Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

Tap Recorded Interviews With People Who Helped Build Lincoln County

Dee Harkey, now 90, of Carlsbad, N. M., is one of the most outstanding of the early-day law enforcement officers in the southwest in the turbulent days before and after the turn of the century. He was a deputy sheriff at the age of 16, serving under his brother Joe who was elected Sheriff of San Saba County, Tex. in 1860.

Later, in Carlsbad, Officer Harkey had six sets of duties. He was Sheriff J. D. Walker's deputy, a constable, town marshal, cattle inspector for the Cattle Raisers' Association, inspector for the Cattle Sanitary Board of New Mexico and a United States deputy marshal. He traveled widely over the Southwest in the performance of his duties.

In the first chapter of his book "Mean As Hell" (U. of N. M. Press, 1948, $3.00) Dee Harkey writes: "I was born March 27, 1860, at Richland Springs, San Saba County, Texas. My parents died in March and April in 1863, when I was three years old. There were 13 of us children in the family, eight boys and five girls. It was my father's request that Joe, my oldest brother, who was 17, take care of the family and property and raise us children. John was the second oldest boy. Joe and he ran the farm in 1863 and 1870."

Following are excerpts from a tape recording made at the home of Dee Harkey in Carlsbad in 1933 by John Boylan, curator of the Old Lincoln County Courthouse Museum. The news has been given permission to use the tape. Numerous incidents mentioned by Mr. Harkey in the interview are also recounted in his book "Mean As Hell" which should be read by everyone interested in the history of the Southwest.

By DEE HARKEY

When Chief Justice of New Mexico, Charles E. Brice, and Mrs. Brice came to Carlsbad we were neighbors. Mrs. Brice is a fine writer and when I wrote this book "Mean As Hell" I got a wonderful letter from her. She told me that she was so ashamed of that name because "I lived by you so long and I never heard you use a cuss word in my life and never saw you mad and I wanted you to have that name changed."

The book was so named because we took this position: If there ever was a bunch of people I had to deal with that were as mean as hell it was this bunch. We thought the name was very appropriate and we didn't want to change it. I guess I finally got it squared with her. They are wonderful people, the Brices. People don't know them like I do for they've never had the chance for so many contacts.

When they came here Mr. Brice and I were partners in the saw business for ten years. We got to know each other, there isn't any doubt about it. I used to go to Judge Brice for legal advice and he'd get into more scrapes than I ever did and I'd have to get him out. He's a wonderful chap. I expect I saved both their lives one time, but I didn't deserve anything for it. Of course the whole Brice family thinks kindly of me because of that.

I heard on good authority that two outlaws, Ross and Good, planned to kill Judge Brice when he left Roswell to go to Lovington to hold court. These outlaws were supposed to come to Artesia in a plane. I got there ahead of time and when the plane came in I passed on word to them for them to get out of town within ten minutes. They decided to separate, Good going to Oklahoma and Ross to Montana.

This Ross was a mighty bad actor. He had killed a man over in the Indian territory where he and his brother had a ranch. That's what put him on the dodge to start with. He was to have been tried in Judge Brice's court for stealing cattle. It seemed like I fell in with all of them. I didn't have any pets. I was just up against all of them.

Some of the judges were willing to draw guns if they thought it necessary. I remember old Judge Freeman especially in this connection. Down here at Pecos I'd arrested Vic Queen for stealing cattle and Judge Freeman, who had retired from the bench, and a lawyer by the name of Campbell were defending him. Leo Dow was a witness in the case. They were trying Queen in the school building down there and the schoolhouse was plumb full. Vic Queen was recognized as a notorious outlaw. Leo Dow was a witness against him.

When Freeman was questioning Dow on the witness stand Dow got mad and said to Judge Freeman: "Don't you indicate that I'm a liar!" To which Freeman replied: "You ARE a liar!" They both grabbed for their guns and Freeman had one about that long. I never saw a gun like it.

I grabbed Dow's arms and a fellow I had with me by the name of Ed King dropped his pistol against Dow. Freeman was saying "Turn me loose! Turn me loose!" I said, "Now you two cut it out. I'm not going to let you kill each other here." I wish you could have seen that. There wasn't anyone left in that building except me, Judge Freeman, Campbell, Dow and King. Of course that stopped the court. The old judge ran off in a jiffy and we couldn't get him back from his house so we all went down there. We put this fellow Queen under bond for murder and for stealing cattle, too.

Freeman carried his gun all the time he was judge. He was a fighting old rascal and I understand he fought a duel before he came here. You know I told in my book about him coming down, to help me out.

Officers Investigate Two Car Accidents

The office of Sheriff S. M. Ortiz reported two traffic accidents this week, neither of which resulted in serious injury to the driver.

A taxicab, belong to Bill Harcrow of Alamogordo, and driven by James Dunn, ran into a bank along Highway 54, ten miles south of Carrizozo at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning. The driver, who was not hurt, stated the right rear tire blew out.

