CARRIZOZO LIONS NOMINATE OFFICERS

The Carrizozo Lions Club at its luncheon meeting Monday at the Rocket Cafe, approved the nominating committee's selections for new club officers.

They are: Paul Baker, president; Austin Wooten, first vice president; Arrel Posey, second vice president; W. F. Ball, third vice president and L. Z. Manire, secretary.

The present board of directors was renominated: Fred English, Jete Voss, Russell Eddings and Harold Covey.

A committee of three was appointed to present recreation needs of the Carrizozo troop of Boy Scouts to the town council.

A number of members of the club plan to attend the Carrizozo Athletic Club banquet Thursday night, April 24, at the Woman's Club building.

The club voted to pay the Boy Scouts $15 a month to take care of maintenance of the Lion's Park.

Dell Conley, a telephone line man and installer with the Western Electric Company, was a luncheon guest.

Cemetery Ass'n Hopes to Secure Municipal Water

Plans to bring municipal water to the Evergreen Cemetery in Carrizozo were made at a meeting Tuesday evening at the Shaw Mortuary.

The meeting was attended by officers and committee workers of the Carrizozo Cemetery association and was presided over by Mrs. Mary Johnson, association president.

The well at the cemetery, which has been a source of water supply through the years, suddenly failed this spring, due to a cave-in and drop in the water table.

Al Seay presented some figures on the cost of a complete new water system for the cemetery, using plastic pipe and a good grade of fittings.

He estimated the system would cost $1800. This cost, he said, could be considerably reduced by donated work.

Will Ed Harris and Fred English volunteered to serve as a committee to contact business firms and individuals for donations toward the cost of the water system.

Clarence Shaw said that 600 Russian olive trees had been planted as a border around part of the cemetery grounds and that water was being hauled to the trees at the present time.

Another meeting of the association has been set for Wednesday, April 20, 7:30 at the Shaw chapel.

Open House in New Chapel at Red Canyon Camp

Red Canyon Range Camp, 19 miles west of Carrizozo once again unrolled its welcome mat on Sunday April 13. The occasion was open house at the newly finished chapel at the range camp. The program of the day was scheduled from 2 to 4 in the afternoon.

The enthusiastic reception of the event by the civilian population of Carrizozo and the neighboring area resulted in the program of the day being extended for an additional hour until 5. A crowd in excess of 300 persons participated in the open house activities.

The chapel was officially open to the public when Fort Bliss Center Chaplain, (Colonel) Mitchell W. Phillips cut the ribbon stretched across the front entrance. Chaplain Phillips was assisted in this part of the ceremony by the 1st Guided Missile Brigade Chaplain (Maj.) Emmett L. Walsh and Red Canyon Range Chaplain (1st Lt.) Bert T. Webb.

When those in attendance had entered the chapel and were seated, a welcome to the day's activities was extended to all by Chaplain Webb. Chaplain Walsh remarked that he felt honored to be associated with the officers and men of Red Canyon who had made a great effort and many sacrifices of their own off-duty time to make their desire for a place in which they might worship their God a reality.

The contributions in skill and effort supplied by such personnel as: Master Sgt. Iljo Lilla, Corporal Ernest Wiese, Specialists 2nd Class Eason and Craun, and Private Joe Lane in the stone masonry and general construction work were a necessary part in the entire project.

"As you look around you here today, you see evidence of the work of men of all faiths joined together for a common purpose," Lt. Col. McCarthy said.

Following scheduled speakers on the program, benediction was said by Father George Lechel of Santa Rita's Catholic Church.

Many guests remained after the scheduled activities in the chapel were concluded in order to ask further questions about the features of the building. One group who had arrived late at the beginning of the afternoon's activities, inquired why the chapel had been constructed from available materials by the men themselves.

Lt. Col. McCarthy answered that since Red Canyon was only a temporary installation no funds could be allocated for such a purpose, therefore "we decided we would build one ourselves."

"When you consider that our materials, outside of electric fixtures, consisted of old railroad rails and ties, scrap iron, wood from Nike booster boxes, old telegraph poles and stone from our own quarry, we feel it presents an excellent appearance."

Lt. Col. McCarthy continued: "Refreshments were served for all of the guests in the mess hall following the ceremonies in the chapel."

State Agencies to Be Given Use of Ft. Stanton Lands

The proposed withdrawal of approximately 26,400 acres of public land formerly known as the Fort Stanton Reservation, from all forms of appropriation, including the general mining laws and the mineral leasing laws, has been announced by State Supervisor E. R. Smith, Bureau of Land Management in Santa Fe.

By letter of June 10, 1937, the Department of Agriculture requested the Secretary of the Interior to withdraw the Fort Stanton lands for use by the Animal Husbandry Research Division of the Agricultural Research Service, in cooperation with the Agricultural Experiment Station of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts and the Department of Game and Fish of the State of New Mexico.

The applicant desires the land for conducting cooperative research and performance testing experiments on cattle and sheep under southwestern range conditions, as well as for study and comparison of range management practices, such as control of low value shrubs and trees, control of soil erosion and introduction of valuable forage species. Game management research is also proposed for the area.

A thirty day waiting period is provided, during which written comments or objections may be

The dinner is to be at the Woman's Clubhouse, starting at 7:30 and will be served by the Carrizozo Instrumental Music Parents Club, a band boosters organization.

The annual dinner was first held last year in appreciation of the friendship and cooperation of Army personnel stationed nearby, many of whom, and their families, make their home in Carrizozo.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday afternoon to complete plans for the program following dinner.

submitted by the general public to State Supervisor, Bureau of Land Management, P. O. Box 1251, Santa Fe, N. M.

A detailed description of the public lands involved in the proposed withdrawal appeared in the "Federal Register" on Friday, April 11, 1938 at page 2366 and 2367; and it is also posted in the Land Office at Santa Fe.

Ramblin' Around Lincoln County

By MRS. S. F. WELLS

The Baptists held their services in the same church as the Congregationalists, for a long time—once in the morning and one in the evening. Everyone went to church those days. Finally, the Baptists had a hall in the Howitt building and the Congregationalists built their new church. The Baptists would come to the ranch to be baptized. We had a large pond, 15 feet deep in the middle. Twenty-five came one Sunday and they all backed, so they had to be baptized over again when the new minister came along.

