

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

(The following, continued from last week, was sent in by Mayor Cleve Brown of Corona. It is a reprint of an article dated 1900):

Compliments of PAUL MAYER Livery, Hay, and Grain Proprietor of WHITE OAKS AND CARRIZOZO STAGE LINE

Good Rigs, Careful Drivers White Oaks, N. M.

WHITE OAKS

The history of the Old Abe mine is intimately coupled with the history of White Oaks from its inception, and so dependent on the mine has been the town that the vicissitudes of fortune experienced by the former have been the vicissitudes of the entire camp.

This mine had produced close to a million dollars in gold, notwithstanding the fact that the old shaft was once burned out, and after it had been rebuilt a cave-in necessitated the abandonment of the old workings. The past three years have been devoted, under the management of John Y. Hewitt, to the establishment of the present workings.

The working shaft is down 1,200 feet, and there are 3,500 feet of drifting. The ore is largely sulphide and is a true fissure vein averaging 8 or 9 inches in width. Rich ore is also taken from the side of the vein in a species of shale about 14 feet in thickness. Free gold occurs in veins of lime, and the rock will average $20 to the ton. Some extremely rich lead and nugget gold ore is being taken from this side vein matter in the 9 and 9 1/2 levels.

The mine employs over 40 men, day and night shifts, and is now producing from 45 to 50 tons daily, the ore milled averaging in gold $12 to the ton. The company owning the mine has a 20-stamp mill, a 50-ton cyanide plant and a steam hoist capable of working to a depth of 3,000 feet. They also own 160 acres of coal land close to White Oaks and are operating a coal mine.

The company owns a pumping plant with which water is pumped from a well in the valley about a mile from the mine, for milling and other purposes about the plant. Water is also supplied to the South Homestake and Lady Godiva mines. The Old Abe is one of the deepest dry mines in the world. At the bottom of the 1,200-foot shaft it is as dry as on the surface. With the Old Abe Company's milling facilities and under the present capable management the mine is producing in a manner most satisfactory to the stockholders. Ninety per cent of the ore values are secured from the stamp mill and the remaining 10% is saved from the tailings by the cyanide process.

All of the Old Abe stock is held by New Mexico people except one-twelfth. Mr. John Y. Hewitt of White Oaks holding one-third and Hon. H. B. Ferguson of Albuquerque, one-fourth of the stock.

THE BOSTON BOY

The Boston Boy mine is pronounced by many "the biggest thing in camp." Whether this is true or not remains to be demonstrated, but there is no question as to its being a wonderfully promising proposition. The owners are Buffalo, New York, parties, and E. H. Preswick is the acting superintendent. The mine was located in 1893, but nothing but shallow prospecting was done on it until the summer of '98, at which time it was bonded by Messrs. Heineman and Cray. During that summer a shaft was sunk in the main ore body 80 feet, and a cross-cut run from the east wall toward the west, disclosing a continuous ore body of 25 feet. The ore opened at that place gave an average of about $7 in gold to the ton. A strata of about three feet in this large ore body gave assays of $20 to $30. This ore is now being taken out, and considerable quantities of it are heaped upon the dump.

Messrs. Watson and Preswick (the former being an old resident of White Oaks and a stockholder in the Old Abe, and the latter a New Yorker with much practical knowledge of mining), bonded the mine January, 1900. Shortly afterward Buffalo capitalists took hold of the mine and systematic and energetic work was commenced. It is the intention of the company as soon as the mine is sufficiently opened to put in an entirely

Capitan Asks Bids for Water System Material

Capitan this week took another step toward bringing Bolito water to the town.

Bids are called for the supplying of water system materials, including a gravity type filtration plant and 34,000 lineal feet of sub-inch water transmission line.

Date for opening the bids is April 5.

Plans are to tie Capitan's new line into the Bolito line near the ranger station. The water will flow by gravity to the filtration plant to be located near Capitan's storage reservoir.

modern mill and other facilities, placing the power plant at the coal mines south of town and running the mill by electricity.

THE LITTLE MACK

Some of the richest ore in camp has been taken from the Little Mack, which is at present tied up by action of some non-resident stockholders. It has produced a large amount of gold, a Wilmington, Delaware, company under a bond and lease taking out fully $50,000. This same company now owns the Henry Clay, an extension of the Little Mack. Messrs. Hewitt, Ferguson and Fritchard own a controlling interest in this mine.

THE NORTH HOMESTAKE, of which reference has been made, is now owned by the Apex Gold Mining Co., which secured control of the mine the first of this year (1900) and are making arrangements to commence work soon on an extensive scale. The mine has two Huntington mills which will be placed in thorough order. There is one working shaft of 1000 feet depth.

THE SOUTH HOMESTAKE, owned by a St. Louis capitalist, is now being worked on an option by Robinson and Dolph of Scranton, Pa., and is producing extensively of good grade ore, which is being sorted ready for milling, and the 20-stamp mill belonging to the mine, which has been standing idle for some time will be placed in operation at once. 175 tons of ore are now in the bins.

