

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

(The following pleasant story was narrated by Mrs. Annie E. Lesnett to her daughter, Mrs. Edna Carlow...)

EARLY DAYS IN LINCOLN COUNTY

By ANNIE E. LESNETT

"Strange as it may seem, the kid, an outlaw, joined the forces for law and order..."

The lawless, led by Morton, had driven the kid and his band into the McSween home in Lincoln...

McSween indignantly pushed the gun away, saying: "I trust in the Lord, I know He will help me..."

The McSween home was soon surrounded by the Murphy gang and firing became very heavy...

But the soldiers did take an interest in the battle and decided to go to Lincoln to see the fight...

After looking things over they decided there was nothing they could do and retreated out of range of the bullets...

Murphy's men knew that they would never get the kid and his band unless they could drive them out of the house...

The house began to burn, but the battle did not stop. The kid kept moving his men from room to room...

The house began to burn, but the battle did not stop. The kid kept moving his men from room to room...

"Run out of that door like a streak of greased lightning, roll under the fence and hit for the Bonito river..."

As McSween reached the door he drew himself up every inch of his height and stepped with dignity onto the steps...

"Here I am—I'm McSween," he called in a listless voice. He knew what would follow...

Many bullets were wasted for the kid, jumping from side to side as he ran, was a very elusive target...

When I told the kid about this he asked me if I had a gun. "Heavens, no!" I replied laughing...

"Take this one," he said, holding one of his guns out to me. "And I'll teach you to shoot when I come back..."

"Poor boy never came back to our house. The next time I saw him he was a prisoner, guarded by Nell and Olinger..."

Olinger knowing that I liked the kid, gleefully invited me to the hanging. I turned my head and blinked fast to keep back the tears...

Work on the high school gymnasium roof has been completed and the recreation program is now in full swing...

Richard C. Cole has been elected to teach high school mathematics during the coming year. He is no stranger to Lincoln county...

The Old Abe stamp mill at White Oaks was destroyed by fire Wednesday morning. The principal loss was in salvagable timbers in the mill...

I straightened and turned. "Of course they can't Billy," I said, and it seemed to encourage him. It was just a few days after this that the kid killed his two guards at Lincoln and made his escape. His freedom was not to last very long. Pat Garrett killed him at Fort Sumner about two months later.

Two Home Makers From Ancho Attend Short Course at New Mexico A&M

By AILEEN LINDAMOOD

The morning of June 5 the children from Carrizo Lodge came to the Ruidoso Chinchilla Farms on a sight-seeing trip.

Mrs. Walter Schneider took them through the unit showing them the animals and explaining about their care, feeding and handling. A mother and her babies were on display and were fed milk with an eye dropper. A very tame animal was out on top of his cage for the children to pet and feel its lovely fur.

As they left the unit they were given toys, candy and gum and also signed the guest book. Several remarks were heard among the adults that some of the children could write nicer than they could.

Following the stop at the farms they came over to the Alto store for soft drinks.

Pat Vallant drove the children over in the Ruidoso school bus and had his two boys, Jack and Tommie with him. And of course "Heavy" Cunningham was along with his crippled children.

Mrs. Jody Filloman of Ruidoso assisted in entertaining and treating the children at the farms and also had her son Johnny along.

The Mmes. Charlie Peebles, Lawrence Peebles, Jim McEuen, George Dingwall, L. J. Adams and F. B. Lindamood were at the Chinchilla Farms and were hostesses at the store with the help of George Dingwall and F. B. Lindamood.

"Corky" McEuen, Donna, Jim and Marshall Peebles were also present at the festivities.

The camp at Carrizo Lodge is a wonderful opportunity for these children but is even a greater one for anyone who assists in a small way to make their stay a happy one.

The children who come to camp are under the jurisdiction of the New Mexico Society for Crippled Children and represent 25 counties over the state.

The fire was reported to have been started accidentally by persons who were doing salvage work on old boilers at the site, using a blow torch.

Cemetery Ass'n To Be Reorganized

By AILEEN LINDAMOOD

Plans were made at a meeting last Friday evening to reorganize the Carrizozo Cemetery Association and elect permanent officers.

This action and other business of the association will be taken up at a meeting of all cemetery lot owners, to be held Friday, 8 p.m., July 28, at the Shaw chapel.

Temporary officers of the association were elected at last Friday's meeting. They are Paul Baker, acting president, and Mrs. Lela Brewster, acting secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Brewster this week reported donations of $50 to the association, as evidence of the interest of townspeople in starting immediate improvement of the cemetery grounds.

Clarence E. Shaw, who owns the unsold lots in the cemetery, told the meeting that he would turn over to the association half the proceeds of any lots which he sells in the future.

Plans for cemetery improvement, water mains repair and raising additional money will be discussed at the June 28 meeting.

Chairman for two permanent committees have been named, Mrs. C. A. Snow, records committee, and Fred H. English, cemetery improvement.

C. of C. Preparing Industrial Report

Members of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, meeting last Thursday evening at the City Hall, further discussed an industrial and economic report that is being prepared by the chamber's industrial committee.

T. G. Peters, assistant director of the New Mexico Economic Development Commission, attended the meeting. He explained the advantages of such a report, which has all the information a business or industry would want to know before locating in a community.

"The purpose of the economic report," he said, "is to advertise Carrizozo and sell the town. Copies of the report in mimeographed form should be available to all of your own businessmen, and to mail out to anyone who may be interested in locating here."