One of the Congregational ministers got angry and went over to the Methodists and finally left the church to become a lawyer. There were four ministers and three doctors in White Oaks at one time. There was always a wash boiler of hot coffee for the ones who were baptized as the water was plenty cold. After coming out of the water they changed clothes in a little room off the ice house.

We built an ice house and put up ice every winter and we sold ice to the townspeople. One man in White Oaks built an ice house and pond. He tapped the pipeline to fill his pond. (We furnished water to the stamp mill, so the pipeline ran past this man's place.) Well, next winter the water was shut off, so he had no water or ice. He also got fish from our pond and put in his pond, so he had no more fish.

The younger boys would come to the pond to swim. Finally we got tired of that as it disturbed the fish, so this day two young ones came, and Bert Bonnell can tell you about this episode. His father had a lumber yard in White Oaks.

Our home is at White Oaks Springs. We have horses and cattle and I had my own little saddle horse "Dunny." Several of the ladies in White Oaks had their riding ponies. We all rode the side saddle, wearing long riding habits and large hats tied with a long veil or scarf. On certain days we would get together and go for a canter.

Dr. Faden had a large race track and a fine racing horse and sulky. We could see him enjoying this sport as we would be going home from town. What a wonderful sight, to see something like that way out in the wild west.

There were several fine sleighs shipped in. I think Mr. Weiner had the first automobile in White Oaks, a Studebaker, about 1916. He ran a store.

When I was first married, we went to Las Vegas for supplies, etc. in a light covered wagon. The trip took us over a month. And then another time we went to El Paso.

Our neighbor was a Frenchman—"Frenchie," he was called. He came from France in 1868. He lived all alone, built a good road through his land and tried to make us pay toll. He built a nice rock house, hauling all the rocks in a wheelbarrow. It had steps going to the loft and there was a trap door. He was so afraid of robbers, these steps were set right into the wall beside his fireplace.

He had a lovely garden and carried the produce to town on his old black horse. He went from house to house peddling the vegetables. One day he stopped at a lady's house (she had just come from the east.) He asked her if she would like some vegetables. She said she would like to see them; she did not ers gathered it in the spring and the green leaves were boiled and eaten.) This lady asked him, seriously, if it was a front or a hind quarter. He thought she was making fun of him and went away awaring. Frenchie must have been in his nineties when he died.

Our brands were KV and FAW. Cattle interests at that time were all OK. The range was open to all cattlemen. There would be big round-ups at the McBee place. They would gather cattle for a hundred miles around. Billy the Kid camped at White Oaks Springs for a while, but only a short while.

White Oaks got its name from the white oak trees at our place. A Mr. Rheinbolt went from house to house peddling water that he hauled from the springs. Finally a few wells were drilled and cisterns built in White Oaks. The well water was very hard. Danes were always quiet and peaceful. No drinking was allowed and a girl wouldn't dance with a young man if he had been drinking. The Good Templars had a fine lodge there and held weekly meetings and everyone helped to make the meetings interesting.

We got the first piano that came to White Oaks. It belonged to Mr. Ozane who owned the Ozane Hotel. He sold the piano to us for $500. We all learned to play it and when the girls moved to El Paso to go to school we shipped it there. I think Carrizozo came to life about 1900. White Oaks didn't get the railroad as some of the moneyed men tried to hold the railroad company up, so they just went around White Oaks. So most of the houses built of lumber were moved to Carrizozo, even the old Methodist church bell. In fact, Carrizozo was really made from White Oaks people and their homes.

I love White Oaks and always will. All my children were born there. It has one of the best climates in the world.

We Americans are faced with this most serious question: Shall we swap the recession witch for the inflation devil?

Another sour note re. freedom of speech: Secretary McElroy broadly hints that members of the Defense Department who are against the president's plan to reorganize the department should hold their tongues in public if they want to hold their jobs.

"What Makes Men and Women Different?"—Title of current magazine article. It is wondered where the writer of this article has been all his uninteresting life.

Overheard, wife and husband speaking. In that order: "Amy told me over the phone she hadn't read a word of the published letters of Lana Turner." "How long has she been blind?"

There's no telling what women will do these days. In Canada recently a woman passenger in a helicopter flying at 1,500 feet altitude, hauled off and had a baby.

Optimist: "Hooray, the recession is getting worse slower!"

Due to the extremely heavy load on his aching back, the taxpayer will be excused from observing "Correct Posture Week," May 1-7.

"Only selfishness and stupidity can lead to World War III," says a sociologist. It is hoped he is mistaken in saying, in effect, that World War III is inevitable.

Fairy tale, employer speaking: "I want all my employees to be frank and disagree with me when they believe their ideas are better than mine."

A sad commentary on the times is that in so many cases now the noun "honesty" is preceded by the modifier "old-fashioned."

"A survey shows that four times as many women as men are woman-haters."—Heard over radio. That's because women understand women much better than men do.

"A resthouse for the king of Libya has been built with U. S. funds at a cost of $70,000."—Press report. American taxpayers shouldn't be oblivious of the king, as they have to work so much to make a living and pay high taxes that they have no time to enjoy a resthouse.

Scotland has a number of toll bridges, and many excellent swimmers.

Much more needed than an international language is some form of communication to span the enormous gulf between the minds of parents and adolescents.

Even listening to rock 'n' roll isn't much more annoying than listening to a person singing his own praises.

"Yale Coeds will be Outnumbered 100 to 1."—Headline. That's excellent handclapping.

How patriotic would the average gainfully employed person be if he were allowed to fix the amount of federal tax he would pay?

It always pays to be honest, but from a financial standpoint there are instances in which it pays less than it costs.

Confucious says: "Person that sticks neck out liable to get ears pinned back."

The man who bowled continuously for 661 games some days ago is probably still wondering why he did it.

Business Generally Good Over State, Says Corp. Commissioner

James F. Lamb, State Corporation Commissioner, in Carrizozo Monday, said he finds business generally good over New Mexico. One exception to the optimistic picture is the mining community at Silver City.

