

Along the Way..

By PAUL BAKER

The popular feature "Ramblin' Around Lincoln County" will take a vacation until fall.

The State Game and Fish Department and the City of Alamogordo are to be commended for their cooperation in planting trout in Lake Bonito and reopening it to fishing.

Whether the lake area remains open depends on the sportmen and campers who use it. Alamogordo's reluctance to open the area has been because of what they termed the sanitation hazard and the expense of hiring men to safeguard the water supply.

Fishermen and campers can enjoy this year by keeping the camps, picnic grounds and the lake and shore free of refuse. Though the law provides a penalty for leaving refuse in public places, there are always a few who are negligent and go unpunished. It will be necessary, therefore, for the rest of the season, and fishermen to pick up after each headless people, thus keeping the Bonito grounds clean at all times.

In a concerted effort by law enforcement agencies to prevent the illegal sale and discharge of fireworks, owners of a Carrizozo store have been cited to appear in justice of the peace court.

Officers state that three different types of fireworks have been confiscated at Frehm's Department Store and will be used as evidence when the case comes up. The charge is illegal sale of fireworks. An appearance bond of $500 has been posted.

Law enforcement officers point out that parents are liable for illegal fireworks in the possession of their children, and cite 27 local instances where parents have given their children permission to buy firecrackers.

The state statute is specific (Sec. 40-18-3) in making illegal the sale, possession or discharge of fireworks, stating:

"It shall be unlawful for any person, partnership, corporation or other organization to sell, offer to sell, display for sale, own, possess or discharge within this state, any firecrackers, roman candles, skyrocket, torpedo, bomb, blank cartridge or any other type or form of explosive commonly known as 'fireworks'."

The law imposes a penalty for violation of not less than $100 nor more than $200 or be imprisoned for more than 10 days.

The above statute does not apply to supervised display of fireworks, such as is being sponsored by the Carrizozo Fire Department the evening of July 4.

Will Gallacher reported this week that a cloudburst Tuesday of last week brought down more rain than he had ever seen at their ranch northwest of Carrizozo. He estimated that between four and five inches of rain fell over parts of the ranch, overflowing 12 stock tanks and putting up to 12 feet of water in several natural basins that had had no water in them for many years.

We visited the roadside park in the Mal Pais Sunday afternoon and had no more than stepped out of the car when a tourist called our attention to a rattlesnake that someone had killed and hung in a large cactus. The rattler, which hadn't been there very long, looked to be at least six feet long. You knew it was a big one because the man was from Texas and he said it was the biggest rattler he'd ever seen.

The publishers of the News plan to leave this Friday for two weeks' vacation in California. During this time Fred Miller has kindly consented to take care of the editorial duties and help Lily Lopez and Lloyd Harte with the mechanical and office work.

There are many demands on your time this summer, but this said when you want a job done, call on someone who is already busy. When we put the urge for a vacation last summer he answered our call; then again this summer.

It's getting to be a nice habit and the newspaper business isn't such a grind after all. See you again July 14!

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has named officials of New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas that it is interestingly cooperative work with these states to halt an outbreak of grasshoppers, now devastating as the most serious insect threat of recent years in the affected areas.

Paul M. Chavez of San Antonio is being interviewed by U. S. Army Sgt. Billy Boyker. Chavez is being held in custody at Fort Ord, Calif. He is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Armando J. Chavez of San Antonio and is a 1938 graduate of Nevada High.

Traffic Safety Council Organizes

Albuquerque, June 21 — Two national safety officials were on hand Saturday to help organize the newly incorporated New Mexico Citizens Council for Traffic Safety.

J. W. Bethea of Washington, executive secretary of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety, and Robert Hooper, Denver, district director of the National Safety Council, addressed about 75 civic leaders from throughout the state.

The new group, incorporated June 13, elected Robert O. Anderson of Roswell, chairman. Anderson, president of Malco Refineries, is also chairman of the state delegation to the President's Committee and was instrumental in organizing the state safety group.

