

Along the Way..

BY PAUL BAKER

The Lincoln County Grand Jury's final report is now a matter of record. It contains 23 recommendations and two indictments were returned.

We regret that no mention was made in the report of a controversial right-of-way matter. Many people signed the petition for calling the grand jury, expecting the air to be cleared of charges and counter charges regarding payments made for rights-of-way.

The jury looked into many matters concerning the operation of county and municipal governments, law enforcement and school affairs, resulting in a number of constructive recommendations.

Among improvements suggested were flood control, stray dog control, street repair and more rigid liquor law enforcement.

These are problems constantly confronting all county municipal governments and have not been satisfactorily solved, due partly to the lack of funds and partly to indifference on the part of the public.

One recommendation made by the grand jury was unfortunate, in our opinion. It was "That the village of Carrizozo trustees conduct their business and meetings in a more business-like manner, keeping at all times complete minutes of all meetings." I question this statement because I believe the town has a dedicated and conscientious group of public officials, which includes a very efficient office force. Mayor Withers, for example, worked all night Sunday helping repair the engine at the power plant and secured and supervised the laying of over 1100 feet of pipe to the new town water well.

The Carrizozo town board has been working for some time on a number of problems mentioned in the grand jury's report, such as flood-control, street repair and ordinances. A firm was engaged some time ago to revise the town ordinances; a survey has been made for flood control measures and street repair will be stepped up when funds are made available by the additional 1/2-cent gas tax. The unusually heavy rainfall pattern for several months has made street maintenance a real problem.

It was warm in Carrizozo Saturday evening when we set back home from our two week vacation trip, but it seemed cool to us compared to Nevada, and southern Utah. As usual, when we travel in the summertime, heat records are equaled or broken in the towns and cities along the way. Going over to the coast, Phoenix warmed up to 110 degrees and coming back around the north rim of the Grand Canyon the day was a scorching and Flagstaff equaled a heat record of 70 years. Most everyone had the idea that New Mexico was hot in the summertime, but I learned there that where we lived there were very few days too hot for comfort and that the nights were cool.

There is little talk about the recession in Southern California and business and building is going on near normal. The May Company, a Los Angeles department store, has bought 90 acres in the Mission Valley of San Diego and will build a huge shopping center. Residential building is at a fast pace on Kearney Mesa, Fletcher Hills, in the back country, and San Diego seems destined to become California's second city.

They said coast league baseball would die when Los Angeles and San Francisco pulled out, but the San Diego Padres went ahead and built a new ball park in the Mission Valley. It has acres of parking space and people are going to ball games as never before. Night games now draw from 5,000 to 6,000 fans, as many as old Lane Field downtown would see in a week.

Los Angeles is still battling its smog and smog control boards come and go about as regularly as former French cabinets. Plans for the smog has alternately been placed on industrial plants, incinerators and motor vehicles. All fresh burning was outlawed last fall but the smog goes on. The only whipping boy left in the motor vehicles and who knows but what future motorists will have to buy specially built exhaust tanks and pipes. We had eye beams from the time we left Los Angeles until we got into the clear air of the Mojave desert.

The boat was on in Las Vegas, Nev., when we stepped there Wednesday. Around 112 degrees, Hank Greenbaum, editor of the Las Vegas Sun, wrote a timely editorial that day, suggesting that business succeed during the heat of the day and the shops stay open in the evening when the blazing sun had set behind the Calico mountains. After drinking from a watering hole, he said that the night sky, shrouded like a good idea

Power Service Back to Normal

Carrizozo's supply of electric power was back to normal Tuesday with both Fairbanks-Morse engines back on the line.

Difficulties for the power crew started Sunday when one of the engines cracked a piston, and had to be shut down. Later in the day the second engine developed trouble and Carrizozo was without power during part of the night.

The engine with the cracked piston was repaired by inserting a steel plug in the piston and has been operating since. A new piston has been ordered from the Fairbanks-Morse Co.

With one engine in operation and the old engine on the line Carrizozo again had power Monday. During this time power was alternated to consumers on the two circuits.

The power crew worked all night Sunday, assisted by Mayor Wayne Withers and Louis Huffman, welder and machinist.

Morvin H. Roberts New C. of C. President

Meeting last Thursday, the new board of the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce elected Morvin H. Roberts president.

Other chamber officers are Jete Voss, vice president, and Johnson Stearns re-elected secretary-treasurer.

A committee was appointed to look into arrangements for an event for Oscura and Red Canyon personnel and members of their families.