Mrs. Lamb is accompanying her husband in his campaign trip over the state. Mr. Lamb is a candidate for re-election to his second term on the commission.

Cattle are in good shape, he says, and the wheat area around Clovis looks particularly good. Some volunteer stands of wheat, he reports, are better than fields that have been planted in the past two or three years.

Captain Juniors to Take Scholarship Tests

Several members of the Junior class of Captain High School plan to take the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, Duane Darling, principal, has announced. The test will be administered at the high school at 9 a.m., Tuesday, April 29.

An estimated $5 million in merit scholarships and other awards are at stake in the national competition, now beginning its fourth year. Some $12 million in merit scholarships have been awarded in the first three years of the program.

Merit scholarships are provided by some 80 corporations, foundations, professional societies and individuals, as well as by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation itself, which conducts the competition.

The National Merit Scholarship qualifying test is a three hour measure of educational growth and aptitude.

The names of all program finalists will be sent to colleges and universities and other scholarship organizations throughout the country. In this way many non-winning finalists are helped in winning scholarships awarded directly by colleges and other organizations.

About 1000 merit scholars, winners of the 1937-38 competition, will be named on May 1, 1938. They are winners in the third merit program which began last October.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation directs the annual competition. It was founded in 1955, on grants of $20 million by the Ford Foundation and $500 thousand by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

TRAIN ROBBERY AT WILCOX

About 1894, bandits held up a Southern Pacific Railroad train at Wilcox, Ariz., west of Lordsburg, and escaped with a reported $30,000 in currency. As far as was known, none of the robbers was caught in the Southwest.

The American currency in gold and silver was in the safe in the express car of the train. Sacks of Mexican currency, known as adobe dollars, were piled in the car.

The bandits blew the safe open with dynamite. They pushed the safe over, door side up on the floor, and piled sacks of adobe dollars on it to hold it down when the dynamite exploded.

Adobe dollars were blown all over the express car and imbedded in the walls by the force of the dynamite explosion as though they had been driven in with a hammer.

On the second night out after the train robbery the bandits stopped at a ranch, either in Arizona or New Mexico. They were shown the customary western hospitality, and no questions were asked of them. The rancher had not yet heard of the train robbery and he was not suspicious of the men.

Before leaving the next morning the bandits wanted to be nice so they asked the rancher what he wanted for putting them up and feeding their horses. The rancher told them he had never yet charged a man for staying in his house and that they owed him nothing.

However, one of the bandits handed the rancher $50 and said, "Here's your pay." The rancher replied that he wouldn't charge that much. Another member of the gang said to the rancher, "That don't make any difference to us, we robbed a train the other night."

In later years there were two reports about the fate of the train robbery gang. One was that the bandits moved on to Wyoming and continued robbing until they were surrounded by a posse. One of the men was said to have been killed, another committed suicide, and the others were captured. Still another report had it that the robbers fled into Mexico and were killed.

SOLDIER'S FAREWELL MOUNTAIN

The following item was contributed by Will L. Linn of Lordsburg.

Going towards Deming from Lordsburg when you get about 20 miles east of Highway 70-80 and looking north some 20 miles, you can see Soldier's Farewell Mountain. It is not much of a mountain but it is there. About 40 to 50 miles east is Cook's Peak which can be seen from the highway.

Along about 1880 the U. S. government had soldiers stationed at each place, sent there to protect the few white people that had begun to settle in this part of the country. One of the soldier's means of communication was by heliograph, that is, by using a mirror on a clear day and sending flashes in the sunlight from mountain to peak.

There is a spring of running water at the foot of the mountain, and Cook's Peak is near the Mimbres River.

In 1881 the railroad came. By 1900 the soldiers were gone and so were the Indians. The ranchers and cowboys had taken their place. There were cattle on a thousand every bush. Now, in 1958, they are gone and they are likely no more to return.

THE WAILING WOMAN

The following two stories of the wailing woman were told to Mrs. James F. Saunders of Las Cruces while she was teaching in Hurley. One was told by a woman who had seen the apparition when she was a girl in Silver City, and the other by a woman in Hurley, who had heard the story from a 10-year-old boy.

Three girls were walking along a street in Silver City on a dark, windy night. Suddenly they saw a filmy, white object floating by and wailing.

The boy had left a motion picture theatre in Hurley and was standing between two cars when he saw a woman in white floating by and wailing.

The superstitious belief is that the apparition is a woman who has killed her child and that her penance is to search forever for the child. As she searches, her wailing voice travels on the winds of the world.

Week ends are the most dangerous time to be on U. S. highways. In 1957, more than 53% of all fatalities occurred on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

A Sermonette

By HAROLD C. ELY

Most everyone desires to know what the future holds. For instance, the results of the discovery of the atom, satellites and the exploring of outer space.

However, there is a far greater event than all others combined, and it could take place in our time. It is the personal and physical return of Jesus Christ to this earth.

Since the Bible is the word of God and has been proven accurate, we have no reason to doubt this prophecy since the Scriptures say much more of Christ's second coming than His first coming. Whole chapters and books of the Bible are devoted to this subject. Over three hundred verses refer to it.

When will this happen? No one but God knows. He does tell us of the conditions that will exist prior to his return. Read it in (Matt. 24; Lu. 21; 1 Tim. 3) and many other scriptures.