The charter given the group was read by Anderson. It lists the purpose of the organization: "To promote the conservation of human life in New Mexico through the prevention of traffic accidents and to establish, encourage and carry on worthy efforts to accomplish that objective."

"Citizens groups must lead the way to provide tools state and local officials need," Bethea said. "While traffic safety is primarily the responsibility of public officials, they can only accomplish those things which the public will support."

Plant 2535 Trout in Bonito Lake

Bonito City (Special to the News)—Joe Gallegos, who drives one of the State Game and Fish Department's fish distributing trucks, brought 2535 trout to Bonito Lake last Friday. They were 8 to 10 inches in length.

Planting trout in Lake Bonito will be good news to tourists and sportsmen who come many miles to fish in the cool mountains.

The cooperation of all is needed to keep the grounds clean around the lake. Keeping camp and picnic grounds neat and tidy is a small payment for the privilege of again having Lake Bonito open to fishing.

Milk Found Low In Radioactivity

In an initial investigation of radioactivity in food, all milk examined in a year-long study in 5 widely separated milkheds showed levels of radiation well below permissible limits, the U. S. Public Health Service reports.

Milk was chosen for the pilot food study, it was explained, because it is among the most important foods and is produced throughout the year.

Milk samples were analyzed for specific radioisotopes, including Strontium 90, a substance similar to calcium and which—like calcium—is taken up by the bones when entering the body.

Volumes of Strontium 90 in the milk samples ranged from only 5% to less than 10% of the maximum permissible concentration for regular consumption. Percentages of the other radioisotopes were even less.

Public Health Service is continuing the analysis of milk and is expanding the network to include 6 additional geographical areas.

Use of mechanical refrigeration by farm families jumped from 63 to 90% in six years, according to the USDA.

Electric Coop to Choose 'Queen' to Represent State

A beauty queen, "Miss Otero County Electric Co-op" will be chosen August 2, 1938 at the annual meeting of the Otero County Electric Co-operative at Cloudcroft. The queen will also be awarded a $100 U. S. Government bond.

The queen selected will represent the State of New Mexico at the national convention of rural electric cooperatives in Washington, D. C., February 12, 1939. All expenses to Washington will be paid for the queen and her escort.

In addition to the top prize, the Otero County Electric Co-operative at its annual meeting in August will award two other prizes, a $50 bond to the runner-up and a $25 bond to the girl winning third place in the contest.

The winning queen in Washington last year received a $500 scholarship, a wardrobe and other prizes; second, a $350 scholarship and third, a $250 scholarship.

Candidates for the Otero contest must have permanent residence in the area served by the cooperative. Students at colleges, universities and public schools will be considered living at home. Contestants must be no younger than 16 or older than 22, as of February 12, 1939, and must be single at that date.

The queen contestants will be judged on the point system, figure, 25 points; beauty, 25 points; posture, 10 points; grace, 5; charm, 15; grooming, 10; talent or domestic application, 5; and past achievements 5.

The winner of the Otero competition will have no state competition this year, as the other electric cooperatives in New Mexico did not have a queen contest.

Application forms may be secured by writing the Otero County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Cloudcroft, N. M. Forms must be returned to their office on or before July 19, 1938.

Retail sales were also up in Otero and Chaves counties, but off 27% in Socorro county, off 13% in Torrance county, off 21% in Guadalupe county and off 12% in De Baca county.

The monthly summary stated that construction continued to surge ahead in New Mexico during March with sales up 13% and employment up better than 9 percent.

LIQUOR PLANK FAILED IN EARLIER MEETING

The Republicans braced up to the liquor situation after turning down the same proposition in 1934, that was when Alvin Stockton was running for governor.

The platform committee had proposed the killing of the guaranteed-profits law and the measure was defeated on the floor with the encouragement of the candidate for governor.

