

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

(Billy the Kid was tried for murder and taken to Lincoln to await execution. G. A. Rowland continues the story of the last chapters in the Kid's life, as related to him years ago by Pat Garrett.)

By G. A. ROWLAND

The Kid was ready to make tracks from Lincoln. He made the blacksmith hold the horse while he got into the saddle; then turned up the river, which was in a westerly direction.

You go two or three hundred yards and the road, at that time, turned sharply to your left and went across a little irrigation ditch, then turned short to your right.

The Kid got above any houses on his left, just barren hills behind him. Of course, he knew all the houses and where, the majority of the people lived, as he was well acquainted in Lincoln county.

He took the Winchester in his left hand and pulled off his hat with his right hand and waved it three times over his head, saying "Goodbye for ever. You'll never bring me back to this town alive again." Then he pulled out on a gallop.

Garrett knew the Kid had a Mexican sweetheart up in Fort Sumner, so he and his two faithful deputies set out to find the Kid. Garrett was a tall man. If you ever saw him once you never would forget him. He sent one of his deputies into Fort Sumner, telling him to "See if you can find anybody that happens to know the Kid; don't ask his whereabouts; if they know they will say something about it." The deputy came back without finding out anything.

When dark came all three rode into town and tied their horses under some big cottonwood trees. Pat left his two deputies out in the street, they called it. Of course the street was nothing but a road. He told them to keep their mouths shut and listen and look.

Pat went into Pete Maxwell's place. Every room opened out on a board sidewalk. He knew Pete's room was right next to a little hall in back of the kitchen which was in the rear. It was a little building where the cook did the cooking and fed them all in this same room.

The Kid had been out riding all day in the hills and came in after dark. He put up his horse and brought his Winchester in and set it down in the kitchen; pulled off his boots and coat and laid his hat down. He picked up the newspaper which he had the cook get for him and he was settin' there reading the paper and he had his eye on the cook who was just about finishing washing the dishes.

Finally the Kid said "Cook, fix me some supper. I've been out in the hills all day and I've had no dinner and I'm hungry."

"Mr. Billy, I haven't got a piece of meat in the kitchen. The meat is all in the smokehouse and Mr. Pete has got the key to it."

"Give me the butcher knife and I'll make Pete get me some." The Kid wouldn't go through this hall. He was afraid somebody would shoot him in the back, as it was dark in there. Somebody might be in one of those rooms and get him through a peep hole. So he walked around the building and came in the front and down this little board sidewalk.

The moon was shining as bright as day. The Kid saw these two men laying out there and he said "Who is that?" He jerked his six-shooter and put it in his left hand. One of the men was smoking a cigar and it dropped on the ground.

One of the deputies told Pat later that "I knew who he was as quick as he said 'Who's there?' and I was afraid to say a word because I saw him pull his gun and I knew he could kill me and my partner before either one of us laying on our belly could touch our guns. I didn't say a word, I didn't even move."

"Quen es?" Quen es?" We still didn't move and the Kid backed into Pete's room. The door was open. Pat was in there. He had walked around Pete Maxwell's bed with his six-shooter in his hand and laid down behind the bed. He was asking Pete if he knew anything about the Kid. About that time the Kid backed into the door.

Pat said Pete punched him and said "That's him!" Pat knew he had to kill him and kill him quick because if the Kid had any idea who it was, he would have killed him. Pete Maxwell and both the deputies and got away. He was that fast and accurate. He wouldn't have had to use but four bullets to have done it.

Pat said he had his six-shooter in his right hand laying right upon Pete's back or side. When the Kid backed out of the door he saw that light from the window shot on the Kid's body. He was in his shirt sleeves, bare-foot and bare-headed.

Planning Makes for Good Fair Booth

By LOIS JASPER Home Demonstration Agent

An effective county fair exhibit booth is one that tells a story simply and colorfully. If your club is planning a display booth for the county fair, decide on the theme you want to get across, and then stick to it.