Hondo Residents Ask Bridge Be Repaired

At their regular meeting July 7 the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners were requested by the residents of Storm Lake, Hondo, to make needed repairs on a bridge.

The request was made by petition. The commissioners voted to make the necessary repairs as soon as possible.

A request for improvement of a road leading to his and other ranches was made by W. W. Galtscher.

The commissioners instructed that a letter be written to F. R. Zornwalt advising him that a log should be removed from a public road.

The commissioners meet again August 7.

The legitimate business might agree to such an arrangement, but not the gambling houses. They operate on a 24-hour basis and who wouldn't with slot machines making up to $5 an hour profit and operated by free labor. The big gambling houses, with as many as 400 slot machines, row on row, are like factories. In front of each machine stands an eager "worker," feeding his own coins into the machine and pulling the lever like mad. It's quite a business for the gambling house operator.

Leaving Las Vegas in the morning we traveled through the heat of the day to Zion National Park and spent an enjoyable afternoon viewing the spectacular scenery; also reserved a cabin at the lodge.

The grandeur of the towering cliffs of white limestone and red sandstone must have gone to my head. I seldom smile but Clara said the next morning that I pulled out all the stops on the organ. The cabins at the lodge are close together and the walls are thin. I had a good night's sleep, but apparently the neighbors were not so fortunate. Clara said that early in the night she could hear the doors and windows of cabins slammed shut. We checked out the next morning and I sneaked out with the luggage, hoping I wouldn't be spotted. Nothing happened, so I guessed the neighbors took to the hills with their bedrolls.

Other vacation highlights: A trip to the Coronado Islands on the fishing boat Polaris... the Padres won a 15-inning ball game from the Salt Lake City Bees, 13 to 12... getting acquainted with 11 grandchildren... the fantasy and nostalgia of fabulous Disneyland... a 4th of July family picnic under huge oak trees at Felicita park near Escondido... the 5 o'clock traffic on the Santa Ana freeway... the Eddie Fisher show at the Tropez Hotel, and finally, the trip back home.

4th of July Fireworks Display Was Success

A large crowd, in bleachers and cars surrounding the Carrizozo football field, witnessed the fireworks display the evening of the fourth.

The display, which lasted an hour, was highly praised by spectators and it was also a success financially.

The Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department which sponsored the fireworks and had charge of all details, was pleased with the public response, and are already planning for a bigger show next year.

Jack Harkey won the automatic washer given away.

Motorcycle Accident Hospitalizes Couple

A Sacramento, Calif., couple, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Conti, were injured in Ruidoso Monday afternoon when their motorcycle struck a car driven by Bill Sublette in the Skyland addition.

The couple were riding double on the motorcycle.

According to the Ruidoso police department and the county sheriff's office, both of which investigated the accident, the motorcycle struck the side of the Sublette car which was making a left hand turn at an intersection. He was not injured but the motorcycle was demolished.

Mr. Conti received a compound fracture of the right leg and the right arm, necessitating surgery; also deep cuts and bruises. Mrs.

Paul Gardner to Direct Pageant At Lincolntown

Paul Gardner of San Patricio will direct this year's pageant "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," to be presented August 1, 2 and 3 in Old Lincolntown.

This announcement was made Tuesday evening by Wilbur Coe at a barbecue on the pageant grounds, attended by actors, narrators, musicians and others who will take part in this year's portrayal of the most exciting chapter in the history of Lincoln County.

Tuesday night's gathering was a preliminary to the rehearsals that begin next Tuesday. Among those present to re-enact familiar roles were John Thomas as Billy the Kid, Dan Storm (Buckshot Roberts), Cy Salas (Sheriff Wm. Brady), Warren Gaston (Doc Spurluck), Edgar Phillips (Deputy J. W. Bell), Leroy McKnight (Old Man Goss), Mickle Thomas (Lady of Lincoln), and Walter Limacher as Jack Long, a Murphy-Dolan man.

The Wilbur Coe Orchestra and the Peralta Family Band will again combine to furnish music in keeping with the days of the 80's, and to which the R. C. Nunez quadrille dancers will keep step.

Bruce Griffith will sing the theme song "Sleepy Lincoln Town," which he composed.

Another feature of this year's pageant will be the return of the Horseshoe Carriage group from El Paso, driving their antiquated gas buggies.

Grand Jury Returns Two Indictments

In connection with its final report, the Lincoln County Grand Jury returned two indictments.