A car driven by Ernest Elise of Red Canyon ran off the shoulder of Highway 360 into the Mal Pais at 2:40 Tuesday morning and overturned. The driver stated that he went to sleep.

Youth Arrested After Stealing Five Cars

A trail of stolen cars, starting from Alamogordo, led across Lincoln County this week and ended at Cine's Corners. According to Sheriff S. M. Ortiz, James Beal, a juvenile from California stole two cars in Alamogordo before driving one of them to Carrizozo. Here he abandoned it and stole another car belong to Blackwell, a soldier.

In Corona this car was exchanged for another one which was later abandoned in Enclino. The youth then hitch-hiked to Cine's Corners.

There he was picked up by State police. It is stated that stolen merchandise, two revolvers and ammunition were found in his possession.

Beal, 17, was returned to Carrizozo by State Patrolman James Clayton and his case is being handled by probation authorities.

Block Ranch Couple Lose Home in Fire

By MARGARET RENCH

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Britton and children, who lived on the Block Ranch where Mr. Britton is employed had the tragic misfortune to lose their home and most of their possessions in a fire the afternoon of Monday, Dec. 31. Only the TV set was saved.

Mrs. Britton smelled smoke as she was watching the TV program "Queen for a Day." Upon investigation she found the house was on fire. The fire had short-circuited the phone, but a neighbor saw the smoke and called the Captain Fire Department. By the time it arrived the house and contents had burned.

Natalie Britton had stayed in Captain to attend a 4-H party at the school. Origin of the fire is unknown.

Intoxication Test Given Arrested Driver

A T or C motorist, arrested at Hondo when he ran a stop light at Hondo and charged with reckless driving and DWI, asked for a blood test to substantiate the charge of intoxication.

Len Pinson was arrested at Hondo by State Police Officer Parrish of Roswell on December 19 and turned over to State Patrolman James Clayton. Approximately two hours after his arrest Pinson was given a blood test at Carrizozo hospital. The test showed only 0.1% of alcohol present in his blood.

Appearing before Justice of the Peace Clarence E. Shaw, Pinson was bound over to district court where he was later found guilty of reckless driving and assessed $100 costs.

Delvin Zamora, charged in district court Friday with DWI and reckless driving was found guilty on the former charge and assessed court costs of $150. His license was revoked for one year and he was placed on probation for a year. The reckless driving charge was dismissed.

In district Court December 21 a contempt of court case, Mario Maloy vs. Joe Maloy was dismissed following agreement. District court convenes January 18, 19 and 31, with Judge W. T. Scoggin presiding.

Grizzlies to Test East State Cagers

Fl. Sumner and Dexter, two cage fives who won their way to the final eight in the State basketball tourney last year, will invade the Carrizozo Grizzly gym this Friday and Saturday evenings, to open the 1937 cage season.

The Grizzlies, who currently own a 6-3 record, will be out to avenge two setbacks suffered last year from these same opponents and the hopes are high in the Grizzly camp of adding victories seven and eight to the slate.

Although the Grizzlies will be hampered by the lack of practice sessions since their last outing with Captain, when they were edged out by a 59-52 decision, both Ft. Sumner and Dexter have been inactive from any regular scheduled contests during the Christmas holidays.

The Grizzlies were reported to be in top shape for the busy week end with the exception of Lake Hite, who has been plagued by a bad back. It is expected Hite will be out of competition for several weeks. Emilio Beltran, Lewis Greer and Robert Simpson are all capable replacements for the six foot senior and will no doubt see action this week end.

At the guards the team's leading scorer, Billy Hicks, will no doubt get the starting nod with Scott Lewis and Maxie Saucedo, capable hands at the other guard spot. One of the most improved lads on the squad, Rodger Pope, will be at the pivot post with Greg Pino at the other forward.

During the holidays the Grizzlies elected tri-captains for the season, Billy Hicks, Rodger Pope and Greg Pino. The Grizzly "B" team will get action underway at 7 o'clock Friday evening against Ft. Sumner when they put their undefeated record on the line for the sixth time this season.

LAVERI JAGGERS ON WAY TO FAR EAST

To Show "Wool Squeeze" Machine

At the county wool growers day January 26, at the Carrizozo Women's Club building, the squeeze machine perfected by Professor P. E. Neale of N. M. College of A&M, to calculate the clean weight of any fleece on the shearing floor, will be shown.

After two years of testing, the machine tests within 2% of the actual scoured weight of the fleece. The use of the squeeze machine, estimated to cost about $100, will help the wool grower select his highest producing sheep more accurately.

Before this time the factors of body weight, wool density, and wool length had to be estimated separately. With the use of the wool squeeze machine, these factors will all be taken into account in getting the clean fleece production of the sheep. Under range conditions, better ewes produce over 6 pounds of clean wool and the best rams approach 10 pounds of clean wool.