C. L. Ulrick is the superintendent and D. N. Tinnan is the capable foreman in charge of the work. A force of 15 men are employed. The shaft is 530 feet in depth and work is progressing in the 5th, 7th, 8th, 9th, and 10th levels.

The highest grade ore is being taken from the 8th level, where the vein averages about one foot in width and will mill run fully $15 in gold to the ton. Very rich specimens of wire and nugget gold ore are taken from this level. In the 9th a large body of low grade ore averaging $6 or $7 to the ton has recently been opened up.

The South Homestake has produced several hundred thousand dollars in gold, about $63,000 being taken from one level alone. It has a great future.

Works Starts on Water System For Lincoln Town

Work on the Lincoln community water system was begun this week by Starr and Cummins, Albuquerque contractors.

Operating under contract with the State Department of Public Health, the firm will install a 5-horse power motor on a community well drilled last year, and will place a 10,000 gallon water storage tank on the hillside just above the Lincoln school. The contractors will also supervise the laying of pipe.

Labor for the construction of the well house, as well as materials needed for it, are being provided by the Lincoln Water Consumers Association.

Jim Ramsey of Lincoln is superintendent in charge of labor for the project. Besides constructing the well house, the association will also provide labor for pouring a foundation for the storage tank and for laying pipe.

The distribution system which will deliver water to homes on both sides of the highway for more than a mile, has been planned by the Lincoln Association and is being financed by the members. The installation of fire hydrants is included in the plans.

A meeting of the association was held at the Lincoln School Wednesday, March 20, to plan ways and means of financing the cost of meters, and to act on applications to tap the water line.

Lions Club Hears Talk On "The Seeing Eye And Helping Hand"

"One of the curses of our age is depending on tax agencies to do the job that should be done in the homes and by individual leadership," Rev. Charles L. Conder told the Carrizozo Lions Club on Monday.

Rev. Conder, who is Episcopalian chaplain at Fort Stanton, was guest speaker at the noon meeting of the club, held at the Garrard hotel.

We as adults and parents, he said, should not turn to authorities for the solution of our problems. "We depend too much on our schools, courts and police."

Rev. Conder, speaking on the subject "The Seeing Eye and Helping Hand," urged all to extend a helping hand in the development of their community.

"The things that really count," he said, "are not the material things we acquire. Life offers an opportunity for us to become real persons by helping others."

He said he was appalled at the failure of men of Lincoln county to give the kind of leadership that our youth needs.

He mentioned the Boy Scout movement as one which was "lagging because of the lack of adult leadership."

Carroll Atkinson of the Belen public schools, was also a guest at the luncheon.

W/O V. L. Jiles and D. N. Hawkes of the Lincoln County Rifle and Pistol Club, asked the cooperation of the Lions Club in their proposed "Shootarama," to be held March 31 at the club range east of Carrizozo.

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

It was 59 years ago this month that Henry Hoffman first saw Carrizozo and they ran right into a sandstorm. He wanted to turn around and leave. He had come with his parents from Hondo. They had built a half dugout, with a tin roof, on their homestead. "I'll never forget that day we moved," Henry recalls. "It was one of the worst. My mother had to keep the table covered to keep the sand out of the food." Carrizozo had just begun to grow and the elder Hoffman worked for some time building houses.

If you need some willing hands for a good cause, call on the Girl Scouts. Our sincere thanks to Sandra Kaye King, Linda Barrington and Susan Spencer for packaging Red Cross materials to be sent to the area chairmen. Speaking of the Red Cross, home service chairmen are on call day or night across the country to help our Servicemen in time of emergency. The Lincoln County home service chairman this week secured an emergency leave extension for a serviceman in Ruidoso, and wrote a two-page letter answering questions for another serviceman. When you are asked for a dollar membership in the Red Cross, remember the work these volunteers are doing.

"Our experiences in Formosa have taught me how wonderful America really is," Mrs. L. W. Clark writes in a letter to Mrs. R. E. Lemon in Carrizozo. Her letter follows:

This morning, after having read an old issue of the Lincoln County News, I am thinking most of our good friends in Lincoln County. This is the copy which carried your story of White Oaks and we thoroughly enjoyed it—hope you will have others in print later.

Yesterday the USS "St. Paul" was in our harbor and we were invited aboard for a reception. It is the flagship of our Seventh Fleet which patrols the Straits between Formosa and Red China. It made us have a more secure feeling to know that we have 35 of these well armed ships between us and the danger zone. The admiral of this fleet is such a dynamic personality that we feel sure the defense of this area is in good hands. Out of the thousands of men and officers aboard, we were hoping to find some Lincoln County boys, but didn't see one, familiar face.

Mr. Clark's trip is most interesting, and this trip to the Far East has been a most wonderful experience. It has taught me how wonderful our country really is. The history of this entire area is full of wars, invasions and bloodshed. The lives of these people are sad stories indeed! To them, America is truly the "Land of milk and honey." If I could get one message back to our friends there it would be this: each time you salute our flag or sing our national anthem, do so with a prayer in your hearts that our country will never know the ravages of war. I thank God each day that I am an American—if ever again I teach boys and girls, sponsor Rainbows, or any youth organization, I shall promote Americanism with my whole heart and soul. In spite of all the faults and failures of our government, I am firmly convinced it is the only true democracy in the world today.