One indictment, filed in district court June 19, accused Salvador Amalla Morales Jr., "while within the county of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, on the 6th day of June, 1953, of buying, receiving or permitting himself to be served alcoholic liquors, while he, the said Salvador Amalla Morales, Jr., was a minor under the age of 21 years of age, and while not accompanied by his parent or guardian or anyone into whose custody he had been committed by same court."

The indictment was signed by Glenn B. Neumeier, assistant district attorney and endorsed by Mrs. Fred S. Current, foreman of the grand jury.

A second indictment, filed in district court June 19 is entitled State of New Mexico vs. Lloyd Vigil dba. Johnnie's Bar, an Floyd Vigil.

"The Grand Jurors of the County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico, do accuse Lloyd Vigil, dba. Johnnie's Bar, while acting through his agent and employee Wavalene Galland, on the 6th day of June, 1953, of selling liquor to a minor, to-wit: Salvador Amalla Morales, Jr., while within the County and State aforesaid, contrary to the provisions of 40-10-12 N. M. SA 1033 Comp., and against the peace and dignity of the State of New Mexico."

Walker Snubbed at Party Meet

Santa Fe, July 16—Democratic organization people at the central committee meeting here the other day were real diligent in honoring defeated candidates for governor.

Seven-Foot Pickett had a seat on the platform and a special committee was delegated to bring Joe Bursey to the meeting, both were called up to speak.

Johnny Walker, biggest loser of all in the primary in his run for the U. S. Senate, was in the hall, but wasn't even introduced.

A DOUBLE CHANCE FOR MAT CHACON

Mat Chacon of Rio Arriba looks like he will get cracks at two offices in one election year. Chacon, Demo floor leader in the house, made a run for lieutenant governor and came in third. It now appears that one of these Democratic nominees for the legislature in Rio Arriba will resign in favor of Chacon. Earlier Chacon said he wouldn't enter into such a deal but word from the northern county indicates that he has reconsidered.

TWO NOMINATIONS FOR TOM MORRIS

Tom Morris of Tucumcari, the Demo's new candidate for Congress, is also running for a second office. He had been nominated for the legislature when selected for the bigger run. His successor on the ticket for the legislature, Morris Dickinson, had tried for the legislature in the primary and was defeated.

DEMO'S CHAIRMAN DIME CANDIDATE

Democrats may have to dress their new chairman in ill-fitting clothes and put pebbles in his mouth to keep him from stealing the show from the candidates.

Seaborn Collins of Lee Cross is the most polished figure to enter the state political scene since Our Clint the senator lifted out of his cocoon.

Immediate reaction of many central committee members who elected him state chairman (most of them had never seen him before) was: "What's the gonna run for?"

Collins who looks like a natural for the ticket for governor or Washington one of these days drew mixed comment on the wisdom of entering the political field as a party chairman.

CHAIRMANSHIP HAS PERILS

The party chairmanship of recent years is of no distinction and more likely to down-grade one of top-level possibilities than to build him up.

Chacon Adds 1/2c To Motor Fuel Tax

The Carrizozo town board of trustees have passed a resolution to place an additional 1/2 cent tax on all types of motor fuel.

The tax is to be collected by wholesalers of the fuel.

Funds derived will be used by the town to repair and improve the streets.

Collections on the present 1/2 cent tax totaled $4,966.94 for the period July 1957 to June 30, 1958, according to Johnson Stearns, town clerk.

Mayor Wayne C. Withers reported this week that the town's new water well is being pumped at the approximate rate of 450 gallons per minute. Well No. 1 has been shut down temporarily and plans are to clean it out and keep it as a standby.

The new well's water is said to have a considerably more favorable test than water from the first well and is believed to have tapped a different underground source.

The town is making arrangements to use the former locker plant as headquarters for the police and town magistrate.

New Phone Directories To be Out in August

The 1958 edition of the telephone directory, the largest in the history of Carrizozo, will be delivered about August 22, 1958. Russell Eddings, manager for Mountain States Telephone Company, said this week.

Additions or changes to the yellow pages section of the popular "Book of Numbers" may be made any time before July 25, and for the white or alphabetical section before August 1.

Telephone company men are now in the community helping businessmen with their yellow pages listings.

Eddings said that any businessman who has not been called upon by the yellow page representative by July 24, and wants to change present listings in any way, should call the telephone business office. Changes in listings for the alphabetical section should be made also as quickly as possible, by calling the business office.

The new directory will have a four-color front and back cover with an unusual modernistic design. It will contain the listings for all telephones installed here by August 1 and will be in effect for a year.