Mr. Peters said that industry is not necessarily smokestacks. "It is anything that creates employment."

He said that 80% of the calling job done by communities is by the businessmen themselves. "Tell your friends, acquaintances and suppliers the advantages of locating a business in Carrizozo."

June 18, at 2 p.m. was the date set for this chamber's annual election of officers and directors, to be held at the office of the Lincoln County Savings and Loan Association. Five directors are to be elected.

Fred H. English presided over the business meeting in the absence of J. E. Thornton, president.

HANNAH PLOTTING TO TUN TABLE

Santa Fe, June 12 — Auditor Jim Hannah who looked like a shorn lamb in a bundle of bills passed by the last legislature now has a chance to wind up with more wool than ever in the outcome of a planned law suit.

The legislature took away from the auditor his sole function of disbursing state funds, a so-called pre-auditing process, and switched to him the auditing functions now held by the comptroller, the post-audit process made after money has been spent.

The change meant that Jim would have to lay off most of his present staff and hire a bunch of accountants. It also meant that he would be forced to audit state agencies with his own staff rather than assign the work to private firms, a practice to which he is firmly opposed.

Jim bucked like a turpentine bronc and hired a lawyer.

COULD GAIN MORE POWER

The law suit which isn't official but almost sure to come off will challenge the validity of only the law transferring Hannah's present duties out of his office and will raise no question on the one giving him the post-auditing authority and the post-auditing budget.

If he should win, and some lawyers and judges think he has a chance, he could wind up with more authority, money and jobs than ever and with the unheard of jurisdiction over both pre-auditing and post-auditing. In practice that would be checking on himself, confirming in the post-audit what he did in the pre-audit.

If that should come off Hannah should count the recent legislature a complete success. The law-makers when they didn't know anything about Jim's displeasure with their earlier work voted him a raise from $3400 to $11,000 which was kind of a conciliatory gesture in relation to what they thought they had done in changing his duties.

HIGHWAY OFFICE HIRING LAWYERS

The highway department is really going into the legal aspects of the new law calling on the state to pay for moving public utility installations in building the new wide roads.

Hired to look into the law were Robert Fox, a Santa Fe Republican lawyer, and attorney Charlie Spann, recent Albuquerque Demos chairman. Fox recently turned in a bill for $340 for 30 hours work on the case at $15 an hour. Spann hadn't sent in a bill at this writing.

The special lawyers are preparing a case questioning an act of the last legislature which stands to cost the state some $10 million in the next 10 or 12 years moving poles and pipelines.

The public utilities had been quantifying for decades without cost on the public roads with signed agreements to get off upon 30 days notice. When it looked like they would have to move over but not entirely leave their free parking they went to the legislature and got a bill through for the caps to pay for the move.

LEGISLATORS DIDN'T UNDERSTAND

Several legislators who voted for the unusual measure are explaining that they weren't fully informed.

Some said they supported the bill because they thought it affected only municipally owned utilities; others said they acted to protect OREA lines.

And some used the lame excuse that the whole public would be penalized by higher gas, electric and telephone rates if the big companies had to pay for their own moving.

RAISE OF SALARY INSTEAD OF HANGING

Among those getting nice raises at the state university were the basketball coach who lost about 20 games and the football coach who lost six.

The Tax Payers Assn. has boycotted the interim committee that was set up to work out a better distribution of school money. The association got out at about the same time the talk in the committee changed from redistributing present school funds to that of getting more school funds. . . . The meeting this week of the board of educational finance explored the possibility of making a junior college of the Northern New Mexico State School at El Rito. There was a feeling among some that a useful purpose had to be developed for the state supported

The 700 women at the Home-makers College took part in vespere services, a fashion show, a banquet, campus tour, and an open house at A&M President Roger B. Corbett's home.

Was the Homemakers College a success? Definitely so, according to comments from the women who attended. Here are typical remarks:

"I've never learned so much in such a short time."

"The best home economics training I've had since I left college 20 years ago."

"As a new bride, I am now better prepared to handle the problems of my future household."

"Homemakers College has given me a new outlook, not only on my household tasks, but also on life in general."

"Next year I'm going to bring my husband with me to Home-makers College."

New Mexico A&M plans to make Homemakers College an annual event. President Corbett says, "We have had a tremendous response to this first Home-makers College," he explained. "The interest women have shown indicates that the short course fills a definite need in New Mexico."

Mr. Cole graduated from the University of New Mexico and is returning there this summer for additional work. Mrs. Cole will remain in Carrizozo with the children.

FOLKLORE CORNER

By TED RAYNOR

(Editor's note: The following stories of a bygone Las Cruces were told by B.G. Dyne, long-time druggist in the city.)

IRISH STEW NEW MEXICO STYLE

Wong Lee was sitting in the kitchen of his Las Cruces restaurant, peeling potatoes and soaking his feet in a cooking pot on the morning about 45 years ago that young Samuel Forward walked in to ask if the Chinese needed any supplies for the day.

Forward was a nephew of the May Brothers who had a large grocery store, and each morning he called at the restaurants in town.

Wong told Forward that his feet hurt very bad because he had to stand up so much during the day.

The old Chinese had about finished peeling potatoes when Forward came in and they talked until the former had finished the job. Wong then got up, threw the water in the cooking pot out the back door, wiped out the pot with a rag dampened in cold water, filled it with potatoes and meat and set it on the stove.