Start with a definite plan in mind. Many ideas are always better than one, so get the club together and ask for suggestions. An exhibit shouldn't be cluttered—a few items will usually tell a story best. Decide on an eye-catching center of interest and group smaller items—don't scatter them.

Choose a catchy title for a colorful sign to attract attention. Signs should be large and clear for easy reading. You can use different shapes, colors and sizes.

ANTIQUE, HOBBY BOOTH AT LINCOLN COUNTY FAIR

There will be an antique and hobby booth at the County Fair. Everyone having any reasonably small article that they wish to exhibit, please bring it to be in the fair.

Mrs. Edd Downing will be in charge of the booth.

Speaking of color—select one bright tone. Use complementary colors as accents and avoid too much black and white.

Use your imagination in picking out materials for use in the exhibit. Booths are generally judged on general effect, educational value, and workmanship. Do your planning now—not two days before opening day.

SACRED HEART ALTAR SOCIETY TO HAVE BOOTH

The ladies of the Sacred Heart Altar Society in Capitan will sponsor a hot dog and lemonade booth during the two days of the Lincoln County Fair, September 13 and 14.

Doors Opened to Broom Salesmen

Carrizozo people generously responded to the sales appeal of Lions Club members last week in their door to door canvass with goods from the Visually Handicapped school in Alamogordo.

A total of $301 in brooms, brushes and other products was sold, netting the school $180 and the club $121.

Custom Ore Milled at N. M. Copper Plant

The Carrizozo mill of the New Mexico Copper Corp. has been running 10-hour shifts this week processing custom ore.

C. E. Degner states that starting Monday the mill will operate on a two 8-hour shift basis.

his shirt: "I knew I had hit him. I saw the Kid go back that way and I cocked my gun again with both hands and pulled it down and shot at him the second time. I knew if I didn't get him with my next shot he would kill Pete and me and get away."

Pat said some men in places like that say they never get scared or nervous and that he didn't think he was scared or unnerved, but "I couldn't tell you whether I laid there one minute or ten, but finally I told Pete to get up. The Kid never did move, but I was afraid he was possumin' and I knew if I got up he would kill me."

Pete got up and lit the old coal oil lamp, that's all the lamps they had then, and he said "He is dead." Then I got up and went to looking in the wall behind where the Kid had been standing. We couldn't find any bullet hole and then we looked up to the ceiling and there it was. That was where my second bullet went and I knew I wasn't scared or nervous."

The next day Pat had a grave dug and this little Mexican girl followed him to the grave where he was buried. That ended the life of Billy the Kid.

In 1911, I believe it was, my friend Wayne Brazel killed Garrett through a little misunderstanding. Wayne Brazel never had a fuss with a fellow friend in his life. At his trial he was defended by A. B. Fall, the greatest defender I have ever seen go in a courtroom. Wayne Brazel came clear because Garrett had a sawed off shotgun in his hand at the time he was killed. Pat Garrett was buried in the Las Cruces cemetery, south of the depot on the west side of the Santa Fe railroad.

Survey Completed in Flood Water Control

Following a survey made by Sam Sampson, engineer, Mayor Wayne C. Withers states that a feasible plan has been outlined for taking care of flood water on the east side of Carrizozo.

A survey showed a fall of approximately two feet to each 100 feet, running easterly from the east town limits to Highway 380, where a culvert under the railway spur would take the water to a large bridge under the Southern Pacific tracks north of town. This diversion would take care of runoff water from the mountain.

Mayor Withers said that necessary work in making a drainage channel could be done with a blader.

Flood water in the Highlands Addition would be diverted south to flow under a railway bridge north of the Texaco station at the edge of town.

Crash of Airplane Leads to Arrest

Karl Eugene Uhrick of Red Canyon was being held in the Lincoln County jail this week, charged with grand larceny.

The charge grew out of the wrecking last Thursday evening of a light plane belonging to Wm. Nickels. The plane was hanged at the Carrizozo airstrip.

John Mackey, justice of the peace, who lives three blocks from the airstrip, reported to the sheriff's office around nine that evening that he had heard a crash nearby.