Dieter's Dish: Bar-B-Q Ribs
And A Sauce Low In Calories

Hickory smoke and the succulent sizzle of ribs over an open fire—nothing can beat that as the way to close a summer's day.

And here's good news: weight watchers who've had to shy away from sauces can stop sniffing their neighbor's smoke and start cooking up their own.

Dieticians have perfected a thick, tasty sauce with a saccharin secret. Brush it on as generously as you wish; it won't go to waist. Saccharin gives it just the needed touch of sweetness but without adding a single calorie. More than 400 times as sweet as sugar, it is calorie-free, can be used for any summertime sweetening to avoid heat-producing calories.

Barbecue Sauce

- Mix in a quart saucepan:
- 1 saccharin tablet (1/4 grain)
 - 3 Tbsp. cider vinegar
 - 3 Tbsp. butter or margarine
 - 1 Tbsp. grated onion
 - 1 1/2 tsp. finely cut garlic
 - 3 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
 - 3/4 tsp. salt
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/2 tsp. paprika
 - 1/2 cup tomato paste
 - 1 tsp. chili powder
 - 3 drops Tabasco sauce
 - 1 Tbsp. bottled mustard

Cook and stir until mixture boils. Lower heat and cook five minutes longer. Use to barbecue lean ribs, pork chops, hamburgers, chicken and frankfurters. Makes about two cups. Calories in 1/4 cup: 48.

!! (Sounds like me!)

To use spurs the right way, you have to train yourself, just as with other kinds of equipment. Instead of seeing whether or not you can ram your heels through the horse, you should press him gently with your spurs. If he resists, just tap him a little bit—he'll get the idea. Of course, when he responds to the tapping, let him know he's a good horse and that he's done well. Each time he gives to the spur, dig him a little easier. (After a while you won't look like a bird flapping its wings while clutching the saddle.)

There are a number of kinds of spurs. Some have sharp, free-moving rowels, while others have lock rowels. A few people get spurs with long points and tape them so they can't turn. That's the kind to hang on the wall! (Not the people, the spurs.) Other spurs have widely spaced points; only one point at a time contacting the horse could cause injury. Hang them up, too. Dirt may work into a small rowel and lock it, so watch out for small roweled spurs.

The last important kind of spurs has a rowel from two to three inches in diameter and has from twelve to twenty blunt points which are closely spaced so that no single point will contact the horse. Although dust gets into this type of rowel, the least movement will allow the rowel to move. No sticking here. Also, this large type rowel has a nice angle and when the horse learns what's going on, you won't have to use spurs at all, just angle them. (That's especially good for lazy people!) So be sure to use your spurs for the good of the horse, not to punish him.

Here's a little poem for your post-Fourth of July reading:

Mary had a little car
She drove with manner deft;
But every time she signaled right,
The little car turned left.

Thank goodness, this didn't happen in all the holiday traffic.

'Tween Us Teens

By MARY (Ginger) NICKELS

If you didn't see this column in last week's paper, it's only because we weren't there.

Remember Don Hutton, the fellow who shot himself in the leg a couple of weeks ago? He is better now and should get out of the William Beaumont Army Hospital sometime this week.

We're certainly glad to have Sandy Smith with us this summer. Sandy's from El Paso, but is up here visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bunton.

By the way, welcome back to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baker who have been visiting Zion National Park, Grand Canyon, and Disneyland. The Bakers especially recommend Disneyland to all vacationers.

Also, welcome back to Robert Firman who has been in Idaho for the past week.

Say, where were you Sunday night when the lights went out? (In the dark, natch!)

What I'd like to see: A happy, happy TV show with no problems, murders or bank robberies.

Here is a letter to a teenager which, in my opinion, has some very good advice:

"Always we hear the spoiled plaintive cry of the teen-ager: What can we do, where can we go?"

"I can make some suggestions. Go home!

"Paint the woodwork. Mow the lawn. Wash the car. Learn to cook. Scrub the floors. Repair the sink. Build a boat. Get a job!"

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your village does not owe you recreational facilities.

"The world does not owe you a living.

"You owe the world something. You owe it your time and energy and your talents.

"Help the minister, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, visit the sick. Assist the poor. And when you are through—and not too tired—read a book."