Wong was preparing the Irish stew for which his restaurant was famous in Las Cruces. His restaurant occupied part of a building at Main and Organ streets, where Penny's store now is, and hundreds of persons came to Wong's place just to eat Irish stew. They especially liked its flavor.

In fact, one Irishman declared Wong's stew was the best he had ever eaten outside of a restaurant in Cork, Ireland.

Wong's feet figured in another incident that was told around Las Cruces.

Once a fellow got angry with the old Chinese. On a dark night he slipped around to the rear of Wong's place with stick in hand. He saw an open window and a white object at the sill. In the darkness the fellow was sure it was Wong's head, and he bolted it with the stick. But it was Wong's feet instead. The blow broke a toe or two.

DUST STORMS ARE DIFFERENT NOW

About 50 years ago when the horse was the chief means of transportation, Main Street in the small business district of Las Cruces was fine, almost powdery, white sand into which the hooves of horses and the feet of pedestrians sank.

The business district then consisted mainly of the three blocks extending south from St. Genevieve's Church, and on days or nights when lots of people came to town as many as 250 horses would be hitched along that stretch.

Street sweeping wasn't yet practiced in Las Cruces, and travel up and down the street the next few days would thoroughly mix the droppings with the fine sand.

When a wind came up and sand began to blow, a strange thing happened to men who spent too long in the business district.

Many's the time, Dyne said, during a dust storm, that he has seen men walk into his Las Cruces Drug Co. Store, south of the present Las Cruces Drug, with their lips stained brown as though they were confirmed and careless tobacco chewers. But he knew these men didn't chew tobacco. The brown-tinted flying sand, clinging to slightly moist lips, gave the men the appearance of tobacco chewers. The same happened to him often enough, Dyne said. He added no one was ever ill from the effects of such a dust storm.

Men would complain a great deal about a grain of sand in the eye, but none ever kicked about the taste of the dust.

4 Agencies Cooperate To Keep Bonito Open As Recreation Area

Friday Rolla Buck, city manager of Alamogordo, stopped at the store in Alto to leave copies of the map and instructions on the Bonito reservoir fishing and recreation area. If anyone wishes a copy they are available at Lindy's Country Store at Alto.

Mr. Buck voiced the hope that the instructions will be followed to the letter so that the public may continue to enjoy the fishing and recreational advantages of the lake.

Cooperating in management and forest protection of this area are the Lincoln National Forest, the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, the City of Alamogordo and Holloman Air Development Center.

The Bonito Lake Municipal Water Supply instructions read: "You are entering the Bonito Watershed, which is the source of domestic water supply for many municipalities in this locality. Your cooperation in protecting this important watershed from fire and the water supply from pollution will be appreciated."

"Picnicking is permitted within the area posted by signs. Fishing is permitted in accordance with New Mexico Fish and Game Commission Regulations and under the following stipulations:

"1. Fishing is allowed by permit which is obtainable at the gate. No boating, wading, or swimming is permissible.

"2. Regulations regarding use of fire in this area under State and Federal Laws will be strictly enforced. Do not leave your fire unattended and completely extinguish before leaving.

"3. Please keep trash and other debris out of the water-courses. "Continued public recreation use of this watershed depends on you. Only through your cooperation can this scenic area be protected and kept as you enjoy it."

Kincaid, another daughter, and Mr. Kincaid, of Albuquerque are at their Alto home and enjoyed a visit with the family, as did a brother, Leslie Smith, and granddaughter Tina Mathews.

Mrs. James Borders of El Paso came up to her Eagle Creek home Saturday in order to be here when her son, James A. Jr., and family arrived from Kansas City, Mo., for their vacation.

Imogene Campbell came up Sunday from La Luz to see her mother, Mrs. J. B. Hightower. When she returned, her sister Mary Lois went with her for a visit.

Billy Hightower, son of the J. B. Hightowers, has been quite ill the past few days and on Sunday he went to the Ruidoso hospital. At this time he is improving and we're all glad for that.

One of the finest examples of pre-Columbian religious architecture in America is the Great Kiva at Aztec Ruins National Monument, in northwestern New Mexico. Built of stone by Pueblo Indians about a thousand years ago, the Great Kiva is a circular ceremonial room, partly underground, its roof supported by massive rock and log columns.

An interesting weapon used by the prehistoric Indians of New Mexico was the "atlatl," or spear-thrower. The atlatl added artificially to the length of the hunter's or warrior's arm, and, when fitted with a spear, greatly increased the speed and force of the missile.

Their families accompanied them. They had a lovely dinner prepared by Mattie Thorp. They enjoyed the good day of work and visiting.

County Men Fight Fire In Coronado Forest

Fred Pfingsten, Adrian Hill and Claude Hobbs were flown from Buidoso Friday the 7th to Tucson, Ariz., where they teamed with 100 Zuni Indians from Gallup to fight a fire in the rugged mountains in the Coronado forest, east of Tucson.

It took them all night to walk to the fire and four hours to walk down a steep mountain, leaving it after the fire was out on the opposite side. They went in on the Safford side. Two planes dropped food and water. A helicopter carried personnel to the fire area, spotting the fire and its condition etc.

The fire was under control Monday noon and the men were released. They were very tired and glad that it was over and they were able to return home.

Mrs. Pearl Soderback and Macie Edmondson were business visitors in Hobbs last Tuesday.