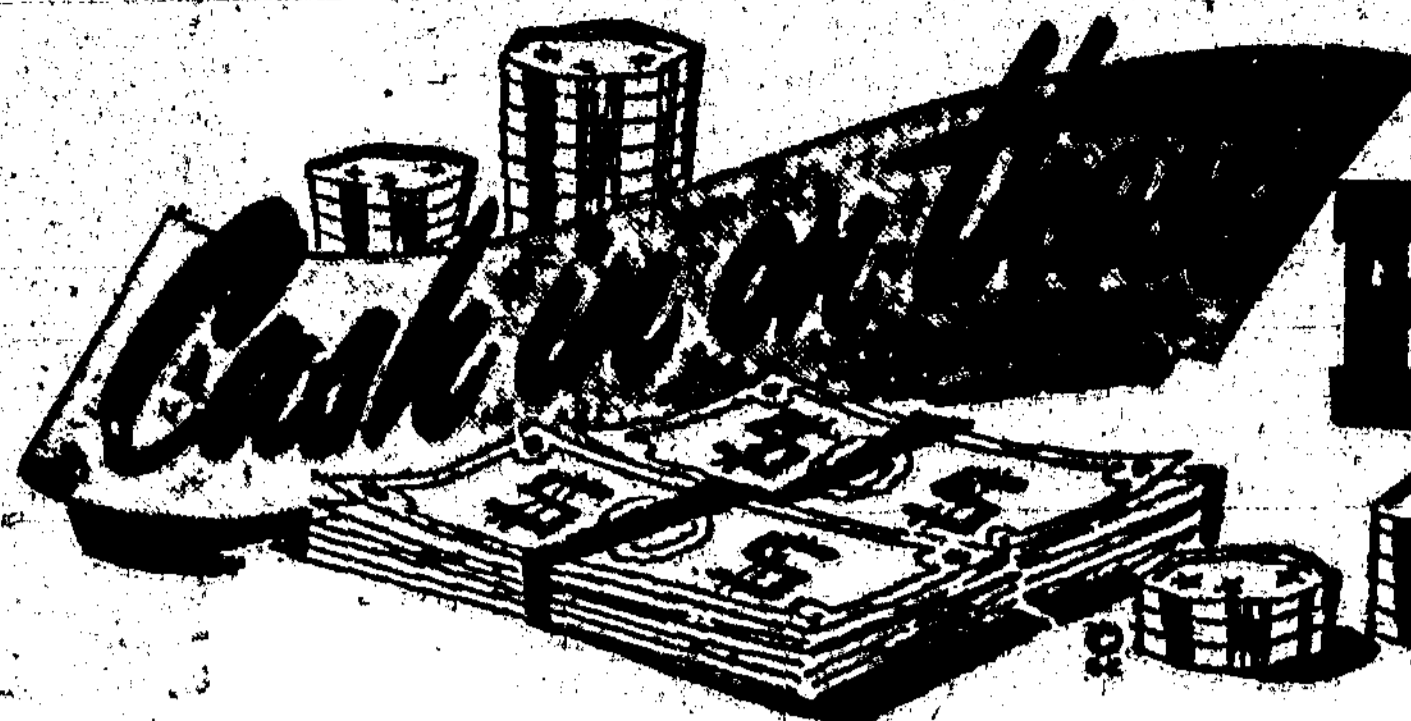

When we study the conditions of mankind in the light of the Holy Scriptures we think of what Jesus said, "And when these things begin to come to pass, then lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh." Again he says when you see leaves begin to grow on trees you know that summer is nigh. "So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these, know that it is near, even at the doors." (Matt. 24:33)

His coming will be sudden, (Lu. 17:34). What will happen when He comes? He is coming for His own, (1 Thes. 4:16, 17). To rule the nations, (Rev. 11:15). To judge those who rejected Him, (II Thes. 1:7-10). And to destroy the devil, (Rev. 20:10).

When you study this great topic you will be surprised what great emphasis God puts on the return of the Lord Jesus Christ to this earth. You will find we are told to wait, watch, assemble ourselves together and be occupied in His service. And we are urged to be ready for His coming.

Rome's Colosseum, the world's largest amphitheater, was completed in A.D. 80. Built by the Emperor Titus, it was inaugurated with a blood bath of 5,000 slaves between gladiators and wild beasts.

Form Men's Group At Methodist Church

A group of nine men met April 17 at the Methodist Church in Capitán to organize a non-denominational men's group interested in improving the spiritual life in and around Capitán.

A second meeting was called for the night of April 22, with a covered dish supper, enjoyed by all. Seventeen were present.

Talks were made by several of the men. The group decided to call the organization the Methodist Men's Club, but that any man interested could belong.

The following officers were elected: Bill Hall, president; C. A. Botford, vice president; Joe Rensch, secretary; Reed Sherrill, treasurer; John Soderback, representative Methodist layman.

A charter was ordered and the next meeting night, May 15, will be Charter Night. All men in the community are invited. A covered dish supper will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight of Lampasas, Texas, visited their daughter, Mrs. Grady Wallace and Mr. Wallace for several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Glerhart were business visitors in El Paso last Friday.

The Capitán Seniors presented an excellent play last Friday night and each one certainly did a grand job. It was very interesting with never dull moment.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Jones are the proud owners of a 1953 blue and white four-door Ford.

Construction started last Monday with digging the foundation of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Annaratoro's new home on First street. Two weeks ago their lots were graded. So it is showing progress.

Mrs. Willie Padilla and two small children returned last Sunday after being with her mother, Mrs. Leo Montoya for eight days to help her care for her grandmother, Portiera Chavez, who is 91, has been in bed for the last six weeks due to the infirmities of her age.

Willie Padilla, his son Eddy, and Lalo his brother are cutting posts at the Elwood Bond ranch near Corona.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins and Mrs. Adda Sellers motored to Albuquerque last Sunday to enjoy Geraldine and her family, the Donald McClung, for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dale and two daughters, of Alamogordo, visited the Eugene Petreos a few hours last Sunday.

While playing at school recently Bernie Culbertson had his left arm twisted by a playmate which hospitalized him for ten days in traction. He is in the Ruidoso hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Willford Curcio of Brownfield, Texas, visited her mother, Mrs. Annie Petreos, at her ranch home over last week end. Mr. and Mrs. Eugenio Petreos and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Petreos and two children, joined them for Sunday dinner.

Capitan High Receives Curriculum Approval

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools gave its unqualified approval of the curriculum, facilities and faculty of Capitán High School at its annual meeting held in Chicago, Ill., March 24 through 28, 1958. It was announced this week by Superintendent Bill Hall.

Dr. E. H. Fixley, member of the faculty of the University of New Mexico and state chairman of the association, in sending notice of the approval to Superintendent Hall, pointed out that there were no warnings or advisements and that approval for the ensuing year was unqualified in every way.

Such approval aids materially any graduate of Capitán High who will be a candidate for entrance to college anywhere in the United States, Mr. Hall stated.

"We can justifiably be proud of our school," he concluded.