Here is something you might like:

"The second you say 'spurs' a lot of people jump to the conclusion that spurs are cruel instruments used for the sole purpose of punishing a horse. But as we Westerners know, a good horseman never uses spurs for punishment! A bronco rider uses spurs to get an explosive reaction from his horse; the average and inexperienced rider usually gets the same reaction even though he doesn't always want

Bridal Shower for Mrs. Lewis Greer

A bridal shower was given Mrs. Lewis Greer Saturday evening at the Odd Fellows hall in Carrizozo. Hostesses were the Misses Melvin Frye, Max King, Randall Greer and Ralph Dunlap.

The evening was spent playing games after which the honoree opened her many lovely gifts.

Refreshments of ice cream, punch, cake and coffee were served to approximately 25 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Frye have purchased a surplus building at Ft. Stanton from Leonard Sharpe and moved it Monday to Frye's residence in Nogal.

Mr. Sharpe had two other surplus houses from Ft. Stanton moved to Nogal by boueomover Jack Bookout of Tularosa. They will later be moved to Philadelphia Canyon for summer homes.

Julie Robinson, returned recently from El Paso where she had been visiting for three weeks. She is now working as a waitress at Burnett's cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dunlap and family took their daughter Lois to Alamogordo last Thursday for dental work.

The old Rayado Ranch, in northern New Mexico, is now owned by the Boy Scouts of America and, as Phillmont Scout Ranch, is the largest Boy Scout camp in the country. The Rayado was formerly owned by Kit Carson, who established the ranch in 1849.

Then to El Paso where she took care of business. All of this trip was by plane—a most enjoyable one. Welcome home, Mrs. Titworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Blavers, of Ft. Sumner, visited her mother, Mrs. Pearl Pruitt, for several days. They had been in Silver City visiting their children and will continue on to visit other children in Roswell on the route home. While they were here her brother Earthen Pruitt and wife, of the Diamond A ranch of Moberly, came to visit them. Ruby is the eldest of 13 Pruitt children. She does not get here often so mother Pruitt was very happy. They visited their aunt, Mrs. Daisy Gehring, last Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Bird and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jones motored to Albuquerque in Virgil's car and attended a banquet in honor of Fred Thompson, new director of the Department of Game and Fish, last Saturday the 12th. It was a most enjoyable and happy trip.

Last Monday night about 10 p.m. we had a big rain with some hail. The rain measured 1 1/2 inches. For over an hour our skies were ablaze with lightning. It looked as if it were very general and we pray everyone received as much as we did. What a relief.

Be sure to meet your friends at the Ranchmen's Camp Meeting on Nogal Mesa. Enjoy good food and those grand services. Camp Meeting runs from the 16th through the 19th, inclusive.

Another thing. Be sure to come to the Smokey the Bear dance at the old gym in Capitán Saturday night, July 18.

Book Review:

THE MAN WHO DIDN'T FLINCH

A TRIBUTE TO ERICH VON STROHEIM

BY MARTIN LITVIN

When a movie camera photographs whatever is before it the captured image is faithful. If something stupid is held before the lens it is possible that a stupid movie will result. But if the camera is allowed to photograph things of life realistically it is possible to come up with dramatic images, the sum total of which might make a gripping film.

Here is the true potential of making motion pictures. But in the beginning not everyone in films was conscious of this potential or if they did know about it then they didn't care. Only a few film people exploited film potential; D. W. Griffith was one, Charley Chaplin another and Erich Von Stroheim a third.

As a director, Von Stroheim was preoccupied with truth and finding through the use of the movie camera more compelling ways to relate the truth even if audiences flinched at the sight of it. Ironically, Von Stroheim had to work in film studios where the executives were more concerned with making profitable pictures: innocuous comedies, soap-opera level dramas, dusty westerns. Naturally, Von Stroheim thought this nonsense and he hated being supervised by people he thought had adolescent minds. Conversely many film people thought Von Stroheim an European eccentric; wherever he worked as a director in this country, Von Stroheim encountered this climate of distrust where intellectual values were played down and commercial notions up.

To Von Stroheim, being a film director meant working in a grand manner; he ordered incredible sets, worked under unusual conditions, thought nothing of shooting a film for an entire year; he figured the end result would be fine, regardless. But film executives first looked at his past outside budgets and then they worried and talked for it was Von Stroheim's luck to work in an era when a quarter or half-million dollar film budget was thought more than adequate.