Factors to Consider in Buying Small Business

Some important factors which should be considered before buying a small retail, wholesale, or service establishment are discussed in a new leaflet announced this week by Harold R. Smethills, regional director of the Small Business Administration, for this area.

The leaflet, "Buying a Small Going Concern," is number 20 in the Agency's series of Marketers Aids and can be obtained upon request at the Small Business Administration office, located at 229 New Customhouse, Denver, Colorado.

The Aid points out that a prospective buyer should expect to be offered a business which has a poor recent record of earnings, but high lights the fact that most "sick businesses" can be attributed to poor management.

Mr. Smethills said that very few businesses with good sales earnings are offered for sale, and if a buyer waits for a profitable business, he may wait for many years. Moreover, these are usually bought quickly by someone who has had previous association with the company, he claimed.

The leaflet, which is written for prospective buyers, says that "unless you are prepared to hold out and wait for a long time, do not refuse to consider a sick business. The usual reason for a business being sick is poor management. Your aim should be to find out next if this is the reason the firm is sick, and if so, whether or not your management still could bring the company up to an earning position."

The Aid points out the necessary considerations in purchasing a going business and highlights the legal aspects in connection with such a purchase, saying that a prospective buyer should make sure that there are no hidden claims on the business.

Limited Fund Available For 'Hopper Control

The $50,000 appropriated by the state legislature to help ranchers fight grasshoppers on rangeland in New Mexico in 1957-58 will be allocated on a first-come, first served basis, according to the State Grasshopper Board.

The board, appointed by Governor Edwin L. Mechem, met in Santa Fe recently to consider the procedure for handling requests for local assistance. Under the control program ranchers pay one-third of the cost and the state and federal government each contribute similar amounts.

Serving on the new Grasshopper Board are ranchers W. W. Denton, Datil; and H. C. Gilliland, Clayton. Dallas Rierson, director of the State Department of Agriculture and N. M. College of A&M is chairman.

Last year the board said the state's share of the expense on grasshopper control on 670,000 acres of rangeland amounted to $117,520. Fall surveys show possible grasshopper infestations on two and a half million acres of rangeland in the state this year. The board conservatively estimated that the state's share for grasshopper control on rangeland in 1957 will amount to over $140,000.

In view of the expected infestations and the inadequacy of the appropriated funds, board members believe it is most advisable to allocate the funds to the local committees who make first requests for assistance. Members hope that this will encourage early control of the grasshopper and prevent wider infestations.

The new Grasshopper Control Act calls for the organization of local grasshopper control committees who will request assistance from the State Grasshopper Board. Rierson says that procedure which local grasshopper committees will follow in applying for assistance is now being prepared and will be sent to county extension agents in the near future.

He urges ranchers who need assistance to contact their local grasshopper committee as quickly as possible if they want state aid. Unless additional funds are made available, there will be no further assistance from the state after the $50,000 has been used.

New Grass Aphid Baffles Entomologists

A new aphid has been found on laws of new strains and varieties of bermuda grass in Las Cruces, according to J. J. Durkin, extension entomologist at New Mexico A&M. Adjacent clumps of common bermuda are also heavily infested.

The college and USDA entomologists have been unable to identify the minute wax-secreting insect. Specimens have been sent to European entomologists in hopes that they can provide some information on the aphid.

As the pest was first found in T-47 and Sunturf bermuda grasses which are propagated from sprigs rather than seed, the aphid might have been imported with some of these new strains.

The aphid secretes a fairly large quantity of wax similar to that of woolly apple aphids. When infested grass is brushed with the hand or foot a white cloud of the wax secretion is produced. Durkin says it has been impossible to determine to what extent the infested bermuda grass is being damaged by the new insect. Temperatures have not been conducive to optimum growth of the grass. However, observations indicate some stunting of growth. Yellowing, browning, or dying out is not apparent.

If control measures are needed, the entomologist believes that malathion, lindane, or any other effective aphicide thoroughly applied to infested lawns will kill the pests.

Check Fruit Trees For Aphids, Mites

Woolly apple aphids and clover mites should be controlled before they build up large populations in apple orchards. To prevent early season build-ups of these pests, check trees thoroughly every week or just before applying codling moth control sprays. If aphids and mites are present, add a recommended aphicide or miticide to the next cover spray.

Woolly aphids first appear in cracks, pruning wounds, and young growth in the center of the tree. They are easily detected by the white, woolly masses of wax they produce as they feed. If woolly aphids are not controlled when they first appear in the spring, they move to the tender terminal growth, where they can cause severe stunting and retardation of growth. They also build up large populations which move to the roots, where they do the most damage to apple trees.

Clover mites feed on leaves and young growth. They usually start feeding near the center of the tree on water sprouts. However, if a pre-bloom spray of oil, DN, or Genite-923 wasn't applied, they can be found over the entire tree. Leaves damaged by mites are very noticeable because of their mottled yellow-to-bronze color. The mites themselves are very small and dark red. They don't form colonies or webbing and they move about quite a bit. When an average of 5-8 mites per leaf are found, it's time to control them.

Some insecticides control both mites and aphids, while others control just one or the other. Malathion, parathion, EPN, Systox and TEPP control both mites and aphids. Ovotran, aramite and kelthane control mites only. Kelthane should not be applied later than three weeks after petals fall. All these materials can be combined with DDT or lead arsenate in the codling moth control cover sprays.