The 1938 convention was emboldened by recent court rulings knocking out other "fair trade" laws and assumed that the law is invalid anyway.

MOCK QUESTION A DANGEROUS ONE

The notorious 1939 liquor price-law is dangerous politically. It has survived a dozen attacks in the legislature sometimes resulting in political banishment of those who led the attacks.

A governor, Thomas J. Mabry, in 1947 attacked the law in an address prepared for delivery to the legislature but when the address was read the section regarding the liquor law was omitted.

A federal judge, the late Colin Neblett, uttered an informal opinion from the bench that the law was unconstitutional but the suit was dismissed by the defendant before he could draw up a formal ruling.

THE HIGHEST PRICES IN THE UNITED STATES

The law provides that New Mexico wholesalers mark up liquor at least 17.5% and beer at least 20%. The law provides that New Mexico retailers may buy only from New Mexico wholesalers and must mark up each at least 38.5% and beer at least 25%.

BOLD ON ONE POINT BUT MOSTLY VENAL

Santa Fe, June 25 — Republicans were bold in demanding repeal of the guaranteed-profit liquor law but showed the usual clay feet of politics in other platform subjects.

They favor billboard regulation. New Mexico had an excellent billboard law until 1951 when Republicans and Democrats in the legislature killed it good and Republican Gov. Ed Mecham buried it with his signature of approval.

They favor billboard regulation now "to qualify for additional federal aid for highway construction."

That would be about $35,000. If they were so interested in road money they might have put in a little plank against paying the public utilities some $12 million of road money for moving their pipes and poles off the highways where they didn't have any right to be in the first place.

It will be interesting to see what the Democrats do about the millions for the public utilities. It takes even more courage to stand up to the utilities than it does to defy the saloon-keepers.

The Democratic legislature last year set up the multi-million give-away to the utilities and the Republican governor signed it.

MORE SPENDING LESS TAXING

The Republicans said "we must provide additional funds, especially for medical care and old age assistance" in the welfare program, they advocated continued construction of school facilities for Indian children, establishment of mental health centers and expansion of mental health services, and more adequate financing of the youth and recreation programs, and along with this they pledged "vigorous opposition to any increase in taxation."

They will probably reply that the proposed extra spending can be handled in the $5 million surplus the administration has accumulated. If that is what they had in mind it seems they would have qualified the spending proposals as being limited to money available.

STRETCH TO MEDDLE IN DEMO AFFAIRS

The platform writers stretched a little to meddle in Democratic affairs by favoring legislation to permit the filling of vacancies on the state tickets by a larger group than the party executive committee. That was in reference to the Democratic committee of 10 choosing Tom Morris for the Dempsey congressional vacancy.

If the Republicans favor a big committee they don't need legislation to set it up. The party itself could designate an executive committee of 10, 100 or 1,000 and so could the Democrats.

A Sermonette

BY R. T. KLY
Pastor, First Baptist Church

Eternity is a subject which is far beyond our greatest imagination. It is something that is impossible to exaggerate, far too great to adequately describe. To give a vague idea of the greatness of eternity we could illustrate by supposing that the earth was made of the finest sand and one grain was taken away each year, it would all be gone some time but the eternal ages would have hardly begun.

It has been said: "Time is a tiny island in the ocean of God's eternity." In comparison to eternity our present life is as a vapor, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away." James 4:14.

Thinking of our brief time here we might ask the age old question: "If a man die, will he live again?" Job 14:14. The Bible teaches that man has an immortal soul that will never be annihilated. (Immortality means the eternal, continuous, conscious existence of the soul after the death of the body).

Many people are confused as to the meaning of death. Physical death is the separation of the soul from the body, having no contact with this world. Spiritual death is the separation of the soul from God. This the Bible speaks of as the second death. Revelation 20:13-15.