Here is a classic example. After the first world war Von Stroheim read the stark novel of Frank Norris called "McTeague," a story which had to do with people mad to get money. At the time Louis B. Mayer was still an independent producer and he considered Von Stroheim a "classy" director. He engaged the director to film the Frank Norris novel. The cast was headed by a young, beautiful Zasu Pitts, a youthful Jean Hersholt and the central character of the dentist McTeague was played by a man named Gibson Gowland. To do the story justice Von Stroheim decided to go all out and achieve an ultra realistic effect. Among other things he decided to film extensively on location in San Francisco; once there and filming if a certain locale didn't seem right for background Von Stroheim did not hesitate ordering special whole blocks built. From San Francisco Von Stroheim took his troupe to Death Valley. If the story said the characters were dying of thirst in the desert the cast was to forego water for long intervals, crawl in parching dust and heat. . . . Von Stroheim was merciless.

When he got back to the studio things were changed because the Mayer Company had been absorbed by the new MGM. To Von Stroheim this meant new dollar-wise management. He continued shooting and caused everyone, including Irving Thalberg, to become visibly upset. But finally the filming ended and the cutting began. Von Stroheim cut his film to an incredible length of thirty reels with a running time of possibly ten hours or more. Company executives were horrified and insisted on shorter length so Von Stroheim reduced the thirty reels to twenty and said the picture could be released for showing in two parts. Even so, long hours of viewing would be necessary and the result was an impasse between Von Stroheim and MGM officials. He walked out. His picture was further cut by a lady named June Mathis to ten reels and titled "Greed." It opened in 1925 in New York to critical acclaim but never became a commercial success.

"Greed" is shown today in colleges and museums and leaves audiences gripped by the realization that unflinching statement of truth can be a compulsion.

Von Stroheim died in Paris over a year ago. From 1925 until 1936 he directed a few more films, then acted for the balance of his career. His last American film was "Sunset Boulevard" (Paramount: 1950). No one asked Von Stroheim to direct again; there was always the horrendous possibility that he might spend too much.

Most people will admit that the truth is hard to take in any form: heard or seen: Von Stroheim's film work has endured and is today studied as high art because the crux of his genius was merely to restate the meaning of life.

CARRIZOZO NINE MEETS WILLARD HERE THIS SUNDAY

The Carrizozo town baseball team took the leadership in the Southcentral league by defeating Mountainair Sunday 3 to 4. Carrizozo's lead was threatened in the last half of the ninth when the Mustangs put runners on third and second, two out, and Felipe Gutierrez, their leading hitter, at bat. Juan Beltran, Carrizozo moundsman, struck him out after he had fouled the ball twice. He went down swinging.

Willard defeated Santa Rosa Sunday 7 to 9, pushing the Santa Rosans into third place in the league.

Vaughn, previously undefeated, lost to Carrizozo the previous Sunday. They had an open date last Sunday and are now second in league play.

This Sunday Carrizozo meets Willard on the local field.

Vaughn travels to Santa Rosa. Mountainair has an open date. Scores have been close in all games to date indicating the teams are well balanced in both pitching and hitting.

Carrizozo has three more home games to close the schedule. There will be a playoff series again this year, the fourth place team meeting the first place team in the opening game and the third team meeting the second.

The playoffs will be August 10, place to be decided by the first and second teams. The semi-finals winners will meet the following Sunday for the championship.

LITTLE LEAGUERS DOWN RUIDOSO

Errorless ball and good pitching was the difference in a double-header played at Ruidoso, Monday, June 14.

The two games were played under lights in a magnificent field that Ruidoso can well be proud of.

The Carrizozo Tigers beat the Ruidoso Braves, 7 to 4. Freddie Martinez, Tiger pitcher, kept the opposing hitters' off balance most of the night.

Good backing by the Tiger infield, timely hitting and heads up base running clinched the victory.

The battery: Freddie Martinez and Gerald Posey.

INDIANS VS. CUBS

The Carrizozo Indians defeated the Ruidoso Cubs 16 to 15, in a game high-lighted with home runs and heavy hitting. The battery for the Indians was Michael Ortiz and Sammy Vigil, pitching; Wayne McDonald, catcher.

In 1957, some 7,000 visitors crowded Santo Domingo Indian Pueblo, in New Mexico, to watch the traditional Green Corn Dance—an ancient fertility rite which has been performed every year by the people of Santo Domingo since pre-historic times.

New Mexico Range And Livestock Report

Las Cruces — Range feed conditions showed more than the usual seasonal drop during June, but on July 1 were still 10 points above average and the best for this date since 1949, according to the New Mexico Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Stock continues to make good gains and are in the best July 1 condition since 1948.