Other subjects to be discussed at the meeting are: Predatory animal control, price trends of wool, and core testing, along with a general discussion of problems of the sheep raiser.

ASC Asks for Lists Of Available Cattle

The Lincoln County ASC office requests the listing of cattle available for the Mexican cattle buying program.

Sellers who have cows up to 5 years and bulls up to 3 years are asked to give their name, location of cattle, breed, age, quality, weight and the asking price.

Herman McKibben of the ASC office also states information is needed on how many days will be required to have the cattle ready to show.

Sellers are asked to contact your ASC office and leave the listing. A buyer will be in the State the latter part of this week.

EVAN MECHEM FOR CONVENTIONS

Santa Fe, Jan. 2.—Gov. Ed Mechem will show himself as a political brawler if he continues to encourage repeal of the direct primary and a return to the convention system of selecting candidates.

Mechem and his predecessor, John Simms, suffered attacks of truthfulness the other day and both owned up to favoring conventions.

Most all politicians hate the primary but seldom admit it because most all the voters and editors like the system.

The contention by Simms wasn't so bad being no longer obliged to flirt with the voters, fresh out of being clubbed in a primary and a Democrat whose party has had nothing but grief from the system.

Mechem's candor was more surprising. He's up for trying to stay popular and is a member of a party that thrives only when the Demos have knocked themselves out in primary fighting.

VOTING RECORD SHOWS RESULT

Since the primary was inaugurated some 19 years ago the Demos have had trouble in the big elections only after party-splitting fights in primaries. They didn't always get beat but they had some close calls and it got really serious in 1930.

That was when the Demos busted wide open in a tight battle. (Continued on Back Page)

SOIL BANK CLOSES TO N. M. FARMERS

New Mexico farmers have already used up and exceeded their pro rata share of the national allocation under the Conservation Reserve phase of the Soil Bank Program, says John O. Kling, extension economist at New Mexico A&M College. Consequently, no new contracts can be made. However, sufficient funds will be allocated to cover existing contracts that were signed prior to December 7.

Of the $450,000,000 national conservation reserve allocation, the amount set aside for New Mexico is $1,869,000, based on equitable distribution between states.

Kling says the State ASC Committee is presently working with the Soil Bank division of the SCS in Washington in an attempt to obtain additional funds for New Mexico. However, until such time as any increase in funds becomes available, no further sign-ups will be accepted.

Carrizozo Water Well Down 185 Feet

Carrizozo's newest municipal water well, being drilled south of town, was down 185 feet Wednesday afternoon.

The drilling was in a rocky formation with showings of water encountered.

The well, being drilled by Ray Taylor of Lincoln, is located on a rise between Hughes Hill and Willow Hill.

New Utilities Manager Arrives in Carrizozo

Lloyd F. Toplift, new manager of utilities for Carrizozo, and Mrs. Toplift arrived Saturday from Palmyra, Mo. They are staying temporarily at the home of Mrs. Gusale Johnson.

In returning to Carrizozo, Mr. Toplift took over a position he formerly held about three years ago. He has been manager of utilities in Palmyra, a county seat town of 2200 population.

Juvenile Sent to Girl's Home

Polly Sanchez of Carrizozo, a juvenile, has been committed to the girls home in Albuquerque. The placement is said to be temporary until a foster home is found for the girl.

Corona 4-H Club Plans Parents Night

The Corona 4-H Club invited 4-H members and prospective 4-H members along with their parents to the 4-H meeting on January 10, at 7:00 p.m. in the community room at the Corona school.

At this time, officers will be elected and members signed up for their projects. Movies will be shown to the group.

The 4-H Club program involves not only the boys and girls who are actual members of a local club, but the entire family, both rural and urban.

Every family that has children in the 4-H club becomes involved in 4-H club work in some way. Most of the 4-H project work is done at home, and encouragement and help from parents and other family members is important. In return club members get into practice some of the latest techniques in homemaking and agriculture which they have learned in 4-H.

Another advantage for the 4-H family is the competition that 4-H club work provides. The usual responsibilities around the home and ranch become more interesting. The added incentive of awards and honors makes a 4-Her try to do the best possible job.

Many parents serve as adult leaders of local 4-H clubs and learn from personal experience about the opportunities offered to 4-H members. Others participate in special 4-H programs such as family night, club tours or achievement days. Parents who enter into 4-H club activities find them rewarding family pastimes. A 4-H family is a happy family as they work and play together.

Local 4-H clubs are enrolling new members now. Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 21 may join 4-H, the organization for the whole family. Contact the county extension agent or the local adult leaders.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Lincoln County Municipal Hospital Auxiliary is to have an important meeting January 8, 7:30 p.m., at the Woman's Club building in Carrizozo.

The Auxiliary is to have its annual election of officers.