State Patrolman James Clayton and Town Marshall Ben Sanchez investigated and discovered the damaged plane near a garage on the Lewis Farris place.

Mrs. Farris had also telephoned Mr. Nickels that a plane had crashed up on their property and asked him if he could come and see who it might belong to. He discovered it was his own plane.

Sheriff J. M. Ortiz, who was in Corona that evening, started an investigation upon his return. A torn shirt with blood stains on it, a tear in his trouser leg and footprints leading to the hangar were clues that led to Uhrick's arrest.

He spent the night at a local motel and a tear in his trouser leg that he had asked to be mended was reported to the sheriff's office. Tears in the shirt and blood stains matched long scratches on Uhrick's stomach, caused by contact with a barbed wire fence at the airport where the shirt had been discarded. Casts were also made of the footprints.

Confronted with these facts, Uhrick, according to the sheriff's office, confessed he had tampered with the plane. When arraigned Friday he pleaded not guilty to the charge of theft. Trial has been set for justice of

Farm Bureau Enters State Competition

The County Farm Bureau local met at the Capitan luncheon on Friday, August 23. The well attended meeting was preceded with a covered dish supper.

Miss Lois Jasper the new county home demonstration agent, reported on her plans for the coming year, stating she was here "to help the people, not to tell them what to do."

Penny McKnight gave a very interesting report on Boys' State at Roswell on June 8-15.

Wayne Powers of the State Farm and Livestock Bureau office gave some highlights on subjects everyone should be thinking about for resolutions.

It was also announced the county resolutions committee will meet October 2; with the county-wide meeting to be held at Corona on October 19. It is to be an all-day meeting. The noon meal will be served by the Corona local.

Also discussed was the local talent show and the county fair, with the ranchers being urged to compete in the range livestock show.

The talent show is to be sponsored by the Mid-county local. Each of three county farm bureau locals is to conduct its own talent show, with the winners to compete at the annual county meeting. The winner will then go to the state annual meeting to compete with other girls and boys from over the state.

Those wishing more information on the talent show may contact Mrs. Ralph Dunlap at Nogal, Mrs. Walt Wilson at Ancho or the county extension agent's office.

the peace court September 6.

Apparently the plane began to roll after Uhrick spun the propeller. He escaped injury as the plane began to taxi. It careened through two fences before coming to rest on the Farris property.

Damage to the plane's engine, propeller, right wing and fuselage is estimated to exceed $2,000.

Bob Latham, Fire Lookout at Block, to Retire From Twenty-four Years' Service

By DOROTHY GUCK

Fire season ended for 1957 on the Capitan District of the Lincoln National Forest, and Bob Latham packed his personal things and closed the door of the Block Lookout for the last time.

claiming Lake Valley as his birthplace in 1933. He married Estelle Hale in 1912 and moved to his present ranch north of the Capitan in 1932. The Lathams have one daughter and four grandchildren.

Bob Latham has always been a cowboy. He worked for the Block Ranch in 1908. In fact, he worked for the Bar W when they bought the Block. His career with the Forest Service included five years as CCC foreman, at first in the building of the Pine Lodge road and later as fence construction foreman at Mayhill in the Sacramento Mountains.

Through the years the lookout work has changed from spotting fires and traveling horseback to put them out to present day direction of fire crew activities by means of radio.

Of course, the worst fire in Mr. Latham's years at Block Lookout was the 17,000 acre fire of 1950 in which Smokey the Bear was rescued. The first night of that holocaust, when a dust storm had completely obscured any visibility, Bob told Ed Guck who was acting as dispatcher, "I can't see a thing, but I can smell it and it sure smells like a big one."

Looking at those many acres of fire killed mountain sides has been a constant reminder to Bob Latham of the vital part he played in alerting the men of the Forest Service at the first sight of smoke.

The people of the Forest Service and all Bob's neighbors hope he has many years of happy living at home on his ranch, and when rainy season rolls around again they might stop for a bit of reminiscing and sipping of coffee.

He is a native New Mexican, a city of coffee.