Ranges — Range feed conditions showed more than the usual seasonal drop during June, but on July 1 were still 10 points above average and the best for this date since 1949. Well above average rainfall during the winter and spring months provided a good covering of green feed but as a result of light June rainfall ranges are becoming very dry. There is still plenty of deep soil moisture and with normal July rains an above average supply of fall range feed will be assured. Grasshopper infestation is heavy in spots, particularly Union county, where some spraying has been done, but generally damage has not been serious. The condition of ranges is reported at 83% of normal compared with 88% last month and 73% for the 10-year average.

Cattle and Calves — Cattle continue to make good gains and are in the best condition for this date since 1948. Calves also are growing fast and should be at above average weights by fall delivery dates. Contracting for fall delivery of both yearlings and calves has been fairly active with yearlings going mostly for 23 to 25 cents and calves going from 28 to 32 cents. A few bunches of top steer calves have gone as high as 34 cents. The condition of cattle and calves is reported at 88% of normal compared with 88% last month and 80% for the 10-year average.

Sheep and Lambs — Sheep continue in well above average conditions and are making good gains. A few lambs have been contracted for fall delivery in southeastern counties at 20 to 21 cents. Shearing has been completed with wool much cleaner than in recent years. Wool is moving slow because of low prices. The condition of sheep and lambs is reported at 88% of normal compared with 88% last month and 81% for the 10-year average.

Labor Department's Rulings on Bracero Labor to be Relaxed

Relaxation of the Labor Department's recent ruling calling for a guaranteed minimum hourly wage to braceros on piecework tasks was promised this week by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell to Governor Mechem and a delegation of New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau leaders in Washington.

"We've gone a long way to help iron out these problems between the Labor Department and the farmers and ranchers in New Mexico," Mechem said, accompanying him to the conference with Mitchell and Undersecretary of Labor James T. O'Connell were State Farm Bureau leaders A. W. Langenegger, Hagerman, first vice-president; Mark Rickman, La Mesa, board member; and John L. Augustine, Las Cruces, executive secretary.

According to Langenegger, the Labor Secretary agreed to use the controversial "minimum-hourly-wage-for-piecework" ruling only as a guide and not a regulation as previously announced. The ruling had stated that 90% of all foreign workers be paid a guaranteed minimum hourly wage of 50 cents on piecework tasks. Such a minimum has been in effect for other work, but this was the first time it had been applied to piecework jobs. The move was attacked by state Farm Bureau members as jeopardizing incentive and hiking labor costs to growers.

Langenegger said that Mitchell also agreed to the New Mexico delegation's proposal that a state-wide committee of farm-ranch, employers be set up to take steps to correct wage situations on request of the Labor Department before it takes action.

The Labor Secretary, it was said, stated that the Department will not make unreasonable demands as to recruiting of domestic labor by New Mexico farmers and ranchers, who say they've been required to make costly and unsuccessful trips out of state before being certified by the Labor Department to hire bracero labor.

A Sermonette

By H. T. ELY
Pastor, First Baptist Church

Since there are so many religions in the world today, many people wonder if it is possible to know the truth and find the right religion. There are people who say a man may think he is right and in the end be all wrong. That is true if one looks only to religion. The Bible says: "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." Prov. 14:12.

Again, you have heard it said, it don't make any difference what a man believes as long as he is sincere in what he believes. But common sense would teach that an individual can be sincere but sincerely wrong. For instance, he may drink poison and sincerely believe he is drinking medicine.

Being so many religions and denominations, which is the way? Some say they are all roads that lead to one destination. That sounds reasonable, but what does the one authority, the Word of God say concerning the Way? Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me." John 14:6.

So, if we believe our Lord's word, religion is not the way, but the way is through a person, the Lord Jesus Christ. Peter speaking of salvation does not say, the church saves, but, "Neither is there salvation in any other for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12. Religion then is secondary looking to Jesus, believing and learning of Him is to be first and far more important. Though the church is not the saviour, it is the home of the saved. You need first receive Him, then honor and glorify God by attending the church of your choice. 1 Cor. 8:5.

Congress Called on to Return Vacant and Unreserved Public Domain Lands to States

Editor, News: The recent meeting of the Western States Land Commissioners' Association meeting here in Santa Fe once again unanimously approved a resolution calling upon Congress to pass administration and ownership of the vacant and unreserved public domain lands to the various states. There were 13 states and the Territories of Hawaii and Alaska represented at the Santa Fe meeting.

Tremendous benefits would accrue to New Mexico if we were granted these lands. A very careful study of many years has convinced me that the granting of these lands could be done in such a manner as to harm no one who now makes use of the lands and at the same time bring inestimable benefits to the state.