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

Carrizozo is proud of its fine hospital and the work of the doctors, staff, nurses and the hospital auxiliary in giving excellent attention, along with many courtesies, to the patients. The latest verbal bouquet to the above, comes from Mrs. Nellie Kelly, who has been a hospital patient for several weeks. She says, "Will you please thank all the people, and the doctors and nurses who have been wonderful. I will never forget the attention and courtesies given me."

Postmaster Herman E. Kelt says the Carrizozo post office did a record business this Christmas. The failure of some holiday packages to arrive until this week was attributed to congestion in a West Coast terminal. Speaking of the holidays, brings New Year's resolutions to mind. We asked a couple of friends if they would like to have their New Year's resolutions printed in the News. One replied that he hadn't made one for forty years, why start now? The other friend said he tried to live by the Golden Rule every day. To our way of thinking, a day-by-day approach to life of doing unto others as you would have them do unto you is much preferable than taking a brief fling at the better life around New Year's. A rumor in Carrizozo that a prominent Lincoln County Democrat and businessman of Lincoln had taken unto himself a wife, was without foundation, the News has learned.

A traffic safety expert advises motorists: "Don't trust the other driver! What's a fellow supposed to do? Get off the highway? ... J. Edgar Hoover says there have been 2 1/2 million major crimes committed in the past 12 months. And we like to talk about the lawless days of the old frontier. Maybe the principal difference today is that everyone is more polite and the lawbreakers are captured before their heads are blown off.

U. S. Senator Dennis Chavez says the year 1937 "can be most challenging to New Mexico." He outlines some of the legislative goals, as follows: "I am especially hopeful that we will obtain a port of entry at Anapra, that the Air Force will reopen a sizeable base at Hobbs, and that something can be done about the roads from La Madera to Petaca for the mica business and from Red River to Questa as well as other small connecting roads. I know we are going to make real progress in soil conservation under the new watershed program, thanks to the cooperation of the State Engineer's office, and I hope the state and municipalities and towns will make full use of the Water Pollution Act, which was another piece of legislation out of my Committee on Public Works, for the improvement of sewage disposal systems. If we can strengthen small business in New Mexico, both through the State Legislature and Congress, we will have done a very worthwhile job."

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN IN REMOTE AREAS VISITED BY DENTAL OFFICE ON WHEELS

Santa Fe, (Special)—Bringing the mountain to Mohammed may be just a figure of speech to some, but to the Dental Health Division of the State Health Department, it's being done every day!

The "mountain" is the dental unit on wheels and "Mohammed," in this instance, is none other than hundreds of children who live in remote sparsely settled sections of the state, far removed from dental care.

"The demand for the mobile dental unit has been so great that we can't possibly fill all the requests," Dr. Dave Striffler, State Dental Director, commented. He noted that included in the Health Department's budget for the next year is a request for the purchase of a new and more complete mobile dental unit and the addition of another dental health educator to the staff.

"If the budget request is granted," Dr. Striffler noted, "we will be able to schedule many more areas than are now being served."

The mobile dental unit, now in its third year of operation, has proved a real boon to children of more remote counties who have been given first priority. Each community is asked to match half of the operating costs for each day that the unit is present. In some instances the estimated cost of the community per dental operation has been as low as 22 cents.

The mobile dental unit is now at Springer Boys School where dental treatment will continue to be administered until January 4. Communities to be visited during the next school term are: Vaughn, January 14-16; Loving, January 20; Carlsbad, February 4-March 20; Jal, March 27-29; Anton Chico, April 1-4; Lordsburg, April 8-May 10; and Animas, May 13-16.

DUN & BRADSTREET REPORT INCREASED BUSINESS ACTIVITY IN LINCOLN COUNTY

On January 2, 1957, the El Paso office of Dun and Bradstreet, which handles reporting of businesses in Lincoln county, mailed 8,100 requests for financial statements to business concerns in its territory. A number of these financial statement requests will be addressed to businesses in Lincoln county.

According to Caywood Knapp, manager of the El Paso office, the current issue of the Dun and Bradstreet Book shows increased business activity in the local area.

As one phase in revising credit ratings and keeping them up-to-date, every year the credit reporting agency writes to all businesses who are listed in the Reference Book to request their year-end balance sheets.

The credit rating is one of the key factors in approving orders to ship or sell. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or tangible net worth of the business. The second symbol is a number. It reflects a composite appraisal of the background, operations, financial stability, and payment record.

Each Reference Book listing (which includes the rating) is a condensed summary of the information contained in the Dun and Bradstreet credit report. The report includes a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating), a description of what the business does and how it does it, a financial section (which usually includes the latest financial statement) and a record of how the concern pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by business men who want to evaluate the credit risk before shipping or selling, insurance underwriters also use credit reports to review risks, rates, and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

SP Completes Purchase Of PM Truck Company

Purchase of Pacific Freight Lines has now been completed by Pacific Motor Trucking Company, highway subsidiary of the Southern Pacific.