I could write for hours on my reactions to life on this side of the globe, but this has become a journal—and a very incoherent one. Give my regards to each one there.

McCalla Valley Chamber of Commerce folks are planning an "Appreciation Day" to honor their White Sands Proving Grounds neighbors. The program is tentatively set for May 11. Personnel of the Air Force Installation west of Las Cruces will also be honored. The program will feature rides for the children, a band concert, rodeo stunts and two dances.

S. P. Employes Have Fine Safety Record

For an excellent safety record of ten consecutive years without a reportable accident, Southern Pacific employes were presented an award last Friday evening at the Carrizozo school auditorium. The presentation was made by W. A. Adair, superintendent of the Rio Grande division. Mr. Adair retires March 31 after over fifty years with the Southern Pacific company.

The employes were given an additional award for a perfect safety record for the year 1956. E. M. Roberts was honored for his safety record. In 14 years no man under his supervision had a reportable accident. Mr. Roberts' accident-free record spans a period of 28 years with the company. E. G. Barnum also received a safety award.

Tino Lopez Jr. Elected Vice President of Student Organization

Duck Dillard from Roswell, New Mexico, was elected president. Elections were held at an early date so that the SEA members may prepare for the National Convention at Las Vegas, New Mexico, in April. Tino will represent SEA as second vice-president at Las Vegas. He will not take office until the beginning of the fall semester. Tino was also recently appointed chairman of the Spring Carnival booth committee.

Salvador Morales Serving in Far East

U. S. Forces, Japan (AHTNC) —Pvt. Salvador A. Morales Jr., whose parents live in Carrizozo recently was assigned to the U. S. Army Map Service, Far East in Japan. The converted cruiser, the USS "Boston" and USS "Carrerra," are the only ships in the world equipped with racks of missiles which travel at about two and a half times the speed of sound.

State Retail Sales Pass Billion Dollar Mark

New Mexico reached its first billion-dollar retail sales year in 1956, the Bureau of Business Research pointed out this week. Grocery stores, clothing shops, furniture and appliance businesses, department stores, automotive dealers, lumber and hardware stores, and all other retail establishments in the state reported sales that reached a grand total of $1,107,610,000 last year. This is 12% higher than the total of $987,653,000 reached in 1955.

"Some of this gain reflects inflated prices," comments Ralph L. Edgel, director of the Bureau of Business Research, "but most of it represents a real growth of economic activity. Fewer purchases have to be made outside the state these days. Higher incomes, continued consumer confidence, and increasing population mean more spending in each community."

Mr. Edgel was particularly encouraged by the fact that retail sales gains took place in 26 of New Mexico's 32 counties. Five counties showed declines and one remained about the same.

Lincoln county's retail sales last year, according to school tax reports, totaled $7,692,999, a 4% gain over the $7,598,000 reached in 1955.

San Juan county showed a 46% gain, the largest in the state. Catron's sales increased 44%, and Otero's 28%.

A man may make mistakes, but he isn't a failure until he starts blaming someone else.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Disappointed in Actions of 23rd State Legislature

Editor, News: As chairman of the New Mexico State Corporation Commission, I feel it my duty to express deep disappointment at the actions of the 23rd Legislature toward the commission.

The three elected commissioners were singled out for what appears to have been a deliberate snub on the part of legislators when the salary of every elected officer in the capitol was increased but those of the commissioners. Not only that, but the legislature slashed $160,726 from the commission's administrative budget and $33,228 from the insurance budget. This was by far the harshest treatment given any department of the state government during this session.

I only hope the actions of the legislature toward the corporation commission were not dictated by personal malice toward an individual commissioner. If this is true, the legislators were going out of their way to hit at the people of New Mexico. How well that job is done depends on the kind of tools the legislature furnishes. If we don't have the money, we can't do the job.

I wonder if the legislature knows how well the commission is serving New Mexico. Did the legislature know, for example, that the commission collected and turned over to the state treasurer $3,270,557 in the last fiscal year?

In cutting the Commission's budget, the legislature, perhaps unknowingly, broke faith with the trucking industry. Motor vehicle common carriers are assessed a decal tax. Truckers raised no objection to the decal tax on being told the funds would go to police the industry, to protect the legitimate operators from the bootleggers. Now much of this money will disappear into the general fund. Truckers will get no better protection, and indeed, it may not be as complete as it was heretofore, in view of the budget cut.

The commissioners and employees work hard at their jobs. Last year, for instance, the Commission conducted 120 separate hearings on motor transportation applications, 16 rate and traffic hearings and six aviation hearings—a total of 142. One of these alone consumed twenty days. Many of them were held away from Santa Fe in an effort to be of greater service to taxpayers. These hearings are semi-judicial proceedings with rules for presentation of evidence patterned after those in effect in district court in Santa Fe. Hundreds of thousands of words are made into transcripts of these hearings. On the decisions of the commission depend millions of dollars of business for New Mexico common carriers.