1958 Winter Wheat Acreage Reserve

Herman McKibben of the Lincoln County ASC office, stated this week that winter wheat farmers now have another opportunity to take part in the acreage reserve program of the Soil Bank.

All farmers with an "old farm" wheat acreage allotment for 1953, who usually grow winter wheat have until October 4, 1957, to sign a reserve agreement with their county ASC committee.

Farmers who participated in any 1957 acreage reserve program and who designate all or part of the identical acreage for the 1958 wheat acreage reserve, will receive for such acreage payments which are 10% larger than the regular per-acre payments for their farms in 1958.

Kino Ortiz Buys Interest in Courts

Messrs. Austin Wooten and Ortiz will operate the business as a partnership, with Mr. and Mrs. Wooten managing the business.

Mrs. Dutton will devote her time to the management of her ranch on Nogal Mesa.

Services at Chapel August 26 for Mrs. Jimmie Kile

Services were held Monday morning at the chapel of the Shaw Mortuary for Myrtle Straley Kile, who passed away at her home in Ancho August 25. An illness had kept her bedfast for several years.

Rev. Wm. Lytle and Rev. H. C. Ely officiated at the chapel service. Immediately afterward her remains were taken to El Paso for interment in the family plot in Evergreen cemetery. Rev. Ely officiating. The Shaw Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The pallbearers were four nephews of Mrs. Kile. Mrs. Kile was born in Lampasas, Lampasas county, Texas. Throughout her illness, Jimmie, as she was affectionately known, bore her affliction with great patience. Her friends, numbering in the hundreds, were frequent callers at her home in Ancho and always came away reassured by her patience and understanding.

She is survived by a son, Thomas Knight, a sister, Jackie Silvers; two brothers, C. S. and George Straley, all of Ancho; also by two grandchildren, Dan Eoby and Barbara Allen Knight of Ancho.

Quiet Title Case Brings Counter Suit

After hearing testimony in District Court last Friday, Judge Scoggin took under advisement a suit to quiet title by the Old Lincoln County Memorial Commission and a counter suit by Roman Maes and others.

The Memorial Commission's suit was to quiet title to a piece of hillside property near the courthouse museum.

The counter suit alleged that the description contained in the suit to quiet title "is erroneous and inaccurate."

Judge Scoggin stated that he would hand down a decision in the matter September 13.

James R. Carey pleaded guilty in district court August 23 to a charge of issuing a fraudulent check. He was sentenced by District Judge W. T. Scoggin to serve a term in the state penitentiary of not more than five years. Carey was taken by the sheriff's office to Santa Fe Tuesday.

Along the Way.

By PAUL BAKER

L. A. Whitaker of Temple City, Calif., was visiting friends in Lincoln County this week. He has been in New Mexico since the Billy the Kid rodeo at Three Rivers. He was a guest at the Ryan ranch for ten days, visited friends in Roswell and underwent a successful eye operation in El Paso. Mr. Whitaker is secretary of the Billy the Kid rodeo and has been active in the rodeo since its founding 10 years ago. He was living in Carrizozo at the time.

"Most of the credit for the rodeo should go to Mr. Ryan," he says. "He furnishes beef for the barbecue, stock for the events and keeps up the rodeo grounds." This year's Kid's Rodeo, he thinks was the best one to date, though a hard rain that morning gave it a close call.

"This is my home and I love it," the former Carrizozoan says. He will return to his home in California this week, but will be back, he says, to cast his ballot, if not before.

L. A. ("Whit") had many interesting stories to retell about bygone days, including the fabulous picnics at the O Bar O ranch, efforts to get the highway improved across the Mal Pais, good times at the Country Club (it had the best dance floor in the country) and some of the strange things that took place during the prohibition era.

Manuel V. Jones has an interesting chore these days—taking care of two pair of chinchillas until recently owned by the Fletcher Halls in Capitan. Already one pair has had a litter of two. Each furry little ball just fits comfortably into the palm of your hand. The chinchillas make excellent pets if you can afford the down payment, but be sure you have a strong wire cage. Those sharp teeth can go through a wooden cage in nothing flat.