The acquisition, given final authorization by the Interstate Commerce Commission last month ends a temporary lease arrangement with the California and Arizona carrier in effect since September last year.

L. B. Young, PMT president, says the transaction covers highway operating rights, equipment and certain other physical properties.

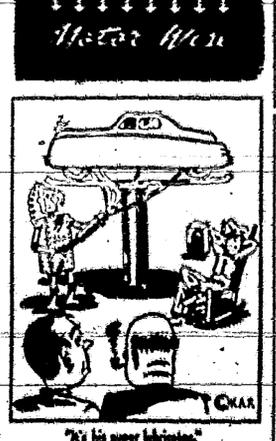

Consolidation of operations, Young explains, has closed some gaps in PMT rights and permits broader and faster origin-to-destination service to shippers.

"This expansion of service," he said, "is a continuation of Southern Pacific's efforts to provide shippers a complete land transportation service."

From 1950 to 1954 the number of farms in New Mexico decreased from 29,530 to 21,970—a loss of 25.2%.

Plan Valley Forge Scout Jamboree

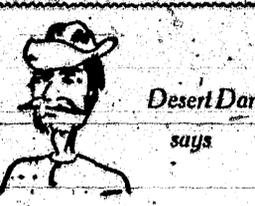

Official Poster of Fourth National Jamboree
Fifty thousand Boy Scouts, Explorers, and leaders from all parts of the nation and some from other lands will camp together at the Fourth National Jamboree July 12-18.

A 1,200-acre tent city is being prepared at historic Valley Forge in Pennsylvania. It will have its own water supply, electricity, telephone service, post office, and other services for the largest gathering of boys in the Western Hemisphere.

Jamboree campers, all of them at least twelve years old, holding Second Class rank or higher, will share daily camp chores, cook their own meals, take part in displays, campaigns, demonstrations, intercamp visits, and excursions to historic sites in and near Philadelphia.

Outstanding achievements will take part in principal events.

See where that bizness expert, Roger Babson sez things are goin' to run along at a good clip in '57, howsomever some biznesses will have tough sleddin'. Right here in Lincoln county we'll go along makin' a living same as in th' past. I was thinkin' there's a few enterprises I wouldn't fool with, such a livery stable, a blacksmith shop, a pony express line, raisin' mules fer th' Army, runnin' a coal mine near Houston, Tex., or a bus line in Birmingham, Ala.

"Sunspot" Newest Air Force Project in State

Sun spots have been observed since Galileo invented the telescope, but were only a curiosity until the age of electronics. Now, with national security depending on delicate electrical and magnetic instruments, the U. S. Air Force is keeping close tabs on the sun, and because of good visibility, New Mexico has acquired a new mountain village known as "Sunspot."

The Upper Air Research Observatory on Sac Peak in the Sacramento Mountains is operated by the Harvard College Observatory under contract with the U. S. Air Force. It is one of eight laboratories for geophysics research sponsored by the Air Force and is supported by nearby Holloman Air Development Center.

Operation Sunspot is described in an article by Russell Tinsley in the January issue of New Mexico Magazine.

Other articles in the issue include "The Mysterious Death of Pat Garrett," by Margaret Page Hood; "Wheel Chalk Engineers," by Dan Bodman; "Warbler Visitors," by Fr. Joyce Finnigan; "Ancient City on the Ruldeso," by Shirley Inshall, and a story, "The Right Remedy," by J. Frank Doble.

Fifty-one per cent of the public high schools in the United States now provide driver education.

MONEY AND BANKING In Everyday Living

THE BOTTOMLESS PITCHER of antique legend is, alas, a far cry from a modern pay envelope. One salary is spent, that's it. But, like a pitcher, a pay envelope will hold more for the owner if "leaks" are stopped. Review your spending habits; curb heedless spending — and regularly deposit what you thus salvage in a savings account with us, for major satisfactions later on.

THE LOT MEANS A LOT in the matter of home buying satisfaction, says at least one group of real estate experts. Their advice: When you look over a house, carefully consider the lot and its location, as well. Is the ground uneven? Are lawns, shrubbery, and trees in poor condition? Is the lot located on a street where traffic is ordinarily quite heavy. Is it too near sources of noise or odors that might prove bothersome... too far from schools, stores, church — and without adequate transportation facilities? These are some of the questions, according to our authorities, which homebuyers frequently fail to weigh before acting — to their ultimate cost in pleasure, convenience, and cash.

"TRUE FRIENDSHIP is an exchange of good offices," the saying goes. That's how we look at things, too. In exchange for the valued goodwill of our customers, and their business entrusted to us, we seek to give even-better banking service; seek, in short, to be a true friend to them all. Bank with us!