It is a solemn thought that every one born into this world is a spiritual being, and will go seeking forever either in heaven or hell. It's a wonderful blessing to take the Lord Jesus Christ at His word as He said: "I am the resurrection and the life, he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."

To Celebrate Mass At Ancient Spanish Mission Church

Father John Borley, Franciscan father of Tularosa, will celebrate Holy Mass in the ancient ruins of the Spanish Mission Church at Gran Quivira National Monument at 10 a. m., Friday, July 3.

This will be the first mass held in the large church of San Buenaventura in almost 300 years. All denominations are welcome to attend. A similar service was celebrated last year, but high winds prevented the service from being held in the main church.

The large mission church was built in 1659 by the Franciscan fathers. The church was used only a few years, however, before misfortune befell the village.

A prolonged drought struck the entire area in 1686, and raiding Apaches added increased hardships upon the peaceful Indians.

Gran Quivira National Monument is located on State Highway 10, 25 miles south of Mountainair, and 56 miles north of Carrizozo. Picnic tables are available, and admission is free.

News Notes from Along the Bonito

By LOUISE RUNNELS

Official or not Bonito Lake has had lots of worms drowned the last week and the fish seem to be biting good. Heavy Stewart and Jack Aldrich fished one day last week but didn't give me a report. I saw that good fisherman Barney Barnosky going westward Sunday too.

From Carrizozo to do some fishing Sunday were Marcos Barola and the Mancus Villes family, Nao Lopez, Manuel Ortiz, Dick Hicks, Joe Ortiz, Danny Mirabal, Dick Hicks Jr., Joe Chavez and Harold Covey.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Pat Dixon and son were on the Bonito fishing—then Monday Pat and Sherry Padilla came again from Captan to try their luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sellers of Alamogordo are working on their cabin at Bonito City a few days this week.

Bob and Mary McProud from Orogrande spent the week end at Bonito City and Bob had real good fishing luck.

Lack Cowden from Lack's Lane in Ruidoso has been on the Bonito a couple of times this week.

John and Jewel Ferguson and family from Roswell have been above the Dam doing some assessment work on their claims. They make this a vacation camping trip each year.

It was a rainy day last week when Irene Young and Lola Dooley from Carrizozo and Al William, Linda William and Tommy Zumwalt from Nogal went fishing at Bonito Lake. Al's and Irene's fish measured around 12 and 14 inches.

Alamogordo visitors with Fred V. Sweet Sr. were son Fred Jr. and family, Fern Sweet and friend Alonia Carlyle on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Judge Reeco Graves and family from Lovington have bought some lots from Charles Corder at Angus and plan to build a cabin soon. Mr. Corder has 35 or 40 more lots to sell at Angus.

Guy Goodyear and C. T. Sparkman twisted Charles Corder's arm last week and made him take them for a jeep ride—Charles did—he started up Nogal Peak. They got up high enough to notice the beautiful scenery.

The Angus community building is now all dressed up with more floor space. Tommy Zumwalt from Nogal was carpenter while Gil Peters, Charlie Peebles, Charles Corder and David Cox helped a couple of days. Corder's store furnished cold drinks one day and Gil Peters brought ice cream one day for the workers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Beane from El Paso visited Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kelly at Angus over the week end and they drove around Bonito Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Sparkman from Lovington and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Goodyear were guests of the Charles Corders over the week end.

Zip Franklin and family from Lovington were at Angus over the week end.

Johnnie Dale Hayes traded his car for a Victoria Ford. He and the Barney Hayes family left for a vacation trip to Louisiana last week.

Leota and Peg Pfingsten came off the mountain Monday down George Canyon to bring Bert Pfingsten's tractor so Bert could do his assessment work above the dam. Leota drove the pickup and Peg drove the tractor. "We sorta came down side ways," Leota said. George Canyon is pretty rough.

Leota Pfingsten and her father, Fred Bradford, who is with her and Peg for awhile, fished in Bonito Dam Monday evening.