Seniors Score with Outstanding Play

The Capitán High School Seniors scored an outstanding success when they presented their annual class play Friday, April 18, at Capitán.

"Mission To Socorro" proved to be a fast-moving vehicle for the competent cast led by veterans Jerry Lobb, Penny McKnight, Ralph Vance and JoAnn Marson. Seasoned by experience in several previous productions, Lobb and Vance adequately met the high performance standards Capitán audiences now expect of them.

McKnight's interpretation of the Franciscan brother who helped build the Socorro, New Mexico mission was very convincing. Miss Marson made the gamlin, Raquel, actually live. Perhaps the most surprising performances were turned in by Roy Herrera as El Gato and Johnny Carababal as Running Wind. Their realism in developing the characters deeply impressed the audience.

The play was written and directed by Fred Miller of the Capitán faculty.

"THE MOUSETRAP" NEXT

These tempered trouperes are already hard at work on their next play, "The Mousetrap," which is to be staged Tuesday, May 6 at 8 p.m. in the Capitán school auditorium.

"The Mousetrap," by Agatha Christie is a famous London and New York drama. So mystifying is the plot a valuable prize was offered to viewers of the original performances who could discover the culprit by the end of the first act. Sir Winston Churchill, English statesman, was the first to win the prize.

The president of a New Mexico college, when told the Capitán students were going to stage this play, commented that to his knowledge "Mousetrap" had never been performed by high school players. He further said that he would like to attend the presentation of the play, which has been considered too difficult for younger than college actors.

Undaunted by the challenge, Capitán's thespians are participating as follows: LaNeva Smith as Mollie; Chas. Lockhart as Giles; Jerry Lobb portraying Christopher; Barbara McGraw playing Mrs. Boyle; Penny McKnight as Major Metcalf; Judy Lockhart playing Miss Caswell.

Roy Herrera will present Mr. Paravicini; Ralph Vance the Detective Sergeant Trotter; Roberta Spragg the Radio Voice.

Special music effects are now being produced by the music department and lighting effects by the shop department.

"The Mousetrap" will be directed by Fred Miller.

Mother: When that naughty boy threw stones at you, why didn't you come and tell me instead of throwing stones back at him?

Youngster: What good would that do? You couldn't hit the side of a barn!

LINCOLN

Coronation Ceremony For Sorority "Queen"

Ethelyn and Johnny Werner attended the annual Alpha Gamma Rho banquet and dance at the Hilton Hotel in El Paso on April 12.

As Ethelyn was crowned Alpha Gamma Rho Sweetheart last year, she crowned this year's Queen.

Mary Lynn stayed with her grandparents, the Travis Werners in Capitán.

Sergeant and Mrs. Robert K. Moore and children, who are stationed at Mineral Wells, Texas, are visiting Mrs. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Zamora.

Lazaro Zamora, his two boys and his little nephew, also visited the Zamoras last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Maes and Jennie Lee went to El Paso Sunday and were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maes and children. Together they attended the bull fights in Juarez.

Mr. and Mrs. Laaster went to Roswell one day last week.

We're sorry to report that the Henderson family is leaving Lincoln, but they won't be far away, as they are moving to Fort Stanton.

A number of Lincoln people attended the lovely Apple Blossom Festival at Hondo Saturday evening and were very proud of Lincoln's representatives — Barbara McGraw and Betty Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Swafford and two children from New Gulf, Texas, visited Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gilles for several days. Mr. Swafford is Mrs. Gilles' nephew.

Facts and Figures On State Finance

Santa Fe (Special) — One of the handiest at-a-glance guides yet produced on New Mexico's finances has been turned out by the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico.

The work was released by Executive Director Albert K. Nohl, who published it in the Association's March-April Bulletin under the title, "Facts and Figures on New Mexico Government: A Guide for Candidates and Voters."

The project was born in the many requests received by the Association from candidates for public office "and by anxious voters, who are doubtful about some of the promises made by the candidates."

"In order to answer these questions," Nohl said, "quite a bit of data was accumulated and we decided other people would be interested in the material also."

Other material was added with the aim of anticipating other questions and of being helpful to the public.

Nohl said he expects hereafter to make use of the project a biennial one. In his compiled statistics he said he made no effort to interpret, but merely to provide answers to questions posed to him.

Here are some of the topics and tables covered by the Guide: Summary of the state budget; general fund appropriations, by function, with a breakdown of the $23,241,062 appropriated for fiscal 1959-60; public welfare expenditures; outstanding school bonds; average teacher salaries over the years and compared with other states; average daily attendance load of teachers, principals, supervisors; school budget summary since 1939; the state's acreage by counties and institutions owning it; permanent fund statistics; principal sources of revenues; property taxes, 1932 to 1958; assessed valuation tables; figures on other tax collections; and other subjects calculated to be of much interest and help to persons interested in their state government.

While the Association has put out quantities of such valuable information from time to time over the years, Nohl said this is the most ambitious single project it has ever published along this line.

Book Review:

JOHN DOS PASSOS AND THE FACTS OF LIFE

By MARTIN LITVIN

In writing, the keyword is style and it should be equated with the word presentation. After all, words are words and anyone who has a nodding acquaintance with the use of language can call himself a writer. The distinguishing factor is the way a writer uses words — which may be saying it in a mite too elementary a fashion, but, for all that, still it is as true as it may be plitudinous.

A writer who gets a theory in his head should in his mind's eye see the pattern he will establish, and to define that theory, lay out in logical order all the climactic, important points leading to his conclusion. In fiction, the conclusion usually amounts to a particular effect or moral. Probably the best sampling of John Dos Passos' mode of presentation is his trilogy called "U.S.A." (Modern Library: Random House), which consists of three novels. They are "The 42nd Parallel" and "1919" and "The Big Money." Primarily, Dos Passos' style is a narrative method called the stream of consciousness.

Many writers employ this device without distinction, but Dos Passos shapes the stream to his particular dramatic purpose by imparting to it a dialogue impact that reads as if you are overhearing someone talk who does not know you are listening. Most of Dos Passos' people are concerned either with getting ahead in life or persuading someone else to do the right thing, and that is why the revelations of the characters give the book such noticeable interest, one reason why the book is a classic today.