THE FEAST OF SAN YSIDRO

Early in the afternoon of May 14, 1916, Isaac Chavez, an old man, came down from Picacho to the west side of the Rio Grande. He was known as El Badeador, the fellow who looks for a place to cross the river.

On the east bank of the river farmers and their families waited for El Badeador to find a place to cross so that they could join in the Fiesta of San Ysidro Labrador, patron saint of farmers, which opened at 4 o'clock the next afternoon in the small village of Picacho (now known as Fairacres.)

Of the very few men who knew where to find safe crossings on the Rio, which then was six to 12 feet deep in places, Chavez was acknowledged to be the most expert. After he had found a safe crossing, the people forded the river by wagon and horseback and joined those waiting for them on the west side. The people wearing gay Mexican fiesta costumes, then proceeded to Picacho to take part in the preparations for the fiesta on the following day.

Pedro Maese, Las Cruces fire chief, knew Chavez and most of the other old-time people of the land, who colorfully celebrated the fiesta. They had faith that if they worshipped the saint and made gifts to him their crops would be good. They butchered beefs and hogs and killed chickens. They prepared delectable Mexican dishes, some of which are no longer made in Las Cruces.

Maese was among the crowd that waited on the east bank of the river on May 14, 1916. He was 18, a violinist, and it was the first time he was to play for the fiesta. Now, 40 years later, he is still playing the violin at San Ysidro fiestas, which have been held at San Ysidro Mission at East Picacho, east of the Rio Grande, since 1923. The fiesta date is always May 15.

The fiesta, sponsored by two different mayordomos each year, began with a big lunch at 4 o'clock. There were tamales, of course. There was menudo, which was something like hominy. There were bunuelos. These, of wheat flour, were made like tortillas. They were fried in lard, dropped in a mixture of hot water and sugar and then dried out. As far as Maese knows, Mrs. Frank Amador is about the only one here who now makes bunuelos. The celebrants served and ate the food with wooden spoons.

A drink somewhat like chocolate was prepared for the fiesta. It was called chaqueguo, and was made of ground roasted corn mixed with milk and brown sugar. A delicious drink, Maese said.

A drink called tesquino also was served. It was made from ground corn, with a little cinnamon and nutmeg added, and allowed to season for 10 to 12 days. "Really good," said Maese, "but too much would make you drunk."

Before the fiesta men from Picacho had cut and driven into the ground four forked cottonwoods over which was built a roof of logs and brush. Beneath this shelter an altar was erected, and the image of San Ysidro was brought from the mission and placed upon it.

After they had feasted, the people gathered around the altar. They sang hymns, prayed that their crops might be bountiful, and read from the Bible. A priest assisted in the services if one was available.

Many hymns were sung to the saint. The three following verses are from one of the hymns, Maese said.

Senor San Ysidro
Te estamos velando
Ruegale al Senor
que sigamos prosperando

Senor San Ysidro
fino labrador
Ruegale al Senor
por el sembrador

Senor San Ysidro
Tus Ruegos al cielo
De ti lo esperamos
Con un grande hanelo.

Worshipping at the outdoor altar continued throughout the night, and no one slept. After 7 o'clock in the morning the celebrants ate breakfast. Immediately afterwards the image of San Ysidro was placed in a wagon, sponsored by one of the mayordomos, and the three-mile procession began to Boca Acequias—the head of the irrigation ditch. This was north of Picacho at what is known as the site of the former Shalam Colony.

At Boca Acequias the image was placed upon an altar beneath a larger shelter, often of six forked cottonwoods. Here, at the source of life for their crops, the people worshipped until about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

And then the dancing began. Maese, Juan Barola, guitarist, and Jose Barola (now dead), a violinist and the third musician, played for the torceda, the dance that lasted until 6 o'clock. Another period of worship for an hour or more followed the dancing. Then the image of the saint was placed again in the wagon and the procession returned to

Valley Altar Society Elects New Officers

The Arabela, Hondo and Picacho Ladies Altar Society met for their monthly meeting December 2 at the home of Mrs. Ignacio Torres in Hondo.

Officers elected who will be installed at the January 6 meeting are: President, Mrs. Eloy Torres; Vice-president, Mrs. Ignacio Torres; Secretary, Mrs. Andrew Frequez; and Treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Pacheco.

Mrs. A. N. Kimbrell, president for two years, was highly praised for her untiring work both in the society and in the church. She was given a vote of thanks, as were the other officers, Mrs. Manuel Romero, past vice-president; Mrs. Dick Frequez, secretary and Mrs. Ignacio, treasurer. Mrs. Sylvester Salcido, who was treasurer for one year, was also commended.

After the business meeting a report was given by Mrs. L. A. Pacheco on "The Poor Clare Nuns." Each month a report is given on the life of the Saint of the Month.

Refreshments of cake, cookies and coffee were served by the hostess, Mrs. Martin Torres will be the hostess January 6 at her home.