I wonder if the legislature, in slashing the budget, remembers that the commission has jurisdiction over the state's largest industry — transportation. Everywhere, every wrecker, ambulance, bus, truck, train and airplane that operates for hire in New Mexico must deal with the commission. This is not all. The commission also must guard the interests of the people of New Mexico with the various telephone utilities throughout the state. We are also in charge

APRIL 15 TAX DEADLINE NEARS

As the April 15 tax deadline nears, Internal Revenue Service — whose job it is to collect money from taxpayers to help operate our government — sounded a warning today via S. P. Vidal, district director of the New Mexico IRS office.

"Most area taxpayers have already filed their 1956 returns, but since the April 15 deadline is just around the corner I'd like to remind folks that Revenue collects interest at the rate of 6% yearly on taxes that aren't paid on or before their due date. If an extension of time for filing is granted, interest still must be paid on any taxes which are paid after their due date," Mr. Vidal added.

Asked how many people filed returns early in their own favor, he revealed that almost nine out of ten erroneous returns favored the taxpayer.

"Discovery and correction of these errors usually result in additional taxes, interest and penalties," the IRS representative said.

of the common carrier pipelines, a growing industry. We issue literally hundreds of corporation charters every year. The commission stands as guardian over millions of dollars invested by the citizens of New Mexico in insurance.

As New Mexico grows, all these activities over which the commission must exercise jurisdiction are expanding too. The commission, in order to do its work properly, must grow also. This is why it comes as such a shock when the legislature cuts our budget instead of raising it.

The commission takes pride in the high morale and low turnover in commission employees. Our staff is composed in the main of career public servants. To keep this high type of personnel, the commission has followed a policy of granting "step" pay increases. The budget cut has now put this program in jeopardy.

If the legislature had taken the trouble to inform itself more fully on some of the facts I have outlined above, perhaps it would not have acted so precipitously and in such a spirit of malice in passing legislation affecting the commission.

JOHN BLOCK JR., Chairman, State Corporation Commission.

County Chapter Commended For Hungarian Relief Aid

Editor News: Not since World War II have the chapters of the American Red Cross had so great an opportunity to help their neighbors from another land as in the Hungarian Relief Program. I would like to extend my most sincere thanks to each chapter that contributed to the Hungarian Relief Fund, or helped in some way to alleviate the problems of the refugees.

It is a tribute to the American people who believe in the Red Cross and to the volunteers and staff members of our organization that, at this writing, we have surpassed the announced goal of $5,000,000 by well over a million dollars. This fine success could not have been achieved had it not been for the generosity of the American people and the efficiency and hard work of each chapter that engaged in the campaign.

I am deeply grateful for the help of all who participated in this successful undertaking.

S. Roland Harriman, Chairman, the American National Red Cross

SAD BUT TRUE: The home improvement field, like any other field with a huge potential market, attracts its share of swindlers. That's a matter of record and, often, such swindlers operate the way by promising fantastic savings. Your best protection against being fleeced is to buy by reputation, as well as by cost. Contractors and dealers of known integrity and reliability—the vast majority — do not promise more than they are prepared to produce. They do give you honest value at an honest price; and by doing business with them, you stand to effect the greatest economies in the long run. . . . ## The 'Treasures' of Gran Quivira

In 1904 Clara A. B. Corby published through subscription a curious book entitled "La Gran Quivira, a Musical Mystery." A major part of the book deals with the experiences of Marguerite Jerome—presumably an imaginary person to reflect the author's views—during the search with her second husband for the legendary treasures at what is now Gran Quivira National Monument, north of Carrizozo and near the southern end of the Manzano Mountains.

Gran Quivira was unmistakably located in the musical mystery, but from that point fact went with the wind. The author assumed that the pueblo was originally built by the Aztecs of Mexico, and she elaborated in great detail upon the unfounded story that the gold and silver treasure of the Aztecs was concealed there, as well as their lost archives. Mrs. Jerome gained the "information" on the lost archives from an Indian whose daughter she had befriended in Albuquerque.

Early in the book the author stated:

"Subsequent discoveries of subterranean walls, rooms and passages, miles in extent over only a small portion of which the supposed Spanish town was built, served to confirm me in the theory I had formed concerning the source of the reputed great wealth of that community of Franciscan Friars, who were driven from this place at the time of the great Indian uprising of 1680."

The author stated the wealth "said to have been possessed by this religious fraternity . . . is variously estimated at from thirty-two to fifty millions."

It is doubtful if the Spanish conquistadors dreamed of finding such sums in all the fabled Seven Cities of Cibola, and as for the friars, they never laid eyes on an infinitesimal part of that amount in all the missions in New Mexico.

On the second trip to Gran Quivira in late autumn, Mrs. Jerome and her husband set out from Albuquerque and took a route farther south which brought them out on the government road to White Oaks, near the Malpais. They then proceeded northward to Gran Quivira. They went there to seek treasure to recoup their fortunes. Of course, they found no treasure. But Marguerite Jerome created a Gran Quivira, which would have rivaled the splendors of Rome, and a chain of events which were fantastic.