Floy Skinner was on the Bonito Monday looking after his milking interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Darling and family were on the Bonito last week and we enjoyed a jolly visit with them while they ate hamburgers—a mighty cute family.

At the Dan Williamson cabin in Bonito City this week were Thelma Williamson, daughter Glenda, son Kenneth and their friends Mrs. Travis Grizzle and son Calvin. Calvin and Robert Lloyd Runnels were out looking Putting in $1.50 a gallon federal tax on 100 proof whisky which is not counted in the cost. The exception is probably illegal but it has been observed since way back during World War II when Gov. John J. Dempsey declared that the war emergency tax should not be considered in computing price mark up.

The law, which incidentally has no ceiling on how high dealers may go, has resulted in New Mexico having the highest liquor prices in the United States.

LIQUOR INDUSTRY SMALL BUT STRONG

Thousands are critical of the law but they are not likely to be able to match the organized effort of the small liquor group—anyway they never have before.

'Tween Us Teens

By MARY (Ginger) NICKELS

Golly, this week, as Tennessee Ernie would say, we've been panting like a lizard on a hot rock! Wow, what weather!

Received a card from Charlotte Forsythe who is spending the summer in Denver.

Lately we've been talking about the present, so as a change of pace, let's look at the future.

Homes will be made of aluminum, steel, glass and plastic. Some of them will have rotors under them to enable them to change position. In these new homes will be walls that slide, fold up, and can be replaced with different colors, (and won't that have painting?) Luminescent walls and ceilings, electronic air-conditioning, windows that close themselves when it rains, new cooling blankets, bed canopies that heat, and many others. We'll save our heating and cooling bills, anyway.

Many stores will handle everything needed in the home, similar to the general store of yesteryear, except most selections will be made by pushbuttons. Oh, our poor thumbs!

TV will be in 3-D and color. You'll be scared by Frankenstein and Dracula on TV as well as at the movies. The screens will be as thin as a picture, hang on the wall, the programs will come in from all over the world. That's great if you understand Chinese!

As phones will be equipped with viewing screens, you will be able to see who you're talking to, and what's more, they'll be able to see you—eeek!

More families will own three cars, one for cross-country trips, another, possibly a station wagon to haul the kids and stuff, and a third for quick neighborhood trips. Of course, three cars will really be nice for us teenagers.

New drugs, many of which are now being tested, may put an end to cancer, heart disease, arteriosclerosis, hypertension, and others. The life span will be lengthened by the new science of geriatrics, working on older folks and their diseases. (Just call me grandma!)

Since we raise cattle out here, here is a little story I think you'll like:

A lady who was getting ready to go to a cattle convention wanted something different to wear, so she made herself a blouse and embroidered it with every brand she could think of.

As she was registering at her hotel, one old cowboy really gave her and the blouse the once-over then remarked, "That critter sure has changed hands a lot, ain't she?"

And remember, drive carefully, the life you save might be mine.—Ginger.

Storing Leftover Seeds

If you have leftover seeds from your garden planting this spring, you can store them for use next year. Here are a few tips on wise care and use of leftover seeds.

First of all, the condition of your seeds depends a great deal on how and where they've been stored. Leftover seeds which have been kept in a cool, dry place hold their vigor longer. If you've stored them in a humid, hot place, they're not apt to germinate well.

Remember, certain kinds of seed keep better than others. Beans, beet, and tomato seeds will generally keep better than sweet corn, lettuce, celery, and onion seeds.

There's only one way to tell whether carried-over seed is worth planting. Test it by making a trial planting in a flower pot or tray of soil.

MEN BEHIND THE MISSILES

(From the El Paso Times)

There is a poem in the anthology which describes the purposeful journey of a youth who "bore mid snow and ice, a banner with a strange device—'Excelator!'"

Not many missile men carry flags, and White Sands Proving Ground is not usually a land of snow and ice. But one of the top jobs at the grounds is as purposeful as that of the youth who "through the Alpine village passed."