Picacho. After the people had returned, worship services continued until about 9 o'clock when the image was returned to the mission. If there was a chance to cross the river, those living on the east side went home. If not, they waited out the night.

Picacho was established in 1905, as Maese remembers, and many of the settlers had come from Mexico. They began celebrating the fiesta in 1906 or 1907, and it was held continuously in Picacho until 1923. In that year the mission was moved to East Picacho and with it went the fiesta.

The people came to the earlier fiestas in the costumes they had brought from Mexico, and they wore them proudly in their new homeland.

There was Mrs. Eugene Cardon. She always came to the fiesta wearing a flowing skirt with braids on it, and a blouse with a wide fringe of lace at the bottom and around the edges of the sleeves and the chest. A big black shawl, which looked like Mexican silk, gracefully covered her shoulders. On her head she wore the pelmetas, then the common comb-like headpieces of Mexican women.

Big Mexican sombreros were in style among the men, and so were big mustaches. There was Pancho Lucero who always wore a big black sombrero. He had a big pointed mustache, and patillas, or large pointed sideburns.

Virtually all the old-timers who gave so much color to the fiesta are dead. Most of those now attending would not proudly wear the costumes that the old ones did. The worship services still are held at an outdoor altar, but there are no longer forked cottonwoods over which a roof is built. The procession is much shorter. — It goes only around the chapel to the ditch bank and back, and then the image is returned to the mission.

Although the fiesta now is less elaborate and has lost much of the color of the earlier days, the expression of faith in the patron saint of farmers is the same. Anyone is welcome to attend the fiesta and witness the age-old supplication for bountiful crops, Maese said.

Marble, ground as fine as flour, forms body for rouge, toothpaste, paints, rubber, and linoleum.

Design Cuts Cost of Land

Today's rising land costs make this modern three-bedroom house ideal for a budget-minded family. The house was designed to make full use of a narrow lot for both indoor and outdoor living.

Architect Rudolph A. Materni, of Jamaica, N. Y., combined a low-slope roof of colorful asphalt shingles with natural stone and redwood siding to give the house its modern exterior.

Materni specified asphalt shingles for the roof because this type of roofing is available in a wide choice of colors, is durable, and economical to apply. Houses with low-slope roofs now can have these advantages of asphalt shingles thanks to a recently developed method of application.

Inside the house has a family room, two baths, fireplace, sliding glass doors leading to all outdoor living areas, plus many other comforts and conveniences of modern living.

One important comfort feature specified by the architect is thick mineral wool insulation throughout. The mineral wool will keep the house warmer and more economical to heat in winter and cooler during the summer months.

Additional information, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Materni, 22-26 51st St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y. Refer to Plan No. 2400.

Farm and Ranch

By RALPH DUNLAP County Extension Agent

USDA Takes Action on Great Plains Program

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announces that he is taking immediate steps to further implement the Great Plains program. This program, aimed at stabilizing agriculture in the ten-state Great Plains region, was presented to the Congress by the president in January 1956 and covered by legislation (Public Law 1021) signed by him on August 7, 1956.

"In the face of continuing severe drought conditions in the Great Plains, the Department of Agriculture is determined to move ahead as rapidly as possible with its part of a program that will alleviate physical and economic problems and help develop a more stable farm and ranch economy in this important region," the secretary said.

Public Law 1021 amended the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act and the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 to enable the Department of Agriculture to enter into conservation program contracts with farmers and ranchers in the Great Plains States for periods up to ten years. The act also authorized appropriation of an amount not to exceed $150 million for a designated 15-year period, with provision that payments in any one year will not exceed $25 million. No appropriations are available for the current fiscal year.

The secretary explained that the program will emphasize the responsibility of farmers and ranchers, counties, committees, soil conservation districts and other groups at the local level. It has as its objective widespread use of good soil management and water conservation practices, as well as adjustments in size and type of farms, that will help farmers to cope with the climatic hazards of the region.

Agriculture Affected By Changes in Social Security Amendments

Tenant farmers, crew leaders, sharecroppers, and other farm owners and operators and their employees performing agricultural services are reminded by Internal Revenue Service that the social security amendments of 1956 make several important changes in their Social Security coverage.

If the cash wages paid a farm worker by one employer amounts to $150 a year, or if the worker performs agricultural services on 20 or more different days on a time basis such as by the hour, by the day, or week for one employer and the worker receives cash wages in any amount, the employer must report and pay Social Security taxes on such cash wages. This change in the method of determining taxable wages for farm workers became effective January 1, 1957.

The 1956 amendments also specify that generally a so-called "crew leader" that is an individual who furnishes and pays workers to perform agricultural labor for other persons, is the employer of all the workers in his crew. The "crew leader" himself is self-employed and must report self-employment tax on his net earnings and also report and pay tax on the taxable wages which he pays to each member of his crew.