The remnant of the Aztec nation—the troops, the women and children, the old and the maimed—came to Gran Quivira, led by their warrior King Hermernehildo. With the king was his wife, Queen Marahquilita, who was also a high priestess. A long train of slaves bore the wealth of the Aztec nation to this hiding place.

It was a great city, with marble stairways and paved roads, and a great temple. There were "velvety lawns," fruit-bearing and flowering trees, and miniature lakes. Buildings were of white rock work and stucco.

One of the first acts of the queen after arriving in the city was to issue an order that 100 giant mutes bear the Aztec treasure into secret underground vaults beneath the temple.

The king soon went off to the wars. He left the queen, their son and daughter, and the queen's princesses cluster under the protection of Ytzacoatl, whom the king believed to be a friend but who was in fact a traitor. (It was the tenth of the name of Ytzacoatl, who revealed information on the treasure and lost archives to Mrs. Jerome in Albuquerque.)

During his absence in the wars the king embraced the Catholic faith. Then, according to the author, "the friars of St. Francis came unarmed except with good deeds and words, robed in the

How Las Cruces Got Its Name

The City of Las Cruces, New Mexico, was founded on the site of an early massacre by hostile Indians of Spanish colonists, on their way from Chihuahua, Mexico, to the northern capital of Santa Fe. A large party discovered the bodies and buried them in a makeshift cemetery, placing crosses over their graves. The city later built there was called Las Cruces (The Crosses).

Naval aviation history at sea was made over 34 years ago when a Naval aviator first flew an airplane off the deck of an aircraft carrier.

STATE GAME DEPARTMENT

TROUT PLANTINGS

Rainbow trout over seven inches were planted by the Department of Game and Fish, between March 11 and March 15, in Bernalillo and Sabinal Drains; Miami, Clayton, Santa Cruz, Nogal and Wall Lakes and Laguna Linda; Michel's Pond; Bear Canyon Reservoir, San Jose and Lower Gila Rivers. The total of these big trout was 33,610. Over 53,000 rainbow fingerlings were planted during the same period, in Lajara Lake, and a few browns went into the Brazos River. The total plantings for the five days exceeded 6500 pounds.

YOUNG OFFENDERS LEARN

District judges and the Youth Commission in New Mexico will be interested in what Arizona does with juveniles picked up for offenses involving firearms, vandalism or violations of game and fish laws. They are referred to the Game and Fish Department to learn about the laws they are breaking. They must study game and fish laws and regulations and the student's manual of the Firearms Safety Program. The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish commends this program but has even greater faith in a conservation program in schools.

BUFFALO FOR SALE

Buffalo are again available to the public. Interested parties please observe that it is the Wyoming Game and Fish Commission at Cheyenne that is selling these animals, and all correspondence on the subject should be addressed there.

About 80 animals will be sold to the highest bidder at minimum prices of $75 for calves, $100 for yearlings and $150 for mature buffalo. Transportation will have to be handled by the buyer, but the animals will be herded into pens by Department personnel where they can be loaded.

Some months ago when buffalo were for sale elsewhere, the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish made an announcement in one of its newsletters. Somehow the wire service got matters mixed up a little, and the Department received inquiries from 22 states of the Union. Seems as though everybody wants a buffalo.

MISS ZELMA STONE BECOMES BRIDE OF DON E. SHULTS

Wedding vows for Miss Zelma Stone and Don E. Shults were exchanged at 3 p.m. Saturday in the home of the bride at Weed, New Mexico.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David L. Stone of Weed, and the parents of the bridegroom are Rev. and Mrs. Clyde A. Shults of Carrizozo.

Reverend Shults, father of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballarina dress of pink, with full skirt; a small white hat and white pumps.

For something blue and borrowed she wore a pair of earrings belonging to Elaine Leonard, sister of the groom.

Those attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Willie Stone and family of Alamogordo, a brother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stone and small son of Alamogordo, a cousin; Ernest A. Stone of Alamogordo, also a cousin; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Leonard of Alamogordo, sister of groom, and the groom's parents of Carrizozo.

The bride is a high school graduate of Weed. She is now employed at Holloman A.F.B. for an aircraft firm.

The groom is a graduate of Carrizozo High School, has served four years in the Air Force and is now employed at Holloman A.F.B. in civil service as an electronics specialist.

An informal reception followed the ceremony.

For the present the young couple will make their home at La Luz.

for Congress, said this week that manufacturing in fields never before explored in the Southwest may be the answer to the economic problems of depressed areas in New Mexico.

As a congressman, he said, he would be alert to any opportunities to channel government contracts for light manufacturing to New Mexico.

Montoya, Democratic candidate for Congress in the April 9 special election, said the economically "sick" communities in the state must do some imaginative thinking to find a new direction for growth and prosperity in the years to come.

Judge Describes Development of Juvenile Courts

The function of the juvenile court in safeguarding the interests of youthful offenders was described last Thursday night by Judge Leo H. Blessing, judge of the juvenile court, in New Orleans, La.

The talk by Judge Blessing concluded a day long conference of the Third Judicial District Youth Commission, held at the school auditorium in Carrizozo.