Edw. Penfield of Lincoln sends an item from the Roswell Record showing that food sales in Lincoln County for May 1957 were $15,471.63, compared with $10,001.08 collected in May 1956. Lincoln county's increase was $5,470, or 54% over the same period last year.

"I'm Just a Lazy Fisherman"

By GLADYS ALCONN

I'm just a lazy fisherman, but I begrudge no man. The right to fish the way he likes and catch 'em if he can. I'm envious, I must admit, of guys who fish with flies. And wade the frothy mountain streams for trout that win a prize.

I'd like to be an angler smart with casting rod and plug. Who throws his lure until at last he feels a fighting tug.

I'd like to be so able I could troll for northern pike. And know the right maneuvering to land a sudden strike—

But still I have no fun, for which I have the Lord to thank... What beats a rippling lake where I can loiter upon the bank.

And in the shade be grateful for the fleecy clouds so high?—The birds that tend their liltin' call on breezes pacing by.

For that's my kind of fishing and for more I cannot wish—The great outdoors—The tranquil shores, And now and then a fish!

Editor News: On behalf of the Lincoln County Historical Society I want to thank you for your fine cooperation in putting over another successful performance of the "Last Escape of Billy the Kid." If it were not for the good advertising we receive the pageant could not grow or succeed.

—Wilbur F. Coe. I enclose an interesting letter that pertains to everyone in Lincoln county.

"Dear Mr. Coe:—We attended the pageant 'The Last Escape of Billy the Kid' in Old Lincoln Town the night of August 3 and we enjoyed it thoroughly. We wish to congratulate you on the marvelous job that your Society has done and also wish to congratulate the actors and everyone in Lincoln County on the wonderful show that we enjoyed in your community.

"B. E. Gambrel, "Albuquerque Phoenix Express"

Editor News: We enjoyed reading your account of your vacation trip, especially about fishing near Bigfork in the Flathead Valley. We have many friends in the Flathead country. We are going up.

Before the J. F. Cook family of Kerrville, Texas, left their camp up Eagle Creek Canyon their daughter Shasta of San Antonio and a group of Boy Scouts enjoyed a few days camp life. Friday the Cooks reluctantly broke camp and returned to Kerrville with the promise of a trip out during hunting season and another camping trip next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sugar and son George of Alamogordo were vacationing at Starlight Cabins in Ruidoso last week and drove over our way to see the community.

The Jack Ryan of El Paso vacationed at Eagle Creek last week in the Border's home there.

John T. Clapp of El Paso spent Wednesday and Thursday doing some work on his home in Gavilan Canyon.

Mrs. Tom Hood of Ruidoso and Mrs. Lee O. White of Ft. Stockton, Texas, drove over Tuesday to see us. The Whites have a summer home in Ruidoso and are frequent visitors there. It was a special pleasure to have them come in to tell us they like Lindy's Country Store.

Last Wednesday Fred Bradford and Mrs. Fred Pflingsten of Capitan and the Mesa country stopped by to see us.

A representative from Nickel's Business Machines in Albuquerque gave us quite a lesson recently in the many jobs our ancient Dalton adding machine can do for us. He pointed out the facts that the material used was very high grade and the workmanship was excellent and that's the reason the machine has given such long service. The Lucks used it many years in the store and it's still going strong for us.

The Welch Morgans of Wichita Falls, Texas, visited in the community last Thursday renewing old acquaintances. They once lived on a ranch nearby.

Countywide Survey To Determine Post-Polio Patient Needs

A countywide survey to discover the current rehabilitation needs of all post-polio patients is being conducted this month by the Lincoln Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Mrs. J. P. Turner, chapter chairman, announces.

The local survey is part of a nationwide project by the National Foundation to compile a roster of polio cases of all ages and degree of disability, regardless of date of onset. The canvass here is to be completed by September 1.