The term "farm" as used in the Federal statutes relating to social security and self-employment taxes includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animals, and truck farms, plantations, ranches, nurseries, ranges, greenhouses and other similar structures as are used primarily for the raising of agricultural or horticultural commodities.

All individuals who will be self-employed and all workers who receive taxable wages for farm work should obtain S. S. account numbers by applying to the nearest Social Security Administration District Office. The location of such offices may be obtained by inquiring at any post office.

Information and proper blanks for use in filing returns by employers of farm workers may be obtained by contacting the nearest Internal Revenue Service office.

Research Helps Farm Products to Compete With Synthetics

Leather, wool cotton, vegetable oils, and animal fats are some agricultural products which suffer competition from man-made materials of industry. This competition is part of the reason for some of our troublesome agricultural surpluses.

Here are some of the things that agricultural research by state experiment stations and the U. S. Department of Agriculture is doing to help these farm products compete for markets:

New research indicates that wool, through chemical treatment, can be made more resistant to shrinkage and better adapted to home laundering and care. These properties, added to its natural qualities, will greatly improve wool's usefulness as a clothing fabric. Much has already been done to give cotton new properties such as resistance to water, heat, acids, molds and organisms that destroy it.

Improved leathers are also in the offing to compete with nylon, cloth, plastics, and other non-leather materials now going into the manufacture of shoes and other accessories.

With more research, soaps made from animal fats could regain some of their markets from synthetic detergents and fats could be used more widely in the manufacture of plastics. Vegetable oils, now used much less in paints than 20 years ago, could regain some of their lost ground through increased knowledge of their chemical nature and chemical reactions that might convert them into improved paint materials.

Malathion doesn't have the long lasting effect of DDT, so it isn't used as a protective insecticide. Use malathion against aphids and mites and as an emergency killer for insects that seem to appear in the garden overnight.

In Florida's Everglades, Seminole Indians have exchanged their old dugout canoes for swift, modern air boats, says the National Geographic Society.

U. S. Brucellosis Law Effective January 1

Interstate movement of all cattle except steers, spayed heifers and calves under eight months old comes under federal control, starting Jan. 1, 1957, to curb the spread of brucellosis, better known as Bang's disease. The new rules are aimed primarily at strengthening and unifying control of interstate movement of cattle relative to brucellosis—particularly to counties and states already designated Modified Certified Brucellosis-Free under the accelerated federal-state, cooperative brucellosis eradication program. Violation of the regulation is a federal offense.

John Miles and David Chavez, brother of the senator, for nomination for governor. Republican Mechem strolled in over the prostrate Demos in the big election.

In 1932 it was another party-shaking primary battle between Lake Frazier of Roswell and Everett Grantham of Albuquerque. By mid-August they didn't even know which had been nominated in the May voting. The Republicans won again.

NO DEMO GINGE IN NEXT ELECTION

Statehouse Democrats are kidding themselves that they will have an easy return to their jobs in two years. They talked that way the first time Mechem was elected and were disappointed when he won again after a big Democratic primary fight. He did have the help of the late time but that could hardly account for his 18,000 margin.

Democrats are facing the same kind of trouble next year. Seven-Foot Pickett, the corporation commissioner, looks like a sure bet to throw the party into an uproar in the selection of a candidate for governor.

There's not a chance in the world that the party will agree on Pickett and it's almost as sure that he will either win the nomination or divide the party to the point that no other can win the general election. With a convention system Pickett wouldn't be allowed to run.

BORN IN TROUBLE LIVES IN TROUBLE

The origin of the New Mexico primary which has produced so much turmoil in the Democratic party—what holds a 70 per cent margin in New Mexico—was in Democratic turmoil of nearly 20 years ago.

Retiring Gov. Clyde Tingley and Democratic State Chairman John Miles were in a mean fight. Tingley, knowing that Miles could control a state Democratic convention and take the nomination for governor for himself called a special session of the legislature in the summer of 1933 to enact a primary law and thus possibly beat Miles with another.

The legislature met and enacted the primary law afloat but Tingley could not rally the two-thirds vote needed to put the primary into operation for the 1933 election.

The convention assembled, nominated Miles as expected, and the primary which had been enacted to beat him wasn't used until two years later.

RETREATING DEMOCRATS

Some of the statehouse pay-rollers who held frequent meetings through 1935 and most of 1936 trying to force out the last of the holdover Republicans from the capitol offices are lining up now with applications to work for the new Republican administration. . . . The state mental hospital at Las Vegas which is all-out political in its spending and hiring has proposed, since the election, a "merit system" for its employees which would freeze in the present crowd. Joe Torres, the board chairman, would perhaps also like a freeze-in of the state purchasing office favors he enjoyed during the past two years. . . . New Land Commissioner Murray Margus, was the hope of scores of displaced pay-rollers seeking a harbor in Democratic offices. So far he has heard none.