You May Be Eligible For Social Security

Take advantage of the opportunity to participate in the social security program. Many persons 65 and over can qualify now for the minimum $30 per month social security retirement benefit if they would just take time to understand what they are required to do. Others could become qualified within the minimum 1 1/2 year period.

Six quarters of 1 1/2 years of social security coverage is the minimum time requirement for retirement benefits. If you are a farm employee, you get one quarter of coverage for each $100 of cash wages you receive in a year. If you are a self-employed farmer and have a net income of $100 or more in a year, you get four quarters of coverage for that year. Furthermore, you have

Love's Labor Often Lost By Gardening Enthusiast

"Picture wall" of potted plants windows his garden lover see fruits of his efforts from his cozy chair.

If you work hard at keeping your lawn and garden in good shape, have you ever suddenly dropped your tools, mopped your brow and wondered: "Who am I doing all this for, myself? Me or my neighbors?" It's true that all too often neighbors or strangers passing by are able to enjoy the beauty of a well-maintained lawn and colorful plantings more than the home-owners who slave over them.

The reason for this is blank walls and landscape windows in many homes. The answer is a "picture wall" such as this one.

on the most attractive portion of the grounds.

The owner of the home in the photograph has taken full advantage of a scenic setting by installing sliding windows of potted plants in a long row sweeping along the side and across the corner of the living-dining area.

This arrangement virtually brings the lawn and garden inside, permitting the family to enjoy them while dining or relaxing in the living room.

Windows of potted plants come in many sizes, styles, shapes and sizes that are ideal for "picture walls" such as this one.

the option of reporting on 2/3 of your gross farm income between $500 and $1800, instead of reporting on your net income. This means that if your net income is less than the $400 minimum or if you have no net income at all, you may still participate in the social security program if your gross farm income is as much as $600.

Farm rental income now counts for social security purposes. The 1956 social security amendments provided that cash or share rental income received by farm landlords can and must be counted as self-employment income under the OASI program. If the landlord participates materially in the production or the management of production of the agricultural or horticultural commodities grown on his farm.

It's not too late to report and pay social security taxes on your 1956 income, or even on your 1955 income. Actually, under the statute of limitations, you have 3 years, 2 months and 15 days from the last day in the calendar year or your fiscal year. Why delay? You may lose a great deal in non-retroactive retirement payments, in addition to interest and penalties for filing late.

THIS IS "THE STONE YOU CAN MOLD"

When you're working with concrete, there is great latitude in what you can do from the standpoint of structural strength, design, and ornamentation. You're actually molding the concrete into the form you want it to take... but once it has hardened, it has all the properties of fine stone. That's why we call it "the stone you can mold." And we who make El Toro Cement for Southwestern builders look back on a half century of providing them with good cement for their many and varied building projects. We take pride in this record.

Harry Spurgeon Takes Bride in Las Cruces

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Straley are announcing the marriage of their son Harry Spurgeon to Patricia Hendrix of Las Cruces.

The marriage was performed there June 6, with members of both families present.

The lovely bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hendrix and is a graduate of the 1933 class of the Las Cruces High School.

Pete is a graduate of the Carrizozo High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Straley hosted a party for the happy young couple at La Posta for members of the families with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Faubion as special guests.

Family Finds Changes in Jicarilla Country

Mr. and Mrs. Lin Ellis of Freeport, Texas, accompanied by their daughter "Doodle" and her two young sons, Bill and Hank, also of Freeport were Ancho and Jicarilla visitors over the week end.

This was their first visit to Jicarilla in 20 years. They found a great change from the activity of the thirties when many people settled there operating gold claims, dry and wet, some lucrative "pay dirt"; others not so good.

Hitchy, despite the years, still exuded her charm and love of life. "Shorty" is a Master Mason and Shriner.

"Doodle" will be remembered by all as the "little girl with the lovely voice" who sang at all the dances and especially do we all remember her rendition of "Gold Mine in the Sky." She now holds an interesting and attractive traveling position with the government. They enjoyed the visit immensely and "Shorty's" brother Marvin returned to Freeport for a sojourn on the Gulf Coast with them.

Mrs. June Straley, Esther and friend Gladys Turner were Las Cruces and El Paso visitors last week.

Sunday Esther and Tommy J. accompanied Miss Gladys Turner to her home at Ft. Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. Hank Means are in Colorado for six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Montano and little daughter, Gloria are spending part of their vacation with Mrs. Montano's folks, the Salamon Aragoans.

The charming Mrs. Arnold, of the State Department of New Mexico was an Ancho visitor on Tuesday from her office in Las Cruces.

Geologic Conference in San Juan Mountains

The annual geologic field conference of the New Mexico Geological Society has been set for September 5-7 in the Durango-Silverton-Ouray area of the San Juan Mountains.

Dr. Waldemere Bejnar, Socorro geologic consultant, has been named as general chairman of the field trip. Registration for this trip will be limited to the first 150 persons who apply to Mrs. Marion Burks, Box 652, Socorro, N. M.

It is anticipated that a fee of $50 will cover the guidebook, meals, room, and bus and train fare for the 3-day trip. No private cars will be allowed on the conference in the area north of Durango. Headquarters for the sessions will be the Grand Imperial Hotel, Silverton.

About 50 million acres of all wheat, are reported seeded or to be seeded for the 1937 crop. This is 10.7 million below the 1937 million acres seeded for the 1936 crop. Reduction results from drought conditions at seeding time and operation of the Soil Bank Average Ranges Program.