"Modern medicine has made impressive strides in developing new rehabilitation techniques in recent years," Mrs. Turner said. "Pilot surveys already undertaken show that there are thousands of polio-handicapped in the United States who have not yet had an opportunity for medical evaluation to determine if they might benefit from these new techniques."

"Some of the techniques employed today for those disabled by polio and other causes were unknown or unused as recently as 10 or even five years ago."

"The March of Dimes organization, having scored a tremendous victory in its war on polio, does not now propose to walk off and leave the wounded behind, so long as help from them is possible. We wish to find everyone who has had polio, whether paralytic or non-paralytic. We want to know what their special problems may be, so that they may be helped to regain useful lives, if humanly possible, even though it will take a considerable period of time."

Mrs. Turner said that the roster is being made in close cooperation with the Lincoln County Health Department and physicians of Lincoln County. The Department of Public Welfare, Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, State Crippled Children's Service and county school systems are also cooperating.

Information sought for each patient includes whether he is employed or attends school, if he can climb stairs and dress himself, whether he receives regular treatment and if he uses a respiratory aid. Information gained will be helpful to all such agencies and organizations.

Mrs. Turner asks that all persons who have ever had polio—whether disabled or not—send their names and addresses directly to Mrs. J. P. Turner, Lincoln County Chapter, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Box 7, Carrizozo, New Mex.

A census of all former polio patients is being taken by the Lincoln County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The aim is to determine the rehabilitation needs of all former victims of the disease. There may be some post-polio sufferers in the county for whom no record has been kept and who may be helped through modern rehabilitation methods unknown or unused at the time the disease struck. Such patients, whether diagnosed as paralytic or nonparalytic, are urged to write or phone the chapter at Box 7, Carrizozo. The phone number is 58.

Over twenty former polio patients in Lincoln County have been listed to date in the county-wide census.

"Not all polio patients are known to us through our chapter rolls," Mrs. Turner explained. "Thus we welcome the aid of our friends."

Carrizozo came by to see the George Dingwalls on Thursday.

The Lawrence Satzingers of Albuquerque were recent house guests of the Lindamoods. They were boyhood friends of Lindy's and hours were spent in reminiscing.

doctors and health authorities in locating those for whom no continuing record has been kept.

"Our prime objective is to discover the size of the post-polio problem. Naturally, not all those disabled by polio can be helped at this time. However, once the census has been completed we will do everything humanly possible to bring the advantage of modern rehabilitation techniques to these patients as soon as we can."

The chapter chairman said that several of the polio patients registered had been located by mail and phone, while the names and addresses of others had come from county and municipal health agencies. Chapter volunteers followed up these leads with home visits to gather additional information from the former patients.

THE 'RICHEST' BOYS IN THE WORLD

Late one afternoon in 1903, ten men in two hacks, each drawn by four horses, drove into the yard of the J. W. Skinner homestead on Bonito Creek in Lincoln County. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner were away on an overnight trip, but their teenage sons, Floy and R. C. Skinner, showed themselves competent hosts to the strangers.

The boys cooked dinner for the 10 men, provided beds (the Skinner home always had extra beds for travelers), and fed the eight horses.

The next morning as the Rowell men left after eating a big breakfast cooked by the boys, the Skinner brothers got one of the happiest surprises of their lives—a $10 bill. The brothers had not expected to be paid. That $10 bill made them the "richest" boys in the world.

Floy Skinner, who lived in Nogal for many years, said one of the men was a banker. The boys did not ask the men their business in Lincoln County, and the travelers volunteered no information.

"Travelers never had to pass the Skinner home after, sundown," Floy Skinner said. "We never turned away a traveler."

IT SOUNDED LIKE A BATTLE

Late in the 1890's after Bonito City in Lincoln County was virtually a ghost town, Felix Braun and Red Shultz, who did some prospecting, opened a saloon in an abandoned building. The two men lived in the nearby former Beteman house.

One day as Floy Skinner of Nogal was riding by he saw smoke boiling out of the house and he told Shultz who was in the saloon. Shultz took off on foot and got there as soon as Skinner who was on horseback. Shultz kicked in the door and entered the house. He stayed in there long enough to get his red hair singed off and came out with a piece of an old quilt, the only article saved in the fire.