In introducing the speaker, District Judge W. T. Scoggin said he was gratified at the number of people present, saying "the turnout is a credit to a community of this size."

Supt. R. G. Firman opened the evening's meeting. Judge Allan D. Walker was also present and was introduced.

Highlights of Judge Blessing's address follow:

Never before in the history of mankind has a more important evolution taken place than the development of legal protective services to children in trouble. No doubt you yourselves have heard and used the slang expression, "This shouldn't happen to a dog."

"After the beginning of the SPCA in New York some seventy-five or eighty years ago, man's 'best friend' was protected from harsh and cruel treatment; but strangely enough the child of man continued without protection, being considered always the property of his parents.

Indentured servants and trade apprentices of tender years evaded and played with no sympathy from official circles. Occasional champions arose to speak for better conditions and more understanding treatment but with little success.

Only sixty years ago children scarcely beyond the age of reason were cast into dungeons, made to suffer indignities and tortures, and even the loss of their lives for offenses against the State and its people. Little, if any, thought was given to the degree of responsibility which should be expected from an undeveloped personality.

The immaturity of youth as an explanation of, if not an excuse, for unexplainable behavior received no consideration. Individuals were treated alike as to charge, trial and punishment.

A growing restlessness among a few widely scattered persons and an increasing dissatisfaction with the prevailing treatment afforded young children brought about the greatest single advance in the care of troubled youth, i.e. the inception of the juvenile court movement.

While Denver, Colo., claims the first juvenile court because of Judge Ben Lindsey's "school" court, the more authentic claim comes from Chicago, Ill., where in 1829 the first actual juvenile court was begun by legislative act.

Although protecting the child from the harshness of the adult criminal court in many types of offenses this first juvenile court was actually only an experiment.

Within the next ten years almost all of the States had adopted legislation creating in one form or another a Juvenile Court. Here in New Mexico the district courts continued to exercise control of juvenile matters until February 13, 1917, when the juvenile court was established by an act of the Legislature.

Yea, truly, the juvenile court has grown up. It has taken its place as a part of the judiciary but specially designed and specially dedicated. However relaxed and informal by design and legislative approval it may be, the juvenile court is still a legal entity, conceived in law and bound by constitutional mandates, as in any other court.

For example, a juvenile delinquent retains his right to counsel; his right to know the accusation against him; his right to face his accuser and to cross-examine all witnesses; his right to a reasonable and lawful disposition; his right to appear.

In order to appreciate just how much the Juvenile Court has grown we must note some of

Five From Carrizozo Attend State Student Council Convention

Five delegates from Carrizozo High School attended the annual State Student Council convention at Los Alamos on March 14, 15 and 16.

They were Jane Zumwalt, Lee Adell Baker, Joe Petty, Greg Pino and Robert Firman, accompanied by the high school sponsor, John Voigt.

The group attended meetings and discussions and toured the Los Alamos health research laboratory. This is the first time any group has been allowed to enter the city of Los Alamos without a pass.

The group was housed by the friendly people of Los Alamos who showed the traditional western hospitality.

Next year the State Student Council convention will be held in Raton.

The national convention, held in Toledo, Ohio, last year, will be in Roswell this year. Carrizozo High School will be allowed one delegate.

its legal peculiarities — things which make it so different from other legal judicial entities. Adult courts prosecute crimes and criminals, but in almost all juvenile statutes the offense is specially declared to be no crime and the finding to be no conviction. There is always a prohibition against the use of a record of such offenses against juvenile offenders in subsequent adult prosecutions.

In many statutes hearsay evidence is admissible in the form of the probation officer's written report—the result of his investigation outside the presence of the accused. In many states accused juveniles may be held without the right to bail, and in practically all juvenile courts the general public may be excluded in the discretion of the judge. The most significant difference though is in the acknowledged purpose and philosophy of the juvenile court. It is one of helpfulness to both the individual and community. It is one of concern over the offender, not over the offense. It is an honest determination of the needs of such offender and the development of an adequate plan of treatment.

Punishment has no place in such a scheme. While ordinarily the juvenile court process is an individualized one in which the delinquent is primarily considered, yet occasionally his interests must be subjugated to the interests of the whole community.

New Orleans has developed a city-wide municipally supported recreation program costing more than $500,000 annually. Through playgrounds and centers with athletic programs, arts and crafts, dramatics, and singing (including musicals and operas) every normal child is encouraged to participate. Much of the annual budget is spent for personnel since facilities without trained supervisors offer little more than places for congregation of gangs.

We have had gangs occasionally but none have been permitted to grow beyond the budding stage. If the leaders cannot be attracted to legitimate pursuits in organized programs, then the court removes them to State institutions for proper treatment.

There are many children, however, who cannot accept the regimentation of organized recreation; some who have not learned to play with others; a few who are emotionally ill and in need of special attention. From these groups we get our persistent delinquents. Since 1947 we have developed in our police department a juvenile bureau designed to handle all offenders of juvenile age.

Our course is plain and apparent: (1) We must explore more carefully the causes of delinquency and its cures; (2) we must organize our forces so that our interests and our strengths may be concentrated on problems at hand just as you have done in the formation of your Youth Commission; (3) we must fight for development of court services and community facilities; (4) we must help our neighbor to help himself.