News and Views from The Nation's Capital

By Repr. J. J. Dempsey

Washington, June 13—Ramifications of the far-reaching and controversial foreign aid program become more and more evident as the Congress nears final consideration of the Administration's proposal to make nearly $4 billion available for that purpose in fiscal year 1938. Despite the Administration's agreement to cut the original request of $4.5 billion to $3.8 billion, it becomes increasingly apparent that an additional cut will be made before the appropriation bill is passed.

THE RIGHTS OF AN AMERICAN CITIZEN

In all of the controversy that has grown out of the decision of our Government to turn G. I. William Girard over to a Japanese court for trial in the death of a Japanese woman, it seems to me that our responsible officials have overlooked what should be the determining factor—the rights of an American citizen. Once again this case proves the utter fallacy of our "Status of Forces Agreement" made with countries where our servicemen and women are stationed.

This soldier in a United States uniform had been ordered to protect our property. Whether the death of this Japanese woman collecting scrap was accidental is beside the question. The soldier says it was an accident. There is no good reason, so far revealed, for doubting his word. He was sent to duty by his Government. He was not in Japan of his own choice; nor are the other hundreds of thousands of G. I.'s stationed abroad.

The responsibility for that soldier rests with the United States, no matter where he is. The provisions of our Constitution are supposed to protect him wherever he may be—in his country's service. Our diplomats are immune from prosecution in foreign courts. Because this man wears a uniform should we have a lesser obligation to him?

The argument that he will be given fair trial in a Japanese court and that Japanese judges have been very lenient in sentencing American soldiers in the past, an argument advanced by our officials, does not hold water. It is entirely beside the question, but it appears to be one of the justifications which our officials find for entering into these Status of Forces Agreements. This boy should not be turned over to a foreign court with the idea that he may escape punishment in whole or in part. He is entitled under our Constitution to a trial before a jury of his peers. There is no such jury in Japan or any other country than his own.

Is it worth a sop of appeasement to a foreign country to wreck a young man's life—a life he is willing to give in his country's service? At the least, he is entitled to a military court-martial.

SENATE GROUP RESTORES SOIL BANK FUNDS

The Senate Agriculture Appropriations Subcommittee has voted to restore funds for the soil bank acreage reserve appropriation killed recently by the House. The Senate is likely to agree. The vote in the House was 192 to 187, a margin of five. I believe a good many of those who voted to cut out the funds have changed their minds and will go along with the Senate. This acreage reserve payment is particularly helpful to farmers in such drought distress areas as New Mexico. To terminate the program is, in effect, violation of an agreement with those farmers.

LINCOLN

Mrs. Rafaelita Pryor left Monday for Silver City to attend the summer session at New Mexico Western.

Edward Pentfield took his nephew, Jonnie Amastae, to Belen last Sunday, where Jonnie got on the train to go to Holbrook, Ariz., for a visit with the Reedy's.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Downing are spending a few days in Lincoln while Mr. Downing recuperates.

Appoint Field Worker For State Hospital in Southern New Mexico

In an effort to provide more and better service to patients on convalescent leave from the New Mexico State Hospital a field social worker has been appointed to serve the southwestern section of the state, according to Albert E. Ball, medical administrative assistant and director of social services at the hospital.

Mrs. Ruth G. Arnold, 1010 Solano Drive, Las Cruces, began her duties several weeks ago and will cover Dona Ana, Otero, Lincoln, Luna, Hidalgo, Socorro, Sierra, Grant and Catron counties. Her base of operations will be in Las Cruces.

The appointment of Mrs. Arnold brings to four the number of field workers employed by the State Hospital. The field service program was begun on an experimental basis two years ago with the placement of a worker in Albuquerque. So successful was the demonstration in assisting patients and their families that the board of directors authorized money for four additional workers. Others have been placed in Santa Fe, a second one in Albuquerque, in addition to the Las Cruces area, Ball said.

Difficulty in filling the positions is due to the scarcity of properly qualified and experienced personnel.

Roof Line Adds Size to House

One of the most successful design techniques of Ned H. Abrams, prominent California architect, is to make a small inexpensive house look larger than it actually is by accentuating the roof line.

Abrams, of Sunnyvale, Calif., has accomplished this in the compact ranch house, right, by placing the carport at the front and sweeping the low pitch roof over it.

The house, now being erected in the rolling hills overlooking San Francisco Bay, has three bedrooms, and sells for under $12,000.

Architect Abrams, one of the San Francisco area's leading home designers, prefers asphalt shingles because of their economy, durability and color.

From the viewpoint of color, Abrams says he likes to use "nature's tones," such as the deep brown asphalt shingles used on the house shown. "These colors come from the earth," the architect says, "and are more restful."

He pointed out that in California near the ocean there are few trees. "This is the reason we like to use deep colors on the roof. Light pastels tend to be too bright in California's intense sunshine."