Another reason why "U.S.A." is a valid presentation of themes concerning middle-class desires, is because the time of the stories runs from the turn of the century until after the first world war, a period, when, historically, this country emerged as a first-rate commercial power. Dos Passos' trilogy is dynamic, in this historical sense, because the reader is able to get an insight into how Americans thought at this time.

The ways by which Dos Passos holds a reader or secondary to the significant aspect of his trilogy, which is the characterization of our society with its emphasis on success, wherein lies the heart of the matter. Every living soul is directly concerned with survival, eating steadily, earning money up to the very limit of personal ability, and if engaged in business, to profit. None of this is the subject of denigration, for although it may belabor the obvious, the truth is that a man has a natural right to make a living, and if possible, improve his lot.

Dos Passos assumes all this and then shows how wide of the correct balanced mark human nature often goes. Two leading characters are good examples. One is a boy who hasn't quite the capacity to be a first-rate writer but successfully bluffs his way higher until, as the personification of mediocrity, he makes it as a public relations counselor. Another is a girl who goes from obscurity in Chicago to social status in New York as an interior decorator and is able to do so on the strength of contacts, native shrewdness and the ability to look "smart."

These people are Dos Passos' symbols of self-aggrandizement and through the entire trilogy, appear again and again, perhaps in the guise of different characters, but still acting out, in one aspect or another, the social drama of bluffing through life, of displaying the form of intelligence without revealing the content.

The repetition of meeting in Dos Passos' writing, people who get through life on the strength of good looks and not much else, tends to sharpen the overall effect, because it serves to put the reader in mind of gangling adolescents who display the physical characteristics of the adults, but eventually reveal the unmaturing minds of children.

Christians and churches have an inescapable responsibility to seek peace, justice and freedom for all men everywhere. This requires relating Christian truth to the ever-changing problems of our times.

"Tween Us Teens"

By MARY (Ginger) WICKELS

Say, did you see Joe Morgan while he was in town last Wednesday? He lives in Albuquerque now, and was down here in his official capacity as state toll supervisor, Mountain States Telephone Co. All his old-time friends were glad to see him, too! He's even invented a new word; luxurious. Don't ask me what it means, but it sounds like a soap ad!

By the way, I want to apologize for the goof about the track meet at the White Sands. I said it was here in Zozo. "Scuse me!"

You know, cars have really advanced, haven't they? Even recently we have seen many changes: More horsepower, power equipment and drastic body changes. Wouldn't Henry Ford turn over in his grave if he could see the new Thunderbird? Its 150 mph is a far cry from his Model "T" and its 35 mph! Or how about the Studebaker brothers and the '58 Studebaker? It's too bad they can't come back and see what has been done with the start they gave the industry.

I'd like to congratulate Carol Bonnell who became Queen of the Apple Blossom Festival Saturday night! She was probably on cloud nine all evening!

While I'm congratulating people, congratulations are certainly in order for Mrs. Joe Bunton. Did you know she is the first lady "ham" in this area! Radios are interesting hobbies and Mrs. Bunton is to be applauded for the time and interest she took to learn to be a "ham!"

And so, may I leave you with these profound words of wisdom: What you don't know may not hurt you, but it can make you act pretty stupid.—Ginger.

New Uranium Mill at Grants to be Dedicated

Grants, New Mexico—We invite citizens everywhere to join with us on Saturday, April 26, in the dedication of our new uranium ore processing mill near Grants, and then take tours through the entire plant," so stated officials of Homestake-New Mexico Partners this week.

"Quite naturally, we are pleased with this ultra-modern mill, which produced its first 1300 'yellow cake' in March, and is now operating at capacity. And, too, we are proud because it is the first mill to start treating uranium ores from the famous Ambrosia Lake Mining District. "Therefore, we extend a hearty invitation to everyone to help us dedicate the mill at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 26, and then take conducted tours throughout the plant."

Homestake-New Mexico Partners banded together in 1953 to develop certain uranium properties and mine ores, and to construct and operate a uranium ore processing mill. The partnership consists of such well-known organizations as the Homestake Mining Company, the general partner; Rio de Oro Uranium Mines, Inc.; United Western Minerals Company; J. C. Whitney & Company; White, Weld & Company; San Jacinto Petroleum Corporation; and Clyde E. Osborn; the limited partners.