The title of this job is data reduction. What that means is, the task of "reading" a rocket in flight and finding out whether it performs according to design, whether it has flaws in the design itself, and what changes can be made to improve the vehicle. That job at WSPG rests on the shoulders of Ben E. Billups.

A vast network of instruments follows each missile from the instant of firing through all its flight life. Tracking cameras in the optical stations follow the flight by telescopic lenses and sights; electronic stations make records on magnetic tape. Oscillographs—devices much like narrow-channel TV sets—make records on tracing film or paper of such things as speed, accelerations, airion and air ion, fuel pressures, temperatures, and time-of-arrival particular occurrence in the atmosphere the missile passes through or within the rocket itself.

White Sands' movie film requirements for this work totaled about six million feet last year—much of it bought through El Paso sources. Each month's work involves some 300 missile test reports; each report may fill as much as 200 pages.

The job of interpreting the instrument records and making them readable to engineers and designers and the military—in other words, telling all concerned whether the rocket will do the job it was supposed to—is the data reduction concern of 99 civil service employees, 65 people from New Mexico A&M Physical Science Laboratory, and seven contractor employees.

Most of the mathematics is done on electronic computers. Longhand arithmetic and calculus solutions would require years for what the "electric brains" can do in minutes or hours.

Billups is one of a small group—native Southwesterners in the missile business at WSPG. Born at Alamogordo and a graduate of New Mexico A&M, he entered duty in May, 1947, at White Sands.

That isn't the whole story. He entered college in 1930, but got his degree in 1947. A depression and a war, mining gold in the Sacramento and mapping the Lincoln National Forest, work for the Bureau of Reclamation and the International Boundary Commission filled the years between.

Commissioned from the National Guard in 1941, he shipped out for the amphibious operation of Oran, Algeria.

He was with the U. S. forces landing in Sicily on July 10, 1943—in charge of all maps for the invasion. There were 496 boxes of the little gems, 300 pounds to a box—and every box was mislabeled at the source.

Billups had to make up a new list, new labels and have them ready for battle. He got little sleep while making the crossing from Africa.

On Oct. 2, 1943, he received the Bronze Star for "heroic achievement in action," and was at Anzio, on the push up the country, and in the capture of the Calore River bridge. He went on into Salerno, pushed up the east side of the Rhone into Germany, and got his major's leaves and an Oak Leaf Cluster in 1944 for heroic action near Nurnberg.

"I was shot at for 300 of the 500 days I spent over there," Billups says, "and came out without a scratch."

Finishing the war with the 103rd, he took the short way home but with detours through Casa Blanca, Natal, Puerto Rico, and Miami.

Returning to A&M at Las Cruces, he signed on as a civil engineer in charge of crews sent to what is now White Sands Proving Grounds for surveying the place and laying out its public works system.

There are other old timers who will tell you that "they built this place around him, and they had a 10-foot fence around him before he woke up to the fact that he can't get away."

At any rate, he has had a large amount to do with much of the growth and development of WSPG—geodesic control, flight determination, lab layout, integrated range—all have had the benefit of his "from the first" experience. He took over in data reduction when the office was built.

Billups takes a hand in community activities both at the grounds and in Las Cruces. At WSPG he helps schedule graduate study programs for A&M people, he takes part in the civil service panel and incentive awards committee work and helps with welfare and morale activities.

A reserve lieutenant colonel, he has not forgotten his Army days; he belongs also to the American Ordnance Association. The Sigma Tau honor engineering fraternity lists his name. He is present treasurer and past secretary of the Mesilla Valley Kiwanis Club, a select group which is undertaking the subversive activity of getting everybody and everything moved out to the area along the Rio Grande.

A daughter, Barbara, and Mrs. Billups, are the board of directors of the family homestead. The trio will soon move to a new home at 530 College Place, Las Cruces.