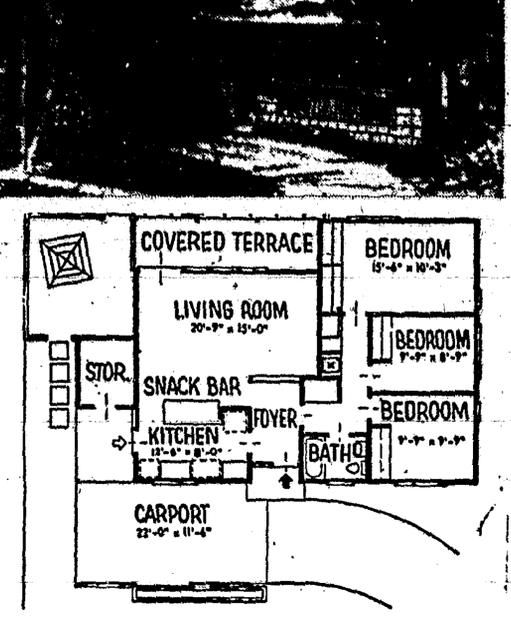

Abrams added that in some mountain areas where trees are plentiful the light pastels of asphalt shingles are good. "A light roof color keeps the house from looking like it's cowering among the trees."

Other exterior features of the Abrams house are wood siding stained in redwood tones, a sheltered entranceway under wide eaves, and a covered terrace at the rear.

Inside, the wide entrance hall leads to a 20 by 15 foot living room separated from the kitchen by a snack bar. The kitchen is on the front of the house to permit ready access from the living room to the outdoor living area at the rear.

The overall design, Abrams says, was aimed at offering as much open planning and casual, outdoor-indoor living as possible in a small, low cost home.

Additional information, including study plans, blueprints and specifications can be obtained from Ned H. Abrams & Associates, 575 Britton Ave., Sunnyvale, Calif.

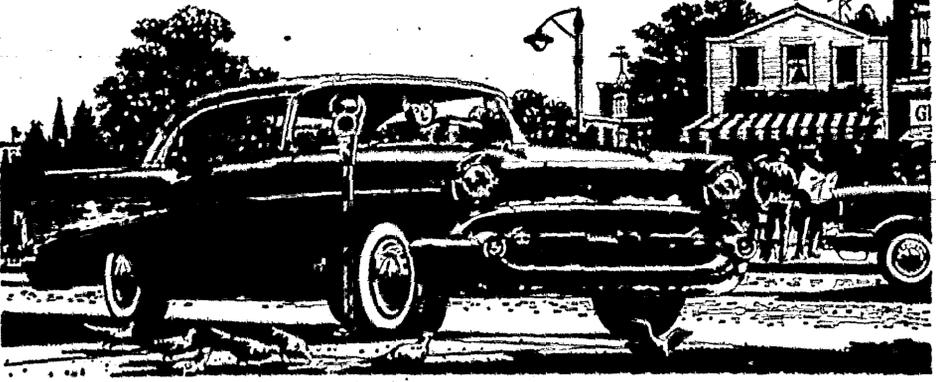

state, according to hospital reports.

"We have found that our field staff has not only benefited the status with problems of employment, emotional conflicts and leisure time. They supervise the treatment recommendations made by the hospital medical staff, secure family information about newly admitted patients and maintain contact with relatives while the patient is undergoing treatment. Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Turboglide is something feally new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control panel. There's no "Low" needed.

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "Gr" (Grade Retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down.

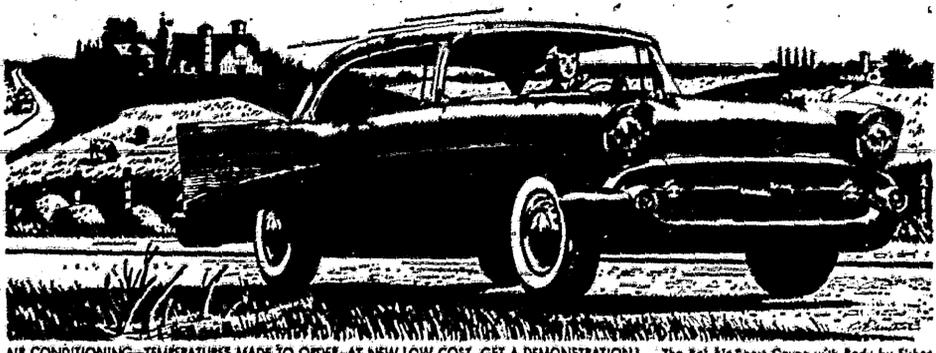

Try Chevy's new, nothing-like-it automatic drive. It's optional at extra cost—and worth it.

News Notes From Along the Bonito

Jicarilla Old Timers Visit Tom Bragg

Old timers from the Jicarillas visited Tom Bragg and the Bonito City folks last week. Many in Lincoln county will remember Shorty and Hitchey Ellis and Doodle, their daughter. The Ellises have been in Freepert, Texas, for several years. Shorty is a parts manager for the Ford Company at Freepert, near Galveston. Doodle is employed by some company (forget the name) going all over the U. S. setting up offices. Shorty said in 1928 he and his men took $22,000 worth of gold out of the Jicarillas.

They told me about Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bilbo who use the post office at Jicarilla. (They also weighed gold when I taught school there in 1937.) Mrs. Bilbo unta-ny her two young children each evening when they came in from school before they could come in the house "cause the bedbugs sure had a "ball" every day of school and all the youngsters had their scratches. The Bilbos now live at Encinal, Texas, care of Callaghan ranch.

Spencer Ely, Pop Smellin, Montie Buckman, and Teddie Crawford are in Las Vegas this week doing assessment work. These boys live at Jal and Bear Canyon.

J. T. Crawford, brother John and John's son Bobby Dee from Jal were Bear Canyon visitors this week.

Looking in on the home races at Ruidoso (they wouldn't admit betting) from Jal this week were: Buns Taylor and family, Richard Moore and the Mitchell boys; also J. T. Crawford, John Crawford, and Bobby Dee Crawford. These boys said they were glad they had gas in their car so they could get home after the races.