Gran Quivira

simple habit of their order." Eventually, there were an estimated 70 friars at the pueblo.

But all did not go well in the splendid Gran Quivira, built by the author and sometimes called by her Culhuacan, the Aztecs' sacred city of the dead. Great treasures were supposed to be buried with the dead. After the queen had learned the friars were plundering the tombs in the underground chambers, the priestesses and the Aztec infirm fought a battle with the friars, which the latter won. The friars then adopted a plan, according to the author, to convert the Aztec dead, as well as the living, in order to continue plundering the tombs.

Not long after a second battle, Montezuma, last emperor of the Aztecs, revealed his true identity to the queen by baring his breast and showing the sleeping tortoise "imprinted on it in vivid blue colors." Montezuma was masquerading as a Gerald, chamberlain to "Father Gonzales."

That night the queen guided Montezuma through the secret underground chambers. She showed him the chamber beneath the temple, to which the 100 mutes had borne the Aztec treasure, and where their skeletons now lay. There the mutes had been imprisoned for life, the queen said, but some horrible disease had struck them and all died within a few hours.

In a small chamber the queen revealed to Montezuma the lost archives of their race—immense tablets of stone and roll upon roll of picture writing.

After the visit to the underground chambers, Montezuma slipped out of the pueblo by a secret passageway and went to tell the king, still away at war, of what was taking place in Gran Quivira.

Before the king returned, the queen was burned at the stake. Miraculously the flames fell back, and although blackened and dead she was left "scatheless." After the king's return with his warriors, the friars were forced to give back the treasure, and 20 of the friars were deliberately walled up alive to guard the Aztec riches. The church and monastery were undisturbed. Retainers of the priests were left to die of thirst. The king then departed, and Montezuma completed destruction of the city.

Margarite Jerome returned to Gran Quivira alone after the death of her second husband, and in her further mystical experiences identified herself with the Aztec Queen Marahquirita in her other life. She was borne aloft from Gran Quivira by a "beautiful, strong guiding hand," and the treasures of the city left "forever unrevealed."

The tales of buried treasure at Gran Quivira originated in the El Paso area among survivors of the Jumanas Indians who had abandoned the pueblo in 1670 because of drought and the raids of hungry Apaches. The Jumanas moved westward to the Rio Grande in the Socorro area, and in the pueblo revolt of 1680 fled with the Spaniards to El Paso del Norte. They established themselves at El Paso del Sur and became assimilated with other Indians.

Here is a reasonable explanation of how the treasure stories started. The dishes (probably jewelry) of the Spanish mission

WILL HARRISON'S Inside the Capital

RO. BOX 165 SANTA FE, N.M.

JUDGES VOTE SELVES BIGGER PENSIONS

Santa Fe, March 20 — New Mexico's 19 district judges and five supreme court judges this week voted themselves social security pensions which will add a maximum of $186 a month to their existing $500-a-month retirement pay.

They will contribute a fraction of 1% of their pay for the social security pensions. The state will match it and some of the older ones will be eligible to start collecting within a year and a half.

Last year state employees voted themselves into the plan with the effect of raising the maximum retirement pay from $250 to $436 a month. The employees' contribution is 2 1/4% of salary up to $4200 for social security and 5% for the state public employees plan. The state kicks in an equal amount. Social security for the state workers added approximately $300,000 a year to the state cost of maintaining the pension program. That's in addition to about $1.5 million paid for maintaining the state system.

BOLACK STRONGER THAN SUSPECTED

Less than three weeks remain before the special election for a congressman and so far neither of the candidates have stirred a ripple of public interest. It's part of the trials and tribulations of trying to conduct a political campaign single-handed and at a time when people are thinking about most anything but politics.

The only difference that observers have been able to notice at Gran Quivira, the altar cloths, the pictures of the church—objects of European culture foreign to the Indians—may have come to seem like treasures to them. Certainly the objects were treasured, but only at three or four-year intervals did Spanish caravans come through with supplies for the mission churches.

People having heard the legends of buried treasure, which grew with telling, dug at Gran Quivira in years past — sometimes through solid rock — but the only treasure the pueblo had to yield was its archeological value.

since the start of the run is that Republican Tom Bolack of Farmington seems to have more support than at first suspected. Experienced politicians think that Bolack has narrowed the gap that at first seemed to separate him from the front-running Lt. Gov. Joe M. Montoya.

MONTOYA RELYING ON LABOR HELP

Montoya is conducting a two-pronged bid for support. First, from the Spanish-American voters. His efforts so far have been almost entirely among this group. The second is directed at organized labor. He has talked on labor questions in nearly every public appearance and labor leaders have been prominent in his meetings and in his campaign organization. His trip to Bayard at the end of this week is aimed at that group.

The Republican Bolack has been making his pitch in eastern New Mexico, a heavily Democratic area but of light Spanish-American population. The self-made millionaire is probably also making an appeal for the conservative vote, as contrasted to Montoya's work among the organized labor group, but he is not making much noise about it. When the flaming workmen's compensation measure was before the house earlier this month Bolack teamed with the labor crowd against the measure.