Shultz had scarcely dashed out of the flaming house when things began to pop, Skinner said. The two men had many rifles and thousands of rounds of ammunition stored in the house. The flames had reached the cartridges, and bullets whizzed in all directions. As the fire enveloped the loaded rifles and the cartridges exploded, parts of guns flew through the flames.

"It sounded like a battle," Skinner said.

After the house burned down, Shultz and Braun left Bonito City.

THE BUCKING BURRO

Maybe a burro looks as if it didn't have the ambition to buck. But try riding a wild burro that's never had a pack or saddle on its back.

More than a half century ago Floy Skinner and a cousin rounded up wild burros in the vicinity of Nogal in Lincoln County. Skinner saddled one of the burros and got on. The burro whirled, downed its head and started bucking as furiously as a wild horse.

Skinner was managing to stay on until the rowl of one of his Chihuahua spurs got hung under the cantle of his saddle.

"My head was bouncing on the ground before I got loose from that burro," Skinner recalled.

Byler's Cinnamon Rolls Much in Demand

Ben Pfingsten from Nogal Mesa was over Sunday to see if Jim Byler would make two dozen of his delicious cinnamon rolls for the picnic supper at Nogal church Sunday, Sept. 1. Rev. Bill Lytle will be there.

"Sure, I'll make some rolls for you," says Jim. "Rolls like your grandmother usta' make!"

He makes cinnamon rolls every week end.

David Cox Given Farewell Party

Sharon Hayes and Wilma June Young gave David Cox a nice farewell party last week. David is leaving for school where he lives in San Antonio, Texas. He has spent the summer with Eula and Charles Corder, David's sister, Mrs. Sammie Smith, and his mother, Margie drove from San Antonio to get him.

Wilma June baked a real good chocolate cake for David. On top it read: "Adios amigo, see you next summer." We played games and had cake and hot chocolate for refreshments.

Charles Corder's brother, Bobby and family from Corpus Christi are spending a few days with the Corders.

Linda Wilham, Robert Kunnels and Wilson Purcella were busy last week guiding boys and girls on short horseback trips around the Nazarene camp. Each morning they took thirteen horses down to the camp where these young Baptist folks were in vacation school.

Mrs. Buster Luck and sister, Mrs. Glen Walker from Utera, Arkansas, came to Bonito City to visit one day last week, while their chauffeur, Buster, went on up to the Dam to fish. He caught seven nice ones.

Ted Crawford, Joe Taylor, Bobby Hicks and Ed Tuttle, husky football boys from Jal were in Ruidoso and on the Bonito Saturday. They brought some juicy watermelons from Jal.

Glady Alcorn, St Simon and guests of Makin Lodge at Ruidoso, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cloninger from Fort Worth, fished at the Dam Sunday.

Bob McProud pulled a trailer house in Sunday. He parked it on a lot Harold and Frances Sellers from Alamogordo recently bought from A. N. Runnels. They plan to start building a summer cabin soon.

This includes speeding, illegal passing, crossing the yellow line, running stop lights and stop signs, and other offenses in which the operator's car is in motion.

around the corner, but when Paul and Lois get going we start airing out our "bear skin" underwear. Speaking of bears, Bryan Cazier had reason for heart failure the other night. Yes, his dog, "Friaky" was raising Cain out in the yard and Bryan went out loaded for skunk and met headon with a big mother bear. He did just what any one would have done, "plugged her." She looked pretty ferocious, Bryan said, she was 'bout my size when she stood up and her eyes shined like diamonds. Bryan thought there was more than one, but he sorta got in the house after that experience.

The same morning Robert Rummels' dog "Mike" was heard barking an unusual excited bark, and at 4 a.m. Robert discovered Mike had two cub bears treed out in front of their house. We had lots of excitement 'round here by sunup. Early fishermen in our cafe just took off leaving half cups of coffee and me holding the pot.

