with ants—especially around his peach trees. These ants spread aphids out on the peach trees so that they can collect honeydew from them."

"The ants can be controlled by a trunk and ground application of dieldrin, aldrin, or chlordane. Dieldrin lasts the longest, and possibly 'hoppers slightly move. John has put on his calyx spray on the Red Delicious, but plans to wait about a week to put it on the late blooms.

"For early mite control Bert Pfingsten is using Genite 325 along with his calyx spray of lead arsenate and karathane for mildew. Another new mite killer is keltthane; also ovatron will kill the mite eggs. Remember, any insecticide is poisonous, so take care to protect yourself when you spray. Proper clothing, along with a respirator, are good safety precautions."

U. S. POPULATION GROWTH STIMULATES INDUSTRY

U. S. News and World Reports computes that the 4 million babies born this year in this country will need, during their lifetimes, 1,059,000,000 pairs of shoes, 91 billion gallons of gasoline, 25 billion pounds of beef, 6,300,000 electric refrigerators, 200 million tons of steel, etc.

SENATOR CHAVEZ STILL HAS CRITICS

Santa Fe, May 1.—Sen. Dennis Chavez' return to the Democratic fold last week was celebrated by northern New Mexico Democrats but many party people from other parts of the state are still sore about the walk he took last fall when the Democrats lost the governor run.

Demos in this area are happily telling that with Chavez back in the party (he's scheduled to be one of those running) they can recapture the governor's office and the jobs they lost the first of the year.

Remarks heard from eastern New Mexico Democrats and some in the south are not so forgiving. There is also the Albuquerque inner-guard of the Gov. John Simms administration, considerably weakened in influence since the Simms defeat but still of some muscle which is plotting revenge on the senator.

The people mentioned the most as possible challengers for the big job in the Demo primary next year are:

Former Land Commissioner Johnny Walker. He's seriously studying the situation, traveling full time in his voting machine and parking meter business and doing quiet politicking on the side.

Former Gov. John Simms. He's another serious one but is not meeting with as much enthusiasm as he would like.

Seaborn Collins of Las Cruces, the former national commander of the American Legion hasn't shown himself as interested in the race but there are a lot of people who like to get him in.

Former Senator KELSEY HOSPITALS

Former State Sen. Bob Palmer of Deming is responsible for Atty. Gen. Fred Standley ruling out a proposed scheme in which half a dozen laboratories would have handled all the blood tests called for under a new state law requiring tests for venereal diseases for those applying for marriage licenses.

The proposed regulations, worked up by M.D.'s, would have restricted the $5 tests to laboratories operated by M.D.'s who devote more than 50% of their time to laboratory work. There are only a few such laboratories clustered in the Santa Fe-Albuquerque area.

It would have ruled out scores of hospital laboratories operated by registered technicians.

Palmer, whose wife is a member of the Deming hospital board, came steaming to Santa Fe.