JOE'S OPPONENTS STILL REMEMBER

One reason the race is estimated to be closer than at first thought is a series of reports reaching the capitol of unhealed wounds incurred in the Demo scrap for the nomination.

The half dozen candidates who were squeezed out of consideration by the big Montoya movement may be personally loyal to the Demo candidate but many of their friends are still burning. This has led to reports that Montoya will have a hard time carrying such Democratic counties as Otero, home of the defeated Melvin Tays; Curry, home of loser Brooks Austin; Lea, the home of squeezed out Don Hallam; Roosevelt, home of one-time prospect Anderson Carter; Quay, residence of another prospect, Tom Morris.

Bolack is also rated strong in Albuquerque, although Montoya is claiming the county, and naturally in his home county of San Juan and the neighboring county of McKinley.

INDIANS' PEYOTE FACING VETO

Governor Mecham is set to veto the peyote bill which passed the legislature unless somebody changes his mind. Peyote is a dried plant used extensively on the reservations as a stupor, dream-producing drug. Traffic in peyote has been banned by the Navajo Tribal Council and restricted by Federal law. The legislation, introduced by Sen. Fabian Chavez of Santa Fe, would permit its use in religious ceremonies.

The drug does not induce violence but mixed with liquor it produces wild effects, and without any mixing is not good for drivers of automobiles.

WORKMEN'S COMP WORRIES MECHEM

The governor's biggest problem, like that of the legislature, is SB 73, the measure that would take workmen's compensation cases out of jury courts and place them before a commission. He is reportedly away.

ing between voters, the measure on the grounds that some of its details are faulty, or approving it as a measure to bring order and uniformity into the handling of workmen's compensation cases and to bring bigger awards to injured workmen as provided in the bill.

Ironically, if the Republican governor vetoes the bill he will have acted to implement the Democratic platform promise to retain the jury trial system of the cases. Democrats in the legislature refused to recognize the platform promise on the grounds that it was put into the platform by only a handful of party members.

You can't buy a bigger station wagon anywhere...at any price!

Yet, this smooth-riding Plymouth Suburban is still in the low-price 3

There isn't a single station wagon built that's bigger than the new Plymouth.

We're not just talking about the low-price 3, though Plymouth has the biggest in the lowest-price range. We mean all station wagons...low-price, medium-price, right on up to the so-called "big" luxury wagons. You can't buy bigger than Plymouth no matter how much you spend!

So why spend more—and settle for less? Especially when Plymouth offers you the magic smoothness of velvety Torsion-Aire Ride... Push-Button Driving... Total-Contact Brakes... Flight-Sweep Styling... and the power-for-safety of up to 290 hp. Drive a Suburban today!

New Observation Seat. Available in all 9-passenger Suburban models. Folds flush into floor for extra cargo space.

1882 Deputy Stood Off Mob
One of New Mexico's most colorful early characters was Elifeo Baca, a deputy sheriff. In 1882, in the town of Reservo, he arrested a troublesome cowhand. The cowboy's rancher friends streamed to his rescue, and Baca stood off a mob of 80 men for over 30 hours before help arrived.

Speaker Tells of Crisis in Education

The Carrizozo Woman's Club was honored to have a distinguished guest speaker at their March meeting last Friday.

He was Dr. Floyd Golden, president of Eastern New Mexico University at Portales. Arrangements for Dr. Golden's visit were made by Mrs. R. G. Firman, vice president of the club.

Dr. Golden touched on a number of subjects, most vital of which, he said, was "the problem of dealing with our educational crisis."

"Our states and counties should shoulder most of the load in providing for the betterment of their schools," he said, and in his belief, Federal aid should be necessary only for school buildings, especially in the poorer districts.

Evasion by many taxpayers in properly evaluating their taxable holdings, he said, is largely responsible for many school districts in the state not having enough revenue to adequately operate their schools.

"If citizens throughout the nation expect to attract competent teachers they will have to pay wages commensurate with their education."

Educational problems were discussed at a recent White House conference which Dr. Golden attended as a representative of the National American Legion.

The club was honored by having six guests from the Capitan Woman's Club; and the Meses, B. Bamberg, Pay Wooten, Mrs. F. E. Creceilus and Mrs. Allen Brooks of Carrizozo. Supt. R. G. Firman was also present.

The refreshment table was attractively and artistically decorated with a huge shamrock, surrounded by golden roses and green candles as the centerpiece, carrying out the St. Patrick's Day motif. The club rooms were decorated with an array of Spring blossoms.

The hostesses, Meses, Will Orndorf, William Wrye, Sam Nickels, Wendell Watson and Mrs. Virgil L. Jiles, served refreshments of sandwiches, dainty cakes, candy and nuts. Coffee and tea were poured from an exquisite silver service, and lime punch was served from a lovely milk glass punch bowl.

Mrs. Betty Nickels played two violin numbers, accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelly at the piano.

Mrs. Sam Nickels, president, presided at the meeting.

Some 2,000,000 people visit the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C., each year.