If we are to obtain these lands it must be done within the next few years. Of this I am convinced. While the original philosophy of government in regard to these lands was that they were to be used for the benefit of and to build up the western states, this is rapidly changing to feeling on the part of the government bureaus that these lands are a permanent part of the federal government's holdings.

At the risk of being repetitious I would like to again call to your attention that these vacant and unreserved public domain lands do not include any of those lands reserved by the government for any good public purpose. They do not include National Forests, National Monuments or Parks, Indian Lands or military reservations. Neither do they include any of the fishing waters of the state and except in rare instances in isolated tracts the only game to be found upon any of this land besides game birds would be antelope and jackrabbits.

The effort to obtain these lands practically every acre of which is grazing land certainly poses no threat either to the Indians or to the sportsmen of the state. But ownership would offer the possibility of establishing huge trust funds for the future of our educational institutions helping with the annual budget of our common schools and assisting the taxpayers of the state. I feel these things are well worth fighting for.

MURRAY E. MORGAN,
Commissioner of Public Lands,
State of New Mexico.

JEST IN FUN
A lady with seven or eight children in tow hailed a passing Interurban bus. The bus driver asked: "Are these all yours, lady, or is it a picnic?"

Replied the harassed woman: "They're all mine, and it's no picnic believe me."

The Army chaplain was preaching earnestly on the subject, "You can improve yourself if you improve your thoughts." He concluded by saying, "What you are is determined by your thoughts."

Whereupon one soldier nudged his neighbor and whispered, "In that case I'm either a pin-up girl or a Cadillac."

INSIDE THE CAPITAL

And it would be surprising if he makes a success of the job having taken it without the political background that one should have to direct the party.

If his ticket gets clobbered, which it could, it wouldn't be good for the captain of the defeated team, and if the ticket wins the chairman would be burdened with the painful and unpopular responsibility of distributing a thousand jobs to ten thousand applicants and subject to a share of the blame for the political mistakes of the administration.

On the other side, the chairmanship could serve to introduce Collins to the vote producing people of the party and broaden his general acquaintanceship.

However it is, Collins is a captivating 46-year-old who was good enough to make national commander of the American Legion, and one who looks like a comer in New Mexico politics.

POLITICIANS MUM ON BIG ROAD ISSUE

The biggest of all considerations in the coming election is a one-sided deal for control of the $70 million-a-year highway department which got no notice in the Republican platform and doesn't stand a chance of getting into the Democratic platform if they ever get around to writing one.

It's one-side because the same state senate which last year would not let the Republican governor name a member to the highway commission will be passing on the nominees for the four vacancies in the commission of five new members.

Only George Lavender of Santa Fe, a member appointed by Gov. John Simms in 1935, has time on the commission after the first of the year. Members Eber McKinley of Alamogordo and Gid Hatfield of Deming are on terms that expire at the end of the year; Tony Heimann of Harding is holding over on a term that expired at the first of 1937; and Charlie Williams of Gallup is serving as an interim member chosen by the commission until a successor qualified next year.

A Democratic governor in all likelihood could get his nominees for the four places through the Democratic senate.

The highway question has been confined to private discussions so far but is too big to stay under cover indefinitely.

New Split-Level Design Looks Like Ranch-Style

If you don't like the looks of a split-level house, yet admire its convenient layout, the main level of the house may be the home for you and your family.

Designed by architect Rudolph A. Matern, of Jamaica, N. Y., the house has its second level "hidden" at the rear, giving an appearance from the street of a long, low ranch style.

A roof of deep blend asphalt shingles specified by the architect further enhances this effect, since a dark color tends to make any house appear lower. Matern also has selected asphalt shingles because they provide a long-lasting roof that has both texture and color.

Inside, the three bedrooms are located at the rear of the house for more quiet. For more "sound conditioning," the bedrooms' closets are located along an inside wall to baffle sound waves from the living areas.

Other features are a large kitchen with plenty of windows for natural light, three complete bathrooms, a full bathroom, dining room with breakfast nook, and fireplace.

Additional information, blueprints, and specifications can be obtained from Rudolph A. Matern, 80-04 161st St., Jamaica, L. I., N. Y. Refer to Plan No. 11-9242.

Most spectacular of all the Indian Indian Churches is the one at Arroyo, which was constructed in 1820.

This is the largest mission in the Southwest, and also one of the most unique. It is perched on top of a great mesa, near Laguna, which rises 400 feet above the desert. Every rock and timber in it had to be carried up the 400-foot cliff which protected the city.