Mrs. ("Bird") George Smith and three sons, George, Ed and Fred from El Paso and Alamogordo fished at the Bonito Dam Sunday. The Smiths lived in Capitan years ago. "Bird" wanted to say hello to Ada Sellers who lived in Capitan when the Smiths did and still lives there.

Boss Coe plans a trip by motorcycle to Canada when he finds out it has warmed up there.

Ben Pfingsten, Texas Bob and Bob's twin cousin Ronnie McDaniell were round about last week. Ben is now sporting a "newer" car, a '41 Ford bought from Byrl Lindsay at Nogal. Ben says his Ford has new shoes and now he can visit a lot of his friends.

Judy LaMay was in Portales for a week with the band camp at Eastern N. M. University.

Chester Marks and wife from Clovis visited the Nazarene camp at Angus last week. They had been to El Paso to a Nazarene convention.

A group of young folks visited at the Nazarene camp last week end. Larry Lane, Barbara Jackson, Pat Jackson, Lynda Jackson and Kyda Klausner. The Jacksons chaperoned the group. They enjoyed a horseback ride on the Bonito and plan to come back next week end.

Mrs. Malcolm Petree and children visited the Tommy LaMays Sunday. Malcolm was out hunting uranium.

Ralph and Reba Jean Barber are proud parents with a baby girl, Ronda May, born at Ruidoso hospital.

Clara and Otho Lowe were out driving Sunday around the Dam to see the new developments. They'll fish when the lake is stocked.

An Alamogordo official just told me they are still trying to get fish in the lake and feel sure they will soon.

Bill Sublette and wife Viola, formerly employed at the Mountain Motor Service in Green Tree, were Bonito visitors on Sunday.

Billy Sublette now works in Alamogordo for General Signs. He is still making sketches for the future Santa Clausland, to be lo-

New Law Requires Premarital Examination

The New Mexico Legislature meeting earlier this year passed a law requiring a premarital examination by a physician. This act was signed by the Governor on March 5, 1957 and goes into effect on June 7, 1957.

The law requires that before any County Clerk issues a marriage license, a certificate from a licensed physician shall be filed by each applicant certifying that the applicant has been given an examination not more than thirty days prior to the date of application for the license, and that in the opinion of the examining physician, the applicant is either not infested with venereal diseases, or is not in a stage of such diseases which may become communicable.

Copies of the New Mexico premarital examination law and the regulations pertaining to the law, or any information regarding the operation of this program, may be obtained by writing to the New Mexico Public Health Laboratory, 305 Terrace Avenue, N. E., Albuquerque, or to the New Mexico Department of Public Health, Box 711, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Over 25 Attend Sheep Demonstration

Over 25 attended the sheep demonstration Tuesday at the Skeen ranch south of Picocho. Highlights of the afternoon was Professor P. E. Neale's talk on the use of the "squeeze" machine, along with charts and figures—he showed—to illustrate how it would speed up wool and sheep improvement.

By hand selection in the grading chute during the last 15 years, he has been able to make 2 lb. of clean wool improvement per year. By machine grading only the rams it was estimated he would be able to increase this improvement to 4 lb. clean wool per year. By machine grading both ewes and rams, he would be able to increase the wool production by 6 lb.

He attributed the increase in clean wool production to the fact that the machine can weigh all factors affecting wool production accurately, whereas hand selection is always affected by personal prejudice on such things as length.

Also, in this same herd, he compared hand selected animals before using the machine and those same animals after they were graded by machine.

The growers at the meeting had a chance to grade some sheep on clean wool production before shearing and see how these estimates turned out after the animals were shorn. Ivan Watson was in charge of this part of the program.

Mr. Watson also emphasized that the gross income on any ranching enterprise would be one of the best ways of recognizing whether the ewe was doing a good job in management or not. The gross income could be rated by taking the estimated investment to produce that income—as an example, he said if you had $100,000 invested in land and livestock, and grossed $25,000, you were doing very well.

A barbecue was served at noon by Joe Skeen with Clint Sultemeier in charge of the barbecue.

Doyle Volger pleaded guilty to reckless driving. He was assessed $100 costs and placed on 90 days' probation.

A divorce was granted in the case of Jeanette Chaney, plaintiff, vs. Curtis M. Chaney. The plaintiff's maiden name of Jeanette Means was restored.

In the case of Elsie Mae Beebe, convicted on a bad check charge, the case was set aside and commitment made to state insane asylum, to be returned to her home state of California.

In the civil case Hanson Judgson Co. vs. C. E. Mauldin, judgment in favor of plaintiff.

A divorce decree was granted Shirley Ann Simpson, plaintiff, vs. Eldridge Olyan Simpson. Custody of one minor child awarded plaintiff.

District court recesses on June 25.

The Texas oilman, barreling along the highway in an expensive car, screamed to a stop to pick up a hitchhiker. Climbing in, the young fellow noticed a pair of thick-lensed glasses lying on the seat.

As the telephone poles began flying by in a blur, he grew more and more uneasy. "Beg pardon, mister," he finally ventured, "but don't you think you ought to wear your glasses while you're driving?"

"Shucks, son, don't let that bother you," drawled the Texan. "This here windshield is ground to my prescription."

Patrolman (at accident): If you saw the woman's car coming toward you, why didn't you give her half of the road?