King-Size Multi-Level Is Regal Inside and Out

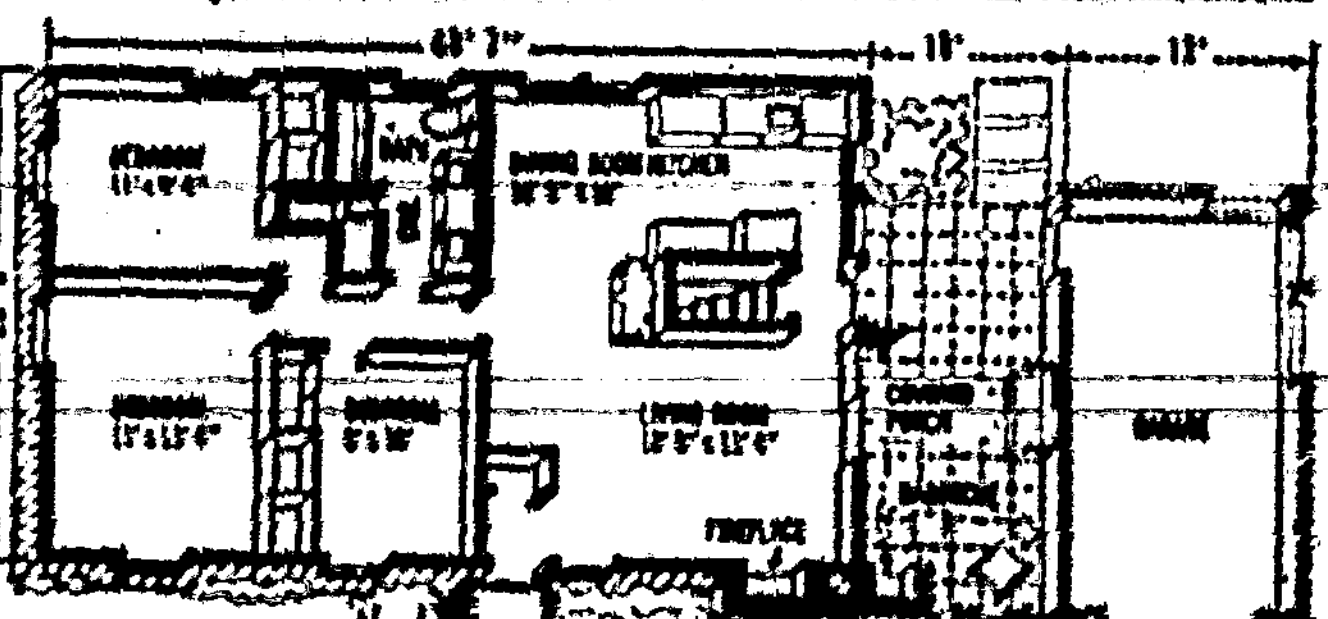

Here is a home that beats the Imperial Crown! It has been awarded—"the country's most beautiful split-level." So breath-taking in appearance, this house by designer Don Scholz rightly belongs to those who appreciate the advantages of multi-level living. Its interior, too, so exciting in magnificent proportions. Nine rooms, 2 1/2 baths, four bedrooms. The enormous living-dining area is imposing with its sloping ceilings and massive beams. Extravagantly-spaced master suite has its own bath. The kitchen, designed and equipped for convenience with eye-level built-in oven, counter-top range, dishwasher, disposal, and ventilating fan, is combined with a delightful dining room.

At the lower level, the fourth bedroom can become a maid's room with private bath. The paneled recreation room, 25 by 22 feet of family relaxation area, opens to the lower-level patio. A covered porch at the front, a main patio to the rear, and deep protective roof overhangs, climax the design.

To obtain more information about this award-winning home, write to Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 106, 2001 Westwood, Toledo 7, Ohio.

Small House Big Charmer

Here's a house designed to be built for a modest price, yet which would be a welcome addition to most any neighborhood.

Its designer, architect Rudolph Matern, of Jamaica, N. Y., conceives it as an ideal "first house" for a young couple with small children.

The house has less than 1,000 square feet of floor space, yet looks bigger from the outside. This is largely due to the gently sloping roof of white asphalt shingles that covers the house, breezeway, and garage in a single sweep.

Matern specified white for the roof because a light color gives an appearance of greater height and width, and white asphalt shingles help make a house more comfortable in summer by reflecting much of the sun's heat.

Other exterior features are the board and batten siding, covered entranceway, and the broad fieldstone chimney that gives the house a "solid" look.

Careful interior zoning keeps entertainment and activity rooms away from sleeping quarters. The living, dining, and kitchen areas have "open-planing" and are handy to the covered breezeway with its own fireplace for barbecues even on rainy days.

The house has a full basement, fireplace with raised hearth, and double lavatory in the large bathroom.

Architect Matern specifies thick mineral wool insulation in the walls and ceiling to insure year-around comfort and heating economy. Recommendations are a thickness of at least 4 inches of mineral wool in the ceiling, and a minimum of 3 inches in walls. For air conditioning or electric heating, ceiling insulation would be 6 inches thick.

The house, with breezeway attached, is 42-feet long. The plan can be turned lengthwise to fit on a narrow lot.

Further information, blueprints, and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 99-04 161st St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y. Refer to plan 9491.

Choose Pecan Trees Suited to Our Climate

Mrs. B. G. Robinson was in the office the other day asking what was wrong with her pecans, as the pecans never matured.

Although she thought the tree might be diseased, I feel that it is a long seasoned pecan that will not mature too often in this climate.

Plans were made with her to graft some shorter season varieties on the pecans.

Anyone buying pecans should consider climate and buy a short season variety. Two years ago we did some grafting on a pecan tree of Bart Paver. Varieties tried were Barton and Texham. These grafts should start bearing next year.

At Emmett Reese's place some grafting has been planned for a few trees that rabbits have girdled. In solid blocks of Red Delicious trees some pollinating is advisable on the limbs of some of the trees. Some good pollinators are Golden Delicious and Jonathan.

Large Market Report

Fall contracts include 1500 choice New Mexico calves at $30 for heifer calves and $31 for steer calves expected to weigh 450 pounds on delivery. Another contract was for $29 for heifer calves and $31 for steer calves.

Good cow and calf pairs were selling for $240.

Wool is selling from 30 to 47 cents in this area. Most people feel that the price of wool will climb slowly in the near future with no sudden downturn in the price. The clean price of fine staple wool is now $1.10 to $1.15 per pound.

Honey Bees Are Fruit Growers' Friends

Honey bees, as well as many native bees, are the best friends that most fruit growers have. It's too bad that many New Mexico fruit growers don't realize that they have such helpful allies.

Bees are essential for a good crop from the major apple varieties grown in New Mexico. There must be cross pollination in your orchard before you can expect your trees to set a full crop of fruit. There are several ways of pollinating apple trees, but none of them is as good or as cheap as the insect way. So follow these simple rules in your orchard:

Don't spray your trees with any insecticide until 85% or more of the petals have fallen from the blooms.

Don't spray your orchard when weeds or cover crops are in bloom. Cut your cover crop and weeds before you spray to destroy all plants in bloom. This also aids in insect control if sprays are applied soon after cutting.

Don't spray when insecticides will drift onto neighboring crops or weedy areas that are in bloom.

Cut or disc weeds that are in bloom in and around your orchard to reduce competition that may keep bees and other pollen collecting insects from working on your apple blooms.

Get to know the beekeepers in your area. Let them know that you want to protect and encourage their bees in your orchard.

It takes five hard-working colonies of bees to pollinate an acre of apple trees. By that standard, we're mighty short on bees. Do everything in your power to protect the ones we have.

Avoid shading the lower plants. Vegetables need about 8 hours of full sunlight to produce well.

Plan Before Planting The Spring Garden

"Plan before you plant" is a basic rule for successful vegetable gardening.