COPPER

from Egypt to Chino

Approximately 7,000 years ago an Egyptian developed a primitive smelting process to recover copper. No one knows who he was. But he was important to the rise of civilization because he probably was the world's first metallurgist. He helped to make it possible for copper to serve his fellow men better. This "everlasting metal" has emerged from a romantic past, involving ancient battles for possession of mines, conflicts over discoveries and, in more modern times, Indian wars here in America. Archaeologists say the metal probably was discovered on the Island of Cyprus. Some set the date as early as 8,000 B.C. Even before primitive smelting methods were developed, copper was vital in the lives of many ancient peoples. Native outcroppings of the metal were pounded into weapons, utensils and other useful items, marking the change from the stone age to the age of metal. Besides the Egyptians, there were the Phoenicians who worked the Rio Tinto Mines in Spain as early as 1,240 B.C., the Incas of Peru whose ornamental work with copper was outstanding, and the early American Indians, who used the metal for arrowheads, knives and ornaments before the time of Columbus. It was the American Indian who discovered the native copper ore in the area now known as Chino. It was the Indian who led the white man to the metal. Thus, began the modern tale of Chino, another chapter in the romantic story of copper. By providing the foundation for the later, modern chapters, the earlier sequences in the story have meant much to the people of New Mexico. Today, Kennecott, like the ancient Egyptian, is serving the cause of better living. First, it is producing a needed metal. Secondly, its operations are providing the benefits of pay-rolls, supply purchases and tax payments that add to the prosperity of all New Mexico.

This is the first in a series of advertisements pointing out highlights in the development of the copper industry in New Mexico.

Work Starts On Cedar Road

The road over the hill from Corona to Cedarvale is now under construction. The Adams Construction Company of Santa Fe was the successful bidder last Friday, August 23.

Trees are being removed this week on part of the new road. The road is in Torrance and Lincoln Counties, 10.031 miles in length, two-lane construction, two course surface treatment, and other work.

This will mean an all paved road from Corona north to Albuquerque and other points.

The Haake Construction Co. of Santa Fe has a crew of men crushing and stockpiling gravel, about ten miles north of Corona on the J. E. Robinson ranch. Some of this gravel will be used for resurfacing a section of Highway 54.

Mrs. J. W. Bates left Corona about three weeks ago, and flew to Germany and later to Switzerland where she is vacationing. Mr. Bates is at his ranch near Corona, but will be going back to Tulsa soon. He expects Mrs. Bates at their home in Tulsa about September 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Owen and children of Alamogordo spent their vacation last week on the W. T. Keelin ranch, four miles northeast of Corona. The Keelins are staying in Alamogordo. They are the parents of Mrs. Owen.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Friday of the El Paso Natural Gas Company were given a going away party Tuesday evening of this week at the plant. The Fridays are moving to a station near Farmington.

Mrs. Imogene Cless of Roswell spent a week here recently with her mother, Mrs. Beasle Minor. Her brother, Marshall Minor, and her mother went home with her for a few days visit, returning home this week.

Norman Crider Scores Hit in Ice Revue Show

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Crider have just returned from a trip to Chicago, to see their son Norman during the first week of his opening show at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Norman's lifelong ambition to go into show business has been realized at the age of 18 and his first contract was with the largest hotel in the world.

He is a principal in the Ice Revue in the Boulevard room of this famous hotel, his being the unusual act of twirling a baton while skating on ice. Three Chicago newspaper reviews of the new show named Norman as one of the outstanding performers.

Nine Lettermen Return To Tiger Grid Squad

By PENNY MCKNIGHT

Coach Lewis Stratton of Captain High School this week stated his Tiger aggregation has been sweating it out the past two weeks and that prospects for a winning team look good.

Headed by nine returning lettermen and five transfers, Coach Stratton's Tigers will rely on speed, experience and conditioning. With three new men added to the coaching staff, hopes are high that this will help carry the Tigers to the top spot in the 3-C football race.

Though the line is lighter than last year, Coach Stratton expressed the opinion that experience in the backfield and returning linemen will make up for this weakness.