Many vegetables grown in the home garden are wasted because too large a quantity of one vegetable matures at the same time. With few exceptions, vegetables remain edible for only a short period after they reach maturity. Top quality is even more transient.

One way to avoid having too large a crop at once, then nothing, is to make succession plantings of the same vegetable.

Plant only enough seed of crops like sweet corn, radish, and beans to provide the amount that can be used within a short period. Then, after two or three weeks, plant another lot to mature after the first harvest has been exhausted.

Or, if the variety used will not do well in the season, plant other varieties that mature later.

This kind of planning calls for a careful study of seed varieties and must be done well ahead of planting time. It also may require the purchase of more seed, therefore a somewhat larger investment. But these things pay off in greater satisfaction at harvest time.

Another thing to look for in studying the seed varieties is the height to which they will grow. Tall-growing crops should be planted together and low-growing ones together (preferably to the south of the taller ones) to

Grass Prospects Are Best in 20 Years

The U. S. Department of Agriculture range and livestock report for New Mexico, dated April 1, contains the following report from Lincoln County:

Prospects for grass best in 20 years. Lambing starting, however cold weather not too good for lambs. Price of hay is $16-$18. No wool sales so far. Prices are down from last year. However, lamb and cattle prices are still up.

Ancho—March has been unusual bringing back memories of old times from 4th-26th. About 14 inches mostly heavy snow also about 35 inches rainfall made good bottom moisture. Cattle lost a good deal of weight in March. Old grass is getting thin, good prospects for new grass if not too much wind. Little hay being fed monthly meal (cottonseed) and ground grain. Good prospects for lamb and calf crop, no contracts here for spring delivery.

Uncle Sam is Greatest Factor in N. Mex. Economy

So says Senator Clinton F. Anderson in his April 22 news letter from Washington, which follows:

New Mexico has had its unemployment problems and business reverses, but next to Virginia—and thanks to Uncle Sam—our state enjoys a greater proportion of depression-proof wage earners than any other state. One out of every five persons in New Mexico derives his income directly from the Government. The national figure is 1 in 14. According to official government figures, 27% of all personal income in New Mexico comes from government payrolls. Other income, resulting from government contracts or operations in the state, would indicate—if accurate figures were available—that Uncle Sam is beyond dispute the single greatest factor in New Mexico's economy.

New Mexico has enjoyed almost unparalleled growth and prosperity for 20 years. So when recession talk began in the country several weeks ago, I began to look around to see how it would affect New Mexico. In the process I came across several interesting figures about the state. Here they are:

In 1929, the population of New Mexico was about 410 thousand. Today it is more than 615 thousand. In 1929, the average personal income in New Mexico was 42% below the national average. In 1937, we were still 23% below the national average in personal income. In 1937, the average New Mexico wage-earner took home $1770 for every member of his family. The national average was $1940.

In 1939, there were 6455 Government workers in New Mexico. In 1937, there were 21,148. Virginia's proportion of Government wage-earners is 29%, due to the fact that the Pentagon is located in Virginia and thousands of employees of Washington's Government agencies live in Virginia. Other states with large Government payrolls are Colorado, Maryland, and Utah, each at 23%, and Rhode Island, South Dakota and Alabama, each at 22%.

Even though auto workers are idled and the effects of the recession spread in other parts of the country, New Mexico probably will continue to enjoy a good measure of prosperity. It would be another story if Uncle Sam suddenly suspended his enterprises in our state, but this isn't likely in the foreseeable future. In fact, all signs point toward continued expansion of Government activities in New Mexico. I know that my efforts are directed constantly toward that end.

Last week the Forest Service announced that it was releasing for timber access roads $5,914,000 in funds previously authorized. New Mexico's share was set at $300,000. This follows on the heels of steady requests I have been making to increase Forest Service road building and research activities in the state. The new roads will make it possible to harvest mature timber and thus create new jobs and new income.

The Government set aside $990,410 last week for school construction in New Mexico. In addition, it certified $100,144 for immediate payment to schools for operation and maintenance. The money goes to schools in localities overburdened by Federal activities. Of these amounts, $721,040 goes to Albuquerque; $138,870 to Las Cruces; $37,130 to Clovis and $22,770 to Los Lunas—all for school construction. Operation and maintenance payments were as follows: $190,660 to Las Cruces; $99 to Dixon, and $6585 to San Juan Pueblo.

More than 95% of vehicles involved in fatal accidents on U. S. highways in 1937 were in apparently good condition.

"Help Daughter" Plan Ahead," Says Magazine Article

If you want your daughter to grow up to be a happy successful woman, your influence had better make itself felt now if you want it to be effective, according to the editors of "Changing Times," the Kiplinger Magazine. In a copyrighted article, "Help Your Daughter Plan Ahead," the editors give some tips to anxious mothers and fathers on raising teen-aged girls.

During her teens, a girl is a bundle of contradictions, the editors point out. Outwardly independent, she is inwardly baffled and frightened by what lies ahead. So the confidence your daughter needs to take any new situation in stride has to be developed. And this requires the tact and patience of a master diplomat.

Beware of being overprotective and overbearing. She must learn to think for herself. Don't push her to join a club or dictate who her friends should be. Open up her own capabilities and interests to her. Show her that you are pleased with her and her regard for herself will grow.

Don't be over critical of her mannerisms, language or dress. Remember times change. She will have to grow up, not in your world, but in hers. Induct her into the arts of cooking, housekeeping, dressing, conversing, dealing with men, caring for children. Give intelligent attention to what she says about books, politics, people—don't make her feel that she's "nothing but a girl."

Help your daughter set goals. Your job is not to yank her back to earth from her dreams of fame or glamor, but to help her understand that her life can be meaningful.

This means she must become an adult woman who has the ability to love and work whether the work is in her home or office or both. To help her learn how to love, there must be plenty of it around your house. And, to help her learn how to draw satisfaction from her work, lead her toward understanding of her role as a woman. Point out that she doesn't have to compete with men to prove she's as good as they are. Help her learn that becoming a wife and mother is the healthy and happy fulfillment of her nature.

Bad driving conditions prevailed in less than 15% of the fatal highway accidents in the U. S. in 1937.

A total of 38,700 Americans were killed in 1937 traffic accidents.
